Wedding Bells

Dagg—Derbyshire
A quiet but pretty wedding took place on August 25th at the home of the bride's mother, Athens, Ontario, when Birdie Irene, youngest daughter of Mrs. M. E. Derbyshire was united in marriage to Ernest Milton Dagg, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dagg of Ottawa. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. S. F. Newton. The bride who was given away by her brother Lorne Derbyshire, wore a french gown of blue silk and hand embroidered gold cloth, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and maiden hair fern. At the conclusion of the ceremony a delectable luncheon was served, only the immediate relatives being present. Later the bride and groom left for Ottawa and Toronto, Mrs. Dagg travelling in a navy blue taffeta suit with feathered hat to match. On their return they will reside in London, Ontario.

Methodist Church Notes

On Sunday last, the lesson period over, members of the school with many visitors gathered in the Sunday School Room, where two very interesting events took place. The pastor Rev. S. F. Newton, after a few appropriate words, unveiled a picture of those who had been members of the school and had given their services to Christ and the Church either in home or foreign fields. Among them was noted Miss Green who leaves next week for Egypt to teach in a Moslem School. This is the second group that now adorns the walls of the S. S. Room and among them are such names as Hartwell, Kilborn, B.B. Brown, Warren, W. T. Brown and Blanchard.

After the unveiling Mr. M. B. Holmes and Miss Belle Wiltse came to the platform the first named reading an address expressing the worth of Mr. T. S. Kendrick and his family, and the last named handing a beautiful gold headed Umbrella to Mr. Kendrick and a cut glass Water Set to Mrs. Kendrick as parting gifts on the occasion of their leaving for Toronto. Mr. Kendrick feelingly replied and said that no other Sunday School or Church could ever fill the place in his life Athens does. He has been S. S. Superintendent for the past thirteen years.

POISON IVY EASILY KNOWN

"Look out for that poison ivy," is a oft-repeated cry these picnic days. To know the poison ivy is to avoid it, yet to admire it for its sturdy self-defence.

"The poison ivy is a member of the sumac family, having as relatives the vinegar tree, the smooth sumac, and the smoke-bush.

"Many people confuse the Virginia creeper with the poison ivy, a confusion which nothing but carelessness in remembering the characteristics of plants could bring about.

ed as being poison ivy oftener than poison ivy is accredited with being a Virginia creeper.

"The poison ivy, or poison oak, as some call it, is a prodigious climber, inclined to run over everything in sight.

"While we very naturally dislike a plant that poisons us when we touch it, yet if we investigate the reason for its poison we discover that a vast number of plants develop poisons and near-poisons.

"The poison of this ivy is a powerful, non-volatile oil which penetrates the pores of the human skin and develops hosts of tiny itching blisters.

"Some of them store their poison in their seeds, others in their root-stocks, others in their roots to protect their progeny from harm.

"And so, when the poison ivy learned to give off its poison by contact rather than through its own destruction it simply went a step further than its neighbors.

UR OF THE CHALDEES.

Once Great City is Now but Group of Mounds.

The British, on their recent advance in Mesopotamia, passed over or at least near the ancient city of Ur, where Abraham was born and grew up; and thence that he departed with his family and relations on a journey to Palestine that was destined to be so productive of important events for the Hebrews.

We are accustomed to think of the days of the early Sumerians as almost lost in antiquity, but Ur was prehistoric, eight thousand or 9,000 years ago that great Chaldean city was a seaport on the shore (or near it) of the Persian gulf.

Ur-to-day (or what remains of it) is 120 miles as the crow flies from the head of the Persian gulf. Surely it has not moved; but the alluvial deposits carried down by rivers, have built out the land, so that the head of the gulf is no longer where it used to be.

Ur-to-day is about half-way between the head of the gulf and the ruins of ancient Babylon. It is near the Euphrates—across the river from the modern town of Nazareth—and is represented by a vast group of mounds that conceal remains of extraordinary interest.

Out of one huge mound has been dug the remains of a pyramidal tower which is regarded by Assyriologists as the most perfect specimen of Babylonian architecture known. It is built in a series of stages, like the tower of Babel, with a continuous flight of broad steps running up the outside. It originally supported a temple—the great Temple of the Moon.

The Building of the Temple

Commentary.—I. The temple built (5:1-7: 61). Solomon's great work, that for which his reign is most noteworthy, was the building of the temple with which his name is connected. David had made magnificent preparations for this building, and Solomon entered heartily upon the undertaking. Hiram, king of Tyre, co-operated enthusiastically with Solomon in the plan, furnishing timber and stone, and placing his skill in the execution of fine work at his disposal. The temple was built upon Mount Moriah, the southeastern hill of Jerusalem. A large space was levelled off for this structure. The temple itself was ninety feet long, counting a cubit eighteen inches, thirty feet wide, and thirty feet high. It was built facing the east, hence its longer dimension was east and west. The porch extended the whole width of the temple proper and was fifteen feet deep and one hundred and eighty feet high. In front of the temple and forming a part of the porch were set up two pillars, called Jachin, meaning, the Lord will establish, and Boaz, strength. The holy place, which was entered directly from the porch, was thirty feet wide and sixty feet long. Beyond this was the most holy place, thirty feet in width, thirty in length and thirty in height. The dimensions of the temple were double those of the tabernacle. Chambers were built against the temple on the north, west and south sides. Entering the temple proper was the court of the priests and surrounding this was another court known as the court of the Gentiles. Inside the court of the priests or the inner court, and in front of the porch of the temple was the great altar of burnt-offerings and between that and the porch was the brazen sea. In the holy place were the golden candlestick, the altar of incense and the table of showbread. In the most holy place was the ark of the covenant. There were two cherubim whose wings met in the centre over the mercy-seat, which was the cover of the ark of the covenant. Their outstretched wings extended the entire width of the room. The time occupied in building the temple was seven years. The stone and timber were prepared before being brought to the place, so that there was no sound of hammer while the parts were being placed in position.

