THE DUNGERN CHOPPER.
(Pierce Co., Wisconsin, Herald.)
A quaint superstition which prevails among the lumbermen of New Brunswick
—or did prevail thirty or forty years ago, or it may have died out since—is a belief in the Phantom Chopper of the Dun-gern. The Dungen is a tributary of the Miramichi, one of the principle rivers of New Brunswick. It flows through a region of pine forest, its waters serving to transport the logs cut along its shores to distant sawmills below. It is the production of an eerie imagination, this weird myth of the Phantom Chopper, and like the "Chopper," he is a being conceived by one whose mind had long been fed upon the wild supernaturalism of old Scotland.
In their rude cabins at night, when the fire burned low and the wind sighed dis-tantly among the pine boughs outside, the hardy loggers would revive reminis-cences of the "Chopper," and tell marvellous stories about him.
There was little variation in these stories. Always at night, when all was still in the lumbermen's camp, the regular strokes of an axe would ring out upon the clear air. Perhaps a dozen or more axes would be heard all round the camp.
But ever, if one should rally out in quest of the midnight chopper or choppers, the sounds would move a little farther off, but the work would still go on in the darkness with unabated energy. All night the axes would be piled vigorously and trees would be heard to fall as if the whole forest were being demolished.
But never one of the choppers was seen, nor one of the falling trees and when morning came not so much as a chip could be found as the fruit of a long night's turmoil and travail.
Only another version of this curious legend in the story of the Dungen Whooper, told and believed everywhere throughout the great sombre wilderness in which the Dungen hides itself. He haunts the neighborhood of the logging camps at night and wakes the melancholy echoes with his cries. If followed, he leads his pursuer a wild chase up steep precipices and into gloomy hollows, from time to time sending back the long, doleful halloo which gives him his name. Like the "Chopper," he is never visible, no matter in what close proximity the shouts may seem to be.
He is a bodiless phantom flitting through the dim spaces of the forest, with no existence but his voice. No woodman has ever seen, but many have heard the mysterious "Whooper," and all believe in him.
William T. Standen, the well-known insurance expert, of New York, speaking of the system of the Dominion Safety Fund Life Association, St. John, N. B., says: "I do not think I ever saw so perfect a plan, adapted in every way to the wants of those who look for a cheap and reliable form of life insurance. I examined it with the intention of finding some fault with it, if possible;
but I was unable to lay my hands upon any element of weakness."

THE LEGISLATURE.

Summary of the Proceedings Since Saturday.

Speedy Despatch of the Public Business.

Supply Granted—Progress in Private Bills, &c.

On Saturday Mr. Ellis committed his bill to vest the appointment of the Chief of Police of St. John in the Common Council. There was, as there always is, a discussion over this measure, and the usual arguments pro and con were made. The former are generally to the effect that the body which pays the officer should control him, the latter that it is not well to have an officer whose duty is to deal with the masses in such a manner as the Chief of Police is dependent upon the popular will for his position. The consideration of the bill was postponed for three months as the most convenient way of disposing of it. After a short discussion upon one or two local bills the Provincial Secretary moved the House into supply, whereupon Mr. Adams rose and made an attack upon the Surveyor General, who he intimated had played fast and loose with the late Government. He then branched off into an attempted defence of certain transactions of the late Government, in the nature of a donatio causa mortis whereby some friends of his became owners at a nominal price of a splendid fishing privilege upon the Miramichi. This transaction occasioned considerable scandal at the time and its nature may be judged of from the temper Mr. Adams got into when the Attorney General referred to it and the coarse character of his denials. The incident was probably without a parallel in the history of the Assembly. The official reporter tells the story in this fashion:

Hon. Mr. Blair said that while the hon. member pretended to show a disinclination to refer to private matters, he did not hesitate to intimate that there had been an arrangement between the surveyor general and the old government. He should have said that he had said so, and that the arrangement was. He would ask him now to give the information to the house.

Mr. Adams—Ask him.
Hon. Mr. Blair—He has not the courage or manliness to state the arrangement, yet he intimated that it was something considerable. In reference to the value of the lands spoken of, that was not of as much importance as the fact that after the old government had decided to sell no more fishing grants, that after grants had been applied for and refused, these grants were smuggled through in the last hours of the old government.

