QUIET NIGHT ALONG SOMME

Surprise Attack by French Proves Successful.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—11:45 a.m.—Quiet prevailed last night on both sides of the Somme River, says otday's war office statement.

The artillery of both sides was active on the left and right banks of the Meuse, especially on the Thiaumont earthwork and in the Fleury and Chenois sections. A small German attack on the French trenches at the Le Pretre woods failed.

German aeroplanes yesterday dropped bombs on the open town of Lure, killing eleven persons, all of whom, except one, were women or children. Two German machines were brought down near

Big Guns Very Busy.

The text of the statement follows:

"The night passed quietly on both sides of the Somme River.

"On the left bank of the River Meuse there was an intermittent bombardment last night, while on the right bank the artillery fighting became very violent in the vicinity of the Thiaumont work and in the sectors of Fleury and Chenois. At the Le Pretre wood the enemy yesterday delivered a small attack upon one of our trenches, but they were at once driven out of the position, where they succeeded in gaining lodgment. In this same sector a surprise attack by us was in all respects successful along a front of 700 yards. Our grenade throwers cleared out the trench of the enemy and we brought back some prisoners.

"German aeroplanes yesterday threw down several bombs on the open town of Lure. Eleven persons were killed and three were wounded. With the exception of one soldier all the victims were either women or children. This was an act of reprisal for our aerial activity of July 6, when one of our air squadrons threw down with success 40 bombs from the railroad junction at Hem, to the west of Charleville. On the return trip from this point there were a number of engagements with German machines in which our escorting aeroplanes took part. Two German machines were brought down, one near Mezieres and the other in the region of Leffincourt."

JELLICOE'S REPORT WIPES OUT GERMAN BOASTS OF VICTORY

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 7.—Admiral Sir John Jellicoe's report on the battle of Jutland Bank is here regarded as completely disposing of the last vestige of the German claim of victory. Here and there one finds a certain disposition to question the strategy of the battle, particularly in the general disposition of the British forces at the outset, but in the main opinion is strongly in support of the strategical disposition. Such criticisms of Admiral Beatty's tactics as have been heard are now silenced by Vice-Admiral Jellicoe's high praise of the commander of the battle cruiser squadron. In the highest naval circles Beatty is spoken of as a new Nelson.

Altogether the report is regarded as extremely satisfactory, although the regret which shows in Admiral Jellicoe's praise that he was "reluctantly compelled to the conclusion that the high sea fleet had returned to port" is universal. Admiral Jellicoe's report of enemy losses is considered very conservative. Admiralty estimates of the German tonnage lost shows a total of 116,000 tons, while the British losses amounted to 112,000 tons.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

Following were the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours previous to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 85; lowest, 52.

WHAT HAS SIR ROBERT BORDEN TO SAY OF THIS SCRAP OF PAPER?

[London Free Press, May 20.]

15,000 MEN FOR LONDON'S CAMP

First Estimate To Be Increased, Says William Gray, M. P.

ADVANCE PARTIES HERE

Highland and Irish Battalions For Western Ontario.

Mr. William Gray, M. P., has returned from Ottawa and told The Free Press to-day that the full number of soldiers for whom camp and training accommodation have been secured at London will train here this summer, the number of units probably totaling 15,000 men. Mr. Gray's statement corroborates a dispatch from Ottawa last night stating that as many soldiers as provision has been made for would be here, but Mr. Gray goes further, and says the number may be 5,000 more than indicated in the dispatch, which estimates the probable number at 12,000.

Dispatches from Ottawa militia headquarters to district headquarters received this morning announce that the 63rd Battery, commanded by Major Cameron, and the 64th Battery, commanded by Major Walker, now at Guelph, will not go to Petawawa, but will remain in the first division. The inference gathered from this dispatch by headquarters officers is that in all probability the two batteries will train

12,000 FOR CAMP.

The Ottawa dispatch is as follows:

Special to The Free Press.

OTTAWA, May 19.—Twelve thousand troops will train at London, Ont., during the summer. No units will be taken from No. 1 military district to train at Camp Borden. Men mostly from No. 2 district will concentrate there to the number of 15,000. This is the gist of a statement made to-night by an officer who is in close touch with headquarters plans. He states that the department has now made provision for 27,000 men to train at London.

Some of the battalions now authorized in the London district are still under strength. Of these some will be allowed to mobilize at London to complete training, while others will not be allowed to go to London until establishment is reached.

ACCOUNTS FOR IT.

This will account for the difference between the 12,000 men who will go there and the 15,000 expected by the London authorities.

Some of the units of the London district are slated for an early departure overseas. The 99th Battalion will be eighth of the whole Dominion to leave, probably some time next month. The 135th is next in No. 1 district for departure. The 142nd, the Flat and the 168th, recently reported to have hopes of going overseas soon, are not yet mobilized.

On the completion of recruiting the present battalions in No. 1 district, it is stated on good authority, that an Irish battalion and a Highland battalion will be authorized for Western Ontario. The commanding officer for this latter unit has already been decided upon by the army council.

The reproduction herewith printed is from the local Conservative paper of May 20, little more than a month ago, and after the announcement that London would lose the Western Ontario battalions, for which the city had made such adequate and generous provision.

In this article Mr. William Gray is quoted as saying London would have 15,000 troops for the summer, and a special dispatch from Ottawa says that NONE OF THE BATTALIONS WOULD GO TO CAMP BORDEN.

The Advertiser does not believe that either Mr. Gray or its contemporary made these statements believing them to be false. Both acted in good faith, but the question of London having any influence at Ottawa is called into question.

The whole treatment of the city has been outrageous, and the deceit or worse practiced deserves the condemnation of citizens as a whole.

These "scraps of paper" should be carried to Premier Borden, and an answer requested. Because the men who represent or misrepresent the premier have insulted the city, and have placed themselves in the same position as a man who refuses to meet his promissory note.

The troops are going beyond any doubt. London can forget that part of it. But citizens and public men are mighty complacent and weak-kneed if they fail to carry the case to the premier.

The city does not want its money back. It will not whine over what has been done. But it will not forget the tearing up of its bond and the throwing of the scraps in its face.

The local apologists for Sir Sam Hughes—they are few in number—say that he did not know when the London Camp was organized that there would be any Camp Borden.

Such a contention on the face of it is absurd. That the militia minister of Canada did not know what he was going to do with his soldiers for the summer until a few weeks ago is not a compliment to the intelligence of the minister or the Government.

The fact was that everyone in London was given to believe, including Mr. William Gray, M.P., and Mr. S. Frank Glass, M.P., that London would have 15,000 troops for the summer.

London is no more entitled to have soldiers than any other place except because of its agreements with the militia department. But London was entitled to decent and honorable treatment from Sir Sam Hughes, and neither the men in the camps nor the citizens have received it.

RUSSIANS RAZING TRENCHES OF HUNS ON THE RIGA FRONT; OPEN TREMENDOUS OFFENSIVE

(Canadian Press.)

London, July 7.—The Russians have begun a tremendous offensive on the Riga front, where their artillery is destroying the German trenches, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Vienna, via Copenhagen.

The bombardment, the dispatch adds, lasted 24 hours, and the Germans were helpless before the Russian artillery, which can now fire fifty shells against one in 1914.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, July 6.—Via London, July 7.—9:30 a.m.—The following official statement was issued tonight by the war office:

"The number of prisoners we took on July 4 and 5 during the fighting which still is going on west of the line of the Styr and below the town of Kolki, totals more than 300 officers and 7,415 men, mostly unwounded.

"We also captured six guns, 23 machine guns, several thousand rifles, two searchlights, 11 bomb-throwers, and 73 ammunition lights.

"We repulsed violent German attacks near Gruziatyn. On the right bank of the Dniester in the region of Jidettcheff and Hotzizrz, there was desperate fighting.

Counter-Attacks Failed.

"There was a lively artillery duel in many sectors of the front north of the Pinsk marshes. East of Baranovichi the enemy launched several desperate counter-attacks, which we repulsed. Several times the enemy opened gusts of fire with his heavy and light guns against the region of the village of Labuzy east of Baranovichi. Under cover of this fire the enemy delivered two violent counter-attacks. We drove him back on both occasions, bringing to bear on him the fire of our artillery, machine guns and rifles."

(Via C. P. R.)

118th (time not detailed).

At last some semblance of order seems to be being created out of the chaos that has been existing here in reference to the transfer of eight battalions on infantry from the camps here to the big military centre at Camp Borden. The very latest of the situation calls for the 142nd Battalion (London's Own) to leave via C. P. R. this evening. The 135th (Middlesex,) which was also to have gone tonight, stays here for another day and will not leave for Camp Borden until Saturday afternoon. The remaining six battalions are scheduled to go on Sunday.

Officers at district headquarters subscribe to Gen. Sherman's statements when he said "War is Hell." Since Wednesday night when orders were telegraphed from Ottawa to send eight battalions to Camp Borden from the local concentration camps arrangements have been made more than a dozen times only to be countermanded by fresh orders from Ottawa headquarters. To put it mildly the camp transfer situation is upside down and then some.

The rapidity with which orders and countermanding orders are coming in makes anything like an authentic statement of the removal of the troops an absolute impossibility. Speaking generally, it now seems that instead of the 110th and 111th Battalions leaving London they will be kept here, and with the 160th Bruce constitute the strength of London camp for the summer. The 168th Oxfords and the 186th Kents were to have been two of the three battalions to stay, but more recent orders have altered the whole complexion of the London camp complement.

Stuck the Longest.

Changes late yesterday afternoon ordered the transfer of the 142nd and the 135th tonight. These orders seem to have been a little more tenacious that the majority of the others for it was not until afternoon that they were changed and the 135th kept here for another day.

Last night it was announced that the 118th and the 153rd were to leave on Saturday. This morning the orders for this movement were cancelled. Four battalions are to go Sunday as per last night's arrangements, but two instead of moving Saturday were, according to later orders, to leave on Monday.

Changes Start.

After first ordering the 110th to leave on Saturday of this week, orders yesterday moved the entraining time to Wednesday of next week for the 110th and the 111th. Thursday was to have been the transfer day for the 135th and the 118th. Friday and Saturday the remaining four, or part of them at least, were to go.

That was change No. 1. Change No. 2 called for the transfer of the 142nd, 149th, 153rd and 161st the following week. Change No. 3 cancelled the departure of the 110th and the 111th on Wednesday. Change No. 4 cancelled their departure altogether. Change No. 5 substituted the 186th and the 168th for the 110th and 111th. Change No. 6 ordered the 142nd and the 135th to leave tonight, and switched the 110th and the 111th back into the removal list to leave with the 149th and the 161st on Sunday. It also provided for the 118th and the 153rd to leave on Saturday. Change No. 7 pulled the 110th and the 111th out of Sunday's list and replaced the 168th and the 186th back again on the Sunday list. Change No. 8 cancelled the Saturday leaving and ordered that two battalions be left over until Monday.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, JULY 7.—3 P.M.—A WIRELESS DISPATCH FROM ROME SAYS WORD HAS BEEN RECEIVED THERE FROM PETROGRAD THAT, IN CONSEQUENCE OF THEIR TRIPLE DEFEAT IN THE SECTORS OF RIGA, KOLKI AND BARANOVICHI, THE GERMANS HAVE BEGUN TO MOVE THEIR WHOLE FRONT TOWARD THE WEST.

BERLIN, July 7.—Via London, 5:10 p.m.—A salient of the German lines in Volhynia projecting towards Czartorysk has been abandoned under superior pressure by the Russians, and a new line of defence selected, it was announced today by the war office.

'DEATH TO KAISER,' MOBS CRY; BERLIN STREETS BARRICADED; GERMANY CLOSE TO REVOLT

News of Anglo-French Offensive Starts Great Demonstration Against Imperial Family and War Lords—Imprecations Hurled at Royalty and End of War Demanded.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 7.—New York Times cable: A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Milan says:

Travelers arriving in Switzerland from Germany report serious troubles in several German towns, among others, Berlin, immediately after the first news was received of the Anglo-French offensive. Crowds marched through the streets, shouting: "Enough of war! Let us have peace!" The disorders this time were different from the customary riots and seemed far more serious, having all the characteristics of popular revolts.

Barricades in Berlin.

The riots in Berlin were exceptionally grave. People surrounded the troops to force them to join the revolt, and took the wheels off military wagons and gun carriages and used them for barricades. The most serious demonstration was at Potsdam last Sunday. A vast mob indulged in imprecations against the kaiser and imperial family. Sheets were secretly handed around on which were printed: "Death to the kaiser! Death to the man who wants war! Death to the crown prince! Long live free Germany, free from these parasites who have led it to ruin!"

Conservatives Try To Becloud Issue in N. Perth Centres

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, July 7.—On Monday next the electors of North Perth will have an opportunity of voicing their opinion on the record of the present Administration at Toronto. Both the Liberals and Conservatives are well represented, the former in the person of Mr. F. Wellington Hay, and the latter by Mr. J. A. Makins.

Every effort is being made by the opponents of Mr. Hay, backed by the premier and several ministers, to becloud the real issues of the fight, and as Mr. Hay expresses it, "to appeal to the racial prejudices of the people of Ontario by the introduction of the bilingual question in order to divert attention from the real issue, which is the wasteful expenditure which has characterized the Administration of the present Government."

No Party Truce.

The Conservatives maintain that in contesting the vacant seat, the Liberals are violating a party truce; but, as a matter of fact, no "party truce" is tenable, as it is not within the province of either the leader of the Government or the Opposition to decide whether the electors of any constituency shall or shall not have a contest. The decision, under the statute, rests with the electorate. Mr. Rowell, in a letter to Mr. Hay, specifically denied that there was any understanding between him and the premier that there should be no bye-elections during the war. It would appear from the fact that Mr. Hearst wired Mr. Rowell when the Liberal leader was in Ottawa recently, as to whether he would dispense with registration under the manhood suffrage act in the coming contest, that the Government really knew of no grounds for expecting the Liberals not to contest the seat, and for that reason were anxious to bring on an election as soon as possible. The Liberals, on their part, feel that the cause of the vacancy—the retirement of Mr. Torrance to accept a Government position — justifies their taking the opportunity to register a protest against the extravagance of the Government.

Cons. Are Nervous.

Whilst the Conservatives are introducing prohibition and bilingualism as issues in the contest, the Liberals feel their policy and record on both these questions are too well known to warrant any controversy at this time, and the Government supporters are sadly disappointed that they cannot make the Liberals fight with these weapons. In their indignation they have designated the campaign of the Liberals as a "whispering campaign." The truth is they are decidedly nervous over the probable result of the election, as in the

JAPAN AND RUSSIA TO JOIN HANDS FOR MUTUAL DEFENCE

[Canadian Press.]

Tokio, July 7.—The Japanese foreign office today announced as the substance of the Russo-Japanese convention signed at Petrograd on July 3, the following:

First—Japan will take part in no arrangement or political combination directed against Russia. Russia will take part in no arrangement or political combination directed against Japan.

Second—In case the territorial rights or special interests in the far east of one of the contracting parties, which are recognized by the other contracting party, are menaced, Japan and Russia will consult with each other on measures to adopt with a view to supporting or extending assistance for the safeguarding and defence of these rights and interests.

British, Supported by Terrific Bombardment, Launched Fresh Offensive at Dawn Today, Making Progress at La Boiselle, Ovillers and Contalmaison—Counter-Attack Gives Enemy Some Ground Lost at Thiepval—Violent Fighting in Progress at All Points.

(Canadian Press.)

London, July 7.—2:46 p.m.—The British resumed the offensive on certain sectors east of Albert at dawn today. At the same time the Germans launched heavy attacks on the British trenches near the Ancre. Violent fighting is now in progress.

"In the vicinity of Ovillers and Contalmaison, as well as near La Boisselle, the British made progress. In the region of Thiepval the Germans regained a section of lost ground.

BRITISH OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The statement follows:

"This morning in certain sectors of the battlefield east of Albert we resumed a vigorous offensive at dawn. The Germans at the same time launched heavy attacks on our new trenches in the vicinity of the Ancre and north of Fricourt, with the result that violent fighting is now in progress along the whole front between the Ancre and Montauban.

"Up to the present several important tactical successes have been gained by our infantry in the vicinity of Ovillers, La Coisselle and Contalmaison, but northwest of Thiepval the enemy succeeded temporarily in regaining two or three hundred yards of lost ground."

CAPTURED A TRENCH.

London, July 7, 2:46 p.m.—Capture by the British of a German trench on a front of 1,000 yards east of La Boiselle, in the Somme region, was announced officially today.

London, July 7.—The second phase of the great battle on the western front has now begun. The artillery has been brought up to new positions, and is again battering the German defences. The bombardment extends as far northward as La Bassee and Armentieres, and, according to the latest unofficial advices, is particularly intense. British long-range guns are shelling the German positions and the roads in their rear, and until the infantry again leaves the trenches it will be uncertain where the next attacks are to be launched.

VERDUN RELIEVED.

In addition to inflicting heavy loss on the Germans in men, guns and territory, the Anglo-French offensive is reported to have compelled them to withdraw some of the forces from the Verdun front. Consequently it is expected in London that the army which for nearly five months withstood the German attacks in that region will have some relief from continual fighting.

CAN'T STOP RUSSIANS.

On the eastern front the Russians, who now apparently have even a better supply of guns and ammunition than their adversaries, seem to pass from one phase to the next without intermission. General Letchitzky's army, which conquered Bukowina and cut the railway between Delatyn and Koromezo, is advancing in an effort to completely overcome the Austrian forces on that front.

A NEW OFFENSIVE.

General Kaledines is continuing to deliver heavy strokes against the Austrians and Germans who are endeavoring to keep him from Kovel. With these operations in full swing, the Russians to the north have inaugurated an offensive from Riga to Baranovichi. Along the northern end of the line, from Riga to Dvinsk, a great bombardment has begun, while from a point east of Vilna to Baranovichi artillery preparation was followed by infantry attacks, in which the Russians report they made many prisoners, repulsing German counter-attacks. Near Smorgon the Russians and Germans also are engaged in a severe struggle.

BRITISH VALOR SUPERB SAYS FREDERICK PALMER; LOSSES WERE VERY HEAVY

[BY FREDERICK PALMER.]

British Headquarters in France, July 6.—The obstacles the British troops, particularly in their attack north of the Ancre, from Gommecourt to La Boisselle, have had to encounter have been prodigious; their valor and tenacity have been superb, and because of this their losses in officers and men have been heavy. Nothing is to be gained by concealing this fact; many units have suffered dire loss.

Only Remnants Left.

On this northern end of the attacking line are regiments, in some cases only remnants now, whose names will ring throughout Britain when the time arrives for the full story of this battle to be told. Some of them are the South Wales Borderers, the Border Regiment, the King's Own Scottish Borderers, the East Lancashires, the York and Lancashires, the Seaforth Highlanders, the Middlesex, Dublins, Warwicks, Royal Irish Fusiliers, Hampshires, Somersets, the Rifle Brigade—all these and the Ulstermen will be handed down to fame as men who wrought prodigies of valor in the face of almost superhuman obstacles.

Serre Not All Taken.

In the first official bulletin issued Saturday it was announced that Serre had been captured in the early onrush. (Serre is north of the Ancre on the northern border of the attacking front). This statement may now be rectified. It was impossible in the first assault to penetrate the extraordinary ramifications of defences around Serre, and this

INCREASE CLOSE TO QUARTER MILLION IN WARD 3 ASSESSMENT

1917 Figures Announced as $7,914,532.

POPULATION SMALLER

Reduction of 330 Recorded Due to Change of Troops at Park.

The assessment in ward 3 shows an increase of $202,270, according to the figures just made public by Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant.

The total assessment of the ward, including the annexed district, is $7,914,532, as compared with $7,712,262 last year.

The population shows a shrinkage of 330. The figures show that there are 18,330 people in the ward. When the assessors were at their work, 1,500 soldiers were quartered in Queen's Park. These have since left, so that the net population is 16,830. In 1915, the population was 18,660, but there were from 1,500 to 2,000 soldiers then in Queen's Park.

School Properties Deducted.

The land assessment for the old portion of the ward is fixed at $2,916,524, as against $2,936,654 last year, a loss of $20,130. This is caused, according to Mr. Grant, by the purchase of certain properties on Dundas street for school purposes, and by placing some of the Federal Square property on the exempt list.

The buildings show a good increase. This year they are figured as worth $3,477,100 for tax purposes, as compared with $3,331,165 last year, an increase of $145,935. The total land and buildings assessment is $6,393,624, an increase of $125,805. The business assessment is $480,700, an advance of $11,278, the income $96,549, an increase of $8,161. The total assessment for the old portion of the ward is $6,970,873, as compared with $6,825,629, an increase of $145,244.

Annexed Property Goes Up.

The land assessment in the annexed district is $263,686, as compared with $259,136 last year, an increase of $4,550, the buildings at $634,966, an advance of $50,920, and the total of the lands and buildings $898,652, a gain of $54,470. The business assessment, $29,155, a loss of $1,545, and the income $15,852, a gain of $3,101. The total assessment of the annexed district in ward 3 is $943,659, as compared with $886,688, an increase of $57,026.

BOARD WILL ACCEPT RESIGNATION OF AUDITOR

Has No Other Option in View of Official's Determination to Quit.

The board of control will meet this afternoon to discuss the resignation of City Auditor F. G. Jewell. It will be accepted, as Mr. Jewell is emphatic in declaring that he will not remain in his present position. The board will consider the advisability of increasing City Treasurer Bell's staff, and retaining Mr. Jewell as consulting auditor.

The camp situation may also be discussed.

FEW RESIGNATIONS FROM CITY TEACHING STAFF

Only Three So Far Received From School Teachers of London.

Only three members of the public school teaching staff have this summer sent in their resignations, to take effect this fall.

"It is hardly probable there will be any more," said Secretary R. M. McElheran to The Advertiser today. "In order to be accepted by the board of education, resignations are required to be in before the end of June or December. Only extreme circumstances would cause the board to make exceptions to this rule, such as death or marriage."

"Are more schools than usual advertising for teachers this summer?" was further asked of Mr. McElheran.

"About the normal number," was the reply, with the qualification: "There is probably a greater scarcity of male teachers, owing to the war, but there are plenty of women teachers."

MOTHERS' CLUB "PARTY" WILL AID 365 CLUB

In order to raise money for a contribution to the Children's Aid Society "365 Club" fund, the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club last evening held the ideal kind of entertainment for a summer evening, a garden party on the grounds of the Chesley avenue school, raising as a result about $75. It is expected that after all expenses are met, enough will be left over to purchase five or six shares of interest in the Children's Aid Society Shelter at $10 a share. In consequence, the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club will rank high among the members holding a number of shares in the institution.

It was decided to open the party at an unfashionably early hour, to get full advantage of the long evening, so by 7 o'clock the booths were all in readiness for customers, and a number of visitors on the grounds. The children who are deeply interested in the "365 Club" were among the first arrivals, the grown-ups coming along in crowds, and prominent among the latter many men in khaki.

The band of the 118th Battalion, which played by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. W. M. O. Lochead, was a great drawing card, providing as it did a splendid program of music throughout the evening.

Strawberries, ice cream and homemade cake, the pies that mother alone can make, cool drinks, candy and peanuts, had such a ready sale that by the end of the party not a penny's worth was left.

Mrs. McDowell was in charge of the ice cream and cake booth, Mrs. Parkinson supervised the dispensing of pie and cool drinks, while Mrs. Stelk directed the candy and peanuts booth, Mrs. Frank Pickell, president of the club, having general supervision. Members of the Mothers' Club express their warm appreciation of donations from several merchants and also from teachers of the Chesley avenue school.

INTEREST IN SHELTER CONTINUES UNABATED

The Children's Aid Society now has on hand $1,580 towards the 365 Club Fund for the improvement, extension and maintenance of the Shelter. The interest of members of the club has not ceased with the purchasing of original shares of interest, nor has their feeling of responsibility ended towards neglected, dependent and delinquent children. The opposite rather has been the case, and the people who have begun to waken to the fact they can help in giving unfortunate children a happy childhood and the chance to become worthy citizens are the ones who are busy devising ways and means of securing still more shares of interest in children's lives and also of interesting other people.

A. M. Hamilton, one of the first to become a member of the 365 Club some months ago, is so well satisfied with his original investment that he has taken still another share at $10, thus guaranteeing the support of the Shelter for one more day.

INSPECTOR PLEASED WITH LOCAL KINDERGARTEN SCHOOL

London Stands in Scond Place of Provincial Summer Classes.

Dr. F. W. Merchant, who includes in his long list of important duties that of inspector of kindergarten primary summer schools, is in the city today and spent the morning at the Aberdeen School, where the London kindergarten primary school is in session.

Dr. Merchant expressed himself as well pleased with the number of teachers enrolled and also the number of children secured for the primary classes.

Of the three kindergarten primary schools being held this year, the second year of the experiment on the part of the department of education, Toronto, because of its position, has the largest attendance. London comes second and Ottawa third.

BIG PRICES FOR CATTLE.
[Canadian Press.]

The Hague, Via London, July 7.—Breeding cattle and heifers brought six times their normal prices at the recent Koenigsberg auction. A total of 605,850 marks was paid for 306 animals and one young steer changed hands for 8,600 marks.

SAY PROTECTION IS NECESSARY IF DYE INDUSTRY STARTS

London Men Declare This Must Be Given.

ANTI-GERMAN PROTECTION

Chemists and Manufacturers There Could Undersell After War, Is Claim.

In accordance with his statement to The Advertiser, Industrial Commissioner Gordon Philip has wasted no time in writing the Federal Dyestuff and Chemical Corporation of New York in regard to the announcement that the establishment of a large plant for the manufacture of dyestuffs in Western Ontario is under consideration.

