IMPROVEMENTS TO ROLLER RINK.

Fine New Floor Laid and Skating Once More.

CARNIVAL FRIDAY.

The Opera House Roller Rink is proving to be a great attraction and now that the evenings are cool the attendance has been increasing. The energetic manager has just had a very fine hardwood floor laid and skating was resumed last evening.

A fancy dress carnival will be held Friday evening.

The new floor was manufactured by the Restigouche Wood Making Co., of Dalhousie. It is laid eight square, the work of having being done by Messrs. H. & F. D. Swim, of Doaktown, who had a large force of men on the job.

This is said to be the best skating floor in Canada, being specially laid and prepared for roller skating.

DIED SUDDENLY

AT HARCOURT.

A. J. Duguay of St. Anthony Kent County Expired Suddenly.

Harcourt, Sept. 7.—This morning, A. J. Duguay, son of the late Hypolite Duguay of St. Anthony, Kent Co., died in the Canadian House, where he registered last night. Mr. Duguay, who was a famous athlete, holding the world's championship for walking tight wires, contracted a cold in Northern Europe about four years ago, which settled upon his lungs. Late-ly he had consulted Rev. Father Morrissey of Bartibogue, who advised him to go west. He intended to go to Calgary soon. Last night he complained of feeling very tired.

Early this morning he left his room and advancing to the top of the stairway asked the landlady to call a doctor, for which a boy was immediately sent. Michael O'Meara, a boarder, went to the room as soon as possible, but Mr. Duguay was then dead in his bed. Dr. Fairbank's pronounced pulmonary hemorrhage to be the cause of death. Dr. Bourque of Richibucto, held an inquest today. The jury found verdict of death from natural causes.

The remains of the late A. J. Duguay were taken in charge by his brother this morning.

THE EXHIBITION

ATTENDANCE GOOD.

Was 728 Over That of 1904: The Management Satisfied.

St. John, Sept. 10.—Final returns from the exhibition turnstiles on Saturday evening placed the paid admissions at 71,072, an increase of 782 over the figures of 1904. Saturday was an ideal day as far as the weather was concerned and there were 1675 more visitors than on the corresponding day two years ago. Considering the unsettled weather throughout the week the exhibition association feel they have every reason to be satisfied with the result.

S. S. CONVENTION AT DOAKTOWN.

Northumberland County Sunday School Workers Met Last Week.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Good Reports of Work—Interesting Addresses—Good Attendance at Meetings.

Doaktown, Sept. 6.—The Northumberland Co. Sunday School Convention was held on the 4th and 5th inst. The field secretary, Mr. Ganong, was in attendance. Among the delegates who attended were Mr. Thos. A. Clarke, county secretary, Rev. Mr. Rice, of Newcastle; Rev. Mr. Gregg, of Derby; Rev. Mr. Coster, of Tabusintac, and many ladies—Mrs. Geo. Parker and Mrs. C. Crocker, of Derby; Mrs. Wm. Anderson and Mrs. Morrison, of Burnt Church; Miss Gillies and Miss Sweezy and others. There were also a good local attendance. The most important business of the opening session was the reading of the secretary's report, which while showing enterprise and enthusiasm in some schools, also showed a lack of interest in others. The reports from the department superintendents showed that each department was alive to the importance of the work and that each superintendent was doing the best work possible.

In the evening session of the 4th a strong consecration service was held, conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, and the choir rendered very excellent music. Rev. Mr. Rice delivered a very interesting and helpful address, subject: Personal Work Along the Line of Sunday School Work. Mr. Rice is a pleasing speaker and every one was delighted with his address. The field secretary, Mr. Ganong also talked along the same line.

The morning session took up the work of the appointment of the county officers for the year 1905-07. These are as follows:

President.—Rev. J. M. McLean.
Vice-pres. Rev. Mr. Wilson.
County Sec.—Rev. Mr. Rice.
County treas. Mr. Thos. Clarke.
Departmental Superintendents:
Home department—Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Burnt Church; Mrs. Wilson, Doaktown.
Temperance department—Miss Anna McLeod, Newcastle.
Teacher training department—Rev. G. A. Sellar, Chatham.

Additional members of the executive are:

Mr. M. A. Kelly, Doaktown; Mr. S. McLeod, Chatham, and Mr. Jessamine, Douglastown.

At the afternoon session Mr. Ganong took some pains to explain in detail the new organized Bible class movement. This part of the Sunday school work while not previously understood by the members of the convention was enthusiastically received and many went away determined to put the plan into working shape.

Throughout all the sessions a general discussion of the different subjects was indulged in, the ladies doing their part in giving and receiving information. There are many ladies in the county who are enthusiastic Sunday school workers, whose lives will tell upon the rising generation. Doaktown was fortunate in being chosen as a place for holding the county convention and great pleasure was felt in having the delegates among us. Rev. Mr. Ganong the field secretary, is a worker and every one who met him was deeply impressed by his earnest interest in the work. On the whole the convention was a success, and the people of the village will remember with pleasure the visit of the delegates. The finances of the county association appear in a healthy condition. Blissfield parish contributing from four schools $18.26.

The delegates all left for their several homes on the evening train after holding a service of speeches, prayer and singing at the station just previous to the departure of the train.

EXPLOSION KILLS NORMAN MCEACHRAN

Boiler at Calhoun Lumber Co's Mill, Jacquet River Exploded.

MILL WRECKED.

Campbellton, N. B. Sept. 7.—Word was received here today that the mill belonging to the Calhoun Lumber Company, at Jacquet River, was destroyed by the explosion of a boiler, and that the night watchman had been killed. Particulars were hard to obtain here but a telephone inquiry to Jacquet River brought the following facts to hand.

About three o'clock this morning the residents of that section were disturbed by a terrific explosion and they were not long in gathering at the scene to find Calhoun's Mill almost totally destroyed. One of the boilers had burst, literally into small pieces, and the other was thrown a distance of some 200 feet, so great was the force of the explosion. The mill itself is so badly damaged as to be almost a total loss.

On seeking to learn the cause of the explosion a search was made for the night watchman and his lifeless body was found horribly mangled some distance from the mill. The unfortunate was Norman McEachern, a native of Harcourt, Kent County.

Coroner Doherty, of Campbellton went down to the scene of the explosion this evening and an inquest will probably be held. The mill was purchased by the Calhouns a few years ago from J. P. Doyle, who conducted the business for a long time previously. The loss will be in the vicinity of $10,000.