II. The ark of the covenant brought in (8: 1-11). Solomon assembled the elders of Israel.—The temple was finished in the eighth month of the eleventh year of Solomon's reign, and in the seventh month of the following year the dedication took place. Solomon called an assembly of Israel to bring the ark of the covenant into the temple and to dedicate the temple itself. The elders were the chosen representatives of the various tribes of Israel. The ark of the covenant was brought into the temple on the day of the dedication. The ark of the covenant was brought into the temple on the day of the dedication. The ark of the covenant was brought into the temple on the day of the dedication. The ark of the covenant was brought into the temple on the day of the dedication.

while they stood to hear his words. He gave the history of the building of the house. The thought of this enterprise was in the heart of David, but, because of his being much engaged in war, he was not allowed to build the temple. The Lord gave David the promise, however, that a son of his would accomplish the work. God commended David for his desire and interest in the matter. Solomon testified that the Lord had placed him upon the throne as his father's successor, and that he had built the house of the Lord. The king made particular reference to the ark of the covenant. The most holy place of the temple was set apart as a resting-place for the ark. 31-53. In the remainder of his prayer Solomon besought the Lord for mercy for his people when they should be in distress. Their troubles would come as a result of their failure to obey and honor him. This prayer called for forgiveness for the people on condition that they confessed their sins, turned from them and asked the Lord for pardon, praying with their faces toward Jerusalem. The prayer covered times of drought, famine, pestilence and war. Not only might the prayer of the Israelite be heard, but even the stranger, who turned toward God's people and prayed with his face toward the temple, would receive mercy. 54-66. Solomon arose from his knees and pronounced a benediction upon the people. This was followed by a great sacrifice in which thousands of victims were offered.

Questions.—In what year of Solomon's reign was the building of the temple begun? How long was it in being built? Describe the preparation of the materials? Where was the temple built? Give the size of the temple. Describe the parts of the temple. From what place was the ark of the covenant taken? What did Solomon say to the people before he prayed? For what did he pray? What took place after the prayer and benediction?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.

Topic.—The significance of a house of worship.

- 1. Building the temple.
11. Dedicating the temple.
111. The spiritual significance.
1. Building the temple. During his forty years' reign three great tasks occupied the attention and engaged the efforts of Solomon, the erection of the house of God, of his own house and building the wall of Jerusalem. The building of the temple was commenced in the fourth year of his reign, the four hundred and eightieth from the exodus, and occupied seven and a half years. The temple site was Mount Moriah, consecrated generations before by the typical sacrifice of Isaac, the child and heir of promise. The temple was modeled after the Sinaitic pattern of the tabernacle, being exactly double in all its proportions. While not permitted to execute his pious purpose, David made large preparations for the building of the temple. Solomon was willingly and ably assisted by Hiram, king of Tyre. The slopes of Lebanon furnished timber of cedar and fir. The chief of the skilled workmen were the namesake whose special gift seems to have been designing in all its branches (2 Chron. 2: 13, 14). The entire work of hewing, polishing and fitting was done in forest and quarry, and beam and stone fell into place without sound of hammer, or tool of iron at the temple site. The first lesson is foreseen here for the interests of the kingdom. Men, depart, but the church and kingdom remain. It is wise to provide for our own defense. Too often these great interests are neglected. A healthy competence is sounder in folly and sin. We also learn co-operation in the work of the Lord.

11. Dedicating the temple. The dedication of the temple was the grandest ceremony ever performed under the ceremonial dispensation. To it Israel looked back as the culminating glory of their nation. Rival sanctuaries were done away. The new temple was brought into the service of Jehovah. The central figure, a royal priest, stood in some sense typical of our great High Priest. The sacrifices offered upon this occasion were numberless and priceless (1 Kings 8: 5). Amid the splendors of its now abode the ark remained the same as of old. "The glory of Jehovah filled the house of Jehovah," the visible sign of acceptance and indwelling. Solomon's dedicatory prayer is unequalled in sublimity and comprehensiveness.

111. The spiritual significance. Of itself the house was nothing. It was the presence of Jehovah which gave significance to the magnificent structure. Its glittering splendor was as typical as its sacrifices and services. Both passed with the dispensation of shadow and ceremony (Heb. 10: 1). Spiritual worship finds no expression or assistance in outward splendor. When its sacred courts had become transformed into a scene of traffic, Jesus commenced and closed his public ministry by cleansing the sanctified precincts. The house of God can never be secularized without profanation and spiritual disaster. The giddy feet of pleasure should never trip through the holy place nor the hand of greed reach out for gain within its sacred portals. It is the centre of spiritual activities.

OPENING OF PANAMA CANAL

In 1914, on August 15, the Panama Canal was formally opened to the world. The canal had been nine years in building. The total cost of construction, exclusive of fortifications, civil government and payments to the republic of Panama, was approximately $357,000,000. The first passage after the formal opening of the canal was made by the steamship Ancon. Colonel Goethals, governor of the canal zone, was on board. The passage from Cristobal to Balboa was accomplished in nine hours. A despatch from Teheran to the London Daily Mail says it is reported that a counter-revolution has broken out in Daghestan, on the Caspian Sea, and that Bolsheviks are evacuating Baku. The Bolsheviks are retreating toward Resht, pursued by Persian Cossacks.

Evangeline Immortalized in Bronze

(1) At the unveiling of the statue of Evangeline by Lady Burnham, when the Imperial Press Conference party visited Grand Pre, N.S. (2) Some members of the party assembled around Evangeline's well.

Evangeline is the beautiful conception of an American poet whose verses we learnt to read on both sides of the Atlantic when we were children. History has shed another light on the Acadia story. We see today that British policy was not as black as it was painted. Whatever may be the truth of this story, as a woman, and an English woman, I shall always regard it as one of the most painful episodes in our annals. Thank God these cruel old days lie behind us forever, and from the fate of Evangeline has sprung a great wave of sympathy which has been carried on the healing hand of time. It is a good omen that the beautiful resting upon us all today, who are here to do honor to that sweet woman. Under those rays in your wonderful land so full of beauty and promise the old hatred is dead. I have now the great honor and privilege of unveiling the statue of Evangeline. The statue, which is of bronze, is the work of Henri Hebert from a model by his father the late Philippe Hebert, a descendant of the Acadians of whom Evangeline was one. It is a magnificent work of art, and was presented to the Park at Grand Pre by the Dominion Atlantic Railway, which is now part of the C. E. R.

Huge Fraud Which Nearly Wrecked England

When Government Went Into "Finance."

