At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit

STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XXI

"No, my lady," was the answer; "I can hardly comprehend that such trouble should come to you."
"My very name means sorrow," she replied.
The Squire looked at her pitiously. His face wore the same expression that she had seen on Lord Rhysworth's; and she cried—
"You know something, papa, and you are keeping it from me!"
"Sit down, my darling," returned the Squire, "and tell me all that passed after I went home. I left you talking to your husband on the lawn; he was telling you that he could not drive me home because he had a business appointment. Where was that appointment, and with whom?"
"I do not know," he said that he would explain it all to me on his return."
Then quite unexpectedly she caught the glance that passed between the Squire and Lord Rhysworth. It was one of secret intelligence.
"If you know anything of Karl, oh, tell me!" she cried. "Do not keep me in suspense."
Neither of the men answered her; but the Squire drew her closely to him.
"My darling, we will do all we can, said the elder man, after a few moments. "There shall not be a place unsearched to which it is probable he has gone; let that assurance comfort you."
"But, papa, tell me whether you know anything of him? Has anything been heard? Why do people look so strange? Why do they whisper to one another?"
"They are all puzzled, my dear, I should imagine," he replied; and it is a puzzle."
She clung to him with weeping eyes.
"Do you think any accident has happened to him?" she asked; and the Squire shook his head gravely.
"No Dolores, I do not."
"Then where can he be? Oh, papa, bring him back to me—do bring him back! I must see him! You have been kind to me all my life; be doubly kind now; bring him to me. I—I cannot live without him!" She turned her miserable face to Lord Rhysworth.
"How ill you look, my darling! What a trouble this is to fall upon your dear head!"—and the Squire took his daughter in his arms and kissed the sweet, pale face over and over again. My poor pretty darling,

There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat

By Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:
"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

worth. "Help me," she cried—"help me to find Sir Karl!"
"My dear lady, we will do all that we can," he answered.

She flung up her arms in despair. "He will never come back again!" she cried. "I have felt it in my heart all along, it was too bright to last—too bright! I told him so, and he laughed at me. Papa, it will kill me!"

"Nay, my darling, you must live for me and for the children," replied the Squire. "Besides, you must not give up hope yet. Lord Rhysworth will drive me over to Deeping, and we will get men to search the woods. Take courage."

But her heart was heavy with dread. They left her, and were absent many hours. She looked so white and wan, so fragile and heart-broken, when they returned, that tears came into Lord Rhysworth's eyes. The children were with her. She raised her pallid face, but it seemed as though all power of speech had left her. The Squire spoke first.

"We have no news, Dolores—neither good nor bad; we have not heard or seen anything of him."

With a faint sigh she laid her head on his breast.

"My darling," cried the Squire, "you must not give way in this fashion; you must not, indeed! Try to rouse yourself. Suppose an accident has happened to your husband, and he wants careful nursing; you will be quite unfit to help him. Promise me now to take some nourishment, and then I will tell you something."

"I will," she gasped.
In silence the Squire poured out some wine, and in silence she drank it. Was it her fancy, or did she hear the Squire whisper to Lord Rhysworth, "We had better tell her. She must know it; I fear it is true?"

She turned to him quickly; he did not know how her senses were sharpened by pain.

"I hear you, papa," she said—"tell me at once; hide nothing from me. Take my hands in yours and hold them fast; that will give me strength to listen to what you have to say."

"My dearest Dolores, some of it may be mere surmise, but what we knew to be true I will lay before you, and, although it goes to my heart to do it, I must. First, do you remember that Karl received a letter yesterday morning which seemed to distress him very much? He declined to show it to you, although you asked him to do so. The reading of that letter completely changed him, if you remember, he was not himself all day, he neither spoke nor smiled. We both remarked it; even the servants noticed it, and thought that he was not well. I want you to bear all this in mind; it is one link in the chain of evidence. Then, after looking miserably unlike himself all day, he told us that he could not drive me home at night, because he had an appointment. When we asked him about it, he seemed distressed and anxious. The inference that I draw from all this is, that the person who wrote the letter is the person he went to see. I do not think there is any doubt about that, do you, Rhysworth?"

"No, I do not," was the reply.
Dolores raised her fair head with a look of relief.

"That seems clear, papa. I wonder I did not think of it before. As you say, that letter completely changed him. I remember his face as he thrust the letter into his pocket; he was not like himself after that. The note troubled him, I am sure."

"What we want to discover," continued the Squire, "is the writer of the letter and the person that we want to see. I am afraid, Dolores, that we have a clue. Whether it will pain you or not, my child, I cannot tell, but I am afraid—may I say that the man who wrote the letter is the person your husband went to meet was Lola Ferras."

She sprang from his arms and cried out; but her words were unintelligible. Her ghastly face frightened them.

"I will not believe it!" she said, after awhile. "My husband would not go to meet Lola de Ferras, the woman who hates me, and who has sworn vengeance against me. Papa, why do you say that?"

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT CHIEF AGENT S. P. A. WEEK ENDING JULY 15th.

I attended the Pet Exhibition in Bannerman Park for boys and girls, which was organized by The Newfoundland Rotary Club and under the direction of Mr. Barton of Columbia University. I was more than pleased with the Exhibition, as I saw a great number of pet animals brought there by boys and girls of the city. I was pleased to see the great interest taken by the Rotary Club in training boys and girls to be kind to dumb animals and also for the great interest taken by Dr. and Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Gosling, Mayoress Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Monroe and Mrs. Kennedy, also I was glad to see present the Hon. S. Miller, Mr. Geo. Williams, Pres. S.P.A., Brother O'Regan and several other ladies and gentlemen, who take such a great interest in the welfare of dumb animals. I hope at the next Exhibition we will be able to offer special prizes to encourage the boys and girls to be kind to dumb animals. To my mind it has been a wise and very thoughtful step on the part of the Rotary Club, who deserve all the praise and co-operation of every thoughtful citizen for the noble work they are doing.

I attended three sales of cattle and sheep during the week. Attended to the landing of two car loads of cattle from the train at the Railway Station, also 40 head of sheep, they were watered and taken away immediately after landing.

Received a report of some horses and cattle, being on pasture where there was no water. I ask those horse owners during this warm weather to give their horses water on Sundays, as they need water in the open, as much as they do in the stable. I am looking after some lame horses which were reported. I was asked by Mr. Cook to go to Quidi Vidi, and help to him, which was run over by a motor and left suffering on the road for twenty-four hours. This is an unkind and inhuman act on the part of the driver; and I hope to summons him in Court soon. I also shot another dog which was causing a lot of trouble for a resident of Pilot's Hill; another on Freshwater Road which made an attempt to bite a man on a bicycle.

The owner had it put to death. I would like to state that there will be some horse, going around next week, selling some pictures of the "Horse's Prayer," for 50 cents each. All lovers of dumb animals are asked to purchase one. I have report from William Stockman, North Side, Petty Harbor, of a pony which is badly cut, presumably by boys throwing stones. This pony is in a bad condition as it is laid up and unable to work. I would like for parents of all boys to try and prevent the children from doing this in future. I ask all lovers of animals to pick up nails on the street to prevent them getting into horses' hoofs. Phone all complaints to 653.

MY RIGHTS.

WAIT MARCH

I once was jealous of my rights, and sent up many angry letters; I said, "No overbearing rights can grind my face with tyrant heels." And if encroachments then I saw, upon the rights I valued / thus, I gnashed my teeth and went to law, and kicked upon expensive fees. Indulgence in the law exhausts one's store of kopecks and hawbees; I craved had to pay the costs, for justice doesn't grow on trees. And I made enemies of men who should have been among my friends; I watched my rights for years and then I said, "Here's where this folly ends. My sleepless vigilance shall cease, the rights I've guarded long may slide; the sweetest boon on earth is peace, and that to me is now denied. The neighbors I have often sued avoid me as I go my way, and from their doorways I am shooed when I would pass the time o' day. They often kick my dog around until the night resounds with howls, they put my cow in yonder pound, and throw old bottles at my heels. They spoil my hats with barling bricks, they throw dead tomcats at my door; and if I sue them for these tricks I'll only queer myself the more." And so I sought

A plain blanc mange becomes a welcome desert when served with crushed, sweetened berries.

If you have any left-over pie crust, make it into small tarts, and fill with preserves or jelly.

Household Notes

Garnish pear salad with balls of cream cheese, chopped maraschino cherries and marshmallows.

Cold, molded, cooked cereal is nice served with berries, sugar and cream as a luncheon dessert.

Strawberries are richer in flavor if they are sweetened and chilled for several hours before serving.

Plans for Dominions Representation at Allied Conference Settled.—MacDonald Government Suffer another Defeat.

ANOTHER DEFEAT.

LONDON, July 18. The MacDonald Government was defeated in the House of Commons today by a vote of 171 to 149, during consideration of the Unemployed Insurance Bill. The vote was on an amendment offered by Liberal and Conservative members which was carried despite Labor opposition. The Government reversal is not considered important and there is no question of the Prime Minister's resignation.

CONFERENCE MAKING SATISFACTORY PROGRESS.

LONDON, July 18. Satisfactory progress of the Inter-Allied Conference called for the purpose of putting into execution the Expert Committee's report of German reparations was indicated today by the work already performed by the committee's appointed at the opening session Wednesday. One of the important parts of the Conference work, the perfixing of the organization to the handling of payments to be made by Germany under the new scheme, was completed yesterday, and the draft of the proposal embodying the agreement is ready for approval of a plenary session of the Conference which probably will be held tomorrow. The main rocks around which the allied plenipotentiaries must steer a careful course, lie in two sub-divisions of the Conference as Committees one and two. The first Committee is dealing with the problem of creating confidence for an international loan for Germany and the question of the United States member for Reparation Commission as arbiter on the subject of default. Committee two, which is attempting to devise means to restore the fiscal and economic unity of Germany, has encountered difficulty owing to the French requests that the proposed international loan, upon which the whole working of the Experts' plan depends, shall be underwritten before the question of German unity has been brought up. One problem, to which a solution may be most difficult, is what penalties to inflict if Germany willfully defaults under the Dawes schedule.

MACLAREN SAFE AND WELL.

TOKYO, July 18. Denied for forced the MacLaren party of British round the world aviators, who hopped off from Lake Tokomoye, Yotoroku Island, last Wednesday, to land at Uruppu, a neighborly island, soon after taking flight said wireless advices received from Kurita Island today. The advices said all the members of the party were safe and that the airplane was undamaged. The machine, after landing in the ocean, was removed to a lake on the island in a better to ride out the increasing wind which arose soon after landing. MacLaren plans to continue the journey to-morrow, said advices received here.

SETTLED AT LAST.

