Many Injured in New York Subway Blaze; Panic as Stalled Car Catches Fire

Fearful Scene in Rush Hour as People Are Hurrying To Work

Whole Fire Department and All City Ambulances Called Out—Dynamite Used to Tear up Street to Get Quickly to Tube—Brave Rescue Work by Firemen

New York, Jan. 6.—More than one hundred persons were overcome by smoke, cut by flying glass, bruised and otherwise injured in a fire aboard a train in the subway at the height of the rush hour this morning. In the panic and confusion which ensued, police headquarters issued a report that twelve persons had lost their lives, but this later was proved to be unfounded, and only one known death was recorded.

It was thought that more than twenty persons were dead and scores were injured in a fire in the subway this morning, which broke out in a stalled train at the height of the rush hour. The entire fire department of the city and all ambulances were summoned to the scene. At 11 o'clock, hundreds of half suffocated passengers were being rescued from subway stations and preparations were being made to dynamite the streets to let air into the tube.

It was not possible at that time to determine the extent of the fatalities, and some estimates placed the number of dead far in excess of twenty. The entire subway system of the city was put out of commission at 8 o'clock, the beginning of the rush hour, by the burning out of a main cable. The trouble had not been located at 9 o'clock. During the hour not a train was operated.

New York, Jan. 6.—For a time it was thought that persons lost their lives in a three-alarm fire which raged in the subway at Broadway near Fifty-fifth street at the height of the rush hour this morning. For the first time in the history of the fire department a special alarm called out firemen and battalion chiefs without apparatus, to fight the flames and care for the injured.

The fire started at eight o'clock, the beginning of the rush hour. An hour and a half later a slow express service was started only to be halted by the discovery of fire. Three alarms were turned in. Eight ambulances were sent to the scene. More were called for immediately.

From trains stalled between stations, firemen engaged bearing unconscious victims. Every available fireman that could be spared was called out to help. Fire Commissioner Adams, who assumed personal control of the situation, sent men scurrying throughout the city with orders to bring every palmator available to the scene.

Congestion, the like of which the city has seldom seen, prevailed at most stations. At the Brooklyn bridge, the Manhattan entrance was choked by tens of thousands. For fifty minutes detachments of police reserves struggled with the crowds there before order could be restored.

Elevated trains and surface cars were packed to overflowing all over the city, with the throngs that were turned away from the subway. Sixty persons were taken unconscious from the scene of the fire to the Flower hospital. Other hospitals received many victims as well.

Princess Patricias Praised By British Officers at Front

No Serious Casualties—They Are Steady and Well Disciplined—Good Work by Canadian Nurses—Roland Hill's Letter

Montreal, Jan. 6.—A special copyright cable from the Montreal Star's correspondent at the front, Roland Hill, gives today further news of the Princess Patricias.

"Northern France, by courier to London, Tuesday.—None of the Princess Patricias' casualties Christmas day were serious enough to be sent to the base hospital, and most cases have already been discharged by the advance field hospitals. That is the word given me by a prominent British medical officer. Wintery weather has interested in that section of the British zigzag line south of Ypres, where the Princess Patricias are now on duty on the advanced British lines of communication southward to the post where the rest of the British forces are expected to land.

"British officers pay a high tribute to the splendid discipline which the Princess Patricias have maintained in France, and this will go a long way towards dispelling the notion that the friendliness between officers and men at Salisbury might destroy efficiency in the field. One British officer said to me: 'This front has become a battle of inches, and the slightest advance made of the general scheme endangers our whole front. We were afraid the Canadians in their enthusiasm would carry out the rush so effective in South Africa, and it would be fatal here; but the Princess Patricias, rank and file, have shown themselves steady, and the officers well-trained.'

"There are several Canadian Army Service Sections working along the communications now, mostly distributing stores to field bases, which is often a ticklish work, and the Princess Patricias are also in France, and these are of course many remount officers and men at work at the main British base. The Canadian hospital continues extremely busy, and splendid work is being done in this town by Canadian nurses who have been loaned to the British Army Medical Corps. Every unit wearing a Maple Leaf that has yet landed in France has made a distinctly favorable impression, both with the British and French officers; but I am inclined to think the British commanders were wise in deciding that Canadians should not work as a separate division, but should fight side by side with the first line troops of Britain.

ROLLAND HILL
WHOLE ARMY CORPS OF TURKS CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS
New York, Jan. 6.—A Herald cable from London says: "The Russian army of the Caucasus has won what is regarded here as one of the most decisive victories of the war in the capture in its entirety, of a Turkish army corps and the rout of two of three Turkish columns advancing into the Caesars' dominion."

For the last week Constantinople has told the world of the rapid movement of Ottoman troops across the frontier. Three days ago one of these detachments, captured Ardahan, fifty miles beyond the border. Yesterday, the Russians rallied with their supports, recaptured the town and drove the Turks out in disorder, according to a Petrograd announcement. This force now is virtually surrounded, and the roads of retreat are cut off.

A Turkish force, consisting of two army corps, advancing toward Kars crossed the frontier near Sarikamish, where it was met and where one of the corps was captured.

AUSTRIANS RETREAT FARTHER
Further west, in the Galician theatre, last night's bulletins told of further Russian success in the Carpathians. In the Usok Pass, where the snow is severe, the Austrians were driven to further retreat through the mountains, with Russian cavalry pursuing and attacking on flank and rear.

DOCTORS AT INQUEST TELL OF A NEW LIVER DISEASE
London, Jan. 6.—A new liver disease caused by a quick drying varnish and which varnishers and polishers may be subject was discovered here by Dr. Bernard Spitzburg and Doctor Wilcox, an eminent pathologist, in an autopsy upon a workman employed at the Hendon Aircraft factory. This varnish is composed of tetrachloro-ether, methylated spirits benzine and other ingredients.

WOULD GIVE NOBEL PRIZE TO THE KING OF SWEDEN
London, Jan. 6.—A Daily News correspondent telegraphed from Copenhagen: "The Norwegian press makes the novel proposal of awarding the Nobel Prize to the King of Sweden for his initiative in establishing the Scandinavian triple entente at Malme."

UNDER ADMINISTRATION OF FRENCH AUTHORITIES AGAIN

Forty-one Towns and Villages in Alsace Which French Have Occupied—The Strain is Off in Paris and City Relaxes

London, Jan. 6.—The Morning Post's correspondent telegraphs from Bernes: "Forty-one towns and villages in Alsace, which have been occupied by French troops since the outbreak of hostilities, are now administered by the French authorities."

RELAXING IN PARIS
Paris, Jan. 6.—The military situation is now so satisfactory that the government has begun gradually to relax the rigors of the war regime for Paris. By decree, Alexandre Millerand, minister of war, has declared that the entrenched camp of Paris, with the exception of the District of Pontaise, is no longer included in the zone of operations, and Louis J. Malvey, minister of the interior, now permits bakers to make fancy bread, a practice forbidden since August 7.

Paris, Jan. 6.—2.40 p. m.—The official French statement follows: "In Belgium the enemy delivered, but without success, two attacks in the region of the Dunes and to the southwest of St. George's. On the rest of the front to the north of Lys and from the Lys to the Oise, there has been nothing except artillery fighting.

"In the valley of the Aisne and in the sector of Rheims our batteries gained the upper hands over those of the enemy, reducing them to silence. At a point northwest of Rheims it is reported that some of our troops have made an advance of about 500 yards. "In the Argonne there developed a very spirited attack which permitted us to retake 300 yards of trenches in the forest of La Grurie at the same place where there was recently a slight giving way, as previously reported, from Bagetelle and from Fontaine Madame where were delivered two violent German attacks each of which was repulsed. A complete regiment was engaged in each movement.