Harcourt, Sept. 8.—Norval McEachern of Main River, this County, was killed in Calhoun's mill, Jacquet River, yesterday morning about three o'clock, by the bursting of one of the boilers. Deceased was night watchman. His nephew Joseph McEachern, employed at same place, brought the remains here today, and was met by Jeremiah McEachern and David Targett, brother and brother-in-law respectively of deceased. Mrs. John Larnkey of Harcourt is deceased's sister.

Toronto, Sept. 7th.—Leather is to go up in price, which will effect the consumers through the entire Dominion of Canada. Hon. C. H. Labllois is in the city to place a valuation on the lot of land belonging to the Provincial Hospital. There are about thirty-one of these lots, situated between the hospital and Fairville station, all of which will be sold. Mr. Labllois, in conversation with the Sun, said that his department is very busy, as they have a very large number of bridges on hand. He says that next week he intends making an inspection trip of the bridges throughout the province. Mr. Labllois also said that he has received many reports from all over the province highly commending the new road law. These reports state that in nearly every case it is working out very satisfactorily. Sun, Sept. 7.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—The Stars and Stripes waved from off the flag pole on the exhibition grounds to a reminder to visitors from the United States that the day had been particularly set apart for them. The picnic and soiree held by St. Mary's congregation, Newcastle, on Wednesday of last week, on the grounds adjoining the church, was very successful. Owing to the heavy rain on Monday and Tuesday the affair had been postponed to Wednesday, but the postponement did not interfere much with the attendance, as a large crowd was present, both during the day and evening. The proceeds amounted to about $900.

Mr. Freeze who belongs to Doaktown, N. B., exhibited at the St. John exhibition a tool for lacing belts which he patented on Feb. 13th last. Mr. Freeze has them for sale at his exhibit in Machinery Hall at the small price of 50 cents, and he would be glad to show samples to anyone interested.

Sin Against Health.

Why the Usefulness of All Organs is Destroyed by Constiveness.

Most important to health and comfort is proper action of the bowels. By nature these organs are intended for the removal of the waste particles of matter which accumulated in the system. Retain these waste and you poison the blood, ruin digestion, bring on nervousness and anaemia.

Habitual constiveness is best over-come by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, establish regularity that is exactly consistent with nature. Not a drastic purgative—not even a pain or sensation of grip, because Dr. Hamilton's are vegetable and free from irritating mineral substances found in so many widely advertised remedies.

In every case Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure and bring sure relief from headache, biliousness and other manifestations of constipation.

N. A. McDonald of Walkerton writes: "Since I was comparatively a young man I have suffered with constipation. My appetite was good and strength kept up, yet I knew something was wrong. Frequently I took bilious attacks and violent headaches. My stomach was disordered, skin was murky, under my eyes were heavy dark rings."

"Last winter I read through the 'Pulse' and came to the conclusion that I was constipated. I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and can hardly tell the help they have been. I am now as fresh, strong as a boy. Justify the wonderful magic of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Pulson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont."

A GOOD SUPPLY OF FALL, HERRING.

Scotch Expert Showing North Shore Fishermen How to Cure Spring Herring.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Mr. Cowie, the Scottish expert herring curer, reports to the department that a new and profitable industry has been launched for the people along the Bay de Chaleur. Since the treaty of Washington was in force no sale or market was found for the spring herring and in that district spring herring has been used by the farmers as a fertilizer. Mr. Cowie has shown how the people can cure and pack them so that they are of excellent quality and can bring from $10 to $12 a barrel in the United States market. Mr. Cowie also says that the fall herring is making its appearance and there is an abundant supply of first quality.

Twenty five cents buys a large bottle of Nerviline.

The dentist rubbed his hands and assured his new patient that his work could not be surpassed.

"What do you think of that crown I gave you some weeks ago said the dentist glibly. "Don't you agree it was the king of crowns?"

"No," replied the patient with grim humor, "I should call that the czar of Russia crown."

"And my dear man?"

"Because I am afraid I will lose it at any moment."

"We started away with sixty horse power," related the new member of the automobile club.

"And what power did he return with?" asked the other members.

"One horse power."

"What? Do you mean to say that one horse power would move that big machine?"

"It had to. The farmer only had one old plug he could spare when the machine broke down twenty miles from the nearest repair shop."

FEEDING CHICKENS FOR MARKET.

Spring chickens usually bring about 7 cents per pound live weight when sold without special preparation. A little feeding will give them an extra market value whether sold alive or dressed, and will pay well for the trouble. There is a good demand this year for a good quality but dealers do not want the poor scrub. Farmers will do well to put their chicks on the market as heavily as he can make a pound of pork or beef, and the difference shows in the price. If you have not customers already, ship only reliable produce merchants. If shipping alive one must allow for considerable shrinkage.

The following extracts from Bulletin No. 7 deal with feeding and preparing poultry for market.

FATTENING CHICKENS IN CRATES.

The fattening crates in use at the illustrations stations are 6 ft. long, 16 in. wide and 20 in. high, inside measurements. Each crate is divided by two tight wooden partitions into three compartments and each compartment holds four chickens. The frame pieces are 2 in. wide, and 7-8 in. thick. The frame is covered with slates, placed lengthwise on three sides,—bottom, back and top,—and up and down in front. The slates for the bottom are 7-8 in. wide, and 5-8 in. thick; the back, top and front slats are the same width, but only 3-8 in. thick. Two inch spaces between the slats in front enable the chickens to eat from the trough. The bottom slats are 1 1/4 in. from the corner piece. The bottom slats are placed on the top of the bottom cross pieces of the frame to prevent the chickens' feet being bruised when the crate is placed on the ground. The top slats are 2 in. apart and the back slats 1 1/2 inch apart and six strips two inches wide are nailed under them. The three doors so framed are hinged to the rear corner piece.

The crates are placed on stands 16 in. from the ground. The droppings are received on sand or other absorbent material. A light "V" trough 2 1/2 in. inside carried on two brackets nailed to the ends of the crate is placed in front of each crate. The bottom of the trough is 4 in. above the floor and the upper inside edge is 2 in. from the crate.

SITUATION OF CRATES.

In warm weather the crates should be placed outdoors in a sheltered position.

