HOMŒOPATHY AND SCIENCE.

The recent debate on this subject at McGill Medical Society's meeting seems to have brought out very little light on the question at issue. The speakers for the affirmative asserted that homœopathy was well worthy of being inquired into, without touching on the scientific aspect. The negative side contented itself with pleasantly ridiculing a system they knew nothing about and so attempted to laugh the whole thing out of court.

One great difficulty in arguments of this kind, especially among amateurs, is in keeping to the point of the discussion. Systems are apt to be confounded with parts, or adjuncts, of the same, and representatives of the system, become inextricably mixed up with the system itself, with the result that the shortcomings of fallible man are often charged up to a system in no way responsible for its followers or advocates.

For instance, in the debate above mentioned one of the telling (?) arguments of the defence was the absurdity of the small dose usually given by homœopaths. Just wherein the non-scientific part of this comes in is hard to perceive, even if it had anything to do with the law of homœopathy in the administration of drugs. As a matter of fact, the size or strength of the dose has nothing to do with the principle of homœopathy. He who gives an ounce of Epsom salts in a case of diarrhœa, prescribes homœopathically just as truly as if he gave the same substance in the hundred millionth part of a grain. Time and experience have shown, and proved, that the small dose is fully as effective in curative power as the larger one, and has the added benefit of allowing Nature to more quickly recover from drug action; hence its adoption by homœopaths. In every day life we are constantly in touch with measures for the regulation of more or less delicate machinery, of whose construction we have some degree of knowledge, perchance sufficient to prevent us from sending our timepieces to a blacksmith, etc., without exciting undue wonder, or comment, yet we profess amazement when that most delicate piece of mechanism, the human body, is regulated by a slight dose of medicine.

The mistake of confounding men with the system they represent is a common one, and a frequent device of the amateur debater to bolster up a weak argument. While harm may have been done to homœopathy through the tenets, practices, and personalities of some of its exponents, it has been but temporarily; and is vastly overshadowed by the ultimate good achieved. No amount of sophistry can detract from the value of results gained and work accomplished. The fact that homœopathic physicians use methods similar to those in use by physicians of the dominant school does not in any way affect the status of the homœopathic law. Just why one should expect perfection in a man who happens to practise homœopathy, while allowing room for human error if the physician is of any other school, is not clearly apparent. The trouble lies in the fact that knowledge of what homœopathy is has not been grasped by members of the allopathic school. Again, the same argument might be used in reference to followers of traditional medicine who give little or no medicine, with this exception, that homœopaths know that in prescribing medicine for the sick no variation from the law of similars, however closely resembling it, makes of the physician a homœopath, or admits of his practising the system.

The homœopathic physician is one who combines with all the knowledge, means, and measures of the allopathic school a knowledge of the administration of drugs in accordance with a fixed law. In every other province in medicine, all and any measures are at his disposal, the practice of which in no way detracts from his standing as a homœopath.

Just why the law of similars is so, is one of the axioms of medicine, provable only by demonstration, and results obtained. Why like should cure like, will probably never be known; the apple falls to the ground, but where is the cause for gravitation; the needle moves towards the pole, but we cannot tell why iron is magnetic, so with the law of homœopathy; it is a fact, and therefore fully entitled to recognition as being scientific. Results are stronger arguments than any fine-spun theories, and it may be safely asserted that no cure of the sick by the aid of medicines is ever made without the application of the homœopathic law of similars being either unknowingly, or intentionally employed.

HINTS.

Flushes of heat, cold feet, alternated especially at night with burning feet, is a condition requiring Sulphur.

Fever blisters are often cured by Natrum mur.

Catarrh, with stringy, tough mucus, is relieved by Kali bichromicum.

Difficult breathing on the least exertion is often relieved by Ipecac.

Flatulence, sour taste, sense of satiety after a few mouthfuls, bloated feeling in the stomach, are conditions usually relieved by Lycopodium.

Bearing down sensation in organs, Lilium tig.

Itching of feet and ankles, Ledum.

Backache before and after menses, feels badly for days afterwards, Kali carb.

For feverish children or adults, pure unfermented grape juice, provided it is not preserved with Salicylic acid, is beneficial, nutritious and grateful.

If suffering, no matter how long a time has elapsed, from the effects of a blow or concussion, Arnica 6 internally will probably give relief.

Arnica 6 internally is also most excellent in aiding the rapid disappearance of "black eyes" or any "black and blue" spots resulting from blows, etc.

Sensation as of a fish bone or splinter in the throat is often cleared up by Hepar sulph.

Sweaty feet, Calcarea carb.—Homœopathic Envoy.

POUND PARTY.

Another success was scored by the Woman's Auxiliary at the "Pound Party" and "Tea" held April 19th in the Board Room, from four to six. The weather was favorable and the rooms were well filled.

Mrs. J. T. Hagar and Mrs. Geo. Sumner, assisted by their young friends, served tea and coffee from a table prettily decorated with tulips and narcissi. Mrs. J. A. Sheffield and Mrs. W. D. Birchall had home-made cake for sale, while Mrs. W. T. Rodden and Miss M. Robertson looked after the sale of the home-made candy. Mrs. De. F. Smith, Mrs. A. D. Patton and Miss Baylis received the parcels, which by the end of the afternoon amounted to a very goodly assortment of groceries of all kinds as well as delicacies for the sick, and household staff. Some of the names of donors became separated from the gifts and may not appear in the proper place, and some have been received since the lists were prepared so will have to appear later. But the thanks of the Woman's Auxiliary are most cordially extended to all who contributed in money or donations for the benefit of the Hospital.