Mr. Adams—It is not true.
Hon. Mr. Blair—It is a malicious lie.
Hon. Mr. Blair—It is a malicious lie.

Mr. Adams—I don't care what you state; you know you have told a deliberate and malicious lie.
Mr. Speaker—Order, order.
Hon. Mr. Blair repeated his statement.

Mr. Adams—You know you are telling a malicious lie.
Mr. Speaker—Order, order, or I will have to force the rules of the house.
Mr. Adams—I will obey the rule of the house; but one thing I will tell the surveyor general, that, bold as he is, I will not allow him to impale me any longer upon my recollection upon my honesty. He told what he meant to know to be a malicious falsehood.

Hon. Mr. Blair said that in opposition to the old government, assisted by the Attorney General, that no fishing grants should be sold, and notwithstanding that applications were being made to the government for fishing privileges, that the government had decided to sell no more fishing grants.

Hon. Mr. Blair—If the hon. gentleman will have patience he will hear all. Notwithstanding that these applications included the property covered in the lease to Thomas Adams—It is not true.

Hon. Mr. Blair—Notwithstanding that the government had decided not to sell any more lands, notwithstanding that they had received applications and refused them, what do we find? Two or three days after this, by the route common to the surveyor general, a grant is issued for three fishing privileges to friends of the ex-surveyor general.

Mr. McLeod said that the policy of the old government after he took office was to sell fishing privileges should be sold. They treated every one alike in the matter, and he had the assistance of the then surveyor general in carrying out that policy. He was glad of the opportunity of being able to place himself right in this matter, as some persons had found fault. It was a fact that no privileges were sold after the government had decided differently, though it had been decided that grants of lands previously sold were issued at later dates.

This ended the discussion, and the House resolved itself into the committee on supply. Of this committee Mr. Geo. White is Chairman, Mr. Blair being Vice-Chairman, and Mr. McLeod being Secretary. The position Deputy Speaker, He has not yet figured in the latter capacity. Speaker Lyonn has been always on hand, when wanted. There was a very lengthy discussion over the item for public works, the members for Kings and Queens urging the claims of their respective counties for grants in aid of the construction of wharves and for subsidies to steamers. Mr. Adams made a violent attack upon the Miramichi navigation company to which Mr. Burchill made an effective reply. The Chief Commissioner spoke at length upon this item. As the fullest details of expenditure were given in his report, he did not feel called upon to go over the items and contented himself with a general defence of his administration and a particular reference to one or two matters which had been made the subject of comment by the Opposition. He showed that a very considerable saving had been made in the contingencies of his office, in travelling expenses. He made the following statement, which is interesting as showing the increased attention the public service received at the hands of the government.

"The charge has been made that we have not spent as much on the roads and bridges as the late government. What do the public accounts prove? They prove that in 1878, of the whole sum placed at the disposal of the government, that $85,000 were spent on roads and bridges; in 1879, $90,934 was spent; in 1880, $98,499; in 1881, $97,000; in 1882, $108,948; in 1883, $136,000; in 1884, $105,616, and in 1885, $113,787. When the total amounts placed at the disposal of the office for these years were considered—which figures he quoted—the showing would leave no doubt that this government were spending a great deal more on roads and bridges, and the great services of the country than the old government.

Mr. Ryan did not say so, but the fact that the government is able to increase the Public Works expenditure in this way, besides reducing the floating debt and providing for all the other services, speaks volumes for the wisdom and prudence of the administration. Mr.

Ryan was followed by Mr. Colter who made a very long speech. The item was finally passed about 11:30 on Saturday night when the vast majority of the "real people" outside of the House were in the land of dreams.

Yesterday morning the House got through with some local and private bills, one among them being a bill to enable women to vote in Portland civic elections. There was a world of opposition in favor of the bill, the only member who seemed to be in doubt being Mr. Wetmore. Mr. Clark's bill to repeal the law requiring candidates for the assembly to have a property qualification was discussed at some length, every body except Mr. White apparently being in favor of it. It was withdrawn at the suggestion of the Solicitor General who said that the subject would be dealt with in the Franchise Bill.