The abrupt ending of "Ponzed finance" with the arrest of Charles Ponzi, of Boston, recalls to bankers the fact that the desire to make money speedily in ventures out of the beaten path of conservative investment is not confined to individuals. Governments have sometimes yielded to it, according to the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York, and with the usual discouraging results. Such was the experience of the British Government some 200 years ago when it undertook to get rid of the unfunded national debt by backing an operation into which it entered with the South Sea Company. The details of this venture are covered in the trust company's study, entitled "English Public Finance."

WHY BEAUTY FADES

A CONDITION DUE ENTIRELY TO POOR, WATERY BLOOD.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved. When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health, no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brickville, Ont.

BLUEBEARD WAS LUCKY

Paris, Aug. 27.—When being taken back to St. Lazare Prison to-day after revisiting the scene of the murder of her husband, the shipping of his body in a trunk, Madame Bessarabo, the postess-murderess, and her daughter, passed Landru, charged with being a modern "Bluebeard," in a corridor. Landru is said to have slain 13 fiancées. Turning to the daughter, Miles, Jacques, Landru removed his hat and bowed suavely. "Delighted to have the pleasure," he said. "I asked later why he did not shake hands also with Madame Bessarabo. Landru shrugged and said: "How fortunate I was not to have met her before."

LUCKY TO GET 50c ON DOLLAR

Little Cash to Pay Creditors of Ponzi.

Liabilities $7,000,000, Assets Under $3,000,000.

Boston, Aug. 27.—A payment of less than 50 cents on the dollar to the creditors of Charles Ponzi's get-rich-quick scheme, if official estimates of his liabilities are correct, was indicated by his statement of assets at the receivers' hearing to-day. During the federal receivers that he had disclosed all he knew, Ponzi told of assets which Robert G. Dodge, counsel for the receivers, declared were "of worth estimate of his liabilities. The official estimate of his accounts, made after an audit by several hundred stands at $7,600,000. Ponzi said he thought this was an error. He claimed that he was solvent, and had nearly four millions of assets to meet his liabilities, which he set at three millions. Ponzi told of loans of $20,000 each to Henry Chmielnski, president, and William S. McNary, treasurer, of the Hanover Trust Company, which was Ponzi's principal depository, and which went to the wall with his collapse. His announcement that he had loaned $10,000 to Daniel P. Desmond, treasurer of the Lawrence Trust Company, of Lawrence, was followed by Desmond's resignation later in the day. Ponzi said he had made loans of several hundred dollars to the chief of police of Sharon and to John A. Ray, lieutenant of police of Somerville. Miss Lucy Mell, 18 years old, who since last April had been Ponzi's office manager, succeeded him on the stand. She said she knew of no source of income for Ponzi except what he received from investors. When asked if she had ever seen in the office any information reply coupons, she said there had been "one or two there, which we used as samples for investors." She had transferred money abroad only once or twice, she testified, and she did not know what the drafts were for.

RUNCATY AGAIN TALKS IN MADRY

Vienna, Aug. 27.—Reports continue to arrive here that a Royalist restoration is imminent in Budapest and in political circles which are usually well informed it was declared, according to the correspondent, that France was behind the Hungarian monarchist movement, since she believes that only by a monarchy is it possible to re-establish law and order in Hungary. There is great interest being manifested here in the rapprochement between Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Roumania, the so-called "Little Entente."

To Mr. and Mrs. Dunham and Family—

Dear Friends,—Once again on the eve of your departure to a distant home, we have gathered in the old home to bid you farewell. Here we have often shared your hospitality and enjoyed many hours of pleasure and social intercourse. You have also in all times shared in our sorrows as well as our joys. The memory of this will always be a strong tie between us.

You will long be missed by us when your places are vacant.

As a family you are all richly endowed with those qualities of heart and mind that will endear you to all, both the young and the older, wherever you may be; new friends and new interests will come to you.

We wish to express to you all our warmest, heartiest wishes for health, happiness and prosperity in the interesting place where your new home awaits you.

Accept this little gift and in its daily use it may call up a pleasant thought.

May Heaven bless and keep you till we meet again, if not here we will in a better land.

Signed on behalf of the friends and neighbors.

THEY WENT A-DRIVING WITH PRESIDENT WILSON.

"A cat may look at a king," but here are the three American boys who have ridden and talked with the man who has been hailed by all Europe as the savior of the world. Some men have lived to a ripe old age and have walked with kings, but it is not every American boy who, after being chased by a "cop" for wading in a creek, has been invited to ride with the President of the United States. Left to right: Mickey Deegan, Marcus Mensh and "Tilly" Falcone are shown in the photograph talking over the good time they had with the President. "The President is a regular feller," said the kids. He asked us about the movies an' everything. Mickey's father is a taxi driver and of Irish extraction; Marcus is the son of an Austrian grocer, and "Tilly" is the son of an Italian barber.

IT'S SO EASY IT'S FUN!

It's the simplest sort of a job to take an old, time-worn chair, a small can of Glidden Jap-a-lac and a brush and in a few minutes' time bring out the beauty of that chair you've hidden for years.

And it's fun to see its youthfulness return under the magic of the brush; to see again—through this clear, easy flow—its original beauty and double-durable varnish stain—the beautiful grain of the natural wood.

A small son of William Halladay, while taking off belts from the chopper in R. Haskins' box factory, had the misfortune to get his left hand caught in the knives and lost his three front fingers. An older son fell off a horse and had his shoulder dislocated.

Miss Laura Bromwell, after breaking an air record by looping the loop 87 times, took out her powder puff and nonchalantly powdered her nose. The establishing of this record marked the dedication of the Hazelhurst Field, and used by the United States Army fliers during the war. Miss Bromwell went up more than 10,000 feet before she started on her record-breaking descent. She was aloft an hour and fifteen minutes, and was in the machine alone. She received her pilot's license a year ago. She is twenty-three years old.

This issue of "Canada's sportsmen's" monthly contains several live-blooded stories of adventure with canoe, gun, rod and trap in Canada. In addition to these stories of fact and fiction there are the usual high class Guns and Ammunition Department for the "gun crank"; the Angling Department for the Waltonian and the Kennel and Conservation Departments for the admirers of the canine and the lovers of true sport. A Bryan Williams, the well known big game hunter takes the reader on another "leg" of the hunting trip into the hills of British Columbia, after sheep and goats. IRISH POLICE OFFICER SLAIN BEFORE FAMILY

Going Home From Church - Charged With Murder - By Jury.