LONDON, July 18. The question of representation of the Allied Conference has been settled, it was announced by J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, in the House of Commons, this afternoon. It has been agreed, he said, that the representative of any Dominion so desiring, including India, should be a member of the British Empire delegation at the conference under the panel system. Under this system overseas delegates are to be designated, one at a time, in approved rotation, to sit in the Conference as the representative of the British Dominions with powers similar to those of the delegates of other nations.

THOMAS EXPLAINS.

LONDON, July 18. In announcing to the House of Commons today that it had been settled that a representative of any of the Dominions and India, who so desired, should become a member of the Empire Delegation of the Inter-Allied Conference on the panel system, J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, said his object in giving this information to the House at this stage was because an unfortunate controversy had been occurring with Canada and unfortunate statements had been made in the press in Canada and in this country. It was only this morning the plan had been settled and Canada had acquiesced. Everything was now straightened out. Mr. Thomas assured the House that he had taken the earliest opportunity to announce this. Mr. Thomas stated Senator Belcourt, of Canada, was sent to England, to represent the Canadian Government and was taking the place in the ordinary way of the Canadian High Commissioner.

COLEMAN CHARGED WITH MURDER.

HALIFAX, July 19. George Coleman, artillery man, who shot and killed acting Lance Bombardier Groves, at Connaught Barracks, yesterday, was charged with murder when arraigned before County Stipendiary MacDougal in the court house this morning. Coleman was retained for one week.

SCALED MT. GELKIE.

MONTREAL, July 19. Mount Gelkie has been conquered after years of unsuccessful endeavor by the best Alpinists in Canada and the United States. This grim peak, the highest and most forbidding of all mountains in the Rampart Range, Jasper National Park, Alberta, has surrendered to the efforts of two Canadians and an American. Word to this effect was received today at the general headquarters of the Canadian National Railways in Montreal. The effort to scale the peak was a prodigious one, necessitating 26 continuous hours to make the ascent of 10,754 feet and return to camp in Gelkie Meadows, and the climbers encountered difficulties which all but baffled their attempt.

ANOTHER AROUND THE WORLD FLIER.

AMSTERDAM, July 18. Major Pedro Zanni, Argentine aviator, who plans to start on a world flight next Tuesday, intends to follow the route of Major Stuart MacLaren, British flier. The Argentine flier anticipates that the superior speed of his machine will enable him to overtake his rivals in the globe encircling contest.

Healthy Women Happy Homes

Good dispositions succumb. Irritability and snappy resort take the place of happiness and amiability. Sunshine is driven out of homes, in fact, they are often wrecked, and friends are entangled because women suffer with ailments peculiar to their sex. The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such ailments and restore health and happiness. Do not resort to strong stimulants or narcotics when this great strengthening, healing remedy made from roots and herbs is always within reach.

Kilbride Garden Party

The annual Garden Party of Kilbride Parish will take place on Wednesday next, and promises to eclipse all former efforts. Already some very fast ponies have entered for the Derby, which has always in the past been one of the chief items on the programme. The three mile road race is an added feature, and judging from the entries already in, a keen and exciting contest is assured. Other attractions will be Junior Football fixtures, and various side shows. The ladies of the Parish will serve dainty teas and refreshments during the evening, whilst the full brass band of the C.C.C. will furnish the musical programme. Anticipating a record attendance this year, the Committee in charge has arranged for the train to leave St. John's at 3 p.m., and return 10 p.m. In addition the buses will run to the grounds all the afternoon. All that is necessary, therefore, is a fine day to enable patrons to fully enjoy the excellent programme that is being arranged for their amusement.

FAULTS WITH THE LABELS OFF.

There are certain faults that in child or adult are properly recognized as faults and unmistakably labelled as such. No one likes to be told that he is selfish, that he is a greedy, that he is vain, that he is untidy, that he is lazy.

But there are other faults that are just as much defects of character, and cause just as much unhappiness to their possessor and to those who live with him, and yet for some strange hidden reason do not have the same stigma attached to them.

Jealousy, for instance, which though it is a blend of vanity and selfishness, is not regarded with the same shame as either. Sensitiveness, an uncontrolled temper, impatience—any of these as much as he would object to being called selfish or vain or lazy.

Glad to Know it

"I certainly am glad to know that Pearlina can be had here again," said a lady in C. P. Eagan's store the other day. There are many women who will be pleased to hear that the great washing powder—Pearlina—can be obtained locally again. "Pearlina is the best of them all," said a grocer a few days ago and "I find it the easiest washing powder to sell." If your own grocer hasn't stocked Pearlina yet ask him to phone the local agent, Gerald S. Doyle, for immediate stocks.

What Kind of a Workman?

But what's going to happen when Jimmy grows up if he had made no effort to overcome this handicap? Will he ever learn to do anything well if he is so impatient for results? What kind of a student will he be? What kind of a workman or a business man? What kind of a house-mate?

And the Child Understands.

As to sensitiveness—well, I don't suppose there are any of us who haven't heard some parent tell in tones that were little short of boastful how super-sensitive her children were. Perhaps she did not do it in the children's presence, or perhaps she did. Parents are absolutely astonishing in their carelessness in this respect. But in either case she shows how she feels about that fault, and it's dollars to doughnuts the children understand her feelings perfectly.

Complaints From The Humber

WHAT IS THE CORRECT VERSION?

We have received further complaints regarding the conditions under which the workmen live at Corner Brook...

In publishing the men's side of the story, we are prepared to give the same publicity to the other side, and in fact invite their explanation or contradiction.

Two men of a party that left here on Sunday returned on Thursday. They state that they went out to Corner Brook under the impression that it would be possible for them to make three dollars a day, working on the pipe line...

Rev. Dr. Edgar Jones spent last Sunday at Bell Island, where he preached at the Anglican Church in the morning. He left by the Prospero this week for his old home at Pogo...

The forty hours' devotion will open on Sunday at High Mass in St. Francis Xavier Church, Bar Haven, with elaborate ceremonies. The musical exercises will be of a very high order.

The huts in which they were billeted were said to contain two rows of bunks arranged one above the other, on each side, for the accommodation of twenty men.

The facilities for washing consisted of a trough which ran the length of a small hut, and in which as many men as possible were supposed to clean themselves as best they could at the same time.

They claim that a number of Englishmen are engaged on the laying of the pipe line with the Newfoundlanders, but they live in different quarters and receive a higher rate of pay. In each case, why should this be?

The food supplied was satisfactory and the work by no means arduous, and they would gladly have remained had they been able to face the living conditions.

The men to whom we refer are not chronic grouse nor are they fastidious. One of them saw considerable service overseas and both are reputable workmen. We deal with their case, primarily because it is not the first report that has been made to us of unsatisfactory working conditions on the Humber.

outsiders and Newfoundlanders, and last of all because we have not yet been given any convincing reason to show why outsiders are employed there on this class of work.

In connection with these operations there are certain questions which demand answers, and we have been unable to obtain the information from any of the authorities. Have any reports been made regarding infectious diseases in the area? What system of isolation is in vogue, and what method of disinfecting the quarters in which an outbreak has occurred has been adopted? In the cases of men who require hospital treatment in St. John's, what arrangements are made for their conveyance across country?

Newfoundland is committed to a considerable obligation under the terms of this contract. The agreement included a guarantee with the express purpose of expediting operations which would help to provide work for the unemployed in Newfoundland. The Company covenanted with the British Treasury that all plant, machinery, and materials required in connection with the works should be purchased in Great Britain and must be of British manufacture, unless necessary of foreign origin.

The main object of the guarantees was the same in both instances and it is up to ourselves to see that we derive a full share of the benefits of the industry which we have helped to create and which depends upon our natural resources.

The huts in which they were billeted were said to contain two rows of bunks arranged one above the other, on each side, for the accommodation of twenty men.

The facilities for washing consisted of a trough which ran the length of a small hut, and in which as many men as possible were supposed to clean themselves as best they could at the same time.

They claim that a number of Englishmen are engaged on the laying of the pipe line with the Newfoundlanders, but they live in different quarters and receive a higher rate of pay. In each case, why should this be?

The food supplied was satisfactory and the work by no means arduous, and they would gladly have remained had they been able to face the living conditions.

The men to whom we refer are not chronic grouse nor are they fastidious. One of them saw considerable service overseas and both are reputable workmen. We deal with their case, primarily because it is not the first report that has been made to us of unsatisfactory working conditions on the Humber.

Child Welfare

HEALTHY BABIES.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

Hot Weather.—It seems as if we are going to have a real fine summer, now there is no reason why Baby should not do especially well when the weather is warm.

Give him plenty of water to drink; you know how thirsty we get in hot weather!

Keep wool next to his skin however hot it is and just cool clothes over.

Give him an "all over wash" every day.

Last week we showed how important it was to Breast feed Baby during summer months; but if he is on the bottle—make each feeding as it is due.

Keep the bottles and nipples very clean.

If it is cow's milk you are using be sure it is boiled, if a tinmed milk be sure you use boiled water.

Give Baby his bottle yourself, it seems easy to put the bottle in the cot or pram and leave him just to suck away, but this makes Baby cross and sometimes ill and gives you very much more trouble in the end.

Summer Complaint.—"Summer Complaint" or to give it its long name "Epidemic Diarrhoea" is what we are all afraid of in the hot months.

But if we insist on:— A Clean City. A Clean Home. Inspection and protection of food. Destruction of flies. Bottle-babies would NOT be far behind Breast-fed babies.

If Baby gets the slightest diarrhoea during the next few months send for the doctor and let us know at once.

Taken in time it is easily cured, taken too late, it is so often fatal.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

MILITIA VOTE DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, July 18. When the main estimates for militia services totalling $7,986,115 came up in the House of Commons to-night, there was a lively discussion of Canada's army. General Sir C. Newburn, former Minister of Militia, said an adequate militia could not be maintained on some small vote. The tendency seemed to be to reduce the service steadily in efficiency. The Government might just as well wipe out the service now and be done with it, Brigadier Gen. J. A. Clark, Conservative, Burrard, and General Newburn's remarks, also agreed; however it seemed to him the Canadian forces had too many officers, too many Generals who ought to be Colonels, too many Colonels who ought to be Majors, and too many Majors who ought to be buck privates. When he mentioned the absence of any present threat of war, General Clark asked him if he did not also feel like that in 1914. Major Power said perhaps he did, but it was one thing the world learned between 1914 and 1918 it was that preparedness did not avert war. He thought at present Canada should stop spending money on training of a new permanent militia.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENT VOTE.

OTTAWA, July 18. The House of Commons to-night passed an appropriation of $6,000,000 for soldier settlement.

DOMINION REPRESENTATION TO BE PLACED ON DEFINITE BASIS.

