Love & Conqueror —OR— WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.
"It is impossible," the young girl answered—for, though she seemed to be a widow, she had not yet passed her girlhood.

"But you are anxious beyond everything to obtain a situation?"

"Yes—oh, yes!"

"And—and—Miss Milton hesitated, and glanced at the papers before her—"you told me that you would soon be at the end of your resources?"

"Yes," Mrs. Grant repeated. "And if you do not obtain some work, you may be reduced almost to destitution?" Miss Milton continued earnestly. "It is a terrible thing to be in London without friends or money. You had better make up your mind to write to your friends."

"But even if it be terrible," the girl answered steadily, "to be without friends and money in London, it is better to be so than to give trouble and pain and suffering to those whom you love."

"But surely their ignorance of your condition must give them more trouble than anything else?"

The sweet, troubled face dropped a little.

"At first it did, perhaps," she answered; "but now so many months have gone by—that—oh, surely they will have forgotten now! I think sometimes," she continued, lifting her wistful eyes to the grave face watching her, "that it was wrong and foolish to leave them—but I did it for the best—I did it for the best!"

Her voice had risen almost to a wail as she repeated the words; but, meeting Miss Milton's surprised glance, she colored and instantly checked her agitation.

"I beg your pardon—I forgot," she said, in a low voice; then she went on yery pleadingly—"Miss Milton could you not help me—could you not let me say you know me? Ah, you need not be afraid to recommend me—you need—"

"I think you hardly know what you are asking me," said Miss Milton coldly. "You are asking me to put my name to a false recommendation; and such a thing might be the ruin of my agency altogether."

"But you do know me!" Miss Grant cried pitifully.

"I beg your pardon. I know you merely as an applicant at my office for a governess's situation. You came to me two or three months ago, asking me to enter your name in my books, and I did so. I know nothing further of you, except that none of the ladies to whom I sent you would engage you, and also that three or four times, when I gave you an address, you refused with evident terror to go to that house. All these are suspicious circumstances, Mrs. Grant," continued Miss Milton, with dignity; "and really I am not justified in overlooking them even as much as I have done."

"But—but I have done nothing wrong," said Mrs. Grant brokenly; she seemed to bow down even to resent the words.

"You forget that I have only your word for that," returned Miss Milton, compressing her lips in a displeased manner.

"Only my word!" the young widow echoed, looking up with startled eyes. "Only my word!" she repeated haughtily. "And do you doubt

See if the Child's Tongue is Coated

Mother! Don't hesitate! If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

my word? Do you think I would tell a lie?"

"My dear Mrs. Grant, there is no occasion for heroics," said Miss Milton quietly. "I am obliged to be very circumspect, and indeed I have departed from my usual caution in the matter already. I felt interested in you, and in your solitary position, and I have done what I could for you—more even than perhaps I ought. There is no necessity for you to turn against me because I have been unsuccessful."

"I did not mean to be ungrateful," was the earnest answer; the momentary anger had died away, and she stood pallid and trembling, leaning against the desk once more. "You have been—been very kind to me, but—but indeed you might safely assist me further. I know that I am asking a great deal, but—"

"You are asking what I cannot grant," Miss Milton said decidedly. "I have my good repute to maintain; and I think this such a strange and extraordinary request of yours, Mrs. Grant, that really I must decline to give you any further addresses. A person who could ask for a false recommendation would be the last person in the world suitable for a governess or any position of trust."

"Do you mean that I am not to trouble you again?" asked Mrs. Grant, standing erect, with a trembling dignity which had something very pathetic in its unconscious grace—"that I am not to come here any more?"

"I should prefer you not doing so," said Miss Milton, in a rather shamefaced manner. "You see I have my position to keep up. I am really very sorry; but I will return you your registration fee if you like, although I have no right to do so, as you have had so many addresses and letters."

"There is no need to return it," Mrs. Grant replied steadily; "and I should regret deeply that your position or your good name should suffer through me. Thank you for all the kindness you have shown me. I will not trespass on it further. Good-morning."

She turned away with her usual pretty dignity and grace, which struck Miss Milton even in her annoyance and displeasure, and which brought back a thought which had struck her before, that the young widow was not in the position to which she was accustomed. She answered her "Good-morning," rather sullenly and shamefacedly, for, although she was doing only what she honestly considered her duty, she felt a pang of self-reproach as she saw the slender, weary figure, in the heavy black garments which looked so sorrowful on that sunshiny summer day, moved toward the door.

There the widow turned, all the pride and haughtiness melting out of the pale face as she looked toward Miss Milton.

"Thank you," she said softly, stretching out her hand with a little gesture of farewell. "You have been very good to me, and I—I thank you."

She opened the door before Miss Milton could reply and passed out, closing it after her; and Miss Milton resumed her book-keeping with a mixed feeling of relief, regret, and compassion, which was very unusual to her, and which she tried to dismiss in vain.

"I wish she had taken back her fee," she muttered, as she copied some addresses in her business-like handwriting. "Of course, she has almost had the money in stamps, et-cetera; but she looked so solitary, and—I wonder what her story is? Even sadder than most of the sad ones I hear here so often!"

Meanwhile Mrs. Grant had gone slowly and wearily down the grimy staircase, her heart heavier even than it had been when she mounted it half an hour before; and, when she reached the bottom she rested her head for a moment on the baluster, in utter depression and weariness both of mind and body. She had walked many miles in the hot sun that morning, and she was faint with fatigue; but the pain at her heart and the weariness of her spirit were greater even than her weariness of body. It had been some little comfort to her in her loneliness in London to come to the agency and talk to Miss Milton, even when the latter had no address for her. If Miss Milton was not busy, she was quite willing to talk to her; and the poor young widow was too utterly solitary not to be glad to have any one to speak to in the great wilderness where she seemed to be cast away and lost.

Now she would never go back there again—never!

She felt very desolate as she lifted her head, pulled down her crape veil, and went out into the street. It was very hot—so hot that the heat made people languid and weak. Mrs. Grant's heavy crape-trimmed draperies were not a very suitable attire for such weather, and she felt their weight and heat dreadfully as she walked on. It was a day to make one long for sea-breezes, cool drinks, and fresh fruit, and to make the stuffy London streets almost unbearable.

"What shall I do? What shall I do?" the young widow said softly under her veil as she went down the quiet street; and, as she stood still for a moment to consider whether she would go or what she would do to obtain some employment, a handsome carriage dashed into the street, bringing the inhabitants to their windows to look at the stylish equipage, at which Mrs. Grant glanced carelessly and uninterestedly as it passed. It contained only a lady, a handsome fair-haired woman in cool gray attire trimmed with a profusion of lace, who passed the black-robed figure without noticing it. But, at sight of the occupant of the vehicle, Mrs. Grant turned pale as death and pressed both hands to her heart in terror; and waiting only to see that the carriage stopped at the door of the agency office, she walked on hurriedly—so hurriedly indeed that she almost ran—until she had placed three or four streets and squares between her and it.

Then she stopped, panting, trembling, breathless, leaning against the iron railings of an area for support.

