MOTHER! BREAK CHILD'S COLD

Hurry! Move Little Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

No matter what else you give your child to relieve a bad cold, sore throat or congestion, be sure to first open the little one's bowels with "California Fig Syrup" to get rid of the poisons and waste which are causing the cold and congestion. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out.

Even if you call your family physician he will praise you for having given "California Fig Syrup" as the laxative because it never fails, never cramps or overacts, and even sick children love its pleasant taste. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

LADY LAURAS' RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXXVII

It did not seem to reach human ears, for there was no response. The water had by this time half filled the boat, and it was gradually sinking. "I have to die!" she moaned. "Oh, Heaven—oh, mother—I have to die!" In another few minutes the boat must sink, and she should never see her mother's beloved face again. Another long, sharp cry floated over the water, and this time the cry of distress caught the ears of one who hastened in the direction from which it proceeded.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Major Norton had not gone to Hatfield, after all. When he had ridden two or three miles, he remembered suddenly that he had started without the very article that he had intended to take. There was nothing for it but to ride back to the Abbey and get it. Vexed with himself for his own stupidity, he rode quickly. The shortest route to the house, but one seldom used, was through the grounds skirting the end of the lake; and it was whilst taking this short cut that he heard a sharp ringing cry, as of some one in terrible distress. He rode swiftly in the direction whence it proceeded, and as soon as he came in full view of the lake, he perceived what had happened. He saw Angela in the boat, and he saw that the boat was rapidly sinking. It was but the work of a minute to dismount, to jump into one of the little boats lying close at hand, to seize a pair of oars and to fly, as it were, over the water to her assistance. But although the major made the utmost haste, he was only just in time. In another moment he would have been too late. As it was, he was barely able to catch the disappearing figure as the boat sunk, sinking to the bottom of the lake, endangering the safety of his own as it did so. During the trying ordeal Angela had borne herself bravely; but she trembled violently now, and clung nervously to her rescuer for some minutes.

"I thought my time was come to die," she said, slowly.

"You could hardly be nearer death than you have been," returned the major, for he knew how narrow her escape had been. "How did it happen?" he asked, as she seated her in his boat.

"I do not know," she replied.

"We must make haste," said the major. "You are wet through, and the water is cold. Do not fear, you are all right and safe now. We shall soon be at the house. Thank Heaven, I did not go on to Hatfield! My dear Miss Rooden," he added, solemnly, "if I had gone straight on my way, you would have been drowned."

"Drowned!" The word distressed her, yet she knew what the major said was true; and, as in a dream, all the details of the accident at Hatfield Pool came back to her. It flashed across her mind that this was the second time that she had been dragged, as it were, from the jaws of death.

The major rowed with powerful strokes, and the boat seemed to fly over the water.

"This is the second narrow escape I have had within the last two months," Angela told her rescuer. "I said nothing of the first, lest my mother should be alarmed. I do not think," she continued, with a shudder, "that I shall ever go on the water again."

"Yes; it was the new boat," she answered, slowly.

"But I saw Jones with it on the river last night," said the major; "it was all right then."

"It was all right with me at first," she remarked. "I was half way across the lake before I knew there was anything wrong; then I felt the water rising round my feet."

"Thank Heaven I did not go to Hatfield," repeated the major.

"I can only imagine," said Angela, "that part of a plank had been repaired, and that the wood had not been properly secured."

"But it was right enough when Jones had it. If there had been anything seriously wrong, he would have found it out," declared the major.

"Perhaps he would if he had used the boat an hour longer," suggested Angela. She was sorely troubled and perplexed over this second accident, though she could hardly tell why.

It was impossible to prevent Lady Laura from hearing of this affair, although the other had been carefully concealed from her; but Angela would not allow her to be told until she had changed her wet clothes, and then she went to her mother's room and related what had happened herself.

Her ladyship listened with tears. "I have been sitting here reading, and you have been so near death!" she cried. "Oh, Angel, if I had known!"

Angela tried to speak lightly of it; but Lady Laura trembled, as she thought of the narrow escape her daughter had had. She could not show the girl enough love. She held her in her arms as though she were a child again—she kissed her repeatedly. She made her tell over and over again how the major had rescued her just in time, and had rescued her from her peril. Then, as did every one else who heard the story, she asked:

"But how did it happen, Angela?" There was but the same strange vague answer to give.

"I cannot understand it," said her ladyship. "If the boat was safe for Jones why was it not safe for you? How vexed the captain will be."

Yes, the captain would be vexed undoubtedly, Angela reflected, since it was he himself who had ordered the boat to be prepared for her; and who had that very morning persuaded her to go out upon the water.

As a matter of course, the subject was discussed at length in the servants' hall. To the occupants of that part of the establishment it appeared remarkable that two accidents upon the water should happen to their young mistress, both bringing her so near death. One imparted to another how anxious the captain had been during breakfast, and how many warnings and cautions he had given Miss Rooden before she went upon the lake. The general impression was—although not any of the servants wished in any way to breathe a word against their young mistress—that Miss Rooden was apt to be rather reckless on the water.

Jones' anger and annoyance knew no bounds. The boats were left in his charge, and he was responsible for them, nevertheless he was utterly at a loss to account for what had happened.

"That boat was right enough when I had it on the river last evening," he said, looking perplexed and bewildered. "The captain he said to me, 'Jones, that boat is coming back to-day—the one that has been done up for Miss Rooden. Look it well over; and try it on the river the night before she uses it.' So I did; and I can swear there was nothing wrong. If there had been a hole in the bottom of it, it would have sunk then. I can't make it out."

Nor could any one else; for the more the matter was discussed the more difficult it became to assign any reason for the sudden failure of the boat.

While Lady Laura rejoiced over her child as one given back to her from the dead, while she poured out such lavish thanks to the major that he felt ashamed almost of his own brave deed, while Lady Bell talked of and wondered over Angela's latest escape, a man on horseback drew near the house, riding very slowly, a look of expectation on his face as he glanced around, as though every moment he expected some one to spring up and give him startling news. But no one appeared. He rode even more slowly up the great drive, still looking anxiously from one side to the other. As he came in sight of the grand old Abbey he cast a hurried glance up at the blinds. No; they were not drawn down in deathlike array. But perhaps—there could be no telling—the truth might not yet be known.

He rode leisurely into the courtyard, but there again he failed to notice any confusion or excitement. Nothing was wrong; no unusual sight or sound broke the quiet of the place.

His face darkened as he contemplated the likelihood of the miscarriage of his last scheme.

"Can I have failed again?" he said to himself. "It is impossible!" (To be continued.)

ECZEMA IN RASH FOR 9 YEARS

On Scalp, Arms and Limbs. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.

"Eczema broke out in a rash on my scalp, arms and limbs. The itching and burning were terrific. My hair became lifeless and dry and fell out in handfuls. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I could not rest at night on account of the irritation. "The trouble lasted about nine years. My mother tried many different remedies but they did no good. We began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment which completely healed me." (Signed) Miss Beatrice M. A STYLISH GOWN IN SLEEVELESS STYLE, WITH OR WITHOUT GUMPE.

4273. Embroidered georgette was used for this model. It is also attractive for the new figured silks, for satin and crepe weaves. This will make a pretty afternoon frock in a combination of materials, and is lovely for a dinner or evening gown in velvet or Canton.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is about 2 1/2 yards. It will require 2 1/2 yards and 3/8 yards for the dress for a 38 inch size. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PLEASING VERSION OF A ONE PIECE DRESS.

4295. Novelty wools, and serge are combined in this model. The style is also good for serge, jersey or wash materials. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. For collar, cuffs and vest of contrasting material, 1 1/2 yards 22 inches wide is required. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

CAPE BRETON MINE TROUBLES.

Arrests May Follow February Strike.— Alleged "Red" Sentiment Dominates Workers.—Another Industrial Crisis Threatens Great Britain.

ARRESTS PROBABLE.
SYDNEY, March 30. Uneasiness is caused in Labor circles here by the announcement that thirty-five steel workers are to be arrested on various charges arising out of the strike at Besco Steel Mills in February. There were approximately one thousand men on picket duty during the strike, and as the names of the thirty-five have not been announced, no one knows where the blow may fall and all who had anything to do with active patrol work are under a considerable burden. Chief of Police MacCormick said to-night, he did not expect actual arrests would be made before Monday.