"Near the Ravine of Courte Chaussees we blew up by exploding a mine 800 yards of German trenches, half of which we subsequently occupied. From the Argonne to the Vosges the bad weather has continued. There has been fog and mud. At different points along this front there have been fairly spirited artillery exchanges. In the Forest of Lepatrie we have continued to gain ground. "In the region of Than (in upper Alsace) in spite of a violent cannonading we retained the gains achieved the night before at Steinbach, as well as in the reaches to the southwest and to the northwest of this village. The enemy succeeded in re-occupying one of its former trenches on the eastern flank of a nearby height, the summit of which, however, remains in our possession.

"It should be set forth that in the Argonne near the Ravine of Courte Chaussees, at the point where we blew up the German trenches the attacking regiment commanded by Lieut. Col. Garibaldi, delivered a vigorous assault against the breach made by the explosions. The Italians captured 120 prisoners, including twelve under officers, and took one machine gun and one caisson. The chief adjutant of this regiment, Constantine Garibaldi, brother of Lieut. Col. Garibaldi, was killed during this attack."

THE SITUATION IN ALBANIA
Rome, Jan. 6.—Baron Sonnino, Italian minister of foreign affairs, yesterday explained before a council of the ministers the situation in Albania. He told of the steps that should be taken in Albania and the ministers agreed to proceed with such measures as he considers necessary and which were agreed to by the premier.

Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 6.—Count Zeppelin has at present seven aerial dreadnoughts at his disposal at Friedrichshafen, Dusseldorf, Berlin and Hamburg. An eighth was badly damaged in the British raid on Friedrichshafen last month, and is being patched to join the second line of Zeppelins, which number a dozen and which are useless for long journeys. Since the English aviators' raid, work has begun on a new Zeppelin, which it now takes twenty days to complete. The principal parts are made in factories elsewhere in Germany and brought to Friedrichshafen to be assembled.

Re-Making Their Faces
Have, Jan. 6.—The French army medical corps have set apart three eminent surgeons to make "aesthetic repairs" and remove deformations from the faces of those wounded in the war.

FOR Shelter of War-Stricken
London, Jan. 6.—Plank houses with tarred paper roofs are sorely needed for shelter of peasants in the area ravaged by war. Labor, paper, glass and lumber are scarce in France and exhausted in Belgium.

LOST IN BAY?

Nova Scotia Fisherman Out and There is Fear For Two Lives
Digby, Jan. 6.—(Special)—Great uneasiness is felt for a Gulliver's Cove fishing boat which left that village early yesterday morning, containing Alfred Cossaboon and Ralph Nesbitt. They were last seen between nine and ten o'clock yesterday morning, hauling a trawl about six miles off Gulliver's Cove. It is feared that their engine was broken down and they were blown off shore. Search is being made. Captain McDonald of the S. S. Yarmouth, which arrived at one o'clock, did not sight the boat in the bay. He reports a heavy sea off shore. Both men are married. Cossaboon has no family; Nesbitt has five small children.

Paris, Jan. 6.—At Arras, Private Lenoir emerged from the trenches, scraped the mud off his clothing, washed up and marched two comrades to the city hall, where he met his fiancée, a Parisienne, by special permit. They were married in a shell hole thick in the village during the subsequent mass.

SERG. KILPATRICK HAS RESIGNED FROM POLICE

An Excellent Record of 31 Years—Takes Charge of City Property Watchmen—Other Police Matters
A mild sensation was created today in police circles when it became officially known that Sergeant Henry Kilpatrick had sent in his resignation. His determination to enter another field came as a surprise to many, particularly as he has been on the police force for the last thirty-one years. During that period of time he served under the late Captain Rawlings, who was in charge of the "Open of Portland." Later he joined the city force, and after a short period of service was promoted from the ranks to the position of sergeant, which office he has held ever since.

OTTAWA SILENT ABOUT IT

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 6.—The rumor from Montreal to the effect that the Grand Trunk Pacific will not take over by lease the Transcontinental Railway from Winnipeg to Montreal, is a subject upon which there is a rather profound silence in official circles in Ottawa. It is not to be construed, however, as an indication that there is nothing in the report.

Belief That G. T. P. is Not Desirous of Taking Over Transcontinental at Present

President Chamberlain's statement that the road is not yet finished and that his company is not compelled to take it over until it is finished is technically correct, nevertheless to all intents and purposes the road is ready both for leasing and for operation. The Grand Trunk may not have actually refused to carry out its contract, but it is not unfair to say that it has displayed no eagerness to do so, and some see in the company's attitude from time to time, distinct evidence of side-stepping.

WE ARE BUSY Because of Public Confidence

When times are had every cent spent in Furniture has to be expended to the utmost advantage.

It is then that the purchaser begins to wonder whether the great "bargains" that are advertised in the papers are really the bargains that their sellers would have the public believe. It is then that the store that has ALWAYS made a point of selling the most in QUALITY Furniture for the least money reaps the benefit of its fair dealing policy.

At J. MARCUS' the public have always been assured of the utmost value for every penny spent, and now that times are not too good, we are still busy. The reason is plain to see.

"I have used Sloan's Liniment for family use for years and would not be without it. We have raised a family of ten children and have used it for croup and all lung trouble also, as an antiseptic for wounds, of which children have a great many, it can't be best. My wife sprained her ankle last summer and it was in bad shape, Sloan's Liniment applied enabled her to be as good as ever in a week. I have used it several times for sprains and rheumatism."—John Neeson, R. R. No. 2, Keshew, Ont.

I am pleased to write to you that your Swamp-Root has done great things for me and my son.

My son was about nine months old when he was taken sick and the doctors who attended him said he had kidney trouble in the worst form and would not live only a short time. We gave him your remedy for about two months and today he is as well as any child of three years, and I cheerfully recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to all who are afflicted with kidney, liver or bladder troubles.

Wishing you success, I remain,

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How to Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Very few girls take proper care of their hands. True, more of them nowadays than in our mother's time manicure their nails regularly, but after doing that many of them think all work is done so far as beautifying is concerned.

The hands should be rubbed with some good, cold cream every morning after the bath.

A woman with the most beautiful hands I know is more than forty, with skin the texture and tint of youth. She has kept them beautiful by soaking them at least once a month in warm olive oil, rubbing them and washing them in the oil.

After this oil bath her hands, wiped as dry as possible, are encased in large kid gloves for the night.

If, when you arise each morning, you go through a little exercise of opening and shutting your fingers, one at a time, slowly and tightly, you will find it will make your hands supple.

If you take good care of your hands, you need never worry about using them to work.

The only thing to remember is that, when you wash the oil out of them, you must afterwards put some back again. Don't tan your hands needlessly, for skin, once sunburned, will never again regain its texture or whiteness.

Beautiful Hands Largely a Matter Of Care—Rules Simple

LESSONS FROM IRENE HOUGH'S BEAUTY

The Most Beautiful Telephone Girl In America

Irene Estelle Hough

If you take good care of your hands, you need never worry about using them to work.

(By Idah McGilone Gibson).

A seeker after beauty should always remember that the hands grow ugly and old much sooner than the face.

I think this is because we wash our hands so much more than we do our faces. There is a natural oil that lubricates the skin and keeps it soft and pliable. If this oil is constantly washed away, then we must supply a man-made cream that will do the work of which we have robbed nature.