"What could she want there?" she said to herself in a paroxysm of terror. "Has she heard—does she know? And Miss Milton has my address, and she will give it to her! What shall I do now—what shall I do?"

She walked on a little way, clasping and unclasping her hands in her agitation and distress.

"I dare not go home," she muttered.

Cured Diseases of the Kidneys
And is Depended On to Right Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

By RUTH CAMERON.

The L a d y across the way and I once planned to take a day off, go for a long walk and lunch with some friends. The day appointed was a perfect day, the kind that makes the wanderer well up in the most sedate and unromantic of hours. Whenever I am particularly happy, I often find myself humming the Torgador song, which, to my mind, is the most perfect musical expression of joyousness and the holiday spirit. And this day as I went about my morning duties I began to hum it for sheer delight that the day and the plans should have been so perfectly harmonious.

Then the telephone rang. Do you remember how the Painted Lady refused to open letters because one can always be happy imagining they bring good news if one does not open them. That's the way I feel about the telephone sometimes. However, I answered it, and, sure enough, the Lady across the way was calling up to cancel our plans.

"I'm afraid I'll have to give up going to Gretchen's," she said. "I don't feel a bit well this morning. I ate some onions last night and they always upset me. I'm dreadfully disappointed, for it's a perfect day, but I really feel miserable, so I don't think I'd better attempt it."

Just think, for a few onions, for a few moments' titillation of the palate for the lack of a little self-control, she had sacrificed a whole day of wholesome, recreating pleasure.

And yet how often we—you and I and the other fellow—do just this sort of thing.

I know that I must have a certain

LONDON GOSSIP.

ROYAL INDUSTRIAL TOURS.
London, January 21st, 1914.

During the coming year the King and Queen are going to resume the series of tours through the great British manufacturing districts which they inaugurated in 1912. Amongst others there will be a royal visit to the centers of the heavy woolen industry in Yorkshire. There is also to be a Royal sojourn about a week in Holyrood Castle, Scotland, and the opportunity is to be taken of visiting the industrial populations of the Eastern Lowlands, including the sea-faring quarter from Leith upwards, probably as far as Rosyth. No consideration whatever is being given at present to any project for another Imperial visit by the King and Queen to one or more of the distant dominions of the Crown. It is recognized that the exigencies of domestic politics would render it highly inexpedient for Ministers to contemplate the absence of the Sovereign from the United Kingdom until certain international problems are disposed of. For this reason their Majesties' journeying will not extend beyond Western Europe for the next two years, so far as a forecast can at present be made.

THE KING'S "BACHELOR" DINNERS.
King George, in the coming spring, will give a series of "bachelor" dinners at Buckingham Palace, London, on Saturday evenings. This night is chosen for the cause that most men, whatever their calling, can get away on Saturday, and his Majesty will display a wide catholicity of taste, as his father did before him, in the selection of his guests.

PERSONAL FRIENDS V. COURT ACQUAINTANCES.
The private dance which their Majesties gave last spring caused such a lot of heartburn amongst the Court circle that I hear it is not to be repeated. It seems a pity that people will not allow her Majesty to distinguish between what are purely her personal friends and her Court acquaintances. These latter appear to be affronted if they are not invited to a private dance, when in reality they have no right to expect an invitation.

FRANCE AND WAR.
In financial quarters both in London and in the principal European capitals, there is growing uneasiness about Mexico. Curiously enough some relief was felt when President Huerta suspended the payment of interest on the debt for six months. At least it provided this antecart with funds for the time being and prevented worse things from happening. He has now the whole of the customs at his disposal, whereas before two-fifths of them were earmarked for the National Debt Service. On the other hand, Huerta requires about £1,000 a day to pay his troops, and sooner or later he will have to resort to illegitimate means to find the money. When he ceases to pay his soldiers he loses them, and probably his life too. The crisis cannot now be far off, and there is a fear, well founded enough in Paris and London, that the president will not scruple to help himself to the money of the banks under Government charter, most of which, by the way, is French though English investors own a large share of it. This may explain the change of attitude in those London and Paris newspapers which a month or two ago were denouncing President Wilson's sentimental interference with the Mexican dictator, but are now clamouring for an American invasion of Mexico. It is an excellent instance of the close connection between modern diplomacy and finance.

THE GERMANS IN TURKEY.
General Liman von Sanders (now officially described as General Liman Pacha) having been relieved to the rank of general of cavalry in the German army, the news that his appointment as Field-Marshal of the Ottoman army has been submitted for the Imperial sanction would seem likely to bring to a head the various difficult questions associated with his being given that honor. It appears that some of the Constantinople newspapers mention that this appointment implies the appointment of General Liman Pacha as Inspector General of the Ottoman army this being the first public reference to the change made in the powers of the German general; but it may be gathered from conversations which have been held with Baron von Wagenheim, the German Ambassador in Constantinople, who has been spending a brief holiday with friends in London, that he detests the suggestion that Liman Pacha's appointment has any political significance. He indicates, indeed, that the position will be altogether different to that which was occupied by General (now Field-Marshal) von der Goltz when he was in Constantinople, as he will see as one of the Turkish forces, the other four being of the Ottoman race. Baron von Wagenheim further observes that a wave of patriotic enthusiasm is passing over Turkey and that offers of the gift of considerable sums of money have already been made to the War and Mar-and Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are very serious such as atrophies, paralysis, neuritis, and nervous debility.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, it is a sign of exhaustion in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mr. B. Wright, 215 Booth Avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

SOCIAL CHANGES.
Fashionable people in London who are unable to leave us for the three dull months in the social year, are welcoming the private dancing clubs which are being quietly established in our midst. People find themselves together into groups which have fortnightly or weekly meetings either at the house of a member or at one of the many halls to which dancing has brought prosperity. What the chaperon of even ten years ago would have said to these clubs may be wondered, for as a rule each girl has her partner for the entire season, and keeps to him, whereas not many years ago to dance more than twice or at the outside three times with the same man was considered a high misdemeanour. It is no uncommon thing nowadays for a girl out of her teens to arrive at a dance with the idea of being chaperoned by her hostess, and to bring with her her own more or less of a few years ago would have been a scandal that would have re-echoed throughout all the gossip aspers. Dance programmes are, of course, never seen at London dances, so that even the slight restraint which resulted from written engagements is now no more, and while the quite young girl dances with many partners in the same evening the older girl—who can, choose—never does. This, with the dancing clubs, is one of the most remarkable changes that has taken place in London society, and it has come about in spite of the wishes of the elders.

Delegations to Prime Minister.