Master Allan Blyth Copping, a little elocutionist of about five summers, gave one of Dr. Drummond's poems, "Les Vieux Temps," with a charming grace and wonderfully correct French accent, showing careful training of his wonderful gift as a reciter. The Auxiliary were very much pleased with the offer of his services and thank his friends most heartily for their kindness.

HOSPITAL NOTES

MONTHLY donations, eight dollars.

THE HOSPITAL is greatly in need of repainting and freshening up, but the funds are lacking.

THROUGH the generosity of a friend the pantry has been supplied with a dumb waiter.

DR. LLOYD POLLOCK, who so ably filled the position of resident physician in our hospital for the past year, has gone to his home, Fort Worth, Texas, where he will assist his father in looking after one of the largest practices in that city.

WE WOULD like to have a pound party every month. A full larder maketh a glad hospital.

THE TOTAL hospital receipts last month were $670.50; of this, eight dollars represented the aid received from outside.

THIS IS A good time of the year to pay off coal bills, as they have stopped growing. Won't you help us to square up ours, so we can make better terms for next season's supply.

THE MAN who painted the front steps the first time decamped, probably to save lynching.

ALL DONATIONS to the hospital are acknowledged in the Record; no private notes of receipt are sent, unless the donation is made to the Woman's Auxiliary, through its secretary.

THERE ARE four cases at present in the Maternity Annex, and five applications for accommodation for this month.

THE NUMBER of patients treated in the hospital from Nov. 1, 1900, to May 3, 1901, was 94, and from Nov. 1, 1901, to May 3, 1902, 142, a fair showing of gain for the half year.

AS A NUMBER of complaints have reached the committee of management about people not knowing where or to whom to send subscriptions; we would say try addressing the treasurer, Dr. E. M. Morgan, care of the hospital, and he will see that all such complaints are remedied.

SEVERAL NOTICES have been received from the post office authorities, indicating that some of our subscribers have failed to notify us of their change of address.

LAST YEAR'S subscriptions were $300.00 less than those of the previous year and this year's bid fair to show a greater falling off.

THE next monthly meeting of the Committee of Management will be held on Monday, May 19, instead of May 26.

THE LADY SUPERINTENDENT says, in her report to the Committee of Management, "April has been a very busy month and the nurses have been a credit to the school."

OWING TO the illness of the treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary, no financial report has been prepared this month.

THE LIST of acknowledgments published in this issue may not be complete, owing to parcels and donors' names getting separated. We will remedy this in next month's Record.

DON'T YOU think it would be well to send in now a portion of the subscription you mean to give later on. It will save you from worrying about the whole of it during the summer holidays.

WE WOULD like to celebrate the coronation by a distribution of money among our creditors. Do you think we can manage it?

THE DISPENSARY is open every week day from 11.30 a. m. to 1 p. m. for the free advice and treatment of the deserving poor, a fee of 10 cents for medicine being charged those who can pay. If you know of any poor people in need of medical services tell them about our outdoor department.

DON'T YOU think you could afford to give the hospital, say twenty-five dollars on condition that it raises a like amount, in a reasonable time; if it cannot, you get your money back, so you may not have to part with it after all. Try it.

ELDERLY CENTENARIANS.

A despatch from Athens records the death at Khuti, Albania, of Ismael Hudjo, said to have been the oldest man in the world. It is said that he was 160 years old. He leaves 200 descendants. Mrs. Ann Taylor, one of the historical characters of the city of St. Joseph, Mo., died there recently aged 110 years. For more than a century she had been addicted to the use of tobacco and liquor.

HOT WATER DRINKING.

There are four classes of persons who should not drink large quantities of hot water. These are as follows :

1. People who have irritability of the heart. Hot water will cause palpitation of the heart in such cases.
2. Persons with dilated stomachs.
3. Persons afflicted with "sour stomach."
4. Persons who have soreness of the stomach, or pain induced by light pressure.

These rules are not for those who take hot water simply to relieve thirst better than cold water, and for that purpose is not to be condemned. But hot water is an excitant, and in cases in which irritation of the stomach exists should be avoided.—Indian Lancet.

RESULT OF "ABSENT TREAT-MENT."

A young woman, who is a so-called Christian Scientist, had observed with a growing pity a cripple who passed her house daily. His efforts to walk were so evidently painful that she determined to try the "absent treatment" on him. After the first few days of her self-imposed task she thought she noticed signs of improvement, and one day he appeared without his crutch and walked with hardly a limp. She was so overjoyed that she rushed to the street, seized the man's hand, and said: "My dear friend, you must excuse me, but I cannot refrain from rejoicing with you over your cure. I have used faithfully the 'absent treatment' for your infirmity, and I cannot tell you how happy I am to see by your walk that you have recovered." When the man rallied from the bewildering effect of this sudden outburst of "present treatment" he replied: "Thank ye kindly, ma'am, for your interest in me. I don't suppose it has hurt me any. But I may as well say I have just got a new wooden leg with rubber foot, and it works splendid, ma'am. The other old wood-foot-thing always did make me limp."—The American Homeopathist.