THE CAPE BRETON STRIKE.
PITTSBURG, March 31. Philip Murray, International Vice-President of the United Mine Workers, referring to the Cape Breton strike on Saturday, said, "The situation in the District has been called to my attention by Sibby Barrett of Glace Bay, and I have wired him that no strike can be called without violation of the International constitution. The matter is being investigated under our laws by officers authorized to do so. The organization makes complaint that there is no reason why investigation should not be ordered immediately."

THE RED STRIKE SCARE.
SYDNEY, March 31. Organized miners and steel workers of Cape Breton to-night united in a telegram to Premier W. L. MacKenzie King, demanding investigation as to the circumstances surrounding the present Red strike scare with particular reference to a speech delivered to have been delivered by President Roy Wolvin of the British Empire Steel Corporation at a secret meeting of the Board of Trade here three weeks ago. In making public the contents of the message the men's leaders declared that no strike of either steel workers or miners had been set for April 1st, that this inference was drawn by newspapers from the phrasing of a strong letter forwarded to the Steel Company by the Union, and that the whole excitement has been fermented by a flood of newspaper talk. They inform the Premier that ten thousand Cape Breton workmen stand ready to accept the challenge of the Sydney Board of Trade and defy them to drive out the humblest Bolshevik in the ranks of labor. The telegram was signed by J. B. McLachlan on behalf of the miners, and Paul MacNeil for the steel workers.

ANGLICAN ARCHBISHOP ON EDUCATION.
BELFAST, March 30. The Protestant Bishop of Cashel in a letter to the All-Denomination Conference in Belfast to-day, declares that thus far the Government of Southern Ireland has shown no disposition to be unjust, and that the real danger arises from forces working for its overthrow. He adds, "of course I clearly understand that any immediate and complete understanding between the North and South is out of the question, but I would press for at least a common system of education which would bring all Irish children together and be proof [sic] the Irish people placed Christianity above denomination."

GERMANS REVOLT.
BERLIN, March 30. German industrial magnates in Ruhr have decided to refuse payment to French and Belgians of the March coal tax due to-morrow and to accept all the consequences according to the Berliner Tageblatt.

RUSSIAN BLOOD-LUST.
MOSCOW, March 30. The death sentence recently imposed on Archbishop Zepiak, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, was commuted to-day to ten years' imprisonment under strict isolation. The appeal of the Vicar-General Butchkevich for clemency was denied.

RUSSIAN RYE FOR RUHR.
HAMBURG, March 30. The first cargo of a number of shipments of rye donated by Russians for the benefit of the Ruhr population, arrived by steamship from Revel to-day.

AMERICAN-JAPANESE AGREEMENT.
WASHINGTON, March 30. The celebrated Lansing-Ishii Agreement by which the United States in 1917 recognized Japan's special interests in China, has been cancelled by negotiations between the Governments which have resulted in a new understanding, based primarily on the provisions of the nine power pact written at the Washington Armament Conference, and regarded as applying more effectively "principles of the open door, or equality of opportunity in China."

SYDNEY SITUATION SERIOUS.
SYDNEY, March 30. Openly expressing contempt for what it terms "imitation Fascist," the Phalen local of United Mine Workers to-day issued a public challenge to the Sydney Board of Trade to come out to New Aberdeen and there begin its avowed purpose of stamping out the Red element in Cape Breton. This is the miners' reply to the recent action of the Sydney Board in signing a resolution expressing alarm as to the outlook in Cape Breton in the event of a strike, and pledging its membership to stand in the gap and maintain law and order until the arrival of forces sufficient to uphold the local authorities. The Phalen, which is the largest, single division of the United Mine Workers in Nova Scotia, embodies a challenge in the resolution in which it charges that the Sydney Board action was taken at the orders of Roy Wolvin who threatened otherwise to withdraw capital and allow hay to grow in the streets of Sydney. The miners also accuse the Board of being in a state of abject servitude to the British Empire Steel Corporation and ready to oppose any move of the workers for better wages, but afraid to utter one word of protest against the alleged starvation wages of Sydney workmen or at the alleged watering of Corporation stocks, or at alleged abandonment by Besco of steel plants at New Glasgow and Sydney mines, with consequent hard times and privation for workmen in these towns.

FRANCE'S NAVY.
PARIS, March 29. The work of repairing France's six dreadnoughts, including such changes as will increase their guns, is continuing. Elevation of sights on the big rifles of the Bretagne and Lorraine have been completed. Work is going forward at the present time on the Provence and Paris, and similar changes will soon be undertaken on the Courbet and Jean Bartons. The total cost of repairs is estimated at upwards of five million francs.

STRIKES THREATENED IN BRITAIN.
LONDON, March 29. Important decisions have been taken by the railway and building industries which may involve serious stoppages. The builders and employers' conference resolved to instruct the members throughout the country to enforce in the middle of April an extension of working hours for the summer time from forty-four to forty-seven and to reduce wages on the scale already rejected by the men in ballot. This will mean a general lockout unless the Ministry of Labor can successfully intervene, and also an awkward dilemma for the Government, which is being constantly attacked for failure to provide housing accommodations. Delegates to the conference of national union railwaymen decided to support the shopmen in resisting the claim of the railway companies to the right to withdraw the remaining six shillings of war bonus. The delegates have instructed the executive council to call a national strike if necessary. It is still believed, however, that in the case of the railwaymen some settlement can be arranged.

Law, a man receiving more than $100 a month will pay 80 per cent of the surplus to the Government. Incomes below $350,000,000 roubles, or about $27 per month are not subject to taxation. During February the maximum salary for a Government official was 2,600,000,000 roubles monthly, or about $52, which was received by the Paymaster, Leningrad, Trotsky and other important officials. There are thousands of Russian merchants, speculators and others who make as much as several trillion roubles, or many thousands of dollars monthly, and the tax is particularly directed against them.

ages through surface water entering his premises, Duckworth Street, stated the Council was not liable. The City Engineer reported at length on the claim of the L.S.P.U. for expenses incurred in locating sewer trouble, at their hall, Duckworth Street. This report, together with the Union's communication, is to be forwarded the Solicitor, and he is to be asked his opinion as to Council's liability. It was decided that repairs be made to the garage at the Sanitary Station, for which tenders are to be called. Health of the City Engineer showed four new cases of Scarlet Fever and one of Diphtheria, during the past week. The City Engineer's report for the week, dealing with the work done by the Water, Sewerage and Roads Departments, was tabled. Council employees are now engaged in opening up various surface drains throughout the City. Reports of the Sanitary Supervisor and other officials were tabled; accounts presented ordered paid, after which the meeting adjourned.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.
The regular meeting of the Council was held on Thursday at 4 p.m. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Vinicombe, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

A communication was tabled from the Newfoundland Board of Fire Underwriters, in re the application of Walter Clouston & Sons for permission to repair building, 178 Water St. It was decided that permit be issued, subject to the approval of the City Engineer, and on condition the applicant conforms to the Act as to the use of inflammable material.

J. J. Peddie applied for position as driver of the Motor Truck. As there is no vacancy, the application was ordered placed on file. W. Brennan offered to supply horse to the Sanitary Department. This was referred to the Sanitary Committee, and, in the event of a horse being required, same will be given consideration.

J. Burnstein asked compensation for loss of Newfoundland dog, which, he contended, was due to negligence of the Council. This communication was ordered to be forwarded the Solicitor. The Red Taxi Company asked permission to install gasoline tank at their garage, Prescott Street, also to make alterations to the building. The former matter was referred to the Inspector General, and the latter to the City Engineer. Th. City Solicitor, in reporting on the claim of P. T. Butler for dam-

Tragedies of Thursday's Storm.
TWO MEN SMOTHERED IN SNOW DRIFT AND ONE PERISHED IN RAILWAY STATION.

As a result of the blizzard which raged over the country on Thursday afternoon and night, three men lost their lives; the victims being John Hayse, Renew; Henry Bruff, Admirals Cove and Peter Raymond of the Goffs. The men were engaged in getting firewood when overtaken by the storm. The blizzard was the worst experienced for the winter and gave little or no warning of its appearance. The gale from the N.W. was accompanied by blinding snow and severe frost. Many people who came to the city in the early morning from the outlying settlements did not venture home and those who faced the road had a terrible experience, many being badly froshitten. Some of the country men had the foresight to provide themselves with protection by securing feed bags which they hauled over their heads. From a well known provision and grocery store at King's Bridge, some dozens of bags were purchased for this purpose. The fury of the storm did not abate until yesterday morning, when the weather became somewhat milder. It was feared that some of the men out to the ice had been caught in the blizzard, and the sealing ship owners had an anxious time until messages were received reporting all the crews aboard and well.