LONDON, July 18. Alluding to what he termed the misunderstanding which has arisen with Canada over the Inter-Allied Conference, J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, in a speech to-night said the difficulties had been smoothed away and Canada and the other Dominions had not only accepted the situation but had made real contributions. He added, "but the whole question of representation of the Dominions will have to be tackled. We are determined to do that. I hope before the end of the year we and Dominions will meet in London and argue it out and ultimately adopt a plan for making it impossible in future to have these conditions that have unhappily arisen, and at the same time ensure a full status and right of the Dominions to take part in matters affecting their interest as well as our own."

B. C. ELECTIONS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 18. The completion of the count of absentee ballots in the Provincial election held June 20, resulted in the defeat of General A. D. McCrae, of the Provincial Party and the reelection of Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, the first woman to be elected to the Provincial Assembly since the general elections of 1918. Twenty-four Liberals, 16 Conservatives, 3 Progressives, 2 Independents and 3 Laborites were declared elected to-day.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO ARRIVE AT AGREEMENT.

LONDON, July 18. The first setback of the Inter-Allied Conference came to-day when an unsuccessful attempt was made to brush out the fundamental differences in French and British views as to how to deal with possible German defaults under Dawes' reparation scheme, and the method of inflicting penalties for such delinquencies. At the end of the day's deliberations the French and British were still holding their views regarding defaults and sanctions. The British are striving to establish an Agent General of Reparations as a sort of Grand Jury for declaring defaults, while the French maintain that the authority of the Reparation Commission in this respect must not be impaired. Every British move to diminish the influence of the Reparation Commission has been met by stiff opposition from the French delegate.

WEATHER DELAYS MACLAREN.

TOKIO, July 18. Owing to unfavorable weather A. Stuart MacLaren, British around-the-world flier, who was forced to land on Uruppu Island after leaving Yotorofu, has decided not to make a fresh start to-day.

WRECKAGE SUPPOSED TO BE THAT OF THE CONCORD.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 19. Light on the mystery surrounding the disappearance of the British ship of war Concord, which left Esquimalt December 2, 1901, with 104 British tars on board, and of which no trace has since been found, is believed to have been discovered by W. H. Bevan, Federal District Engineer for Alberni, off the sands of Long Beach, on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Traces of a British ship which Mr. Bevan believes may be the lost Concord have been discovered washed up in the heavy gales of twenty years ago and covered in that it is impossible for him at this time to give detailed particulars.

SMALLER CROP PREDICTED.

WASHINGTON, July 19. A reduction of 286,000,000 bushels in the wheat production of eleven of the leading producing countries of the northern hemisphere, as compared with last year's crop, is indicated in reports to United States Department of Agriculture. These eleven countries, producing 64 per cent of the world crop, will have 1,913,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, as compared with 2,199,000,000 last year. A large part of the reduction is due to smaller crop in Canada.

REVOLUTION DOOMED.

WASHINGTON, July 19. The revolutionary movement in the state of San Paulo, Brazil is doomed, according to advices received to-day by the State Departments from Santos, dated July 17th. The communication said a decided turn for better in local conditions had been noted. Brazilian authorities were described in addresses as hopeful that they would be successful in overcoming revolutionists within several days.

QUOTA FILLED.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 19. No British subjects will be allowed into the United States this month, the quota for Niagara Falls being now filled. Several European countries were represented by one member, meaning that but one from that country could enter by this port.

Meet the World's Most Beautiful Woman

WHO WILL BE SEEN AT THE NICKEL ON MONDAY.

It is with mingled pleasure and pride that the Nickel management announces that on Monday they will present Katherine MacDonald, the world's most beautiful woman in her recent photoplay triumph "White Shoulders." The story unquestionably eclipses anything this artiste has done up to date. It is stronger in dramatic force; there is a more fascinating story; her character delineation is more vital and living; and it is a more finished and artistic production. Ten million persons have thrilled to this story by George Kibbe Turner in the Saturday Evening Post. The picture has audience appeal through its rare beauty and strong entertaining value. Moreover, it is a First National attraction, and when speaking of films this particular brand stands in a class to itself.

On Monday's programme there is also another First National attraction, which is Buster Keaton's famous comedy "The Playhouse." You'll laugh till your bones rattle no matter how fat you are.

Game and Inland Fisheries Board

TAKES NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

The recently appointed Game and Inland Fisheries Board met last night for the first time. An interesting discussion on matters pertaining to home protection and propagation of game and fish resulted in the appointment of several sub-committees who will consider ways and means. These committees will report back during the week and it is probable that the Board will be in a position to make several recommendations to the Government during the present session of the House. One of the matters discussed was the stocking of local ponds with rainbow and other species of trout with the end in view of setting these waters apart for tourists and sportsmen. In other words, they will be preserves that may not be fished without a license. The protection of caribou was also given consideration, and it is not improbable that a close and it is of four or five years will be recommended. In addition it was suggested that several new deer preserves be set apart, the first of which would be the Avalon Peninsula. The transfer of beavers to the northern and eastern sections of the island is also under consideration and a move in this direction will be made this season. In reference to our salmon, it is claimed by the Commission that in spite of the inadequate protection given during the past ten years or so the deep sea fishery has increased one thousand fold. The Board will, it is understood take up the matter of increasing the tourist traffic and have under consideration methods to be adopted to improve the roads and provide hotels.

STUDEBAKER.

(Boston News Bureau.) N.Y.—At 3 1/2% recently, Studebaker common sold nearly a point above the highest price since the new stock was listed. Price is equivalent to over 97 for old Studebaker shares which were split 2 1/2 for 1. High in old shares this year was 108 1/4, while low on new stock was 30 1/4, equivalent of 76 for old stock. Studebaker's advance of over eight points in the past few weeks is equal to more than 20 points on old shares.

Closely allied interests attribute sharp recovery to technical market conditions and belated recognition that stock has been selling out of line. One instance of disparity is had in contrast to General Motors, which is paying an equivalent of $4.80 a share on new shares which are selling at $8, or fully 20 points higher than Studebaker, though difference in dividend is only 80 cents a share annually. Studebaker operations are proceeding in accordance with earlier expectations and it is expected, net for the first six months will approximately equal a full year's $4 dividend requirement on the common. In the first quarter net profits were $3,542,259, or $1.80 a share. Second quarter earnings will exceed those of the first quarter, and balance of between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 for the first six months is looked for. Officials predict that by fall Studebaker will again have built up a large cash surplus, placing the company in excellent shape to carry out its plans for an aggressive sales campaign this fall. With a new line of cars out somewhat earlier than in previous years, the company should benefit materially from an expected betterment of general business condition.

That Hudson's Bay Route

There is much speculation in Ottawa and in other centres as to why the reports of D. W. MacLachlan, Government Engineer in charge of dredging operations at Port Nelson, re the Hudson's Bay route, should have remained hidden away in the records of seven long years. It was no state secret that such documents existed, indeed I have heard their contents discussed on more than one occasion, but why are reports which are so vital to be tabled only when they are dug out of their hiding place in the railway archives by Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. The explanation of the Hon. George P. Graham, in whose department the report was hidden away, is to the effect that the documents technically speaking, were not in the department properly, as these reports (of which there are many) had been made to the late chief engineer, and had been treated as if they were for his information alone.

In his reports, engineer MacLachlan does not give the Hudson's Bay route a leg to stand on as a commercial proposition. In September, 1917, Mr. MacLachlan wrote as follows: "Many times in the last four years I have been on the verge of coming out in absolute condemnation of the undertaking on which I am engaged. It is a great pity the scheme did not receive his open condemnation, for in that event the country might have been saved a good deal of money thrown away on the Port Nelson terminals. Mr. MacLachlan estimates the average season of navigation into Port Nelson at two months; that is, between the actual docking of the first ship and the departure of the last. He submitted an estimate based on the tariff of that day showing that the rate of grain from Saskatoon to Liverpool via Port William and Montreal was 26.4 cents per bushel. It would have been 19.9 cents per bushel to haul grain from Saskatoon to Port Nelson, including handling charges, leaving a margin of 6.5 cents for the ocean rate, extra insurance and interest on the cost of works. The average rate obtained by tramp steamers carrying grain from Montreal to Liverpool was 7 cents. The engineer points out that tramp steamers would inevitably choose the Montreal route unless there was a considerably higher margin to induce them to go to Port Nelson. Liners, he says, could never successfully run into Port Nelson, nor could package freight be handled in large quantities. Mr. MacLachlan was of the opinion that it would always cost twice as much to handle cargoes at Port Nelson as it would at Port William or Montreal. "I have no longer any hesitation in saying that the Hudson's Bay Railway is doomed to certain failure," Mr. MacLachlan goes on to say. "There may be fish in the Hudson's Bay, but there is no fishing season. There may be minerals on the east coast, but they are as accessible from Halifax as from Port Nelson. There is nothing for the Hudson's Bay route north of Huronian Rock outside crops south of Split Lake so long as the St. Lawrence route is available. As for the agricultural possibilities north of the same point—there are none."

Summing up the year 1917 the first sign of spring came on June 4. On June 17 a dory was able to go up to the mouth of the river. The docks were damaged during this month by ice pressure. As late as September 8, spring ice still drifting in the harbor moved some buoys from their places. The first winter ice appeared on October 11. The river was closed owing to the quantity of slush ice on October 18. On this date the dredges were pulled up and beached for the winter—Saturday Night.

West Bound Train Delayed

Thursday's west bound express was delayed four hours at Glenwood early yesterday morning, owing to one of the ballast cars operating in that section, leaving the rails. The train with passengers and mail did not reach Port aux Basques until 8 o'clock this morning. The transfer was made with despatch and the Kyle got away for North Sydney about one hour later.

Double Dealing Bolsheviks

From the London "Daily Mail," and from other usually well informed British newspapers we learn that while Soviet agents are in London endeavouring to negotiate a loan whereby they may resuscitate the trade and commerce of their half paralyzed country, other Soviet agents are busily engaged among the Kafirs of South Africa preaching their hideous doctrines. The complicity of these devils in the Rand rebellion of 1922 where the blood of the "bourgeois" was freely shed, has been fully established, and it is astounding that the British Government should allow itself to be caught in this net the second time.

"It is a simple outrage," says the "Daily Mail," that while the Soviet agents are doing their best to destroy the British Empire a parcel of Bolsheviks should be in London demanding with scarcely veiled threats huge loans. The Government should send them home. They have insulted Great Britain long enough."

It would seem that anything like honor and clean dealing is beyond the ken of these semi-savages, and about the only treatment they understand and appreciate is force. A little of their own medicine would do no harm, and incidentally might do civilization a deal of good.—Saturday Night.

Address of the Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Nfld.