Progress was reported on the bill to split up the representation of St. John between the several parts of the county, and that is no doubt as far as the bill will get this year. After some formal motions supply was resumed and all the remaining bills were passed. Upon the item for the Lunatic Asylum the Attorney General made an interesting speech in which he pointed out how great a saving had been made by the purchase of the Asylum farm and by providing quarters there for the incurable insane. The cost of providing accommodation upon the farm is about one quarter as much per head as it was upon the old plan. This of course only means the cost of the buildings but the other expenses have been also greatly reduced. Indeed on the business department of this important institution the present government have revolutionized matters.

COUNTY COURT.

A Small Docket—One Criminal and one Civil Case.

The York County Court opened this morning, Judge Steadman presiding. The docket includes only two cases as follows:—
The Queen vs. Thomas Shea.—Indictment for larceny.

Wm. F. Newell vs. George R. Bailey. —Mensur. Gregory & Blair record.

The jury case of Rev. S. E. Currie against Mrs. Hartley, for which a true bill was entered by the Police Magistrate, was not entered owing to the Government refusing to accept it as a crown case.

The following grand jurors were sworn:—
John M. Wiley, Francis McGoldrick, Jeremiah O'Brien, Jesse W. Tabor, Charles H. Thomas, Charles A. Sampson, Wm. Lemont, George I. Asherton, John Kitchner, James F. McMurray, Henry B. Clark, Herman H. Pitter, Chris. Broderick, Frank Morrison, John Owens, Arthur Limerick, Thomas Slanger.

Mr. Wm. Lemont was elected foreman of the Grand Jury.
In the case of "The Queen vs. Thomas Shea," for larceny, a true bill was found. Shea pleaded guilty.

A Brilliant Comedy.

"A Great Divorce Case" is to be played at the City Hall this evening, and the indications are that the house will be crowded. The play is a delectable one, judging from the enthusiasm that it has created wherever presented. In New York it ran for 150 nights and the Halifax Chronicle says that the performance in that city was very smooth and the piece was one of the best played by the Stafford company. The fun begins at the first of the curtain and does not end until the last act closes.

On Wednesday evening another fine play entitled "Frou Frou" is to be placed on the boards. This is one of Kautsky's original successes and Mr. J. Clinton Hall, the leading actor, is seen at his best in it. The sale of seats for both evenings is now proceeding at Fensy's book store.

A Bear Prize.

Hiram Good, of Millville, while out cruising in the woods on Saturday last, discovered tracks of a bear leading into a hollow of a pine log. On investigation he found brain at home who gave him a very warm reception, but finally succumbed to a well directed blow on the head from an axe in the hands of Mr. Good. A cub of the bear was also found in the hollow of the log. The carcass of the bear was brought to town yesterday and sold to Messrs. Woods & Driscoll. The carcass when dressed weighed 117 lbs. The cub was taken down to the barracks to be disposed of to the members of the school.

An Elevator Brought Down.

The large elevator in Messrs. F. Randolph & Son's wholesale warehouse, broke away yesterday and fell with a crash into the basement. An employe named Jones was on the elevator at the time of the accident, and went down with it, but with the exception of being pretty thoroughly shaken up escaped unhurt. The elevator was considerably damaged by the fall.

Trying to Solve the Rock Island Train Tragedy.

Special to Cliner.

CHICAGO, March 16.—A special despatch from Morris, Ill., says that nearly all efforts now are being directed to the arrest of Mike Humphrey, a hard character who formerly lived here. The officers who are trying to solve the Rock Island train robbery and murder believe that he is one of the perpetrators of the crime. Humphrey has long sandy hair of exactly the color found in the death cloth of Nicholas the murdered messenger. Those who saw the hand of hair and know Humphrey are willing to swear to the identity. The suspected man has not been seen since the crime was committed.

INDIAN EXHIBITS.

What York Indians Have Contributed to the London Exhibition.

Mr. James Farrell, the Indian Commissioner, has collected a large and varied assortment of goods manufactured by the Indians of St. Mary's and Kinglet's for the London Exhibition. The display is a fine one and a good representation of the handwork of the civilized Indians of New Brunswick. It is a pity that our citizens were not afforded an opportunity of inspecting these goods, but owing to the short time Mr. Farrell had in making the preparation there was no time remaining for a public exhibition. The goods were packed last evening ready to be forwarded. The collection embraces a variety of fancy baskets, beaded work, snowshoes, moccasins, butter tins, &c.

