Urging Written Company Statement.

"Why do you persist in prosecuting this man?" Magistrate Graydon asked of Acting City Solicitor Davidson in police court this morning when Gordon Wright was brought up again to answer an old charge of breach of the plumbing act.

"The prosecution is under the public lic health act," Mr. Davidson pointed out. "This man is charged with a breach of the statute that is in force, it would eliminate the whole trouble of the statute that is in force."

Ald. Douglass will renew his request to the mayor at tonight's meeting of the finance committee asking for a written statement from the London Street Railway Company as to their price to the people. Mayor Wenige, on the other hand says he has given the council the figure made by the company, and that there is no need to add anything to it. Ald. Douglass' demand for this is just politics, he stated. "The reason that I am asking for a definite price from the company," says the alderman, is that the price named by the mayor is simply for the permanent assets of the company and leaves the matter of all rolling stock bought since the price was made to its own decision. That is obviously unfair and is not business. The people have a right to know the whole and outside price of the road, not what part of it only is worth. Reddy Fox Finds Out That Meanness Does Not Pay in the End

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Sometimes meanness may seem to pay, but in the end it never does. No, sir, in the end it never does. The one who does a meanness may for a while think it pays, but sooner or later he will find out that it doesn't pay. It was meanness, nothing but pure meanness, that had led Reddy Fox to try to get Buster Bear driven out of the Old Pasture. There was no reason for it whatever. For two days after he had been so badly stung by the wasps Reddy Fox had remained in his house. He had felt too miserable to go out. He had had time to do a lot of thinking. At the had wished with all his Crst he had wished with all his might that he hadn't thought of get-ting Buster Bear into trouble with those wasps. But as he began to get better he changed that wish a little. Instead of wishing that he hadn't got Buster into trouble, he wished that he himself had had sense enough to keep far enough away from the scene of trouble to have avoided getting into trouble himself. By the time Reddy was able to go out again he had stopped wishing. Now that his own aches and pains were over he tried to make himself believe that after all his meanness had paid. "It was my own fault that

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box THE SEA HAWK

The Young Wife Who Is in Love With the Man She Didn't Marry—A Special Message to Parents With Young Daughters-Holding a Wife Who Doesn't Want To Be Held.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a married woman twenty-two years old. I married when I was seventeen. I was in love with two young men at the same time. The one I really cared for went away to study a trade that same time. The one I really cared for went away to study a trade that would keep him away four years, and while he was gone I fell in love with a soldier boy and married him. Now the first man has come back. He is still in love with me and I like him better than my husband, and I meet him now and then and he tells me that he will never love any woman but me. My husband is very fond of me and good to me, and he is crazy about our little girl, but I think about the other man all the time. Please tell me, what shall I do?

Answer:

The thing for you to do is to buck up and play the game. Be a good sport and act honorably toward your husband, which you are not doing when you are meeting this former sweetheart and mooning over

AN ANXIOUS WIFE.

Your case is just one more illustration of the fact that no girl of seventeen knows her own mind or what kind of a husband she wants or is fit to marry. No child of that age is capable of a

If you had been truly in love with your first sweetheart you would ave been faithful to him and would not have had your fancy captured by the first good-looking soldier boy who came along your way.

As for you thinking that you prefer the man you didn't marry to the man you did marry, why, that is the common state of mind of virtually every married person in the world, for the only perfect husbands and wives are the ones you haven't got. The people that we are married to have got a million faults that irritate us. a million little ways that get on our nerves, a million little characteristics that are hard to get along with.

It is only the people that we don't have to live with every day or come in conflict with who come up to our ideals.

You may be very sure that if you had married your first man you would be comparing him unfavorably with your soldier boy and thinking how much you preferred the latter. Besides, there is such a thing as When you married this man you did not promise to love him until ou met some other man. He has kept his part of the contract. He has been good and kind to you. So it is up to you to do your part by being a good and faithful wife, and making him a comfortable home. And cerainly, you would be a mean and cruel woman to take his little girl away rom him, for no fault of his.