Such a project is of particular interest to Ald. E. S. Little for two reasons. In the first place, he is chairman of the manufacturers' committee of the city council and in the second place, his firm annually gives large orders for dyestuffs used in the manufacture of hosiery.

Mr. Little's opinion is that if such an undertaking is to be a success it must be entered upon in a very large way.

"Already," he says, "capital amounting to fifteen million dollars has been raised in Great Britain for a similar project which doubtless has in view export throughout the Empire.

Demanding Protection Contracts.

"One large American plant from which we have been buying has refused to sell us dye at all unless a contract for three years is made. This is a protection against competition from Germany again at an earlier or later date.

"In establishing such an industry, there would require to be enough capital to insure continuance of manufacture for a certain period until contracts were filled, made, for protection, as in the case to which I have referred, for I am naturally interested in the development of London and Western Ontario, and appreciate what it would mean to secure such an industry."

T. A. Faust of Yokum-Faust, Limited, a recent comer to London, speaks with authority on the dyestuffs question from his association with plants manufacturing dyestuffs. The charter of the Yokum-Faust Company, indeed, covers the manufacture of dyestuffs.

"There are three things that would be necessary for the establishment of such an industry in Canada," he states, "men to run it, capital and protection. The capital wouldn't be a difficult matter, apart from the fact that a wealthy New York company is named in connection with the establishment of this industry. Canada is always generous in support of a project that promises well in itself and which is calculated to build up the country. It seems to me under present conditions, this is a great opportunity if only the right men can be obtained. This is a young country with a great future, and if ever this step is going to be taken, now is the time.

German Chemists Predominate.

"But there is the question of the men. Men with ability to run dyeing houses are practically all German. The German chemists have solved the problem of making dyes as no others have done. In the American dye concerns, it is German experts largely who are employed, and this would hardly be feasible in Canada. In the third place, German dyestuff plants are protected by the German Government in a way that would not be allowed in English or American countries. It would savor too much of trusts.

"While the plants in Germany have not been established by the Government, they have received every protection. The best chemists available have been employed on the discovering of new colors. Owing to the close relation existing between every dye and other dyes, manufacturing must be carried on on a very large scale or there will be enormous waste. The Germans have shown their thrift in the discovering of continual new uses for waste products, consequently they have been able to offer their products at a price with which other countries could not compete.

"Again, as soon as their chemists have discovered new colors, these have straightway been patented in other countries. Even if other countries took up the production of these colors by the time the patents expired, the German would by that time have the new plants paid for and be able to go on selling at a price which would be impossible for new manufacturers.

"The United States plants will be faced with this problem of competition again at the close of the war which probably would not affect a Canadian industry to the same extent if the necessary protection were given."

LONDONERS FIGURE IN LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENT

Were Passengers in Auto Struck by Train Near Tillsonburg.

Mrs. Homer Pearson of Simcoe street, daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Pearson, 148 Grey street, this city, and Miss Margaret Munnoch, daughter of Mrs. John Munnoch, 105 Waterloo street, had a most harrowing experience and a narrow escape from death a couple of days ago.

Accompanied by Miss Munnoch, Mrs. Pearson was motoring over to Tillsonburg from Simcoe, running the car herself, when, at a level crossing, the rear of the automobile was struck by a train. With the exception of a severe shaking up and a bad fright, the occupants were uninjured. A hind wheel was taken of the automobile and other minor damages done which can be repaired.

Telephone messages to relatives in the city stated that Mrs. Pearson and Miss Munnoch were unhurt, but beyond the meagre details already given, nothing further is known of the accident or how it occurred.

Miss Munnoch is returning home to London tomorrow.

Very much exaggerated reports were at first circulated in Simcoe, and reached London, to the effect that both Mrs. Pearson and Miss Munnoch had been killed and the automobile smashed to pieces.

TURK CRIMES IN SYRIA.
[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—George Leygues, formerly minister of the colonies, presiding at a meeting of the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies last night announced that, as a result of representations made by the committee regarding the situation in Syria, Premier Briand had requested the American Government to make known to the Turkish Government that the French Government was resolved not to allow the crimes alleged to have been committed in Syria to go unpunished.

The American Government, he said, was also asked to again concern itself with the revictualling of the Syrian population.

NEW YORK SCOURGE NOT PRESENT HERE FOR PAST 12 YEARS

DISEASE DUE TO GERM

Dread Plague, Claiming Baby An Hour in Metropolis, is Highly Communicable.

Infantile paralysis, that dread yet mysterious malady of early childhood, which is now raging as an epidemic in New York City, and gradually spreading westward, has not been present in this city since the summer of 1904, when an epidemic at that time claimed over thirty victims in three months. It is due to a germ, and is of a highly communicable character.

The malady makes its appearance usually during the months of July and August, and mothers at this time of year are being urged to use all measures within their power to conserve the strength and health of their babies.

Generally Occurs in Infants.

Infantile paralysis occurs usually in children ranging from six months to two years of age, although sporadic instances are related where children up to 12 years have been attacked.

The first theories regarding this yet strange disease were that it was due to colds brought on by allowing babies to sit on the damp grass or overexertion when the infant's limbs were just developing strength.

The latest theory, established within the last two years by the Rockerfeller Research Institute of New York, establishes the fact, beyond a doubt that the disease is due to germs.

This germ is believed to thrive in and around livery stables and becomes particularly active during the warm months of July and August.

Fever Is Symptom.

The initial symptoms are: Fever, usually 101 to 102, restlessness, convulsions, muscular twitchings and cerebral disturbances, which finally develops into a paralysis that usually affects either a leg, an arm, or sometimes both, or, in fact, any portion of the body.

Should the disease develop in the city a serum will no doubt be used to inoculate to check its course, this serum having been discovered in the last three years.

Summer Gatherings Taboo.

Another precaution advised by physicians is to have children guarded against summer gatherings as much as possible, particularly indoor meetings. Another precautionary measure urged is to exclude household pets during the summer, and by all means screen out flies.

"Keep babies between the ages of 6 months and 2 years as quiet as possible, and use preventive measures to avoid summer colds," says a health expert.

One Baby an Hour.

In New York City the toll exacted yesterday was one baby an hour, and rigid lines have been drawn to check the epidemic by putting a ban upon all children's excursions and Sunday school gatherings.

A shortage of monkeys is handicapping the work of the Rockefeller Institute. The simian animal is the only one yet found which will develop the disease on inoculation. In the development of a serum it is absolutely necessary to have such animals.

The New York health commissioner issued instructions yesterday regarding dustless cleaning. He advises that before floors are swept they be dampened with tea leaves or wet sawdust. Curtains should be taken down for dusting, and woodwork cleaned with a wet rag.

The commissioner's step was based on a series of experiments conducted by Dr. M. Neustaedter, neurologist, and his associate, Dr. William Throw. They gathered sweepings from a room which had held sufferers from infantile paralysis.

The sweepings were shaken for six hours in a salt solution and strained through cotton and a Berkfield filter. The solution was then slightly evaporated in a vacuum and a portion of it was injected into a monkey.

Disease Spread By Dust.

Seven days afterward the monkey became nervous and trembling and a day later its forepaw became paralyzed. It never recovered from the paralysis.

In the second instance the sweepings were shaken with sterile water and, after filtration, the solution was injected into the spinal fluid of a monkey. Six days later the right foreleg of the animal became paralyzed.

THE SOLDIER'S WIDOW

[Hamilton Times.]

There is no kind of cheers we can give for the little woman who sits in her home with the fateful yellow paper in her hand and fixed stare in her eyes, while the reporter is at the door asking, in a quiet voice, for a picture of the man who gave his life in Flanders. Yet it is often given to the one who gathers news to offer the first weak words of consolation. He seldom departs without thinking of the grim aftermath of the tragedy of war, of the days of aloneness, and the days of forgetfulness on the part of those who rush along undisturbed.

The tragedy of tragedies is the little old country woman, become a widow, who has few friends to think of her. We should think much of her and endeavor to reach her heart with some act of kindness.—London Advertiser.

It was to a home of this description that the writer of this article accompanied a city clergyman the other evening on his mission of condolence and sympathy with another little woman who sat in her desolated home on the outskirts of the city holding in her hand the yellow bit of paper that told her, kindly but abruptly, that her husband, Pte. So-and-so, had been killed in action some days ago in far-away France. This particular little woman was surrounded by four little children just recovering from the measles, three of whom—providentially will we say?—knew not the import of the grave tidings contained on that slip of paper. Two of the woman's neighbors were there to offer what consolation they could to the grief-stricken woman, now a widow.

For months this poor lonely woman had lived in hope and fear, fearing for the worst and yet hoping for the best, perhaps dreading every strange step that passed her door. At last on this quiet pleasant afternoon the long, dreaded herald of death arrived, and then that little woman knew the worst. It was only some few hours after the stroke fell that we reached her home, yet she was bravely bearing her burden; so bravely that we wondered if she really realized what had actually happened and what it meant to her and her children. We imagine that a kind providence had purposely softened the blow to her.

Poor human words are of little avail on occasions like this. But the man of God spoke what words of comfort he could, and then in the open air before the cottage door he bared his head and pleaded with the Unseen that this sorely-stricken woman should receive all needed strength to bear the burden thus placed upon her shoulders.

It was a striking scene. With the humble cottage for a background, and the blue heavens for a canopy, these friends and neighbors, with the widow and her wondering children, grouped around the minister as he pleaded for divine consolation and help to the tragically bereaved family, the chief human consolation being the fact that their provider had died a glorious death in behalf of king and country, home and friends.

The question would not down. Why did this man have to go and die and sacrifice himself and leave a wife and four little children behind, when so many single men might have taken his place? The only answer we can get was because he was an old countryman and the call came to him which he could not resist.

WAVES OF HUNS SHOT TO PIECES BY FAMOUS "75'S"

Counter-Attacks of Foe Were Caught in a Whirlwind of Fire.

HUN REACTION TOO LATE

Joffre Had Time to Bring Forward Artillery and Munitions.

NOW CLOSE TO PERONNE

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—The solidity of the French conquest in Picardy at last has been put to the test, and military men here say it has come out of the ordeal with flying colors, thus again demonstrating the soundness of the Brussiloff method.

The Germans who managed to gather considerable forces partly apparently from the British front where the pressure was lessened during the day, and partly from depots, delivered a series of violent attacks on two points. The first of these was between Hem and Mericourt on the Clery road. The second was on the extreme right, between Estrees and Belloy, their object being to drive a wedge between the French centre and right, where the French line crosses the Somme River from Hem to Feuilleres and between the extreme right and the rest of the French front.

The success of these manoeuvres would have forced the eventual retirement of the whole French line.

Germans Too Late.

The German reaction, however, came too late. The French had time thoroughly to strengthen their line, to advance and place in position heavy artillery, and to bring up plentiful stocks of munitions. Consequently the attacking wave was caught in a whirlwind of machine gun fire from the trenches, and was shot to pieces by the "seventy-fives," while the German supports following and reserves far in the rear were shattered by salvos from medium and heavy batteries.

The German infantry plodded forward again and again but nowhere, French reports say, made any impression on the French lines. Rarely even did they get to grips with the occupants of the trenches, which accounts for the small number of prisoners taken. The Germans, says the reports, had striven the whole day without effecting the slightest modification of the situation.

The French remain two and a half miles from Peronne on the south side of the Somme, and four miles from that city on the north side of the river, and there are no formidable natural obstacles in the way of their occupation of the city, when the French commander judges that the time is ripe to do so.

GERMANS TOOK WOOD.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—Yesterday's defensive fighting has given almost as much satisfaction to the French as the previous day's capture for, they say, it has clearly shown that the entente allies not only are able to win position from the Germans wherever they like, but also are able to hold those positions when won.

The first German counter-attack was launched in the night in the Hem section, north of the Canalized Somme River. The Germans succeeded in carrying two small woods situated south of the Clery-Maricourt road, a few hundred yards from the sugar works bordering that road.

The French troops there, being more or less in the air, fell back on the village and swinging their left wing slightly, captured another small wood at the northeastern end of the village close to the Hem brickfield, and along the edge of the road from Clery to Hem and Curlu.

This was the only change in the situation throughout the twenty-four hours during which the counter offensive lasted.

At the beginning of the battle there were behind the front, assigned to the French attack, twenty-seven German battalions drawn from the 121st Division, and from regiments of the 17th Army Corps.

Between July 1 and July 5 the German commanders sent up to the Peronne front four reserve divisions of which two already are declared to be virtually out of commission. The other reserves brought up from different points between Rheims and the Somme were of a most heterogeneous nature. One battalion of the guard which was annihilated had been formed of companies from several different battalions.

The French officers say there can be no doubt that the rapidity of the French advance, if not the advance itself took the Germans by surprise. This, they assert, is shown by their not having provided an adequate supply of reserves for such a contingency.

BELGIAN REFUGEES WITH THE DUTCH NOW NUMBER 65,000

The Hague, Netherlands, July 7.—From a million after the fall of Antwerp, the number of Belgian refugees in Holland has declined to about 65,000 today, according to official information given to the Associated Press. The rest of the terror-stricken throngs which poured over the Dutch frontier have returned to their homes in Belgium, or gone to England or France and, to some small extent, to America.

Numerous Belgians are still arriving from over the border, driven out by the hard conditions of existence there, but this accession is apparently counterbalanced by the outflow from Holland in various directions. Of the 65,000 still enjoying Dutch hospitality, 15,000 are now accommodated in the four refugee camps at Ede, Nunspeet, Gouda and Uden, while the remainder are scattered among private families.

Apart from several million dollars provided by voluntary donations, the country's hospitality had up to the end of last year cost the Dutch Government some $5,000,000, while a sum of $2,000,000 has been voted for the current year that will, unless peace arrives meantime, have to be raised to probably $3,000,000. The Belgian Government's offer of reinforcement was generally declined. Any needy Belgians are free to enter the refugee villages, or if private families care to keep them, and there is no objection on the part of the local authorities, the burgomaster is empowered to allow 14 American cents a day per adult towards their maintenance and 8 cents per child, while the silent sufferers belonging to the better classes, so-called "pauvres honteux," of whom there are something under 2,000 receive 28 cents a day per person through a special committee.

Excellent arrangements have been made in the matter of education. Under the direction of a Dutch-Belgian Commission, as many as 48 primary schools have been established, with 4,500 scholars, in which instruction is given by certificated Belgian teachers. Secondary schools have also been set up at The Hague, Amsterdam and Middelburg, while an "atheneum" established at Flushing numbers 125 pupils. There are, in addition, technical schools destined for both interned Belgian soldiers and refugees. Grants are made to these various institutions by the Dutch and Belgian Governments.

The entire work of relief promises to be a lasting honor to Holland and its traditional hospitality.

PUTTING CANADA IN FILMS FOR ALL WORLD TO SEE, AFFORDS LONDON CHANCE TO REAP BENEFITS OF A GREAT MAN'S HUMANITY

Francis Holly, Director Bureau of Commercial Economics, Visits London to Tell Advertiser of His Plans for Country Which Has Welcomed Him—Education by Means of Motion Pictures His Watchword.

Francis Holly, director of the Bureau of Commercial Economies, Washington, came to London in the private car "Canada" last night, prior to starting in a 17,000 mile tour through this country for the purpose of photographing Canada. More than twelve motion picture outfits are now covering the Dominion under Mr. Holley's direction, and his inspection of the further possibilities will occupy him for three months, and the two words "photographing Canada" describe in a word the broad scope of his mission.

The fishing industry, the lumbering industry, the paper industry, mining for gold silver and coal, the asbestos industry, and many other of Canada's principal developed resources are now being filmed to be sent broadcast for free exhibition before millions of people in the United Stated, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Japan, China and many other countries.

"No Country and No Flag."

As Mr. Holly said his work knows no country and no flag, but intends to show the people how all people live, their habits and customs, and what they severally do for their fellow men in the cause of good righteous living, what they produce and how they do it for the purpose of comparison, to promote efficiency in the realm of usefulness.

That paragraph might be taken as the creed of Francis Holly. He spoke the words to the writer last night as with the eye and glowing enthusiasm of a prophet he proceeded for more than an hour to tell of his work.

Gives Credit to Advertiser.

Mr. Holly gives The Advertiser full credit for having brought his work to Canada. Today he has two private cars at his personal disposal, as well as complete railway and traveling outfits for his crews of photographers. He has the official and personal support of Sir Robert Borden and his cabinet, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has become his fast friend, of the great railway systems, and of all those men with whom he has come in contact who have the vision to recognize an educational force that will have an influence perhaps as far reaching as the invention of the telephone or the development of electrical energy.

Big Men United.

The Advertiser has printed many editorials commending Mr. Holly's work in the United States. These editorials attracted some notice at Ottawa, and Mr. Holly was invited to confer with the cabinet. Once Sir Robert, Sir Wilfrid and their colleagues recognized the broad scope of the work and the enormous possibilities for bringing Canada directly before the eyes of the world, they co-operated and gave to Mr. Holly a measure of unpartisan support which makes a Canadian proud, proud in the knowledge that in the general welfare of the country the big men are united.

Mr. Holly paid his visit to London to see The Advertiser, to see the city, so far as it was possible after dark, and to pay a visit to his old friend, J. E. Macdougall, formerly of his bureau, and now on the advertising staff of The Advertiser.

Fulfilling His Dream.

In a few words a general outline of the man, his great philanthropy, might be set down. He is an American who does not, like the late Hetty Green, believe that wealth is anything more than paper or metal unless it is employed for the benefit of humanity. He was a wealthy man and he was blind for many years. He was told about the wonderful development of animated photography, and as he pondered in the darkness, he thought what the scenes of vision meant to a human life, what it would mean to him were it restored to him. "The eye beholds" flashed through his mind, and with the visible world shut out, he built up his theory and his system. He gave $50,000 of his own money to commence the work of the bureau, which was given recognition immediately by the United States Government and the universities of the country, and it was not long before hundreds of films had been secured, depicting the arts and industries and the natural resources.

Many Different Phases.

Say that a man manufactures shoes. Mr. Holly wants to show the people how shoes are made, from the hide to the shoecase. He goes to the United Shoe Machinery Company and asks it to provide the films. He convinces it that it owes it to itself and its country. It gives him all the films he cares to have and these go broadcast to the schools. All the expense, save that of operation, is borne by the bureau.

Or, say that a city wants to test the best kind of pavements. Mr. Holly has them, and he can show you just how long a certain brand will wear, whether or not it is pure asphalt, and how a city should go about its road-building. The collodial life in the asphalt lakes is magnified 7,000 times.

Wanderful Magnifying.

The city's medical officer of health would be interested in one of the films circulated by Mr. Holly regarding the care of milk. He magnifies milk 20,000 times. He takes cow's milk and the milk that comes from a mother's breast and puts the two samples under the glass. The difference between the two foods is before one's eyes. Why the mother's milk is best is proven, and how the cow's milk can be treated so that it becomes exactly the same as mother's milk is the subject of more feet of film.

Do you wonder that a man with these ideas and with the desire to spend his money on these ideas and to give them to the world without profit and without price had his sight suddenly restored to him? If the regaining of his vision was not moving "in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," what was it? It is estimated, in fact it is known for a positive certainty, that ten million people saw the pictures which he had distributed last year.

Shown in School Auditoriums.

Eighteen hundred schools had these pictures once a week at night in the auditoriums which the Americans put in their school buildings, and in which London, fortunately, is emulating them. The pictures were not alone for children, but quite as much for the adults, whose education stopped when they left school, and who really did not know their country or how to live.

As Mr. Holly was being driven through Victoria Park last night, he said that it would be possible to show the pictures in the park on a silk screen which could be set up at any convenient point. Automobiles equipped with generators and picture machines are used by some municipalities to show the pictures in schools and parks. In the benighted parts of the Southern States negroes are being educated to till the soil by means of pictures. They would never have learned out of books, for they cannot read.

Available For City Schools.

"The films sent out by the bureau would be available for London's schools, and if London wishes to show some of its industries in the films, that could be arranged," said Mr. Holly. "If you have paving problems or other municipal questions, we could arrange a series of pictures that would be of great benefit. I will cover 17,000 miles in my trip through Canada, and during the course of that journey I hope to have an interview with all of the leading educators of Canada, including the presidents of colleges, in the hope that we may induce them to engage in extension work and open every school building in the Dominion at least once a week in the evenings for the general public instruction, gathering therein the serious-minded adults of the community, and those seeking information rather than amusement, and to show them motion pictures of industry and travel and all the wonderful natural resources of their own Dominion."

Would Like to See London First.

"I would like to see London take the first step in opening its schools to the films. The country is supporting the bureau in a magnificent way and our films come in duty free by a special dispensation from the Government.

"Establish community centres in this city where all may gather at frequent intervals in friendship and fellowship, as my good friend, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wrote me a few days since. Speaking of motion pictures of an educational character, he said: Anything and everything which can dispel ignorance and promote and enlarge education is by far the best agency for the peace of the world and higher civilization.

To Show Canada's Greatness.

"I believe that the films which we secure in Canada, and which will be sent broadcast, will have the effect of bringing Canada's greatness before the world in a manner, the value of which cannot be estimated. Australia and New Zealand have already sent films to the bureau, and while we have a number of Canadian pictures, we do not commence to show the resources of the country.

"It is my desire to promote good feeling between the two countries on this continent. We have been preaching thrift through our films, and we want the people of the United States to buy the bonds that Canada issues. We want the small man to get these, so that no large interests may secure control, and we want the little man to know that when he invests his money in Canada it is safe. We want him to realize, further, that Canada is the country where his interests lie. We want to fill up your plains and to bring the highest form of education to your people."

"The Eye Behold."

"The Eye Behold" is Mr. Holly's motto. The embossed crest on his stationery is a human eye. In the retina is a map of North and South America. Will London behold the opportunity presented for the city by Mr. Holly as Sir Robert Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier have recognized it for the country?

COMPANY REQUESTS JOINT CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS SITUATION

London Street Railway Wants Case Closed Up.

READY FOR SOME PAVING

Directors, However, Want Limit Placed on Demands for Present Year.

There will be a conference between the board of control, the finance committee of the city council and the London Street Railway some day next week to discuss street car matters. The company has requested this meeting and the date will be set.

There is no doubt the cars will be run on Sunday. The company officials stated earlier in the week that they would operate them for two weeks, the agreement having been signed.

The company will accept the other proposals as to extensions, provided the council does not undertake too extensive a program of paving. It is willing to do Dundas street, the Hamilton road, Rectory street and Beconsfield avenue, quite a bit of paving. Directors say they would not like to undertake any more, owing to the difficulty in getting steel and the scarcity of labor.

It now looks as if matters will now be settled amicably, it is said at the city hall.

142ND TONIGHT

Change No. 9 ordered the 149th and the 161st to stay in London for a few more days. Change No. 10 put them back on the Sunday list and kept the 118th and the 153rd until Monday. Change No. 11 switched the departure of the 135th until Saturday, and ordered the other six battalions to go Sunday.

Nobody Knows.

What the next score of changes will be no one at headquartrs knows. The officers are prepared for more orders and still more countermands, and the resulting confusion is to quote one of the officeds there "appalling."

After having been prepared to start the London Battalions moving in the middle of next week, the orders of yesterday afternoon demanding that the last leave by Sunday night were like a "bolt from the blue," the majority of the battalion commanders not expecting a movement at least for another week and some had even expected to remain two weeks.

The instructions were received at headquarters here about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the work involved in packing up and leaving in such short notice is a task that the men and commanders in no way appreciate.

Time Is Short.

Although they had all expected that the order to go to Camp Borden would come within a few days none had anticipated such a brief period of time would be allowed between the receipt of instructions and the time of departure.

The men of the 142nd who leave tonight, and those of the 135th who expected to go tonight, worked the larger portion of the night and were up at sunrise this morning.

Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson of the 135th said it would be a monumental task to get away at the hour designated, tonight at 10:30, but they would be forced to carry out instructions and go at that time.

Explicit Orders.

"Our instructions are very explicit on that point, and state that what we cannot finish here we can complete at Camp Borden, so we are to leave at the time appointed," said Col. Robson when questioned.

A large number of the 135th men had been allowed out on leave, and last night telegrams and telephone messages were sent out to all parts of the county, instructing the men to report immediately.

A report has been current for some days throughout the city, that the 135th was to go overseas, but instructions last night clear up the point and clearly state Camp Borden.

The men of the 142nd and 135th do not altogether relish the idea of the suddenness of their departure, and would have appreciated a day or so leave to bid friends and relatives goodbye.

Have Short Notice.

As the enormous amount of work necessary to complete preparations for the sudden departure of these two battalions requires the services of practically all, the men will have to be satisfied with very brief good-byes to friends and relatives.

Lieut.-Col. Graham said that although he regretted leaving London it was not a matter of sentiment, but one of duty, and that his officers and men would be ready to leave tonight at 9 o'clock, although the call was sudden, and necessitated a lot of unusual bustle and hurry.

Complain of Expense.

The transfer orders to Camp Borden has caused a lot of the men to complain because of expense and trouble entailed in their bringing families to the city in the expectation that they would be camped here for the summer.

Instances have been related where men have been forced to lease houses for periods ranging from six to nine months in order to secure the required living facilities for their families.

Under these circumstances they will be forced to pay the rent for these houses which their families will in all likelihood not occupy but a few weeks after their departure from the city.

Many wives will go back to their former homes, disappointed because of only a few weeks' stay in the city, coming only in order to be near husbands during the summer.

To these the departure of the battalions means the severance of home ties and the breaking of their temporary homes in the city, which they were led to believe would exist for the summer at least.

Were Misled.

The consensus of opinion among families moved here for the summer is that a more binding guarantee should have been made them as to the duration of the camp.

They believe that if training facilities do not exist now, that they did not exist in the early spring, and all maintain they were misled, otherwise, or they would not have moved for the brief period they have been stationed here.

THE SPIRIT OF CROMWELL.