On Saturday, two delegations waited on the Prime Minister, Sir Edward Morris. In the morning the delegation was on the Liquor Laws. In the afternoon the delegation was about Teachers' salaries. The first delegation consisted of the Rev. Dr. Curtis Rev. J. W. Bartlett, Rev. F. R. Matthews, Adjutant Hiscok, Hon. James Angel and Messrs. John Leamon, Ed. W. Murray and P. H. Cowan. The subject of the interview was the petitions which are being sent to members of the House of Assembly praying for legislation on two matters which the deputation have at heart. The petitioners desire that if made illegal to forward by train or steamer subsidized by the Government, intoxicating liquors for consumption in local option districts; and second to provide for the taking of a plebiscite as to whether the Importation, Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicants be permitted. The proposals are drastic. But we do not object to either if a substantial majority of registered voters wish to see such laws enacted. We have no objection to a referendum on both proposals. On Saturday afternoon, the deputation which waited on the Prime Minister was from the Newfoundland Teachers' Association. It consisted of the President, Mr. R. H. Richards; the Secretary, Mr. I. J. Sampson and Mr. Harrington and Rev. Bro. Ryan. The suggestion laid before the Government was that a service bonus be paid to teachers, of $100 a year for teachers of fifteen years service; $75 to teachers of 10 years service and $50 to teachers of five years' service. The proposals would entail an extra expenditure of $10,000 a year and would do much to keep experienced teachers in the profession. The Prime Minister promised that the matter would receive the earnest consideration of the Government and assured them that something would be done, within a reasonable time which should not be more remote than the session of 1915. To the Temperance deputation, the Premier stated that their views would receive every consideration and a day would be set apart for the presentation of the petitions.

A Fight in Quebec House.

Deputy Attorney General Smashed B. A. MacNab in the Face and the Newspaper Man Retaliated.

Quebec, Feb. 4.—Sensation speeded sensation to-night, the climax coming when Charles Lanctot, deputy attorney general of the Province, struck and scratched Brenton A. MacNab, editor of the Montreal Mail, in the face, just as the latter was coming out of the committee room at the close of to-night's sitting. Mr. MacNab could not see very well, as his glasses were knocked off, but he managed to get a grip on his assailant's throat and slam him up against the wall. Luckily, perhaps, for Mr. Lanctot, Mr. Laverge and others succeeded in pulling the newspaper man off and the incident closed, though for a second or two it looked very much as though there would be a free fight, so much feeling had developed in the opposing camps.

Mr. MacNab Bruised.
Mr. MacNab has some slight marks where he was struck. The first blow landed near the left temple but was nothing serious, though the ring that Mr. Lanctot was wearing knocked off a small piece of skin. There was also some scratches on the skin where the Government official apparently clawed him with his finger nails. The row arose out of the fact that the name of Mr. Lanctot was mentioned in the committee to-night as being one of the men to whom Mousseau said that he would give money. Mr. Lanctot denied this, and was evidently smarting under the imputation when he saw MacNab, whom he seems to have sought out deliberately. Mr. Lanctot is a dapper little man and the general impression is that if Mr. MacNab had been allowed to hold him a few seconds longer there would not have been much left of him. In the committee of the Legislative Council this afternoon Mr. Edward Beck had no restraint placed upon him in his narrative of what he had heard over the telephone of Mr. Mousseau's conversation with Mr. Hyland relative to the members of the Upper House.

Supporters of the Montreal Fair Bill
The result was the names of Hon. Adelard Turgeon, of the Legislative Council; Hon. Mr. Perreault, leader of the Legislative Council; Hon. Mr. Champagne, and Hon. Mr. Gilmour were given as having been mentioned by Mr. Mousseau in conversation with Mr. Hyland as supporters of the Montreal Fair Bill. There was also the name of Lanctot given, but there was no certainty whether allusion was made to Mr. Chas. Lanctot, deputy attorney general, or Hon. Dr. Lanctot, the member of the Upper House, who has been confined to his home through illness for the past year. Following these allegations of names given by Mousseau both Hon. Mr. Turgeon and Hon. Mr. Champagne resigned from the investigation committee.

The resignation of these gentlemen left the committee without a quorum, and in consequence the Upper Chamber will to-morrow be obliged to appoint successors.
At the outset this morning, L. T. Marchal formally offered to operate the detestograph for the benefit of the Legislative Committee inquiring into the Montreal Daily Mail graft charges.

Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Chairman of the Committee, said his conferees and himself would be glad to see the instrument demonstrated. After the Nationalist member of the committee had asked what was to be done in regard to the proposed appearance of Achille Bergevin and L. P. Berard. Mr. Taschereau said he would allow Mr. Berard to appear to answer questions.

Mr. Marchal then called Mr. Berard and asked him if he had met Mr. Mousseau during the session of the Legislature.

Mr. Berard said he had.

Mr. Marchal.—Did you meet Mr. Sampson?
Mr. Berard.—I decline to answer that question on advice of counsel.

Mr. Marchal.—Meeting a man is not a criminal action. Would you say whether you met Mr. Sampson in Montreal?
Mr. Berard.—I decline to answer.

'waddle's Septette Beat Local Meth. Term

Game Played on Sackville Ice Tuesday Afternoon Score 8-5. A Battling Good Clean Game.

The Trinity Methodists lost to Jack 'waddle's college septette on Mount Allison ice yesterday afternoon by a score of 8-5. The Methodists opened the game auspiciously but lacked the stamina and staying power of the college boys.

There were about four hundred spectators present, at the match, these consisting for the most part of Mt. Allison students, although a few hockey enthusiasts accompanied the local team over to the neighboring town. The Mt. Allison men played seven men hockey, with three periods of play. The Angels have been playing six men hockey for all the season and fourteen men on the ice made the play confined.

Frank Knapp refereed the game in a satisfactory manner.

The Game.
The match was one of the fastest games ever seen on the Sackville ice, that is between amateur teams of this standing.

Grimley opened the game by taking Locke's pass from centre and running down the ice for the first score, 1-0, 7 min., 30 sec.
Locke followed with another score in a few minutes' time. McCallum was endeavoring to clear the nets, when Locke knocked the puck thro' the posts. Score, 2-0.

Brundage removed the duck's egg from Mt. A.'s side of the score, dodging around back of the Amherst net, and poking the rubber in around the edge of the posts. Locke netted the third score for Amherst, Grimley taking the rubber down the ice, with Locke scoring on his pass.

Second Period.

With the play in Mt. A.'s territory Godfrey got clear of the crowd and scored on Hill. Brundage followed the good example set by his centre man, and tied the score.

Brundage and Godfrey made a sensational combination rush, with the latter scoring, the play being offset, although it managed to get by Referee Knapp. Pipes tied the score with a difficult shot from the wing.

Third Period.

Charlie Appleton put Mt. Allison into the lead by dashing in from centre ice with the puck and finding the Amherst nets. Score, 5-4.

Play hovered in centre ice for several minutes, although the rubber was controlled for the most part by the boys in the college septette. Godfrey played a great game, even if he was continually offside, and practically every goal he scored was netted on plays of this description.

The Chatham boy netted the sixth goal and Mount Allison had a lead on the Angels by two tallies.

Godfrey made a clean end to end dash. Hill rushed him, but the little centre let the disc slide on into the nets.

Herder scored the next tally. The Startling Confessions.

