BRITISH CONSUL MOBBED

Spanish Fleet Sighted.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

KINGSTON Jamaica May 4.—Trouble of a most serious nature is said to have occurred to British interests at Santiago De-Juba. Three British war ships will be here shortly. The British Consul at Santiago De-Cuba is said to have been attacked by a mob, to have killed a Spaniard, and to have been imprisoned.

LONDON May 4 (noon)—The Hong-Kong cables are still interrupted.

NEW YORK May 4.—A special to the World from Lisbon says it is reported here that the Spanish Cape Verde Squadron has been sighted steaming slowly and shaping its course for the Canaries, but the report remains unconfirmed.

LATEST!

LISBON May 4.—News has been received to the effect that the Spanish Cape Verde Squadron has returned to join the Spanish fleet near Cadiz which is nearly ready for sea. It is added that the combined fleet of Spain will shortly start for American waters.

KEY WEST May 4.—10. 40 a. m. This harbour is again empty Rear Admiral Sampsons fleet has sailed and the situation is one of renewed expectancy there is a strong impression prevailing that the next war news from the fleet will tell of an important engagement of the same character as the Asiatic Squadron Manilla victory, until then no interesting developments are expected except possibly the bringing in of few prizes.

ATLANTIC, Ga., May 3.—A special from Key West to the Journal says: "The Marblehead has arrived with the Argonauta, the Nashville's prize. While the Nashville was away trying to capture a mail steamer two Spanish gun boats came out and attacked the Hornet. The Hornet returned the fire, the Marblehead coming into the action soon after. After firing a broadside the Spaniards turned about. Captain McCalla thinks he sunk one of the Spaniards and probably both. The firing occurred off Cienfuegos."

St. John's Nfld., May 2.—The telegraph operators at Trepassey and Cape Race very explicitly confirm early reports of heavy firing in the bay south of Trepassey Saturday night. The firing lasted ten to fifteen minutes. The shots were apparently too heavy for explosive rockets. The people flocked to the shore. The night was not foggy. About 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a large steamer was seen in offing; it was believed from her unusual appearance to be a warship.

LONDON, May 3.—According to a dispatch from Cadiz to the 'Daily Chronicle,' it is believed there that orders have been given for a fleet of five vessels to start for Cuba on May 15.

LONDON, May 3.—Special dispatches from Rome say the Queen Regent has telegraphed the Pope that Spain is resolved to resist to the bitter end.

Quick Work.

The Youth's Companion, of Boston, ever wise and thoughtful says: There is no more michievous idea than that often put forward, even by men of intelligence, that an occasional war is a good thing for a nation, or for this nation, to rouse its patriotic spirit, develop its heroic virtues, and clarify its moral atmosphere. Exactly the reverse is true. War is not an exaltation. It is a debauch. It not only impairs the material welfare of a nation, but it degrades its moral tone as well. Most of the industrial and social evils from which this nation suffers to-day are a legacy from its last war. Another was for whatever purpose would add to them, and inflict injuries upon the national character that a whole generation could not repair.

New York, April 29—During a procession through the streets no enthusiasm was displayed until the Royal Irish Lancers appeared, with English colors. The crowd was frantic and applause rang along the route. The Lancers were obliged to dip the colors again and again. There is tremendous enthusiasm for things British just now, and every occasion of showing is eagerly seized upon.

At Manila a terrible massacre has taken place. About 300 insurgents were holding a meeting discussing the war situation when they were surrounded by 400 Spanish troops. All not then and there slaughtered were taken prisoners and shortly after were barbarously put to death.

Lord Wolsey believes the United States will have no difficulty in defeating Spain.

The Steamship "Lake Ontario" of the Beaver Line that has been running to St. John, may possibly be sold to the United States.

Plans are being made for the bombarding of Havana and Matanzas tomorrow

ROME, May 3.—The pope is prostrated by the news from Manila. He expressed horror at the terrible loss of life. He said he wished he had died before seeing such a war.

BERLIN, May 3.—It is believed in political circles here that America has gained the prize she really had in view, having promised not to annex Cuba, but giving no promise as to the Philippines.

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years. used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result.

Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her throat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements.

Shocking Death.

Charles D. Hill of the firm of Hill Pike & Company of Calais, Me. met death in a tragic manner at his home on Sunday. Members of his household heard a report of a revolver in the bath room, and hastening to the room found his lifeless body and a smoking revolver beside it.