[The Round Table.]

In its hatred of oppression and injustice; in its unexpected outbursts of sentiment (as in its spasmodic interest in the problems of native races or foreign affairs); in its tenacity and grit and patience; in its power of self-deception which its enemies like to call cant; above all, in its native manliness and its healthy and never-failing idealism, the spirit of the seventeenth century is still alive amongst us. It was Cromwell who used the power of England to intervene on behalf of the oppressed mountaineers of Savoy. It was his spiritual descendants who understood in a flash the meaning of the invasion of Belgium.

(Sir Owen Seaman, in Punch.)

Soldier of England, you who served her well,
And in that service, silent and apart,
Achieved a name that never lost its spell
Over your country's heart—

Who saw your work accomplished ere at length
Shadows of evening fell, and creeping Time
Had bent your stature or resolved the strength
That kept its manhood's prime—

Great was your life, and great the end you made,
As through the plunging seas that whelmed your head
Your spirit passed, unconquered, unafraid,
To join the gallant dead.

But not by death that spell could pass away
That fixed our gaze upon the far-off goal,
A nation one and whole.

Now doubly pledged to bring your vision true
Of darkness vanished and the dawn set free
In that full triumph which your faith foreknew
But might not live to see.

THAT BRAND.

[Yonkers Statesman.]

"But wasn't you afraid of the microbes?" suggested the granddaughter.

"Gee! No microbes could live in the stuff we was drinkin', child!"

CONSERVATIVES TRY

last three bye-elections the change against the Government amounted to 2,918 votes, Peel turning a substantial Tory majority into a comfortable surplus for the Grits.

The Liberal candidate has taken a strong stand in support of Mr. Rowell's policies, and depends for his election upon the constructive nature of these policies, as opposed to the destructive incompetence of the present Government in handling the affairs of the province. He and his supporters feel that in strengthening the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature they will be conferring a benefit on the community at large by increasing the check on the Government.

The huge increase in the provincial debt in eleven years, from less than $2,000,000 to over $49,000,000; the failure of the Government last year to collect $360,000 in taxation from the Canadian Copper Company; the double salary collected by the attorney-general ($11,400); the wasteful expenditure on Government House, authorized at $400,000, and now largely exceeding $1,000,000; the unnecessarily large increase in the number of civil servants employed, with the consequent drain on the people's purse; each of these items is being placed before the electors by Mr. Hay and his supporters as examples of the Government's inefficiency, together with their failure to keep pace with the public demand for advanced legislation in regard to agriculture, tax reform and social problems.

Everything points to a particularly interesting contest, and the possible outcome is the subject of eager discussion both inside and out of the riding.

BRITISH VALOR

is an operation still to be completed.

In one battalion of the Yorks and Lancashires attacking here only one officer and six men came through scathless. An orderly was three times partly buried in the debris of exploding shells, yet he won through somehow and succeeded in delivering his messages.

If there is any lesson to be learned from these operations it is that attackers under the conditions of modern scientific warfare are placed at a conspicuous disadvantage. As leaders of an assault instead of men acting on the defensive, the British are playing a new role, and it will take a little time for them to get used to it. None the less they are cheery and confident beyond belief.

The funeral was held from Smith, Son & Clarke's undertaking parlors Thursday to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, services by the Rev. Canon Sage. The flowers were very beautiful. A TASK FOR STATESMEN.

A MANLY MILLIONAIRE.

[Calgary News-Telegram.]

Major Hamilton Gault, founder of the Princess Pats, is said to be down with 42 shrapnel wounds and an amputated leg. The gallant Gault has shown that wealth and luxury need not rob humanity of its manhood.

MODERN BULLETS EASILY DEFLECTED.

[Engineering Record.]

The modern bullet, though it travels at a terrific speed, due to its having a long and tapering point to decrease the air resistance, is easily deflected. The helmets used in the European war have saved many heads from being broken by shrapnel bullets, and it is reported have deflected bullets traveling at a rate of 2,500 feet a second. Ordinarily speaking, such a projectile would penetrate at short range a half-inch of boiler iron if it struck point on.

WEDDING BELLS

PROKOS—HILL.

A quiet wedding took place at Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church on Saturday, July 1, when Miss Eva Irene Hill of 778 Grey street was married to George Prokos of Cobalt.

The young couple will make their residence in Cobalt after a short honeymoon.

LETHBRIDGE—CUSHING.

St. Michael's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, July 5, when Miss Bessie Irene Cushing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cushing of 877 Colborne street, was united in marriage to Donald D. Lethbridge.

Rev. Father J. A. Hanlon performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned in ivory satin, trimmed with georgette crepe and silk dentille lace, and wearing a fashionable bridal veil trimmed with satin streamers and lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses.

Miss Jean Cushing, sister of the bride, who acted as bridesmaid, was prettily attired in a dress of sunset pink satin, with a very effective trimming of hand run godette lace, and wearing a very becoming hat of cream tulle, with streamers of royal blue, and carried pink roses. Little Mary Regan of Hamilton made a very charming flower girl, wearing a dainty frock of white taffeta. The groom was supported by Walter Bradley.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl and diamond lavalier, to the bridesmaid a dainty drop necklace of rubies and pearls, to the flower girl a very pretty pearl brooch, to the groomsman a pearl tie-pin.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, at which the bride and groom received many congratulations and good wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Lethbridge left on the afternoon train for Toronto, Niagara Falls and points east.

The bride's traveling suit was a navy blue taffeta, with a large black transparent hat with a wreath of French flowers.

On their return the young couple will reside at 115 Cathcart street. Out-of-town guests were from Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and Hamilton.

[London Times.]

It was largely because they put faith in the iron resolution which they ascribed to this cold, impassive, silent man that our people trusted him so fully. It was his doggedness in doing the work that he was set to do that won them, because it was akin to their own temperament. He had none of the gifts by which politicians woo their favors. He was no orator. He did not seem to court the multitude. He had few friends. It was in a strange loneliness that he trod the path of duty, but he trod it, as they believed, with a stern and unwavering purpose.

THE FIGHTING MACS.

The 105th Battalion of Prince Edward Island fairly deserves to be called Highland. Of the members, 272, or quite a quarter of the whole, are "Macs," of which 44 belong to the clan McDonald, the McLeods numbering 23, and the McKenzies 19. The other names suggest that Prince Edward Island was rightly in its time a part of Nova Scotia. There are other than Scottish septs well represented in the battalion. The family of Gallant has 45 men in the ranks, and that of Arsenault 44, which latter fact suggests that the Acadians are not holding back from their duty.

WASHINGTON ACCEPTS CARRANZA'S PROPOSAL

Willing to Settle Differences by Means of Direct Negotiations.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, July 7.—A note formally accepting Gen. Carranza's proposal that differences between the United States and the de facto government of Mexico be settled by direct negotiations, was handed today to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate.

INTERCEPTED JOY.

[Life.]

Naval Commander—Did you succeed in intercepting that wireless message to the enemy?

Operator—Yes, sir. It was addressed to Lieut. Smith, and read "It's a boy."

THE WAR AFTER THE WAR.

[London Daily Mail.]

Germany knows that the struggle to regain the £504,000,000 of export trade which she enjoyed in the year before the war will be an economic Verdun. She will enter the arena for that battle, unless the Allies act betimes, with a weapon they do not at present possess —an intricately perfected system of tariffs for bargaining and punitive purposes. The administration of these tariffs is the function of the imperial ministry of the interior. For the first time in the history of the German civil service a practical businessman, instead of a bureaucrat-politician is to be its chieftain. Germany is mobilizing for the war after the war. Her commander-in-chief is about to take the field. What are we doing?

"Not about Browning. But I've improved my bridge game fifty per cent or more."

WHEN HURRY IS UNSEEMLY.

[Wisconsin State Journal.]

The horse-drawn hearse and carriage is the old reliable way of transportation for funerals, and will be for all time. They are the sure and safe way and more in keeping with this solemn occasion. This is the expression of all soul feeling people of the hour. This hurry-up machine with its huff and its puff has not become nor will it become the desire o' the people. They are only for people that are in a hurry to get rid of their dead as quickly as possible.

BEARING THE LOAD WILLINGLY.

[New York Herald.]

All in all, one cannot regard the facts without a feeling of profound respect for the spirit in which the prosperous classes in Britain have met a duty less inspiring, but no less exacting, than that of facing the enemy in the field—the duty of clear-eyed and willing submission to the fiscal demands of their gigantic warfare.

DOLLARS POURED OUT LIKE WATER AT CAMP BORDEN

Cost of the Great Military Centre Will Be Enormous.

NO FIGURES PUBLISHED

Government Owns Everything Within Confines of the Property.

PROBLEMS TO BE SOLVED

Water Supply and Sewage Disposal Two Costly and Huge Undertakings.

[By Staff Reporter.]

MILITARY HEADQUARTERS, Camp Borden, July 6.—How much has Camp Borden cost? How much is it going to cost? When will the costing part be over?

These are three questions that seem natural in connection with the big camp here, but the answer to all is the same: "No one who knows is telling." Someone undoubtedly knows the answer to the first of the trio, but he is not publishing. As to the other two, it is doubtful if there is any person, even the great war lord, Sir Sam Hughes, who can answer them.

Something like three-quarters of a million dollars have already been expended in supplies and materials for equipping the camp proper, according to authentic information given to The Advertiser. Col. R. S. Lowe, in condemning Toronto wholesalers and manufacturers for their slowness in filling orders, declared that more than half a million had been spent there on materials to date. Anyone who has seen the camp and its fittings can readily believe that, and will be inclined to add, on a generous scale, too. Then the payroll of the 1,800 odd contractors' men who have been working on the camp, the horse feed, and so on, will run up to a mighty big figure. The men, who have been working seven days a week and fourteen hours a day to put the camp in its present state of "preparedness," are not working for love alone, and overtime and double-time mean more money.

Contractors' Fees.

The contractors who are on the job are not in it for their health, by any means, and, while their profits may be considered legitimate, it is something that has to come from the pockets of the people, willy-nilly.

Those who know the original cost of the 20,000-acre tract seem to be scarcer 'round here than the proverbial hen's teeth. It has been claimed that a round quarter of a million has been spent on land purchases, and the end seems to be not yet. There has been considerable talk of purchasing the land from the present southern confines of the camp down to the C. P. R. station at Baxter, one mile south on the Canadian Pacific line of Ypres, the new junction that was created when the C. P. R. started to build its spur line into the camp, and is the bane of all trainmen. No one seems to know if this purchase is to go through, and, like every other feature in connection with the camp costs, there is an ignorance not unexpected on the part of those who might be designated by being in "high places."

Money Galore.

A mere superficial survey of the camp is an eye-opener as to what can be accomplished in a short time. It also spells money, in gobs, chunks and bucketfuls, not to mention unlimited quantities. To accomplish anything at all, Col. Lowe had to be given carte blanche, and carte blanche in a proposition of the magnitude of this military camp means anything up to the two-figured million mark.

Camp Borden has been built to stay. One glimpse of the buildings and general layout of the camp is sufficient to convince even a doubting Thomas of that fact. For years Sir Sam has been preaching military expenditures, and now he has his opportunity to put them across on a scale that two years ago would have been utterly impossible. Undoubtedly Camp Borden is needed now, and will be needed after the war, too, for training Central Ontario regiments, if there is to be any militia after the war.

Col. Lowe and the contractors who have been working under him are not the only ones whose bills will be paid from the militia department treasury chest. Both the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. claims will figure in the final settlement. When the camp was first mooted, it was supposed to be on the Grand Trunk. Angus, three miles away from here, was the nearest railway centre. Baxter, the nearest C. P. R. station, was five miles and a half away. The C.P.R. jumped in at the first shot out of the gun that announced the purchase of Camp Borden, and on May 9, less than two months ago, the construction gangs started the branch line from Ypres that reached here almost a month ago.

All Government Owned.

Within the confines of the camp every inch of steel, every tie, fishplate, spike and ounce of ballast, is supposed to be Government property. The huge union depot that has been erected, and the express departments of both Dominion and Canadian Express companies, are also considered Government property. The railway companies built them, and paid for their construction gangs on the work, but the Government will settle the whole shot in order that the militia department may be supreme within the camp and administer the railway affairs as it sees fit. When this settlement is made it will run into quite some cash.

The Grand Trunk built the first switching line from the camp spur proper, in order that Col. Lowe and his contractors might have speedy delivery of supplies and materials. The company has since put in a number of other switching lines to serve the supply depot of the Canadian Army Service Corps, Canadian Ordnance Corps and so on, but in keeping with its Government-owned, militia-department-controlled policy, these tracks are used by both roads without inter-switching or other similar charges that might be and would be levied by the operating company were the circumstances other than they are.

Passing up the question of what the buildings of the camp are going to cost, the huge sum of money that is represented by the camp utilities looms up large on the horizon of Canadian resources that acts as the background to the record of building achievement and speedy service represented in the camp.

Water Problem.

A complete waterworks system, sufficient in size to take care of 60,000 men, had to be built and naturally the cost has been high. The number of men for whom accommodation is being provided practically equals the population of the city of London. Though the population is equal, it is hardly fair to say that the waterworks system would have to be the same. There are no big manufacturing plants here, no extra mains for fire protection and so on, but just the same providing water for 60,000 men in sufficient quantities to take care of their bathing, cooking, drinking and washing is a proposition the cost of which can readily be imagined by even the greenest in the engineering world.

The same is true of sewage disposal. All the latrines, wash houses, shower baths and so on have to be tapped to sewers and 15 miles of drains had to be dug to provide for the water mains and sewer pipes. Then the septic tanks, a costly undertaking, had to be constructed and a permanent power and pumping station built. The "streets" of the camping areas are lit by hydro-electric power from Severn River, as was mentioned in a previous article, and building a street-lighting system is a somewhat expensive undertaking, as London found out.

There is no issuing of debentures, spread over a number of years, to meet the cost of the utilities that have been installed here. The whole shot is being paid from the Canadian war cost, but, as has been said before, just how much has been taken from the said strong box is an unknown quantity that is on a par with the "X" of algebraic fame.

TROOPS FROM LONDON MUST CUT DOWN TREES TO MAKE THEIR CAMP

CAMP BORDEN, July 6.—The militia department has ordered eight battalions from London, Ontario, to enter Camp Borden this week. This means that next Tuesday when Sir Sam Hughes reviews the troops there will be at least twenty-eight battalions in camp, composed of about thirty-two thousand officers and men.

The area set aside for the use of the London battalions has a great number of second growth pine, poplar and birch trees in splendid growth. It is probable that over two thousand troops will be turned into this area to hew down the trees and clear them away. This will have to be done by Sunday.

There are fifteen patients in the clearing hospital, but no serious cases. There is accommodation for four hundred patients. Eight patients were sent to Toronto last night to the exhibition hospital.

Twelve hundred hogs will be fed with the daily gleanings of the tables, and when fattened to the necessary weight will return to the table in the shape of fresh pork. There are at present 200 hogs here, which have been fattened from about 90 pounds to 160 pounds, and a number have already been served at table. Nothing but clean leavings of food are to be fed to the pigs, and every sanitary precaution is being taken. The management of the piggeries will be under military supervision, but the soldiers will not take any part in the care of the pigs.

UNUSUAL VARIETY OF SNAKE VISITS 186TH

Comes to Camp Francis in Bunch of Bananas From Tropics.

Snakes are not usually considered in the list of mascots suitable for overseas battalions, but the 186th (Kent) Battalion has one, or at least had one for several minutes. However, it was decided that it would be much more popular dead than alive, and action was taken accordingly.

The snake arrived, wound around a bunch of bananas, consigned to the canteen, and provided excitement for a few minutes. However, Capt. Spencer, who was born in India, and has had much experience with snakes since his boyhood, quickly dealt with it.

The snake was about thirty inches long, and was a native of the tropics. The captain stated that its bite was poisonous. He has not yet discovered its name, for, although he knows all of the species of snakes inhabiting Ontario, and many of the tropical varieties, this one was new to him. The pevailing color of its skin is brown, although it is as prettily patterned and shaded as any carpet. The captain stated that it would have shed its skin in a month, after which it would have been still prettier.

He has skinned the snake, stretching the skin on a board, and keeping the body and head in a salt solution. The salt solution will keep the heart of the reptile beating for several days.

Another recent addition to the battalion strength is a tarantula, which also arrived on a bunch of bananas.

STEADY RECRUITING.

BRANTFORD, July 6.—Fifteen men have enlisted with the 215th Overseas Battalion this month, bringing the strength of the battalion up to 537 men. It is expected the battalion will shortly start an energetic campaign for the rounding up of eligibles.

BRANTFORD, July 6.—George L. Goodwin, for some years general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, who has resigned, was this evening tendered a luncheon by the Ministerial Association and Y. M. C. A. officials. He was presented with an address and a wrist watch.

PERFECTING ORGANIZATION OF C. E. F. REDUCED DETAIL WORK TO UNIFORM SYSTEMATIC BASIS

Compilation of Necessary Records Gigantic Task, Writes Returned Officer, Who Interestingly Describes How It Was Accomplished in England by First Divisions.

The following story of the work done by Canadians at the front has been written by a London officer back from France. It will be published in installments for two consecutive days in The Advertiser.

On a day never to be forgotten by Canadians, namely October 1, 1914, less than two months after the declaration of war with Germany, the nucleus of an army, never before paralleled in military history, arrived in England from Canada. There has been a great deal written already on the wonderful achievement of the Canadian Government in raising, equipping and transporting to England the 35,000 men comprising the 1st Canadian Contingent, and it is not proposed to dilate further on the subject, but rather to deal with a few of the difficulties in organizing the first and subsequent contingents, now swelled to the proportions of an army corps, nearly 200,000 strong.

The Organization.

It conveys little or nothing to the average public mind to speak of the "Organization of an Army," and the enormous amount of work of varying kinds that such a proposition entails. Many of the details sprang into existence with the British army, and after much amendment and adjustment, the result of conturies of practical experience became the gospel for the primary guidance of the British army in the field. This gospel was the hub of the construction of the Canadian army on arrival in England to take its part in the history of the war, but then it was found that this gospel was full of self-evident exceptions, that problems were arising in the solution of which there was no precedent by which to be guided, and only then the new organization of which the public knows little or nothing began.

Collecting Data.

The first establishment was that of a central record and pay office with headquarters in London. In order to commence operations it was necessary to collect data and information with reference to every member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, to prepare three ledger sheets for every soldier and bring all entries up to date. The preparation of these documents was undertaken in one of the huts on Salisbury plains, 105,000 sheets being prepared and dispatched to London, together with the attestation papers of 35,000 soldiers. Before the commencement of 1915, this work was completed and the records were on the way to a fair start. It is, however, impossible to deal here with the difficulties encountered in collecting the necessary information. Many of these original documents bear the stains of Salisbury mud, received while expert work in accounting was being carried on in leaky and hurriedly erected huts in a continual downpour of rain, the like of which no Canadian had ever before encountered.

Departure Near.

The commencement of urgent preparations was made by the 1st Division early in January to proceed to the front. Weaklings had to be weeded out and their places filled with those physically fit for overseas services, surplus baggage had to be collected and stored, and thousands of other details arranged—each one a problem in itself—and this in addition to the actual departure of the division.

The weeding-out process was continued on the departure of the 1st Division for France. Many of those remaining in England were unfit for further service, and discharge papers had to be prepared. This necessitated another administrative department in itself and the work was proceeded with. In addition, many members of the C. E. F. had applied for, and had been appointed to, commissions in the Imperial Army. Another question arising, requiring immediate adjustment, was the issue of heavy imperial issue boots to the Canadian soldiers. Courts of inquiry assembled, and the justification of the issue of imperial boots to Canadian soldiers in England resulted from the evidence forthcoming.

Casualties Begin.

The Canadian division's base in England had bee formed, during this time, into a Canadian training division for the purpose of training and equipping reinforcements for the front. The original units of the C. E. F. remaining in England were supplemented with fresh units from Canada, and casualties commenced arriving from the many hospitals.

The 2nd Canadian Division for service overseas was under formation and all departments were working at top speed, night and day, to keep things running smootnly and endeavoring to cope with the extra work. It was found that the records office was becoming disorganized through the lack of co-operation and system among the units. All orderly rooms (the administrative office of units) were inspected, and it was found that systematising of the work was necessary in order to achieve the desired results. A uniform system for an orderly room to co-operate with the records office was evolved and installed in all units. Each unit orderly room had at this time the work of a small record office to maintain owing to the fact that reinforcements were arriving regularly from Canada and being drafted to France, and casualties were arriving from France for hospital treatment, convalescence and discharge. The strength of the units varied daily and the routine and detail work required was enormous.

Another Check.

As an additional check on the personnel, bi-monthly muster parades were instituted at which every member of the unit had to answer his name, or be accounted for by the records of the unit.

There had also to be handled the enlistment of Canadians who were in England at the outbreak of war. War office authority was obtained and over 700 men enlisted into the forces.

The handling of the casualties reporting to their reserve units, however, was by far the greatest problem, It was found that thousands of these men were, after convalescence, permitted to lie idle about the lines of the reinforcing units. At the beginning of July it was decided to employ such men on light duty, thereby releasing physically fit men for training and ultimate service. Each man was questioned (after being boarded by medical officers for light duty) and delegated to some particular employent for which he was most fitted. The principal classes of employment of this nature were: clerks, orderlies, batmen, etc., and in less than seven months nearly 3,000 men were so employed.

Saving of Thousands.

The universal system adopted by orderly rooms having been so completely satisfactory, the same procedure was applied to quartermasters' stores, a uniform system of bookkeeping being installed and written instructions to quartermasters issued, resulting in the saving of many thousands of dollars of the public funds. The inspection and auditing of stores was regularly done, and an estimate of $3,000 monthly was recovered in this manner.

With respect to these, and many other problems to face, the realization that the organization of the army was as yet only in its embryo stage was forcibly brought home, and it was decided to establish a department for studying just such problems with a view to arriving at the most logical and efficient solutions for handling them. Col. F. A. Reid, the officer responsible for the work that had been done in this connection as set forth above, was appointed the head of the department, as director of recruiting and organization, C. E. F., and the work was commenced in earnest.

The director was detailed to proceed to Canada on the formation of this department, in order that the militia authorities might be throughly posted on the conditions as they existed at that time in England and the lines along which it was proposed to commence organization.

SOME "AFTER-WAR" TALES

The remarkable facility with which men adjust themselves to extraordinary conditions of life is demonstrated to an unusual degree in the news sheets that are published by men of the Canadian battalions and brigades in the firing line in Flanders.

"The Listening Post," the news medium primarily of the 7th Battalion, but containing pages devoted to the 5th, 8th and 10th Battalions of the 2nd Brigade, 1st Canadian Division, is the latest periodical to hand. It is printed twice monthly, and as the editorial page announces, is written, edited and printed in the zone of shell fire. The issue of June 17, 1916, contains both wit and wisdom, and illustrates the cheerful optimism and underlying consciousness of serious endeavor of our boys at the front.

Strong For Thrillers.

Speaking of suitable literature for the trenches, I think I voice the sentiments of the battalion when I suggest such sensational journals as Harrod's Catalogue, Ladies' Home Journal, City Directory of Nelson, B. C., Home Chat, Farm and Fireside, etc.

Having waded through a number of the above "thrillers" and still feeling a thirst for more excitement, I gathered the bunch together and started down the trench on a "trading" expedition. After displaying my wares in various dugouts, and, failing to make what I considered a fair exchange, I was about to return and read the advertisements all over again, when I espied a large dugout with a real window. Through the window I saw a copy of the "Wide World Magazine." I pushed open the door; yes, it was a real door, and that alone should have been sufficient evidence of the occupant's rank; but before I had time to back out, I was greeted with, "Well, my man, what do you want?" "I beg your pardon, sir, I have made a mistake, I am trying to trade off these papers for a "Wide World Magazine."

Now the illustration on the cover of the "Ladies' Home Journal" was that of a charming Flapper, with a dress not much shorter than a kilt, and on each cheek she wore a curl of the comma or kiss-me-quick type.

I won't attempt to describe the speedy closing of the deal. Needless to say, the captain got the Flapper and I got temporary possession of the "Wide World Magazine" and a package of cigarettes.

Before I conclude this story of home life in the trenches, I wish to state (if you have not already guessed it) that it is written for the purpose of showing the public how we long for something lively, to prevent us from becoming melancholy.

and more than that through the cigarettes, and my hair was standing on end at the awful struggle which was in progress between an American trapper and a man-eating gopher, when my sergeant suggested that I should leave off reading for a few minutes as the Germans were piling over their parapet. "All right, sergeant," I replied, "I'll be out in a few minutes, just as soon as I've finished this yarn."

"No, you had better come now and finish after, as they are almost up to our barbed wire now and if we have to throw bombs, it will mean a working party for us tonight to fix it up again and you know what that means when you've got no gloves. Besides that, the O. C. is coming up the trench, and you know how he dislikes to see anybody loafing when there's something to do."

Realizing that to argue was useless, I crawled out and potted my official share of Germans and returned to the more interesting subject of gophers versus trappers.

In conclusion, I hope my graphic description of life in Flanders will have the desired effect of bringing us some exciting reading matter.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—And then he woke up.

TO HELP RECRUITING.

GUELPH, July 6.—Word was received in the city this morning that a crack platoon of the Wellington Battalion, along with the battalion band, will arrive in this city on Saturday, and will go under canvas here. This is the result of the representations made by a Guelph and Wellington deputation to the headquarters staff at London a few days ago. It was asked then that the platoon (85 men) should be sent here, along with the band, to assist in inaugurating a recruiting campaign to secure the number of men required to bring the battalion up to strength. Guelph will be their headquarters, but they will move on through the county wherever those in charge think the prospects are good for recruiting.