In unsettled weather it is advisable to construct a rough board shelter to shed the rain; or the crates might be carried into a shed or barn. During the cold weather the crates should be placed in a warm building. Abundant ventilation is required at all times.

In order to have the chickens plump and "fit for market" at the most profitable age they should be put in the crates when from three to four months old, though suitable market chickens of any age will show gains in the crates.

Select for fattening chickens that are of medium size, of a broad square shape, with short straight legs set well apart, and above all with a good constitution.

EQUIPMENT FOR FATTENING.

It is advisable to use the crates described in Bulletin No. 7. If only a small number are to be fattened, packed boxes of suitable dimensions can be adapted for the purpose. The open top of the box may be made the bottom of the crate and one side should be removed for the front. Laths should be nailed up and down the front and lengthwise of the crate to form the door. The laths are put the same distance apart as recommended in the construction of the fattening crates. A board should be loosened in the top to remove the chickens, and a feed trough arranged in front. A shaping board and shipping boxes are also required.

FATTENING RATIONS.

A satisfactory ration is one that is palatable and that will produce a white flesh. Oats, finely ground or with the coarser hulls sifted out should form the basis of all the grain mixtures. Ground corn fed in excess will result in a yellow flesh of inferior quality; ground peas impart a hardness that is not desirable. Ground oats, buckwheat barley and low grade flour are the most suitable meals.

SATISFACTORY MIXTURES.

1. Ground oats (coarse hulls removed).

2. Siftings from rolled oats, (no hulling dust should be included.)

3. Two parts ground oats, two parts ground buckwheat, one part ground corn.

4. Equal parts ground oats, ground barley and ground buckwheat.

5. Two parts ground barley, two parts low grade flour, one part wheat bran.

The meal should be mixed to a thin porridge with thick sour skim milk or buttermilk. On the average 10 lbs. of meal require from 15 to 17 lbs. of sour skim milk. A small quantity of salt should be added.

When sufficient skim milk can not be obtained for mixing the mashed, animal and raw vegetable food should be added to the ration.

DURATION OF THE FATTENING.

The chickens should remain in the crates not more than 24 days. Some will fatten more readily than others. These should be picked out a week before finished, and during this last week it is well to feed a little beef tallow, shaved into the trough along with the mash, about 1 lb. tallow per day to 50 or 60 chickens.

KILLING THE LICE.

Before the chickens are placed in the crates they should be well dusted with sulphur to kill the lice. They should be sulphured again 3 days before being killed.

THE FIRST WEEK.

Feed them lightly the first week. A small quantity of food should be fed along the troughs; as this eaten, add more, but not as much as the chickens would consume. They should be fed and the troughs cleaned and turned over 3 times a day. Give them water twice a day and grit 2 or 3 times a week. Balance of the time:—The chickens should be given twice a day as much food as they will eat. Half an hour after feeding, the trough should be cleaned and turned over. Water and grit should be supplied as in the first week.

FEATHERING PLUCKING.

Chickens fattening in crates sometimes pluck the feathers from one another. This habit is caused by an irritation at the roots of the feathers resulting from overheated blood or parasites. The remedy is to remove the affected chickens and feed the others more skim milk in their mash, or add animal and vegetable food to the ration. If the trouble is caused by parasites the mites can be found among the white powdery matter at the base of the quill. A sulphur and lard ointment should be applied to the affected parts.

TO TRAIN THE HEN.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The American hen is to be given a course in Luther Burbank school. The Department of Agriculture propose to take her in hand and train her to lay more frequently and cheerfully, and especially to induce her to lay once a day in cold weather. It is found that the besetting sin of the hen is wanting to set. If it wasn't for the distraction of this strange ambition, she would be much more useful. So it is proposed, if possible, to develop a hen that will not want to set, but that will lay all the time, Sundays, of course, excepted.

To this end Secretary Wilson has established under the Bureau of Animal Industry a hen department in charge of Robert R. Slocum, a hen expert. Mr. Slocum will establish a big hen farm near Baltimore where colonies of big hens will be handled by various processes, and a scientific diet and course of treatment worked out. Secretary Wilson explains that the hen produces more annual wealth than the gold and silver mines together, and is entitled to some attention.

"What are you doing, Pat?" asked the inquisitive person, as he observed the son of Erin ascending a ladder with a hod filled with bricks.

"I'm carryin' knock-out drops," replied Pat, as one of the bricks

The Bridesmaid—"You were awfully nervous at the altar, dear."

The Bride—"Yes, I suppose so. George is so timid, you know, and I was afraid he would run away before the minister got through."

Wedding Bells.

CARNAHAN-SHAW.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carnahan, Upper Derby, on Aug. 28th, the marriage of their youngest daughter, Cynthia J., to Mr. Archibald Shaw took place. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. A. Colquhoun, and Mrs. Colquhoun played a wedding march as the bridal party entered the room. The bride was charmingly attired in white organdie, with all-over lace and insertion, and carried a shower bouquet. Her travelling dress was steel buttons and silk braid, with hat to match. After the ceremony, dinner was served, and then the bridal party drove to Newcastle, where they took the "Ocean Limited" for their future home at Port Francis, Ont., where the groom holds a responsible position as foreman of the Rainy River Lumber Co. The young couple are very popular, and have the best wishes of their friends for a long and happy married life.

BLACKMORE-PARKS.

An interesting event took place Wednesday Sept. 5th, at 3 P. M. in St. Stephen's church, Redbank, when Miss Jessie, third daughter of Mr. John Parks, was united in marriage to James Blackmore. The church was nicely decorated and crowded with guests. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Mitchell. The bride, who was given away by her father, was beautifully gowned in white organdie, with trimmings of white insertion, and wore a veil and orange blossoms. Miss Edith Parks, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Jed Sutherland supported the groom. Miss Hattie Parks was flower girl. After the ceremony the happy couple and guests repaired to the home of the bride, where an elaborate supper was served, and the evening spent in delightful entertainment. The presents were numerous and pretty, and evidenced the high esteem in which the bride was held in Redbank. The friends of the newly wedded couple wish them a happy and prosperous married life.

Young Neurich had scarcely made his debut in society when he found it necessary to decline an invitation to a reception, owing to a previous engagement. He did so by penning the following note:

"Mr. J. Henry Neurich declines with pleasure Mrs. Van Uppson's invitation for the 21st, and thanks her extremely for having given him the opportunity to do so."