A TRAGIC DEATH.
The first victim of the storm to be reported was Joseph Hayse of Renew, aged 18 years. According to information received by the Inspector General of Constabulary, the body of the unfortunate man was found frozen stiff in the Ferris Station. Constable Lynch of Renew who sent in the report, stated that the deceased left home in the early morning for the woods and apparently lost his way when the storm came on. He finally reached the station and sought shelter within. Unfortunately there was no one in the place, owing to the close down of the Trepassy Branch for the winter. Poor Hayse smashed his way in through a window, but he

EXCELLENT RENDITION OF POPULAR RECITAL.
Upwards of 200 people faced the elements on Thursday night to hear the Choir Recital in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Before the recital took place, Rev. R. J. Power, M.A., Minister of the Church, announced to the congregation that a communication was received from His Excellency the Governor, that he and Lady Allard were unable to attend, owing to the inclemency of the weather. Rev. Mr. Power also announced that the performance would be repeated on Thursday evening next, when those with tickets who were unable to attend, would be given an opportunity of hearing this splendid musical production. The recital opened with an organ prelude by Mr. W. Mencrieff Mawer, Grand Organist in C Minor, which was greatly appreciated by the audience. The vocal solo by Mrs. J. J. Miller "Peace and Rest" was rendered in a charming manner, her beautiful control being heard to advantage. The anthem "Come Unto Him" unaccompanied, rendered by the choir of 35 voices, was very inspiring, and the singing was all that could be desired. Then followed the rendition of the Cantata, entitled "The Holy City," composed by A. R. Gaul. The music by the mammoth choir was rendered in a most stirring manner, the choruses being particularly fine. The Quartette, Mrs. C. F. Garland, Miss Anna Ledingham; Messrs. D. McIntosh and Lyman Calvert, proved to be a feature of the performance. The voices were evenly balanced and blended admirably. Mr. O. Green, who possesses a fine tenor voice made his first public appearance before a St. John's audience, and sang with telling effect the solo part "My Soul is Afloat for God." Mrs. A. V. Barnes in a rich soprano voice rendered "Eye Hath Not Seen," in a pleasing manner. Mr. D. McIntosh sang with excellent effect "To the Lord Our God," and Miss Ruth Calvert, who is so well known among local vocalists, was splendidly received. The solo "These are They," by Miss Anna Ledingham proved to be the masterpiece of the evening. This talented lady's beautiful soprano voice was never heard to better advantage. The duet by Mrs. C. F. Garland and Miss Calvert "They Shall Hunger No More," was particularly good, both voices blending harmoniously. The trio—unaccompanied—by Mrs. H. H. Small, Misses E. Maunder and Ruth Calvert was rendered in a charming manner and reflects great credit on the part of Mr. Mawer, the Conductor. The trio were trained to the minute. Mr. A. R. Stansfield won fresh laurels when he sang with telling effect "A New Heaven and a New Earth." The Choral Sanctus forming a splendid background. Mrs. H. H. Small, Misses Maunder, Ledingham and Calvert formed a quartette which rendered "List the Cherubic Host," in a very pleasing manner. The solo by Mr. Stansfield in conjunction with this item was very effective. The choruses throughout were rendered with very telling effect and the unaccompanied numbers by the choir were of par excellence. Mr. W. Mencrieff Mawer, the organist and choir director, was rendered hearty congratulations at the close. The reproduction on Thursday evening next will give all who were unable to be present an opportunity of hearing the St. Andrew's Choir give one of the finest musical presentations yet tendered at St. John's audience.

Departmental Appointments.

CHANGES IN OFFICIAL HEADS.
Thursday's Advocate is authority for the announcement that Captain Thomas Bonia has been appointed Acting Minister of Finance and Customs, in order that he may go to Placentia District with that portfolio in his pocket as a sop. Hon. W. W. Hallyard has been transferred from the Department of Posts and Telegraphs to that of Marine and Fisheries. Whether this latter change fore-shadowed the abolition of the department of Posts, which may again revert to its original status as a sub-department of the Colonial Secretary, remains to be seen.

Thoughts of Easter.

Easter morning is the brightest of all mornings. Death itself loses its terror as we contemplate the glory of resurrection promise. Some one has called the resurrection "the silver lining to the dark clouds of death, and we know the sun is shining beyond." Thank God for the "silver lining!"—Michigan Christian Advocate.

Obituary.

JOHN FITZGERALD.
At Logy Bay on Good Friday, there passed peacefully away, a well known resident in the person of Mr. John Fitzgerald. The deceased, who lived to the ripe old age of 85 years, was born on Cochrane Street. He was a son of the late John Fitzgerald, a prominent figure in the city, who will be remembered by the older generation and for a long number of years was a sealskinner at Bowring's premises. For some time he has been settled at Logy Bay, where he engaged in farming. His wife predeceased him about three years ago. Throughout his long career Mr. Fitzgerald enjoyed splendid health, and never had any illness until a short time before the final call came. In his last hours he was attended by Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan, who administered the rites of the Catholic Church. The deceased leaves to mourn three daughters, Mrs. Dyer and Mrs. Pine, at Logy Bay, and Mrs. Aylward, of this city, and one brother, James. The funeral takes place on Sunday.

MRS. JOSEPH HAYWARD.

Mr. A. E. Hayward of Knowling's employ is in receipt of the sad intelligence of the passing of his mother, Mrs. Joseph Hayward, which sad event occurred at Musgrave Harbor on Thursday last at 3:30 p.m. The news was unexpected, as the deceased had, up to a few hours before her death, enjoyed perfect health. On Thursday she was seized with a fit of coughing, which brought on a hemorrhage, resulting in almost certain death. The late Mrs. Hayward (nee Theresa Whiteway) was born 72 years ago. Her husband predeceased her in 1917. She is survived by two sons, Mark of Musgrave Harbor, and A. E. Hayward of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Audrey Hicks of Carmanville. The Telegram extends sympathy to the relatives in their hour of grief.

Sealing News.
VIKING REPORTED IN MAIN PATCH.

S.S. Vikings, the only ship proceeding the Outer Seal Fishery, has evidently reached the seals, a message to this effect having been received through Messrs. Reid Nfld. Co. this morning. The message stated that the Viking had struck the main patch, but the weather was too stormy to put the men on the ice. The news of the Viking during the past two weeks has been very discouraging, and the prospects of her securing a lead looked for a time very gloomy. The Viking's position is not given, but it is presumed she struck the fat 73 miles S.E. 1-2 East of St. Paul's Island, from where 300 whitecoats were taken on Friday. It is to be hoped in the interest of all concerned that the weather will moderate, and that good news from the Gulf will be forthcoming by Monday. The sealing steamer on the Northern front have done very little since last report. All steamers report that a N.W. gale and blizzard was experienced on Thursday, but fortunately some of the men were on the ice, and all crews were reported on board and well.

The following are the messages received on Thursday and last night:—

BOWRING BROS. LTD.
 Terra Nova (Thursday)—Shot few bedlamers to-day; blowing a gale. On board and stowed 8,000. Ranger down for 7,000.

Terra Nova (Friday)—Position 215 miles S.E. St. John's; ice tight, ship jammed. Ranger in same position. Nothing new to report.

Sagana (Thursday)—Position at 6 p.m. 200 miles S.E. St. John's. Total on board and stowed 11,000.

Sagana (Friday)—Position at 6 p.m. 210 miles S.E. St. John's, blowing a gale from West. Nothing new to report.

Eagle (Thursday)—Blowing a gale from Northwest; got 500 to-day; ice broken up.

Eagle (Friday)—Blowing gale from Northwest; ice tight; ship jammed.

Viking (Thursday)—80 miles E. E. St. Paul's, blowing a N.W. gale. Too thick to see far.

Viking (Friday)—75 miles S.E., half East St. Paul's. Struck small patch whitecoats; took 300 to-day.

Viking (Saturday)—Message to Reid Nfld. Co. to Bowring Bros. "Struck main patch to-day. Weather too stormy to put men on ice."