EFFORT TO UNITE ALL ASSOCIATIONS OF RETURNED MEN

National Organization Already Under Way.

COL. GUTHRIE IN CHARGE

O. C. of 10th Battalion Working to Secure Consolidation of Societies.

A determined effort is being made by the various associations of returned soldiers, which have been formed in many cities in Canada, towards the linking up of all associations into a combined organization to look after the interests of the veterans in a comprehensive way. Pte. A. Ritchie, secretary of the London Returned Soldiers' Association, is in receipt of the following communication from Lieut.-Col. P. A. Guthrie, O. C. troops in New Brunswick, and for a time in command of the 10th Battalion at the front.

Fredericton, N. B., June 28, 1916.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—

I believe that recently in your city an organization was formed of the young men returned from the front, who have taken part in the present war.

I am desirous of getting in touch with each association in Canada, with a view to linking them up, provincial and federal, so that their interests may be in the future protected.

Would you be good enough to hand the inclosed letter to the president of the association there? Yours faithfully,

LT.-COL. PERCY A. GUTHRIE,

Fredericton, N. B., June 28, 1916.

President, European Veterans' Association.

Dear Mr. President,—Since my return from the front, wounded, some months ago, I have taken a deep interest in the welfare of returning soldiers in New Brunswick, many of whom were enlisted and went away with me at the beginning of the war.

I find that oftentimes a returned and broken comrade suffers much inconvenience by reason of the fact that he does not know with whom to get in touch, so that his particular grievance may be taken up with the proper authorities. In order to remedy this evil we arranged here for the formation in each city of a European Veterans' Association, and we have them pretty well established throughout New Brunswick. In this way returning soldiers, through the secretary of the association, can take up their matters direct with Ottawa, and get straightened out, as far as pay, medical particulars, etc., are concerned.

The numbers of wounded coming back from the front is daily increasing, and the time will soon arrive when an organized effort must be made to see that these men are properly looked after, placed in positions, and otherwise cared for.

I am aware that the militia department and the Dominion Government are doing everything in their power for the returned soldier, both in looking after him until he has completely recovered from his wounds and giving him in many cases an education so that he may "carry on" as a useful citizen.

I believe that associations, similar to that formed in New Brunswick, have been formed in other centres throughout Canada, and I think it would be to our mutual interest and advantage if we linked ourselves together in a chain of associations from ocean to ocean, with a Provincial and Dominion executive, through which we could be united and who would keep an eye to our interests. These associations may be small now, but they will grow in numbers as the boys come home, so that their value will be appreciated and their influence felt throughout the whole Dominion.

I have been delegated by our association here to communicate with all other organizations of a similar nature throughout Canada, and, if the above ideas are agreeable to your association, kindly communicate with the writer, so that some steps may be taken towards the organization of the above outlined Provincial and Dominion executive.

Yours faithfully,

LT.-COL. PERCY A. GUTHRIE,

JELLICOE PLACES LOSSES OF GERMANS OFF JUTLAND AT TWENTY-ONE WARSHIPS

Commander of Fleets Makes Report on Naval Engagement of May 31.

ENEMY COMPLETELY DEFEATED

[Canadian Press Cable.]

LONDON, July 7.—"Be pleased to inform the lords commissioners of the admiralty that the German high sea fleet was brought to action on the 31st of May, 1916, to the westward of Jutland Bank, off the coast of Denmark."

In these words Vice-Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, commander-in-chief of the home fleets, opens his report to the admiralty on the battle over which there has been so much discussion.

"The battle cruiser fleet, gallantly led by Vice-Admiral Beatty, and admirably supported by the ships of the fifth battle squadron under Rear Admiral Evan-Thomas, fought the action under, at times, disadvantageous conditions, especially in regard to the light, in a manner that was in keeping with the best traditions of the service," Admiral Jellicoe continues. Without maps and charts many of the details of the report cannot be made clear. It states that "the list of ships and commanding officers, which took part in the action, has been withheld from publication for the present, in accordance with the usual practice."

Losses to Germans.

Admiral Jellicoe estimates the German losses at two battleships of the dreadnought type, one of the Deutschland type, which was seen to sink, the battle cruiser Lutzow, admitted by the Germans, one battle cruiser of the dreadnought type, one battle cruiser, seen to be so severely damaged that its return was extremely doubtful, five light cruisers, seen to sink—one of them possibly a battleship—six destroyers seen to sink, three destroyers so damaged that it was doubtful if they would be able to reach port, and a submarine sunk. Commenting on this Admiral Jellicoe says:

"The conditions of low visibility, under which the day action took place, and the approach of darkness enhanced the difficulty of giving an accurate report of the damage inflicted or the name of the ships sunk by our forces. But, after a most careful examination of the evidence of all the officers who testified to seeing enemy vessels actually sink, and personal interviews with a large number of these officers, I am of the opinion that the list shown in the inclosure gives the minimum numbers, though it is possible it is not accurate as regards the particular class of vessel, especially those which were sunk during the night attack. In addition to the vessels sunk, it is unquestionable that many other ships were very seriously damaged by gunfire and torpedo attack.

Tribute to Germans.

"The enemy fought with the gallantry that was expected of him. We particularly admired the conduct of those on board the disabled German light cruiser which passed down the British line shortly after deployment under a heavy fire, which was returned by the only gun left in action. The conduct of the officers and men was entirely beyond praise."

The hardest fighting fell to the battle cruiser fleet, says Admiral Jellicoe, the units of which were less heavily armored than their opponents, and he expresses high appreciation of the handling of all the vessels and commends Admirals Burney, Jerram, Sturdee, Evan-Thomas, Duff and Leveson and continues:

Beatty's Fine Leadership.

"Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty once again showed his fine qualities of gallant leadership, firm determination and correct strategic fighting. He appreciated situations at once on sighting the first enemy's lighter forces, then his battle cruisers, finally his battleships."

Vice-Admiral Beatty's report to Admiral Jellicoe particularly mentions the work of the Engadine, Commander Robinson, which towed the Warrior 75 miles during the night of May 31. He speaks glowingly of the splendid control and drill which prevailed aboard the British ships.

"Our superiority over the enemy in this respect was very marked, their efficiency becoming rapidly reduced under punishment, while ours was maintained throughout.

Fortitude of a Boy.

"The fortitude of the wounded was admirable. A boy of the first-class, John Travers Cornwall, of the Chester, was mortally wounded early in the action. He nevertheless remained standing alone at a most exposed post quietly awaiting orders until the end of the action, with the gun's crew dead or wounded all around him. His age was under sixteen and a half years. I regret that he has since died. I recommend his case for special recognition, in justice to his memory and as an acknowledgment of the high example set by him."

Extracts from Vice-Admiral Beatty's report give the course of events before the battle fleet came on the scene of action. At 2:20 o'clock in the afternoon the Galatia reported the presence of enemy vessels. At 2:35 o'clock considerable smoke was sighted to the eastward. This made it clear that the enemy was to the northward and eastward and that it would be impossible for him to round Horn Reef without being brought to action. The course of the British ships consequently was altered to the eastward and subsequently northeastward.

Enemy's Forces Sighted.

The enemy was sighted at 3:31 o'clock. His force consisted of five battle cruisers. Vice-Admiral Beatty's first and third light-cruiser squadrons, without awaiting orders, spread eastward, forming a screen in advance of the battle-cruiser squadron, under Admiral Evan-Thomas, consisting of four battleships of the Queen Elizabeth class. The light cruisers engaged the enemy and the cruiser squadron came up at high speed, taking station ahead of the battle cruisers.

At 3:30 o'clock Vice-Admiral Beatty increased the speed to 25 knots and formed the line of battle, the second battle-cruiser squadron forming astern of the first with two destroyer flotillas ahead.

Vice-Admiral Beatty then turned east-southeast, slightly converging on the enemy, now at a range of 23,000 yards. The fifth battle-cruiser squadron was then bearing north-northeast, 10,000 yards distant. The visibility was good.

Continuing his report Vice-Admiral Beatty said:

"The sun was behind us. The wind was southeast. Being between the enemy and his base our situation was both tactically and strategically good.

Open Fire at 18,500 Yards.

"Both forces opened fire simultaneously at 3:48 at a range of 18,500 yards. The course was altered southward, the enemy steering parallel, distant 18,000 to 14,500 yards. The fifth battle squadron opened fire at a range of 20,000 yards at 4:08. The enemy fire then seemed to slacken. Although the presence of destroyers caused inconvenience on account of smoke, they preserved the battleships from submarine attack.

"Two submarines being sighted and a flotilla of ten destroyers being ordered to attack the enemy with torpedoes, moved out at 4:15 o'clock, simultaneously with the approach of German destroyers. The attack was carried out gallantly with great determination. Before arriving at a favorable position to fire torpedoes they intercepted an enemy force, consisting intercepted an enemy force, consisting of one light cruiser and fifteen destroyers.

First Enemy Losses.

"A fierce engagement at close quarters ensued and the enemy was forced to retire on their battleships, having two destroyers sunk and their torpedo attack frustrated. Our destroyers sustained no loss, but the attack on the enemy cruisers was rendered less effective.

"The Nestor, Nomad and Mincator, under Commander Edward Bingham, pressed their attack on the battle cruisers and fired two torpedoes. Being subjected to a heavy fire at 3,000 yards, the Nomad was badly hit and returned to the lines. The Nestor was also badly hit, but was afloat when last seen."

Third German Ship Afire.

From 4:15 to 4:43 o'clock the conflict between the battle-cruiser squadrons was fierce and the resolute British fire began to tell. The rapidity and accuracy of the Germans' fire depreciated considerably. The third German ship was seen to be afire. A German battle fleet was reported ahead and the destroyers were recalled.

Vice-Admiral Beatty altered his course to the northward to lead the Germans toward the British battle fleet. The second light cruiser squadron closed to within 13,000 yards of the German battle fleet and came under heavy but ineffective fire. The fifth battle squadron engaged the German battle cruisers with all guns and about 5 o'clock came under the fire of the leading ships of the German battle fleet.

The weather became unfavorable, Vice-Admiral Beatty's ships being silhouetted against a clear horizon to the Germans' ships which were mostly obscured by mist.

Enemy Badly Punished.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock the action continued at 14,000 yards on a northerly course, the German ships receiving very severe punishment, one battle cruiser quitting the line considerably damaged. At 5:35 o'clock the Germans were gradually hauling eastward and receiving severe punishment at the head of the line, probably acting on information from their light cruisers, which were engaged with the third battle cruiser squadron, or from zeppelins, which possibly were present.

At 5:56 o'clock the leading ships of the British battle fleet were sighted bearing north, distant five miles. Vice-Admiral Beatty thereon proceeded east at greatest speed, bringing the range to 12,000 yards. Only three German battle cruisers were then visible, followed by battleships of the Koenig type.

Battle Fleet In Action.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe then takes up the story of the battle fleet. Informed that the Germans were sighted, the fleet proceeded at full speed on a southeast by south course during two hours before arriving on the scene of the battle. The steaming qualities of the older ships were severely tested. When the battle fleet was meeting the battle cruisers and the fifth battle squadron, great care was necessary to insure that the British ships were not mistaken for the German warships.

Vice-Admiral Beatty reported the position of the German battle fleet at 6:15 o'clock. Vice-Admiral Jellicoe then formed the line of battle, Vice-Admiral Beatty meantime having formed the battle cruisers ahead of the battle fleet, and the fleets became engaged. During the deployment the Defence and Warrior were seen passing between the British and German fleets under heavy fire. The Defence disappeared and the Warrior passed to the rear, disabled.

Mist Hid Enemy.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe considers it probable that Sir Robert K. Arbuthnot, the rear-admiral, who was lost on board the Defence, was not aware, during the engagement with the German light cruisers, of the approach of their heavy ships owing to the mist, until he found himself in close proximity to the main German fleet. Before he could withdraw, his ships were caught under a heavy fire, and disabled. When the Black Prince, of the same squadron was sunk it was not known, but a wireless signal from her was received between 8 and 9 o'clock.

Owing principally to the mist it was possible to see only a few ships at a time. Towards the close of the battle only four or five were visible, and never more than eight to twelve.

The third battle cruiser squadron, under Rear Admiral Horace Alexander Hood, was in advance of the battle fleet and ordered to reinforce Vice-Admiral Beatty. While en route the Chester, Captain Lawson, engaged three or four German light cruisers for twenty minutes. Despite many casualties her steaming qualities were unimpaired.

Work of Third Squadron.

Describing the work of the third squadron, Vice-Admiral Beatty said Rear Admiral Hood brought it into action ahead of the Lion "in the most inspiring manner, worthy of his great naval ancestors." Vice-Admiral Hood at 6:25 p.m. was only 8,000 yards from the leading German ship, and the British vessels poured a hot fire into her and caused her to turn away.

Vice-Admiral Beatty continuing, reports:

"By 6:50 o'clock the battle cruisers were clear of our leading battle squadron, and I ordered the third battle-cruiser squadron to prolong the line astern, and reduced the speed to 18 knots. The visibility at this time was very indifferent, not more than four miles, and the enemy ships were temporarily lost sight of after 6 p.m. Although the visibility became reduced, it undoubtedly was more favorable to us than to the enemy.

Heavy Damage for Germans.

"At intervals their ships showed up clearly, enabling us to punish them very severely, and to establish a definite superiority over them. It was clear that the enemy suffered considerable damage, battle cruisers and battleships alike. The head of their line was crumbled up, leaving their battleships as a target for the majority of our battle cruisers. Before leaving, the fifth battle squadron also was engaging battleships.

"The report of Rear Admiral Evans-Thomas shows excellent results were obtained. It can safely be said that his magnificent squadron wrought great execution."

The action between the battle fleets lasted intermittently from 6:17 to 8:20 o'clock at ranges between 9,000 and 12,000 yards. The Germans constantly turned away and opened the range under cover of destroyer attacks and smoke screens as the effect of the British fire was felt, and alterations of course from southeast by east to west in an endeavor to close up brought the British battle fleet, which commenced action in an advantageous position on the Germans' bow, to a quarterly bearing from the German battle line, but placed Vice-Admiral Jellicoe between the Germans and their bases.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe says:

British Fire Effective.

"During the somewhat brief periods that the ships of the high sea fleet were visible through the mist, a heavy and effective fire kept up by the battleships and battle cruisers of the grand fleet caused me much satisfaction. The enemy vessels were seen to be constantly hit, some being observed to haul out of the line. At least one sank. The enemy's return fire at this period was not effective, and the damage caused to our ships was insignificant."

Vice-Admiral Beatty reported that he did not consider it desirable or proper to engage the German battle fleet during the dark hours, as the strategical position made it appear certain he could locate them at daylight under more favorable circumstances.

Enemy's Torpedoes Fail.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe reports that, as anticipated, the Germans appeared to have relied much upon torpedo attacks, which were favored by low visibility, and by the fact that the British were in the position of a following or chasing fleet. Of the large number of torpedoes apparently fired, only one took effect, and this was upon the Marlborough, which was able to continue in action.

Work of Iron Duke.

The fourth squadron, led by the flagship Iron Duke, engaged a squadron consisting of the Koenig and Kaiser classes, with battle cruisers and light cruisers. The British fire was effective, although a mist rendered range-taking difficult. The Iron Duke fired on a battleship of the Koenig class at 12,000 yards. The nitting commenced at the second salvo, and only ceased when the target turned away. Other ships of the squadron fired principally at German ships as they appeared out of the mist, and several of the German vessels were hit.

The second squadron, under Admiral Jerram, engaged vessels of the Kaiser or Koenig classes, and also a battle cruiser, which apparently was severely damaged. A squadron under the command of Rear-Admiral Heath, with the cruiser Duke of Edinburgh, acted as a connecting link between the battle fleet and the battle cruiser fleet, but he did not get into action.

Germans Quit by Nine.

The Germans were completely out of the fight at 9 o'clock, says the report. The British heavy ships were not attacked during the night, but three British destroyer flotillas delivered a series of gallant and successful attacks causing heavy losses.

"At daylight on the 1st of June, the battle fleet, being southward of Horn Reef, turned northward in search of the enemy vessels, and for the purpose of collecting our own cruisers and torpedoboat destroyers. The visibility early on the 1st of June was three to four miles less than on May 31, and the torpedoboat destroyers being out of visual touch, did not rejoin the fleet until 9 a.m. The British fleet remained in the proximity of the battlefield and near the line of approach to the German ports until 11 a.m., in spite of the disadvantage of long distances from fleet bases, and the danger incurred in waters adjacent to the enemy's coasts from submarines and torpedo craft.

Teutons Had Fled.

"The enemy, however, made no sign, and I was reluctantly compelled to the conclusion that the high sea fleet had returned into port. Subsequent events proved this assumption to have been correct. At 4 a.m. the fleet engaged a zeppelin about five minutes, during which time she had had ample opportunity to note and subsequently report the position and course of the British fleet.

"The fleet was fueled, replenished its ammunition, and at 9:30 p.m., on the 2nd of June, was ready for further action."

RUSSIAN ARTILLERY IS ABSOLUTELY PERFECT

LONDON, July 7.—3 a.m.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Budapest quotes a Hungarian correspondent at the eastern front as saying:

"The Russian strength exceeds anything seen in this war heretofore. In some cases they stormed our positions in rows seventeen lines deep, and their artillery was so absolutely perfect that no troops could dream of standing up to it.

"Much of their artillery consists of Japanese guns manned by Japanese and French officers. They often employ so-called 'pouring fire,' using ammunition of Japanese and American origin.

"In some places the Russian barrage fire continued even after their infantry reached our trenches, and in at least one spot both defenders and attackers were totally annihilated. The Russians were buried under the earthworks wrecked by their own artillery."

COLORED WAITERS ARE GOING TO CAMP BORDEN

TORONTO, July 6. — A strong protest was entered by a deputation representing the Toronto Waiters' and Waitresses' Union tonight at the meeting of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council against the employment of colored waiters by the military authorities at Camp Borden. They stated that arrangements had been made to send waiters from the local union to the camp, but that the order had been cancelled, and colored waiters from the United States substituted. A resolution was passed urging a stricter enforcement of the alien labor act.

WHERE LAURIER STANDS.

"I have loyally supported all the war measures of the Government, have appealed to all classes of my fellow-citizens to rise to the occasion and do their share, not only in contributing money, but in the ranks by doing battle for the great cause. And I am here today for the same purpose and object, to appeal to my fellow-countrymen of all origins to do their duty, and ask all who can go to take their places amongst those who are contending for the cause of civilization on the fields of France and Flanders."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Beauce, in Quebec.

TO CAMP BORDEN.

RELUCTANTLY London will say farewell to the men in khaki who have made No. 1 District Camp a model for the Dominion. We believe that the men are equally reluctant to say farewell to the district and city which they call home. It is not likely that they will be seen again in London as battalions, though it is sincerely to be hoped that frequent leave of absence will give them ample opportunity to see their families before the order for overseas comes.

The order for their removal came some time ago. It was only half believed. Its confirmation yesterday commanding immediate readiness for departure to Camp Borden took the breath of all away. It was coincident with the return of Sir Sam Hughes to Ottawa, and in spite of the fact that no provision had been made there for the Western Ontario battalions a few days ago. It may be good soldiering to send the men away on a few hours' notice; certainly it will test their abilities for making a swift change of residence, such as may be demanded of them in France. On the other hand, their ability to pack up and get away in a hurry might have been taken for granted, and a few hours' leave given for the sake of readjusting matters and going home for a farewell.

"I have just brought my wife to the city from Berlin," said one volunteer to The Advertiser. "We are soldiers, and will go to Camp Borden. But it is going to be a little hard on our women folk; harder, perhaps, than the final, expected parting would have been."

However, as this man said, the men who have trained to such good advantage in this city "are soldiers." Sir Sam Hughes is in supreme command, and they will unquestioningly put their best efforts behind the task at hand.

It is doubtful if so fine a body of Canadians has been gathered together in any city since the war began as those of the hardy battalions which have "tented on the old camp ground." Farmers' sons, city men, lumbermen, men of the lakes, big upstanding fellows and little plucky fellows who have made 100 per cent fighting men, they are a composite of almost every type of man that is grown in this country. The "first Canadians"—our Indian braves from the reserves—are men of whom we are not least proud. There is a good sprinkling of boys with German blood in their veins, who are Canadians though the price be life. There are swarms of English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh, a few Russians, Syrians and Polanders. Their officers are men who grade high in the test of intelligence and self-sacrificing valor.

They are all Canadians together, and London has a regard for them that has been merited through their conduct as gentlemen and as soldiers. It is the personal loss that comes home to citizens most of all, and the feeling of regret that these men must leave their families and be taken to an inaccessible region in order to complete training. Any service that the citizens can render should be taken for granted.

Londoners will keep the home fires burning for the boys of the battalions who have been with us—and The Advertiser would suggest that these home fires bake the finest cakes and pies that were ever baked and keep a constant stream of these succulent "munitions" going to Camp Borden all the time the men are encamped there.

THE NEW PEER.

IT IS NOT surprising that His Majesty King George has offered a peerage to Sir Edward Grey, for he has surely deserved some honor, but it is difficult to see what Sir Edward will find in the change to arouse any enthusiasm in its favor.

As foreign secretary and diplomat, Sir Edward Grey's name is known and respected throughout the world, and the fame thus gained will remain "Sir Edward Grey's," whatever change takes place in his name. Rank has not placed him in his place of power, and a peerage will not increase his prestige.

In lineage, there are comparatively few of the present-day peers who can challenge his supremacy; in wealth, the higher rank will not assist him; in position it will give him some degree of precedence, but so little that it is practically negligible.

Sir Edward Grey has not sought honors for himself. Cold and reserved, socially, he has spent himself freely for his country, asking nothing, and caring little for applause. His path has been one of rectitude and simplicity, baffling to other diplomats who had been brought up on guile, and taught to expect it in every opponent. He has shirked no duties, and has only demanded an opportunity to be useful. Why, then, should he welcome the change to the House of Lords?

Who has heard of John Morley since he became a viscount? That brilliant mind has to all intents and purposes been lost to his country. That he did not approve of war for any reason was not a sufficient cause for this loss. Many other almost forgotten names could be mentioned which once loomed large in the public eye, but being merged in peerages have taken their owners away to the ornamental rather than the useful ranks.

William Ewart Gladstone and Joseph Chamberlain realized what they would lose by accepting titular honors, and stubbornly refused to sink their great identities by accepting any other names. Mr. Asquith will go down in history as one of Britain's greatest statesmen, yet he has no peerage, although there can be no doubt that one has been at his disposal for years. Its acceptance would have been a hindrance to him, as it would to Lloyd George.

Sir Edward Grey holds a place in the admiration of Britishers peculiarly his own. One can only believe that he has sacrificed himself in order that Lloyd George may become secretary for war, an impossibility under the law of the land, unless one of the present chief secretaries becomes a peer, and is thus removed from the House of Commons.

THE GERMAN VOTE.

A victory for the Opposition in North Perth will lead Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates to believe that the German voters throughout the Dominion are hostile to the war and can be consolidated against the Borden Government.—Toronto News on the North Perth by-election.

THIS is as shameful and dastardly a newspaper statement as was ever made in a Canadian public journal.

It is a direct charge that the Liberals, led by Laurier, would attempt to consolidate the pro-German vote, "hostile to the war," in order to defeat Borden.

It is an insinuation that if a Liberal is elected in North Perth, all the people of German descent in that riding are forced to be disloyal.

It is a scandal and a provocation to blind party strife for any Canadian newspaper to raise such an issue at such a time, but it necessitates an examination of the attitude of the Conservative party and the Conservative press toward the known pro-German element that has existed and flourished in Ontario under the protection of Conservative members, the Conservative press, the Dominion Government and the private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature.

Demands for an internment bureau for Berlin, Ont., at the commencement of the war, fell on deaf ears at Ottawa. Pro-Germanism was rampant and insulting, and, worst of all, it was protected.

The pro-German editorials of German papers caused Conservative members to hurry to Ottawa in order to "square" matters.

The recruiting campaign in North Waterloo received no assistance from Conservative members, and little from the Conservative press.

The pro-German anti-recruiting campaign was checked only by the activities of the officers and men of the 118th Battalion. The Conservative organization was anathema to the men of this battalion.

When the situation at Berlin became critical, did the Stratford Herald or the Berlin News-Record, or the Toronto News, or Mr. Weichel, or Mr. Mills, M.P.P., tackle the situation? Not one of them said a word until The London Advertiser had revealed the desperate state of affairs, a state of affairs which grows under the patronage and protection of the Conservative party, and is just as offensive if more secret today.

When the name-changing agitation commenced, where were these "patriots"? All were actively with the pro-German crowd or "strictly neutral." What were Weichel or Mills, or the Stratford Herald or the Toronto News, or the Berlin News-Record doing to support the British element? Mr. Weichel was "otherwise engaged"; the Canservative press was silent, or accepting unsigned attacks from those who opposed the change, despite the protests of the British element. Mr. Mills says he was "strictly neutral" at a time when one who was not with the British element was against it. If the Germans of North Perth do not vote with them it is no fault of the Government or its hacks.

Pro-Germanism has been coddled by the Conservatives in North Waterloo, and the Toronto News present Tory journalism at its most suicidal practice in seeking to raise such an issue.

A BREACH OF FAITH.

"THIS is contrary to the assurances I received from Sir Sam Hughes since last December," said William Gray, Conservative member for London, upon being questioned by the Conservative organ regarding the order for No. 1 District troops to proceed to Camp Borden.

Mr. Gray added:

"He (Sir Sam Hughes) said that London would be allowed to retain all the troops we could handle, and I RELIED ENTIRELY UPON HIS STATEMENT. If we can handle them we should have them, and from what I can gather from officers at the camp the troops are being cared for in a proper manner."