Hostess—"Oh, Mr. Poorman, there's a young lady here to-night that I know will just suit you."

Mr. Poorman—"It is indeed flattering to know that you understand my tastes. What is the young lady like?"

Hostess—"Well, she hasn't got much sense, but she's worth a million."

ENORMOUS EXPANSION OF I. C. R. REVENUE.

One of the pet charges by reckless critics against the Intercolonial Railway is that no effort is made to expand its revenue. The fact that in defiance of easily ascertained facts, such an assertion is frequently noted in Upper Canadian newspapers, shows how difficult it is to live down the reputation established under Conservative rule. But since 1896 conditions in that respect have changed. During the decade from 1886 to 1896 the revenue was about stationary, but when the Liberal methods were applied, the revenue increased steadily until it actually doubled. During recent years, the annual increase has been heavy; and this year already the indications are gratifying.

The I. C. R. revenue is buoyant. The Minister of Railways with the energetic co-operation of the traffic department is in a position to state that during the months of July and August, 1906, the increase of I. C. R. revenue over the corresponding months in 1905, slightly exceeds $221,000.

In the whole history of the Intercolonial Railway, there is not another such a record. The fact is encouraging, and especially so, as it was expected the short fiscal year of 1906-07—nine months, three of surplus and six of great deficits—would result in a deficit. If Mr. Emmerson can on March 31, 1906, make the revenue meet the expenditure, as now seems hopeful, he will for those nine months—July to March—have accomplished that which was never accomplished by a single predecessor. Hitherto—April, May and June have been depended upon by their surpluses to lessen or efface the net deficit for the preceding nine months.

The question is can the minister of railways keep the expenses down so as to make both ends meet in the nine months—it looks as if he can.—Transcript.

It appears that since train auditors were placed on the Intercolonial trains the receipts have increased by several thousand dollars. This is all the excuse required for the innovation. With results so marked as this, it should be an easy matter to give a clean bill to the honest conductors on the road by firing the dishonest ones.—Montreal Gazette.

NOT AT TRURO.

Hon. Mr. Foster not only did not attend the Sydney meeting of the conservatives, but he also absented himself from the great conservative assembly at Truro last Saturday. Whether Mr. McLeod of Toronto, will be in despair or if delight when he hears of this it is hard to tell; but it may be easily believed that the conservative party will deeply regret that Mr. Foster did not feel himself able to assist Mr. Borden. Indeed, the liberal party will also regret—sincerely—that Mr. Foster did not go upon the platform on one or both of these occasions. He is a man who can present a case clearly and effectively. He is both a philosopher and a prophet, and philosophy and prophecy are ever effective in the affairs of life. It is quite true that for the last eight or ten years Mr. Foster has not been as successful in the field of prophecy as some of his friends hoped that he would be. When the liberals took the helm of state he prophesied many dire results from their effort to manage the public affairs of Canada; but all the facts indicate very prosperous conditions in the country, a rapid development of resources, a great railway project, a wonderful influx of population and a considerable increase of wealth. These conditions, which are so difficult from what Mr. Foster thought they would be, no doubt create difficulties for him which he cannot care to encounter. Then, again, the conservative party has nothing new to offer the country. They cannot, at least they have not yet, improved upon the liberal programme.—Globe.

THE STATE OF TRADE

That excellent trade journal The Maritime Merchant says:—"We doubt if there has ever been a time when general business conditions were better and more solid, than at the present time. On every side there are indications of a healthy and normal state of trade. There is no boom, but everywhere people are busy, money is in good supply and paper is being well met. The severe winter of 1904-05 does not now appear so serious as it seemed for the country has more than recovered showing a great degree of resourcefulness. In the meantime, all branches of industry have, on the whole, fared very well influencing all branches of trade for good. There is no doubt about agriculture being in a good state, for crops are generally reported good. Hay promised to be very short, not long ago, but what we have heard since leads to the belief that the farmers have harvested a good average crop. This is satisfactory, for hay is quite an important item in these provinces. As for the fruit crops, indications point to conditions in the market which will make the returns from apples very good this year. The lumbering business was not very hopeful in the early months, but it now appears that the cut was very much larger than expected, and with a good demand and good prices the situation as affected by this industry, may be considered good.

All lines of industry seem to be active, and all over the provinces our factories are busy. Along with this the signs of the time seem to point to industrial expansion.

The only weak spot in the whole situation—and perhaps it is not quite fair to call it weak—is the fishing industry and its allied trades. But as those engaged in it are well prepared to meet the exigencies of the case, it is not a matter of such great moment and things for the better, no doubt, before long. At any rate, taking the situation as a whole, it is good, and prosperity is very general."

RUSH TO CANADA.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 7.—The returns of the immigration department show that arrivals in Canada for July were 18,176 or 5,831 more than for July last year.

The arrivals by ocean ports were 13,207 an increase of 45 per cent and from the United States 4,969, an increase of 59 per cent.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment, a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

Many Jews Massacred Saturday and Sunday—No Restraint.

Siedce, Sept. 10.—A Jewish massacre surpassing in seriousness all previous one in this vicinity took place here on Saturday and Sunday. It was carefully planned beforehand, the soldiers warning all of the Christian population in advance to hang out their ikons so that they might remain undisturbed. Saturday night some terrorists killed two soldiers and thereupon the Libau regiment broke forth in unrestrained fury. They began murdering Jews on every hand and continued the work of slaughter all night Saturday night and all day Sunday. The ghastly work of murdering and pillaging continued until early to-day, when Governor Skallon telegraphed for permission to use the artillery. Batteries then opened fire down Piennkna, Warsaw and Aliena streets which were inhabited by thousands of Jews. The destruction was horrible. As a result of the general slaughter it is estimated that two hundred Jews have been killed and one thousand wounded. There are three thousand prisoners in custody, a great many of whom are wounded. Not a soldier was killed.

The morning squads of soldiers were parading the streets selling pillaged watches and jewelry. The army officers openly countenanced the selling of loot. The local government took no steps to prevent this outrage.

Warsaw, Sept. 10.—Artillery was used in Siedce this morning. Buildings on Piennkna, Warsaw and Aliena streets have been destroyed. According to reports received here 200 Jews were killed and 3,000 were wounded during the pogrom.