There are a very large and beautiful assortment of baskets, including ladies and gents collar baskets, handkerchief baskets, card baskets, plain work, wash tubs, butter tins, butter tray and label, miniature snowshoes, whisks and holders, &c. Nor Lolar has manufactured a pair of gents' fancy carbon snowshoes which is said, by competent judges, to be the best pair of snowshoes ever made about Fredericton. A very handsome pair of ladies' snowshoes has also been manufactured by James Paul.

Indian Names of New Brunswick.

A Nova Scotia rambling writer in the Toronto Globe has this to say about the Indian names of our Province:—"Not long ago, but among the tributaries of the St. John River, in the Province of New Brunswick, the writer was permitted to examine the collection of the variety and extraordinary character of many of the Indian names of these rivers and lakes, that seem all the more beautiful for the euphonic titles bestowed upon them by the primitive Aborigines. A worthy professor of the University of New Brunswick, happening in the region, very kindly gave me access to an excellent map of the country, watered by the Tobique and the Madawaska. This map contained a series of these Indian appellations of almost indefinite orthography, and thinking over their pleasing euphony, there has been entered the following titles:—
In the times long ago, when the noble red man made his name of 'Assamtague-gan.' He shot wild bear or lashed the moose. For hides for his wigwam or nest. For papoose. He thought not, nor cared how poets would worry. And he brains and books in unseemly hurry. When after long centuries passed to their Some hair-brained antiquary, with visage The trying dissection of Milvete tongue, When in Louisa, Micmac, was vainly haled, sung. By the 'Po-bee-gan-ga-a-wok'—Spot-let Man. Lying close by 'Anke-a-wap-ke-ke-ke-gan.' The old unpronounced 'Magagudavie,' That rivals by far the wild 'Pa-assumpic.' Or that terror of all 'Pek-ke-wee-cheg-mie.' Then the upper St. John where 'Poko-moonshing.' With perfect St. Francis it ripples combine. Oh, give me a rest, 'Wee-las-a-too-peck-gan.' Don't mix your clear rills with the 'Pewikab-let' ever the gentle 'Nepiepi' flow. Through its valley of green to the river below. In whose waters 'Po-ki-ki' and 'Nash-wa-ah-cet.' That bring to us names from the dead Mill-cene. There euphony sounds in the rippling and rills. By the prancing cascades, or the blue 'Chamcook Hills.' For while learning the syntax of 'Wash-ad-e-moak.' Or the mysterious puzzle of level 'Anlac.' I shall never forget the debt that we owe The red man, who, back in the long, long ago, gave names to our streams that linger with us.

HANDY TO HAVE.—Every household should keep some ready remedy at hand for painful diseases, sudden attacks of inflammation and accidental injuries. Such a remedy is best found in Hayward's Yellow Liniment for internal and external use. It cures rheumatism, sore throat, croup, neuralgia, lame back, sprains, bruises and burns.

Veterinary Department.

[All Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor Veterinary Department, Cliner, Fredericton, N. B. Questions answered without charge. This column is open only to our subscribers.]

A B C—I have a seven year old percheron, and he is troubled with greasy heels, I would like for you to tell me what to do and give some information on grease.

Ans: This is a disease of the heels and legs of horses characterized by an unsightly condition of the parts, the whole being the result of suppurative inflammatory action of the skin and heels of the hind legs usually, but sometimes of the fore ones, is more common in coarse bred Western horses and heavy breeds than in well or fine bred horses. Cause: Sudden changes of the temperature of the earth from heat to cold or from wet to dry, this disease always follows shortly wet streets, stables or lands producing a relaxed condition of the parts from much moisture. Treatment.—Keep the legs clean and dry and apply a mixture to the heels twice in the twenty-four hours; water, one pint, sulphuric acid, two drachms, corrosive chloride of mercury, one drachm mix and shake up before using. Many cases are really cured by simply keeping the heels clean and anointing with glycerine or lard having no salt in it. It must be confessed by everybody who has had experience at all in the disease, that there is uncertainty of an early cure. Some cases will be cured in a short time and in others it would seem that the discharge would never dry up and be healed, for cases of that kind prove obstinate.