Quit thinking about this other man. Quit seeing him and turn all your thoughts toward being a good wife and mother, and you will be much happier than you would be if you hurt a good man and broke up your home, and half-orphaned your child to follow your fancy for another man whom you probably would not care for either when you got him.

Dear Dorothy Dix-We are three sisters, aged twenty-three, twenty and eighteen. We are very attractive looking and very sociable, and there are many boys who would like to take us out, but our parents won't near of it. They are very strict with us, and will not even let us out at night to visit a friend. When we try to get them to understand that we must have some enjoyment they both get angry and won't let us say another word. Still, they are always nagging at us because we are not married.

Please advise us what to do.

Answer: Your parents are certainly very unreasonable in their attitude toward you, and if they will not listen to you perhaps they will

I would like to say to all parents that they must realize that the way to keep their girls safe is not by locking them up in a room, for any girl will crawl through the transom if you turn the key on her, but to give them plenty of innocent and safe pleasures, and plenty of liberty, with father and mother standing discreetly in the background, keeping a wary eye on the youngsters. Just remember that forbidden waters are sweet, and the more you keep them from a girl the thirstier you make her for them.

Refuse to let a girl receive her boy friends at home, and she will meet hem on the sly. Keep her from wholesome young pleasures, and she will slip off and go to wild parties. Make her a prisoner, and she will hate you and defy you, for this is the day of the emancipated child, and you can't treat your daughters as they were treated in the Middle Ages

Furthermore, how is a girl to get married if she is never allowed to have any beaux? Praying for a husband doesn't bring one. It is the go-getter who gets them. It is a mother's and father's duty to help a girl get settled in life, and to that end they should invite young men to the house and get acquainted with them, so that they can give their daughters the benefit of their advice about whom to select as a life partner. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix-I am married to a woman who is all the world to me out she insists in keeping up a continual correspondence with a man under the pretence that he is an old friend. He often writes her to meet him in the city at certain hotels. They also often go joy-riding and to the theatre together. Don't you think that if this man had any principle he would stop all this when I tell him that it is making me perfectly miserable, and ask him not to see my wife?

Your wife is the one who is chiefly to blame in this case. If she does not care enough for you to consider your feelings, why should you expect the man to do so?

I think you would humiliate yourself by begging him to look after your domestic fences. A man should be able to do that for himself. Certainly he should not ask his rival to do it for him. Evidently your wife holds her marriage vows lightly and has small affection for you.

There is no remedy for a situation such as yours but to forget the woman, and that is probably the thing you cannot do, for the less worthy women are of love the more men seem to love them. Which is one of the things which keeps good, faithful, loving, neglected wives guessing.

but because of personal enmity growing out of land disputes the marriage is opposed by both Rosamund's brother, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Killigrew. After his defeat by Sir Oliver in a duel Sir John's antagonism is somewhat lessened; whereas Peter's becomes increasingly more venomous. In a drunken rage one day, in the presence of Parson Flack and Justice Baine and a group of Lionel!" and Justice Baine and a group of villagers, Peter insults Oliver, strikes and shot home one of its bolts. Then him with his whip, and threatening further punishment, rides off. Oliver, uttering a threat to kill him, starts in furious pursuit. But good judgment masters his temper. Rosamund, he realizes would never forgive him was pressed to his side, and the fingers of it were all smeared with blood that was pressed to his side, and the fingers of it were all smeared with blood that was pressed to his side, and the fingers of it were all smeared with blood that were all smeared with blood that was pressed to his side, and the fingers of it were all smeared with blood that were all smeared with blo were Peter harmed at his hands. For ner sake, therefore, he must restrain his anger. To avoid further embroilment with Peter he decides to leave

Whither he would go he did not then determine. He might repair to done this London, and he might even go upon another cruise—an idea which he had lately dismissed under Rosamund's earnest intercession. But it was im perative that he should quit the neighborhood, and place a distance between Peter Godolphin and himself until such time as he might take Rosamund to wife. The resolve was firmly implanted in him by the time he reached Penar-row, and he felt himself uplifted by it and by the promise it afforded him that thus his future happiness would be assured.