Youth Who Tells of Bomb Outrage And Other Crimes.
New York, January 27.—Alfred Lehman, an under-sized youth scarcely out of his teens, sat in the witness box to-day and confessed to having partaken in sixteen bomb outrages, revealed knowledge of eight, cleared up the mystery of two murders and furnished information concerning a number of lesser crimes, including arson and burglary.
Lehman was called as a witness in the trial of Angelo Sylvester, accused of one of the bomb outrages. Lehman told the court of the burning of two Brooklyn houses for the insurance and many other lesser crimes. He said the bomb outrages usually brought the men doing the work $50.
One robbery, in which a Chinese was murdered, he said, netted him $2, while the two men with him, who he said, killed the Chinese, got the same amount. Lehman said he had personally planted 16 or 18 bombs, causing much damage.
"The game I worked for," he said, "were Blackhanders. The boss would write letters demanding money under threat of death to well to do Italians. When they did not come across I was sent with a bomb. They usually paid up after the explosion of the bomb. If they didn't we went after 'em again."

Conductor Lilly Meets With a Terrible Accident.

On Saturday night a serious accident occurred, the victim being Conductor Eli Lilly, of the street car service, who is now in hospital with a broken leg which, it is expected, will have to be amputated.

The accident occurred on Water Street, just below Adelaide Street. Lilly was engaged on one of the sweepers, clearing the rails during the storm. He was passing through the car while the motor was running, when his coat tail became caught in the machinery. He was dragged close to the machinery and his left leg became entangled in the wheels. He shrieked for help, but before the motor could be stopped, the leg was badly twisted and practically torn from the body.

Sergeant Mackay and the workmen on the car released the injured man and carried him to Butler's restaurant, where Dr. Roberts, who was in the meantime summoned by telephone, attended him. Upon examination Lilly was ordered to the hospital, where he was taken in the ambulance accompanied by Dr. Roberts and Constable O'Neil.

The storm was at its height just then, and great difficulty was experienced in reaching the institution, and the doctor, constable and driver had to beat a track for the horse. The injured man was suffering great pain yesterday, and to-day is doing as well as can be expected. Conductor Lilly has had several narrow escapes in the street car service. He was conductor on car No. 7 which ran off the rails at Adelaide Street some time ago, and last year while changing the "trolley wires" at the juncture of Water and Adelaide Streets was dragged a considerable distance down the street by a passing horse and received several serious bruises.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Twin girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, of Bristol's Hope, on the 3rd inst.

The visitors at the West End Hotel this week are:—Mr. F. Stapleton, St. John's; Mr. Reid, of Green's Harbor; and Mr. Norman, of Bay Roberts. Mr. P. Byrne, of South River, is also there, having come from Bell Island where he holds a good position, he will remain a few days.

Married yesterday morning by Rev. A. K. Megner, of the Presbyterian Church, Mr. Richard Nell, son of Captain R. Nell, of Spaniard's Bay, to Miss Bertha Noseworthy, also of Spaniard's Bay. The groom returned from Vancouver, B. C., last fall, where he holds a responsible position and the bride arrived from New York last week. They leave shortly for Vancouver where they will make their home in future. They will take with them the best wishes of their friends. After the ceremony the young couple put up for a few hours at the West End Hotel before returning to Spaniard's Bay.

The thanks of the public are due to Messrs. Dixon and Archibald for the very pleasant carnival at the opera rink at Wednesday night. The active members of the People's Party Committee held a meeting at the K. E. B. Armoury on Thursday night. Some of the active members actively protested against the action of the other active members.

Last night was considered by most people here as the keenest night for the season. Still the rink was well patronized, and the skaters were quite warm.

The funeral of the late Mr. George Brown took place yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended, the members of the Conception Bay British Society being there to pay the last tribute of respect to an old and worthy member.

The ROYAL STORES, Ltd.

Co., took place at St. John's, on Wednesday last. It is extremely gratifying to us to report that the year 1913 was found to be the best year in the history of the factory. An 8 per cent. dividend was declared in addition to a handsome reserve. Work has again commenced at the factory, and with a full stock of orders, competent and contented male and female help all under the management of a man who has years of experience coupled with a good disposition to get good work done, there is little doubt but that 1914 will go away ahead of its immediate predecessor, 1913 as far as this permission is concerned. With your permission, friend Telegram, I would like to congratulate the company, the manager (Mr. Jones) and all the employees on the result of their work.

The management and players request the spectators not to smoke during the game. No doubt the public will realize that the inhaling of smoke during a fast game of hockey is none too pleasant.

In answer to a cable sent on Friday last, the League has received a reply from the "Progressives" of Halifax that they are coming to play a series of games with a city team. The visitors will leave Halifax a few days hence, and are expected to arrive here on the 20th inst. The Progressives are an excellent aggregation and are looked upon as the unbeatable in the Amateur League of the Lower Provinces. The selecting committee will meet to-night to arrange for the picking of the seven to play the visitors.

Acknowledgment.

The Christian Brothers, Mt. Cashel, beg very gratefully to acknowledge the receipt of four hundred and twenty dollars ($420), from T. H. O'Neill, Esq., being the net proceeds of the concert organized by him for the benefit of the orphans. They avail of this announcement to thank Mr. Kiely, who very kindly gave the use of the Casino Theatre free of charge.

Personal.

His Grace Archbishop Howley was practically recovered on Saturday from his recent illness, and his numerous friends will be glad to hear this.

Up to last night, Mr. E. Rawlins showed no signs of improvement.

The Jean was ready to sail for Bahia on Saturday, but owing to the approaching storm was detained in port.

Drama and Comedy.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The best selection of pictures and some ever presented at the Crescent Picture Palace will mark the splendid line during the present week. For Monday and Tuesday a stirring and interesting story entitled, "Man's Duty" is the feature picture in which Pauline Bush and Wallace Bond are the leading characters; this film is an eye opener. Another grand drama is "The Strength of the Weak" giving in detail a story that is certainly clever in its portrayal. "Owana," the Indian enchantress is a feature in itself. "Where Wits Win" illustrates a very laughable comedy, the various situations of which are complicated and amusing. Mr. David Parks, baritone, sings a beautifully illustrated song, "If you were only here." Keep posted with the Crescent this week for something good, it is the home of comfort and safety.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Dudgeon, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov. 11, 1907.

The R.M.S. Mongolian reached Glasgow Saturday afternoon.

Nickel Theatre.

AT THE NICKEL.

The programme to be given at the Nickel Theatre this evening is an extra good one, and will include the famous aviation story which met with such success in New York and other big American cities, entitled, "Wrecked in Mid Air." The story is of two well known and able aviators who are rivals in love and business. The story as told of them by the "movies" is one that every one should see. Don't miss it this evening. Mr. Koch will be heard in a new and popular song.

AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

The week end programme at the Nickel Theatre was one that pleased the large number of patrons Saturday evening. There were six different subjects and each was very favourably commented on. "The Higher Duty" is one of the prettiest dramas ever seen in St. John's. It shows two feminine characters of entirely different qualities and is of intense interest. One displays selfishness and the other self sacrifice. "Dangers of the Street" is another specially good film, showing accidents to children on the streets of New Jersey. Mr. Rudolph L. Koch sang "Pancies are Thoughts, Dear, and Thoughts are You," in a very pleasing manner.