OTHER OUTRAGES

Seven Constables Shot Dead, Many Wounded, Over Week-End.

Belfast, Aug. 21.—Police Inspector Swanzy, against whom a verdict of wilful murder was given by a coroner's jury in connection with the assassination of Mayor MacCurran, in March, was shot dead to-day while proceeding to his home from church at Lisburn, to which town he had been transferred after the finding of the coroner's jury.

Turning, the assassins ran along Castle Street. The congregation was just emerging from Lisburn Cathedral. Captain Woods, commandant of the Lisburn branch of the Ulster Volunteers, made a dash for the assassins, although only armed with a stick. The assassins fired on Woods, a bullet shattering the stick in his hand. He was not injured.

The murderers then fired at other persons who had joined in the pursuit, but without effect, and jumped into a waiting taxicab and drove off toward Belfast. All the roads converging on the city were promptly patrolled by police and military, but the assassins escaped.

A BLOODY WEEK-END. Belfast, Aug. 22.—Official telegrams received at Dublin Castle to-day indicate there has been organized onslaughts against the Irish constabulary, and that thus far during the week-end, several have been killed.

A patrol sergeant and three men at Dundalk were suddenly confronted by six armed men, who fired. Constable Brennan fell dead, and Constable Isabel and Witherden, recruited from the British army, were badly wounded.

Sergt. Maunsel was shot dead last night at Macroom, County Cork. A police patrol was ambushed near Naas, County Kildare, Saturday night. A constable was killed and a sergeant seriously wounded; two constables are missing.

Constable O'Hanlon was shot dead at Killybegs. Four policemen were ambushed at Brandon, in Cork County. They escaped after a battle. Numerous other incidents of less seriousness were reported.

Dublin, Aug. 22.—A police patrol was ambushed Sunday afternoon at Dundalk. One constable was shot dead and two others wounded. The physician of the Cork jail has recommended the release of the men under arrest there who are on a hunger strike.

Hotels catering to the tourist trade are receiving letters demanding that they refuse to shelter "enemies" of Ireland. The proprietress of the famous Wooden Bridge Hotel in the Wicklow Mountains received such a letter, but refused to recognize the demand unless it bore the stamp of "The Irish Republic."

The bodies of Arthur Griffith and other prominent Sinn Feiners in Dublin were ransacked Friday night for private papers.

FOR SELF-GOVERNMENT. The deputy lieutenants of County Cork, summoned to a meeting yesterday by the Earl of Brandon, King's Lieutenant of Cork, to-day passed the following resolution:

"We realize that in recent years the Government has failed to secure observance of the law and has lost the confidence of all classes. We see Ireland rapidly drifting to anarchy, and we therefore feel that our duty to our country and the Empire forces us to acquiesce in the only solution of the existing trouble which appears to offer the prospect of lasting peace to Ireland.

"As the bill now before Parliament is not acceptable to any party in Ireland, we are of the opinion that an immediate effort should be made to settle the question by provisions which, while preserving Ireland within the Empire and safeguarding the security of Great Britain, will give effect to the desire of a majority of the Irish people for self-government with adequate control of all Irish affairs, including taxation.

"We urge upon the Government that every month's delay in adopting this course renders the situation more dangerous and the chances of an agreement more remote."

London, Aug. 21.—(By the Canadian Associated Press)—Cardiff is in the throes of a municipal strike. The cemetery workers are affected, and mourners have had to dig graves for their dead themselves.

GET NO PEACE THROUGH MINSK

Next Sitting of Delegates Likely the Last.

Poles Will Not Discuss Disarmament.

London, Aug. 21.—The unstable military situation has made a negotiated peace impossible. The general impression at Minsk is that the next sitting of the Russo-Polish Peace Commissioners will be the last, and that peace will not be made.

The above is the substance of a despatch to the London Daily Herald from its correspondent at the conference. According to the despatch, a rupture was barely avoided Monday when the Polish reply which the correspondent characterized as a "rejection of all the vital peace conditions," was made.

SAFETY FIRST FOR THE SULTAN

Constantinople, Aug. 21.—The Sultan does not favor the proposal made on the initiative of the Grand Vizier that he go to Anatolia at the head of an anti-Nationalist force, as the sole remaining method to crush the Nationalist movement.

IN HIS OWN TRAP.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Robert Davis, forty-seven years old, and a well-to-do farmer of March Township, three miles from Carp, Ont., was found dead this morning in his own home, with a bullet wound in his head and a discharged gun not far away. The discovery was made by a hired man, with whom he had made an arrangement to cut some grain on his farm this morning.

While it is not definitely known how the fatality occurred, it is thought the late Mr. Davis fell a victim to his own trap which he had laid for burglars. He was a bachelor and lived alone on his own homestead. He was greatly troubled by burglars who, on two occasions this spring, broke into his house, and in each case stole either money or property to the extent of almost $200. Some time ago the house was again entered and the burglars got off with some $89 worth of booty.

Mr. Davis decided to put a stop to these proceedings and arranged an inner and an outer door between which he placed a loaded gun in such a manner that should the outer door be broken through the man entering would find the inner door unlocked and gain entrance into the house, apparently easy.

SOVIET ARMIES' SECOND DEFEAT IN A FEW DAYS

Red Forces Cut Through in Two Places by the Poles.

80,000 PRISONERS

One Force of 60,000 May Be Forced Into Prussia and Interned.

Warsaw, Aug. 21.—The Russian army has been cut through in two places. The general staff has announced that 80,000 prisoners have been taken. To this must be added the killed, wounded and sick of the Russian army since the fighting became intense. The figures mean that three, and perhaps four, of the armies that composed the Russian line have been put completely out of commission, only scattered, disorganized units remaining.

The first cut was made in the Russian army by the junction of the Polish troops from Thorn and Soldau. The line from Thorn to Soldau forms a complete barrier against the escape of the Russian troops that formed the extreme west of the Russian advance. It is reported that this force consists of two divisions under a Tartar Prince.

The second cut in the Russian front has been made in the direction of Bielsk, 50 miles east of Warsaw. The town itself is in the hands of the Poles. It is evidently on the edge of the fighting. The Poles here are fighting northward and are practically on the border of East Prussia. When they reach it every Russian unit to the west in the Lomza region will be cut off. Lomza has been occupied.