MORNING WAR CABLES CHEERFUL

London, Jan. 5, 11.05 p. m.—Two of the three Turkish columns which last week invaded the Russian Caucasus have met with disaster, and those not killed or captured are in disorderly retreat, pursued by the Russians. The column which took Ardaban two days ago has been driven out of that town, according to Petrograd official despatches, and is almost surrounded by the Russians, who hold the main roads.

Another column, which crossed the frontier near Sari Kamyah, on the road to Kars, has suffered an even worse defeat, one of the two armies which composed it being captured in its entirety.

The Russians also report another victory over the Austrians, in the Usok Pass of the Carpathians. Emperor Francis Joseph's army in this region is declared to be in full retreat in a mountain pass deep in snow, while a violent snowstorm rages, and the Russian cavalry is attacking on the flank and rear.

By forcing this pass, the Russians gain control of some of the most valuable oil fields in the Austrian Empire, and thus shut off another of the sources of fuel supplies which the Austro-German army are said to be so much in need of. This, however, has only been part of the Russian task. While forcing back the Turks and Austrians, the Russian troops are holding the line of the Masurian Lakes in East Prussia, are fighting strenuously to withstand the German offensive in North Poland, are advancing towards Cracow, and have crossed Bukowina, which is now virtually in their possession. In Europe alone, their wavy line of troops is hardly less than 1,000 miles in almost unbroken length.

In North Poland, where Russia is confronted with the most serious task, the weather is proving a useful ally. The Germans, according to their own accounts, are making only slow progress with their offensive operations, while the Russians, an unofficial despatch received from Berlin by way of Copenhagen says, are advancing toward Cracow and Southern Silesia.

Great interest attaches to the operations of the French in Upper Alsace. The capture of Steinbach was accomplished after almost superhuman efforts, as the Germans had strongly entrenched themselves. Now the French are attempting to force their way through to Cernay, the possession of which would open the door to Muelhausen, which the French occupied for a short time at the beginning of the war.

Certifying Cargoes Good, But Not Absolute Surety

London, Jan. 5, 6.55 p. m.—Although the foreign office regards with high favour the American government's plan of certifying cargoes loaded under the direction of officials of the treasury department and destined for European ports, it was said today that England cannot accept such certification as an absolute guaranty of the nature of the cargo, in case any cause for suspicion arises after a vessel leaves America.

In other words, the right of search cannot be waived, because of the possibility of shifting cargoes at sea, and of the impossibility of having the treasury officer who issues the certificate accompany the ship to her destination to guard against smugglers, who may carry copper or other contraband on small ships to be transferred at sea.

The waiving of the right to search ships bearing contraband cargoes, in the opinion of several prominent British officials, would be an invitation for smugglers to ply their trade, whereas the retention of the right would tend to prevent dishonesty.

This position is precisely the same as that taken by the foreign office concerning the certification of manifests of American cargoes by British consuls at American ports.

LAURIER AND OTHER NOTABLES ATTEND BERTHIAUME'S FUNERAL

Montreal, Jan. 5.—The city of Montreal, the province of Quebec, and the government of Canada were represented at the funeral of the Hon. Treille Berthiaume, proprietor of La Presse, at the Church of St. Viateur, Outremont, this morning.

The federal government was represented by the Hon. Louis Cocher, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier was present in the capacity of an old friend of the deceased. Sir Lomer Gouin and many members of the legislative assembly and the provincial government, while the city was represented by the mayor, the controllers and many of the aldermen.

There were no pall-bearers. Archbishop Bruchési assisted in the services.

NEWS OF THE WEST

Regina, Jan. 6.—A novel scheme aiming to assist in the relief of the Belgians has been started here. The Capital City Flour Mills have agreed to supply flour at the actual cost of production and any one residing in Saskatchewan can donate any number of bags of flour, and it will be forwarded to Belgium at the earliest possible date. It is estimated that the cost of production is $1.40 a bag and this is the charge that is being made.

That Regina is optimistic as to future prospects for development is evident from the fact that the waterworks department is preparing plans for tapping the natural springs of the city, which are situated in the city limits.

Another 800 aliens have registered at the Regina registration office and admission to the city is being made daily. Those who have registered to date are mostly Galicians and Roumanians speaking the Hungarian language. Sixty Germans and three Turks are included in the number. The average "cash in hand" of these aliens amounts to $70.

Joint stock companies with an aggregate capitalization of $45,000 were incorporated in Saskatchewan during the last week in December.

Little Collins' Girl Also Had Stubborn Chronic Cough—Father Tells How She Was Restored to Health by Vinol.

Lakeport, N. H.—"Our little girl, 8 years of age, was in a debilitated, run-down condition, and had a stubborn, chronic cough. While she did not have to stay out of school, on account of her condition, she was weak and ailing all the time and far from well.

"We treated her cough, but nothing seemed to help her until we tried Vinol, after which we noticed an immediate improvement. Her appetite increased and now she is strong and well and we can recommend Vinol to other parents who have delicate, ailing children."

Geo. A. COLLINS, Lakeport, N. H.

What Vinol did for this little girl it will do for other weak and ailing children, because they need the tissue-building, strengthening and liver-cleansing and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. It is delicious to the taste.

That's why Vinol builds them up so quickly, and we ask parents of ailing children in this vicinity to try Vinol with the understanding that we will return their money if it fails to give satisfactory results.

RECOGNITION OF RACE TO BE DEMANDED BY JEWS

Great Movement Now Has Taken Hold in United States—Action When War Ends

New York, Jan. 6.—A concerted worldwide movement for the emancipation of the Jews which at present is gathering great momentum in several of the European nations, was given a basis in this country at a meeting of the Jewish Emancipation Committee in the Broadway Central Hotel. A committee on organization was appointed and the first tangible step in this history-making epoch taken.

It is quite probable that, for the first time in the history of the world the Jews will present to a tribunal of world powers their claims for political equality as representative of a racial unit. Just how this will be brought about has not been decided upon, but it is believed that overtures for recognition will be made through representatives of the United States government at the peace conference after the close of the war.

Meanwhile public sentiment is to be swayed in favor of the movement by an organized publicity campaign and the assistance of the religious leaders of the country will be asked.

Thus far many prominent men in this city have responded to the invitation to participate and have declared themselves wholly in sympathy with the movement and the plan to bring it before the attention of the country at large.

GERMANS ARREST CARDINALS

Amsterdam, via London, Jan. 5, 8.45 p. m.—A despatch received by the Tjld from Rosendaal says that Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium and archbishop of Malines, has been arrested by the German authorities and held a prisoner in his own palace at Malines, under a military guard.

The report, which has not been confirmed, says the cardinal's arrest was the result of a pastoral letter issued by him and read in the churches throughout Belgium Sunday. In this letter the cardinal is said to have referred to the occupation of Belgium, as follows:

"This power has no legal authority, and consequently you owe it in your heart neither allegiance nor obedience. The only legal authority in Belgium is that appertaining to our king, his government and the representatives of the nation."

THINKS PROVINCE SHOULD GET AFTER THESE FARMERS

The Board of Trade is in receipt of a letter from England, suggesting that inducements be thrown out by this province to encourage the colonization of New Brunswick farm lands by a desirable class of European farmers, who want to come to Canada after the war. One syndicate is talking of placing a colony in northern Ontario, the Board of Trade correspondent thought these people could be placed to better advantage in New Brunswick, and that with their knowledge of intensive farming they would be a great acquisition to the province. The matter has been referred by the secretary to the provincial department of agriculture.