Clothes Thieves at Large

Some residents of the East End complain that there is clothes thieves operating boldly and successfully in that section, as within the past few weeks parties have had articles of wear stolen on them. The marauders get in their work at night time and on two occasions entered a certain back yard and made away with a quantity of children's garments. If the thieves are caught making such nocturnal visits, they will meet with a rebuff that will entitle them to a lengthy sojourn in the Penitentiary, as such contemptible conduct warrants severest punishment.

Stanfield's Underwear.

Sleeping in the cold and silent clay-to-day are many men who should be alive and active — an asset to their country, but they allowed cold aftercold to go on un-cared for—result—Death. Many of these colds were contracted through wearing cotton underwear. There is nothing more dangerous in cold climates. After perspiring freely it is like a cold wet rag 'round the body, and the fleece rolls off in little icy knobs. Throw it away. Wear wool, it absorbs all moisture and lessens the chances of catching cold. Stanfield's, from $1.00 per garment.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. GENOA, To-day. The steamer Dora Baltea arrived here from New Orleans and fifty of the crew of the British schooner Carrie M. Wambach, abandoned at sea. The dismasted Carrie M. Wambach left Halifax on December 27 for Demerara.

JUAREZ, Mexico, To-day. Nine Americans and forty or fifty Mexicans whose fate has been a mystery since the destruction of Camber Tunnel last Wednesday were rescued. The tragedy is laid at the door of Maximo Castillo, a bandit leader. On Tuesday twenty two of his men were captured and executed by rebels. The next day apparently in revenge he captured a freight train and it into the South end of a tunnel three hundred feet long and there set fire to it. The missing Americans are all employees of the railroad.

STOCKHOLM, To-day. King Gustava's speech to thirty thousand peasants who attended a demonstration yesterday in favor of an increase in armaments threatens to lead to a serious conflict in the Cabinet, the members of which hold the speech tantamount to a severe censure on their policy and that the language is stronger than a constitutional monarch is justified in using; during the course of his remarks the King said the problem of defense is one which must be solved without loss of time. He declared on that point he was determined not to yield. The whole Cabinet have intimated a desire to resign in both chambers. The King's speech is severely criticized.

LONDON, To-day. Parliamentary session opening today will be an epoch-making one. A strong determined Government is faced by an opposition who are equally determined that the Government's chief legislative proposals shall not go into operation, even if passed. The only possible way out seems to be that modifications may be offered and it is expected Asquith will announce these in the course of a debate on the address to the Throne. It is believed Unionists will seize the very earliest opportunity of raising the Ulster issue, thus precipitating the beginning of a historic struggle immediately. Much talk of forcing a general election in

By the use of this latest invention, you can have, in one second, speech with any or all of your staff, located anywhere on your premises, without leaving your desk, without wasting the time your employees use in going from their station to the private office, without any bell to ring or other attachment to handle. You may give callers attention without admitting them to your room and all the time your hands are disengaged and you may speak from three to ten feet from your instruments and be fully heard at the other end of the line. If you are interested in this service, Mr. Percie Johnson will furnish detailed information on request. This service has been tested by six months perfect working in St. John's.

Curlers at Halifax.

Special to Evening Telegram. The St. John's Curlers arrived at North Sydney, after a very pleasant and enjoyable trip across country. They played a friendly game with North Sydney and were treated royally. Arrived at Halifax at 9.30 a.m. and had a practice game at 2.30 p.m. Much enthusiasm was displayed by all the teams. Newfoundland team play Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preliminaries. Will advise result. All O.K.

May being mentioned as the time, but the Opposition is somewhat divided in opinion as to the wisdom of this, owing to the doubt as to possibility of success attending the effort. Asquith is credited with the intention of remaining in power till the Spring of next year, as two other measures, Welsh Disestablishment and the abolition of plural voting are still to be completed before the Liberal program will be accomplished. Discussing the situation on the eve of the parliamentary session, the Daily Telegraph says it does not expect the speech from the Throne to give any indication of the way in which the Government propose to deal with burning questions which will demand settlement within a few weeks. It is reported that the latest Unionist device to force a dissolution of Parliament and thus defeat the measure providing for Home Rule for Ireland is for the Lords to reject the annual Budget Bill. If this were done the army would cease to exist and the Government would be compelled to appeal to the country.

Here and There.

EXPRESS DUE.—The incoming express is due in the city at 6.45 p.m. Mr. W. W. Blackall, Superintendent of Church of England Schools, arrived in the city by to-day's local.

MRS. PROWSE ENTERS HOSPITAL.—Mrs. Prowse, relict of the late Judge Prowse, was taken to the General Hospital, in the ambulance this afternoon.

STEPHANO REPORTED.—The Red Cross liner Stephano, Capt. Clarke, passed Cape Race at 9.25 this morning; she is expected to dock at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

MORE DIPHTHERIA.—Another case of diphtheria was reported today from a house near King's Bridge. The patient is a little boy, who is being treated at home.

FOR HOSPITAL.—By Saturday night's train a man named George East, of Miramichi, arrived to enter the hospital. He is suffering from a tumor and complicated diseases.

LEAGUE HOCKEY MATCH.—Feldians vs. St. Bon's, Prince's Rink, to-night at 7.30. Smoking strictly prohibited during the game.—Feb 9, 11

WEATHER.—Up the country today a strong North-West wind prevails, accompanied by snow-squalls. The thermometer ranges from 10 below, the lowest temperature being at the quarry.

NOTICE.—The C. E. T. S. rooms, which have recently been thoroughly renovated, will be re-opened to-night at 7.30 o'clock. All members are cordially invited to be present. A. REES, Sec'y.—Feb 9, 11

MEIGLE AT TREPASSEY.—The S. S. Meigle, on the way here from Placentia, harbored at Trepassey during the recent storm. To-day at noon a strong breeze was blowing at Trepassey, and it is not likely the ship will leave for here before to-morrow morning.

BLANCHE CURRIE.—The English barquentine Blanche Currie, which passed Cape Race four days ago, has not yet arrived. She evidently got the full force of Saturday night's gale at sea. The opinion is nautical circles is that the vessel sheltered on the Southern Shore, though it is not unlikely that she was driven off to sea.

BEOTHIC BACK.—The S.S. Beothic, Capt. Faulk, arrived in port this morning from Sydney, after a two days passage. On Saturday night the ship had an unusually rough time at sea, a violent snow storm being encountered. She brought a cargo of coals, some of which she will discharge at Job Bros., and the balance she will keep on board for the seal-fishery.

Anybody But Bowell.

Sir John A. Macdonald Wouldn't Tackle the Belleville Man.

The occasion of the nineteenth birthday of Sir Mackenzie Bowell recently has brought Canada's distinguished ex-Prime Minister and editor considerably into the public eye, and several good stories are told of the veteran's vigorous honesty of purpose, which he took with him into Sir John A. Macdonald's Cabinet.

One occasion a big commercial house in Montreal was discovered to be "beating the customs." It happened that the head of the house was a strong Conservative, who contributed heavily to the campaign funds of the party. Notwithstanding these circumstances Mr. Bowell summoned him to Ottawa, told him frankly that he had been found out and that he must make immediate reparation.

"Do you threaten me, Mr. Bowell?" fumed the man.

"I most certainly do," answered the zealous Minister.