With the capture of Bielsk and Lomza all of the various Government districts of Poland, excepting Suwalki, 150 miles north-east of Warsaw, and Grodno, 50 miles south-east of Suwalki, are declared to be cleared of Bolsheviks.

"The number to the west of the Polish advance toward Bielsk is estimated at more than 60,000. Polish military men believe they must either surrender or make a run for the East Prussian boundary. Once crossing it, they would be interned."

SECOND BATTLE IN 10 DAYS. The present condition on the battle front actually marks the completion of the second great battle in the last ten days. The Poles, concentrating at Warsaw, whipped the Russians in the actual battle for possession of the city.

Immediately after the recent battle at the gates of Warsaw the Russians retreated until they could reorganize, and then settled down to meet the Poles. In several instances they took the offensive. But the Poles, imbued with victory, swung on and have driven the Russians to a second retreat. It is as if the French had forced the Germans into a second retreat from the Aisne in 1914.

At the extreme south of the line the Russian cavalry, under General Budenny, is in full retreat toward the East. All danger to Lemberg is considered over.

Five fresh Bolshevik divisions on the way to Poland from Siberia multiplied, refusing to continue to the Polish front.

Russian orders commanding the burning of ammunition dumps and transport wagons, and the mounting of infantry on horses to facilitate their escape, have fallen into the hands of the Polish general staff.

Of 21 Russian divisions on the front from Brest-Litovsk around to the Danzig corridor, six are estimated to have been destroyed entirely, eight others to have been impaired 50 per cent., and seven badly shattered, but able to withdraw.

Ponzi wants the question of his solvency to be determined by a jury.

HOW THE POLISH CAPITAL WAS SAVED. The military situation on the Polish front is indicated on the above map. The Poles, in a desperate effort to save Warsaw and the complete over-running of their country, broke across the Vistula south of Warsaw in a drive eastward, and smashed northward from the region of Cholm, the two attacking forces effecting a junction south of Siedlce, capturing thousands of Bolshevik soldiers.

Poland Turns Down Soviet Peace Terms

London, Aug. 21.—Poland's reply to the peace terms presented by the Russian Soviet delegation at Minsk amounts to a flat rejection, says the Manchester Guardian's Minsk correspondent in a wireless despatch filed in that city on Monday.

"Out of the 15 Russian demands," he continued, "only one, that relative to demobilization, is accepted, and that only on condition that Russia will take similar course—that is to say, Russia must demobilize at the same time Poland disbands her forces."

"The terms relative to disarmament, the closing of munitions plants, and the delivery of munitions to Russia by Poland, are indignantly rejected."

"Bolshevik terms relative to a Polish workers' militia, and control by the Russians of the railway line from Bialystok southward, are declared beyond discussion. The boundary line between Poland and Russia, as laid down by Earl Curzon, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, is declared unacceptable, as it involves a third partition of Poland."

NORTHERN SOVIET ARMY IS NEGOTIATING A SURRENDER

London, Aug. 21.—Negotiations leading to surrender to the Poles have been begun by the northern Russian Bolshevik army, according to a Vienna despatch received here. Latest information from Warsaw indicates the advance of the Polish armies continues rapidly, and that the Bolshevik seem anxious only to lose contact with the Poles. The number of prisoners captured is said to approximate 60,000.

WARSAW AUG. 21.—Kolo, an important town near the East Prussian frontier north of Lomza, has been taken by Polish forces which have been sweeping rapidly northward in pursuit of the retreating Bolsheviks. More than 10,000 prisoners, who were cut off from the main body of the Soviet army, have been captured in this region. Reports from various fronts, particularly the northern sectors of the line, indicate the Bolsheviks are demoralized and fleeing everywhere in great disorder.

MOSCOW'S STORY. London, Aug. 21.—Polish and Russian Bolshevik forces are engaged in local fighting with alternating success from Brest-Litovsk southward to Wlodawa, according to an official statement issued yesterday in Moscow and received here by wireless.

SHORTAGE IN SUGAR IS DENIED

Soon to Retail at 15c in U. S., is Belief.

Stocks Larger Than in Past Three Years.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The "shortage" which created a recent panic in the raw sugar market and which sent prices skyrocketing is now officially disclosed to have been a figment of the imagination, if it were not designed for the purpose of increased prices. This shortage never really existed. On the contrary, while housewives and others were doing without sugar completely, the sugar stocks on hand in the United States were larger by 17 per cent. than at any time in the last three years.

These facts were made public by the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the Department of Agriculture to-day. Belief is expressed by the bureau that sugar will soon be retailed at 15 cents per pound or lower.

The bureau states that during the supposed shortage the amount of sugar in the United States was 1,300,000,000 pounds more than ordinarily. To have this surplus used up would have required consumption by every man, woman and child in the United States of 103 pounds.

FARM CONDITIONS

Good Reports Are in From Most Sections.

The following is a summary of the weekly reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The bulk of the spring grains have been cut and this week will probably see the finish of that class of harvesting, with the exception of some late oats, etc. Considerable cut grain is lying in the fields, as this year most of the cereal crops ripened close together, and labor at present is very scarce, owing to the annual rush to the western grain fields.

Reference to buckwheat are of a favorable nature. New fall wheat is threshing out well. As a rule the sample is plump and well up to over the standard weight.

About the usual acreage of fall wheat is likely to be sown, but much of it will go in late, to avoid injury from the Hessian fly.

There will be a large yield of potatoes, speaking generally, and so far most of the tubers appear to be unusually clean and wholesome looking.

All classes of roots have been making great growth during August. Sugar beets are setting up a record for yield and general appearance.

Corn also has picked up considerably during the last few weeks, and will give a fair return, although fears are expressed as to all of the crop fully maturing.

Summer and fall apples are unusually plentiful. Plums and peaches will give a fair yield. Fruit baskets and other containers are scarce; so also are pickers.

The land at present is said to be in excellent condition for plowing and general cultivation.

All classes of live stock are in good condition, as the pastures have kept up well.

A JEWEL IN THE ROUGH

"Well, I shall be in town in a few days," he said, "and I shall come to see you as usual, mayn't I?"

"Of course," returned Katrine; and they did not speak again till they were outside and she was mounted at the head of the trail.