Himself he stabled his horse: for the two grooms he kept, one had by his leave set out yesterday to spend Christmas in Devon with his parents, the other had taken a chill his dagger and ripped away doublet and had been ordered to bed that very day by Sir Oliver, who was conwith those that served him. In the dining-room he found sup-per spread, and a great log fire per spread, and a great log fire-blazed in the enormous cowled fireplace, diffusing a pleasant warmth to through the vast room and flicker-ing ruddily upon the trophies o upon the tapestries and the por-raits of dead Tressilians. Hearing his step, old Nicholas entered bearing a great candlebranch which he set upon the table. "You'm late, Sir Oliver." said the

He found his master still in the same attitude, staring at the and frowning darkly ver's thoughts were still of his bro-ther and Malpas, and so insistent were they that his own concerns were for the moment quite neglected; he was considering whether it was not his duty, after all, to attempt a word of remonstrance. At length he rose with a sigh and got to table. There he bethought him of his sick groom. and asked Nicholas for news of him. Nicholas reported the fellow to be much as he had been, whereupon Sir Oliver took up a cup and brimmed it with the steaming posset.

"Take him that," he said. "There's "No doubt," agreed Sir Oliver. "No need to stay for him. Here is all he needs. Carry that to Tom ere it cools."

It was his object to procure the servant's absence when Lionel should arrive resolved as he was to greet him with a sound rating for

Gas that slips past your pistons

WHEN gas slips past your pistons you not only lose power, but you quickly "wear out" your oil by dilution -the unexploded gas mixes with the oil and thins it and destroys the piston oil seal.

The Wasson Motor Check has proven that the perfect seal made by a good oil like Havoline will greatly reduce this loss of power and dilution, because of its strength and purity.

The gain in power is as high as 25 per cent. The saving in gasoline is correspondingly greater, because with better compression you get action on the full strength of your gas and, in addition, you save the waste of gas by slippage past the pistons.

Havoline Oil really is power.

You can prove this by draining your crank case and filling it with Havoline.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain-How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Eisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of ounces of Eisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas, or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

To conceive of his father, when he was Prince of Wales, doing such a thing, is to impose a severe strain upon one's imagination. Partly, of course, this lack of conventionality on the prince's part is the result of an ubbringing and education far more democratic than that of his predecessors in the title. The education of King Edward, for example, was not democratic at all. Divinity always hedged him as a future king. His associates, as well as his instructors, were most carefully selected. At Oxford his position was that of a distinguished stranger. His grandson's life at Oxford, on the contrary, was not so very much unlike that of an ordinary undergraduate.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 27.-Representative of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, boards of trade and other interests, as well as farmers, appeared today before the agricultural inquiry committee of the Ontario Legislature, which is endeavoring to discover the impediments resting on the farming industry in this province and all gave statements of their views and suggested remedial measures. There was a wide diversity of causes suggested for the present neglect of Ontario farms. Two representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Col A. F. Hatch, Hamilton, president, and J. M. McIntosh, secretary, said recent reductions in the tariff was the chief cause, while J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, emphasized mainly the lack of co-operative marketing, the bur-den of taxation, "excessive salaries" to men in high places, the demands of labor unions for higher wages and shorter hours, and an "unsatisfactory class" of immigrants.

Blames Freight Rates. Senator Gideon Robertson pointed to the heavy freight rates as a bur-den to the farmer, and Lieut.-Col. Brown of London, Ont., expressed the view that a broader social life in the rural communities would help to check the exodus from the farms aid the farming industry gen-

Only Four Safe Hits Prove Sufficient For St. Thomas Seniors To Beat Sarnia

Errors Behind Smoky Joe Help Railroaders To Win

Billings Wins Own Game With Single in Fifth Frame.