JOE BROS. & CO.
 Neptune (Thursday)—Made good progress to-day. Position 205 miles S.E. by E. Cape Spear; ice tight as far as can be seen. Getting scattered seals.

Neptune (Friday)—Pickings up scattered seals. Weather bad; ice tight as far as can be seen.

Thetis (Thursday)—Position 208 miles S.E. by S. Cape Spear, made fifteen miles to-day; now jammed.

Thetis (Friday)—285 miles S.E. by E. Cape Spear, practically jammed all day. All pans on board, total 12,000.

The Toll of the Storm.

FOURTH FATALITY REPORTED.
 The loss of a fourth life as the result of Thursday's storm was reported in a message to-day from Magistrate Giovannetti, Trepassay. The victim is John T. Tobin. He is presumed to have been drowned in Trepassay Harbor. Like the other victims, Mr. Tobin had gone with his alkie to get a load of firewood and was overtaken by the storm. When he did not return home at nightfall, search parties were organized. The unfortunate man's alkie was found near the railway station. It is presumed that he started to cross from the station to the lower coast, where his home was, and in doing so walked over the edge of the ice. The body has not been recovered.

MEN MISSING.
 It is reported to the Department of Posts from Coombs' Cove, Fortune Bay, that Jacob Stoodley and Thomas Green of Red Cove who left their homes on Thursday morning en route to English Harbor, have not been heard of since. Search parties are out looking for them.

Two young men, Rockwood and Wright, who left their homes near the Hopewalk on Thursday forenoon to go to the woods, were reported to the police yesterday evening as missing. A search party was being sent out when a phone message from the Hopewalk stated that they had turned up O.K.

Four men of Fortugal Cove, T.B., who were reported missing yesterday, reached safety at Biscay Bay. The men had their hands, feet and faces badly frostbitten.

Portia Reports.

NO CHANGE IN ICE CONDITIONS.
 The Government Coastal Department received a message from Capt. Connors, S. S. Portia this morning, stating that there was no change in ice conditions in Fortune and Hermitage Bays. Both bays are filled with a solid jam of heavy ice, and it will take a strong east or south east wind to release the ship from her present position. The Portia left this port for the westward on 17th February last, and is out from this port six weeks to-day.

Sable I. Arrives.

S.S. Sable I, Capt. Murley arrived in port at 7:30 a.m. after a trying trip. The following passengers came by the ship: W. Gilbert, S. Hiscock, B. Fleming, J. W. Bartlett, A. G. Ogilvie, B. Watson, T. Ryan, E. J. Basha, B. Anstey, S. Levitz, D. Kelly, Col. Nangle, L. J. King, H. Hiscock, J. Butt, G. Snow, J. Parsons, J. W. Snow, J. W. Parsons, R. Jones, E. J. Parsons, Miss Halbot, M. AN EASTER MESSAGE

By REV. N. S. FACEY, M.A., LL.D., Principal of Queen's College.

"Dominus resurrexit sursum corda."
("The Lord is risen, lift up your hearts.")

Of all Easter greetings none is more inspiring than the old salutation of the early Christians as they met an Easter morning, "Dominus resurrexit sursum corda." It vibrates with a sound of triumph which shakes the earth to its foundation, fires the blood in every human breast and turns weak fishermen into world leaders. It nerves the hearts of the sad and the sorrowful, and assures them that bereavement and even death are but incidents on a road which leads at last to joy and gladness. It tells us Christians that eventually every righteous cause will triumph, that we are not to be deceived by the apparent weakness of goodness in the presence of bullying and tyrannical evil, and that "there never shall be one lost good" for "Christ is risen."

... this message of Easter means so much to Christian workers who feel at times the strain of carrying on in the face of opposition. It whispers to them that they are not working here for a little span of seventy years at the most, on a transitory construction which may eventually collapse, but that they are helping to build up the Kingdom of God for Eternity, and it inspires them to bend again to the mighty task which lies before them in the part which they have to play in the building up of that Kingdom in the circle in which they move. And it nerves them on, not only to the building up of the Invisible Kingdom of God, but also to the part which they have to take in the betterment of the social conditions of their fellow men which is an important means to the bringing in of the Kingdom of Our Lord.

And more than this, this Easter message is for us all, at this time, a clarion call to action. We are passing through storm and strenuous days. Life's skein is tangled. Industrial civilization is stricken with a grievous malady. The combat of peace is as hard and wearisome almost as those terrible days of war. We have passed through nine years such as perhaps no age before ours has ever seen, and we are tired.

"We are weary, and we are fearful And we in our march Are fain to drop down and to die."

But the Easter message contains the joyous tidings which makes the heart brave again, and the arm strong, and rallies us on to fresh action. And with this call ringing in our ears none of us must shrink from going forward. Those best suited to lead and govern our country, men of vision, men of loyalty, men of intellect, men indifferent to criticism, men proof against bullying, men of God, must be inspired by it to offer their lives on the altar of service on behalf of their fellowmen, and thus inspire us all again with confidence in leadership, and faith in the sanctity of rule, and give us somewhat of a vision of the righting of wrongs even in this life and the folly of selfishness and corrupt morality. Only men inspired with the firm belief that evil, which reigned supreme on Good Friday, and was conquered for ever on Easter Day, can help us sweep away the psychological legacy of wartime unrest, passion and hatred, and lead us to see that much of our present distress has been caused by the glorification of force and the deluging of reason in floods of rancorous emotion and dishonest propaganda.

But the Easter message is not a call to action to our leaders only. It is also a call to us of the rank and file. For four and a half years millions of people were necessarily engaged in unproductive labour and millions of others were employed in the destruction of the hard earnings and savings of many generations. Since the war, in every country, many more than need have been, have been content to look to weak governments for doles. And now the world's merchandise has been jettisoned and its store-houses empty. No governments and very few individuals have anything left for us to fall back upon to feed ourselves and our families. But it is here that the Easter message is so heartening, for it inspires us all once more to bend ourselves to the task of cultivating and developing hopefully the good gifts of God and nature which are still given to us year by year. We must not depend upon political neomancers to sweep away with magic wands the gaunt spectre of poverty and unemployment which stalks through the homes in this island in common with the homes of other countries to-day. The politician may make employment possible, he may open up new avenues of labour, he may, and he must, do all he can to encourage industry, but he can never by himself, however honestly and industriously he may apply himself to the task, start again the wheels of industry or recreate from year to year the wealth which is necessary to feed a hungry people. Only co-operation on the part of all of us can do this. And the good news of Easter must brace us to do it. We must take stock of conditions as they obtain to-day, and then face the business of the coming season manfully and hopefully.

And, thank God, even in the midst of a world which to many seems a veritable quagmire of despair, even in the midst of an age of poverty, an age torn with strife and jealousy and presenting a tangle of problems to which there seems no solution there are signs of hope as we look out and behold it by the light of our Easter morning. For though progress is slow there are clear signs of the dawn of better days. The League of Nations, for example, has been launched during these dark days in the world's history. It is true it is still only a framework with slender contents, but the very presence of such a framework is a big advance on anything we have known in international affairs hitherto. And if our first high hopes of it have been somewhat blighted during the past six months we must remember that the League is less than four years old. But it exists as a fact and is capable of becoming the greatest factor in modern history. And there is also in many quarters clear manifestations of a spirit of good fellowship and generosity only waiting to be fostered to do much to ease the burdens of life.

So then with the joyous news of Easter ringing in our ears all of us, leaders and followers alike, must lift up our drooping hearts and the hands that hang down, and the feeble knees, and go forward with fresh courage to the tasks which lie before us, prepared, each of us in our several callings, to do our best to face what is dark, difficult, new and perplexing, and in the strength of Our Risen Lord to plod hopefully on until we have swept away all that is mean, selfish and base, and ushered in, not the stunted life of "the good old days of old," but a fuller and larger life, by far, than any of those who have gone before us were ever privileged to enjoy.

EASTER!

By REV. G. O. LIGHTBOURN, B.A., L.Th., St. Thomas's.

"WHERE is God now?" asked a young naval officer, as we stood together on the bridge of one of His Majesty's Destroyers, gazing out over the grey waters of the English Channel, early one morning in the winter of 1918. It was a dark, murky morning and only with difficulty could we discern through the mist the outline of the ships of the convoy—carrying American troops—which we had picked up at 10, west, two days before, and were escorting to Dover. In the distance we could hear the dull boom of the guns of France. "Where was God," he continued, "when the Huns swept over Belgium? Where was God when the Lusitania sank with the women and children? Where was God when the Germans violated the men and chopped off the heads of little children, when sanctuaries were defiled and dead cats nailed on altar crosses?"

