NOTHING REAL BUT LOVE. Whose conquers the earth,
Winning its riches and fame,
Comes to the evening at last,
The sunset of the threescore years,
Confessing that Love was real,
All the rest was a dream!

All the rest was a dream!
The sum of his gains, is dross;
The song in his praise is mute.
The wreath of his laurels fades;
But the kiss of his early love
Still burns on his trembling lip.
The spirit of one he loved. The spirit of one he loved.
Hallows his dreams at night.
A little while, and the scenes
Of the play of Life are closed;
Come, let us rest an hour.
And by the pleasant streams,
Under the fresh, green trees.
Let us walk hand in hand,
And think of the days that were.

The Liberal dodge, we predicted the other day has been resorted to. The organs of the Grit Government are full of articles, paregraphs and telegrams urging the Liberals of the Maritime Provinces to adhere to the Government, and declaring that the old party lines hrve been drawn.

The News announces that the rumor that Mr. Willis is feeling the county with the view of opposing the Minister of Customs is without foundation.

It has been a matter of complaint that the salaries paid to Canadian officials in the Maritime Provinces, and particularly in this city, have been much lower than the salaries paid to officials in Canadian officials in the Maritime Provinces, and longer than the organs of Mr. Mackanzie's Government. Before the resignation of Sir John Macdonald and hiscolleagues they put in effect a long-promise dreform in this matter, raising the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries will all be represented, and we have chartered the steamer that the provinces are a long-promise dreform in this matter, raising the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John to something like the salaries of officials in St. John t

Dear Sir: I and the rest of us would like to know from you if John Doyle will live or not, and to hear if he will be let go at large. If so, let me know right away. He was very ugly with his wife when they were here, about three weeks ago. I did not think he would kill her. I think he has killed somebody before, and she knew it. I think it worked on his mind so that he could not stand it any longer, so he thought he'd take her down there where we would not know it. He may feign to be a little out of his head, but he was not; and if he gets clear he may come back and kill one or two more of our family. Do not let him at large, for he had no reason to kill her. Please write and let me know how matters are, so that I may know what to do. Her affectionate brother,

The Extra of the Gazette will be issued to night, containing some of the appointments suppressed from Saturday's Gazette. Among them are the Lieut. Governors and two Judges.

It is well understood that the Government have had to back down in their pretensions presented to His Excellency against the confirmation of them.

The Extra also contains the appointment of the Collector of Kingston, which it is well understood Cartwright dare not refuse to confirm in view of his coming election. It does not contain a majority of the appointments made in Prince Edward Island, though even Laird could not go as far as to suppress all of them, fearing the consequences upon himself at his coming contest. Laird leaves to-morrow for the Island, and it is understood writs have been forwarded to-day.

There are several other appointments confirmed, which will be made public to-morrow. nev 1 GEO, STEWART, Ju.

HALL & FAIRWEATHER. 2 Market Squ man, and that his election cost him $1900.

Ross, Minister of Militia, is very uneasy about his prospects for Victoria. It is generally understood he cannot be returned, and in order to keep another gentleman from Cape Breton quiet, it is very freely stated in Ministerial circles that he will retire before Nomination Day and accept the Inspectorship of Customs for Nova Scotia, and that Samuel Macdonnell has been promised the seat. The latter, though somewhat modified by the promise, has not much faith in them, and freely states that unless the pledge is carried out he will be in opposition on the meeting of Parliament.

The confirmation of the Lieut.-Governors' appointments is due to the fears that Burpee had of the effect of such an outrage upon Mr. Tilley's friends, who are [have been] his principal supporters.

Crawford's appointment would have been cancelled but for the fear of offending the Archbishop of Toronto, who is anxious that it should be confirmed.

The vessel burned to the water's edge and all night befiled every effort of a strong tug to get hold of her hull. She was finally towed to Ottawa harbor. The survivors, ufter a painful experie over four hours, succeeded in reaching port about 12 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown. The only theory is that it must have commenced from the engine room and been overlooked until it had pread too far to be checked. The steaner had a valuable cargo, and was i red for a considerable amount.

Horrible Hanging — Siekening Scaffold Scene — The Crowd

port, Pa., on Thursday, furnishes a story replete with the deepest interest. The culprit, a powerfully built, unscrupulous, artless man, who has lived under fift ifferent aliases, was brought to the scafseventy thousand dollars, part of a noard accumulated by the old people after years of labor and economy, but whose distrust of mankind induced them to personally guard their wealth. He entered their log cabin, despatched with a huge club the taithful dogs, brained the woman and hacked the old man almost to pieces. Securing the coin, for the old people evidently believed in the infallibility of the "thard stuff." he hastened to bury it, re-IN all its various branches executed by W.

securing the coin, for the old people evidently believed in the infallibility of the "hard stuff," he hastened to bury it, refusing to reveal its hiding place to the officers of justice. At the bar he sucered at the evidence, laughed at the solemnity of the Judge, and betrayed the worst symptoms of human deprayity when condemned to death, remarking that he was troubled only at the uncertainty of whether his victims were in heaven or the darker regions. He made a speech on the scaffold.

After he got through the condemned man was ordered to arise and place himself upon the fatal trap. His legs were tied with ropes, the noose was tightened around his neck, the black cap drawn over his face, but still he stood as if a statue cut from stone. No muscle moved, no tremor was visible. Another solemn prayer was offered and the man who held the lever below which let down the trap was signalled to. An instant after a thud was heard and down through the trap fell the man. TWILLED FLANNELS, CASHMERE FLANNELS, CRIMEAN FLANNELS, was neard and down the man.

But, oh, what a fall it was! The rope was too long, the knot failed to slip as it should do, his feet touched the ground, and the strain on the neck was terrible. The culprit cried aloud, the rabble hissed and hooted on the outside, while the crowd within the prison yard withdrew in terror and consternation from the phastly spectacle.