EIGHTEEN WHIFFED

Sarnia, Aug. 27.-Joe Allen allowed St. Thomas but four hits here today, but they were so timely and combined so well with shaky support that the Tom Cats romped off with the first of the league play-offs by a 3 to 2 score. Allen and Billings hurled a nice duel, the latter being nicked for seven hits, widely enough scattered so that they played a part in only one of the Sarnia runs. Fifteen hundred fans watched the struggle, a good many of whom were from the Railroad City. Sarnia opened the scoring in the first, when Schaefer singled to center and made second on slow fielding, when the ball, first lost in the sun, rolled away. Jennings popped a foul near the first base bleachers, and Schaefer, darting for third, made home when Evans threw wildly to the danger corner. With one gone in the second, Barclay drew a walk. Binns rolled a grounder which Jennings juggled. Evans popped out, but Doan lifted a single to left, which scored both runners. The Saints added another in the third, when Lindsay was hit by a pitched ball, stole second, made third on Arlein's long fly out, and came home on Billings' single.

Crouchman's two-bagger made a local rally implinent in the field. St. Thomas but four hits here today, matches will play the final round Saturday afternoon.

Harper. Chubb and Rechnitzer had little difficulty in entering the semifinal round. Their opponents in yesterday's play gave them little opposition but Dr. Ross experienced difficulty with O. Rechnitzer.

This game was the feature match of the day, and Ross won after a hardfought three-set match. The tennis was not the best that either player could offer. Both men commenced play making erratic shots. Rechnitzer won the first four games handily and took the first set at 6—4. Ross improved as the game went on, however. His shots were more secure and his placements more accurate. He won the second set at 6—3, and then commenced one of the most interesting battles of the tourney.

Special to The Advertiser.

Kalamazoo, Aug. 27.—Young Pug Hallahan, Kalamazoo star southpaw, came within one of equalling the Mint League strike-out record held by him when he held down 14 London players in the second game of the series this afternoon. The youngster allowed the visitors only four well-scattered hits and shut them out 6 to 0.

Delman was unable to hold back the Kazoos at critical times. The bunching of hits by the locals brought about his downfall, although there was not a chance for him with Hallahan pitching the kind of game he did.

Hallahan, who is the property of the St. Louis Cardinals, has been recalled by that club and will leave to join the Rickey Club at once.

Every member of the London team struck out at least once during the game. The four hits produced were of no account, as the runners were unable to get away from first base. In the fifth inning Jim Kernan got as far as third on a walk and Hallahan's overthrow of first on Sandquist's grounder, but he was unable to get any further. The Kazoos put over a pair in the second on a single by O'Brien, a double by Willis and Murphy's one-sacker. In the third Becker banged the ball up against the center field fence for a homer. Three tallies were hung up in the sixth when Wright was safe on Baker's error. Willis singled, Bubser

ALL-STARS MEET KNITS

International Contest Will Top Off Big Softball Tourney.

Softball, the game that has taken fandom by the ears, has brought the girl athletes into the spotlight, and is a dangerous contender of the hardball a dangerous contender of the hardball game, is to have an unusual share in the holiday blow-off of the Port Stanley season on Labor Day, next Monday.

Arrangements have been concluded insuring the final appearance this year of the Cleveland Favorite Knits the state champions of Ohio, whose games on Dominion Day and Civic Holiday created such sensational interest. The Cleveland girls in their previous matches were able to ease out a victory over the London Brownies. The London & Port Stanley Railway a week ago conducted a tournament at the lakeside to determine who shall have the right to go against the Ohioans on Monday next. The Brownies won the tournament with their strengthened team and when they against the Ohioans on Monday next. The Brownies won the tournament with their strengthened team and when they take the field against the Americans will be further reinforced with the stars of the best girl squads here. It is probable that Miss Tilbury, the little twirling wizard of the East London Red Arrows will be started on the mound for the Brownies in view of the fact that she was able to fan the first six who faced her when she was called into action just before rain interrupted the game on Civic Holiday.

But the softball fans are to have a far greater bill-of-fare than the international match which is to close the bill. The London & Port Stanley Railway is conducting another tournament way is conducting another tournament with most attractive prizes. PLANNING RELAY RACE. One of the events which should create great deal of interest at the Indus-ial Athletic Meet to be held the opentrial Athletic Meet to be held the opening day of the Western Fair will be the relay race between the various girls' softball teams. Each team will select four of its fleetest players. The entry list promises ten or twelve teams to be represented.

The other events all promise a full entry list. Present indications would show that every race is going to be well contested, and an interesting afternoon's program should result.

Overdoing the Calamity Talk.