Delivered at the Opening of the Twenty-Sixth Biennial Session of the Diocesan Synod, Tuesday, June 24th, 1924.

DAYS OF TRANSITION

My Brethren of the Clergy and the Laity—
 Since we met two years ago the country has been passing (and to some extent is still passing) through a period of unexampled difficulty, which has placed, and is placing, a heavy responsibility upon the Church. Periods of transition are always difficult. People are called upon to make readjustments in their methods of business, to adapt themselves to conditions for which their previous experience has not prepared them. The result is that many find the change irksome, ungrateful, and they are disinclined to undergo the hardships necessary to a successful rearrangement of their affairs, so as to be able to meet changing circumstances.

LOSS OF POPULATION.

In all probability our greatest difficulty as a Church are being caused by the departure from our shores of so many of our people who have gone to Canada or the United States. It is to be feared that the greater number will not return. However deeply we regret this loss we cannot wonder at it. We cannot avoid the conclusion that by far the greater number were driven out by stern necessity. They could not afford to await the advent of the better days promised.

It is all very well to say that there is a living to be had in Newfoundland by every man who is willing to work hard and honestly and that no one need go elsewhere. It largely depends upon what one is to understand by a "living." But it seems to me to be fairly evident that unless men and their families are willing to revert to the type of existence of less than a generation ago, when often enough many of them endured terrible privations, lived in poor, bare homes, had poor food, poor clothing, and few, if any, of the ordinary comforts of life; unless they are willing to go back to an existence of that sort they must give up trying to find in the fisheries as now conducted their only means of livelihood. An acquaintance with the ordinary rules of arithmetic should be sufficient to demonstrate to the average intelligence that three or four months' fishing at the present cost of carrying it on, even at the enhanced value obtainable for "the voyage" leaves no sufficient margin for the maintenance of a man's family, and the upkeep of his property.

It will be contended that more of our people should supplement their earnings at the fisheries by attending to the land. That much more could be done than is now attempted in the way of growing vegetables, of keeping sheep and cattle, or by engaging in some form of industrial work which could be turned into money, goes without saying. It will still remain true that fishermen—and the great bulk of our men are fishermen—if they are to pay proper attention to the fisheries, must engage in it early and late during the summer months, that is in the same months during which, and only during which, work on the land is possible.

It must be remembered too, that large sections of the coast inhabited by fishermen are not suitable for agricultural operations, and never can be. The fisheries in such localities are, and must remain, practically the only possible occupation. If the fishery cannot provide a livelihood the people must either remove to other and more favourable sections, where work can be found, or, as so often happens in these days, they must leave Newfoundland.

In either event the Church is faced with unusual problems for which it is no easy matter to find a solution. The material prosperity of the people, and their permanent settlement have an immediate bearing upon the work of the Church, just as the shifting of population, and the temporary or permanent removal of people from one place to another impose upon her perplexing difficulties.

CONSEQUENCES OF A DECREASE IN POPULATION.

A decrease in the population of a community has one particularly unfortunate result; it decreases the ability of that community to make due provision for the maintenance of the services and ministrations of the Church. And in view of the fact that a sufficient number of clergy cannot be found to minister in more thickly populated areas or in large and unwieldy Missions, places showing a decrease in population must be grouped together and thus render an economy in men possible. Parish boundaries may have to be altered; the headquarters of some of the older Parishes or Missions may have to be changed; the territory assigned to a clergyman may have perforce to be larger, and include more settlements. Services may have to be curtailed in number in some places so as to enable the clergyman to serve a more scattered flock.

It is quite probable that such changes will be resented, particularly by old established settlements that have long been accustomed to have a resident clergyman and regular services. The reasons for making the changes should be carefully explained, and the people concerned must be sympathetically urged to accept patiently a restriction of their spiritual privileges in order that their brethren elsewhere may not be altogether deprived of them.

A RETROGRADE, IF NECESSARY POLICY.

I cannot, however, regard the proposal to link up adjacent spheres, necessary, as it may be at present, without qualifying. It would be regarded as a temporary expedient, excepting the districts that show a continuous decrease in the Church population. In others, grouped together for the sake of economy in men and money, as soon as clergy and the means to support them can be found, Parishes or Missions having smaller areas should be again arranged.

MARKING TIME.

The sub-division of some of the large and unwieldy Parishes is long overdue; but with the continuous loss of clergy by removal to other Dioceses, it has not been found possible to fill vacancies as they occur, not to speak of creating new cures.

Moreover had clergy been available stipends for them could not have been found. The Executive Committee, profiting by past experience, is obliged to consider, before recommending the creation of a new charge, whether the proposed division will impose an additional expenditure upon diocesan funds, or whether the new Mission, if created, will be self-supporting. It is obvious that the Executive Committee cannot assume responsibility for additional stipends unless funds are forthcoming; and considering the present state of our finances, Parishes or Missions asking that clergy be sent to them must, in the case of the former, be prepared to provide the whole of the stipend and in the latter, at least, the Assessment laid upon them by the Committee.

THE DIOCESAN BUDGET.

Inasmuch as the Diocesan Budget is intended to furnish the larger portion of the funds necessary to assist these Missions that cannot raise locally the stipends of their clergy, emphasis must again be laid upon the importance of securing adequate support to this Fund. The Synod will be called upon to give careful consideration to this question, and it is not necessary that I should do more at this juncture than to express my conviction that the measure that will be introduced is vitally necessary, if the work of the church is to be maintained. Practically the whole of our undertakings in regard to our Missions, the work of administration, and other objects in which we are financially obligated, depend in a very great degree upon the condition of the Budget year to year.

During the biennial period the following clergy have come to us from other Dioceses: the Revs. G. H. Seavey, G. O. Lightbourn, E. A. L. Donahoe, J. B. Elliott and W. E. Godfrey. The Revs. E. F. Hiscock, has been ordained both Deacon and Priest, and E. B. Gabriel, G. Camp, S. R. Sheppard and F. Jones have been ordained Deacons.

During the same period the following have left the Diocese: Canon Hewitt, the Revs. E. K. H. Caldwell, Canon Earp, A. Clayton, J. O. Britnell, E. H. Humphries, C. M. Stickings, J. Stead, E. Andrews, C. A. Moulton, G. O. Lightbourn, G. Robins, J. Crewe, M. H. W. Sealey. There are now seventy clergy on the active list, compared with seventy-four two years ago.

THE REV. JOHN GOODACRE CRAGG

In October, 1922, there passed to his rest, the Rev. John Goodacre Cragg. Ordained in 1862, Mr. Cragg served at Pincher's Island, Greenspond, Catalina, Bay de Verde and Whitbourne. Including his stay at Whitbourne, which he held for ten years after he had gone on the Retirement Fund, Mr. Cragg's ministry covered a period of no less than 55 years. There were years of quiet, consistent labor, during which the hardships incident to the usual outpost missionary were borne without complaint. Personal affliction, coupled with domestic trials only served to deepen a humility and a self-effacement which were his too rare. The Church needs priests who, by training and temperament are equipped to face the turmoil of conflict where the fight for God and truth goes forward; but she needs too priests whose strength is hidden from the world at large; priests who in obscure corners of the field cultivate with patience those fruits of the spirit that await faithful toil. John Goodacre Cragg was one of these.

CONSECRATIONS.

Since last Synod I have consecrated six Churches, viz: at Cartwright, Round Harbor, Salmon Cove (Conception Bay), Great Harbor, Mose Ambrose and Port Blandford. Twenty-three graveyards, or additions to graveyards, have been consecrated, viz: at Cartwright, La Scie, Clarke's Head, Joe Batt's Arm, Little Bay, Nipper's Harbor, Indian Bay, Juniper Stump, Burgoyne's Cove, Tack's Beach, English Harbor (Fortune Bay) Stone's Cove, Corbin, Doctor's Harbor, Great Harbor, Coombe's Cove, Mose Ambrose, Wreck Cove, Little Bay (St. Breton), Fox Roost, and Port aux Basques.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Since last Synod 146 Confirmations have been held, at which 2,093 males and 2,499 females, making a total of 4,592 persons have received the Laying on of hands.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN THE DAY SCHOOLS.

It has long been felt that the Church has failed to a very great extent to make the most of the opportunities afforded for giving definite and systematic instruction in religious subjects in the day schools. Some, perhaps, have been too willing to entertain the idea that there is no special need for such instruction outside the Sunday School and the home, and have been content with the results obtained. Others though convinced that neither the Sunday School alone, nor the home alone—that is the average home—nor both combined, have hitherto succeeded in making a great success of imparting the essentials of the faith, have yet been forced to admit that the defect cannot always or generally be supplied by the Day School. This is not due necessarily, to any lack of interest on the part of teachers, or to the willingness to assist in this work. The reasons must be sought elsewhere. It would probably be correct to say (a) that the teacher has sometimes felt that he has no special qualifications for the task, and (b) that the demands made upon his time in preparing pupils for examinations leave him with but small opportunities to specialize in his view, that no one can impart adequately Church teaching unless he has had some special training himself, and knows what to teach, and how to teach it.

Unless it were possible for the clergy to undertake this work themselves (and this is obviously out of the question), greater efforts than have been made hitherto to assist the teachers while in training, to prepare themselves for this sacred duty, should be attempted. The establishment of a Normal School here in St. John's has served to emphasize the importance of seeing that a beginning should be made without further delay. Our Supt. of Education, Dr. Blackall, whose sympathy and active interest in this side of the teacher's equipment can always be relied upon, readily undertook to make the necessary arrangements, and it is gratifying to be able to announce that the Rev. E. Nichols, Rector of St. Michael's Parish, has accepted the charge of conducting the course of instruction in religious subjects for our teachers in training for this year.

The importance to the future of the Church and country of this undertaking cannot be well exaggerated. We should be profoundly thankful for the help thus promised in the inculcation of sound faith and morals. It must be fairly evident that in our day there is no need quite so outstanding as that of the formation of Christian character, based upon principles of life and conduct inspired by a definite religious belief. The country and the Church need to be reawakened to a sense of their responsibilities to God and to our fellow men. The duties we owe to God and man need to be reaffirmed. The commandments of God are still in force, in the spirit and in the letter. There is one standard of Churchman and citizen, for private and public life. Hence the necessity—the imperative necessity—of creating in our day schools the religious atmosphere in which all branches of learning should be acquired. Not the minimum but the maximum of religious and moral truth is needed if all knowledge is to be used wisely and to the attainment of a higher standard of life and conduct in the men and women of the future.

THE DIOCESAN MAGAZINE.