What a morning it was! The crisp air was like a bath of sparkling sunlight; the untrodden snow glittered everywhere. Far above the trail a ridge of dark-green pine broke against the pale azure of the sky. Stephen leaned against the pony's side, and gazed up into the warm, lustrous eyes.

"Good-bye, my darling—my own darling, perhaps come day."

"I don't think so," she answered, with a mischievous smile, and set the pony at a trot down the trail.

She had to pass Talbot's cabin on her way back, and as she approached she saw him a little way up the creek surrounded by his men. She reined in her horse to a walk as she passed, and contemplated him. His figure always pleased and arrested her eyes—it had a certain height and strength and grace that marked it out distinctly from others; and then what an advantage it was, she thought, he had no religion and believed in none of those things, and, in short, was quite as bad or worse than she herself was. She walked her horse on slowly, thinking. Somehow it seemed to her that life in his cabin would be far more pleasant and amusing than in Stephen's. Yet he neither drank nor gambled, and as for the dance halls and theatre—well, he had told her he liked dancing; and what a waltz that had been they had had together! But life with Stephen! He would be too good for her, and too stupid. She had a vague sense that what she lived for, excitement, he would be as cold as the snow around her. She was glad that her answer had been as it had. There was a level place in the trail here, and she put the horse to a gallop, and so came into town with her gone by, and strength and spirits were beginning to flag; health and courage had worn thin, and men who had faced the bitterness of the cold with a joke when it had first set in felt it keenly now like the rest. In Good Luck Row matters were worse than anywhere else in the town; the occupants were mostly very poor, and the pressure of the high prices was sharp upon them, and another horrible fear was added to the terror of the cold. In the universal gloom that hung over the city, under the mantle of darkness, want and starvation and fear and disease wrangled together, while Death walked silently and continually about the darkened streets. During all this time Katrine was about the only one who kept up her spirits and courage. She was the light and comfort of the row; there was not a cabin in it that had not been brightened and cheered by her smiles and benefited by her gifts. She was absolutely without fear herself. The quality seemed to have been left out of her composition, or perhaps it was only that her great physical health and strength made her feel unconsciously that it was impossible for any harm to come to her. She went in and out of the fever-stricken cabins all day, doing what he could for each one of the inmates, and always with her brilliant smile, which was a tonic in itself, and half the night she would sit gambling in the saloons, winning the money to spend upon her sick patients the following day.

As soon as Stephen learned that typhoid had broken out in the row, her starved brain and heart was that will should make a strike. And as a weed runs over the bare and neglected garden, so will one single idea completely absorb and fill a neglected brain, and grow and grow to gigantic strength. This was Annie's one idea; she brooded over it, pondered over it, nursed it, slept with it, and talked to Katrine of it with burning eyes, till the latter felt it it could only be fulfilled the joy of it would almost cure her. And it might be fulfilled, she knew, any day. It was early days in the Klondike then, and plenty of good ground laying around waiting to be discovered. She heard from Stephen that Will was steady and energetic, had given up drink, and was set upon the idea of prospecting for land of his own. Katrine's heart beat hard with pure sympathy as she heard, and she begged Stephen as the one thing she could do for herself to facilitate Will's efforts in every way and aid him for her sake. Meanwhile, her own care was to keep the fragile creature who was living upon hope still upon this side of the Great Divide. And to this end she worked hard. She kept his cabin clean and well lighted and well warmed. She bought and made soap, and gave fabulous prices for meat and wine, and sat with her long hours, cheering her with stories heard in the saloons and picked up in the streets, and scraps of news from the gulch and the points.

The disease seemed so quiescent that Katrine began to hope more and more that she should be rewarded, and one morning a hurried note scrib-

SUNDAY AT HOME

"In ourselves the sunshine dwells, In our hearts the music awells, Everywhere the heart awake Finds who pleasure it can make Every-where the light and shade By the gazer's eye is made."

THINGS PRAYER IS LIKE.

Incense—with which to worship God.
A bow—to carry the arrow of our need.
A chemist, that turns all life to gold.
A pitcher—to carry the water of life.
The parter, to watch the door of our hope.
The hit of the swords, to defend our hands.
The guard, to keep the fort of our hearts.
A master-workman, who accomplishes things.
A barometer—to show our spiritual condition.
A chariot—to hold our petitions, the Spirit being the wheels thereof.
The tuning of an instrument—to get us in tune with heaven's melody.
A key to all religion—to wind it up in the first place, and keep it going each day thereafter.

THE SPIRIT OF THE MIND.

There are two methods by which we may try and transform things. We may begin at the outside and work towards the inside, or we may begin at the inside and work towards the outside. If we are dealing with inanimate things, the external method is often the better one to pursue. If we are dealing with living things the internal method is usually the more effective. A radical and vital change can only be made in growing things by getting at the hidden principle of life.

If a living plant which has been kept for some time in a dark cellar is brought out and placed in the sunshine the hidden life of the plant will quickly respond to the sunlight, and in time the beautiful flowers will manifest this hidden life. Chemical analysis proves that the hidden life of the plant could not have produced these brilliant flowers unless it had absorbed something from the sunlight.

MIND INFLUENCES THE BODY.

Our body is constantly being influenced by our mind. It can be scientifically proved that every thought we think in our mind leaves its effect upon our body, but just as our body is influenced by our mind so also our mind is constantly being influenced by our spirit. As our mind is central in relation to our body, which becomes its outward manifestation, so our spirit is central in relation to our mind. In the very centre of our mind there is a principle of life which inspires our mind and colors all our thoughts. This is the spirit of the mind.

EXAMPLES ARE GIVEN.

There is a lad the spirit of whose mind is frivolous. He can think of nothing but play. What are we going to do with a boy like this? Shall we try the external method? Surely this is too superficial. We can do almost anything we like with a child when we awaken in his mind the spirit of interest. If we wish to change this boy's character we must get at the spirit of his mind.

Here is a woman the spirit of whose mind is envious and jealous. This spirit in the very core of her being is poisoning everything she touches. She is constantly running down her neighbors, thinking that in so doing she is running herself up in the estimation of others. What shall we do with a woman like this? Shall we try and improve her social manners? Surely this is too superficial. We must try and get at the spirit of her mind. Here is a man the spirit of whose mind is distrustful. He not only has no confidence in other people, he has no confidence in himself. If he undertakes a piece of business he is sure that he will not make a success of it, and thinking this, of course, he fails. What shall we do with a man like this? Shall we read him a lecture on the methods of success? Surely not. What he needs is the spirit of success. Faith is the victory. We must try and get at the spirit of his mind.