IF YOU COULD ONLY BE A STOMACH

You'd go to Bed Rather Sore at the Work You'd Have to Do.

Fancy a master that works a horse so long, without rest, that the poor old beast at last has to go to a home-land. Fancy yourself doing the same thing with your stomach—the noblest of all our physical organs.

Just imagine yourself devoting hours of ceaseless work to the digestion of a meal which you cannot digest because of wrong ingredients given to you by the blood.

Is not a man very foolish to imagine a raw sick stomach capable of good work when the juices it receives are so filled with alkali or acid that they actually eat the stomach membrane?

Do you not know from a common sense point of view that to continue such a course means not only the impairment of your stomach but of all digestive organs as well?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into your stomach just like food. They are so powerful in health giving qualities that almost instantly the work of digestion is improved. They ease up the stomach's work. They go into the blood and balance it perfectly. Thus, when the stomach calls for new juices at your next meal you are able to furnish them.

Your common sense will tell you that so great an aid to digestion as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets could not be in every drug store, unless demanded after trial by all classes of stomach sufferers.

No more are they a doubtful quality. They have passed a rigid examination by all manner of stomach and digestive tests, and they have been awarded the diploma of American patronage. Theirs has been the practical test.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale at all druggists at 50c. a box.

BOY FALLS DOWN HOLD OF KADUNA, IS KILLED

A fatality occurred on the steamer Kaduna, which arrived in port yesterday afternoon. A Scotch lad, named James Duncan, who was employed about the steamer was found dead at the bottom of No. 2 hold on Monday evening. It is supposed that while going down the ladder he lost his footing and fell. He was a general favorite and his tragic death cast a gloom over the ship. He was the only support of his mother and seven young sisters. Captain Purden and the officers headed a subscription list and up to last evening $90 had been realized.

The steamer encountered continuous gales all the way from Cardiff.

He deplored the street car and said that the number of policemen was inadequate for such a city.

THE SAND POINT TROUBLE

The Chinese who were mixed up in the riot in West St. John yesterday afternoon, were escorted to the police court under a strong guard of policemen and were brought before Magistrate Ritchie. Al Fook, who knifed Policeman Clark, was fined $100, which was, however, allowed to stand against him. Captain Daise said that he considered the matter the result of a misunderstanding, as the Chinese had no intention of escaping. The thirteen were then escorted back to the steamer. The one who was shot by Policeman Watson is in the hospital, where he will have to remain for some time. The bullet, which entered the thigh, has been removed. Policeman Watson was commended for coming to his brother policeman's aid.

A LOCAL SUGGESTION

A St. John business man dropped in to the Board of Trade office yesterday with a suggestion that steps should be taken by either the city or provincial authorities to enquire into the business standing and methods of loan and investment companies that come into the city and tempt poor people by promises of a higher rate of interest to part with their hard-earned money, and then on some pretence or another suspend or withhold payment. He mentioned the case of a poor craftsman who had loaned $800 together and turned it over to one of these concerns and had found himself unable to get their money when they wanted it, the excuse being offered that a readjustment of the company was in progress.

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN; IT'S YOU.

If you want to live in the kind of a town you want—

Like the kind of a town you like, you needn't slip your clothes in a grip and start on a long, long hike. You only need what you left behind. For there's nothing that's really new. It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.

It isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid lest somebody else gets ahead. When everyone works and nobody shirks you can raise a town from the dead. And if while you make your personal stake.

Your neighbor can make one, too. Your town will be what you want to see.

It isn't your town—it's you.

FEW MINUTES! NO INDIGESTION, GAS, SOUR STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Digests All Food, Absorbs Gases and Stops Fermentation at Once

Wonder what upset your stomach—what portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, flatulency and gas are just at the fermenting into stubborn lumps; if your head aches and your back aches; if your tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the Digestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal lunch without rebellion, if your food is a damaged instead of a helpful, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's unnecessary.

WAR OF 1812 RECALLED

Banger Commercial—In 1814, just 100 years ago, James Harrington, father of Charles B. Harrington of Bath, Me., being at that time captain of a privateer carried the news of peace between England and the United States into Liverpool, N. S. He took a prize that day and the captain of the captured vessel informed him that peace was declared between the two nations, so Capt. Harrington gave up the prize and rushed for home with the joyous news and had the happiness of notifying his people.

Who'll Pay That Mortgage?

That mortgage—or other indebtedness—may cause you no worry. You know you never get it if all goes well. But there's the rub. What if things go wrong? Supposing you die?—could your wife pay the mortgage without your income?

An Imperial Endowment Policy for the amount of the indebtedness will insure its repayment, whether you live or die. There is no other means of meeting the case that is quite so certain—that leaves nothing to chance.

And the annual investment required is very moderate—moderate at least when you consider the peace of mind it will afford you.

Look at this problem squarely—don't dodge—don't wait. The advantages of life insurance are available only to those in good health. Send to-day for information about a policy that suits your particular need. To-morrow may be too late.

DEPEW, COUGHING AND CHOKING, DREW BACK.

open their eyes and kept 'em busy inventing new Latin names.

"His biggest success was 'The Great Two-horned Rhinoceros Serpent,' which made 'em all sit up for a month, and if I hadn't seen Merritt working over a common box-constrictor with a pair of shark's teeth and a dish of bird lime it would have fooled me. That snake was proud of the horns which Merritt glued on his head, too, and he used to chase the other snakes around the cage and butt 'em like a giddy billy-goat. But in spite of all his ingenuity in originating new varieties, business was dropping off, for the public demanded quantity as well as quality and we had skinned the local snake market clean. We were sitting in the office one day, figuring on how we could get additions to our collection, when a stout, red-faced little man who had 'sea captain' written all over him came in and asked if he wanted any more snakes. Merritt allowed that we did if he had the snakes and asked where we could inspect them.

"Well, I've got one that I brought from Borneo and he's on a ship down in the harbor," says the captain. "We won't argue none about the price. I with cheeks which were so red they drowned the muscle of the orchestra, and a shirt which would make a number sunset hide its head in disappointment. Patent leather shoes with yellow tops and a white plug hat with a black band around it completed his costume, except for a few specimens of yellow diamonds which adorned his shirt front and cuffs.

"Merritt snorted contemptuously at the suggestion and we started for the ship. When we got on board he made a little speech before he went into the hold, telling the sailors about his wonderful hypnotic power and how he would exercise it to charm the serpent which was preventing their worthy captain from reaping the rewards of his arduous toil and his hardihood in having braved the perils of the vast deep. The sailors listened and grinned, but the captain was getting impatient and suggested that Merritt get the snake first and give his spiel afterward, so Merritt went down the ladder with the bag over his shoulder and we all rubbed down the hatchway to watch the captain.

"I knew what he would try to do for I had seen him work it before. The way to get one of those big snakes is to cover his head with a bag, and then he'll crawl in himself to get into the dark, which is a serpent's idea of safety. The more you prod 'em the faster they'll crawl, and that was the time when Merritt always made passes with his hands and muttered gibberish to impress the spectators. He started in according to program as soon as he located the snake, which was half hidden among a lot of coals. The snake carried out his part and struck at the opened bag which Merritt held out to him, but instead of striking his head in he grabbed it with his teeth, and as Merritt held on he drew his back among the barrels and there was a pretty fight. Merritt was quick enough to get a strangle hold around the snake's neck and then it kept him busy keeping out of his coils. The captain hadn't had much about the size of the python—it was about 20 feet long—and Merritt didn't have time to use any inattention, although considerable forcible language floated up through the hatchway. They wiped the deck with each other for about 15 minutes, and Merritt had been bumped against pretty nearly every cask in the hold before he finally succeeded in drawing the snake over the snake's head. Then it was easy, and in spite of his lack of breath the showman in Merritt asserted itself. He put the sack on the floor, and with one foot on the neck or it he prodded the snake's body with the other while he made mysterious passes with his hands until the tip of the tail disappeared. When the sack was securely tied up the python was hoisted on deck, and Merritt, his clothing torn and soiled with pitch and the miscellaneous oily and stinky things which made up the ship's cargo, climbed up after it.