BURIED IN AVALANCHE OF MUD, SAND AND STONES

Hundreds of Lives Lost in Asiatic Russia By Land Slide

Tiflis, Sept. 10.—Practically without warning, the side of a mountain rising above the township of Kwardi broke away, and in a sea of semi-liquid mud, sand and stones swept down on the township and overwhelmed and obliterated it. Some 255 persons have been buried alive.

Fifty-five bodies already have been recovered from the mire, which is about six feet deep. In addition to the lives lost, countless head of cattle perished and the crops were destroyed. Kwardi township occupies an area of five kilometres in the district of Telaw, in the Caucasus. Similar disasters are of common occurrence in Caucasian valleys.

Tiflis is the capital of the government of the same name in the Caucasus, Asiatic Russia, on the Kur. It is celebrated for its hot baths. The city has a population of over one hundred thousand.

It is also stated that the tariff will be brought down promptly, and it is expected that good progress will be made with it before Christmas. Messrs. They are assisted by Mr. John McDougall, Commissioner, and Mr. John Bain, Assistant Commissioner of Customs.

OBITUARY

Although not totally unexpected, still the news of the death in Quebec, of Mrs. Gregory Layton was received here with a shock on Friday morning the 7th. Mrs. Layton had been for the past two months with her daughter Mrs. McKean in Quebec where she had gone for the benefit of her health which had been poorly for the past few years. About a fortnight ago complications set in which caused her death. As a member of St. Andrews' church and Guild she will be sincerely missed, always being a cheerful and helpful one. As a wife and mother she was most gentle, affectionate and sympathetic.

She was formerly Jean Creighton daughter of Murdoch Gillis, Chatham, N. B., where she was born in the year 1847. She leaves a husband, three daughters, Mrs. McKean, of Quebec, Mrs. Simpson, and Miss Annie of Newcastle, and one son Charles of Amherst.

The remains arrived here by Express Saturday morning accompanied by Mrs. McKean and Miss Layton. The funeral took place from the residence of her son-in-law Mr. Simpson, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The pall-bearers being Messrs. Osborn Nicholson John Bunchill, John Rae, Geo. Stothart, Alex. McFarlane and John Harri-man.

The service at the church was conducted by Rev. Arch-deacon Forsyth of Chatham. The choir rendering the following hymns—"Lead, Kindly Light," "Thy will be done, and Abide with me."

Wm. Russell, mechanical supt. of the I. C. R. round house at Newcastle, received a telegram Wednesday announcing the death of his mother at New Glasgow. Mrs. Russell was 87 years of age. This is the second death in the family recently, James Russell, a son of the deceased having died suddenly at New Glasgow about four weeks ago.

The death occurred on Sunday, Sept. 2nd, of Mrs. Sarah Lapointe at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. W. A. Touchie, Newcastle, N. B. The deceased was in her 76th year. She leaves three daughters and one son, and seven grand children to mourn their loss.

CAMBRIDGE WINS FROM HARVARD.

Great Boat Race in England Results in Victory for Home Team.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—Today's boat race between crews of Harvard and Cambridge universities, which was won by the Englishmen by two lengths, was probably the most surprising ever rowed on the Thames, not so much because of the result, as it had been considered anybody's race since the crews moved to Putney, as of the way in which it was won.

Cambridge, as had been feared by the supporters of Harvard and hoped for by Englishmen, got away better than their opponents, secured a lead which they maintained and which they increased to three lengths before Hammersmith bridge was reached. Both crews as they went under the bridge were rowing steadily at 28 strokes to the minute, neither apparently exerting itself. Suddenly Harvard began to put more power in her work and although Cambridge already had the race won and had the advantage of water conditions, her men were compelled to increase their stroke to 33 and finished a tired-out crew. The Harvard men, on the other hand, apparently were quite fresh and took their boat across the river at a brisk rate.

Cambridge's time was 19 minutes 16 seconds. The record for the course is 18 minutes 57 seconds, made by Oxford in 1893.

INCREASE OF $221,000 IN TRAFFIC DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERCOLONIAL.

Moncton, Sept. 7.—That the I. C. R. is buoyant and that the Minister of Railways, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, has met with energetic cooperation in his efforts to place the road on a paying basis is evidenced by the fact that in the traffic department the increase of revenue is slightly more than $221,000 over the same two months in the year previous.

In the whole history of the Intercolonial railroad there is not another such record. The fact is encouraging, and especially so as it was expected that the short fiscal year of 1906-07, nine months, three of surpluses and six of deficits, would result in a deficit. If Mr. Emmerson can, on March 31, 1907, make the revenue meet the expenditure, as now seems hopeful and even very probable, he will have accomplished what was never accomplished by a predecessor.

TWO BRITISHERS BEATEN BY RUSSIAN GUARDS.

Mr. J. Foster Fraser, of London Standard, Maltreated at St. Petersburg.

London, Sept. 6.—The Standard correspondent at St. Petersburg says that Mr. J. Foster Fraser, the Standard's special correspondent, and his secretary, were arrested in Tuesday's round-up of 2,000 persons in the streets, and were taken to the yard of the governor's palace, where they were beaten by the Circassian Guards. Probably only the intervention of the adjutant of Governor-General Scallon saved their lives.

A RICH FIND ON PEACE RIVER.

Surveyors Report Rich Find of Gold in Peace River County.

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 6.—The Dominion Government Survey party, which arrived in the city yesterday, brings the story of a gold discovery in the Peace River country, which if it answers to surface indications will put the Rand to shame and make the celebrated Homestead of Treadwell look like the proverbial thirty cents. Samples of rock brought down by the crudest kind of assays made with mortar and mercury give values of $7 to $32 to the ton, but these test are certainly unreliable and no mining man familiar with gold values would accept them as indicating anything like the real value of the rock. The discoveries were thirty miles below St. John and seventeen miles from the Alberta-British Columbia line. The gold bearing rock is in a bed of shale, 200 to 300 feet of rock projecting out of the bank and overhanging the river. Above it is a gravel bed, then three hundred or four hundred feet, and below it another gravel bed. The shale is intermediate of deposit. It is located in Big Horse Shoe Bend in hills forming escarpment along the river. The party located seventeen claims, one of every member and one for each of several Montreal police officers who were in the neighborhood at the time the discoveries were made.