The Literature Committee of the Synod will in due course present its report, and necessarily the Diocesan Magazine will come under discussion. I do not propose to anticipate that discussion, nor do I presume to deal with the financial status of the Magazine other than incidentally. There is, however, one aspect of this subject to which I wish to call the attention of the Synod. Should the Diocesan Magazine, owing to lack of financial support, cease to exist, from what source are the people of the Diocese to derive information concerning the Diocese and the Church? For very many of our people there is no other source available from which they can derive reliable information regarding the Church's doings within the Diocese and beyond. I venture the opinion that you will not find another Church paper in one hundred homes of the whole of our laity. My brethren of the laity, how many of you who have accepted the responsibility of legislating for the Church in this Synod ever read a bona fide Church paper? And yet, as has been well said, "it is just as necessary for the Church to have an enlightened membership as it is for the State to have intelligent citizens. No statesman, no party in the state, dare neglect the press as a means of inspiration and information." The same writer says, "The Church if she is to do effectively her work in the country equally needs a well informed membership. We cannot be enthusiastic about work of which we know nothing." To one who has a dollar or two to spare and odd minutes which can be devoted to the purpose plus that interest and desire for knowledge of Church matters which would lead him to spend something upon it, there are excellent papers to be had. But the Diocesan Magazine is the only paper giving first-hand information of our own Diocese and its doings.

For nearly 59 years, under the Editorship of such men as the Revs. Canon Dunfield, John Rouse, Canon Temple, C. H. Barton, G. A. Moulton and the present Editor, Rev. H. L. Pike, it has served a useful purpose. No one claims that in all respects it has ever been just what would satisfy every individual. Seeing that we are many men of many minds it is not likely that any Magazine, however excellent would suit us all. The wonder is that the Diocesan Magazine has managed to struggle through the ups and downs of all these years and yet survive. It has never received that moral and financial support which is a prime necessity in so restricted a field as that presented to an organ of this sort. It must, I think, be confessed that Churchmen as a body have not yet appreciated the fact that we need the inspiration and cohesive influence which a well supported Magazine is calculated to give.

The Synod would, in my judgment, do the Diocese less than justice if it failed to make due provision for the continuance from from embarrassing financial difficulties, of the one paper that has proven to be of great practical value to the Diocese and its people.

LISTS OF PARISHIONERS.

By an Amendment to Chapters XXIII and XXIV, respectively of the Constitution and Rules of the Synod, every clergyman in charge of a Parish or Mission is expected to keep a register or list of the members of the Church in his Parish or Mission, and to furnish a copy thereof to the Bishop, biennially, upon a date to be named by the Bishop.

MISSIONS.

In order to make it possible for every clergyman to comply with this rule during the biennial period ensuring the passing of the Rule I extended the time for sending in the first lists to March 31st of this year.

PARISHES.

Boone Bay, Burgeo Heart's Delight Salvage, St. Poul (St. Grace) Joe Batt's Arm, Change Islands, Greenspond, Hermitage, Lamaline, Channel, Grand Falls, Pushthrough, Port-de-Grace, The Cathedral Parish, Harbor Breton, Bay St. George.

Lists have not, of course, been received from vacant Parishes and Missions. I hope that by consultation with the clergy during the Synod it may be found possible to expect Returns from all and to adopt a uniform method of furnishing the lists. Accurate records once made could then without undue labour be revised biennially and kept up to date. Their practical usefulness depends upon this being done.

MEN FOR THE MINISTRY.

The question of a due supply of men for the Ministry is one which has claimed the attention of practically every session of the Synod since its inception. In common with other Dioceses throughout the Anglican communion the supply of suitable men is a never ending difficulty. The supply is always far below the demand; and the need has grown in intensity at the present time when an urgent demand is being made for men of higher qualifications than ever before in order to keep pace with a like demand on the part of other professions.

As an illustration of the mind of the Church authorities in England upon this matter a Resolution passed by the Upper House of the Convocation of Canterbury last month is illuminating. The Resolution reads as follows: "That in future it shall be required of ordinary candidates that they be graduates who (a) either have taken Honours in Theology or First Class Honours in some other subjects, and have subsequently had a year's theological, devotional and practical training at a recognized theological college or under some other authorized supervision; or (b) have had two years of such training after qualifying for their degree. This second condition is not to come into force until 1927, meanwhile one year's such training will be required."

Further, "in continuation of the Resolution of the Upper House of July, 1909, and July 5, 1916, non-graduate shall not be generally admissible after Dec. 31st, 1920. Meanwhile they shall be required in addition to the passing of the General Ordination Examination (or one of its equivalents) to have a three years' theological course subsequent to passing an examination of matriculation standard."

This indicates what is being demanded by the Church in England, (Continued on 7th page)

Address of the Rt. Rev. The Lord Bishop of Nfld.

(Continued from 6th page) notwithstanding the fact that the shortage of men for the ministry is without precedent in recent years. Obviously the Church in the Colonies ought not to willingly accept a lower ideal, and this Diocese must see that it would be a grave responsibility to send into the Ministry men, who by reason of their inadequate equipment would, in the not distant future, be regarded as unacceptable and unemployable in the mother Church. It is unthinkable that anyone would recommend the adoption of a standard here that would eventually brand our men as so inferior in education to the men trained in England that they could not, should necessity arise, exercise their ministry in an English Diocese.

As in England, so with us, our growing need of priests should not lead us to yield to the temptation to accept a lower standard than the demands made upon the Church render imperative. The difficulties to be faced are necessarily formidable. But the part which our own College has to take in facing those difficulties has already received the careful consideration of the College authorities. Instead of burdening you with too much detail I recommend members of the Synod to obtain and read for themselves the new Prospectus of Queen's recently issued. I will only add that in this matter of a duly qualified ministry we do not lose sight of the many obstacles to be met with. They will require the utmost consideration and mature thought, and we feel, too, that our future as a Church depends largely upon the way they are faced and solved.

WORK OF THE CHAPLAIN TO THE PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Convinced of the urgency of the need of a Chaplain who could give full time to caring for the inmates of the Hospitals and other Public Institutions, the Synod four years ago made the necessary financial provision for such an appointment.

The work of the Chaplain has increased with each succeeding year. A summary of the duties performed during the past two years will make this abundantly clear:

The Institutions visited are ten in number, viz: the General Hospital, the Fever Hospital, the Home for Aged Women, the Penitentiary, the Poor Asylum, Sudbury Hospital (for ex-Servicemen), the Asylum for the Insane, the Sanatorium, St. Clare's Hospital, and the Grace Maternity Hospital.

With the exception of the last named, which had not then been opened, the visits paid to each of these Institutions during 1923 were as follows: The General Hospital, 299; The Fever Hospital, 142; the Asylum for the Insane, 69; the Poor Asylum, 69; the Penitentiary, 60; the Home for Aged Women, 12; Sudbury Hospital, 45; the Sanatorium, 93; St. Clare's Hospital, 14; making a total of 893 visits paid.

OUR ORPHANAGE.

The fact that there are in our Orphanage about 70 fatherless children dependent upon the charity of members of the Church is a sufficient reason for bringing the claims of the Institution before the Synod.

Two-thirds of the children come from the outports. There is apparently an impression abroad that as the Orphanage is situated in St. John's, and is under the care of a Board of Managers residing in the city, and that very few appeals are made for its maintenance, that therefore little difficulty is found in carrying it on, and that ample funds are forthcoming.

It is true that, thanks to the energy and enthusiasm of those who have been responsible for financing the Orphanage, it has been possible to carry on without incurring any large indebtedness. But the accounts show that this assured income is quite insufficient. In recent years the Managers have had to rely upon the results of an annual Garden Party for a very large sum. The risk is too great. A stormy day might easily cause a decrease in the proceeds of 50 per cent. At least $11,000 of the annual expenditure of $17,000 has to be raised by either public subscription or by such means as the annual Garden Party. It should also be remembered that special efforts of this kind are liable to lose effectiveness from various causes. Enthusiasm wanes, enthusiasts pass away, other claims intervene. In short we should not have to reply to so great an extent as at present upon so uncertain a source of income. If the whole Diocese could be induced to share the burden the amount needed could easily be raised every year.

The Sunday School Orphanage League was organized for this purpose. But it is to be regretted that of more than 200 Sunday Schools enrolled in the League more than 50 per cent. of the number sent in no contribution in 1923, and a similar number failed to contribute in 1924. A revival of interest in this direction is necessary. It is not expected that large sums can be found by many of the smaller schools in poor localities, but if they were given the opportunity I feel that the majority would contribute gladly for orphaned brothers and sisters. The Orphanage ought surely to make its own appeal.

MISSIONS.

There is reason to fear that the inclusion of the Home and Foreign Mission Fund in the Budget has to some extent at least caused the Missionary idea to become obscured. It is true that almost simultaneously with the adoption of the Budget plan the Diocese has begun to take a definite, if small share of the work in the foreign Mission Field by making itself responsible for the stipends of Our Own Missionary in China, and in this way we give more than formerly to foreign work. But it is open to doubt whether our interest is as wide as formerly. However faulty our methods were a few years ago; however true it may be that in pleading for Missions we stressed the foreign side in our speeches and the House side in our way of spending what we raised, there was a growing sense of "arrested development." Has the work Missions as applied to parts of our own Diocese the same power of appeal as heretofore? We used to feel that in the H. and F.M.F. we had a veritable sheet-anchor for the Diocese. Webster defines a sheet-anchor as "the largest anchor of a ship, which in stress of weather is sometimes the seaman's last refuge to prevent the ship going ashore."

More than once the H. and F.M.F. proved to be worthy of that definition. If it can no longer be regarded in that light we should see to it that our sense of obligation to the whole missionary cause is not allowed to suffer eclipse. I feel strongly that the missionary idea must be stressed, whether we use the money raised for Missions within the Diocese, or to send the Gospel to other lands. "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others" is an Apostolic injunction which contains the principle which is the saving salt of the Church. I regard it as a distinct loss—a narrowing and impoverishment of the mental and spiritual outlook—that missionary services and instructions are not so general as was once the case. They did help materially to broaden our vision of the work in which the Church is engaged; they enlightened zeal; they promoted enquiry; they elicited sympathy; they gave point to intercession. If other plans provide for collections for Missions, they do not necessarily ensure a continuance of means whereby the missionary spirit may be deepened and developed. My brethren of the clergy, may I rely upon your earnest efforts to rekindle into flame the dying embers of missionary enthusiasm?

CERTAIN MATTERS THAT NEED TO BE EMPHASIZED.
Six years ago when I had for the first time the opportunity and privilege of delivering the opening address to the Synod, I spoke as one whose knowledge and experience of the Diocese had been gained solely as a missionary or parish priest. My viewpoint was that of a man who for 30 years had to meet as best he could the difficulties and trials incident to a clergyman's lot in Newfoundland.