"Did you see me?" he asked proudly, throwing out his chest. "Did you observe the wonderful hypnotic power which overcame the promise of the serpent?"

"Yes, I noticed it, along toward the finish," answered the captain, grinning slyly as he sized up Merritt's dilapidated apparel. "But, say, professor, what I can't understand is why you didn't get it working sooner."

TO-THE TRAGEDY OF THE TIGERS AND THE POWER OF HYPNOTISM.

Chaney Dewey was at the bottom of all the trouble; not the once favorite son of New York, but his namesake, one of the handsomest double-striped royal Bengal tigers ever captured. Dewey was the central figure in the group which Miller, the trainer of tigers, had worked so hard to educate, and it was his rebellion which made the teacher's labors of years come to naught. Late in the season, after months spent in giving the finishing touches to their education while they were with a small part of the show which was exhibited near Cleveland, the tigers were brought to Coney Island, a group of eight magnificent beasts, all jungle bred, and each worthy of a place in any menagerie. Perhaps it was the discomfort of the journey in the small traveling cages, possibly the change in the surroundings and the nearness of the other animals excited them; but whatever the cause, there was trouble in the narrow runways at the back of the dens when they entered it to go to the exhibition cage for their first Coney Island appearance.

The sound of their snarling and growling, the reports of pistol shots and the cracking of training whips ceased a sensation of uneasiness in the audience and the first tiger bounded through the door at the back of the cage, closely followed by a half-dozen others. Dangerous beasts they looked as they threw themselves against the stout bars, which rattled from the impact of their great bodies, and the front seats of the auditorium were quickly vacated by the audience. The noise in the runway continued, but the deep throaty growls which came from behind the dens were of a different quality from the snarling and yapping of the seven beasts in the exhibition cage, and when the last of the tigers appeared in the doorway the first arrivals made renewed efforts to escape through the bars.

It was Dewey, not the good-natured-looking great cat whose "I-have-eaten-the-canary" expression and smug whiskers had suggested his name, but a jungle tiger who had "gone bad," as the animal trainers call it, and who stood for a moment in the doorway, wrathfully surveying his frantic companions and selecting a victim. Fresh was dripping from his snarling lips, his small eyes were blazing like two points of flame, the hair on his neck and back stood up like bristles, and his great tall struck the door-casing resounding whacks, as he lashed it from side to side. Only a moment he stood there, and then the great striped body hurtled through the air as if shot from a catapult, and covering a good 20 feet in the spring it landed fair on Bombay, one of the largest tigers in the group. The aim was a true one and the sound of breaking bone mingled with a scream of pain from his victim, as Bombay sank under the weight of the blow, his cervical vertebrae crushed between Dewey's powerful jaws.

The door had been closed behind Dewey when he made his spring, and the other tigers were chasing madly about the great cage, looking for a chance to escape. There was no desire to fight left in them, but when they collided with each other they snapped and struck with the instinct of self-preservation, their sharp claws and teeth cutting gashes in the sleek striped coats. It was evident that all training had been forgotten, that fear of anything so puny as man had departed from the minds of the tigers, and a groan went up from the audience when the door was opened and quickly closed behind Miller, the trainer, who stood, whip and training rod in hand, in the cage with the maddened animals. He went about his work as quietly as if it were only an ordinary performance, his object being to return his pupils to their dens before further damage was done and to try to make them recognize that they were obeying him.

Dewey was still crouched on the body of his victim, biting at the neck and growling ferociously, his tail lashing from side to side. Miller never took his eyes from him and kept between him and the door as he called the others by name and tried to regain control of them. One tiger after another was released, glad of the opportunity to escape, as the door to the runway was opened at Miller's signal, until only Dewey, the body of Bombay and the trainer occupied the cage.

The other tigers had entered into a general free fight in the runway, but the noise of their bickering was succeeded in the excitement of the contest in the exhibition cage. Dewey rose as Miller cracked his whip and approached him, and made a rush which the trainer met with his pronged training rod, driving it hard between the widely opened jaws while his whip rained blows upon the tiger's face. But he was only checked for a moment, and under his fiercer attack the trainer was forced to give ground. They were so close that the tiger could not spring, but he struck savagely with his great forepaws and tried again and again to pass the guard which Miller maintained with the training rod, using it as a fence used by the trainer met with his pronged training rod, driving it hard between the widely opened jaws while his whip rained blows upon the tiger's face. From a Chaplain at The Front