Mr. Gray is seriously ill, and the present is no time, even though he deserved it, to taunt him with the failure of his influence with Sir Sam Hughes to retain the troops for London. It is questionable if anyone has "influence" sufficient to make Sir Sam Hughes abide by the contracts he makes. He has repeatedly assured the city of London that it would have "all the troops it could handle."

On May 20 the city of London was assured by Mr. Gray and the local Conservative paper, no doubt in good faith, that London would have 15,000 troops during the summer. A special dispatch from Ottawa quoting "an officer in close touch with headquarters" stated that "No units will be taken from No 1 Military District to train at Camp Borden."

London would have no objection to the removal had Sir Sam Hughes and his party not given a compact that the troops would remain in the city. It is in the destruction of "the scrap of paper" that London finds just claim for a charge of breach of faith.

NOT SO FAST.

THE Toronto News has it that Mr. Asquith now contemplates as a matter pressing for early solution "the effective organization of the Empire." He says that "the relations between the United Kingdom and our Dominions will of necessity be brought—and brought promptly—under close and connected review." So the News concludes that "as one result of this war the people of the outlying dominions are likely to secure equal citizenship within the Empire and a voice in foreign affairs commensurate with their present sacrifices."

The present organization, then, of the Empire is ineffective? We thought we were doing pretty well, but the News is after "an effective organization." Can't be that the News is dissatisfied with the conduct of the war within this "outlying" Dominion, with the combination of a blatherskite and blacklegs in the administration of certain important matters, and yearns for a closer Downing Street control over all such things? Is that the one way to clean Ottawa?

What does this phrase of "equal citizenship" for "outlying dominions" mean? It is not Mr. Asquith's, you see. He merely talks a generality or two about revising imperial relations somehow, soon. But the News proposes "equal citizenship within the Empire," whatever that may be. The next phrase probably is to explain in some measure: "and a voice in foreign affairs, etc." "And" is explanatory. What voice are we likely to get in foreign affairs, "commensurate with our present sacrifices"? Our population is about one-sixth that of the British Isles, one-eighth that of the white Empire, we are not under conscription and our naval contribution, as Premier Borden and his Nationalists have contrived it, is most meagre.

"Equality of citizenship" would seem to imply a small minority representation for us in the foreign counsels, and along with that a uniformity of taxation and military and naval liability among all parts of the Empire for imperial purposes. We are at present too "outlying." The News is very sorry to be a mere "colonial," living away out in Toronto.

The midst of the war is not a good time for discussion of a great problem in imperial construction. Let discussion be calm and deliberate, and nothing be said or done in precipitation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Britishers feel content to leave the result of the war to "The Haig."

Notice that the kaiser has not been publicly thanking the Almighty much recently?

It is said the mosquitoes at Camp Borden are so large they give great shooting practice.

Sarnia does not seem to consider it a waste of money to build really first-class public schools.

The kilt has come back, which is simply another way of saying that Sir Sam's mind has again performed an acrobatic "stunt."

It is from the British front that Germany dare not take a single man to help elsewhere. That "contemptible little army" is inspiring wholesome fear.

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS AT SLEEPY HOLLOW

The Domino Dimple

By Keith Kenyon.

Nettie Richardson had two hobbies. One was Jack Price and the other golf.

Although naturally athletic and proficient in most outdoor sports, there was more than mere pastime in golf for her this year. For she had set her heart on marrying Jack, and she was keen enough to see that the girl who got him would have to use drivers, putters and cleeks as the keys to his heart.

Jack held the record for the club's lowest score, which was only one of his superior qualities, for it would take at least ten adjectives to describe his eligibility. Indeed, he was very, very desirable.

Nettie was far and away the best looking girl in the club—and the best dressed. Moreover, she played excellent golf, for she was tall and muscular and her long-distance shots were wonderful.

A match was pending, a tournament for women, and Nettie felt that to carry off the laurels on this occasion would mean much in her campaign for matrimony. Jack liked her, she knew, and to win the cup in the coming match was about all that was needed now to force the citadel of his heart.

With so much depending on the result of Saturday's play, Nettie was practicing. One morning, at eight, her little road car turned in at the club gate and in fifteen minutes she was out on the course, looking her very best in her golf suit of shantung and a little sport hat to match.

Crack! The first shot whizzed past the marker and straight up the course nearly two hundred yards. The caddy ran on ahead and pulled out an iron for the next shot. He knew Nettie's preference as to clubs and was ready for her when she came. "That was a good one, Miss Richardson. Want this cleek or a brassie? They don't roll much in the morning with so much dew."

Nettie took the iron. "Pat, who is that person just starting down number two? Is she playing?"

A girl in a pink sunbonnet and a pink dress was plainly visible against the green background of the trees. The course doubled and one and two lay side by side, with only a narrow strip of rough between. The other girl, coming toward them, stopped and made a play. The ball went high and far. It landed close to Nettie and the caddy. He grinned. "I should say she is. Dandy shot, wasn't it?"

"I dunno! Mebbe."

"Or one of the maids at the club?"

"I don't think so—but mebbe."

"No, it can't be. They wouldn't dare. But—" she spoke in an undertone to herself—"some of these country people were allowed to take out memberships I've heard, or she might even be a summer boarder."

The girl came nearer and her face under the pink sunbonnet was now plainly visible. "No one I've seen before!" Nettie put on her haughtiest air, her stoniest stare, and—"addressed" her ball.

The girl stopped and watched the play. Caddying for herself, she had her bag slung over her shoulder. Nettie had had a good chance to see that she was pretty, very pretty, and that the pink linen dress and pink linen hat made sunbonnet style were not the millkmaid getup that she had at first supposed.

Nettie lifted the iron and let it come down ferociously. But something was wrong. She topped the ball and nearly twisted her wrist out of joint. She was furious. Why was that simpleton watching? It always fussed her to have any one standing around.

"It's almost too wet to play, isn't it?" called the pink girl, passing near toward her own ball.

Nettie answered not, but stalked majestically onward. She managed, however, to notice the splendid shot the other got under a bunker.

Nettie seemed to have lost her power of concentration, for the rest of the morning was bad. After playing eighteen holes, she went home hot, tired and in a dangerous humor.

But the prospect of dinner with a party at Sycamore Inn and a ride home with Jack through the moonlight gradually restored her spirits, and by evening she was quite herself, magnificent to look at, magnetically compelling.

"Does any one know who our new acquisition is at the club?" she asked in a conversational pause at the table. Every one was interested, but nobody knew. Then she related her experience of the morning, leaving out incidentally that the girl's shot beat her own.

"I believe you mean the girl I met on the course this afternoon," said Jack.

Nettie was instantly alert. She wasn't in pink, but she was a cracker-jack of a player and a peach for looks," he added enthusiastically.

"Some country girl, you may be sure," supplied Nettie. "They ought not to be allowed to play. I am going to call up Alex Harding about it."

The rest of the evening was spoiled. The ride she had counted on so much came to nothing. Although Jack was his usual attentive self, it seemed that something was lacking.

Once home, she looked into her mirror. "You are a fool if you let a silly little ninny of a country girl sidetrack you now. You've got to win that match on Saturday. Jack expects it and you've got to make good." Then a new thought struck her—an awful dawning that made her go pale. "Do you suppose that girl is practicing to qualify—that she will be in the match and perhaps defeat me? Heavens!"

Nettie didn't sleep and was up early practicing. An anxious week followed. She watched the score board to see if any new names had been turned in, but neither that nor the list of handicaps warned her of any formidable antagonist to be dreaded on Saturday.

Moreover, she did not see the pink girl again, nor did Jack mention her, so she hoped she had disappeared forever.

But at two o'clock on Saturday, when the players began to arrive, a new name had been placed on the board.

Katherine Hilton!

Eyebrows went up. No one knew the Hiltons were home after five years in England, but perhaps one of the girls might be staying with the old judge, whose estate was quite near!

Nettie consulted the handicap list. Her name was not there. "She'll get the maximum, twenty-four, I suppose!"

"No! Miss Hilton is playing scratch. No handicap!" said Bert Morton, coming up.

"What!" they exclaimed. "It's unheard of!"

"You know the rules!" went on Bert. "Medal play, individual scores deducting handicaps. Oh, how do you do, Miss Hilton? I'll have to introduce you anew to your old friends, I see, since you've grown up."

Nettie suddenly realized that Katherine Hilton was the pink girl and, moreover, she was poired to play with her. She tried to be civil, remembering her rudeness of Monday morning, but apparently the girl had forgotten, for she was pleasantly affable when they started off.

The scores were close, in fact, at the eleventh hole the girls were even, counting Nettie's handicap of four. Then they drove, Nettie first, then Katharine. It was down a slope and over the creek and both lost their balls! The caddies searched and Jack coming down from the tennis court helped.

"If I find mine," thought Nettie triumphantly, "and she doesn't, it will mean an extra count for her, for she'll have to take it over again!"

Then Jack found a ball. "Here's one," he cried, "beside these reeds in good shape for a drive. Whose is it? It's a Dimple—four black dots."

"Mine," cried both girls together.

"You must be mistaken," said Nettie quickly. "I was playing a new ball, four black dots, and it went down here just where Mr. Price is standing!"

"I was playing one, too!" said Katharine simply. "And I thought it came just about here!"

"I must win," thought Nettie. "I'm sure it's my ball," she insisted.

Jack looked from one girl to the other—the one that he had about decided that he would ask to be his life mate, the other whom he had seen only a few times, but who had stormed his heart. A sudden notion possessed him, for he was impulsive. "I believe," he said to himself deliberately, "that I will marry the girl who gives up that ball if she will have me."

Katharine flushed at Nettie's words, hesitated an instant, then stepped back. "Very well, please play, Miss Richardson. Here, caddy, give me another ball, please, and I'll go back and take it over."

"The fates have decided," breathed Jack.

WHAT I SEEN ON A CAR.

Dear J. H. F., I ain't no Bill,
Tho' king's own English I can kill,
But will you just a minute wait,
While I my troubles unto you relate?

My verses may be rather crude,
And into my lines too many feet intrude,
But this is neither here nor there,
Having myself only just got one pair.
(You should see 'em, folks.)

Even artists will have their jokes,
Just like a wheel has got so many spokes,
I couldn't find anything else with jokes to rhyme,
But I'll try to do better another time.

'Twas t'other day I got onto a street car,
Being it wasn't Sunday, and for me to walk the distance was too far.
The motor man he at a corner ups and stops,

If it wasn't for rhymes, I'd write poetry fine.
There she sits, looking cool, neat and sweet,
While there was I, panting with heat.

And there was that dame, dressed fit to make a man holler.
With weatherman sweltering at 98, by heck;
There was she with imitation ermine, whole animal, then some), round her neck.

Lots more I seen like her before I went home that day,
In muslin, both in white and in colors so gay,
Now tell me, J. H., why each didn't carry a muff?

The ways of the women did puzzle me fair,
But fur wrappings in dog days has me entirely beat,

IKEY.

A LITTLE BIT OF OIL RIGHT.

There's many an old dog who will join in a cheer
After reading your column today
And learning that castor oil has gone up in price;
They will pray that the figure may stay.

So high that that nauseous drug will become Obsolete as to use, for I swear
I can still taste some doses that were forced on me
When a child; and I don't think 'twas fair

For a couple of grownups to wheedle and tease
And to strive, by all sorts of guile,
To gather me into their clutches and then
To give me a dose of that 'il.

For it ended by my being seized and held fast,
Someone meanwhile pinching my nose
Until I was choked and black in the face,
And, to live, had to swallow the dose.

So here's to the man who boosted that oil
Till the price has gone clear out of sight;
We'd like to bestow on him the D. S. O.,
For we certainly think he's all right.

Salt Beads.—2 tablespoons common starch, ¼ cup of cold water, ½ cup table salt. Color the water good and deep and mix with starch; heat the salt good and hot and pour into the starch and mix thoroughly; let stand a few hours. (I don't know what for, because I think you will find you can form into beads right away). Form into beads and stick with hatpin, but don't leave on hatpin for salt rusts it. (For blue beads use blueing).

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Exchange of Coupons.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will "Peggy Douglas," who wrote to me quite a while ago, please answer a few questions for me through this column? It was very kind of you, dear "Peggy," to write me such a nice letter. I wrote to the doctor and now I would like you to let me know if your friends who were deaf were very deaf, also were the ear drums sunken? I am afraid to try the treatment for fear it makes me worse. I shall be looking for an answer soon and many thanks to you.

I, too, wonder where "Stranger" has gone. I guess she must have been trying to get a collection of stamps, as I never received a yoke pattern I wished to exchange with her. I sent my address and stamps. I also saw where another reader didn't receive her cosmos seeds.

I am inclosing a few tobacco coupons for you to distribute. I would like very much to get some Robin Hood oatmeal coupons. I remain as before,

VERY ANXIOUS.

Ans.—I wish that reader who was saving up tobacco coupons to get a sewing machine would send her address for these sent by "Very Anxious." I'll keep them for you.

And "Very Anxious," I've one R. H. coupon on hand. Would you like it? Hope you hear again from "Peggy Douglas."

Soldier Songs.

Dear Miss Grey,—I would like to get some songs: "Don't Take My Darling Boy Away," "Kiss Your Soldier Boy Good-bye," "I'll Not Forget You, Soldier." I have some songs which I will send in return. Wishing you and the Mail-Box the best of luck.

A READER.

Ans.—Well, "Reader," I haven't any of those songs on hand, but if they come for you, shall notify you in the Mail-Box. You should have stated what you had to exchange.

Wearing Tennis Shoes.

Dear Miss Grey,—Although I have never visited your Mail-Box before I thought I would drop in for a few minutes this time.

It is very seldom that I ever miss reading the letters.

I have come to ask a few questions.

1. Do you think a girl of eighteen too old to wear her hair down her back in a curl, with large bow on head. I am five feet five inches in height.

2. Do you think that tennis shoes spoil the shape of the foot, especially making them broader?

3. Would like to know if I could get from some of the Mail-Box readers some tobacco coupons, the kind that comes on the Stag tobacco and Queen's Navy. Would be very glad if I could get some, as I am saving them.

I would like very much to correspond with some of the readers. I would like to correspond with "Fairy Rose," but I do not live in London. Lastly, I would like to know what you think of my writing.

BASHFUL EIGHTEEN.

Ans.—1. If you wish to wear it in a girlish way, do so by all means.

2. Constant wearing of tennis or running shoes certainly encourages the foot to broaden. If just worn while playing the game they cannot do much harm though.

3. We don't want to encourage the use of tobacco, do we?—Especially of the "chewing" varieties. However, your request is made known.

Mars Her Beauty.

Dear Miss Grey,—Does a weak chin denote weakness or lack of character, or both?

Oh dear! I hope it doesn't mean both, because I certainly was behind the door when chins were handed out, and you have no idea how it mars one's beauty to have your mouth glide gracefully into your neck.

2. Which of Dickens' books do you prefer I just love "Bleak House," don't you?

3. What day did September 4, 1998 fall on?

4. Do you think bicycling for girls about seventeen will ever come in again? I have a bicycle and adore riding, but everyone looks at me as if I had two heads. However, it is too good to miss.

SHE COMES UP SMILING.

Ans.—Chin or no chin, you're a dear, I know, and ever so welcome to "come up smiling" into the Mail-Box. A receding chin is usually taken as indication of weak character, but, honestly, I don't believe it, (and I'm not saying this just to please you!) One of the most clever business girls I know is blessed (?) with a receding chin. She began her business career as a $6-a-week stenographer, but today is practically "private secretary" to the manager of a big business concern. There's certainly nothing wrong with her brain; she is a fine musician and has, I am sure, not a "colorless" character.

So, are you downhearted? NO!

2. Shake hands over "Bleak House." Once I got past the chancery court, I did indeed love the story of sweet Esther Summerson, and the kindly Mr. Jarndyce. But my preference is just divided a bit with "Our Mutual Friend," a Dickens' volume not seemingly as well known as other of his works. If you haven't read it, do so, and see if you don't like Bella and John, the "cherubs," and genial Mr. Boffins.

3. Guess you mean 1898,—a Monday.

4. The sport was an admirable one, and I too am sorry not to see it reviving. We'll have to keep on hoping.

READ YOUR FORTUNE AT THE TEA-TABLE

Tea-Cup Lore Is of Interest to Many Fair Maidens.

The following hints for reading "fortunes" by means of tea leaves or coffee grounds, given by "Sunshine E." at request of "Just Nineteen," will doubtless be appreciated by others:

A triangle denotes an unexpected journey.

The anchor, success in business if at the bottom of the cup, or success in love if at the top.

The moon (or crescent) denotes high honors, and if at the bottom of the cup, good fortune by land and water.

The letter denotes news; if surrounded by dots, contains money.

The tree points to lasting good health; several trees show your wishes will come true; if surrounded by dots, you will make your fortune where you are.

The clover leaf is very lucky. If found all by itself, serene and undisturbed happiness; if surrounded by clouds, it shows the presence of disagreeable things to mar the happiness.

VERSE--New and Old

A BRAVE IRISH MOTHER.

(To "Aunt Nannie.")

(No signature was attached to this, which reached Miss Grey, with the army postoffice stamp and censor's mark on the envelope. It is a bit of verse that will be treasured by many.)

I hear the boys go marchin' an' a whistlin' down the sthreet,
An' loud I cheer—some folks may gape, but sorra a bit I mind—
I'm thinking of their mothers an' the frinds they lave behind.

I rimimber, too, it's proud I was at the sight me own eyes seen,
Whin the hefty sons of Erin passed, aich wearin' of the green.
From Donegal to Cork they kem, from Down to Kerry's shore.

'Tis twinty year nex' Candlemas since the day me boy was born,
Whin I fought through slow, dark hours for the joy that kem wid morn;
An' och, the darlint ways o' him, an' the tindher heart had he—
I niver dhramed at all, at all, he'd be afther lavin' me!

But whin the CALL kem Dan replied. Shure, I'm glad he did his part,
Though it's impty is the ould house now, an' imptier still me heart;
It sames but yistherday a babe he snuggled to me breast—
An' it's now he lies in Flandhers wid those other boys—at rest!

'Twill be harrd to walk alone, asthore, an' ye not by to know.

Ye'll not see the flowers ye loved, machree, nor hear the swate burd's song
(Though the lennet that ye gev me will be singin' all day long);
But o' nights I think, as Hivin's jewels gleam, the same stars shine, maybe,
On that lonely grave in Flandhers that meself will niver see.

An' sthill I hear the boys march by an' I cheer thim as they go,
But meself will pray the blissid saints to guard thim day an' night,
An' comfort all whose dear wans for the cause of honor fight

Though, ochone, it's weary are the days in the lonely Irish homes!
So I'll kape a cheerful courage—'tis so little I can do—
For the sake of other mothers who'll have sons in Flandhers, too.

PATRIOTIC MASS MEETING

Women's Grand Rally Tuesday Next.

An opportunity will be given the women of London and throughout the military district to manifest their devotion to the cause of the Empire and their willingness to do their bit in the war crisis through their attendance in large numbers of the grand mass meeting called by the Women's Emergency Corps of No. 1 Military District in the Masonic Temple next Tuesday evening, July 11, at 8 o'clock.

Similar grand rallies of women have in the past few weeks been held in Toronto and Hamilton, Massey Hall being crowded to overflowing in the former city.

In both places Col. Mulloy, professor of history in the Royal Military College, Kingston, was one of the chief speakers whose address on each occasion aroused greatest enthusiasm. The Women's Emergency Corps has been fortunate in securing Col. Mulloy for the London meeting, and also Mrs. Willoughby Cummings of Toronto, one of the best known of Canadian women through her long association with progressive movements, and a prime mover in the organization of the Emergency Corps of No. 2 Military District.

Col. Mulloy was shot blind while at the front in the South African war sixteen years ago and subsequently took his degree at Baliol College, Oxford.

In preparation for the big rally publicity meetings have been held in the majority of the churches of the city, these gatherings called by the ministers of the various churches, who have in this manner given valuable assistance to the Emergency Corps in placing its aims before the patriotic women of London.

Interest in the movement has awakened to such an extent outside of the city in Western Ontario that instead of asking for meetings the corps has been kept busy finding speakers to fill the requests sent in from district Women's Institute conventions and other gatherings.

While the meeting is called primarily by the Women's Emergency Corps for the purpose of making more clear to women the ways in which they may play their part in winning the war, and also of impressing upon them the serious responsibility devolving upon the womanhood of Canada, it is hoped that men will also attend in large numbers and show their appreciation of the readiness of their wives, mothers, sisters, daughters and sweethearts also to serve, if not overseas, on the firing line at home.

AN APPEAL TO THE SOLDIERS' WIVES.

Many of our brave soldiers have returned and are returning now from the war, wounded, and with nerves shattered, requiring for their restoration months, and perhaps a year or two, of open-air life. I am making an appeal to the wives to prepare for this contingency, by starting, wherever it is possible, vegetable and fruit gardens, raising poultry or keeping bees; in fact, anything which gives open-air life and light employment. It can be made remunerative. After a period of rest at the convalescent homes, the returned wounded husbands could take up this life for a while, leaving, when necessary, the wives to find other employment to "keep the pot boiling." The Belgian men and women, before the war, made a great success of small intensive farms or plots, utilizing every inch of land. So why should not our Canadian women and their convalescent husbands do the same?

Not long ago I visited in the province of Quebec two young Irishwomen, daughters of a rector, in a country district, having no money but what their father's small salary would allow them. They decided to try raising poultry as a means of livelihood. They were given by a parishioner one hen and eight chickens as a beginning. With careful study, books, magazines and occasional written instructions from an expert poultry instructor, they succeeded so well that in two years they cleared $500 on poultry alone, chiefly from selling hatching eggs. They were careful, intelligent women, not afraid of work, in fact, doing everything themselves from whitewashing and cleaning the poultry sheds to feeding the birds. The feeding required especial care, in case something would be given which would cause tuberculosis. Their success was heard of, and they were asked to take positions on the poultry staff of Macdonald Agricultural College. It is said that the Belgian Government intends asking Canada and the allied countries to assist her farmers by sending them eggs for hatching, and also fowl. Why not be prepared to supply them, and could some of the returned soldiers and their wives not consider it as an occupation for a few years at least?

Detroit Lands In Soft Spot at Last

Have No Difficulty in Getting Away With Connie Mack's Aggregation—Ty Cobb Makes Up for His Three Days' Suspension.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Detroit easily defeated the Athletics today 9 to 4. The home twirlers were wild and were hit hard and were poorly supported. Cobb made two infield hits, stole three bases, scored three runs and made a sensational one-hand catch of a drive by Lajoie.

YANKS STILL CLIMBING.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Yankees celebrated its return from a successful western trip and won an uphill game from Chicago today by a score of 4 to 3. The visitors started off with three runs in the first inning, but the Yankees came back with two runs in their half and tied the score in the third inning. New York won in the seventh inning, when Gideon opened with a single and scored on Nunamaker's double.

BOEHLING IS EFFECTIVE.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Washington won from St. Louis 2 to 1 today by knocking Wellman out of the box in the second inning. Davenport stopped further scoring. St. Louis could do nothing with Boehling. Manager Griffith, who was suspended last Friday for participating in disorder at the game with Boston, was reinstated today.

RED SOX WIN IN NINTH.

BOSTON, July 6.—Boston won from Cleveland in the ninth inning today, Barry smashing the first ball pitched to deep left field and sending Scott in with the run that made the score 6 to 5 in the locals' favor.

Up to the eighth inning the Red Sox appeared to have the game safely in hand, but Speaker doubled in that session, scoring Wambsganss, who had walked, Speaker tallying the tieing run while Scott and Hoblitzel were making a double-play.

Four Thousand Dollars Will Be Hung Up in Purses.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WOODSTOCK, July 6.—For the first time in years Woodstock is back on the Canadian racing circuit, and have been allotted Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week for their dates. This city at one time was the best racing town in Canada, and it is good news to the lovers of the harness horse to see the city would put on the racing map. Nearly all the horses which raced at London and Tillsonburg have entered. Four thousand dollars will be hung up in purses, and the meet promises successful. Woodstock is already getting in shape for the banner event in sporting circles. Some of the horses have already arrived. There is splendid accommodation, the barns having just been constructed last fall. They are box stalls, and there is accommodation for two or more horses.

In the open trot or pace on the last day the following entries have already been received: Grand Opera, Hal B. Jun., Little Alf., Texas Jim and Yedding.

CENTENNIALS WIN FROM MARCONIS BY 12 TO 8

A fast and interesting game of baseball was played last night in Queen's Park, when the Centennials beat the Marconi Club by a score of 12—8.

Leo Chamberlain, Centennial's new pitcher, had thirteen strike outs to his credit. The Marconis tried in vain to put it over on the snappy little team, but the excellent support afforded Chamberlain proved too much for them.

CUBS GET HERZOG

Chicago, July 7.—Chas. Herzog, manager and shortstop of the Cincinnati Reds, is to become a member of the Chicago National League team, according to a story published here today. It was known that the Cubs have wanted a shortstop for some time, and it is said that the deal for Herzog will be closed within the next 24 hours.

The price which the Cubs are to pay is not given, but it is said to be a large amount of money and one or two ball players.

The Giants are off on another western trip, and appear to have left their jinx behind, jumping on the Pirates for the opening victory.

Yesterday's defeat by the Tigers made the ninth straight loss for the Athletics. From the way they are going they will probably make it ninety.

Pitcher Jean Dale has been indefinitely suspended by President Garry Herman of the Cincinnati Reds. Dale, who was formerly with the Montreal Royals, disobeyed orders to remain in Cincinnati and went to his home in St. Louis. He declares he is through with baseball.

Manager Clark Griffith of the Washington Baseball Club has exchanged Henry Rondeau to the Minneapolis American Association club for Merito Acosta, the Cuban outfielder. Acosta will take his place on the Washington line-up on Saturday or Monday.