During the past six years, as Bishop many and great opportunities have been afforded me of adding to the experience of earlier days, and of acquiring a more intimate acquaintance with the needs of the Church and of the people committed to her charge. If the priest is to be a "messenger, a watchman, and a steward of the Lord," a fortiori must the Bishop, because of his greater responsibilities seek to fulfil in larger measure, if he can, the duties that pertain to so weighty a charge. He should on such an occasion as this intimate to those who represent the flock committed to his care what appear to him to be the things that need special emphasis if we are to fulfil our trust. This I have tried to do in my present address. And now as I close I will add an expression of certain convictions that have taken shape in my mind as a result of close contact with our common work: (1) The Church must always aim at putting first things first. We who work in her and for her must not allow ourselves to be drawn aside and spend our strength upon issues that do not really matter in the long run. The Church here is poor, but all the wealth in the world would not make her really rich if she lost her spirituality. She had far better prefer to remain poorer if her work has to depend for its support upon questionable methods of raising funds. No perfection of organization, no correctness in the details of worship, no mere numbers of adherents, can ever take the place of that living union and communion with her Head who is the Lord Jesus Christ, very God and very man, born of the Virgin Mary through the operation of the Holy Ghost, dead, buried, risen again, ascended, glorified, reigning at the Father's right hand, and inspiring His body with the life-giving Spirit. First things must be put first.

(2) If we are to solve our problems I suggest that we need to make greater use of the power of intercession. It is futile for us to attempt to hew our way through the thorny tangle that besets our path with bare hands and only our puny human capacities. Intercession releases the illimitable power of God. This is ours, as and when we plead that it may be given.

(3) We have need constantly to seek the guidance of God's Holy Spirit in the work in which we are engaged. Otherwise our deliberations here, instead of forwarding will retard the work of the Church. Our outlook will be narrow, our vision blurred by selfishness and self-interest, or marred by human passion. There is no doubt at all that the Church in this Diocese is faced with perhaps the most severe testing time in her experience. She needs more than ever inspired prophets, not for the purpose of foretelling what is going to happen in days to come, but to lead our people to do what is demanded of them. She needs men filled with the Holy Spirit that they might have courage and fortitude to bear the unpopularities which has ever been the lot of those who declare the whole counsel of God. She needs men who by their life and doctrine commend to other men the sacred ministry as a vocation offering the highest form of service to the world, men who in their turn will become followers of those who in the past have kept the faith alive where dangers, hardships and isolation bravely and patiently borne, showed what manner of men they were.

She needs, too, a Spirit-guided laity, loyal, generous, helpful in counsel and active interest, men who by conviction and not by mere accident find in her a sphere wherein they can render both to God and their fellow-men a service which satisfies their aspirations and brings all their capacities to full growth.

May this Holy Spirit enable us to perceive and know what things we as a Synod, as a Church ought to do. May He, now and at all times, direct and rule our hearts!

Last Thursday the Brigade paraded, all the companies proceeding countrywards on a route march. Preparations are all going on splendidly for Camp, July 24th. Up to Thursday night eighty-five lads names are on the list. Grand Falls will also send in about thirty, Bay Roberts about twenty, Portugal Cove about thirty and Bell Island lads will also likely be in evidence. Quartermaster Moty is preparing to supply six hundred meals daily—the largest camp in history.

The Brigade Athletic Association this year in camp will assist Topsail Church Committee in managing the Sports for their Garden Party, July 30th. The Brigade returns Saturday night, August second. Ten recruits will be in camp this year, and we hear fifteen bandmen will be on duty daily so the musical department will be quite a feature. The railway will grant excursion rates to lads in uniform.

Trinity East—Port Rexton Company reports for June with a strength of forty and an average attendance of thirty-seven. Congratulations Capt. Fitzgerald. The O.C. also has recommended for promotion Lance Corp. Thomas Rex, who is a most efficient instructor in manual and physical training. Congratulations Corp. Rex from Headquarters.

The Staff at Headquarters acknowledge with thanks a copy of Durham Diocesan Regiment's Annual Report from their Brigade Major. We rate their Annual Conference of officers which might well be emulated in Newfoundland.

Col. Franklin, D.S.O., we are glad to say, is going strong at Natrobi. He has been chairman of a Tariff Conference at the request of the Secretary of State for the Colonies. At the close of the business he received a special vote of thanks for his services.

Next week the Brigade will assist at the Orphanage Garden Party. The Colonel has loaned the tents and granted permission to the band to attend under the Veteran Captain A. Morris. The Brigade Athletic Association are in charge of the sports programme. All lads are asked to parade at the Armoury next Wednesday at 2 p.m. sharp in order to march to the grounds for duty.

Every C.L.B. lad is therefore asked to do his duty to the Orphans next Wednesday by volunteering his services that day.

We congratulate Wm. Groves, Jr., and Edward Groves, ex-C.L.B. members on joining the Canadian Artillery in St. John's, N.B. Their brothers, Gordon and Bernard are members of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. Gordon was also an old C.L.B. lad. Bernard ranks as a leading seaman and was overseas from

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE MENSTRUATION, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it. If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—NUTRATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "NUTRATED" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

TRINITY

A HISTORY OF THE OLIVE-JAR.

During the early morning of Trinity Sunday, in the year 1601, the noble and intrepid Portuguese Navigator, Gaspar Corteereal, with a charter from the King of Portugal to possess the land, passed slowly and carefully through a narrow, uncharted entrance into a sheet of water on the East Coast of Newfoundland (a part of which he could see from the poop-deck of his caravel). Then he found himself in a sheltered harbour running in different directions behind the hills, that suggested to him an ideal spot for a sea-robber's rendezvous.

Having anchored in twelve fathoms of water under the shadow of a hill, the eastern side of which sloped down to the water in which his caravel floated at anchor, he was taken on shore for two purposes. One, to plant the Portuguese Flag there, and to claim the harbour for his royal master the King of Portugal, under pretence of prior-discovery, though doubtless it belonged already to England, and was known to the Devonshire fishermen. Secondly, he went on shore to climb to the top of the hill (now known as Gun Hill) so that he might get a comprehensive view of the surrounding country, before he gave the harbour a name.

The only living human beings that Corteereal and his officers saw were a few families of native (Red) Indians, who had been watching their every movement; and who hid themselves as the strangers passed their camping ground; considerably relieved, no doubt, when they realized that those strangely dressed people intended no harm to them.

As Corteereal stood on the highest point of that hill, he looked to the North, East, West and South. After a few minutes of quiet thought, he unfurled the Portuguese Flag, and planted its staff in a crevice of the rock. Baring his head he said:

"Que admiravel coincidência! Hoje e' o dia da festa da Santissima e indivisivel Trindade, e aqui, a meus pes, estao tres bellos bracos de mar, cada um com sua forma distincta, porem, reunidos um ao outro por um estreito mas verdadeiro canal, formando, portanto, um bello, port-verdadeiramente Trindade em Unidade. Que nome mais admiravelmente apropriado poderia jamais ser lembrado do que Trindade, e este agora eu lhe dou em nome da Santissima Trindade."

This in English would read as follows: "What a striking coincidence! To-day is the Festival of the most holy and undivided Trinity; and here, at my feet are three beautiful arms of the sea, each in its formation distinct, yet withal, joined one to the other by a narrow but very real channel forming therefore, one beautiful harbour,—very truly a Trinity in Unity. What name more splendidly appropriate could ever be suggested than TRINITY; and this appellation I now bestow upon thee, in the name of the Trine God."

While this sacred name thus given to our beautiful harbour became permanent; yet the claiming of the harbour by Corteereal for his royal master, the King of Portugal, was but a passing show of dramatic action that began and ended with Corteereal himself.

Upon his return to the caravel, the remainder of the day was given over to feasting, for which the well stocked storeroom was generously supplied with the products of sunny Portugal. Then, as the feasting in the cabin was beginning to come to an end, the sails were set, and the anchor was weighed by the swarthy crew, and the caravel moved slowly out through the Narrows, into the bay that eventually shared in the name Trinity.

When about three miles from the harbour, the captain and his officers rose from the table, which the attendants at once cleared, and then committed to the waters of the bay, the wine-bottles and the olive-jars that had been emptied during that eventful day.

Down they went like MacGinty, to the bottom of the sea, and found resting places in the crevices of a ledge of rock over which the vessel was then passing.

At the time, Gaspar Corteereal little dreamed what was to happen to him in the near future; for he was lost on the Labrador coast, and went down to the bottom of the same great sea:—"Without a grave, unknelt, unconfined, and unknown."

An expedition was sent out from Portugal to search for traces of his caravel and crew, but it failed to find them. There was, however, reserved for one, at least, of Corteereal's empty olive-jars in Trinity Bay; a finding that was denied to himself; for 415 years later, two men belonging to Trinity East anchored for a day's fishing on "Logy Ledge" (about three miles from the Narrows).

At the close of the day, as one of the men pulled up the grapple, there came up with it an empty olive-jar. One claw of the grapple had found its way into the open mouth of the jar, and thus it was brought to the surface. That jar is now in my possession, and may be seen and examined by any one interested in it.

It is an orthodox olive-jar, of the kind familiar to the people of Trinity, when the Spaniards and Portuguese traded with Trinity. It is heart-shaped; twelve inches deep; twenty-two inches in circumference at its largest part; and it slopes away to a point at the bottom. It has a mouth two inches in diameter, and a ridge around it for the purpose of attaching, a string by which it may be suspended (as it used to be) from a nail in a beam of the vessel's storeroom. Originally the jar was brown in colour, as the inside of it is today. The outside now is heavily encrusted, and completely covered with white coral. The fisherman told me, that when he took it from the water, the coral was more or less soft, and a beautiful purple in colour; but as the coral dried it became hard, and white, as it is to-day. This coral formation is known to our fishermen as "live rick" which so often attaches itself to their nets on the bottom, and is thus brought to the surface.

A PROSPECTIVE GOLDEN WEDDING.
Though during the year 1874 (fifty years ago) there were twenty eight marriages solemnized in old St. Paul's Church, Trinity, by Rev. Benjamin Smith; yet only two of them were in the month of July, and only one of those two—in the persons of William Jenkins and Mary Louisa Goodwin, are living to-day, and will, if spared till the thirtieth day of this month, be privileged to celebrate their golden wedding. The entry of this in the Church Marriage Register, reads as follows: "This is to certify that William Jenkins, Bachelor, son of Thomas Jenkins of Trinity, and Mary Louisa Goodwin, Spinster, daughter of James Goodwin, late Commercial-School Teacher of Trinity, were married at St. Paul's Church, on this thirtieth day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and seventy four, by me. (Signed) Benjamin Smith, Rural Dean. Witnesses: James Goodwin, Christiana S. Facey, John White, Jr., Isabel Cross, William Gardiner, Jemima A. Goodwin, Samuel J. Mallett, Deborah White. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins have lived to see their children's children, and to enjoy several other blessings of married life. In addition to their contributions that they have made to worthy citizenship, they have during these years, done much through the Garland Hotel to attract many interesting people to Trinity; whilst those so attracted have taken away with them many happy memories of us and ours. Thus Trinity owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, and it will, we are sure, together with their many friends of far and near, join in grateful, and heartfelt congratulations on Wednesday, July 30th. Fifty years of married blessings, which in fulness still abide. Pax volucrum in the gloaming, And God's Light at Eventide."