This young officer was no sceptic, but he was perplexed—perplexed by questions which have baffled most of us. Who has not asked how it is that God allowed millions of innocent children to starve in the recent famine in China and Russia? Did we not all wonder why He permitted the Turkish barbarians to burn Smyrna and reduce the condition of many thousand Armenian Christians to an abomination of desolation? Does God look unconcerned upon the world of ours rent asunder by political strife, and plunged in despair by economic and social distress?

Such questions as these lead us to a great and fundamental problem. Where are we to look in this dark and sorrowful world for any trace of that union of boundless power and perfect goodness which is what we mean by the word—God? There is power in the world, to be sure; but is that power directed by goodness? There is goodness in the world, sure enough, but can we believe that the goodness has power to achieve its purposes? The power that we see is often weak. Can we then believe that God is all-powerful and perfectly good, can we say with Browning that "the all-Great is the all-loving too?"

It is not a new problem. In a supreme degree such questions are flung in our face by the Story of the Cross. The disciples had dared to believe that they beheld "the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." In Him they found God revealed as perfect goodness and ineffable love. But the goodness and love was defeated and broken. In the conflict of the Cross goodness was on one side and power on the other. "What confronted the disciples," writes the Bishop of Manchester, "was not merely the failure of a great ideal, nor the frustration of all their hopes. It was the failure of God. If that were the end of such a life, then God is not God as we have understood the name: He may be Almighty, but if so He is not good; He may be good, but if so He is not Almighty. If the Cross was the end, then Heaven is emptied of its God-head and our prayers are merely pious wishes tossed into the vastness of space; there is no God to hear them or if there is He cannot help." As Plato expressed it, "All things are spent on death," if the Cross was the end.

But the Cross was not the end. "Now is Christ risen from the dead," God acted and made His actions known. Sorrow is transformed into joy; despair gives place to hope, because of what God has wrought. "Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the father." "Him did God raise up having loosed the pains of death." All through the New Testament there is a ring of absolute certainty and assurance about God, because of what He has done in raising Jesus from the dead. From it there springs "not only a new hope for men and a new energy of righteousness, but a new conception of the entire universe."

The Easter message assures us that we live in a universe in which life not death is the final goal, a universe in which righteousness will ultimately triumph. It is well for us to remember this at a time like the present, when the outlook of a good many is none too bright. Trusting "the God of Peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ," we may lift up our hearts, and go on our way in absolute confidence that our labours "are not in vain in the Lord."

WEEK-END NOTES.

CHAPTER XIII.

SHIPS like people have their day, and when they have fulfilled their purpose they pass out of the public life, and are buried in oblivion. And so it was with the fleets of St. John's of fifty and sixty years ago; for a while they filled a big place, and were essential to the trade and commerce of their time, and then their star set, and went down in the western horizon of ocean fleets. Some of these ships met a tragic ending, and were lost in storm and tempest; and with them went also their gallant crews. Those catastrophes of the sea have brought sorrow to thousands of homes the world over, and of which Newfoundland has had a large share; for it can truly be said, that Newfoundland has paid a steep price for her colonization, and for her maritime prestige. It has been ours to look to the sea, and to snatch from its anger and treachery the whither-with-all-to-live. We have truly been among the people, of whom the Psalmist speaks, when he refers to "those who go down in the sea in ship, and who do business with the great waters;" and our ships like Solomon's "have been broken." It is certain that we have paid a steep price, and that the exactions and penalties of maritime life have demanded much from us, and that it has in a degree broken our spirit; and because of this, thousands have left our country, and have sought a different mode of living by what to them at least, seemed an easier way. The memory of our old ships and their loss brings to many a harrowing scene, and many a bitter sorrow. We have seen the morn burst bright and fine, and the members of the household happy and brightly, but before the day closed, the news of shipwreck came, telling that some gallant captain and his crew,

NEPTUNE CLAIMS MOST OF THEM.

Only a few ships have nearly finished their career, and have literally been worn out, and therefore put out of commission; these few have generally been dismantled, and used as hulks for storage. We have at present in the harbor three such ships, namely: the Briton, the Suzanne, and the Pelican. The Suzanne was comparatively a new ship, which put in here some eighteen years ago for repairs, but owing to the financial conditions of her owner in France, she was sold here. The Briton, as our readers are aware, has had a long career, and under the name of the Calypso she made her record in the British Navy of the last half of the nineteenth century. The Pelican had also a long record, having been for the most of her time the commodore ship of the Hudson's Bay Company, plying between London and the Hudson's Bay posts. The log books of these three ships alone would supply data for many a good story, and the record of their checkered careers would afford a very vivid account of sea-faring life in general; for in their many voyages, these ships ploughed the waters of the seven seas, and endured a thousand storms. Old Neptune was their king, and no doubt lashed them with his fury; but they being staunchly built, and ably commanded, weathered every gale, and having come off triumphantly, they finished their commission, and thus lie safely moored within the shelter of the harbor.

During the career of such ships as these, there was a great development in marine architecture, and steam and electricity made wonderful advances. These ships had a long day, but thousands of staunch ships, which were launched during their career, have gone down in shipwreck and loss. Amongst our local ships which finished their commission, and were dismantled, we remember a few, and have also noted their resting place. We remember the brigantine Leader, owned and commanded by the late Captain Thomas Jearin. For a few years the Leader lay at anchor in the

"AT HOME."

On Easter Monday night the G.W.V.A. will hold an "At Home" in the Grenfell Hall. His Excellency the Governor, Lady Alford and Suite have signified their intention of attending as well as the following: Hon. R. A. Squires, and Lady Squires, Hon. Tasker Cook and Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bennett. The Princess's Dance Orchestra will furnish music, while Mr. Kart Trappell will contribute the song of the 29th Division. The catering for the occasion will be provided by Mrs. MacKenzie and Lady friends. The affair is intended to eclipse all previous efforts of anything held by the G. W. V. A. and an enjoyable evening is anticipated.

Tragic Death.

LITTLE BOY POISONED.

Little Thomas, the 2 1/2 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George White, Bond Street, accidentally poisoned himself at his home yesterday morning at 12.30, when he took a box of strychnine pills off the mantle shelf in the kitchen and swallowed some. His mother who was in the kitchen at the time of the occurrence, going about her regular household duties, was unmindful of the child doing anything out of the ordinary, when suddenly the infant's cries attracted her attention. The mother did all possible for the little chap, and Doctors Macpherson and Mitchell were quickly summoned, but were unable to restore him, and he passed away within half an hour. The sympathy of all will be tendered Mr. and Mrs. White in the death of their little son.

DEBATE POSTPONED.

The regular weekly debate of the M.C.L.I. was postponed last Thursday night owing to the storm, but those in attendance had a warm discussion which proved very enjoyable. On next Thursday night the subject for debate will be "Resolved, that the Modern Church has lost its convictions." The leaders will be Rev. Dr. Curtis and Mr. I. C. Morris.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

TOLL OF THE FIRE FIEND.

NE YORK, March 31. Two firemen were killed and sixteen injured to-day, fighting a spectacular fire that swept two factories and four tenements on the East Side, and for a time threatened Bellevue Hospital, with two thousand patients. The dead and injured were buried beneath a brick wall, toppled into the street by a gas explosion.

HALF MILLION PEOPLE INVOLVED

ESSEN, March 31. A proclamation by General Degoutte, ordering all striking railroad officials and trainmen to resume work under penalty of expulsion, was posted throughout the Ruhr and Rhineland to-day. Approximately 125,000 men came under the order, and, with their families, number five hundred thousand.

FRENCH SEIZE CURRENCY.

HOECHST, Prussia, March 31. Ten billion marks and four hundred thousand French francs, shipped by the Frankfurt Branch of the Reichsbank to the Westphalen branch, were seized this afternoon by the French.

SELF CONFESSED CRIMINAL.