"Do you know who I am?" shouted the angry merchant.

"Yes, I know who you are, and if the matter is not straightened up in two hours I'll order your arrest."

"You dare to talk to me like that?" gasped the man.

"Of course I dare," answered Mr. Bowell.

"Then I'll see Sir John at once and we'll find out where you get off."

The man hurried to Sir John and told him that one of his Ministers had the audacity to threaten to arrest him.

"Dear, dear," said Sir John, in his smoothest tones, "I'll have to attend to him, but tell me, which one of the Ministers it was. I can handle them all except one. Which one was it?"

"That fellow Bowell," replied the Montrealer.

"Good heavens, man!" roared Sir John, with foreshadowing concern. "The very man I meant. I can't do anything with him. If Bowell said it, it goes. I'm extremely sorry, but I don't tangle with Bowell. Take my advice and settle up at once."

It is said that after this the man lost no time in making his peace with the inflexible Minister of Customs.

There is no "sides" whatever about Sir Mackenzie Bowell. He is naturally proud of what he has accomplished and the high position to which he has risen, but he is still the working journalist who was once a printer's devil. He has never suffered from "swelled head," nor has he ever exhibited signs of egotism. He tells with characteristic enjoyment of having been quizzed on one occasion by a grand British military officer at a banquet in Halifax. It was just after the Riel episode, when he was pretty much in the public eye. The officer assumed first that he was a lawyer. Mr. Bowell denied it. The officer then supposed he must be a shipowner. Again Mr. Bowell shook his head. Seeing that the officer was curious, he held back until, being asked point blank what calling he followed, he told the surprised military man that he was nothing more nor less than a graduate printer's devil.

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company occupies the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance—in St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,900.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars. The Company now administers many estates which its value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick. The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices at Water Street. Apply to daily paper that would give the people of Belleville the transatlantic news fresh from the wire. The late H. P. Dwight, president of the G. N. W. Telegraph Co. was then an operator in Belleville, and Sir Mackenzie received the idea of printing a small read off the despatches from the wire to him and he would write them out on a pad. The paper was called The Journal, and was a small folded sheet selling at ten cents. It was not a successful venture, lasting only a few weeks.

The Lord's Day Alliance.

The meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance, held at the College Hall last night, was largely attended. His Lordship Bishop Jones presided, and in opening the meeting stated that he had been present at every public meeting of the Alliance since its inception, and in dealing with the subject said that a change was noticeable in the observance of Sunday, but unfortunately the change was in the wrong direction. This question, he considered, was one that very seriously affected the welfare of the working classes and everything in the nature of an encroachment on the Lord's Day must be viewed with grave concern.

Though a Puritanical Sunday is not desirable, it is quite obvious that the tendency towards recreation is bordering on the other extreme, and as a result, higher duties are neglected. He then went on to explain that a certain amount of recreation was permissible, provided it was innocent in itself, helpful to mind and body, and used in moderation. Besides this it should not in any way lessen the influence of worship in God's house.

Mr. W. H. Jones was the next speaker and stated that though he was not acquainted with the work of the Alliance here, he was quite familiar with the doings of the Sunday Observance Society of England. He stated that the question was essentially the workingman's, and gave some pointed illustrations of conditions he had noticed in the Old Country and on the continent.

The chairman regretted the absence of Mr. R. A. Squires who had been appointed as a speaker, but was out of town, and introduced Rev. Dr. Curtis. The rev. speaker showed the necessity for the Lord's Day Alliance. Many innovations in industrial conditions caused many to be placed in rather difficult positions with regard to the observance of Sunday. In some instances daily bread is on one side of the balance and faithfulness to conscience on the other. He quoted Cardinal Gibbons' statement: "but it would be a dangerous time when more would be found in the heatre than in the church, and showed in a very forcible manner the necessity of the observance of Sunday."

Rev. J. S. Sutherland in proposing a vote of thanks to His Lordship made a few timely remarks on the question. Rev. Mr. Thomas seconded the motion, which was carried by acclamation.

Mr. A. H. Allen presided at the organ and led the choir in the singing of appropriate hymns.

Southern Gale Sweeps the Island.

SEVERELY FELT IN THE CITY.

The storm that swept over the country on Saturday night, was one of the worst felt for many years, and though many sensational rumors were current yesterday, as far as we can learn no serious damage or fatality has been recorded. A gale from the Southeast, which was brewing all the afternoon, struck the city at 6 p.m. Saturday, and was followed by blinding snow squalls, which, as the wind increased, grew into a regular blizzard, and lasted till midnight. The storm was at its height at 9 p.m. and the clerks of the Water St. stores and others experienced great difficulty in getting to their homes. At 10 p.m. the principal thoroughfares of the city were practically deserted, and the car service was suspended despite the employment of two sweepers, and an extra staff of workmen. The snow gave place to rain at 1 a.m. and until 3 a.m. there was an incessant down-pour, but the wind continued until 7 a.m. yesterday. Many of the delivery sleighs were caught in the snow banks on the higher levels, and in many instances the drivers had to shovel a way for their horses. The sanitary men and police say it was the worst night they experienced for twenty years. The storm was severely felt along the railway line, and the incoming express was held up all night at Kitty's Brook, it being too stormy to cross the Topsails, until daylight yesterday. Any vessels that were on the coast during the storm must have had an awful experience. The Blanche Curry, which passed Cape Race a few days ago, and the s.s. Meigs, which left Placentia for here at 8 a.m. Saturday, are the only ships due, but it is expected that the former was harbored on the Southern Shore and the latter at Trepassay. Some windows are blown in on the higher levels, and a chimney was blown down from the residence of Mr. Gillshaw, Waterford Bridge Road.

Boat Adrift.

TWO MEN IN PERIL.

Two men named Wareham, belonging to the Southside, had a trying and unenviable experience on Saturday and one which they do not want to see duplicated. Both men were out in their boat bird shooting, and were just outside Chain Rock when they observed a storm approaching. It was then about five o'clock in the evening, and the occupants of the boat decided to leave the shooting grounds and row for the shore. They each put out an oar, but could not make any progress, owing to the boat being enclosed in slob ice. Suddenly the boat began to drift in a northerly direction and the men began to get anxious. The happening was witnessed by citizens from the city, many of whom were looking for the Minister of Marine to have a tug sent after the men. About 5.45 a stiff breeze came in from the eastward, accompanied by a snow storm. This, together with the fact that darkness was setting in, made conditions very adverse. It was generally thought that the chances of the Wareham men getting to the land were slim. The boat began to drift in the direction of the Northern Head. It was just rounding that point when the men, realizing their perilous predicament, hoisted distress signals which were seen by the Fort Amherst Light keeper, who telephoned the Tug Company for assistance. The "John Green" came off under full speed, found the boat and brought the men ashore.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Patrick's Church, on January 28th. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father McDermott, who with Mr. James Doyle lead to the altar, Miss Nellie Kavanagh. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Michael Doyle, and the bridesmaid was Miss Lillian Nolan, cousin of the bride, and little Lizzie Healey and Ethel Knight. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. John Nolan. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque, and to the bridesmaid a gold locket and chain. Tea was served to about thirty couples at her mother's residence, South Side, after which the happy couple left for Fernside to spend their honeymoon. They received a lot of handsome and very useful presents.