LOCAL ITEMS.
Though the larger number of our visitors come to us in August and September, yet since our last report several have come and are enjoying our uncertain, but withal, pleasant July weather. Nurse Tibbs is here in search of health, and we shall all be glad to know that she has found it in the breathing of native air. Her sister, Miss Ruth came with her and is spending her annual holiday in her old home.

Mrs. Butt, who is better known to us as Doshia Brown, is here from Montreal, on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Charles Morris. Mrs. Cashman is here from Blanch Sablon, and her sister, Mrs. Ford is here from Millertown. They are daughters of James and Phoebe Bartlett. Mr. Richard Hiscock of Grand Falls spent a few days with his mother and sisters and returned to duty.

Mrs. Norman, wife of Capt. Norman of Bay Roberts is visiting the scenes of her childhood days, when she was known to us as Ethel Hiscock, a daughter of Josiah and Louisa Hiscock; and later, as one of the widows of the "Eme M." disaster.

Miss Kate Fowlow of St. John's is spending her holiday with her parents, Nurse Palmer from New York is at home for a long vacation.

Mrs. R. A. Parsons (nee Somerton) and children of St. John's have come to stay as long as they can. Last, but yet not least in welcome, is little Frances Baird. She is a bundle of intelligent activities, and is having a glorious time.

We are glad to have them all with us, and we hope their stay will be a very pleasant one. "Still there's more to follow."

Mr. Stone and his family have moved into their new home, where we hope they will be very happy.

Mr. N. J. King of New Bonaventure who has been teaching at Burin, passed through Trinity last week on his way home.

Miss Hannah Wiseman of Dunfield, who has been in New York during the last two years is home for her summer holidays.

On July 8th, there passed into the Paradise of God, the soul of Caroline Bartlett, widow of Stephen Bartlett, who died in 1911. She was a daughter of John and Elizabeth Carberry, and was born in Old Bonaventure, seventy five years ago. During her younger days she lived as a faithful and efficient servant for years in the home of old Mr. and Mrs. Pittman, and later in that of Dr. Robert and Mrs. White. Three children survive her, viz., Martin, Priscilla and Elizabeth. Her body was laid to rest in the C. of E. Cemetery on Friday 11th, till the Resurrection morning. Grant her Lord Eternal rest.

Mr. H. J. Cann, representing the Acadia Gas Engine Co., registered at the Garland last week.

Miss S. Somerton, who has been on the teaching staff of St. Mildred's College, Toronto, came home last week for summer holidays.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thorne of St. John's (accompanied by her son) came to be present at her mother's funeral, (Mrs. Bartlett).

Mr. and Mrs. William House, Frank House, Walter Toop and Mrs. Joseph Sexton, of Grand Falls, have come to spend a holiday, and to get a sniff of salt air in the old home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Rankin have come to us from Grand Falls, and taken rooms at Garland Hotel, Trinity, individually and collectively, extends to them a whole soul welcome.

Miss Guy, who has been teaching at Curling is home to Trinity for summer vacation.

Dr. and Mrs. Sinclair returned last week from a delightfully professional and social visit to St. John's.

Miss Muriel and Miss Gladys Christian, children of Mr. W. H. Christian of St. John's, together with their friend Miss Le Drew, have been enjoying a holiday here. Mr. De Veer spent a few days here at the same time.

The body of Mr. Robert Morris—son of the late Robert and Catherine Morris, of Trinity—who died at Little Bay Islands, was brought to Trinity on the Prospero last week and laid to rest in the Methodist Cemetery here. He was born in Trinity sixty-two years ago, and as a boy, together with several other boys, he served an apprenticeship of five years, with Mr. George Christian, Shoemaker. He lived at Little Bay Islands about thirty-eight years. His widow came to Trinity with the body; and his brother Ernest, of St. John's, came to attend the funeral on July 14th. The service at the grave was conducted by Mr. Hewitt, Methodist Probationer.

Mrs. Robert Morris has asked me to convey to Mrs. Jenkins and her hotel staff, and to the people of Trinity, her heartfelt gratitude for their many acts of sympathetic kindness to her during her stay in Trinity, when she came with her husband's body for interment.

Mr. Eddie Burrell is spending an enjoyable holiday with us in his boyhood surroundings. Glad to see him.

Mrs. Henrietta White and her cousin, Miss Ethel Hughes, of St. John's, came by the Prospero, and are enjoying familiar Trinity. They are registered at the Garland.

Mr. Atkinson, of Halifax, the Inspector of the Royal Bank of Canada in Newfoundland, was here in his official capacity on Wednesday, registered at the Garland and went out by the night train. We were all glad to meet him and we are sorry that his stay is so short. Come again.

Mrs. Loring—known to us in her childhood days as Lizzie White—came to Trinity on Wednesday last, and went out again by the Prospero to visit her brother—Sergeant White, of Catalina. Her present home is at Wellesley College, Boston, where she looks after the best interests of one hundred and twenty-five student girls. Some day she is coming back to Trinity to stay. We were glad to see her again, and when she comes "for good" we shall be as good as we can be to her.

Mrs. Robert Morris has asked me to convey to Mrs. Jenkins and her hotel staff, and to the people of Trinity, her heartfelt gratitude for their many acts of sympathetic kindness to her during her stay in Trinity, when she came with her husband's body for interment.

Mr. Eddie Burrell is spending an enjoyable holiday with us in his boyhood surroundings. Glad to see him.

Mrs. Henrietta White and her cousin, Miss Ethel Hughes, of St. John's, came by the Prospero, and are enjoying familiar Trinity. They are registered at the Garland.

Mr. Atkinson, of Halifax, the Inspector of the Royal Bank of Canada in Newfoundland, was here in his official capacity on Wednesday, registered at the Garland and went out by the night train. We were all glad to meet him and we are sorry that his stay is so short. Come again.

Mrs. Loring—known to us in her childhood days as Lizzie White—came to Trinity on Wednesday last, and went out again by the Prospero to visit her brother—Sergeant White, of Catalina. Her present home is at Wellesley College, Boston, where she looks after the best interests of one hundred and twenty-five student girls. Some day she is coming back to Trinity to stay. We were glad to see her again, and when she comes "for good" we shall be as good as we can be to her.

A RELIC OF PROSPEROUS DAYS IN TRINITY.
We have just been handed a silver coin which was dug up some days ago by Mrs. A. Christian in her garden.

IN THE MANAGEMENT OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

Of course, the function of the Opposition in politics is easily understood. A certain set of men are charged with the management of public affairs with the collection, and what is more important, with the administration of the public revenues. What is to prevent these men from being "light-fingered"? What is to certify them honest men? I answer, the Opposition. Mind you, reader, I make no insinuation against the men now in power. On the contrary, I have the utmost confidence in Premier Monro and those associated with him in the Government of the country and I believe they possess the confidence of the country. Still, the fact remains that the Opposition is as much a part and parcel of Responsible Government as is the government itself. It (speaking of the thing in a collective sense) is a legitimate and indispensable part of the political machine under Responsible Government. Without it there is no Responsible Government. The thing is only a burglarized "safe" with the burglars inside and the padlock hanging down outside to deceive the public.

Mrs. L. MacMillan Tells How Cuticura Healed Eruptions

"I was troubled many months with a itching, burning, painful feeling practically all over my face. A number of pimples broke out on my forehead which caused me to scratch and also caused eruptions. The pimples spread down the sides of my face and caused disfigurement. I tried several remedies without any benefit. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. MacMillan, Box 321, Kenora, Ontario.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promotes and maintains skin purity, softness and skin health. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder.

The task is an Herculean one, but the proconsul and the people alike have faith in Messrs. Monro & Co. and believe they will perform their part, difficult and all as it is, to the satisfaction of the country, and thereby be instrumental in restoring the public service to normal conditions of honesty and efficiency. Premier Monro is of Scotch descent and does not want to be reminded that "From acts like these old Scotia's grandeur springs. That makes her loved at home, When even princes to swear began Princes and lords are but the breath of Kings. An honest man's the noblest work of God."

Just Folks. By EDGAR A GUEST

DOG-GONE.
He was the mildest sort of man, And yet a fighter, too, When men profane to swear began And change the air to blue, He'd shake his head and hold his tongue. And still keep plodding on; His strongest phrase when things went wrong Was just a calm "Dog-gone!" An oath we've never heard him use Or any vulgar phrase; Had luck could never make him lose His calm and patient ways. When by mischance he'd fall to reach Some goal he'd set upon, He'd merely punctuate his speech With just a sharp "Dog-gone!"

Yet I have heard profane men swear At real or fancied wrong, Spilling out words upon the air Both picturesque and strong. And with that black and needless touch I vow to-day no one Could ever say or mean so much As he with his "Dog-gone."

A Tribute to a Late Respected Citizen

In the passing of Capt. Michael O'Rourke on Thursday, July 3rd, Newfoundland has lost one who by his sterling ability and untiring industry contributed in no small part in establishing this country in the status which she holds today. Sprung from a stock renowned for industry and initiative he proved himself a worthy son of a noble race. Ever prominent where men were needed his advice was always solicited on questions of public interest and his opinions were considered invaluable by men of his own generation.

The late Richard O'Rourke was born at Holywood seventy-five years ago; he was as son of the late Capt. Michael O'Rourke, of Watford, Ireland, whose family migrated from that country in the early years of the last century and established a fishing plantation on the south side of Holywood; a business well known twenty years ago.

Receiving his early education from that notable old Irish schoolmaster, Denis O'Neil, he showed himself under the latter's tutelage to be a youth of no mean ability. At the age of sixteen he engaged in the fishery and when scarcely twenty-one years he was master of a fishing vessel out of his father's firm. For a quarter of a century he prosecuted every branch of our staple industry with brilliant success and his name and fame as a fisherman became familiar to fishermen from Cape Chidley to Cape Pine.

In the character of Michael O'Rourke was illustrated the type of Newfoundland, typical of the age just gone. Unconfined to one sphere of activity his ability enabled him to master any task that circumstance demanded. From navigation to carpentry, from shipbuilding to sailing-making he was master of his trade and his skillful hand was ever ready to extend its help to the needful in their hour of want.