A monster stadium and athletic field are being built at Camp Borden for the use of the troops in training there. The stadium, which is to be a simple arrangement of seats on the level with a raised stage or ring, is designed to accommodate from 15,00 to 20,000, while the race track will have a circumference of a third of a mile. The entire field will be enclosed by a nine-foot wall.

Study of the batting averages of players of the two major circuits up to July 1, of the current year, and a comparison with their records on the same date last season reveals that the heavy artillery of the younger body is shooting more consistently than that of the National League.

Of the leading batters in the senior association this season but three are found in that group of a year ago. Wagner of Pittsburg, who is fifth at present, was close to 100 points below his 1916 average a year ago, and Hal Chase, then with the Buffalo Club of the Federal League, was hitting fifty points below his form with Cincinnati on the first of the month.

The averages for the past and present seasons, together with the positions held in the batting lists for both years, are shown in the following tables:

ELMWOOD CLUB WILL HOLD TOURNAMENT TONIGHT

Will Commence at 7:45 o'Clock—Big Turnout Expected.

The usual Friday night tournament will be held at the Elmwood Club tonight, commencing at 7:45 o'clock.

This week the players will all be classified before the draw, and will play the same positions throughout the evening. Owing to the Dominion Day tournament being held last Saturday there was no Friday night tournament last week.

The South London greens are becoming more popular with the bowlers every week, and Secretary Charles Spieran expects one of the largest crowds of the season out tonight.

HAL B. JUN. BREAKS THE TRACK RECORD AT TILLSONBURG

Goes Heat in 2:09 3-4, Making Last Half in 1:03.

JEAN T. RUNS AWAY

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TILLSONBURG, July 6. — Favorites had it all their own way at the driving park on the closing day of the meet, winning both races in straight heats.

In the 2:18 trot Sarah Douglas was the favorite, and after the first heat the result was never in doubt, as she simply walked away from the rest of the field. In the second heat of the 2:18 pact Mona Bars crashed into Jean T.'s sulky, throwing both riders, who luckily escaped any serious injuries, there being no horses behind. Mona Bars was stopped, but Jean T. went around the track five times on the run before she was finally stopped by her driver, Esson. All Ablaze had second place in the heat, but turned out to let the runaway horse by on the homestretch, and Saratell stepped in for second place. Owing to the accident being entirely unavoidable, Mona Bars and Jean T. were given fifth and sixth positions in the heat.

Between the first and second heat the driver of the water-wagon turned too short, throwing the horses on their sides, and digging a large hole in the track. After some difficulty the horses were released, and 20 minutes' recess was allowed to repair the track, and afterwards the pole horse had to trail over six feet to miss the bad spot. The driver was badly shaken up, but went on with his work.

In the free-for-all Hal B. Jun. beat the track record of 2:10 by going the second heat in 2:09¾, and the last half-mile in 1:03. In the first heat Grand Opera chased Hal B. Jun. all the way, only losing by a margin.

The sceond heat was the most wonderful track race ever witnessed in the town. The field got away to a beautiful start, and the first time around Hal B. Jun. was going for all that was in him. It looked as if the books would suffer a heavy break, but Texas Jim failed to come under the wire ahead, and the big meet was all over for another year.

So enthusiastic were the officers of the meet at the grand success it had been, both in horses and spectators, that they announced from the stand that next season a five-day meet would be put on, with several stakes of $1,000 and upwards, thereby securing the best horses in America for the meet. Never in the history of racing has Tillsonburg experienced such large crowds and fine racing. The horses ship for Woodstock tomorrow for a three-day meet on July 11, 12 and 13. A running race will be an added attraction each day.

Cheerful as the June Sun

So many homes lack proper heating that it is often thought houses must either be cold in winter or hot and stuffy. Yet the heating of a home can be like the natural warmth of June—the air as warm, as healthfully humid, as fresh and pure.

The Sunshine Furnace radiates the healthful heat of the sun. Pure air is sent evenly over the house, warm, fresh—and clean. The dust and fine ashes, so often seen whenever most furnaces are shaken down, never get out of the Sunshine Furnace.

Dry air not necessary

The Sunshine Furnace supplies air as balmy as summer. This comes from a large water pan so located that it can be refilled easily.

Firing up and closing the dampers of the Sunshine Furnace does not send coal gas into the house. The volume of gas freed from the new coal is drawn off up the chimney. The Sunshine not only keeps the whole house warm and cosy, but continually circulates clear, pure air.

McClary's Sunshine Furnace

The Sunshine does not cost you more than many furnaces that are not as good. Our Heating Engineer will tell you what a thorough heating system for your home will cost. More than that, he will tell you, without charge or obligation, how to plan your heating system so as to get the most out of it with the least expenditure. If you send the coupon to-day we will send you our booklet "Sunshine." At the same time, ask for special information about heating your own house.

Kindly send me without expense on my part:—

1. Your booklet on the Sunshine Furnace.

2. Also forms for filling out, so that your heating engineers can tell me how to order and install a system that will properly heat my home.

ALLIED ARMIES PREPARING FOR A NEW THRUST

LITERAL FLOOD OF FIRE

No Halt in Shelling on Any Part of British Front.

LONDON, July 7.—12:10 a.m.—Reuter's correspondent at the Press camp of the British army in France sends the following dispatch under date of July 6:

"The impetuous forward movement of the Allies has been checked, but certainly not arrested. The allied armies are busily consolidating their gains and drawing a deep breath in readiness for the next mighty thrust. In the meantime they are battering, bombing and bayoneting the enemy by night and day with the most effective results.

"The fighting is reminiscent of the Verdun battle, with the important distinction that the position is reversed, and that the enemy has no such line upon line of fortified positions to retreat upon in the face of our smashing blows, as the French have had defending their great fortress. At any moment the weakest link in the chain may snap and the broken ends fly apart.

Enemy Straining Every Nerve.

"The enemy is straining every nerve, but is being attacked as never before. From the coast to the trenches of Northern France our flowing streams of khaki are pouring in a literal flood of fire on the enemy.

"Modern warfare is terrible and no offensive is possible without the exaction of a dreadful toll.

"Many of our regiments suffered heavily as they advanced almost without cover in the face of a murderous enemy fire, the machine guns in particular wreaking awful havoc. We must face the truth bravely of the heavy price we must pay and the nation must brace itself to the inexorable penalty."

Official Statement.

The British official statement issued tonight reads:

"As a result of violent bomb fighting we made further progress at certain points in the main battle area. Low clouds interfered with aeroplane work, but in the Bapaume area one of our machines, dropping to three hundred feet, successfully bombed a train from which German reinforcements were alighting.

"In another area a British heavy battery secured direct hits on a German battery and a battalion in column, inflicting many casualties.

"Later details of the raid made by the Royal Welsh Fusiliers show that three enemy mine shafts were destroyed and that, excluding 43 prisoners brought back, the Germans suffered about 150 casualties."

GERMANY ADMITS LOSSES ON WEST.

BERLIN, July 6.—Via London.—Between the Ancre brook and the River Somme, and in the region south of the river, says today's German official statement, fighting continues. Minor progress made by British troops near Thiepval, it is added, was balanced by counter-attacks. Further to the south the British succeeded in obtaining a firm foothold in an advanced trench salient.

The headquarters staff announces that the small village of Hem in the Somme valley, has been evacuated by the Germans.

Belloy-En-Santerre, southwest of Peronne, has been captured by the French. The fighting around Estrees, it is added, has come to a standstill.

French troops yesterday made an attack along a narrow front in the Aisne district to the south of Ville-Aux-Bois, northwest of Rheims, the official statement says. The attack was not successful and cost the French serious losses.

FRENCH AND FOE EACH GAIN WOODS.

PARIS, July 6.—Last night was generally quiet north and south of the River Somme, says today's official statement of the war office.

There were a few local engagements north of the Somme during the night, in which the Germans captured two small woods a kilometre north of Hem. The French also captured a wood.

South of the Somme the night passed quiet. A German counter-attack on Belloy was repulsed easily.

The French have captured 76 cannon and several hundred machine guns.

There was no infantry fighting on the Verdun front. The war office says the Germans are attempting to bombard the cathedral at Verdun.

GRAND CIRCUIT MEETING AT PITTSBURG.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 6.—The Grand Circuit harness meeting scheduled for Grand Rapids the second week in August has been transferred to Pittsburg. Sprinkling of calcium chloride on the track at Comstock Park here, in preparation for the 100-mile automobile race Saturday, has made the turf unfit for a harness race this season.

LIBERALS' CHOICE IN NORTH PERTH HAS STRONG HOLD

F. Wellington Hay Is Most Popular Man.

EX-MAYOR OF LISTOWEL

Believes Every Man Should Devote Time to Interests of Community.

STRATFORD, July 6.—When the riding on North Perth became vacant by the resignation of Mr. James Torrance, who has since been appointed collector of customs for the port of Stratford, and the Liberals were face to face with the question of selecting a candidate whose daily principles might in every respect coincide with those of his distinguished leader, N. W. Rowell, the unanimous choice of the nominating convention was F. Wellington Hay, ex-mayor of Listowel, and one of the most popular and highly-respected men in the riding.

It is doubtful if another could be found who would carry the banner of Liberalism with greater distinction and who would represent North Perth in the Legislature with more dignity and attention to the needs of the province as a whole and the district from which he was elected.

Native of Listowel.

Mr. Hay is a native of Listowel, where he has resided all his life. The Hay family has long been associated with the advancement of the progressive northern town, and the present candidate has on various occasions been accorded public testimony of the confidence of the people in him. Believing strongly that every man should find time to devote some of his energy towards the welfare of his community in a public manner, Mr. Hay became a candidate and was elected to the municipal council. He was later elected to the chair of the chief magistrate, which he filled with credit to himself and benefit to the municipality.

Made Good Run.

In 1908 he was Liberal candidate and though defeated, he made a favorable impression by his intellectual discussion of public affairs. In this contest he succeeded in reducing Mr. Torrance's majority considerably. Mr. Hay if elected would not be a factious opponent of the Government any more than is Mr. Rowell, but his election would be a fitting rebuke to a Government which has assumed that because Mr. Torrance was elected two years ago by a large majority under exceptional circumstances that the riding belonged to the Conservatives.

Is Widely Known.

In every day life Mr. Hay is an extensive dealer in grain, and his operations in this respect have made him widely known throughout the western part of the province. He, with his brother, have built up a reputation for success and integrity that should be a valuable asset.

He is a fluent speaker, and this coupled with his intelligent grasp of public flairs, would make him a calculable asset to the Legislature and to Mr. Rowell's band of followers in that House.

TO TRAIN GUNS ON ENEMY'S RESERVES, IS ALLIED SCHEME

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—Commenting on the situation on the Somme, Marcel Hutin, the military expert of the Echo De Paris, writes:

"Our armies will not endeavor to press further forward until the disorganization of the enemy be judged sufficient."

By this he means that sufficient German reserves have not yet been drawn into the conflict. These strong bodies, usually stationed at the rear of the front battle zone, must be wiped out by artillery if not by infantry, before the next large forward stride can be taken, M. Hutin continues:

"It is also necessary that our brave British allies, on their side of the battlefront, shall come to a level with us. They are holding with force all the positions which they have conquered, and we are assured of new conquests by a stroke of their artillery.

"Never has the cohesion between the French and British action been greater than now. I for my part am convinced that the Germans will soon abandon that part of the front held by the troops of Sir Douglas Haig."

Under Gen. Foch, now commander of the French troops of the Somme, is Gen. Fayolle, famous as an artillery expert.

BUECK DEAD.

The Hague, Via London, July 7.—Henry Axel Bueck, who was Bismarck's adviser when he abandoned free trade and inaugurated his campaign for the establishment of national industries, is dead at Berlin. He was 86 years of age.

S. S. GANNET SUNK.

London, July 7—12:28 p.m.—The British steamship Gannet of London has been sunk. She was unarmed.

The Gannet was 245 feet long, 1,112 tons gross, and was built at Stockton in 1879.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 7.—The work of sorting the booty taken by the French troops in the fighting at the Somme brings to light many curious facts. In the Mereaucourt woods a heavy German battery was found completely dismounted. The battery commander's shelter alone remained intact.

The luxury of the arrangements in the German positions on the Santerre plateau showed that they were considered impregnable. In the positions occupied by the battery mentioned were a piano, a brass bedstead and a complete hot and cold water supply.

The greatest booty fell to Gen. Balfourier's famous "Iron Corps," which distinguished itself at Verdun. This corps took enough material to set up a whole army.

FRENCH ACCOMPLISH A NOTABLE FEAT IN FORMING NEW FRONT

Solid Line Established in New Positions.

PARIS, July 6.—6:30 p.m.—The French offensive along the Somme has made steady progress so that the left of the advance now rests on Hardecourt and right on Estrees, while the entire intervening front has been transformed within the last four days from one of irregular lines that exposed some positions to a flanking fire, into a homogenous line without fissures or dangerous wedges.

The solidity of this front is in marked contrast with the front in the battles of the Champagne and the Artois, the irregularity of which permitted of a heavy cross fire being brought to bear upon the more advanced points. That part of the present front facing Peronne has the classic form of two echelons on two sides of Peronne, which is said to be the only one of the well-known dispositions laid down in ancient tactics that has survived the revolutionizing developments of the present war.

The right of this formation is protected by a defensive curve that united the new front with the old line. Tacticians declare the manoeuvres that accomplished this formation constituted one of the most notable strategic phases of the war.

German Counter-Attacks.

Violent counter-attacks by the Germans on the French lines on both banks of the Somme were repulsed, with heavy losses to the attackers, according to the official statement issued by the French war office tonight. The text of the statement fololws:

"On both sides of the Somme the enemy endeavored today to recapture the two ends of the line held by the French.

"North of the Somme a series of German counter - attacks, directed against our new lines north of the village of Hem, were successively shattered by our artillery, without the enemy being able to obtain the least success. We took some prisoners.

Enemy Losses Heavy.

"South of the river counter-attacks launched by the Germans from Berny-en-Santerre on our positions between Estrees and Belloy, were stopped by our barrage fire, and the enemy was unable to debouch from his trenches. In this region the Germans suffered great losses. Two companies, caught in a trench northwest of Berny by the enfilading fire of our mitrailleuses, were annihilated.

"On the left bank of the Meuse the activity of the artillery on both sides continues in the sector of Chattancourt. On the right bank of the river the enemy violently bombarded the Fumin wood, Le Laufee, and our emplacements at Damloup. North of Lamorville a salvo from our batteries exploded a German munitions plant.

"A group of our aviators dropped a number of shells last night on the railroad from Ham to Nesle. Fires broke out in the railroad stations at Ham and Voyennes. The railroad was damaged at several places."

Belgian communication:

"The German artillery has shown little activity on the front of the Belgian army, except in the region of Steenstratecte. At this point the continued success of our destructive fire provoked an artillery duel, which was terminated in our favor."

KING CONSTANTINE ORDERED FORCE TO RESIST THE ENTENTE

Persuaded Against Rash Act by Zaimis and Prince Nicholas.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 7.—The Morning Post's Athens correspondent, in a mailed dispatch, referring to the threat uttered by M. Skouloudis, then premier, when interviewed by an Italian correspondent to resist the demand of the Allies, says:

"This resistance was actually prepared with the king's personal sanction, and on the day the ultimatum was handed in the same government which at 1 p.m. returned this document to the allied legations on the ground that the cabinet had already resigned, and, therefore, was no longer competent to receive it, at 2 p.m. ordered out a force of infantry and artillery to repel an Anglo-French landing at Phalerum and Piraeus.

"It is difficult to imagine a more demented act with troops in the offing and ships ready to support their landing. Fortunately for King Constantine and his dynasty, M. Zaimis, on the one hand, and Prince Nicholas on the other, persuaded his majesty in time to abandon this senseless plan of his 'responsible' advisers, and give his unconditional acceptance of the Allies' demands."

U. S. ARMY REFUSES TO SIGN DESERTERS

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 7.—The World this morning publishes a special from Buffalo which says:

Despite the fact that scores of Americans are deserting the Canadian army to cross the border and enlist with the United States forces, regular army recruiting officers at Niagara Falls, where most of the men come into the country, are refusing to sign up the deserters. They await orders from Washington, the officers say.

HALF MILLION HUNS WIPED OUT IN WAR WITH THE RUSSIANS

Advance of Months Cripples Germans and Austrians.

PRISONERS REACH 235,000

[Canadian Press Cable.]

PETROGRAD, via London, July 6.—10:05 p.m.—Nearly half a million Austrians and Germans have been put out of commission since Gen. Brusiloff began his great advance a month ago today. The grand total of prisoners to date is in round numbers 235,000, of which 4,500 are officers.

Without the actual figures regarding the dead and wounded, careful estimates by military experts, based on the best information, places the latter at 200,000 to 220,000. The Austrians predominate overwhelmingly among the prisoners, but among the dead and wounded it is said that a fairly large percentage are Germans. The German losses in stopping the Russian advance on Kovel and in counter-attacks made in solid ranks were enormous.

Booty Is Enormous.

The booty captured reaches incalculable figures. It is figured that 250 guns of various sizes and upwards of 700 machine guns is a conservative estimate. In addition, vast quantities of munitions, supplies and transports have fallen into the hands of the Russians.

The success of General Letchitzky's advance west of Kolomea, where he has cut the railroad into Hungary at Mikuliczyn, is emphasized as a new body blow to the Austrian defence of East Galicia. Northwest of Kolomea his troops are within ten miles of Nadworna, well to the rear of the Austrian right flank facing Tarnopol between the Stripa and Zlota Lipa rivers.

German Lines Broken.

On the extreme right flank of Brusiloff's front the Russians are viciously attacking the Germans at Czartorysk and Kolki. They have broken through several lines of the enemy's fortifications here, threatening the flank of the German positions before Lutsk. These successes have considerably lessened the pressure on the Russian centre in that district.

Another interesting situation is developing at Baronovichi, where the advance of the Russian offensive has brought their heavy guns within reach of that important railway junction.

NEW SUCCESSES FOR RUSSIANS.

PETROGRAD, July 6.—Via London, 10 p.m.—The official communication from general headquarters issued today reads:

"South of the Pinsk marshes we had important new successes yesterday. In the region of Kostioukhovka, we captured an entire enemy battery, and took prisoner 22 officers and 350 soldiers.

"Northwest of Raznitchy, on the Styr, north of Kolki, we yesterday captured two cannon, three machine guns and 2,300 prisoners. North of Stegrouziatine we captured enemy trenches, and took more than 300 prisoners and one machine gun.

"Between the Styr and the Stokhod, west of Sokul, and southward, the enemy launched vain counter-attacks, under the protection of artillery.

Victory in Galicia.

"In Galicia, after intense artillery preparations, we took an energetic offensive west of the Lower Stripa, and on the right bank of the Dniester. The enemy was defeated and driven back. Our troops are approaching the Koropice and Sousodolek Rivers, tributaries of the Dniester. We took here yesterday nearly 5,000 prisoners and eleven machine guns. We lost the brave Capt. Bogolioubsky, killed in action.

"In the course of an attack on the village of Vertniki, the Germans received our troops with liquid fire. Owing to their conduct we put all the Germans to the bayonet when we captured the village. We took prisoner in this region more than 1,000 men. At one point in this action our Crimean Tartars charged the enemy and put him to flight.

"Yesterday a band of twenty Cossacks swam the Dniester near Doline, and took prisoner on the right bank five officers and 108 soldiers. They captured a cannon.

Attacks About Riga.

"In the region of Riga the Germans launched counter-attacks against a position which we had captured from them, and our troops retired to their former positions, taking with them prisoners and arms.

"On the Dvina front and the Dvinsk positions, and farther south, there has been lively artillery fire at numerous points.

"Near Boyare, on the Dvina above Friedrichstadt, our light artillery smashed a German light battery. Attempts by the Germans to remove the guns were unsuccessful. The gun team, which endeavored to save one, was annihilated. All the guns were eventually abandoned.

"In the direction of Baronovichi the fighting continues, developing to our advantage. The enemy delivered repeated counter-attacks in order to regain positions captured by us, but each was easily repulsed.

"Between Monday and Wednesday we captured altogether 78 officers and about 3,040 men.

On Caucasus Front.

"Caucasus front: In the region of Platana our troops are progressing. Between the Taurus and Tchoruk we repulsed enemy counter-attacks and drove back a Turkish attack on Tchoruk itself, where our men carried an enemy work on the heights. In their attacks the Turks used asphyxiating gas bombs.

"In the region of Baiburt, where some enemy positions were carried, we captured a large quantity of arms, cartridges, grenades and other war material.

"In the direction of Diarbekr, in the eastern Euphrates Valley, our forces attacked with the bayonet Turks who took the offensive at dawn and drove them westward, leaving over one hundred dead."

AUSTRIANS ADMIT SEVERE DEFEAT.

VIENNA, via London, July 6—10:28 p.m.—A defeat for the Austrians, in which they were driven back nearly five miles on the Delatyn-Kolomea road, is officially admitted in the statement issued by the Austrian war office today. The text of the statement follows:

"Near Sadzadka the enemy with superior forces was successful in penetrating our positions. We now occupy a line extending five miles to the west, where we repulsed all attacks.

"Southwest and northwest of Kolomea we maintained our positions against all enemy efforts.

"Southwest of Buczacz, after heavy fighting at Koropice Brook, we recaptured our line. There was desperate fighting yesterday at the bend of the River Styr, north of Kolki, with varying results."

TEUTON LINES "TRANSFERRED."

BERLIN, July 6.—Via London.—After repeated Russian attacks on positions held by troops of General Count Von Bothmer along one sector of the front in Galicia had been repulsed, the Teutonic lines were partially transferred to a neighboring sector, the war office announced today.

"Army group of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg:

"Southeast of Riga and at many points of the front between Postavy and Wischniew, further partial attacks by the Russians were repulsed. Southeast of Riga, 50 men were taken prisoners during a counter-attack.

"Army group of Prince Leopold:

"Extremely fierce fighting, especially in the region east of Worodische and south of Darovo, was everywhere in our favor. The losses of the Russians were very considerable.

"Army group of General Von Linsingen: The battles at Koszczuchnowka and in the neighborhood of Kolki have not yet been concluded.

"Army group of General Von Bothmer: On the front of the Barysz sector the defense, after the repulse of repeated enemy attacks, was partially transferred to the Koropiec sector. Russian assaults frequently broke down before the German lines on both sides of Chocimirz, southeast of Tlumach."

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

[Toilet Helps.]

You can keep your skin free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone, and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs, and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.—Advt.

MILITARY EXPERT SAYS GERMANS HAVE BEST OF STRUGGLE

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, July 6—Via London, July 7.—The military correspondent of the Zeitung Am Mittag, commenting on the war situation, writes: "The fighting on all fronts is increasing in extent and violence. The enemy everywhere is attempting to throw fresh troops into the struggle which seems to be approaching nearer and nearer its maximum intensity. The mightiest exertions are being made on all sides to force a decision, and the tension can scarcely become higher."

After summarizing the official reports from the various theatres of war, the correspondent continues:

"It still is too early for a final verdict upon the situation, as the struggles on the principal fronts still are in progress. The Germans, however, hitherto have been able to hold up the enemy's advance on the west as well as on the south and east. Neither British, French, Russians or Italians have attained large or decisive successes while, in places where the central powers have assumed the offensive as in Volhynia and south of the Dniester, their operations have been conducted with success.

"Calm Confidence."

"This situation enables us to look forward with a certain amount of assurance and with calm confidence to further developments of the fighting. We do not dare, however, to overlook the fact that our opponents are making mighty efforts and are throwing in all available forces to attain success. Our troops on all the fronts are faced by numerically superior and therefore are confronted with the prospect of further heavy fighting."

The correspondent devotes comparatively more space to the combats on the east front than to those on the west, declaring that the Russian attacks against Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Prince Leopold and Count Bothmer, give every evidence, from the extent and masses of the troops employed that an offensive on a large scale is contemplated. He adds that the fighting along Von Hindenburg's front still is in progress, but asserts that the attack against Prince Leopold's armies appears to have been finally and decisively repulsed with the heaviest losses.

The fighting continues on the upper Styr, he says, and the Russians were able to cross the river, and gain a foothold in one place, but the counter-attack already has begun. The Russians were thrown back in Volhynia and on the Strypa front, he concludes, and the victory at Tlumach, south of the Dniester, is increasing in extent.

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams" or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through regenerative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and bust disappear and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. All leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

If you find a druggist who is unable to supply you, send $1 money order or registered letter to the National Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine street, Montreal, and a complete ten days' treatment will be sent you postpaid, in plain wrapper.

NOTE—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.—Advt.

LLOYD GEORGE NAMED FOR WAR SECRETARY; DERBY ASSISTANT

LONDON, July 6.—6 p.m.—David Lloyd George has been appointed secretary for war.

Sir Edward Grey, the secretary of state for foreign affairs, has had an earldom conferred upon him.

STRATFORD COUNCIL WILL EMPLOY ONLY LABOR FROM CITY

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATFORD, July 6.—Recommendation by the board of works that it be permitted to seek labor from wherever possible for the $90,000 main sewer caused a spirited discussion at a special council meeting tonight. The outcome was the defeat of the recommendation and the passing of a resolution that when the work is done local labor be employed.

The understanding when the bylaw was passed by ratepayers was that local labor should be used, but this is now impossible. Only three replies came to a call for fifty men.

It was urged that existing conditions left the city liable should an epidemic occur, but the majority of the council felt that the work could stand until the war was over, unless local labor could be secured.

GERMANY FEARS CONFLICT WITH UNITED STATES

Not Likely to Resume Submarine Activity, Is Press Report.

BERLIN, via London, July 6.—Recent inquiries by the Associated Press in authoritative quarters indicate that the German Government for the present has no intention of resuming the "freedom of action" on the sea mentioned in the May note and of provoking conflict with the United States.