LOS ANGELES, March 31. Herbert Wilson, former Evangelist, alleged mail robber and murderer, has told postal inspectors that he can solve the bombing of J. Pierpont Morgan's offices in Wall Street, New York, in September 1920. The explosive, which filled the bomb, which killed thirty-nine persons and destroyed property valued at many thousands of dollars, was manufactured by Wilson, according to his own admissions, and was sold by him to the man, who has been charged with guilty knowledge of the crime.

An Easter Message.

(By Rev. W. G. Watson, B.D.)
"O death, where is thy victory?" The message of Easter is that Life is lord of Death. It perpetuates the memory of a great fact in the history of our Lord, a fact which alone is able to explain the Christian religion. No attempts made to explain away the resurrection of Jesus have been successful. What else could have dispelled the gloom and hopelessness of the disciples after the death of Jesus? What else can explain the perennial power of the gospel to keep alive the church, and make the Christian religion the one vital and progressive spiritual force in the world? If Jesus, at his crucifixion, had simply dropped back into the silence of eternity, the Christian religion would have died at its birth; but Jesus did reappear, not once but many times and to many persons, and gave ample assurance that he was alive, and what was of far greater importance, that he was still interested in his disciples and in their work, and that he would continue to be with them forever. It was this assurance, this blessed confidence that turned their night of despair into morning light, and gave them boldness and courage to proclaim their message.

And now, what is the message of Easter for our day? What does it mean for the men who are seeking to do God's will in the service of their fellow men to-day, for the men who in pursuance of their high task are misunderstood, deemed smitten of God, despised and rejected of men? It is for them the message of hope and victory. It inspires them with courage to face the great task of redeeming the world. In the hardness and loneliness of their toil, they are encouraged by the assurance that he ever liveth. "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." In discouragement and apparent defeat, they are comforted by the thought that though they may follow the Master in the rough and cruel road to calvary, they too shall see of the travail of their soul and be satisfied. "Because he liveth, we shall live also."

COULD NOT GET AROUND CAPE.

S.S. Watchful, which ship left here for the Westward at 5 a.m. yesterday, failed to get around Cape Race and had to put back owing to ice conditions. The Government Coastal Department received a message from Capt. Stephen Parsons of the Watchful this morning, via Admiral's Cove, Fermeuse, stating as follows:—"Reached Cape Race 4 p.m. yesterday, ice packed on land, impossible to get through and returned to Fermeuse for the night. Left again at daylight. Wind South East, strong; ice still packed on land; awaiting change of wind."

Kyle at Louisburg.

TWO WEEKS PASSAGE.
The Reid Nid, Co. were to-day apprised by wire that S.S. Kyle had arrived Louisburg at 8 o'clock this morning. The Kyle met with abnormal ice conditions since leaving port some two weeks ago, and her arrival in Louisburg ends a very tedious voyage. As soon as the ship repackages her bunkers and loads whatever freight is offering there, she will come direct to St. John's.

SAPPER SAILING.—Mr. J. W. N. Johnstone received a message yesterday stating that S. S. Canadian Sapper would sail from Halifax for this port on April 4th.

ICE BOUND.—There is no reported change in the Glencoe's and Argylla's positions. The former is held at Argentinia and the latter at Berlin.

THE FATHERS AND MOTHERS PROTECTIVE

I wonder if it would not be possible to form a mothers and fathers protective association.

They were discussing the license at the children of the present day. The father of the son contended that the girls were at the root of the motto, and that they led the boys while the father of the daughter said the girls had to go in for all the stuff because, if they didn't, the boys couldn't pay any attention to them.

Protective against whom? Can't you guess? Against their sons and daughters of course.

They sat in the other day on a conversation between two mothers of grown children. One had a daughter 17, the other had a son 19.

They were discussing the license at the children of the present day. The father of the son contended that the girls were at the root of the motto, and that they led the boys while the father of the daughter said the girls had to go in for all the stuff because, if they didn't, the boys couldn't pay any attention to them.

Put on one thing they both agreed to do.

"You Have to Let Them."

"It seems," said one of them, "terrible to think of young boys and girls at school, dancing until 4 o'clock and then going to someone's house to 'satisfy'."

"I know," said the other, "fancy our parents allowing it."

"But you have to let them or else you won't be invited anywhere," said the first.

And the second one solemnly agreed: "No, there doesn't seem to be another way."

Now there, of course, is where my mothers and fathers protective association comes in. If all the mothers and fathers in that set banded themselves together and agreed that they would all stand firm for a little more, a little more moderation in things like this, couldn't they put it to rest?

They're All Araid.

No one father or mother dares to stand alone for fear of social ostracism for the child. But if they stood together all the children couldn't be so socially ostracized if there wasn't any left outside to do it.

Do you remember, in one of the recent novels, how the father is horrified at his son's party when he finds youngsters of 19 or 20 all have their hip pocket flasks and that some are half drunk. He wants to protest and his wife says: "But you wouldn't want our son left out of everything."

A friend of mine has an engaged daughter who wants to sit up until outrageous hours of the night with her fiancée. When her mother protests she says: "Well, if we can't sit up here we'll go over to Rose's. Her mother lets them sit up as late as they want and we'll stay there."

"Or Be Forever Slaves."

Such cases as these the mothers and fathers protective association could manage very handsly.

In union there is strength.

How about it mothers and fathers? With that whip lash of what the other mothers and fathers allow constantly applied to you have been driven to permit things against which your strongest instincts revolted. Can't you manage somehow to get together and insist that weapon away from your young tyrants?

Speaking from Experience. Steedman's Soothing Powders. The Doctor says: "It's restful and soothing. Give him a Spoonful of Powder and he'll soon be all right."

Just Folks. By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE RANK AND FILE. For the rich and few the beggars. That great mass which lies between Holds the genius of the ages, holds the wonders to be seen.

Take the troops of life's great army, look them over as they pass, And the burden of the ages must be shouldered by the mass.

Out of cradles poor and lowly shall the man of might arise, From the ranks of humble service he shall come who shall be wise.

Little have they left to give us, there is a descending sun Who have fought and come to glory; all they will do they have done.

But the sturdy youth is dreaming dreams of what he soon shall do, And the genius of to-morrow there is struggling out of view.

There the future songs are waiting, in the middle ranks of men, There the books which shall be written wait another gifted pen.

Not from idle wealth comes glory, not from stragglers battered down, But the mass of men and women form the plasm of renew.

Whence shall come to-morrow's leader, who shall sing to-morrow's song? Somewhere as an eager toiler he is passing with the throng.

Somewhere in the crowded city, unobserved by human eye, Lost unto this generation—a great man's mother harries by.

The Joy of Eastertime.

(By M. J. FAIBLOTH.)

O the joy of Eastertime! When earth is robed anew In loneliness and sunshine.

Sweet music fills the air, The song of birds, the humming bees, The sweet wild flowers, the budding trees.

The singing brook, the rippling rills, How they thrill us 'mid the days With their Easter-song of praise!

But the sweetest note in earth or heaven Is the glorious message "Christ is Risen!"

The crowing joy is the Living Christ! The Christ to human hearts so dear, So real, so very near.

That we can lean upon His arm And leaning rest our heads; Meanwhile, He reads our heart's deep longings.

Unuttered, unexpressed, He shares our joys, He knows our sorrows.

He understands the loneliness and pain That oft would fain oppress. "I know it all," He whispers With deepest tenderness.

And breathes into our hearts His peace and rest. And the sweet assurance—"Because I live you shall live also. In my Father's house await you Mansions bright and fair— And loved ones, too, await you there."

Life grows radiant with Christ and hope Amid the glorious Eastertime; And hearts are filled with heavenly joy And God's own sunshine.

An Impassioned Appeal From Placentia.

Fellow countrymen of the North, South, East and West. Don't be bluffed or misled by the reticulous and wholly untruthful ravings of the "Advocate" and "Daily Mail" these times.

We presume anything in these papers contains about the same percentage of truth as do the glowing headlines and columns of "boosh" in the District of Placentia, and St. Mary's and Capt. Bonia's charges. Well that's not quarter of one per cent.

Truth is that this old Liberal District was never in its history as surely and solidly united as it is this spring for "Bennett and better times."

The Squires-Coaker ticket will stand no more chance of election here than would Lucifer of getting into Heaven—so then what about Bonia? Well what about Bonia is that everyone in the District knows him so well that he would be wasting breath to try and persuade them that it is any use for him to come here. He never for a moment expected to be elected. His colleagues are not yet announced, nor do we care who they are. Oh, what a shame to be thus throwing away the public monies wrung from poor people by excessive taxation and the worst of it is that hundreds of these unfortunate taxpayers are without pork or butter—a scarcity of flour—themselves, their wives and children bare-footed and almost naked, while these fellows are basking in the sunshine of luxury at the public expense.

