It was said that the Valley Road was for the benefit of the up-river Parishes and to accommodate them only, but this was a project for the benefit of the down-river people. It would give them accommoda- dation at a deep water terminus below Middle Island and save them the inconvenience of having their fish hauled to Chatham Station. If they had to ship by the Valley Railway it would involve the hauling to Chathawn station and trans- shipment across the St. John River at Fredericton, while the road proposed by Mr. Hutchison would enable fish to be placed on the cars at deep water and car- ried through on a line entirely owned by the Government and across the St. John by the railway bridge without the shifting, which was so detrimental to the fisf. It was said that the Valley Road was for the benefit of the up-river Parishes and to accommodate them only, but this was a project for the benefit of the down-river people. It would give them accommoda- dation at a deep water terminus below Middle Island and save them the inconvenience of having their fish hauled to Chatham Station. If they had to ship by the Valley Railway it would involve the hauling to Chathaw station and trans- shipment across the St. John River at Fredericton, while the road proposed by W. It was said that the Valley Road was for the benefit of the up-river Parishes and to accommodate them only, but this was a project for the benefit of the dowa-river people. It would give them accommoda- dation at a deep water terminus below Middle Island and save them the inconvenience of having their fish hauled to Chatham Station. If they had to ship by the Valley Railway it would involve the hauling to Chathaw station and trans- shipment across the St. John River at Fredericton, while the road proposed by W. Hutchison would enable fish to be placed on the cars at deep water and car- ried through on a line entirely owned by the Government and across the St. John by the railway bridge without the shifting, which was so detrimental to the fisf.