TRYING TO SAVE STRANDED BAVARIA.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Capt. Leslie of Kingston, is now at work with a gang of between thirty and forty men in an effort to get the stranded Allan liner Bavaria afloat before the ice forms and put an end to the work for the season. The effort is a speculation on his part, and he has secured the Davis wrecking plant at Quebec for the purpose. Even if the steamer is not got to a safe harbor this fall it is not considered that another winter in the ice will make much difference

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

"I thought we should come to this," he said cheerfully, "and I would have laid odds I should have had you here on this mission. I knew you would drop that meaty mouthed righteousness of yours. What I disliked in you, Mr. Greator, from the outset, if I may say so without offense, was your blamable British pharisaism. You couldn't look at a job squarely. It's not your fault, but that of your training. I had the same defect once myself, but a campaign in the Ionian Isles knocked the pretences out of me. That's how I came to know these scoundrels so well. Well, I'm glad we meet evenly at last. You can see for yourself there's not a penworth to choose between us, save that you've had first blood," and with that he looked at Sheppard.

This time Sheppard held his color under control, but he looked away, and I perceived, in spite of his severe restraint, a twitching of the nostrils.

"Come, come," said I, "we must take what steps we may in self defense against cutthroats, captain."

"I'm with you there," said Sercombe cheerily, "and the steps I usually take consist of a bark. I shoot out of my coat tails as often as not. My plan is to fire when I see a squint."

"I fear you rebuke me," I replied, with a bow, "but I swear that I would have fired if it had been any other place but London. I am so well known there."

Sercombe burst out laughing. "I once thought," he said, "that Mr. Sheppard was more my sort, but now I believe I pin my note on you!"

"You honor me," I returned, "but come to business."

The captain plucked his long red mustache meditatively. "I'm sorry I can't discuss this with you now, gentlemen," he said, "after all, it's your affair, though I admit I have a certain interest in it, but if I may come up and see you about 3 o'clock we can go into details. I fancy it's a concerted plan we want."

"That's so," I returned, feeling terribly mean and small to be conspiring so against the laws of my country with an admitted scoundrel.

"Very well; let us say 3," said the captain and stuck out his hand as though to dismiss us.

For myself, being in the frame of mind I have described, I contrived to overlook his arm, but Sheppard, all smiles, sprang forward and shook him heartily. "By the way," he said brightly, "and where is my friend Hood?"

"Hood!" echoed Sercombe and looked at us queerly. "Oh, Mr. Hood is inventing a new maneuver. He is a better soldier than I am, is Mr. Hood, naturally." I suppose he said that we exchanged glances. "My dear sirs," he said, "I only tell you what you might suppose for yourselves. Mr. Hood is trying his hand at generalship, but I don't reveal his plan of campaign. Perhaps you guess it." And he burst out laughing rather unpleasantly.

It was obvious to both of us that there was a bitterness in Sercombe's words. Although he was from a respectable estate and sunk as he had become in a career of dissipation and unscrupulous adventure, he still retained a certain feeling of his own dignity. How far the difference between Hood and himself had gone I could not know, but if it went much further it seemed as though we might take some advantage out of it. But of the two it was Hood—Hood, with his lean black face—that I feared.

Sercombe kept his appointment with commendable punctuality, entering our council chamber, if I may so describe the smaller of the halls in which we usually sat, with the jauntiness of his morning's encounter. Lunch was but newly over, and I felt myself descend in Montgomery's eyes when I offered the captain a glass of wine. He took it airily, even with a kind of rude grace, which sometimes characterized him, and nodded us a good health, plunging at once into the matter of his visit.

"You will excuse me, gentlemen. I can spare little time today. You will understand that I am very busy," this with a twinkling eye. "But we must needs oblige a friend, and I am here over a dusty road to meet you."

"We are gravely indebted to you," said I ceremoniously. "But I must point out that this point touches you as much as, if not more than, it affects us."

"We have shed no blood," said the captain emphatically, settling back for argument.

"Is not your fault, then," I retorted, "and, in any case, what blood was shed was spilled in self defense in re-

"Am I what about the treasure, my friend?" asked the captain, with an

"I know nothing of any treasure," I remarked calmly, "nor does either of my friends here. Presumably an attack was made upon the castle for the purpose of burglary, and I can conceive that my silver only was aimed at. I think that will suffice to explain the cowardly attack of some ruffianly foreigners. I think the Raymond police will easily understand that."

Sercombe looked somewhat blank, but in a moment resumed his cheerfulness. "Quite so, and, as such a course would benefit no one, we are to combine forces against a common enemy. Well, fire ahead."

At this moment an interruption came through the entrance of the maid with the announcement of some visitors at the door. We all stared at one another.

"Who are they?" I demanded. But the girl, being raw and unsophisticated, had not inquired their names. They were, however, gentlemen, and there was a policeman with them. This was enough for us, and an uncomfortable silence fell on us.

Sercombe raised his eyebrows and sucked in his lips soberly.

"Have 'em in," said Sheppard. I looked dubious. We had arranged nothing and had no plan of action between us. "It is far wiser," urged Sheppard, "don't give it too elaborate an appearance." And, turning, he gave the order to the maid.

I was still doubting and Sercombe was regarding Sheppard with a certain grave interest when the maid returned, ushering in an important looking old gentleman with a very ceremonious manner and a man whom I took to be a sergeant in plain clothes.

"Mr. Greator," asked the old gentleman, with heavy courtesy.

I bowed. "That's my name," I replied. "I suppose you have come upon this business of last night?"

"Yes, sir," said he, signaling to the sergeant, who forthwith pulled out a notebook. "It looks a bad thing for the

"I am a justice of the peace," he said. "We haven't had so barefaced a crime in the neighborhood within the recollection of this generation. Indeed, the case seems remarkable; so remarkable that, happening to be at the station when your messenger arrived, I have considered it my duty to take up the affair in person. My name, sir, is Colonel Landell, and I am a justice of the peace."

I was evidently called upon to make some suitable rejoinder to his piece of oratory, and I bowed again and emphasized my satisfaction in receiving so distinguished and so famous a justice, who would soon dissipate the mists of suspicion and mystery with which this singular affair was involved.

This address set the old gentleman upon his legs, metaphorically speaking, and forthwith he plunged into the depths.

"This party, I understand, Mr. Greator," said he, "attacked you early this morning?"