To-night Rossleys will again produce Snow White by request. There has been many letters asking for it to be repeated. The Kikuyu Conference Scene Described.

"A graphic description of the now famous Kikuyu Conference is given by the Rev. Norman Maclean in his recently published book, 'Africa in Transformation.' Mr. Maclean, who is the minister of the Park Presbyterian Church, Glasgow, was present at the conference, and took part in its proceedings. The difficulties that beset Christian missionary work in Africa presented themselves very clearly to Mr. Maclean.

"He points out that the chief obstacle in the way is 'that which is created by the riven and divided state of Christendom. Mohammedanism presents to heathenism a united front; Christianity is broken into factions. Behind Islam there is the driving force of an intense realization of one fact—There is no God but Allah, and Mohammed is His Prophet; the power behind Christianity seems often to be only the desire of one faction to supplant the other. The faith of the Mohammedan becomes forged into steel on the anvil of fanaticism; that of the Christian becomes soft as lead in the cooling winds of controversy. The amazing thing is that Christianity should, in its present condition, be winning victories, that it is sweeping masses of the heathen into the fold is undoubted. That it should do so in its present plight is the proof of its vitality. Were Christianity united in the campaign against heathenism and Islam, its day of final victory would speedily dawn, says the London Daily Telegraph.

"At present Christianity offers to the heathen neither a common policy, a common Gospel, nor a common worship. On one side of Lake Nyasa the Universities Mission trains the African in a highly ornate and liturgical worship; on the other side of the lake the Livingstonia Mission grounds the African in the principles of Puritanism—every man prays and worships as he pleases. In Livingstonia the Sabbath rest is grimly enforced; in the Universities Mission the Sabbath ends at noon—at least the Sabbath as Livingstonia knows it. A native Christian from Living-stonia crosses the lake and he goes to worship with his fellow Christians in Likoma Cathedral. The result is he can make nothing of the strange, ornate, and unfamiliar worship. 'If God had meant us to wear all these things when we pray, a man would be born with a shirt on him,' said a Christian native to Dr. Laws as his impression of surplices.

Bewildered African.

"A native Christian comes from Likoma to Livingstonia, and he is repelled by the absence of everything that he has been taught—no Common Prayer, no outward attitude of reverence, and a grappling with the problem of election, of which he has not previously heard. And in every sphere of Christian activity in Africa it is the same. The Baptists confront the Universities Mission saying, 'You must be immersed to be a Christian.' The Seventh Day Adventists confront the Baptists saying, 'You must keep the seventh day holy, and not the first, and so be a Christian.' The Brethren confront the Baptists, and the Friends the Brethren, and each raised his testimony to the truth. And the African in his bewilderment, asks, 'What is the truth?'

"By none," writes Mr. Maclean, "is the hindrance to the cause of missions created by this situation realized so keenly as by the missionaries and nowhere is there so keen a desire for their removal as in the mission fields themselves. Everywhere missionaries are moving towards the realization of a common policy, a common worship, and at last a united Church. But the strange thing I found was that the Universities Mission, which claims Dr. Livingstonia as its founder, refuses to have any part or parcel in any conference with other missions, and stands aloof from every effort to remove the evil which now afflicts the enterprise of missions in Africa. But Bishop Hing and the Universities Mission are manifestly ignorant of the Encyclical of the Lambeth Conference.

"Every opportunity," says the Lambeth Encyclical, "should be welcomed of co-operation between members of different communions in all matters pertaining to the actual and moral welfare of the people."

The constituted authorities of the Anglican Communion should, as opportunity offers, arrange conferences with the representatives of the other Christian Churches."

Mr. Maclean then describes his visit to Kikuyu, and how on his arrival there he was taken to the conference of the missions in British East Africa. "It was," he declares, "the most wonderful gathering I ever saw. It had represented in it all the Protestant missions in the Protectorate Church of England, Church of Scotland, the African Inland Mission (American), the Friends' Industrial Mission (Quakers), the United Methodistists, the Lutheran Mission, and the Seventh Day Adventists. Bishop Willis, of Uganda, was in the chair, and Bishop Peel, of British East Africa, was in a front seat. On the right of Bishop Willis sat Dr. Arthur, of the Church of Scotland Mission, and the subject of discussion was the federation of the missions in East Africa. For three days preparations were being made for this end. The originator of the scheme was Dr. Henry Scott, of the Church of Scotland Mission, whose death British East Africa still mourns. It was Dr. Scott and Bishop Willis who laid down the principles on which the federation could be achieved; it was left to Bishop Willis to carry them through.

A Common Policy.

"There were moments of intense feeling, as when Bishop Willis quietly asked a Seventh Day Adventist, 'You grant that I am a Christian?' 'Yes,' was the answer. 'You would admit me to your Communion?' went on the Bishop. 'Yes,' answered the Seventh Day Adventist, 'but not to full membership until you were baptized again.' Laughter always eased the strain, and the strain was thus eased. No difficulty was put forward which Christian forbearance and charity were not able to remove. And the historic Conference at Kikuyu passed the scheme for the federation of the missions in British East Africa. In the history of missions the day will doubtless prove of epoch-making import. It was the first day on which Anglicans, Presbyterians and Methodists united in a common policy.

"What is the foundation on which this federation is to be reared? The best way to answer is to quote the official documents: 'With a view to ultimate union of the native Churches, a federation of missionary societies shall be formed. The basis of federation shall consist in: 1. The loyal acceptance of the Holy Scriptures as the supreme rule of faith and practice; of the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds, as a general expression of fundamental Christian belief in the absolute authority of Holy Scriptures as the Word of God in the Deity of Jesus Christ; and in the atoning death of our Lord as the ground of our forgiveness. 2. Recognition of common membership between the Churches in the federation. 3. Regular administration of the two Sacraments by outward signs. 4. A common form of Church organization.

"The missions in British Africa," comments Mr. Maclean, "have solved the problem of how to combine Episcopal and Presbyterianism. The form of organization for the future native church will consist of Parochial Council, corresponding to the Kirk-Session; District Council, corresponding to the Presbytery; and Representative Council, corresponding to the Synod. This is already the organization by which the Uganda Mission has been developed, completed by the Episcopate as the capstone—a perfect blending of Bishop and Presbyters.

Rising Tide of Unity.

"Meanwhile each society is autonomous within its own sphere; only the organization of the future native Church is to be developed along these lines. And the federated missions are to respect each other's spheres to serve a common church discipline have a common prescribed course of study for the native ministry, and each minister shall be duly set apart by lawful authority and by the laying on of hands.' The unanimity with which Anglican and Presbyterian insisted on that last clause was a revelation of the fact that priest and presbyter are at one in regard to things essential; and, most important of all, they are to develop a common order of Christian worship, so that native Christians shall everywhere feel at home. One last quotation from the official document must suffice: 'All recognized as ministers in their own Churches shall be welcomed as visitors to preach in other federated Churches.'