The Mail and Empire believes Premier King is responsible for everything that is wrong in Canada. Railway deficits, taxation that comes about it.

The Toronto paper is gloomy indeed, and in this way talks to the premier:

"Unemployment is rife in Canada, and it feared will grow steadily worse. How does the prime minister intend to solve this problem? The lumber mills have most of this year's cut in their yards, and the work in the woods this winter will be below normal. Our railways are discharging men, not hiring them."

Not one word does the Mail and Empire groan of helplessness. It seems to think it has road leading to the place. accomplished its task by going through all the oughly familiar from long practice.

It is pursuing the same tactics as Hon. Arthur Meighen, who in his addresses points to all the unfavorable conditions he can cata- A Crop That Would Not Be Wrecked. logue, and leaves a picture that is as gloomy as his deft pessimism can make it.

The Mail and Empire complains that there is unemployment; Mr. Meighen wails that Canadians have left for United States.

The figure 300,000 looks larger than it really is, because up to a few months ago we had no sive was 236,025,000 bushels, placing Canada as system of counting the Canadians who came the fourth wheat producing country of the world. back. It was in 1923 that a many people would have us imagine. secord was established, when 117,011 Canadians seft for United States.

Surely that could not be blamed to the posing fines for breaking the law. Liberal tariff, for the 1923 budget, brought down radical changes, and yet there was a large emigration. United States was enjoying a period there today. The people who left went because they could secure work at high wages, particularly in the building trades. There is no evidence to show that they left because of tariff

They are determined that this country is form of government control would be more headed for the economic bow-wows, and to suit desirable their political convenience it must be made to move in that direction. There must be somethought should observe carefully the defects of thing about which to wail and at the same time point at Mr. King and his government as the cause of it all. So together they go about short time that call for new and more stringent gathering up all the unfavorable conditions they can find, and each and every one is dangled about it?"

They paint a picture much like that of the children of Israel when they found the sea ahead of them, the mountains and the desert on either side and the pursuing hosts of Pharaoh in the rear. Had they stopped and done nothing but wail and groan they would probably have been overtaken by their former taskmasters. But they had good leadership, and the solution was "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward." In a national way we want to hear some such message from our leaders of thought and opinion today. This continual wailing of voices and wringing of hands is not going to furnish the right kind of road signs for the people of Canada.

Herriot Greater Than Poincare.

Premier Herriot has proved himself greater a smell affair. than Poincare. It was Herriot who had to take back to Paris the findings of the London conference; it was he who had to fight for a policy a man running ahead to shout, "Hold your down the street today, a-headin' for the street that would take the French troops out of the horses; here comes the steam piano." Herriot's answer was quick and effective. 'For my part." he said. "I saw in that fleet ships which, during the war, contributed to the allied victory. The sight of that fleet recalled c my mind the allied co-operation, and I believe that in the future it will contribute to our defence if need be." Poincare was ready to sneer at the service rendered to France by the British fleet-Herriot | The sellers won't sell, the buyers won't buy. was ready to pay to that fleet the tribute which every man in France knows was due it.

Without that British fleet in the days of the war there would be no conferences now concerning the future of Germany. All such matters would have been settled by Berlin.

The low water in the lakes this year has laid bare new rock formations at Kettle Point.

Past practice leads to the suspicion that some day will witness a block and tackle erected over these obstinate stones in an effort to cart them from their moorings.

We are a solitary and lonely soul. Our friends have all gone and now we have no one to play with except the two goldfish Our best friend used to be Bill. He was our alter ego, or our fidus Achates, depending on how far you went in Latin at school. But now he is gone. It happened this way:

"I've just bought a radio," Bill said one day. "It's the most wonderiu"Yes," I said, "I've heard it's a great invention."

DOGS.

I was sitting the other day at an outdoor restaurant and noticed a man near me who was showing his little dog to some children. Presently the dog darted out into the street, where it was straightway run over by an automobile and killed. The man was in great distress. He picked up the remains of the animal, wrapped it in paper and carried it away. What had become of the dog? Its life had been suddenly extinguished. Is there a dog heaven, or other-world of any kind?