"About 3 o'clock," I answered. He commented the reply to the sergeant, who scribbled in his book.

"Had you any reason to fear this assault was intended?"

I hesitated. "Well, to say the truth," I replied, "we were not wholly without some suspicions."

"I may take it upon myself to say, sir," suddenly broke in the captain, "that it was I that first put the suspicion into Mr. Greator's head."

He looked at me as if inviting my corroboration, and a twinkle glistened in the rascal's eye.

"That is true," said I gravely. "Captain Sercombe is entirely responsible for my suspicions."

The ambiguity of the phrase tickled us both, and a smile was very privately exchanged between us.

"May I ask, Captain Sercombe," said the old gentleman politely, recognizing this importation with a bow, "what reasons you had for supposing Ivor would be attacked in this extraordinary way, and whether you have any clue to the offenders?"

The captain lolled back in his chair and stroked his red mustache. "I used my eyes, colonel. I have lived a sharp life, sir. And when I see a fact I record it. That's a hint which is of use in your profession, as I make no doubt you know well enough," he said courteously. "This affair of the attack is a bad business; there's no denying that. But it might have been worse. No lives were lost, you see." And he glanced out of his ensanguined eyes at Sheppard.

"No; we must be thankful for that," observed the justice heartily. "But do I understand you that you had indeed actual evidence that the burglary was planned?"

"I can add two to two, colonel, and make them four," says Sercombe, seeming to be very complacent. "And, staying by accident in the same neighborhood with my friend Greator, I put a point on his wits. That was all. I make no claim to extra smartness, but when I see a number of lazy-looking gypsies about, there's no good promised, according to my notions."

"You are right; you are right," agreed the justice. "But here the sergeant struck in for the first time, casting a glance from sharp, heavy eyes on the captain."

"Where were these gypsies, sir?" We all looked at Sercombe, who showed not the least discomfiture, but bit the tip of a cigar.

"I trust I have your permission, Greator," said he. "The gypsies, sir, are encamped at the bottom of the valley; have been so, indeed, for a week."

I was astonished at the man's audacity. He had actually revealed the secret of his nest of cutthroats. The sergeant turned the pages of his notebook.

"The man Williams, examined this morning, states that one of the men, seen closely, looked like a foreigner—dark, stoutish; shouted in gibberish." He repeated the evidence monotonously.

Sercombe, puffing at his cigar, nodded. "That bears out my belief," he said. "Precisely—I thought so."

Colonel Landell turned to the sergeant. "This is important, Jones," he said. "You'd better attend to it at once. But one question more, Mr. Greator. Would you be able to identify any one of your assailants?"

"I fear not," I said. "You must remember that it was quite dark."

"Nor you, sir, I suppose?" he added, looking at Sheppard.

Sheppard shook his head doubtfully. "We were engaged in a pell-mell struggle. The utmost I saw was the outlines of the men, but I can recall that one looked very like my friend Captain Sercombe—that is to say, in the dark."

Sercombe laughed. "My dear fellow, I wish I had been there. I'm sorry I missed it. But I shall have better luck another time, if I stick to Sergeant Jones."

The officer smiled without emotion, and the colonel put his question formally to Montgomery, who promptly returned a negative. Landell moved toward the door, but suddenly the police officer touched him on the shoulder and whispered in his ear, then faced us again.

"It was lucky you had that most filled and the drawbridge up, sir. What made you take those precautions?" he demanded.

We were forewarned, as you have heard," I answered. "As the officer referred to his notes. 'Was the warning sufficiently urgent to induce you to go to that trouble?' he asked slowly."

"You can judge for yourself, if we went to the trouble," I returned sharply. Imperturbably he repeated his question again. "What were the terms of the warning?"

The man took me aback, and, moreover, I was a little angry at this impudent inquisition, but before I could arrest my thoughts for a reply Sercombe intervened.

"I can recollect what I said very well," he said, taking the cigar from his mouth. "If it interests you, sergeant, I said: 'Greator, there's a number of very indifferent looking scoundrels down the valley. You have some valuable plate, and this is a lonely spot. Moreover, I saw a couple of them hanging furtively about the plantations as I came up. Now, I've never seen a most full nor a drawbridge work, and if I were you and you were me, I fancy this ditch would be filled and the bridge hung up for my satisfaction and your edification and for the confusion of any nefarious scoundrel with a big maw.' These were the exact words, as I happen to remember, in which I introduced the subject, as Mr. Greator will no doubt recall, though he is not likely to have the terms on his tongue, like myself. But that, I reckon, is what started it. And with this Sercombe replaced his cigar between his teeth and went on smoking tranquilly."

The sergeant thanked him, frowning in some embarrassment; then he turned on his heel and, saluting to the company, vanished after his superior through the doorway.

Sercombe got up. "Well, we can break up now, gentlemen," he said. "Sorry to interrupt harmony, but I've got business to do."

"I am greatly obliged to you," I said, somewhat sheepily.

"You're very welcome," says the captain, with a wide smile.

"But what about the gypsies?" I continued.

"Oh, I suppose the police will catch them," he remarked, his grin growing broader. "But, you see, none of you would be able to recognize them."

Sheppard burst into laughter, and I was fain to follow him, but Montgomery stared in amazement and with a certain latent dislike at the adventurer, pursuing him out into the courtyard with his steadfast eyes.

CHAPTER XIII.

SERCOMBE'S frankness proved of a piece with his conduct hitherto. I could not imagine the old soldier making a bad blunder, and the news that came to us later demonstrated the method in his candor. Sheppard encountered the sergeant near Llanellan and found that his expedition into the Gwent had had no luck. There was no camp in the bottom. Evidences of the recent presence of strangers were in plenty, but not a sign remained to indicate into what hiding place they had withdrawn.

To move a number of persons, with their effects, and the men foreigners, too, and thereby certain to attract the attention of the villagers, would seem impracticable without some public notice. But apparently no one had seen a trace of the fugitives. They had vanished as completely as though the encampment had been a mirage of our disordered brains.