SPIRIT WITH SPIRIT MEETS.

From this psychological approach we can readily see how reasonable it is to assume that if the spirit of our mind can be brought into living contact with the Spirit of Christ and the Mind of God our whole character will be transformed in a most natural manner, just as the plant brought out of the darkness into the sunlight responds and through the renewing of its inner life produces the beautiful flowers.

St. Paul says: "Be renewed (be made fresh and young) by the spirit of your mind."

HOT BREADS

Following is quite a wonderful "all-round recipe" for hot breads of various kinds and with slight variations, as described, nearly a dozen kinds of delicious and wholesome hot breads can be concocted with a minimum of time, labor and expense.

Neither butter nor eggs are required in the recipe, and cream scraps, either sweet or sour, that might otherwise be wasted, can be utilized, and lacking these, one can use any of the evaporated milks with excellent results.

SOUP CREAM.

If sour cream is used, beat into it a bit of baking soda, merely enough to cancel the acidity of the cream. One-quarter of a teaspoonful is ample for a small cupful of sour cream; then use baking powder to raise the bread. This obviates all risk of soda flavor and produces a lighter, better article than when soda alone is the leavening agent.

The exact quantity of liquid required for the given amount of flour varies according to the quality of the latter. If one is short of cream, add a little water or milk, but do not have the batter too stiff for muffins. When it "ribbons" from the spoon it is just right.

EGGLESS CREAM MUFFINS.

Mix together two cupfuls of white flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar and three generous teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Stir in a large cupful of cream or enough to make a pour batter and add the bit of soda if the cream is soured. Beat very thoroughly and bake in greased muffin pans.

For other articles of muffins omit one cupful of the white flour and substitute a cupful of rye, graham, bran or cornmeal and proceed as above. Any of these may be baked in a sheet in a shallow pan.

For biscuits, use the same formula, adding just enough cream to form doughnut that can be handled. Roll three-quarters of an inch thick and bake in a quick oven.

FRUIT BUNS.

Fruit buns may be made by rolling the same biscuit dough into a sheet about half an inch thick. Spread with a little softened butter and dust with sugar, cinnamon, chopped raisins and citron. Roll up as for jelly roll, cut in half-inch slices and bake.

For a delicious steamed pudding lay the same roll before it is cut in a steamer and steam for one and a half hours. Serve with a hot lemon or foamy sauce.

HONOR IN JOHN WESLEY'S.

The term "Methodist" was first applied to Charles Wesley, and not to John Wesley, the real founder of Methodism. And it was applied as a term of ridicule, or as an epithet. Charles Wesley, who was a student at Oxford, where, as he says, he began "to observe the method of study prescribed by the university." He must have been a stickler for "method," for he was always using the word. "This gained me the nickname of Methodist," he says in one of his letters.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

AN AWFUL RECORD.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The National Safety Council of the United States, which is holding its annual session at Atlantic City has presented some startling figures as to the increasing loss of human life from the automobile. The official figures show that one person was killed in the United States by automobile every thirty-five minutes for the past four months. There were three times as many people killed by automobiles as in all the factories, mines, railroads and other industries in the States. The speed fiend is getting to be a real menace who will have to be dealt with severely.

Professional Enemies of Crocodile

There are men whose business it is to catch crocodiles and who earn their living by that means. And whenever a human being has fallen a victim a professional crocodile catcher is asked to help to destroy the murderer, and a large reward offered him. The massacre of natives will not interfere with the reptiles, or take any part in their capture, probably fearing if they do anything of the kind they themselves may some time or other suffer for it by being attacked by a crocodile.

ST. BOTOLPH'S TOWN.

Boston or St. Botolph's Town is a seaport in Lincolnshire, England, on the River Witham, and four miles from its mouth, with a wharfage of 2,330 feet. In the days of the Plantagenets it was one of the chief British seaports, but the silting in of the river has been an obstacle to its growth of late years, almost continual dredging being necessary to keep a passage to the sea, even for small vessels. Its church tower, St. Botolph's, is a well-known conspicuous landmark, depended upon also by mariners at sea.

The expression, "He showed the white feather," has its origin in reference to game cocks. Pure-bred game cocks have only red and black feathers, but crossbreeds have a white feather in the tail. As soon as Stephen learned that typhoid had broken out in the row, he came down to her and urged her to marry him and come away to the west gulch, if only as an asylum. But Katrine simply laughed and joked, and would not listen to him. Then he begged her to look upon herself merely as his tenant; and he and Talbot would share the same cabin, and she could occupy his perfect peace and security, and be safely away from the depressing influences of the town and its disease-laden atmosphere. Then she grew very grave, and said simply in a sweet tone that echoed through all the chambers of his heart: "Dear Stephen, you are very good to be so anxious for me, but I'm not a bit anxious about myself. I should feel like a coward if I went away from the row now. These people are so dependent upon me, and I can do so many little things for them. I feel it's a duty to stay here, and I'd rather do it; and Stephen had kissed her hand passionately and gone back to the gulch, more in love with her than ever.

She saw very little of him, and was too busy to think about him or note whether he came or not, having so many anxieties on her mind just then, of which the heaviest was the girl who came in the next cabin. Since the semi-crisis in her illness, over which Katrine had helped her, there seemed to be little change in her condition from day to day. That is, the change did not show itself externally; within the delicate structure, the disease, aided by the cold, and the foul, damp air of the town, and hopeless spirits, crept steadily and quickly on, but gave little or no outward sign, and Katrine hoped against hope that she could possibly tide her over the time till Will perhaps made a strike and could take her away. She knew how the sick woman clung to this idea. For months now she had been shut off from all communication with the outer world, she never saw a paper or a book, she could not move from her cabin, her whole sphere was bounded now by its four rough walls, and so the one idea that was left to he came down to her and urged her to marry him and come away to the west gulch, if only as an asylum. But Katrine simply laughed and joked, and would not listen to him. Then he begged her to look upon herself merely as his tenant; and he and Talbot would share the same cabin, and she could occupy his perfect peace and security, and be safely away from the depressing influences of the town and its disease-laden atmosphere. Then she grew very grave, and said simply in a sweet tone that echoed through all the chambers of his heart: "Dear Stephen, you are very good to be so anxious for me, but I'm not a bit anxious about myself. I should feel like a coward if I went away from the row now. These people are so dependent upon me, and I can do so many little things for them. I feel it's a duty to stay here, and I'd rather do it; and Stephen had kissed her hand passionately and gone back to the gulch, more in love with her than ever.