The following plan will effect a cure when other wanted remedies have failed.—Take one box of concentrated lye and dissolve it in two quarts of water and bottle up for use when wanted. Pour a wine glass of the solution of lye into a small pail of cold water, and wash and bathe the heels and legs for half an hour morning and evening. A great change for the better will be seen in a day or two. This wash seems to have the power of relaxing and softening the skin and at the same time cause the legs to sweat greatly; dry them as often after the bathing as you like. There will pour out great quantities of moisture from the skin as soon as you have done.

Shot of grease: This is a different disease from the one described, from the fact that it attacks only one leg but it remains where it is unless removed on a night without any preceding symptoms whatever, and hence it is called a shot of grease. There is no cracking of the skin of the heels or legs but it remains where it is unless removed. Cause: Robust stamina or too fat and full of flesh and to get rid of this superfluous plastic lymph is thrown into one of the hind legs which causes swelling of the leg to an enormous size. If this material were thrown from the blood into one of the fore legs where the nearness to the heart increases the activity of the phlegmatic circulation, matter would not remain as it does in the hind legs which are so far from the centre of circulation, this disease is not unlike the phlegmasia dolens or milk leg in the human family. Treatment.—If the disease be observed early or before the leg becomes hard, take one quart of blood from the neck and give alopecin, that is bran with plenty of water in it; also give one ounce doses of the sulphate of soda once in the day for a few days, and bathe the legs three times in the day with the same solution of concentrated lye as recommended above. If the swelling does not lessen in two or three days after these various agents have been employed, then an incision of an inch will have to be made for the purpose of letting out the imprisoned fluid before the arteries of the legs have become plugged or filled up which constitute the thick or big leg so often seen in horses in large cities.

In addition, the leg will have to be bandaged pretty tightly with a broad bandage and be still bathed three times in the day with a solution of concentrated lye. Many good horses have been rendered of little value from want of a knowledge of this disease, and its proper treatment.

F B C—Have a six year old horse got out in hind leg, took cold, leg is badly swollen and inflamed. Also use amine solution as recommended for grease in this edition and feed superior condition powders.

J M.—Explain further, I do not catch your meaning.

The Dominion Safety Fund Life Association of St. John, N. B., has won an exceptional record for prompt payment of its losses, and for equitable dealing with its members. All its policies are, by their terms, indisputable after being in force three years.

There is Nothing Like It.—There is no remedy offered to suffering humanity whose use is so universally and frequently required as Hayward's Yellow Liniment for rheumatism, neuralgia, colds, sore throat, deafness, croup, lumbago, and aches, pains, lameness, and soreness of all kinds, when internally and externally used.

A SOURCE OF GREAT TROUBLE.—Probably the most prolific source of chronic ill is indigestion or dyspepsia, causing unhealthy blood. Yet taken in time it is positively curable. Burdock Blood Purifiers has cured some of the worst cases known, even of 10 years' duration. If troubled with indigestion try it.

WANTED.

10,000 CALF SKINS and 1,000 BEEF HIDES!

Highest Cash Prices Paid.

If you want to get the Highest Price for Calf Skins take off and take care of them according to the following directions:—

1st. Split the skin from the bristlet to the jaw, and skin down each side enough so that the throat can be cut without cutting the skin, exposing, as in this way the throat of the skin can be saved, while, if it is cut in the least around the throat the head is worthless.

2nd. Split the skin from the bristlet to the tail.

3rd. Cut around the foot close to the hoof, and split the leg from the hoof to the belly, taking care to split the leg to commence between the distal and distal directly over the hump so that the leg when skinned will fit in and of leaving a pocket which cannot be found on leather.

4th. Skin the head and legs carefully.

5th. Commencing at the head, so as to avoid cutting or scorching the hair, over the head, and split the skin without any further use of the knife, directly over the hump, and so on, and so on, so that the skin when skinned will fit in and of leaving a pocket which cannot be found on leather.

6th. As soon as taken off lay the skin flat out on the floor in a cool place where the sun does not shine upon it, and cover it with a good coating of fine coarse flour. Care will do, but it is not good. Do not roll up the skin. Do not lay it, but let it remain green and when you take off the skin, place flat upon the floor, and when ready to sell you will find them in fine condition worth from 5 to 10 cents more than the same skins would have been if you had not followed these directions.

7th. When ready to sell send them to

WOOD & DRISCOLL's

And you will find that a good lot of skins, well skinned and sent in as above directed, will be appreciated, and will bring the Highest Market price for Cash on delivery.