John Wesley used to think that the animals had a future life, and it certain that some savage tribes were convinced that their favorite dog would follow them to the Happy Hunting Grounds: but however we may settle this theological question, the fact remains that the dog, of all the animals upon earth, comes nearest to man

That is to say, the dog, as Maeterlinck says is the only animal that really loves a man. It is the only point of animal creation that seems to regard the human being affectionately.

There is a faithfulness, a loyalty and love, on the part of the dog that we do not find in any other animal. With this is combined an animality that is just as open and frank. Dogs will fight each other, and they do not like cats, but the dog is the friend and companion of man.

However much we may reason out the harm that is done by dogs, the iseases they give us and the danger of being bitten by them, all this logic is swept away when our canine looks up at us with his large and expressive eyes and we behold his tail wagging in good fellowship. As far as that is concerned, the dog is the only animal that wags his tail as an expression of joy. The horse may wag his tail to keep off the flies, and the members of the cat family wag their tails when they are hungry or contemplate attack, but with a dog, tail-wagging is an expression of geniality of spirit. The dog's affection for man is pure and undefiled. It makes no difference to him whether his man friend be a millionaire or pauper. He cares nothing for what we possess so that we posses enough to give him food once in a while.

Disease Spread May Postpone School Opening

Special to The Advertiser. Detroit, Aug. 27.—Postponement in the opening of Detroit schools will be asked by Dr. Henry S Vaughan, commissioner of health, due to the prevalence of infantile paralysis, it was announced today.

The decision to ask that the schools be kept closed until the disease is checked was reached at a meeting of the board of health last night.

Schools were scheduled to open September 2. "Sixty-four cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the board of health during August." There were six deaths from the disease during that month.

Spanish River Again Leads and Closes For Slight Net Gain.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Aug. 28.—This morning's session of trading on the stock exchange was again extremely dull. Accompanying the inactivity was an easier tone that prevailed throughout the narrow range of issues. Spanish River common led the market in point of activity, and closed at 110¾, for a net gain of ¼. The preferred was unchanged at 120. Second in volume of business came Canadian Ind. Alcohol that stock suffering a recession of ¼ to 34¾. Provincial Paper was the soft spot of the session. This issue, appearing for the first time since March, suffered a loss of four points to the new low of 85. Canadian Car issues were the strong features of the list. The common registered an advance of 2½ to 45½, while the preferred sold up 1½ to 86.

view of the record, although admitting he's at a loss to explain its significance.

C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, Inventor of the device which he calls the "radio photo message continuous transmission machine," was prevailed upon by Dr. David Todd, professor emeritus of astronomy of Amherst and organizer of the international "listening in" for signals from Mars, to take the record.

The film, 30 feet long, and 6 inches wide, discloses in black on white a the developed film.

Contrary to reports, the markets preeding the Western Fair will be larger filled to its capacity this morning.

Grapes are plentiful this year, owing to an increased acreage, the quantity surpassing last year's offerings by well over 10 per cent. Although they will not appear in London for some time, the first shipment from the Niagara district will take place in two weeks.

Corn and potatoes were by far the most popular vegetables on the square today, corn bringing from 20c to 25c a dozen, and potatoes 40c a half bushel. Celery was also an excellent attraction. Pumpkins appeared for the first time this year at 30c each, but at 10 o'clock only one pumpkin of the load was left, and someone had an option on it. Egg plants sold from 10c to 15c each, and mushrooms at $1.35 per lb—that is, the cultivated variety. Musk melons, 10c to 50c, according to size. Cauliflowers remained at 10c to 15c each, and squash sold at 35c each. Plums were quoted at 10c per quart box, or 75c per ll-cuart basket quoted at 10c per quart box, or 75c per 11-quart basket.

squash sold at 35c each. Flums were quoted at 10c per quart box, or 75c per 11-quart basket.

Only two loads of hay were offered, and they brought from $9 to $11 per ton. It is reported that there would probably be a good demand for hay tomorrow, owing to the fact that several customers have already placed their orders for good quality hay.

Wheat is now bringing $1.20 per bushel, and old oats range around $1.70 per cwt.

Butter and egg prices remain unchanged.