She saw very little of him, and was too busy to think about him or note whether he came or not, having so many anxieties on her mind just then, of which the heaviest was the girl who came in the next cabin. Since the semi-crisis in her illness, over which Katrine had helped her, there seemed to be little change in her condition from day to day. That is, the change did not show itself externally; within the delicate structure, the disease, aided by the cold, and the foul, damp air of the town, and hopeless spirits, crept steadily and quickly on, but gave little or no outward sign, and Katrine hoped against hope that she could possibly tide her over the time till Will perhaps made a strike and could take her away. She knew how the sick woman clung to this idea. For months now she had been shut off from all communication with the outer world, she never saw a paper or a book, she could not move from her cabin, her whole sphere was bounded now by its four rough walls, and so the one idea that was left to cheeks stung into rich crimson by the keen air, and her spirits exhilarated and ready for any mischief going.

She went at once to No. 14 in the row, and found Will sitting by his wife's bedside, like a nodding husband. The girl was lying down, her weak white hands clasped in and nearly hidden by the swollen, rough, red hand of the miner. She gave a little cry as Katrine entered, and buried her head under the blanket.

"You are not angry with me for sending you up when it wasn't really necessary?" came a smothered voice.

Katrine flung herself on her knees beside the bed and put her arm impetuously round the thin form under the coverlet.

"Angry with you for not dying!" she said, between laughing and crying. "Why, I think you're the best girl in the world, and Will's a pretty good doctor, too!" she added, glancing up at him.

Will colored and looked a little uneasy, remembering his oath of last night when he was roused to a terrible ride; but Katrine couldn't or wouldn't notice anything amiss. She said sweet things to both of them, and then, unwilling to rob Annie of any part of Will's company, she withdrew to her own cabin.

Two or three weeks passed, and dreary weeks they were. The temperature fell below the zero mark and stayed there, the sun hardly ever shone, the whole sky being blotted out as behind a thick gray curtain. The few hours of daylight that each twenty-four hours brought round was little more than a dismal twilight. Times were dreary, too; provisions ran scarce and very high, and the cheerless cold and darkness seemed to paralyze the energies of the strongest and lay a grip upon the whole town. Many

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera, infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness. The mother keeps baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CENTIPEDA A FLY KILLER.

The centipede is found pretty much all over the United States. Scutigero forceps, was reported over twenty years ago as devoting the nights to killing house flies. Later an observer detected one in the act of capturing a butterfly much larger than itself. The insect remains concealed during the day under doorposts or window frames, or in any crevice sufficiently large to hide its numerous appendages.

TO CLEAN DIAMONDS.

Diamond dust is a fine dust produced from cutting diamonds. It is extensively used by jewelers, chiefly for cleaning diamonds. It may be procured in any jewelry store, together with instructions for its use. Another quite satisfactory way to clean diamonds is to make a lather or soap, add a little ammonia and apply this cleansing preparation to the stones with a tooth brush.

A Bank Account For Your Wife

More and more, are the wives of today running their homes on a business basis—systematically and efficiently. Many wives have a monthly allowance for household expenses. This, they deposit in a Savings Account in The Merchants Bank—settle bills by cheque—and thus have an accurate record of bills paid. Such a business-like method also gives a woman the feeling of happy independence in having a bank account of her own.

In connection with the canvass made by Mrs. Aubin and Mrs. Thomas for subscriptions to "Every Woman's World," our president has been informed by the publishers that they will, on receipt of the file number appearing on our receipts, enter all names on their mailing list. Also we are assured of the Service Flag, which was a part of the contract.

The business meeting over, the guests of honor being the "Old Ladies," a very pleasing programme, prepared by Mrs. Wm. and Mrs. Wesley Towriss, followed, opening with an address by the president, who in her customary bright and cheerful manner welcomed the "Old Ladies," saying that "as an Institute, our object is to bring all the joy and sunshine we possibly can into the lives of those with whom we come in contact. It is the duty of each one of us to endeavor to grow old sweetly, unselfishly and gracefully."

A vocal duet by the Misses Kathleen Taylor and Mary Duffield, a recitation by Miss Marion Earl, a piano solo by Miss Florence Wilson, a paper on Pioneer Days on the Farm by Miss Hazel Yates, a vocal solo by Mrs. (Rev.) Boyle, and a paper by Mrs. Wm. Towriss on "Pioneer Days in Leeds" followed by a number of reminiscences gathered by Miss Edna Wing, Miss Irene McClean, Mrs. P. Hollingsworth, and Miss Genera Yates. Each number of these was very much enjoyed. After the serving of light refreshments the meeting dispersed, every one agreeing we had spent a couple of hours very pleasantly. Bouquets of flowers were sent to those ladies who through failing health were unable to be present.

The September programme will take up Physical Training, with a view to organization; and demonstrations on blouse making.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all the other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

As early as 1882 a State deputation from Ohio visited the Canadian National Exhibition looking for pointers. They have been coming from various states ever since, many of the big fairs across the line being modelled after Toronto.

Legislation was once threatened to prevent Toronto holding an exhibition except in years specified by the Ontario Government.

PAGAN WARS.

Wild Indian tribes of ancient days, In forest depth and rocky glen, With tomahawk and scalping knife, Fought down their fellow-men. And ere the dark war cloud had passed, Or days of peace drew nigh, Full many a dripping human scalp Hung in the sun to dry.

And blood stains told as they passed by, Along the lonely trail, That they hedged not the orphan's cry Nor yet the widow's wail.

The things they did would seem to be Too hard for hearts of stone, With the captives plaintive, hopeless plea, And the victim's dying groan.

Of course they were wild pagans then, And gruesome was their way, They had no wise and learned men, Nor the gospel in their day.

But while we judge them as we do, Should we not ask, I pray, Will not the men of future years, Speak thus of the world to-day?

E. R.

From 1858 until 1878 the Toronto Exhibition was held south of the old Asylum grounds, King St. west.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Nervousness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.