In the Methodist Recorder, Rev. Owen S. Watkins continues his absorbing letters from the front in northern France. He writes:—
In my last letter, written on the banks of the River Aisne, I indicated that the conditions were beginning to resemble siege fighting, and that in the part of the line which the 6th Division was holding it had become impossible for either side to take the offensive. In the following days this was increasingly so, and gradually it became evident that the Germans had abandoned their attempt to break through the Allies' centre, and were about to make a determined effort to turn our left flank.
In consequence, it became necessary to strengthen the extreme left of the line, which appears to have been composed chiefly of French cavalry, and if possible, by a vigorous turning movement, to forestall the German in their plan of attack. In pursuit of the plan, quietly and unostentatiously, British troops were withdrawn, their places first of all being taken by the reserve and eventually by the French.
On Thursday, October 1st, the force with which I am serving fell back on Nampneuville-Muret, marching during the night, with instructions that at dawn they must hide transport and guns amongst trees, etc., etc., so that the enemy's aeroplane scouts should not see them, whilst for the same reason British troops were ordered to remain in the shelter of their billets throughout the day. Having now cleared the fighting line, our real advance began, and all through the following night we marched almost due west, passing through the forest of Droisy, Hattencourt and Tigny, to the quiet old town and chateau of Longpont, where the 14th Field Ambulance made its bivouac in an avenue of trees in the grounds of the chateau.
The day at Longpont passed very pleasantly; resting after our night's march, viewing the ruins of the grand old Abbey, exploring the old town with its picturesque gables and quaint cottages, and visiting the magnificent chateau, with its fine staircase, its lofty galleries, and beautiful entrance. One almost forgot for a few brief hours that we were on active service, and taking our share in the biggest war the world has ever seen.
Riding by Moonlight.
At sunset we again resumed our march, still due west, at first by narrow roads and tracks through the Forest Domaniale de Hets. It was a glorious night, the moonlight brilliant, and the forest scenery viewed in that light seemed like fairyland. I would be loath for me to linger over these marches, for I have rarely enjoyed anything so much, and I should like to convey to you something of the glamour and beauty of the superb country through which we passed—the steep wooded hills, the lovely valleys, here a river shining silver in the moonlight, there a stately chateau encompassed by its double moat, and constantly the picturesque villages with houses of grey stone and in the midst the church dating from Norman times. It was even thus that as a boy I had pictured the land where King Arthur and his knights lived, and loved and fought.
As our horses clattered down the silent streets I almost felt as if one of those boy's dreams had come true, and I also was riding forth on my knightly quest. This illusion was perhaps intensified by the fact that during these marches I did not ride with the column. In company with the Rev. D. P. Winnifith (Church of England) and Lieutenant Grenfell, I was sent ahead to carry our suitable billets for our men, and for the reception of such sick or wounded as were gathered by the Ambulance during the march. The consequence was we were always a small party, sometimes only our three selves, at other times we would be joined by other mounted officers who were riding forward in the same duty, but always the party was small, we could suit our own convenience—trot, walk, or gallop, to the great advantage of both man and beast—whilst the night silence was not disturbed by the roar of traffic which rises when an army corps is on the march, or the night air poisoned by the dust from motors, horses, guns and men. By contrast with other marches that lived in our memories, these rides through the silent moonlight seemed the most enjoyable we had ever taken in our lives.
A Hospitable Homestead.
Out of the forest, on through the villages of Corcy and Fleury we rode until we were outside the town of Villers-Cotterets where we were stopped by a barricade across the road, and the sharp, sudden challenge of a French sentry. We were received with courtesy, but told we could go no further without first interviewing the French General, who was quartered with his staff in a chateau near by. He was interviewed and then, armed with the countersign for the night, we continued on our way, through the town crowded with French soldiery, past the barricade on the further side, and again were on the moonlit country roads, passing through serene villages, until at the end of a twenty miles ride we reached Fresnoy-le-Rivier, where we found a staff officer waiting to allot billets to the various units.
Ours was in a hamlet a mile or so further on, called Rocquigny, a grand old farmhouse hundreds of years old, the farmer told us, and as we looked at its massive stone walls and beautiful oak panelling we did not doubt his word. In our best French we explained our errand and apologised for rousing him in the middle of the night. But with a beautiful courtesy he expressed his pleasure at our coming, placed his all at our disposal, and was not abashed even when we broke as gently as we might the alarming fact that we intended to crowd into his farmyard and buildings 250 men, 70 horses, twenty wagons and perhaps fifty or sixty sick men.
Madame seemed positively to rejoice at the prospect of having a dozen officers as her guests, and wanted to prepare beds for them all. When we explained that beds were not required, all we needed was a couple of extra rooms and some straw, and on this, with our own blankets, we should do well, she sat down and wept. Her disappointment was allayed when she saw we were all so well, and was only comforted by the suggestion that as we had ridden far, we should be glad to have something to eat and drink, and soon had in front of us a basin of fragrant coffee, and fresh bread and butter, such as we had not seen since we said good-bye to our own homes.
It was nearly dawn when the ambulance arrived—twenty miles over ally-ers were conveyed by fleets of motor-trucks, the mounted troops, guns and transport, reaching almost without a halt until Dieval was reached. There we found Major Fawcett and our bearers waiting for us, and were told that at dawn we should in all probability be engaged in battle.

This withdrawing of troops from our centre, conveying them across France, intersecting constantly our Allies' lines of communication, will, doubtless, when the story comes to be fully told, be regarded as one of the most brilliant achievements of the campaign. Probably never in the history of war has so large a body of troops been moved so swiftly and secretly, and there is much evidence to show that, in spite of the Germans' very efficient intelligence department, it took them completely by surprise, and entirely upset their plans.
Sunday Preparation for Battle.
The day following our arrival at Dieval was Sunday, but we held no services. From dawn until dusk we marched through country the direct opposite of that which we had just left, quiet, uninteresting—part dirty colliery villages and unkempt manufacturing towns, such places as Colonne-Ricourt, Maréville-Mines, and finally halted at Choques. Here we had an unusually comfortable billet in a beautiful chateau, and would have been content to stay there many days. But it was not to be; the enemy, we were informed, had been travelling all day, and had refused to give up, was probably falling back on the line of the canal, Bethune—Locon—Estaires—Bassac and tomorrow a great battle would begin, in which we must play our part.
It was a most impressive sight as regiment after regiment of the very division of the French cavalry swept by, their steel cuirasses shining in the sunlight, and the gleaming red and blue and gold of the uniforms—our khaki, if more serviceable, looked very drab and dull by the side of it, and we realized how indeed, how disreputable. As we proceeded, the sound of battle became louder—the heavy pounding of artillery, the deep under-growth of incessant rifle-fire, and the ominous sound of the machine guns. In our division, we learned the 12th and 16th brigades were heavily engaged, and the 14th was just coming into action.
Leaving the ambulance at Les Facons, I accompanied Colonel Crawford, who was riding on ahead, to select a suitable place in which to establish a dressing station. Artillery passed us at the gallop, an ammunition column hurried by its way towards the guns, and ahead the noise of battle had become simply terrific. Then we had to pull our horses into the side of the road to avoid a fast company of Royal Engineers, who were returning to billet, their day's work being done. As they galloped down the road, the engineer's guns paid them attention—they lashed their horses to a gallop, which almost amounted to a stampede, and mixed up with horses and wagons were screaming women, children, and old men—the villagers shelled from their homes.
It made one's heart stand still—I felt as if I were dead for every moment I expected to see them trampled under the horses' feet. Colonel Crawford now decided that for the present this was no place for a dressing station, so we turned our horses towards Bethune, and about a mile further down the road, at a village called Hamel, we found a very suitable billet, and at once opened a dressing station. Slowly the wounded, I included, in their losses, were chiefly in the 18th and 16th brigades, and their own ambulances were caring for them—and by dawn we had not received more than thirty cases.
But, though its loss was comparatively slight, this 14th brigade had done good work, and was spending the night in the enemy's trenches, which had been won at the point of the bayonet. The appearance of the British on the scene was apparently quite unexpected by the Germans, so much so, that two regiments of the 14th brigade (Manchester and East Surrey) actually met a German regiment marching along the road in solid column, caught them at from three to four hundred yards, and literally wiped out the whole regiment.
The Value of Motor Ambulances.
It was at this point that the 14th Field Ambulance began to reap the benefit of the motor ambulances, of which we had a full complement of new papers, but of which we had seen nothing in our part of the line. From this time forward, whenever we were well served, and have been entirely relieved of the task of "evacuating" our sick and wounded, which is ever one of the most difficult problems for a field ambulance, now daily a fleet of motor ambulances, and almost as soon as the patients are dressed, they are whisked off to rail-head and are on their way to the base. The service that is thus rendered by the motor ambulances has been so effective, or which has done more to lessen the inevitable suffering of the wounded.
Of the subsequent terrible fighting I must write in my next letter. For the present both time and space are exhausted. Of my work as a chaplain I have nothing to report—work under such conditions does not take much describing, and what I have written in previous letters will hold good. We do what we can, we frequently grieve that it is so little that we can do, and we thank God in that He has snared us in permitting us to do even that little.
Greetings and Acknowledgments.
Will you please thank on my behalf and on behalf of the men amongst whom I work, the many friends who have sent me parcels of comforts for the troops. I should like to write to each individual, but it is not possible. Not only have I received the splendidly selected parcels forwarded by the Rev. J. H. Bateson, but from all parts of the country friends have sent things, all of which are useful, all of which were badly needed, and all of which were put to immediate use. When I say that I often have a struggle to get through the newspapers and parcels, you will realize the impossibility of my writing to acknowledge each separate gift.
In the next place I have received innumerable letters in which the writers assure me that I am in their thoughts and prayers—sometimes I think I must be the most prayed for man in the world, and I am excessively touched and humbled at the thought; may God make me worthy I would not be without these letters for anything; they are precious beyond words, I am living under such conditions that it is very difficult to find time to write even to my nearest and dearest, and the most I can do is to send a "series" postcard, and that is not always possible, for they are not always obtainable.