Gooseberries experienced a renewed revival this morning, when they appeared at 10c a box

New York, Aug. 27.—Raw sugar was inactive but firmer today. No sales were reported in nearby positions, and spot prices were nominally unchanged at $5.46 for Cubans, duty paid. Shipment sugars were higher on sales of 20,000 bags of Cuban for the first half September at $5.53.

Opening 1 point higher to 1 lower, prices advanced 5 to 6 points on covering and Cuban buying, prompted by firmness in the spot market, but reacted under liquidation, closing 2 points higher to 1 net lower. September $3.68. December $3.77. March $3.36. May $5.44.

EGG MARKET REVIEW Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Aug. 27. — Market remains firm. Receipts in some sections give evidence of having been held presumably for an advance in the market. According to the regulations, eggs must be paid for on a strictly graded basis, therefore, the longer eggs are held, the greater the deterioration, causing a loss to the producer or shipper for marketing low grade stock. In the first six months of 1924 The Toronto Daily Star carried 25,000 more lines of Druggists' advertising than the three other Toronto Daily newspapers combined.

Druggists' Advertising, First 6 Months of 1924
TORONTO DAILY STAR 87,580 Lines-58%
2nd Toronto Daily 60,120 "
3rd Toronto Daily 2,240 " 42%

4th Toronto Daily 120

Now these merchants have of necessity made a close study of Toronto newspapers and know from actual experience the relative values of each. The daily turnover of a retail druggist is made up of a multiplicity of individual sales, each small in amount. Many sales to individual purchasers is necessary to create volume. You will understand his merchandising problem if you look at his shelves. Notice the variety of lines carried—toothpaste, perfumes, talcum powders, rubber goods, candy, tobacco, hair nets, fountain pens, stationery—every toilet requisite—and all drug products.

In one double page spread recently carried in The Daily Star there were 142 different articles advertised (not one over $1.25) and The Toronto Star was the only Toronto Daily newspaper that carried the advertisement.

Because—his judgment as well as the judgment of all other retail druggists and manufacturers of drug products is based on the knowledge that The Daily Star is the home paper—on the knowledge that The Star is everybody's paper.

With its concentrated circulation of 132,028 daily—over 22,000 in excess of any other Toronto Daily newspaper—The Star not only reaches the great mass of Toronto buyers but those "Close to Toronto" towns whose people read and buy from advertising they read in their Daily Newspaper—The Toronto Star.

A Star representative will tell you how this Toronto Market can be reached at low advertising cost

A flirt was fair Nellie, And like Nellie Kelley She liked them all guessing a heap.
She liked things a-humming
The boys all a-coming
To follow her gently like sheep.

The day came, however, When all her endeavor
To keep her heart cold went for naught.

She lost out in dining, Went dreaming and pining, Her fancy was hopelessly caught.

Her heart's wild desire. She made up her mind to depart, She sat in a chair, While they moved down her hair, And returned with the "Bob of Her Heart."

The Mater.

"Hey, there!" yelled Gap Johnson, of Rumpus Ridge. "Dry up that racket and go to sleep! What in roaring, sizzling torment is the mat-ter with you little cusses, anyhow?" "Runt brung a live frog to bed with him," howled another one of the children, "and the blame thing won't keep still."

An Expert.
They had advertised for a man to o general clerical work, and the first do general clerical work, and the first applicant to answer the ad was a strapping six-footer.

The boss, who was doing the interviewing, asked him: "Are you good at figures?"

"Well," the applicant answered, modestly, "I just gave up a position as life guard at a popular beach resort."

Baffled At Last.

"Red" Mike was a safe cracker. In fact, he was considered, by his colleagues in the underworld and the police of a dozen cities, to be not one of, but THE best and most artistic safe cracker roaming at large. There was nothing made (outside of a chilled steel vault) that "Red" couldn't open, quickly and neatly. It was his proud boast that if he ever found a "tin can" which failed to yield to his manipulations, he'd retire from the profession.

This morning "Red" was led away to a padded cell. They found him in his own kitchen struggling to open a small tin of sardines with the "key" that came with it.

Too Risky. Too Risky.