An examination revealed a wound in the forehead showing that a ball had penetrated the brain. A screw driver found on the floor gives the theory that the deceased while fixing the revolver had accidentally shot himself. Mr. Hill was about forty-five years of age and married. His wife survives him.

RICHARDSON, PORTER & CO.

In the Far East.

There has been some idle talk in England about a war with Russia over China. It is senseless because there is no adequate cause for fighting.

Many years ago England had a war with China, and obtained Hongkong, which has been converted into a centre of trade and a naval station. Russia has merely done what England had previously done. There can be no cause for war.

England, moreover, has asked that these ports shall remain open to shipping under all flags on equal terms. Russia has agreed that the ports of Manchuria shall be free, or at least open to the world's commerce. When the Siberian Railway is completed foreign commerce will not be driven away, but attracted. Business interests will prevail.

If England were to insist upon fighting for the sake of maintaining her prestige in the Far East, it would be an unequal battle on both sea and land. The Russian fleet might be destroyed in the Pacific, but Manchuria could not be occupied and conquered without a land campaign, in which the English would be at a serious disadvantage.

Russia, moreover, would have other means of harassing the English. The northwestern frontier of India is exposed at many points, and there are railways by which Russian armies might be readily massed within striking distance of Herat or Chitral. England has nothing to gain and much to lose from a war with Russia. She would have no European ally for a conflict equally dangerous and unprofitable.

Equally unlikely is a war between England and either Germany or France over the possession of naval stations and ports on the Chinese sea-board. So long as Hongkong is retained by England, she cannot reasonably object to the occupation of other ports for similar purposes by rival powers; nor will there be just cause of war so long as those new ports remain open to all foreign flags.

But as an offset to the acquisition of Port Arthur by Russia, England demanded and has secured Wei-hai-wei which will enable her to check Russia should occasion arise. The British government was thus compelled to adopt a policy which it has been strenuously resisting, although it first set the example.

The Chinese government is so weak and helpless that England cannot attempt to protect it single-handed against foreign aggression. China is not in a position to accept such a protectorate. It is clear that Russia, France and Germany will not allow her to become dependent upon England.

Whatever happens, American interests are not likely to suffer. The policy of open ports for the shipping of all nations is now advocated by all these rival powers.

Privateers.

A Privateer is a ship, owned and manned by private persons, commissioned by a government to wage war. The inducement to individuals to undertake the expense of privateering is to make money, since the ships they may capture, with the cargoes, become for the most part their property.

The special function of privateers is to prey upon merchants ships. They have been defended upon the ground that seizure of an enemy's private property of whatever character is legitimate warfare, since to impair his wealth must weaken his fighting power. Thomas Jefferson, during the war 1812-14, wrote, "Let nothing be spared to encourage them;" and American privateers in that war certainly did enormous damage to British commerce.

Yet to-day the best opinion is against their use. Authorities like Captain Mahan have shown that privateers do not effect the issue of wars, which are decided by navies on the sea, or by armies on the land. Atrocious as war may be, the nineteenth century has witnessed a strong and concerted effort to reduce its horrors and losses to the lowest terms.

The interests of commerce are so universal that naturally the great maritime powers have tried to save private property from unnecessary ravages. In 1856, the famous Declaration of Paris was signed by Great Britain, France, Prussia, Austria, Russian, Turkey and Sardinia;—"Privateering is and remains abolished."

Most of the other nations became signers of the declaration, but not Spain or the United States. Our government, not wishing to refuse to sign when asked to do so in 1856, agreed to join in the declaration if it were made more sweeping. The other powers declined to adopt what was known as the Marcy amendment—as they were expected to do.

In 1861, when the Confederate government proposed to "issue letters of marque," that is, to commission privateers, Secretary Seward offered to sign the Declaration of Paris; but England and France objected. Since then the matter has not been discussed.

The Cuban trouble have drawn special attention to the fact that Spain has not signed the Declaration of Paris. In case of war with the United States, Spain's privateers could inflict but slight damage because our foreign trade moves largely in foreign ships. In war, even more than in peace, our goods would be carried under neutral flag protects from seizure the goods of a belligerent, not contraband of war, that a weak maritime power like Spain would hardly dare to violate it.—