One reason for this decision which tends to become stronger the longer the war is continued is the desire to avoid any new measures tending to prolong the war. Another is based on the conviction that the faith of the present administration now is so closely bound up with the submarine issue that a reversal of policy would entail opposition from wide, influential groups of political leaders and powerful personages in the administration.

WILL CELEBRATE PEACE

Great Demonstration To Be Held in Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 6, via London.—The Aalborg Nord Jilland says that in the first year after the ending of the war a great international peace celebration is to be held in the Raebild Hills near Aalborg.

The initiative in this movement is said by this newspaper to have been taken by Dr. Max Henius of Chicago, president of the Association of Danish-Americans. Representative persons of all countries are to be invited. According to this account, Dr. Henius is to receive financial assistance from Henry Ford, who is to pay the expenses of 2,000 Americans whom he will invite to attend the celebration.

POPULATION RISING.

BRANTFORD, July 6.—There are in Brantford Township this year 102 more male persons than there were last year. In 1915 the male population was 1,692, while it is now 1,794. Despite the heavy enlistment which has taken place throughout the township, the population has increased by 99. A large percentage of Brantford Township land is cleared; 64,969 acres are cleared, and this is an increase of 150 acres. During the past year nearly 300 acres of swamp land has been redeemed.

FORMER AGENT OF G. T. R. FREED ON CHARGE OF TREFT

PROMINENT MASON DIES

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHATHAM, July 6. — The adjourned case against Alex. Dewar, former station agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, charged with the theft of approximately 20 tons of the company's coal, was resumed in the city police court this morning, and was dismissed.

For the defence it was shown that Dewar had not attempted to steal the coal. He had taken it in a straightforward manner, believing he was entitled to it. O. L. Lewis, K. C., counsel for the defence, argued that the case had been tried in the wrong court. If the G. T. R. believed the coal to be the property of the company, it should have sued the defendant in the proper court, and not preferred a theft charge against the defendant, who had been an employee of the company for 23 years.

DEATH OF JAMES BIRCH.

CHATHAM, July 6. — James Birch, a well-known resident and prominent Mason, died at his residence, 30 Lorne avenue today, in his 83rd year, following a ten days illness. Born in Ireland, he came to Canada in 1858, when he settled in Harwich Township, teaching in the McLean and Ridge schools. After five years he came to Chatham, and taught in the Head street, Central and Chrysler ward schools for a number of years, being principal at each of the latter schools. He retired 20 years ago after 40 years of teaching. He is survived by five daughters and two sons.

COMPELLED TO FLY THE CANADIAN FLAG

Detroit, July 6.—Windsor customs officers resurrected an old provincial statute Tuesday, and compelled United States citizens to display Canadian flags on automobiles which were decorated with the Stars and Stripes.

American visitors were courteously informed by Dominion officials at the Windsor ferry dock that a Canadian flag must be flown alongside Old Glory, or, as an alternative, the American flag could not be used during the time the machines were on Canadian territory. The requests of the Dominion officers were readily complied with, there being no opposition to the orders with the exception of one man. He lowered his flags rather than obey the Ontario law.

Statute Law Century Ago.

The Ontario statute became law more than a half-century ago, after an Irish society from Buffalo attempted to parade the streets of Hamilton, Ont., with the Fenian flag at the head of the procession. The law now requires that a Canadian flag of equal size to any foreign flag used in any procession, or shown on any vehicle, shall be shown.

Windsor officers praised American visitors for the good feeling displayed when the order was made known to them. Dr. J. A. Smith, collector of customs, said that his subordinates were treated respectfully by everyone, excepting the man who preferred to strike his flags in preference to showing respect for the country whose hospitality he was to enjoy for the day.

The old Ontario law has not been rigidly enforced at Windsor, but with the free interchange of automobile licenses between states of the Union and Ontario it has been found necessary to put it in effect, because United States citizens make a habit of displaying their flag when visiting the Dominion, Windsor officials said.

BETTING ABOUT EVEN ON PROVINCIAL ELECTION

Nomination in British Columbia Will Be Made Shortly.

VANCOUVER, July 6.—Betting is about even as to the winner of the contest in provincial politics, to be settled by the election of September 14. Nominations will occur six weeks earlier.

Both parties are having some difficulty with the standard-bearers in Vancouver. A new Conserovative convention will be held this month, when it is certain some changes will be made in the personnel of the ticket. On the Liberal side there is some friction between Ralph Smith and his fellows on questions of the Liberal policy.

HAMILTON WILL IN COURT

Provides for Care of Aged Women if Government Remits Tax.

TORONTO, July 6.—The will of the late Arthur Reeves of Hamilton, who died May 15, 1915, has come before the courts for interpretation. Deceased provided for the entry and maintenance of two aged women, residents of Hamilton, every year for ten years in the Aged Women's Home. This bequest, in the terms of the will, is made conditional upon the Government remitting the succession duties upon the balance of the estate.

Before Mr. Justice Riddell this morning Mr. Lynch Staunton argued that the Government could enact legislation remitting the duties. Mr. Ed Armour, on the other hand, argued that the bequest should be carried out, and the conditions imposed be declared void, as against public policy. Mr. Justice Riddell reserved judgment.

FISHING GOOD.

PORT STANLEY, July 6.—Fishing was good all day Thursday. Ex-Mayor Johnston of St. Thomas made a record catch of over seventy-five good-sized perch. The dock and pier was crowded, and none were disappointed. Some fine strings were caught. Perch were, as usual, the big catch, but a few pickerel were in evidence.

POPULATION RISING.

BRANTFORD, July 6.—There are in Brantford Township this year 102 more male persons than there were last year. In 1915 the male population was 1,692, while it is now 1,794. Despite the heavy enlistment which has taken place throughout the township, the population has increased by 99. A large percentage of Brantford Township land is cleared; 64,969 acres are cleared, and this is an increase of 150 acres. During the past year nearly 300 acres of swamp land has been redeemed.

MONTREAL, July 6.—A battalion of Canadian negroes is the latest development in the recruiting for overseas service. Lieut.-Col. Fages, acting officer commanding of Military District No. 4, today received authority to organize No. 2 Construction Battalion, C.E.F., to be composed entirely of colored men, with the exception that its officers will be white men. Lieut.-Col. Daniel Sutherland, a railway contractor and a graduate of McGill University, will command the colored battalion.

Rev. Dr. James Smith, president of the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, has been appointed chaplain for No's. 4 and 5 Military Districts, covering Montreal and Quebec, with rank as honorary-major.

SUB PIRACIES MAY BE RESUMED IN FEW WEEKS

Use "Unrestricted Torpedo" Is Now Demand Throughout Germany.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, July 5.—Via London, July 6.—The campaign in favor of the resumption of a full-fledged submarine war on commerce goes energetically forward. It was expected that with the adjournment of the Reichstag, and the dispersal of politicians to their homes for the summer, this agitation by the Navy League, Publicists, Conservatives, and part of the National Liberals would pass the climax and gradually lose its intensity.

"On the contrary, reports from all sections of the country indicate that the agitation is continuing with undiminished vigor, both above and below the surface. Never a day passes without articles in various newspapers to remind the people that, according to the German note, the modification of German submarine methods merely was temporary and contingent upon a modification of the British blockade.

Blockade Unmodified.

"Advocates of the 'unrestricted torpedo' appear at every political gathering regarded as suitable soil for their seed. Various newspapers in sympathy with the movement have almost daily a rubric for what they call 'British postal robberies,' and ever and again attention is called to the fact that the blockade has not undergone the slightest modification since the dispatches of the latest German note.

"The purpose of the agitation is, of course, two-fold. One branch of it is directed toward the resumption of the submarine campaign, which is felt to be the only effective naval weapon against Great Britain. The other now has developed openly, and avowedly into a movement against the chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, largely on the ground of internal politics. Some judges of the situation, basing their opinion on the extent and vigor of the agitation, are inclined to believe the movement will lead, not later than September, to a revival of the submarine campaign on the old lines."

ST. MARYS' COMPANY WINS ON ITS APPEAL

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, July 6.—At Osgoode Hall today: St. Marys Milling Company vs. town of St. Marys. R. S. Robertson (Stratford) for plaintiff, F. H. Thompson, K.C., and F. C. Richardson (Stratford), for defendants. Appeal by plaintiffs from part of judgment of J. Clute, of April 8, 1916, which declared that the town is entitled to the flow of water through raceway of plaintiff, uninterrupted, and for $40 damages for obstruction thereof by plaintiff, to be deducted from the damages allowed plaintiff.

Judgment: Appeal allowed and judgment varied by striking out paragraphs four, five and six thereof, and all the words after "of this action" in paragraph seven. The damages allowed should not be interfered with. The respondents should pay the costs of the appeal.

ST. THOMAS LOSES ONE OF PROMINENT BUSINESSMEN

J. P. Martyn Active In the County For Half Century.

ST. THOMAS, July 6.—J. P. Martyn, one of St. Thomas' oldest and best-known businessmen, is dead at his home in Sparta. Mr. Martyn suffered a stroke of paralysis some days ago, from which he never rallied. He was 87 years of age, and was prominent in business circles in this city and Elgin County for more than half a century. He taught school in Yarmouth Township until 1866. In 1868 he opened a banking business at Strathroy, and in 1870 removed to St. Thomas, where he has conducted a banking and brokerage business ever since. Mr. Martyn was one of the members of the first city council. He was a candidate for the mayoralty in 1890, and for the Dominion Parliament in 1896, but was unsuccessful, being defeated on both occasions in three-cornered fights. He resided in Sparta on his farm, and journeyed to the city, a distance of twelve miles, every day.

ANOTHER RECRUIT.

ST. THOMAS, July 6.—James A. Reynolds, a well-known young man of this city, enlisted today with the construction battalion being mobilized at Toronto.

SARNIA LAWNS ARE TURNING YELLOW IN DRY, INTENSE HEAT

THIEVING GETS COMMON

[Special to The Advertiser.]

SARNIA, July 6.—Sarnia and vicinity at the present time are suffering from a dry, hot spell of weather that is doing great good to the crops on the clay, but is a little too dry for the sand.

The grass of the lawns in the north ward and even in the south has all been scorched, and has turned yellow except where the lawn sprinkler has been working. The summer visitors are pouring in from all points.

VICTIM WELL KNOWN.

SARNIA, July 6.—Fred Waller, aged 29 years, the Grand Trunk Railway brakeman, who was killed at the Hamilton cut yesterday morning, was very well known in this city, having been on the railway for the past six years. He resided at 148 Euphemia street, and leaves one child and a widow.

The body of the deceased will be brought to this city on the 10:30 express this evening.

INDIANS DRINKING.

SARNIA, July 6.—Some complaints have been heard of the cases of drunkenness noticed on the Sarnia Indian reservation, and it is expected that an attempt will be made to stamp out this evil and prevent the Indians from getting liquor.

A lady residing near the back road leading to the reserve states that it is a common thing to see drunken squaws on that road going home in a condition that is terrible, while drunken Indians are common.

NO CLUES YET.

SARNIA, July 6.—Provincial Detective William Stringer reports this morning that no trace has been found yet of the escaped prisoner who beat up Constable Auld at Watford a few days ago, then came to Sarnia, and evidently crossed the river to the American side.

A couple of men were held for a time, but they were able to prove that they were not guilty and they were freed.

THIEVING COMMON.

SARNIA, July 6.—More cases of petty thieving along the water front in Sarnia have been reported, and it is expected by the boatmen that a stop will not be made to this until such a time as a severe example is made of the offenders when caught. It has reached that stage when a person cannot lay his hat down for a minute or so without it disappearing, and the boat owners are getting very wrathy over the continued light-fingeredness.

GRASS FIRE.

SARNIA, July 6.—The fire brigade had another run to the corner of London road and Mitton street today, where a grass fire was in progress. The flames were soon extinguished by the hose.

FARMERS ROUND WABASH NOW ASKING FOR RAIN

Some of Hay Crops Not Heavy—Successful Social Held.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WABASH, July 6.—The continued hot weather is having a very noticeable effect on the corn. It has grown wonderfully during the past week, and all it lacks is a good rain. In fact everything is in need of a rain now.

Some have commenced haying in this section, and find they have not very heavy crops to handle. Others are getting their land ready for the sowing of buckwheat. A larger acreage of this grain than usual is being sown. The seed grain has been selling at $1.50 per bushel.

A successful ice cream social, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society was held last evening on the Wabash recreation grounds. The weather was ideal, and large numbers gathered on the grounds at 3 p.m. to witness the first baseball game which was played between the juvenile teams of Turnerville and Wabash. This resulted in a score of 26 to 10 in favor of the home team.

At 5 o'clock another game was played between the senior home team and that of Turin. This resulted in a score of 7 to 6 in favor of Turin.

While supper was in progress music was furnished by the Wabash band. A good program was rendered. Proceeds of social amounted to $150.

Mrs. John McKerracher of Wabash, recently received a letter from her son, Pte. John B. McKerracher, in France. In his letter he states that after a year's relay from active military work he is ready once more to do active work in the trenches.

Pte. McKerracher, who went out from the northwest at the beginning of the war, was wounded and so badly poisoned by gas during the battle of Langemarck, that he was compelled to spend quite a number of months in the hospital.

Brussels Resident Celebrates Birthday—Village Loses W. W. Harris.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRUSSELS, July 6. — Wednesday of this week David Ross, an old and well-known resident of Brussels, celebrated his 90th birthday. He is hale and hearty and enjoyed a birthday party of relatives and old friends.

This week Mrs. Cleveland Baeker was called to the west owing to the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Garfield Long. The latter is a daughter of George and Mrs. Thomson of Brussels.

A highly esteemed resident has died in the person of W. W. Harris, proprietor of the Shamrock Creamery, Brussels. He was in his 54th year and had been in declining health for years. A wife, a son and two daughters survive.

The council decided to build a large cement water tank in the northerly part of the town as a safeguard against fire, particularly as it relates to the Ament factory and mill.

G. T. R. Station Agent Kyle was called to Chesley this week owing to the demise of his brother-in-law.

Miss Muriel Brothers has resigned from the teaching staff and will attend the university.

WALLACEBURG CUSTOMS BREAKS ALL RECORDS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WALLACEBURG, July 5.—The local office of H. M. customs had made a new record. The receipts for the month of June were over $217,000. This is the largest yet in any one month in the history of Wallaceburg. George Mitchell, the collector, thinks that it is accounted for by the fact that firms can no longer refrain from doing business and things are getting back to normal, in spite of the fact that the war is not yet finished.

LIGHTSHIP MATE DIES

Capt. McCormick's Death Attributed to Hardships in 1914.

AMHERSTBURG, July 6.—Captain Eugene McCormick, mate of the Canadian lightship Falken, which is stationed at Southeast Shoal, Lake Erie, died at his home here tonight. His illness is said to have resulted from exposure and hardship while bringing the lightship from her station to Amherstburg in December, 1914. The boat arrived with pilothouse windows broken by the sea, and hull and upper works heavily coated with ice.

Capt. McCormick was born on Pelee Island in 1849. He was master of the Imperial for twelve years before that vessel was succeeded on the Windsor-Pelee Island route by the steamer Clarke. He leaves a widow and one son. Thistle Lodge, A. F. and A. M., will conduct the funeral Saturday afternoon.

KERNAHAN—CANTON.

WYOMING, July 6.—On Tuesday, July 4, at 12 o'clock noon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Canton was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding, when their eldest daughter, Nettie Luella, became the bride of Thomas Kernahan of Winnipeg. The bride, who was unattended, entered the tastefully decorated drawing room leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by her sister, Miss Una Canton. In the presence of the immediate family relatives, Rev. J. A. Ross, B.A., performed the ceremony.

After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kernahan left for Toronto on the 2:37 train, midst the best wishes of friends and showers of confetti. After a few days' visit in Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Kernahan purpose going to California, from which place they will go to their future home in Winnipeg, Man.

BRANTFORD, July 6.—The inland revenue returns for June show an increase of $1,697 over the corresponding month of last year. Last month the returns were $8,851.90, while for June, 1915, they totalled $7,154.48. Practically all the increase is due to spirits and this would go to indicate that preparations are being made for the advent of prohibition. The returns for spirits amounted to $4,896.31.

Three more "Bantams" have signed up since the quota left on Monday. Pte. Maurice, who is busy recruiting, signed up one in Tillsonburg yesterday, another in Brantford, and has a third one coming from Galt. Today he is working in St. George.

Pte. Hannigan Made Gallant Effort to Save Officer.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, July 6.—Several reports have appeared lately stating that Pte. John Hannigan, son of T. J. Hannigan of this city, had been recommended for the Victoria Cross. His father is trying to ascertain today what truth there is in the report. Young Hannigan is not yet 19 years of age, and has been at the front for some time. The action in which he distinguished himself was when Lieut. Cockburn was killed. He and Hannigan were out in No-Man's Land, and at great danger to himself and under heavy fire, Hannigan made his way through the barbed wire lines to get assistance for the wounded officer, who was seriously wounded, and who died later on the way to the hospital.

AUSTRIAN FORCES ARE COLLAPSING; NO HELP AT HAND

NO LET-UP BY RUSSIANS

[Canadian Press Cable.]

LONDON, July 6.—9:45 p.m.—The results of the staff conferences of the Allies in London in May and June are becoming continually more apparent in the co-ordination of the Allied attacks on the Teutonic forces, and increasing evidence of the initiative passing from the Teutons to the Allies at almost all points.

As the French and British armies are now engaged in reorganizing and preparing for the second phase of the battle of the Somme, there is a comparative lull on the western front, and Russia again takes the centre of the stage.

Today's news from Petrograd is highly important in the light of the future development of the Somme battle. The news that the Russians have captured 5,000 prisoners on the Dniester front appears to leave little doubt of the collapse of the Austrian forces between Buczacz and Stanislau, which will greatly affect the army of General Von Bothmer, compelling him to retire northward, while the advance on Delatyn and the seizure of the railway cuts off Von Bothmer from his chief base of supplies.

Hindenburg is Helpless.

The prospect of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg being able to make an effective diversion is believed here to be dwindling, and while the Germans are desperately engaged in trying to meet the Russian offensive at Baranovichi, the Russian General Kaledines is developing a strong attack on both sides of the Kiev-Kovel railway.

The question arises among military men here as to how Germany can come to the assistance of her Austrian allies without further denuding her forces on the western front, and it is considered impossible for Austria to risk withdrawal of more of her own troops from the Italian front. It will be interesting to watch the reaction of the western and eastern fronts on each other in the development of the battle of the Somme and the continued German offensive on the banks of the Meuse.

Newspapers Again Complain.

Dissatisfaction is again being voiced by the British newspapers at the inadequacy and vagueness of the British official reports. The reticence or silence of Gen. Sir Douglas Haig's communications on important points is compared with the readiness with which the French and Russian commanders give details of the operations, and with the greatly increased latitude permitted to special correspondents on the western front since the beginning of the battle.

That the British authorities fully realize that their hard task is far from ended is indicated by the steps which are being taken by the ministry of munitions for the cessation of holidays for munition workers during the month of July. The expenditure of munitions in the Somme battle has been the theme and surprise of all the correspondents at the front, and the nation is aware that nothing must be allowed to interfere with the maintenance of a full supply.

The transfer of David Lloyd George to the ministry of war has at last been officially announced. Lord Derby, who did valuable work in recruiting England's immense army, has been appointed under-secretary.

BLYTH COUNCIL GIVES $75 FOR BAND UNIFORMS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BLYTH, July 6.—At the last meeting of the Blyth council it presented $75 to the town band for the purpose of purchasing uniforms, and arrangements have now been completed to purchase a grey worsted uniform, trimmed with grey braid. The leader, S. H. Gidley, is bringing this organization up to a high state of perfection.

Armstrong—Shells.

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Andrew's Church on Thursday at high noon, when Sarah Maude Shells, of Hullett), was united in matrimony to John Henry Armstrong, a prosperous farmer of East Wawanosh, Rev. W. D. Turner officiating. Miss Annie Reid, cousin of the bride, played the Wedding March, while the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother. The bride was becomingly gowned in a dress of crepe-de-chine, caught up with satin roses, with a bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Miss Kate Reid sang "O Promise Me," while the register was being signed. The gifts were numerous and costly. The groom's present to the bride was a necklace of pearls and amethysts.

The happy couple left on the C. P. R. train for Toronto, North Bay and Niagara Falls, the bride traveling in a suit of blue serge and white hat. On Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong's return they will settle on the farm of the groom.

Given Tourist Watches.

The War Auxiliary of Londesboro heldapublicmeetinginthehall held a public meeting in the hall, when an address was read to Ptes. Charles Crawford, Clarence Noble, Charles Lee, Leslie Buchanan and Earl Barr, and each was presented with a wrist watch.

The farmers in this section are now busily engaged with their haying operation, which is one of the heaviest crops for some years in this section. The fall wheat never looked better, and the spring grain is now doing well with the hot weather.

Lawn Social.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church held a very successful lawn social on the church lawn on Thursday evening, which was well attended, and the evening could not have been better. The receipts amounted to $90. The Blyth band furnished selections of music.

The object of the convention is to unify the efforts of the two countries to maintain a lasting and constant peace in the far east.

Intense Heat in Mesopotamia the Chief Cause.

WILL REMAIN IN HILLS

LONDON, July 7.—2:55 a.m.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says that the Russians have fallen back almost 80 miles in the Bagdad region.

The dispatch says that the pressure of the Turks was only one of the reasons which caused the retirement of the Russians. The Turks are said to have gathered a great army to contest the Russian advance. Among these troops was the force originally destined for the invasion of Egypt troops, which had been in Bulgaria, and an army of 130,000 men, which was withdrawn from the Saloniki front.

Thep rincipal reason, however, given for the retreat of the Russians is that the intense heat in Mosopotamia makes campaigning very difficult at this time of the year. It is stated that the Russians are planning to remain in the coolness of the hills until climatic conditions make the advance expedient.

UNKNOWN AVIATOR IN BIPLANE HOVERS OVER WINDSOR CITY

Creates Sensation, But No Shots Fired at Him.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, July 6. — Nervous women had an unpleasant half hour this afternoon when an unknown aviator, using a fast and modern biplane, flew over the residential section of the west end of Windsor, then leisurely circled off to the east and disappeared in a cloud. The roaring of the engine and whirring sound of propeller attracted the attention of people indoors and out, but as far as is known there was no attempt by the military guards to take even a pot shot at the daring flyer. The machine flew at a height of more than a thousand feet, and at times showed remarkable bursts of speed.

CHARGES WERE BASED ON DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Frauds in Highways Department Are To Be Investigated.

REGINA, July 6. — J. E. Bradshaw, M. L. A., told the Wetmore commission today the circumstances which led him to make the charges in the Legislature that there were frauds going on in the highways department in regard to roadwork.

About a year and a half ago he looked into a supposed road contract, in the district of Kinistino, and found that something was radically wrong.

His charges were based on documentary evidence, which consisted of letters and affidavits from people in various parts of the province, where no roadwork had been done, when it was supposed to have, and from other sections where more money was spent than should have been.

SUCCESS OF A NEW REMEDY FOR BACKACHE, KIDNEYS, RHEUMATISM

Dear Mr. Editor,—I suffered for years with backache. Last March I tried "Anuric" and have used this new kidney medicine recently discovered by Dr. Pierce, and it was wonderful the way it eased the pain and gave me relief in such a short time. I have tried several medicines, but "Anuric" is the only one that gave satisfaction. I feel it my duty to recommend "Anuric Tablets" to anyone who suffers as I did.

(Signed) Mrs. Margaret E. Snider.

Note: Folks in town and adjoining counties are delighted with the results they have obtained by using "ANURIC," the newest discovery of Dr. Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, in Buffalo, N. Y. Those who started the day with a backache, stiff legs, arms and muscles, and an aching head (wornout before the day began because they were in and out of bed half a dozen times at night) are appreciating the perfect rest, comfort and new strength they obtained from Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. To prove that this is a certain uric acid solvent and conquers headache, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism, if you've never used the "Anuric," cut this out and send ten cents to Doctor Pierce for a large sample package. This will prove to you that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid—and the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector. If you are a sufferer, go to your best druggist and ask for a 50-cent box of "Anuric." You run no risk, for Dr. Pierce's good name stands behind this wonderful new discovery, as it has for the past half-century for his "Golden Medical Discovery," a general tonic made from roots with pure glycerine which makes the blood pure, his "Favorite Prescription" for weak women and "Pleasant Pellets" for liver ills.

HETTIE GREEN'S DAUGHTER NOW LIVING IN GALT

NEW YORK, July 6.—Col. H. L. Green, son of the late Hetty Green, and with his sister, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, of Galt, Ont., heir to the millions of the "richest woman in the world.," expects a contest over $1,500,000 of the estate left by his mother. Seventeen thousand persons will be interested in it.

Returning today from his mother's funeral, Col. Green declared the contest would be of "gigantic proportions." Neither he nor his sister is interested, however, he said. The contest will be for the sum of $1,500,000 left by Gideon Howland, who died in 1823, Green said. Howland was the father of a cousin of Mrs. Green. Upon the death of the cousin, Sylvia Howland, the money was left to Mrs. Green to revert to the Howland heirs when she died.

"There are now 17,000 heirs of old Gideon," said Green, "and all want a part of the $1,500,000. The family had children in swarms. Old Gideon himself, had thirteen children, and every one of the thirteen raised big families. It was an army of descendants in no time."

FREIGHT RATES ARE INCREASED THROUGH EAST

Railway Board Gives Decision In Case Pending Two Years.

COMPANIES NEED FUNDS

Expenses Have Increased Out of Proportion to Receipts.