Argents 10 to 1 for Squires says the Advocate correspondent from Placentia. 'Tis about as near the truth as anything else in that paper, but as will be proved after Polling Day there are not ten votes in Argents, Fox Hr., Long Hr., Ship Hr. and Iona all added together for the Squires-Coaker trio and that takes in over 500 voters. Walsh, Sullivan and Sinnott will smash all high line records this time, for Placentia and St. Mary's want "Bennett and Better Times."

TRINITY

CAPTAIN JOHN SABBIN OF POOLE, ENGLAND, AND TRINITY, NEWFOUNDLAND, 1870-1815.

On several occasions I have called attention to the fact, that when Trinity began to draw upon the Old Country for her earliest settlers; and as such to become the fathers of the people who were to be representatives of England all through the ages; she was fortunate in having been given the privilege of tapping the resources of beautiful Christ Church, Bournemouth, and other parts of the picturesque County of Hants; as well as those of other delightful spots along that part of the Coast. True, it was a far cry from Christ Church to Trinity in respect of climate; but there was a dash of salt water in the blood of those who were born along the sea-board of the English Channel, that compelled recognition in the early life of the men, and persisted in influencing them in the choice of their vocation in life.

The lure of "the land across the sea," whose rugged shores were washed by the turbulent waters of the same Atlantic, whose tides ebbed and flowed at their own door, was irresistible; and of those who once responded to the call to go over and help in the upbuilding of England's Oldest Colony, very few had ever any wish to return; and they proceeded at once to make their homes there. One person who shared in all the undertakings, and whose life was moulded by all these influences, was John Sabin of Christ Church, near Poole. His father and mother were well known and highly respected people in Christ Church; and when their third child proved to be a boy, they at once began to arrange for his future. At his baptism in the old Priory Church on September 6th, 1870, he was given the name John, after his father; and no child ever received more marked attention to ensure physical, and mental development than did this same John Sabin. The school privileges in Christ Church were many and valuable, and whilst the boy John was more than ordinarily attentive to his school work, yet there were times when, with book in hand, or pen ready for use, his expression would betray the fact, that he was thinking of neither book nor pen; and if he were inclined to exchange his thoughts for the professed penny, he would come out of his reverie, and with a smile he would say: "I was thinking about the wonderful, beautiful sea."

One day at the annual closing exercises of the school, when a part of the programme was a series of recitations by the boys, in the presence of their teachers and parents, young Sabin, then a boy of fifteen, had selected as his exercise, "Byron's Apostrophe to the Ocean." His marvellous rendering of it, as oblivious to all around him—his body quivering with emotion, his very soul adame with an interest that flashed from his eyes as he uttered the words:—"Roll on thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll!"—was a revelation to the audience, and an answer, once and for all, to his good parents, who had often asked themselves the question: "What is his vocation in life?" There and then they decided in the words that they had often heard the boy use: "The sea, the sea, the beautiful sea!" Yes, the salt sea was in the boy's blood! John Sabin was called to be a sailor. After a year at a naval school to learn the theory of seamanship, John was apprenticed on board a vessel of the Merchant Marine, under the command of an old friend of the family. The years passed pleasantly and profitably, and on September 1st, 1894, which was his 24th birthday, John Sabin was handed his Captain's Certificate, and was appointed to the brig "Lester," plying between Poole, and Trinity, Newfoundland.

In his Captain's uniform he looked every inch a sailor, and his happy expression as he took his father and mother on board his vessel, was a clear indication to everybody, that he was doing his duty in the state of life to which it had pleased God to call him. His first voyage was from Poole to Trinity, Newfoundland, with a valuable cargo consigned to John Bingley Garland and Co. As he came on the Coast of Newfoundland for the first time during an exceptionally severe storm, and saw the rugged shores and headlands lashed with the fury of the Atlantic, he remarked to his first officer: "Dear me! How often I have seen all this in my dreams! What a glorious sight! The beautiful harbor of Trinity, with its wonderful activities and its striking likeness to an English village, made a deep and lasting impression upon Captain Sabin, and he enjoyed every hour of his three weeks detention in port, and made several friends. His first crossing the Atlantic from Trinity to Poole was a record one of eleven days, which won for him the blue ribbon of the fleet. His ordinary passages were good, and by the close of the second year, Captain Sabin was the best known Captain in the service.

In the spring of 1895 he decided to make his home in Trinity, and during the summer trips he brought with him many things that were necessary to a happy home life. In the Marriage Register of St. Paul's, Trinity, there is the following entry:—"1895, Nov. 2nd—Married, Capt. John Sabin, of Christ Church, in the County of Hants, in Great Britain, and Joanna, daughter of William and Dusbella Malone, of this Harbor." In the Baptismal Register of two years later, is the following entry:—"1897, Aug. 17th—Baptized, a daughter to Captain John and Joanna Sabin, of this Harbor, named, Joanna Malone." For nine years after his marriage Captain Sabin was engaged in the trade between Trinity and Poole, and was reported inward and outward with unfailing regularity. In 1814, however, he left Poole for Trinity, on August 23rd, and was due in Trinity by the middle of September. The days and weeks passed, with no report of the "Lester." Those were dangerous times on the ocean, and Eternity alone will reveal to us how Captain Sabin and his crew met death;—probably at the hands of the King's enemies on the high seas.

Three years later, in the Marriage Register of St. Paul's, Trinity, is the following entry:—"1817, Feb. 5th—Married, James Lockyer, (Agent for Messrs. Slat & Reed) of the parish of Christ Church, in the County of Hants, England (Bachelor) and Joan Sabin (widow of the late Capt. John Sabin) of this Harbor." In the Baptismal Register are entries of the baptism of the following six children of James and Joan Lockyer:—"William, George, Mary, John, Sarah, James." All have gone to their rest, and the eight grandchildren living to-day are,—seven of the issue of John (and Kezia), and one (Canon Lockyer) the issue of George (and Mary). So far as I know, Joanna Malone, baptized in 1897, was the only child born to Captain John Sabin and his wife Joan. She was practically adopted by James Lockyer, who married her mother; and when she was twenty-three years of age, she was married to James Collis; as given in the following entry in the Marriage Register of St. Paul's:—"1830, Dec. 5th—Married, James Collis of Poole, and Joanna Malone, daughter of the late Captain Sabin, and his wife Joan."

To them were born eight children: William, James, George, Arnold, Arthur, Frances, Edwin, and John. All have gone into the life beyond the grave, and the grandchildren living to-day, are the children of William, Arthur, Frances, and Edwin.

Mr. Benjamin Fleet kept school there for a while in 1823, until the school house was built. His sister, Mrs. Symmonds, assisted him in teaching during the winter. She stayed in bed, and taught the children in her bed-room. Probably she was the first female teacher. Mrs. Burnell lived there later.

Thomas Farnham, in 1833, lived where Mr. Edwin Grant lives. He kept a shop. He was mysteriously made away with, and there was never any trace found of his murderers. (There were many murders about that time, and no great efforts were made to discover the murderers.—W.J.L.)

James Wiseman was a ship carpenter. That part of Trinity known as "Wiseman's Beach" was named after him. That is where he lived, on land afterwards owned by Charles Diddham, and now by Joseph Gover, who married Charles Diddham's daughter.

Joseph Ash who died there in 1876, in 1902 it was bought from Captain Field by Mr. William S. Lockyer. During the next twenty years Mr. Lockyer repaired and improved it at a cost that would have been more than enough to build a new, modern house. The constant attention given to the property every year, made it in recent years one of the best kept residences in Trinity. It is an ideal site for a modern bungalow, and we shall be glad to see either Mr. Lockyer, or some one else build upon it. —W.J.L.

Amongst those who lived in the house as tenants were Rev. Benjamin and Mrs. Smith, Peter Coleman, Joseph House, James Crocker, and

The Centurion

(By A. CONAN DOYLE)

(Story Teller's Magazine.) Being the fragment of a letter in Sulpicius Balbus, Legate of the 10th Legion, to his uncle, Lucius, in his villa near Balsa, dated the Kalends of the month of August in the year 524 of Rome.