Then there are the many who write sending me information about sons, husbands, and brothers serving at the front, but which are useless otherwise; I am do as the Nonconformist men to care for all the Nonconformist men that division; even that is not always possible owing to the disposition of the troops; but to do anything for the Methodist men in the other divisions is not physically possible. I have every hope that before long we shall have a Methodist chaplain with every division at the front, instead of with only one. Mr. Bateson is, I know, working to that thanks to the church that has remembered her children in their need.

Natural History Society.
An interesting paper was read by T. H. Estabrooks at the monthly meeting of the Natural History Society last evening. W. F. Burditt was in the chair. The following new members were elected: Mrs. Harold Lawrence, Miss Dorothy Godson, Miss Bertha Estabrooks, and Miss Hazel Megarity. The subject dealt with by the lecturer was: "The Influence of Domestic Animals on Growth of Civilization." A discussion took place at the conclusion of the course. It was decided to continue with the publication of the society's bulletin this year.

Big Money Made.
The profits of the National Exhibition Company, the corporation which controls the New York National League club and the Polo Grounds, are stated in the report of the appraiser of the estate of John T. Brush, chief stockholder. During the three seasons just preceding Mr. Brush's death—1912, 1913 and 1914—the total net profits of the company are given as $416,791.

The appraiser put Mr. Brush's total estate at $470,102, and the net value at $416,625. The share of Mrs. Elsie Brush, the widow, is appraised at $194,815 and the same value is set on the shares of two daughters, Eleanor Brush Hempstead and Natalie Lombard Brush.

Mr. Brush owned 1,808 shares, valued by the executors at $180,600, but by Transfer Tax Appraiser Martin at $348,702. The report shows that the Polo Grounds are held under a lease which runs for twenty-one years from that date, at an annual rental of $29,000. The cost of the new grandstand is placed at $286,107. The corporation also owns New York city bonds valued at $149,625 as an investment.

The annual profits of the company for three years are given as follows: 1912, season $29,000; 1913, season $15,961, net profits $85,030, dividends declared $47,520; 1914, season $76,818, world's series, $73,977, net profits $122,025, no dividends paid; 1915, season $84,805, world's series $94,932, net profits $179,737, no dividends declared.

Pittsburg Feds Rated Highly.
Reports from Pittsburg are that Ibel Oakes, manager of the Pittsburg Federals, has signed a team which should make a strong bid for the outlaw leadership. The outfield will include Oakes, Mike Menokey and Davy Jones, with Frank Delahanty and Ralph Mattia at utility men.

In the infield will be Ed Konechey, Steve Yerkes, Marty Berghammer, and Jimmy Austin, with Lennox as extra man.

Pitchers include Perritt, Frank Allen, Benny Hearn, Howard Cannizz, Cy Barger, Walter Dickson and Elmer Knetzer; behind the plate, Claude Berry, Pat O'Connor, and a man still unnamed. John Lewis and Edna Hearn are other utility men, both highly touted.

Corcoran Signed With Braves.
President Gaffney has received the signed contract of Pitcher Eugene Corcoran, who has just returned to his home in Texas, after a successful deer hunt.

Evers Going South.
John J. Evers, captain of the world's champion Braves, who is resting after his recent attack of pneumonia, at his home in Troy, will start for Macon, Ga., on Feb. 1, and remain there until March 4 or 5, when he will join the squad at spring training quarters in Macon, Ga. While at Camden, Evers says he will play golf daily to get in shape for the baseball season. He says he has entirely recovered from his recent attack.

$650,000 Revenue From Boxing.
New York, Jan. 5.—A statement on the year's work of the state athletic commission, which controls and directs the sport of boxing in this state shows that fifty-one new clubs were licensed during the last year, making a total of 132 licenses issued since the committee started operations. Of this number many have given up business, and others have been closed or had their licenses cancelled. At present there are about fifty-eight clubs operating in this state.

In the last year the total receipts of the clubs have been approximately $650,000, of which the state received a five per cent revenue, amounting to about $82,000.

Wants Bout in Bangor.
Bangor Commercial—Morton McNatt of Truro, N. S., arrived in Bangor on Friday and says that he is looking for a bout with Kid Fleming, whom he says, he desires to meet in one or two six rounds bouts. McNatt weighs 168 pounds and as Fleming weighs 145 it would seem that the Truro man will have to train down considerably before such a match is made.

WRESTLING
No Match Tonight.
Proles and Ludecke will not wrestle in McDonald's gymnasium tonight. A different date has been arranged. McDonald is planning to hold a carnival of wrestling and sparring exhibitions among his pupils. His intentions are to contribute a large portion of the receipts taken at this event towards the Belgium fund. He is arranging seating accommodations for 400 people.

THE AUTO
New Auto Records.
Bakersfield, Cal., January 5.—"Bob" Burman, in a sanctioned race with Barney Oldfield here, broke the official records of the American Automobile Association for the five mile, twenty-five mile and fifty mile distances on a one mile circular dirt track. He cut the five mile from 4.06 1/2 to 4.02. His fifty miles were done in 40.58, as against 42.21 by Diabrow at San Jose, and his twenty-five miles in 20.28 1/2, against the previous best time of 22.29.

Dinner in Victoria Marked by Good Cheer, Excellent Musical Numbers and Speeches

To the number of about twenty-five officers and non-commissioned officers of the No. 7 and No. 8 Army Service Corps last night enjoyed a particularly successful banquet in the dining hall of the Victoria Hotel. It was in the nature of a farewell festive gathering prior to the departure of the volunteers overseas. All present were thoroughly pleased with the tempting menu, excellent programme, and the fine spirit of fraternity tempered, of course, by military discipline, prevailing among all present. The menu cards were attractively arranged and made interesting souvenirs.

R. I. Carliss, sergeant major, president, and made a capable toastmaster. Seated on either side were Major F. T. McKean, Capt. Wickwire, Captain Ementinger, Lieut. Hill, Lieut. D. B. Pidgeon, Lieut. A. G. Raimie, and Lieut. Major Gunter. Regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Lieut. Col. A. E. Massey, O. C. of the divisional train. A toast in his honor was well received.

Following the dinner course, which formed a pleasing repast, there was a merry round of toasts, speeches, and musical numbers, all of which afforded enjoyment. "The King" was honored in music, after which Sergeant Beach gave a solo, and for an encore sang "Rule Britannia," in the chorus of which the assembly joined right heartily. Lieut. Major Patterson proposed the toast to the officer commanding No. 8 Co., which brought forth a graceful speech from Major McKean, who spoke of the pleasure he derived in being present, complimented officers and non-coms. upon their progress thus far, and said that with their continued support and the aid of the other members the unit could attain a record of very high efficiency.

Major McKean was warmly applauded. A reading was given by Q. M. S. Harding, and the health of the "Other Officers Present" was proposed by Sergt. Patterson, bringing out bright snappy speeches from Captain Ementinger, and Lieutenants Gunter, Raimie, Pidgeon, and Hill. Lieutenant Raimie also entertained with a witty monologue which evoked much laughter. Lieut. Pidgeon sang "England, Merrie England" in a capable manner, after which the toast to the press was proposed by Sergt. Duplisse and responded to by representatives present. Major McKean sang "The Boys of the Old Brigade," and Sergt. J. C. Bond proposed the toast to "The Ladies." Several members present were anxious to champion the interests of the fair sex, but the honor was accorded Corporal Merkie and Sergeant Beach, both of whom were warmly received in replies.