OTTAWA, July 6.—Judgment was handed out by the railway commission this evening in the eastern freight rates case, which has been before the board for the last two years. The all-round increase asked for by the railways is not granted, but each rate is considered on its merits, the increases varying according to the locality and commodities affected. The official summary is as follows:

It was not until May 11 of this year that the increases in grain and grain products were withdrawn by the railways, after negotiations resulting from the board being impressed by the effect of the short mileage of the National Transcontinental, and competitive conditions between that line and the Canadian Northern, north of Ottawa. This affects a large item.

Expenses Increased.

It is shown that expenses have increased generally. While from 1899 to 1914 train mile earnings increased 89 per cent, the cost of service per train mile increased 112 per cent, notwithstanding economies attributable to increased locomotive power, lower grades, better loading and increased traffic. In the period, 1910 to 1914, earnings increased 10.6 per cent, expenses 17.7 per cent. In 1915 earnings increased 5.3 per cent, expenses 12.4 per cent.

Railway ties cost 38 per cent more in 1914 than in 1907. In 1915 they were 45 per cent higher. The cost of fuel to operate 100 miles was 30 per cent higher in 1914 and 1915 than in 1907. The average cost of fuel increased 21.8 per cent in the period 1909 to 1914.

Grand Trunk Earnings.

The net earnings per mile of line of the Grand Trunk at their highest in 1913 amounted to $3,500 per mile. In 1914 they were $3,059 and in 1915, $2,477.

The financial relations of the Grand Trunk to the Grand Trunk Pacific, as well as to its United States lines, are analyzed, and it is ruled that outside investments cannot be considered as bearing on the reasonableness of freight rates.

Economical financing of the Grand Trunk has been rendered extremely difficult, if not impossible. Appropriations of all kinds have been cut and repairs have been postponed. On December 31, 1915, over 4,000 cars were held for repairs, notwithstanding the lighter traffic of the year.

In order to keep the equipment in proper shape, it will be necessary to obtain 1,249 new freight cars at an expenditure of $2,238,000.

Normal track renewals would require 431 miles; for the period of 1913 to 1915 inclusive, the track renewals were only 45 per cent of this standard; and for the year 1915 the renewals fell to 67 miles. The renewal work on bridges and culverts during 1915 is $20,000 below the average yearly expenditure of the period of 1906 to 1915.

The proposed increases on fruits are postponed until they can be considered along with proposed increases in icing and salt for refrigeration which are now under suspension.

Western Ontario Rates.

The findings regarding the class tariffs are briefly summarized. In the territory bounded on the west by, but not including, Port Arthur, and by the Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Detroit River, and on the east by Quebec and Megantic, also between C. P. R. stations in New Brunswick, the class rates, provided they are now lower than the standard or maximum mile tariff, will be increased by two cents in the first and one cent in the fifth classes, rates for the other classes to be properly proportioned in accordance with the standardized scale. An exception is made of the lines of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern between Parry Sound and Sudbury, on which no increases are allowed.

Because of the comparatively lower level of the rates to the Maritime Provinces, greater increases are permitted. Between points in the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and points west of Quebec, Levis and Megantic as far as Montreal and Valleyfield, and north of the Ottawa River, the first class will be advanced four cents and the fifth class two cents; the other classes proportionately.

From Montreal East.

Between points in New Brunswick and points west of Montreal the carriers are authorized to increase their rates by six cents for the first class and three cents for the fifth, the remaining rates fitting in from the standardized scale. Here, again an exception is made of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the St. John River valley, where the rates, instead of being advanced, will be lowered by the company so as not to exceed the St. John rates; this relief being due to the opening of the National Transcontinental south of Edmundston, N.B.

As the Government railways are not subject to the jurisdiction of the board, the Intercolonial and National Transcontinental management is, of course, free to fix its own rates; nevertheless, the judgment provides that the through rates of the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific and other independent companies in Quebec and Ontario to Intercolonial points east of St. John, to Halifax and Sydney are to preserve the same differences, if any, over the St. John rates as at present.

Two Boys Have a Narrow Escape at Port.

SAVED BY TWO BATHERS

Thieves Are Stealing From Verandas of the Cottages.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

PORT STANLEY, July 6.—Because they saw their mother approaching with a good-sized willow stick, two small boys jumped off a raft and were nearly drowned in the lake Thursday morning. The lads, some 9 years of age, were forbidden by their maternal parent to go on the lake on a raft. The lake was calm, and some other small boys were having great fun on the raft. Temptation proved too strong.

The water at this point was five feet deep. Having jumped, they went under and came up, only to find the raft with the other boys a distance away. When they came up again the raft was pulled nearer and they caught hold of it but, seemed unable to pull themselves up on it. The other lads were panic-stricken, and would offer no assistance. Two men in bathing started from different directions and managed to get there in time to get them on safely and tow the raft to land.

NEWBURY FRIENDS HEAR OF DEATH OF PTE. G. W. ATFIELD

Canadian Who Answered Call Though in States.

KILLED BY A BIG SHELL

Chum Who Was With Him Notifies Lady in Newbury.

[Canadian Press Cable.]

NEWBURY, July 5.—News has been received that Pte. G. W. Atfield was killed at the front "Somewhere in France" on June 14. He first came to Newbury on Field Day last year and, becoming acquainted with some of the citizens, he made frequent visits to the village.

Pte. Atfield was born in Canada of English parents, but spent the last fifteen years in the United States, being an Associated Press correspondent and a Secret Service agent in the employ of the U. S. Government. Just previous to his enlistment at Windsor he was a Bertillon expert at the Leavenworth Penitentiary, Leavenworth, U. S. A. He was highly respected and his death is deeply regretted.

The following letter was received by Miss Lydia Fennell from Pte. Alex Humphries. Alex was a Newbury boy and was a chum of Pte. Atfield.

"France, June 15.

Miss Lydia Fennell,—Just a few lines, Miss Fennell, to let you know that poor Wesley Atfield was killed in action yesterday. He was killed by a big Jack Johnson shell. Poor fellow! Never knew he was hit. There were six fellows killed by the same shell. I was with him at the time. He was digging a hole in the trench for a little cover against shrapnel. I was in a little hole that I had dug just a little while before and was in between them when they all got killed and I never got a scratch, but was pretty well shaken up.

Had Taken Trenches.

We had made a charge just the night before and took black the trenches that were lost a little while ago. We certainly killed some Germans, believe me. Took 500 or 600 German prisoners. We were in the biggest bombardment that has ever taken place. Four days they were continually throwing shells at us but we could throw just as many or more at them. It was something awful the noise that was going on. It was fierce. We are just out for a little rest."

A Wonderful Opportunity For a Man With Small Means

If you have $200, or can borrow $100, and have reliable character and indorsation to put up with, you can put yourself in the way of making big money at once.

No stock investment, no gambler's chance, but a legitimate business, with an entirely new outfit.

We want four men with $150 each to handle individual plants, which they take with them, to make $250 a month clear.

Must act quick. First come, first served, and this is a real opportunity, with something entirely new. Some men have already made their $20 per day, with light work. No canvassing. No hauling a man to do business with you.

You own your own plant—it's portable. You are manufacturing something to eat. Product sells two for 5 cents—awfully good, though cheap. Your customers are almost everyone. You handle your own money. You serve no one but yourself with your time. You make four times a good man's ordinary wages, and the work is agreeable.

ONLY FOUR MEN FOR THIS OPPORTUNITY IN LONDON. Act quick if you want to be one of the four. Address Advertiser, Box 95. b

CAMP ORDERS THAT AFFECT TRANSFER TO CAMP BORDEN

PROVINCIAL ELECTION, PERTH COUNTY.

Officers commanding units are directed to grant leave of absence from midnight, Friday, 7tth instant, to midnight, Monday, 10th instant, to all ranks desirous of exercising their franchise at the marginally noted election. This leave to be granted irrespective of any movement to Camp Borden.

Officers commanding units will arrange to draw one day's extra rations, to be taken with the troops.

All camp equipment and articles issued to troops for their use in camp are to be taken with them, except field kitchens, which are to be returned to Ordnance Stores.

Soldiers under sentence of detention are to be handed over by the Officer i-c Detention Barracks to an escort from their unit, and will be taken to Camp Borden.

N. C. O.'s and men detailed for garrison military police, are to be returned to their units on the morning of the day fixed for departure.

Horses are to be shipped on Sunday. Grooms are to be left behind to look after the horses, and will report to the P. V. O.

Rear parties from each unit, with the exception of the 168th and 186th Overseas Battalions, consisting of one officer, and 25 other ranks, will be left behind to clear up the camp grounds. The rear parties will leave by special train on Sunday, with the grooms and horses.

The 160th Overseas Battalion will take over the duties of the duty battalion, commencing tonight, 7th instant, and is also detailed as duty battalion for the ensuing week.

Next for duty: 110th Overseas Battalion.

SIDELIGHTS ON CAMP SITUATION

Military orders received yesterday provided for the removal of the 110th (Perth) Battalion to Camp Borden before the bye-election in North Perth is held next Monday.

Orders given to The Advertiser as late as 10 o'clock last night provided for the removal of the Perth boys on Sunday night, just in time to prevent their being able to go to the polls in their home riding on Monday.

There was considerable protest over this as the Perth men did not wish to be deprived of their votes. Consequently, according to the last order received, men were able to secure the privilege of exercising their franchise, although they cannot understand why the attempt was made to get them away before the election.

* * *

"This is contrary to the assurances I received from Sir Sam Hughes," said William Gray, M. P. Scrap of paper Billy.

* * *

"It is a shame that the city has been treated this way," said Controller John M. Moore. And the local Tory paper quoted him. But the same paper is dumb as an oyster about the breach of faith with the city.

* * *

"Something approaching consternation was observed in the city hall," says a local paper. But the mayor of London was as complacent as the well-known clam.

* * *

"On the faith of promises that all Western Ontario troops would train here the city has spent nearly $80,000 on the camp grounds," says a local paper. But why not call attention to the breach of promise suit that the city should start.

* * *

"It certainly is a bad position in which to leave the city, after going to so much expense in connection with the camp," said George H. Belton, president of the board of trade. "We were not surprised that some battalions should be moved away, as we rather expected that. But to take eight out of eleven battalions was much more than we anticipated. We should have at least eight battalions here. It does not seem fair to London."

* * *

"It will be a serious loss to London," said Philip Pocock. "We should have been told in the beginning what we were expected to do. It seems unfair, very unfair, to take the men away from London at this time."

* * *

"It is a serious matter," said Controller Gammage. "We went along with our preparations, spent our money freely, and did all we could to make the camp suitable, on the full understanding that the troops would be left here. It was a bone-fide agreement, but now it has been broken. It does not look as if we can do much, but it is a serious condition of affairs."

* * *

"Are agreements of no value any more?" asked Thomas Rowe.

* * *

"We did our duty," said Ald. E. S. Little. "We have the finest camp in the province, and the men are satisfied. Sir Sam said that we have done more for the soldiers than any other city. It looks as if we made a mistake in doing so much. I always thought an agreement was something to respect."

* * *

* * *

"We still hope to keep the major portion of the camp," commented J. P. Moore.

Last-Minute Attempt Being Made to Try Persuasion.

It is probable that a deputation will go to Ottawa tonight to discuss camp matters with Sir Robert Borden and the cabinet.

Late last night Sir Robert was spoken to over long distance telephone, and he stated that he would go into the situation and inform City Clerk Baker today what had been done and what was likely to happen. Mr. Baker has not yet received any word from the premier.

William Gray, M. P., left for Toronto this morning to interview Hon. A. E. Kemp, M. P., who is in charge of contracts, to see what can be done.

If the deputation goes to Ottawa, he will join it.

6,000 More From Canada Reach Old Land

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, July 7.—It is officially announced from the press censor's office that the following Canadian troops have arrived safely in England:

FEET EQUAL ROAD ROLLER IN FIXING CAMP STREETS

Beat Soil to Consistency of Pavement and Change Its Nature.

Persons who have frequented the camp grounds since the arrival of the troops notice many changes in the nature of the ground occupied by the troops.

Drilling has almost entirely removed the grass and weeds from the parade ground. Good drainage has completely changed the condition of the ground occupied by the tents.

Before the arrival of the troops, the ground was mostly soggy sod, over which wagons could not pass, much less motor trucks. Between the lines now, the ground is beaten almost to the hardness of a pavement, and a few days' hot weather has baked it into a solid road, over which a heavily-loaded motor truck may pass with ease.

ANOTHER 142ND OFFICER LEAVES THAT BATTALION

Capt. Ed. H. Nelles, of the 142nd Battalion, has been transferred from "London's Own" to another battalion. The orders have not gone through as yet, but it is expected that they will be promulgated in a short time. He will cease to be a member of the 142nd Battalion today, and will join his new regiment at once.

BRITISH SHIP TAKEN NEAR ENGLISH COAST

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, July 7, via London, 3:03 p.m.—Official announcement was made today that the British steamship Lestris was held up by German warships near the English coast and seized as a prize.

The announcement follows:

"The British steamship Lestris, from Liverpool, has been held up by a portion of the German high sea forces not far from the English coast, and seized as a prize."

The wording of the German statement indicates that a part, at least, of the German high sea fleet was near the English coast at the time the Lestris was seized. The Lestris is a steamship of 1,384 tons, gross, owned in Cork.

142ND STRUCK CAMP THIS MORNING; 161ST NOW TENTLESS UNIT

London's Own Now Ready for Transfer; So Is Huron Regt.

LATTER HAS COOL TIME

Tents Are Down, Though It Stays Until Sunday in London.

"London's Own," the 142nd Battalion, quartered on Merwin Heights, made short work of the tents this morning, and this afternoon the men had the place cleared up.

There was some dissatisfaction that the soldier boys had been given little or no time to bid their friends and relatives good-bye, but they turned in at the order given, and soon had the tents all torn down, and the place that knew them will know them no more. It was with grim enthusiasm that they worked, but there was unmistakable signs that many were working hard to keep their tempers from exploding. They will have everything cleared up early this afternoon.

The Hurons, 161st Battalion, made as rapid progress as any in getting their tents down. It would appear that they will have to sleep in the open tonight. There are no tents for them, and they are not scheduled to get out of London until Sunday.

Just what they will do in the meantime has not been decided, but it is probable some arrangements will be made for them.

HOTELMEN LIKELY TO REVOKE THEIR RECENT LIQUOR ARRANGEMENT

Loss of Camp to Put Hard Stuff on Sale.

RETURN TO OLD ORDER

License Holders Believe They Will Be Compensated—Soldiers Barred.

It is probable that the hotelmen will cancel the order, by which only malt goods, ales, lagers, and porters can be sold from 6 to 9 o'clock (city time).

A number of them have been discussing the situation, and have come to the conclusion that if the camp is removed there will be no necessity for the new rule.

If the militia authorities did declare the hotels out of bounds, it would affect only a comparatively small number of soldiers, and there would be compensation in the increased civilian trade.

"If the camp goes, we will return to the old order of things," said a hotelkeeper today.

CAMP AT BRANDON RAZED BY A STORM; MANY ARE INJURED

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, July 7.—The militia department has received word that a heavy wind and rain storm, bordering on a cyclone in its intensity, struck Camp Hughes this morning at about 8 o'clock. It levelled most of the tents and caused a great number of minor injuries to the men, but fortunately none of a serious nature.

The camp is near Brandon, Man., and there are about 20,000 troops stationed there.

WOULDN'T PRODUCE PASS; SHOT BY THE GUARD

[Canadian Press.]

KINGSTON, July 7.—Gunner Russell Elliott of Peterboro, aged 30, died in the General Hospital this morning from a bullet wound. It is stated that Gunner West, who was on guard at the Cereal Company's building, where the 7th Battery is quartered, shot Elliott last night when the latter refused to produce a pass for late leave.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE CAMPS

LIGHT DUTIES ONLY.

Owing to recent inoculation, the men of the 186th are able to perform light duties only, and no drills. Yesterday afternoon all the tents were taken down, so that the ground might be aired. Kit inspection was also held.

"London's Own" Battalion has signed on another recruit in the person of D. M. Black.

STABLES COMPLETE.

The splendid new stables for the 63rd Battery are now complete, with blacksmith shop and all general equipment, and the unit has one of the very best camps on the heights.

The battery now has about 180 men recruited and is away over strength.

GETS ANOTHER CHANCE.

A member of the 135th Battalion, who left the battalion on June 10, without leave, appeared in the police court today charged with desertion. The man pleaded guilty, but declared that he had never taken the oath to service. His attestation papers were produced showing that Col. Robson, himself, had administered the oath. As hois record previous to his desertion was a good one he was allowed to rejoin his battalion on suspended sentence, being bailed to appear for sentence, if necessary, at $200.

Members of London Typographical Union, 133, are strongly in favor of the continuance of the daylight-saving scheme. At a union meeting held on Thursday evening, the members voted two to one in favor of the new time.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

INDICATIONS POINT TO BIG SATURDAY MARKET

Little Offered on Square Today—Strawberies Still in Good Demand.

There was a poor market today, two loads of hay being the sole offering. The demand was slow and prices were weaker than they have been for some time, being quoted at from $16 to $17.50 per ton.

Saturday's market should be a large one, from present indications. During the week the markets have, without exception, been poor. Vegetables have been sacrce, poultry and dairy produce and butchers' meats also have been scarce; small berries and fruits have been in demand, especially strawberries, which have been scarce. The demand for strawberries today was still brisk and few berries were offered. Prices ranged from 11c to 12c, wholesale, and 12½c to 13c, retail. This price will likely stand for several days to come, say dealers.

Butter and eggs will likely be in demand on Saturday, according to dairymen. The supply of dairy produce brought in during the week has been so small as a lmost to be negligible. Butter is quoted at 33c and 34c, retail, for creamery, and at 30c for dairy in pound rolls. Eggs sell at 28c and 29c per dozen; in some places 30c is obtained, but the average on the market here has been 29c during the week.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, July 6.—The wheat market closed ⅝c lower for July, ¼c down for October, and ⅛c lower for December. Oats were ⅛c off for July, but unchanged for October. Flax closed ¾c higher for July, and ⅛c more expensive for the October option.

Trading was very quiet. There was only a steady small scalping trade and a limited amount of export buying. No new business was reported, but exporters were large buyers in the cash market.

In the cash market wheat was in good demand. Nos. 2 and 3 northern were very good, but No. 1 was off a bit. Premiums were unchanged to ⅛c lower.

Oats and barley were in fair demand, both at unchanged prices.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.12; No. 2 northern, $1.10¼; No. 3 northern, $1.07⅛; No. 4, $1.01½; No. 5, 95⅝c; No. 6, 91⅞c; feed, 86⅞c.

Chicago, July 7.—Unwelcome rains in the spring crop region tended today to advance wheat values here. Higher prices at Liverpool counted also against the bears. In addition, there were reports current that Kansas farmers were showing a decided disposition to retain holdings.

The opening, which ranged from ⅜@½c higher, with July at $1 03½@1 03⅝, and September at $1 06⅛@1 06¼, was followed by some additional gains and then a moderate reaction.

MONEY MARKETS.

WALL STREET.

New York, July 7—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Irregular price changes at the opening of today's market were mostly within very narrow limits, the principal copper issues being fairly active at nominal gains and declines. Rails also manifested an uncertain trend, Union Pacific, New York Central and Erie recording fractional gains, with a slight setback for St. Paul and Baltimore and Ohio. Reading was unchanged, but showed marked firmness later. Unietd States Steel yielded a fraction, but soon recovered, while the prominent muntitions were again under pressure, with the zinc issues and Marine preferred. Mexicans were in moderate demand, but the movement elsewhere was variable.

Noon.—Encouraged at the lack of demand, traders made a series of drives against specialties, particularly war issues like Baldwin, Crucible and Industrial Alcohol, which made extreme losses of 2 to 3 points before midday. Greater heaviness was shown by the shipping issues, United Fruit losing 3 points. Zinc shares made new low prices for the year, probably in consequence of another break in base metal in the London market. Rails and United States Steel withstood pressure, but Mexican Petroleum yielded with other specialties. Bonds were steady.

COTTON.

New York, July 6.—It was a narrow trading market at times reacting on profit-taking and a weekly Government weather report which in some respects was favorable. The tropical storm has passed inland and the idea is that it will soon subside and do no great damage. At New Orleans the wires worked badly owing to the big storm. From Mississippi came reports of high winds but no damage. From a dozen states there are more reports of damage by boll weevil. Cultivation is backward and the fields rather grassy. There is damage by weevil in Texas and the damage is increasing in Missouri. Weevil is complained of in Arkansas and still injuring the plant in Louisiana.

This season the weevil is expected to play a big part and may have a marked effect on prices, unless a period of hot dry weather keeps down the pest. It is likely to be a trading market for the time being. Those who have hit it right for some time past believe in buying on dips for moderate turns. It rallied in the late trading on local Wall Street covering.

READING

Often proves to you the imperfections of your sight. When it becomes necessary to hold the book nearer or further away from the eyes, depend upon it something is wrong. When letters "run one into another," or the eyes ache, when fatigue follows reading, the condition of the eyes should be investigated. This is advisable, not only that your capability for reading may remain good, but also because straining eyes are a direct tax upon the health. We have an equipment which, together with our experience, enables us to determine exactly the state and needs of your eyes. Our methods are scientific and accurate.

KING'S DAUGHTERS HAVE HAD A VERY BUSY YEAR

Miss Ella Davis Was Re-Elected President at Annual Meeting.

There was an excellent attendance last evening at the annual meeting of the city union of King's Daughters, held in St. George's Church, West London, the four circles of London being well represented.

Miss Louie Gahan, the retiring secretary, gave a most interesting resume of the year's work, telling of the great amount that has been accomplished in philanthropic and other ways. A satisfactory report was presented by the treasurer, Miss French.

The program feature of the evening was an address by Miss Davis, nursing sister, C.A.M.C., who in a vivid manner pictured her experience in military hospital work, both in France and England. Going overseas with the first contingent in September, 1914, Miss Davis and a hundred other nurses spent their first month in England in St. Thomas Hospital, Old London, where Florence Nightingale received her training.

In the course of her address the speaker told of the provision made for ministering to the spiritual as well as physical welfare of the sick and wounded.

Special praise was given to the Red Cross work of the Canadian women, these supplies always being very much appreciated for their excellence, she declared.

One suggestion given was: "We would have very much appreciated whisk brooms, which could be used to greatest advantage."

A duet was given by Misses Boles and Stone.

With the exception of the secretary, all officers were re-elected as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Tilley; president, Miss Ella Davis; 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. B. Sage; 2nd vice-president, Miss Margaret Brown; 3rd vice-president, Miss Thompson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. R. Hardie; recording secretary, Miss Ina McBride; treasurer, Miss French.

At the close the Golden Links Circle of St. George's Church, as hostesses, served delicious refreshments, over which a social hour was enjoyed.

LONDON NURSE BACK AFTER YEAR IN EGYPT; SAYS NATIVES LOYAL

Germans Tried to Stir Them Up But Failed, Says Miss Hilda Stuart.

Miss Hilda Stuart, formerly a staff nurse at Victoria Hospital, who has been on overseas service at Cairo, Egypt, for over a year, has returned, and is visiting with her mother, who now resides in Woodstock.

On her arrival in Egypt she was sent direct to a Red Cross hospital in the suburbs of Cairo, where she remained from July until January. During that time she had numerous British soldiers as patients, some suffering from wounds received in battle, but for the most part medical cases.

The British soldiers, she said, even when badly wounded, were good patients; always cheerful and happy, although suffering a great deal from the intense heat. During May of this year a hot wave struck the place and the temperature registered 118 degrees in the shade, and in the desert it went as high as 150 degrees. This hospital held 700, and was practically full all the time.

From January until the end of May Miss Stuart was stationed at an officers' convalescent hospital in the heart of the city. This had formerly been the old German agency at Cairo, but had been transformed into a hospital, and made an ideal place.

The natives of Egypt are a very quiet people and have little to say about the war, Miss Stuart stated, although she added that she had little chance to meet them. In her opinion they were loyal to the British.

German aeroplanes flew over the city and dropped messages telling the people that they were coming on the next day in order to stir up the natives and cause confusion, but in this they were disappointed, as the natives paid little attention, going about their usual duties unconcernedly.

Although the natives are very interesting, they are very dirty, Miss Stuart said. What impressed her most on her arrival in Egypt was the way the people slept after the noonday lunch. Their stores were all closed, and the natives lay down in doorways, on the sidewalks, and, in fact, any place they could find a shady nook or corner.

Miss Stuart returned to England on an Australian troopship that had formerly belonged to Germany. It had been the Derflinger, not the German battleship of that name, but a merchant vessel that had been captured by the British early in the war.

Many sandstorms visited Cairo while she was in the city, and one of the worst that had been seen for years took place while she was there. Miss Stuart is not sure whether she will go back, but is willing if necessary.

Miss Stuart considers that her eleven months in Egypt, in spite of the hardships she had to endure there, were well worth while.

LONDON BREWERIES TO OPEN QUEBEC AGENCIES

Will Be Able to Ship Products Back From There.

It is quite certain that the local breweries will establish agencies in Quebec.

No warehouses have as yet been secured, but they will be. In this manner their output can be shipped to Quebec, and ordered from there, to be delivered to any part of Ontario. The ultimate consumer will have to pay the freight going and coming.

"We have not established agencies as yet," said Hugh Labatt, "but it is probable that we will do so. Other Ontario concerns are doing it. Ottawa breweries are in a favorable position, as they can team their stuff over to Hull, and ship it from there."

SALE WITHDRAWN

The Labatt home on Queen's avenue was offered for sale by auction yesterday afternoon, but was withdrawn with no bidders. Later parts of the property were offered, but the offers did not approach the reserve bids, so the parcels were also withdrawn.

Hugh Labatt stated that there were many inquiries after the sale, and it is possible that the property may be disposed of privately. No information was forthcoming as to the amount of the reserve bids.