PROMISED you, my dear uncle, that I would tell you anything of interest concerning the siege of Jerusalem; but, indeed, these people whom we imagined to be unworthy kept us so busy that there has been a little time for letter-writing. I came to Judaea thinking that a blowing of trumpets and a shout would finish the affair, and picturing splendid triumph in the Via Sacra follow, with all the girls in Roman-owing flowers and kisses to us. I, we may say, over-estimating, and why the kindness, but I cannot say you that not even you who have such hard service on the Rhine ever have experienced a more arduous campaign than this has been. We have often pitied them, and to their temple is burning, and the ke sets me coughing as I sit in my tent. But it has been a terrible business, and I am weary of us with to see Judaea again, fighting the Gauls, or the Ger- you are against brave men, hated by the love of their coun- This passion acts more, however, upon some than others, so that the whole army is not equally inflated by it. These Jews, however, besides their love of country, which is very strong, have a desperate religious fervour, which gives them a fury in battle such as none of us have ever seen. They throw themselves with a shriek of joy upon our swords and lances, as if death were all that they desired. If one gets past your guard may Jove protect you, for their knives are deadly, and if it comes to a hand-to-hand grapple they are as dangerous as wild beasts, who would claw out your eyes or your throat. You know that our fellows of the Tenth Legion have been, ever since Caesar's time, as rough soldiers as any with the Eagles, but I can assure you that I have seen them positively cowed by the fury of these fanatics. As a matter of fact we have had least to hear, for it has been our task from the beginning to guard the base of the peninsula upon which this extraordinary town is built. It has steep precipices upon all the other sides, so that it is only on this one northern base that fugitives could escape or a rescue come. Meanwhile, the fifth, fifteenth, and the twelfth or Syrian legions have done the work together with the auxiliaries. Poor devils! we have often pitied them, and there have been times when it was difficult to say whether we were attacking the town or the town was attacking us. They broke down our fortresses with their stones, burned our towers with their fire, and dashed right through our whole camp to destroy the supplies in the rear. If any man says a Jew is not a good soldier, you may be sure that he has never been in Judaea. However, all this has nothing to do with what I took up my stylus to tell you. No doubt it is the common gossip of the forum and of the baths how our army, excellently handled by the princely Titus, carried one line of wall after the other until we had only the temple before us. This, however, is—or was, for I see it burning even as I write—a very strong fortress. Romans have no idea of the magnificence of this place. The temple of which I speak is a far finer building than any we have in Rome, and so is the Palace, built by Herod or Agrippa, I really forget which. This temple is two hundred paces each way, with stones so fitted that the blade of a knife will not go between, and the soldiers say there is gold enough within to fill the pockets of the whole army. This idea puts some fury into the attack, as you can believe; but with these flames I fear a great deal of the plunder will be lost. "There was a great fight at the temple, and it was rumoured that it would be carried by storm to-night, so I went out on to the rising ground whence one sees the city best. I wonder, uncle, if in your many campaigns you have ever smelt the smell of a large beleaguered town. The wind was south to-night, and this terrible smell of death came straight to our nostrils. There were half a million people there, and every form of disease, starvation, decomposition, filth and horror, all pent in within a narrow compass. You know how the Hon sheds smell behind the Circus Maximus, acid and foul. It is like that, but there is a low, deadly, subtle odour which lies beneath it and makes your very heart sink within you. Such was the smell which came up from the city to-night. As I stood in the darkness, wrapped in my scarlet chlamys—for the evenings here are chill—I was suddenly aware that I was not alone. A tall, silent figure was near me, looking down at the town even as I was. I could see in the moonlight that he was clad as an officer, and as I approached him I recognized that it was Longinus, third tribune of my own legion, and a soldier of great age and experience. He is a strange, silent man, who is respected by all, but understood by none, for he keeps his own council and thinks rather than talks. As I approached him the first flames burst from the temple, a high column of fire, which cast a glow upon our faces and gleamed upon our armour. In this red light I saw that the gaunt face of my companion was set like from. "At last!" said he. "At last!" He was speaking to himself rather than to me, for he started and seemed confused when I asked him what he meant. "I have long thought that evil would come to the place," said he. Now I see that it has come, and so I said 'At last!'" "For the matter," I answered, "we have all seen that evil would come to the place, since it has again, and again defied the authority of the Caesars." He looked keenly at me with a question in his eye. Then he said: "I have heard, sir, that you are one who has a full sympathy in the matter of the gods, believing that every man should worship according to his own conscience and belief." I answered that I was a Stoic of the school of Seneca, who held that this world is a small matter and that we should care little for its fortunes, but develop within ourselves a contempt for all but the highest. He smiled in grim fashion at this. "I have heard," said he, "that Seneca died the richest man in all Nero's Empire, so he made the best of this world in spite of his philosophy."

Use SUNLIGHT SOAP and Save Your Money!

Sunlight Soap is so pure that it will not injure even a baby's tender skin. You cannot get better Soap than Sunlight, even though you pay twice its price. Sunlight Soap, being all pure Soap, is really cheaper than inferior, adulterated soaps.

Here are the Proofs:

When you buy a bar of Sunlight Soap for 15 cents you get 12 ounces of pure Soap, whereas when you buy an 8 ounce bar of adulterated soap for ten cents, you get only 6 ounces of soap and 2 ounces of adulterant, therefore the adulterated soap costs you 20 cents for 12 ounces of soap.

If you take a twelve ounce bar of Sunlight Soap and cut it into 2 pieces, one piece weighing 8 ounces and the other piece weighing 4 ounces. The 8 ounce piece of Sunlight cost you 10 cents, and the 4 ounce piece cost you 5 cents, and each piece is pure Sunlight Soap.

Where can you buy 8 ounces of pure soap for less than 10 cents? Where can you buy 4 ounces of pure soap for less than 5 cents?

Use Sunlight Soap for washing your clothes because it is the purest soap and because it will not injure your clothing. Use Sunlight Soap for scrubbing your floors, because being all pure soap it is really the cheapest soap you can buy.

Sunlight Soap is made and guaranteed by Lever Bros., Ltd., soap makers by appointment to His Majesty King George V. Lever's Guarantee reads as follows: 1,000 Pounds (or $5,000.00) will be paid to anyone proving Sunlight Soap to contain any injurious chemicals or adulterants.

Soap which costs less than SUNLIGHT is worth less!

wh needed pity had you seen His poor battered, disfigured face. But He had no thought for Himself—it was for the great world-pity that looked out of His gentle eyes. There was a whole man among them who did not wish to charge the howling crowd who were dragging such a man to His death. "What were you doing there?" "I was Junior Centurion, with the gold vine-rod fresh on my shoulders. I was on duty on the hill, and never had a job that I liked less. But discipline has to be observed, and Pilate had given the order. But I thought at the time—and I was not the only one—that this man's name and work would not be forgotten, and that there would be a curse on the place that had done such a deed. There was an old woman there, His mother, with her grey hair down her back. I remember how she shrieked when one of our fellows with his lance put Him out of His pain. And a few others, women and men, poor and ragged, stood by Him. But, you see, it has turned out as I thought. Even in Rome, as you have observed, His followers have appeared. "I rather fancy," said I, "that I am speaking to one of them." "At least, I have not forgotten," said he. "I have been in the wars ever since with little time for study. But my pension is overdue, and when I have changed the saum for the toga, and the tent for some little farm up among the hills, which stretch as far south as the river Jordan. The other day, I can find someone to instruct me." And so I left him. I only tell you all this because I remember that you took an interest in the man, Paulus, who was put to death for preaching this religion. You told me that it had reached Caesar's palace, and I can tell you now that it has reached Caesar's soldiers as well. But apart from this matter I wish to tell you some of the adventures which we have had recently in raiding for food among the hills, which stretch as far south as the river Jordan. The other day,

Wallace Silverware.

Is your Table Silver as good to-day as when you bought it?

Have you noticed that at the parts most exposed to wear, the plate has become worn?

Do you think this condition of your Silver is in keeping with your idea of a well appointed table?

Then why not, when you decide on replacing your old ware, give place to it with the "Wallace" Brand, the Silver that refuses to wear and is guaranteed without time limit.

Start with the Tea Spoons and gradually complete your Set with the one pattern—there are several for you to choose from and the price is very moderate.

Tea Spoons cost $2.00 for a Dozen.