D. Arnold Fox acted as accompanist throughout the evening. The banquet was a source of pleasure to all in attendance and pleasant memories concerning it will be carried across the sea by the officers and non-coms. of No. 8 Co., who are without doubt as fine a body of men as could be gotten together in one unit.

Cable to Earl of Ashburnham From Brother-in-law, Lord Knutsford, Sets at Rest Rumors Afloat

The Telegraph and The Times have received from the Earl of Ashburnham, Frederickton, the following letter, setting at rest several reports to the Canadian troops at Salisbury Plain have been lacking necessary drugs, medicines and attendance:

Sir:—In contradiction of rumors which I hear are rife in this province that the Canadian troops on Salisbury Plain are suffering from an epidemic of meningitis and that they are without the necessary drugs, medicines and attendance, may I ask you to publish the enclosed cable letter from my brother-in-law, to whom I cabled for information. He is president of the London Hospital, also a Knight of the Order of Saint John of Jerusalem and therefore able to speak with authority on this matter. Lord Knutsford has also visited and inspected the hospitals and camps for the wounded, in France, and found every thing quite satisfactory—his word can be taken as absolutely true.

Yours faithfully,
ASHBURNHAM.
Frederickton, Jan. 5, 1915.

The cable letter from Lord Knutsford, to which the Earl of Ashburnham refers, is as follows:

London, Jan. 5, 1915

"Ashburnham, Frederickton, N. B. No truth whatever in statement that there any shortage of drugs or medicines at Salisbury for use of Canadians. Have satisfied myself about this, and have been there. Cerebral meningitis started among the Canadians at Valenciennes. There were eleven cases before embarkation, two more during voyage, and twenty since. I have given orders. Canadians have their own hospital and doctors, and the best Canadian and English scientific bacteriologists are engaged in fighting the disease, about which little is known."

Expresses Views Before Triangle Club in Fairville—W. E. Earle Shows Brotherhood Interesting Collection of Canses and Gives Address About Them

The Triangle Club met at the house of J. W. Stevens, Prospect street, Fairville, last evening. H. P. Allingham, president, in the chair, Dr. J. H. Allingham took up the subject of alcoholism and its relation to community life, and dealt with it in a very forceful and practical manner. He first impressed upon the members the fact that prohibition did not altogether prohibit. One who had acquired the taste to a depraved extent would liquor under any circumstances and the greatest energy of temperance workers should be devoted to educating the young people so that an acute interest in the healthier recreations. He believed the temperance cause suffered a good deal from the tobacco habit as well as with alcoholics. Many men who used tobacco shield clear of the temperance people because of this. The doctor said that as a grown man from the use of tobacco while somewhat detrimental, were not for a moment to be classed with those of liquor.

In speaking of propaganda with the down and out drunkard the doctor spoke strongly in favor of more sympathy and less condemnation. The unfortunate should be regarded more in the light of a patient suffering with disease, than a moral degenerate.

At the conclusion of the address several members spoke and vocal and instrumental selections were given by Mr. Thorne. A vote of thanks to Dr. Allingham and Mr. Thorne was proposed by Rev. P. R. Hayward, seconded by George Fowler, and carried unanimously. Refreshments were served and the club dispersed after enjoying a thoroughly good time.

A committee, appointed at a previous meeting to inquire into the scope of the St. John Town Planning Commission, as to whether they have jurisdiction in Lancaster, are continuing their labors, and a report will likely be presented at the next meeting.

Last evening in the Baptist parsonage the Ladies' Missionary Society met in monthly session with Mrs. Crowley in the chair. The usual course of study was taken up after devotional and business exercises. Mrs. Wm. Brown delighted the gathering with a vocal solo.

The Fairview Brotherhood were entertained last evening at the residence of W. E. Earle, Lancaster Heights, the men walking from the Methodist church in a body. S. H. Shaw, president, occupied the chair, and after the usual opening exercises, Mr. Earle addressed the gathering on "Walking Sticks," illustrating his remarks with a splendid collection gathered in many parts of the world.

Mr. Earle referred to the important part canes or walking sticks had taken in the history of the human race, and demonstrated from his collection the various uses tribes and nations had made of them. A very fine specimen was made from the lower jaw of a whale, another fashioned in ebony set with ivory, a Swiss cane from Lucerne with the handle of chamois horn was also exhibited, another of leopard wood, beautiful in finish and very rare, besides a curious whip constructed entirely of lace wood with a delicate fringe at the butt, the ordinary plain handle and then the lash, woven from the same branch. Assegais, bolas, leather shields and canes with carved heads worshipped by African tribes, were among the most interesting types collected by Mr. Earle in his travels, besides curios picked up in South America, Palestine and the West Indies. The latest addition to his collection, a splendid candy cane, also came in for its share of interest.

At the close of the lecture Rev. Gilbert Earle moved a vote of thanks, also proposing Mr. Earle as an honorary member of the brotherhood. This was seconded by J. Stout and carried. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening brought to a close.

Great Weather! Well, rather!

If a guessing contest were started to determine who'd be the next chief how many names do you suppose there'd be?

No, thanks, we're not looking for it—it's hard enough to be blamed for what goes into this column without seeking further criticism.

Can't Be Done.

News not says "Germans have taken Steinbach from the Germans." A notable achievement. Anyone who takes a stink back from a German—except an empty one—does well.

Ostrich fried or roasted is becoming a popular New York dish. This may be a case where the cook gets the "tips" instead of the waiter.

A few more intercession days may help—at any rate they can't do any harm.

Beginning April 1st, the G. T. P. will reduce salaries of its employees. Since they know so long beforehand they are not likely to suspect one of those fool jokes.

More "Sidelights" on the P. P. Plan

The fellow who uses the special car after midnight and pays a dime for his ticket, says he'd sooner have it on the installment plan.

No, Clementine, the conductor's feet aren't so large as you imagine—it's just that standing in the vestibule all day causes him to wear six pairs of socks, a pair of boots, and a couple of pairs of overcoats, and even at that in those new cars his little toes may be cold.

Perhaps stations in drug stores or other places for the sale of tickets would help some.

As a matter of fact the conductor really has as much work to do as he is used to have, if not more.

One way for the conductor to get back at the fellow who gives him a ten dollar note to take out a nickel, is to give him his change in small silver.

Still, more, however, does he deserve to get it back in coppers.

A good New Year's resolution for the constant travelers on the cars would be to have their nickel ready and not delay the game.

A woman in the North End is said to be so absent-minded that every time her car itches she scratches her husband's face.

There may now be a revival of the old saying—"Tell your troubles to a policeman."

CITY WATER WORK

The department of Water and Sewerage reports good progress in the work of laying water and sewer pipes in the Armstrong & Bruce property, formerly known as the Corkery Marsh, and also in the extension of the water supply along Clifton avenue, Beaconsfield.

Commissioner Wigmore said the work was being carried on at a less cost than would be possible in summer, owing to the fact that while the frozen earth was slightly more difficult to remove, its condition did away with the necessity from shoring. In the case of the Clifton avenue trench, the cut would have required sheathing in summer, on account of the large quantity of the water that flowed in as the earth was dug; in winter, the frost solves this problem.

Three hundred feet of water and sewer pipe has already been set in the trench at the Armstrong & Bruce property, and an additional 300 feet will be laid this afternoon.

The department has a steam drill in operation in the rock cut in Prospect street, and good results are being attained.

The extension of the water main to the new Tuberculosis Hospital has been carried to the power house from the main road. Part of this work is tide work.