Then came the incident out of which arose the discussion that has made the obscure African village of Kikuyu a household word wherever the English language is spoken. "On the evening of that day, June 20, on which the Conference passed the scheme of federation," says Mr. Maclean, "a service of Holy Communion was held in the Scottish Church at Kikuyu. Bishop Peel administered the Sacrament, a minister of the Church of Scotland preached the sermon, and all the mission delegates received the Holy Communion from the Bishop's hands. There was no question of difference between them. All the things that ever separated Christians were submerged by the rising tide of love and unity which had borne them upward to that hour. It was a day 'the impulse of which will be felt throughout every mission field in the world. The missionaries in British East Africa and Uganda have given the Christian world an object lesson in the spirit of unity. They have shown how it is possible for Christians to be 'one' that the world may believe.'"—Montreal Weekly Witness.

Criticism.

"We're all so quick to criticize, and show where things are wrong! If some one makes a batch of pies, or sings a soulful song, 'the pies are pretty fierce,' we say, 'the song is on the blink; it is our cheerful little way; it's graceful—I don't think. The housewife works about a week to tidy up the flat; then puffy comes and starts to shriek: 'Where have you hid my hat?' The windows have been nicely washed, the rugs are bright and clean; around the kitchen wife has slobbered with soap and gasoline. The husband doesn't notice that, but glares upon his frau; he cannot find his darned old hat, and so kicks up a row. 'You ought to have some system, Jane,' he says 'you should, by jings; it always gives me a leg a pain to hunt for missing things. When mother lived—' so he declares, and talks for forty miles, and Jane sits on the cellar stairs and weeps in thirteen styles. Why not improve our carping ways, and capsize sighs and tears? Why not look round for things to praise, say once in seven years?"

T. A. MEETING.—The monthly meeting of the T. A. & B. Society took place yesterday afternoon. Fourteen new candidates joined the ranks. Dues and fines were collected, alterations to the Club rooms discussed and final arrangements made for the annual soiree.

YOUNG MAN, DO YOU WANT ONE?—We refer to the fact that we have a few choice patterns of our up-to-date warm-without-weight Overcoatings left, and we got to clear them out. Come and select one, as you need it, and we will talk about the price privately. Made in our famous up-to-date, double-breasted effects. Don't lose the chance. SPURRELL BROS., 265 Water Street, next door to Parker & Monroe's.—Jan27,ed

STILL INVESTIGATING.—The three police officers who were dispatched to Bell Island to investigate thoroughly into the fire as referred to in Saturday's Telegram, are expected to make some arrests to-day. A quantity of goods are alleged to be stolen.

STOP COUGHING.

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since PHORATOX COUGH MIXTURE is sold all over Newfoundland and is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day that the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and are not able to get rid of it. Don't let a cough or cold hang on you day after day and run the risk of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to clear off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining PHORATOX COUGH MIXTURE at once.

Price 25 cents a bottle, postage 5 cents extra. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld. (Manufacturers also of Stafford's Liniment and Prescription "A.")

FOOTBALL TEAM FOR ST. ANDREW'S.—The news that the St. Andrew's will enter a new team for the 1914 League Football Programme will be hailed with delight by the football enthusiasts of the city. Their eleven will include some good players, who have figured in athletics on the other side of the water.

 BERLIN, Feb. 8.
 According to a prominent member of the Kaiser's Court, it is the opinion of the highest military and naval circles that questions at issue between the United States and Japan are graver than generally believed, and will become acute the moment the former country decides on military intervention in Mexico. This member, in an interview, said that the almost complete isolation of the United States from a political viewpoint, in the last two years, combined with the Japanese question, is being closely but quietly watched by the German Government. It is believed in diplomatic circles in Berlin that there will be grave danger of war between the United States and Japan, if the States maintains its present indifferent if not antagonistic attitude towards Japan's demand for a settlement of the questions now pending, or if there should be any further anti-Japanese legislation in America. Military and naval men as well as diplomats, regard the States as being unprepared for intervention in Mexico, much less for war with Japan. They do not hesitate to say that Japan could easily take the Philippine Islands and Hawaii. Once Japan decides that war is inevitable she will uphold the national honor, and strike without giving any time for preparations. It is undeniable that the United States, at present, has less sympathy not only in Europe, but on her own hemisphere, than in many decades; its tactlessness and indifference to other countries have gone far to alienate the sympathy of other nations,—even of America's friend, England.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.

A cable from Rome says that the Pope has decided to hold a consistory for the creation of Cardinals in the immediate future. The Archbishops of Vienna, Toledo, Cologne and Grau are to be made Cardinals. The Nunzio and Munich and a Canadian Archbishop whose identity is not known, are mentioned as likely candidates; whilst several Italian prelates, including the Archbishop of Bologna, are slated for promotion.

The Tango,

By GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Sivash."

The tango was imported from Buenos Ayres just in time to neutralize the other great Argentine importation which threatened to reduce the cost of living—chilled beef.

The tango is said to be a dance, but it is more often a dispute. Every night, through all this eager country, irritated couples are standing while the music careers gaily on, each trying to tell the other the really proper way to tango.

This is very difficult to do, because in some towns there is no proper tango at all. In New York the tango is regarded merely as an accomplishment, but in Chicago it is a misdemeanor, while in London it is a bore. College faculties have given up discussing the financial question this winter until they can discover whether to classify the tango as college spirit, disorderly conduct or athletics.

The tango should be approached with caution by the ignorant. In the first place, one should always allow the other person to pronounce it first. If you were to pronounce the "a" as in "dang", ten to one the other party would lift her eyebrows several stories and eradicate you by alluding to the "tawngo" in frosty terms.

As a matter of fact, "tango" is Argentine for "tangle." Those who have watched a flustered but earnest couple trying to unbind their feet, after a false start in this peerless dance will readily believe this.

The tango may be all right in Buenos Ayres where the climate is different, but in this country it is a great menace. It has already increased the incentive for crime many fold. When a few good and honest but slightly awkward young men have sat in a corner all evening watching a handsome young city visitor exhibit seventeen different versions of the tango and using all the good looking girls in the hall during the process, law and order stand no show at all. Later in the evening these young men, who may never have killed any one before, will discover the handsome young tangoist in a dark spot on his way home and they will mar the neighborhood sadly by smearing him all over it.

"Telephone" is the word.

The people of the Maritime Provinces use about 30,000 telephones at present. To be on a par with the United States they should use 72,000. Of this increase 10,000 will be used by the 40,000 farmers of Nova Scotia. With farmers it has hitherto been a luxury. Hereafter it will become more and more of a necessity. Every farmer who aspires to be a business man will have a phone. He has to keep in touch with the markets, with the people about him, and with the occurrences of everyday life. Every subscriber added to a system increases its importance to other subscribers.

It is needless to add that the larger the number of patrons the greater the revenue and the consequent profits. As the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co. controls all the telephone companies of Nova Scotia worth while, one can thus see what splendid prospects the Company has in this respect and also understand the excellent position of the preferred stock as an investment.

The par value of these shares is $10, and we are offering 3 block in lots to suit purchasers. Price upon application.