The deceased was also a very public spirited man. In the medical association, temperance and agriculture societies, he filled the position of secretary and was one of the founders and first executive officers of the present Star of the Sea Association. He also occupied positions of trust and responsibility in the community. When but one Road Council represented the district of Harbor Main he was the chosen representative.

As a tribute of respect to this highly respected citizen, Holyroodians attended his funeral en masse on Saturday morning. Headed by the Star of the Sea Association the cortege made its way to the church where the Rev. Fr. Finn pronounced the last funeral rites after which he paid a glowing tribute to the splendid characteristics of the deceased as a model churchman, a generous parishioner and a noble type of Newfoundland. Then the procession reformatted and headed for the South Side cemetery where were deposited the remains of one who for his lovable qualities and rare abilities was a man seldom equalled and never surpassed.

Surviving him are four daughters to whom we offer our sincere sympathy.—R.D.

Our Political Problems And How to Solve Them.

By ANALYST.

"O Patriot Statesman, be thou wise to know The limits of resistance, and the bounds Determining concession; still be bold Not only to slight praise but suffer scorn; And be thy heart a fortress to maintain The day against the moment, and the year Against the day; thy voice a music heard Thro' all the yells and counter-yells of feud And faction, and thy will, a power to make This ever-changing world of circumstance. In changing, chime with never-changing Law."

NECESSITY FOR WELL-ORGANIZED OPPOSITION.
In one of my previous articles under the above caption I commented on the necessity for a vigorous and well-organized Opposition in the House of Assembly. As the recent General Election has reduced that Opposition almost to a minimum, it seems opportune and advisable to emphasize those comments, especially now that the Legislature is in session. There are some persons who are very intolerant of opposition—political opposition—and restless under it. They are mostly "graffers." No honest man dreads opposition or resents the exercise of its function in politics. To my mind, it is essential to the health of the State and of the body politic that political opposition should exist in sufficient strength and activity for the discharge of its function. What that function is I shall presently endeavor to explain. Meanwhile let it be noted that this fact is evidently admitted on the part of all "political freebooters," in the feint to keep up a simulated opposition where no real one exists. What to think of the so-called men who consent to play such a contemptible part, my readers do not require that I should specify.

AS A CHECK AND BALANCE-WHEEL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

Then again, no matter how good a government may be, speaking of its individual constituents, they cannot exist without an Opposition. They admit the fact, as I have already shown. Why is an Opposition necessary? I answer: An Opposition is necessary as a check and balance-wheel to the government machine, to keep public affairs and their administration in a sound and wholesome condition. Without any whole-whole what check is, there upon the actions of the Government? None whatever. Therefore, constitutional law never contemplates the existence of a government without an Opposition. Such a thing is an anomaly that never exists except as the creation of a "bunch of hoodlers." Yes, of hoodlers, for no honest government, nor any man of them, would consent to its existence for a single day without an Opposition. No matter how good a Government may be in itself, it can never continue to be good without an Opposition. In a community like this, where, under the most favorable circumstances, Responsible Government only exists in name, where there is little or no vital public opinion, or where that public opinion is powerless to effect results, the play of conducting constitutional government without an Opposition is only a farce with no fun in it. Why? Because a government is exposed to the pressure of such debasing influences that a good strong opposition is really its best friend! Recent experiences here have proved this in many cases. That, in fact a government cannot of itself interpose sufficient moral resistance to stem the tide of drifting circumstances and the clamor of unprincipled and persistent outsiders. Therefore, an Opposition is provided for in the theory of Responsible Government, the system being incomplete without it, and not only useless and unsafe as a system of government to the State, but absolutely intolerable and impossible to the very men who constituted the government themselves.

"'Tis not indulging private inclination. The selfish passion, that sustains the world. And lends its rulers grace; no, it is not then That glory springs, and high immortal deeds."

THOSE SORRY DISCLOSURES OF GREED AND CORRUPTION.
"What is to be said of the administration of executive departments under the best minds called together for the purpose? Here, if anywhere, is to be found the acid test, for, after all, by far the greater-part of the business of government consists not in devising new laws or planning new expedients, but in running with wisdom and efficiency the machinery by which the people are already served. No patriot, however partisan, can exult in the sorry disclosures of greed, corruption and maladministration that have shocked the country and shamed it before the world. No right-thinking man will seek to palliate or defend them. Those partisan advocates who try to screen the wretches that have been exposed by crying out against the exposure, belittle and besmirch themselves. Corrupt officials and their friends make a sorry defence when they can do no better than share the blame with those who do not share their official responsibility."

UNHOLY ALLIANCE BETWEEN BUSINESS AND POLITICS.

"Much has been said, and rightly, of the unholy alliance between big business and crooked politics, but there is danger of putting the emphasis on the wrong adjective. For whether it is big business striving to grow big, or little business hoping to grow big, it is crooked business and crooked politics that make the accursed partnership. In the Court of public opinion, as that no distinction in point of guilt is drawn between the public official who betrays his trust and the private citizen who profits by that betrayal." To quote again from one of the best present-day authorities on the subject:—"We believe that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with inalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that the best government is that which governs least; that 'the constitution and its limitations were made to be obeyed; that self-government is indispensable to liberty; that the people can be trusted to control their own destiny; that taxes can be levied only for the support of government economically administered; that unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation; that the end of all government is to furnish equal and exact justice to all men and special privilege to none; that public office is a public trust; that what we want, and which we expect to find in the Monroe combination, is 'a party whose ambition is service, not mastery; whose aim is opportunity, not privilege, whose boast is honor and not profit; and whose ideal is freedom and not restraint.'"

THE SLOGAN OF THE MONROE GOVERNMENT.
The slogan of Prime Minister Monro and his political associates in their recent appeal to the country was "Clean Up and Clean Out." That they meant, and still mean, to carry out their programme of reform in this direction I have to doubt what-

THIS SOLVES WOMAN'S OLDEST PROBLEM

A simple explanation of a recent scientific discovery

This is to tell you how modern science has solved an old problem in a new way.

It is a way which brings security, immaculacy, peace of mind to the world of women. It has been adopted by 8 women out of 10 in the better walks of life.

The best way to learn all about it is by actual trial, and this is offered free. Just mail me the coupon below.

The explanation
During the world's war a new surgical dressing was perfected—a product softer and more absorbent than anything before known. These qualities were quickly discovered by the Red Cross nurses, and this new product adopted for personal use.

Now, under the name of Kotex, it offers protection, comfort and practical convenience to women everywhere.

Important facts
Kotex absorbs instantly, 16 times its own weight, and holds it. It is 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton.

It is pure, white, compact and light-weight. It is most easily disposed of, in a way which prevents embarrassment.

Most important of all, it assures immaculate daintiness at all times, under all circumstances. Think what this means to all fastidious women!

Free sample proves it
The best way to learn what Kotex is and what it will do is to mail the coupon for the free sample. It is sent by return mail in a perfectly plain package, accompanied by a special book. This book was written by a doctor to explain the value of Kotex from a medical standpoint.

As I know professionally as well as personally the overwhelming value of Kotex, I urge you to accept this free trial at once. Your request will be treated in strictest confidence. Fill out and mail the coupon today.

ENTHUSIASTIC REGATTA MEETING.
 Eighteen Crews Entered Last Night.
 A largely attended meeting of the Regatta Committee was held in the T.A. Armouries last night with President Hiscock in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Applications were read from G.L.B.C. and C.C.C. Boat Clubs, also the G.W.V.A., asking permission to operate wheels of fortune at the lake-side, on day of Regatta. It was decided after careful consideration to grant permission to Boat Clubs only. A communication was read from the G.W.V.A., re two bills incurred by the Hair Regatta Committee for buoys and stands, and asking the Regatta Committee to pay these bills. As it would be necessary to have this work done in any case, the Committee decided to accede to their request. In future Mr. T. J. Moran will be recognized as the official publisher of a Regatta Programme. Owing to the fact that much objection has been raised re the decision handed down by the Committee last week that in charging tent holders a fee of five dollars, and same to be used for cleaning up purposes, has been abolished. A letter received from Sir Edgar Bowring, was read, stating his disapproval of it. After much discussion the Committee decided to rescind the resolution. At the same time the matter of cleaning up the grounds will be given due consideration. The following Judges were appointed:—Hon. J. R. Bennett, J. P. Croft, E. J. Brophy, C. F. Taylor, Capt. E. Ennis, W. H. Rennie, Councillor V. I. Combe and W. J. Martin. In addition to the Judges appointed above, other members of the Committee will take turns in the boats, and in the Judges' cab to the buoys during the various races. An application from the Newfoundland Govt. Railway, was rescinded. The following rules were submitted by Vice-President Higgins, and passed unanimously:—

Bankers' Race—Those only shall be eligible to row in this race, who are employed in Newfoundland, and at the Banks which they represent. Each crew must consist of employees of the one bank.
Senior Football Race—Those only shall be eligible to row in this race, who are playing members of the present season in League Championship games, for the Clubs which they represent. Each crew must consist of players of the one club.
Championship Race—The crew making the quickest winning time on Regatta Day for any boat shall have the right to compete in this race in this boat.
 The following crews entered:—

CLEAN UP and KEEP CLEAN

This is what the New Government intends doing. We have been doing this for 25 years, as Cleaning, Pressing and Dyeing is our sole business. We devote our entire time to it and therefore we can give you better satisfaction than you can get elsewhere. Owing to the growth of our business we have had to remove to larger premises on the opposite side of the street (No. 22 opp. A. V. Duffy), which gives us ample room. We use the first flat, shop and showroom; second flat, repairing and pressing rooms; third flat, dyeing and renovating.

We would like you to see some of our work before sending elsewhere; all prices reduced since the New Year. Cleaning Orders given our first and personal attention. A rush job is our speciality. We call for goods and deliver them in two hours, if necessary. Suits Pressed while you wait; a nice dressing room to change in. We can handle over one hundred pressing orders daily. In addition to Cleaning and Pressing, we clean and shape hats.

Gents' Suits Dry Cleaned—Hats Cleaned.
Ladies' Costumes Dry Cleaned—Suits Renovated.
Ladies' and Gents' Suits Dyed. Blue Serge restored to its original color.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

Quantity Price Fair and Unfair--

Any grocer who sells BABBITS soap loyally and faithfully is entitled to just as good treatment and just as fair a field for profit as any other grocer. Favoritism is what kills the independent retailer.

We have only one concession for quantity—that which the buyer actually earns in the freight saving. We don't give it to him; he earns it.

We agree with the Retail Grocers that differentials so great that they upset fair competition should be condemned. The wonderful popularity of BABBITS soap is built on fair sales policies and real value to the consumer.