It was clear, however, that there would be no assault upon the castle that night. Jones and his troopers hung about the village, and the former was too zealous to allow any disorder under his nose. Sercombe would not dare to risk a second attack. That much was for our comfort. He had put it to me ingeniously that the interference of the police would embarrass him, and I was heartily glad to hear it, for we needed some further resources for our defense. That was plain enough. We had been able to resist the enemy on his first two attempts, but we had a most cunning and deadly foe, and I began to doubt if we could hold out against a renewal of hostilities unless, indeed, we broke our silent compact and called in the assistance of the law. We had decided to discard Williams from our society. He was too hazardous an ally, and we could not hope to circumvent the police a second time. As it was, I saw that some suspicious were breeding in the sergeant's mind. I suppose we took too lightly what was bruited about the country for a great "sensation."

The storming of the castle even in the distorted narrative which Williams had delivered to his friends sounded remarkable in so dull and uneventful a place as that countryside. Pieces of rumour concerning it crept into the London papers subsequently, and we were most unwillingly become the figures in a tragic and heroic adventure.

We resolved despite the promised respect to preternatural one of the precautions, and Montgomery mounted guard at 8 o'clock on the keep tower. As Sheppard and I sat over our wine we were interrupted by Mrs. Main, who had been greatly stirred by the visit of a justice. She came ostensibly with a question, but in reality to breathe the air of our central excitement.

"I am to give Williams his supper tonight, as last night, sir," she asked. I told her "No," and her wits wandered to the events of the day without more ado.

But presently she came back. "Then I'm not to prepare supper for Williams, sir?"

"Williams will not be sleeping here tonight," I replied. "He left at the usual hour—6 o'clock."

Her face wore a blank look, as of one struggling with perplexity, and, assuming that she had fears on her own account to combat, I went on, "You see, we shall be perfectly safe with the police looking after us."

"Oh, Lord, sir, isn't that," she made answer, as though deprecating my reflection on her courage, "but Williams isn't gone, sir."

"But he is," said Sheppard. "I saw him myself two hours ago halfway to Llanellan."

Mrs. Main looked her incredulity. "If it wasn't his black I saw no more than two blessed minutes ago, I put it to you, whose was it, sir?"

I sat up, and we stared at each other. "Where was this?" I asked.

"I was leaving the kitchen for the pasture, sir, just preparatory with some dishes like, and the blinds were down against the window that faces the courtyard, I see Williams's shadow—leastways what I took to be Williams—pass across the blind, sir."

"It couldn't be Williams," said I after a pause. "Williams has never been in the castle since 2 o'clock, and, besides, the drawbridge is up."

"Did you see his face?" asked Sheppard.

"No, sir; it was on the blind like, but happening to have a question to put to him I just drops the dishes on the sideboard, and I run to the door, but when I'd got it open Williams was gone."

"It was not Williams," I repeated testily.

"What I took to be Williams, sir," corrected Mrs. Main, with gentle obstinacy.

"Did you hear any sound of footsteps?"

"No, sir, but then I was making a noise with the dishes like, and Williams walks very gentle."

Eva—"No; I am not to marry that foreign nobleman."

Edna—"But the rumor gained currency?"

Eva—"Yes; but the nobleman didn't."

No, said the conscientious saloon-keeper, "I never sell a man any more liquor after he has had as much as is good for him."

"But how can you tell when he has had enough?" queried the cigar drummer.

"He has had his share," explained the man behind the white apron when he hands me a nickel for a ten-cent drink and insists that it is a quarter.

A FOOD AND A TONIC

What the leading Medical Journal of the world has to say about FERROL.

After making a thorough test of FERROL in its own laboratory the London (England) Lancet published an article from which the following is taken:

FERROL

"This is a successful combination of the well-known valuable remedies, Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus. The formula is no secret, and our analysis showed the presence and amount of constituents as described. The preparation is a good one and of distinct therapeutic value. The association of an easily assimilable oil, in a fine state of division, with a phosphatic salt of iron which does not disturb the digestive functions and which is easily tolerated, determines its success as a food and tonic in wasting diseases."

What the London Lancet recommends as a food and a tonic in all wasting diseases must have very special qualities.

No higher endorsement is possible. The results following the use of FERROL for the past ten years have proved that this endorsement is well deserved.

FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in prominent Hospitals, Sanitariums, etc.

"You are always wanting something," growled the aged millionaire.

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined his young wife. "Since our marriage I have had only one wish ungratified."

"And what is that?" he asked.

"That I was a widow," she replied.

The Citric Acid (Natural Fluid Acid) in Sovereign Lime Juice is an excellent corrective for many summer ills.

"Oh, no," said the man with the absent hair as he sat down in the car beside a woman with an infant in her arms, "I don't suffer. I always let the women mind them."

A Picturesque Wedding. An interesting wedding recently took place in England. The bridegroom was a fireman, and accordingly the members of the local fire brigade attended the wedding. They formed up outside the church and made an arch with their axes, under which the bride and bridegroom walked. Then the firemen drew the happy couple home in a carriage, blowing their whistles as they went through the streets.

German Silver. One of the oddities of nomenclature is that the combination of metals known as German silver contains no silver in its composition and is of Chinese and not of German origin. It was introduced into Europe by the Germans, and for some time it was not generally known that they had simply borrowed it from the Chinese.

Glandular Swellings. Here is a remedy for goiter and glandular swellings: Glycerinated iodine lotion—iodide of potassium, two drams; distilled water, one pint; glycerin (pure), one ounce. Dissolve the iodine in the water, then add the glycerin. Apply with antiseptic gauze or fine linen.

On His Dignity. Mr. Q. Ponze—No, sir; my daughter would starve if she married you. Mr. Nococone—Oh, well, if you're the sort of man that would let your own daughter starve I've no desire to become a relative of yours. I withdraw my request, sir.

Longing For a Souker. Hobbs—Queer, isn't it, that it never rains when one wants it? Dobbs—Garden in need of rain? Hobbs—No, it's myself. My wife gave me a new umbrella for a birthday present, and it hasn't rained since.

Balanced. The Caller—Your art gallery is a great. This picture especially is delightful; the values are so well balanced. Mr. Porkham—That's right—frame, $200; picture, same price.

TROUT
MezzcWork

The undersigned have received from Mr. Nash of Maine the agency for New Brunswick for his famous trout mezzc work. A trout mezzc is one half the fish so mounted upon a convex elliptical panel
as to stand the fish out in bold relief, giving the effect of an oil painting or while a carved fish, with the real thing to show it your prowess. The process of preserving fish in this artistic way was discovered by Mr. Nash in 1900, and patented by him.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so slowly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.
"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no sign of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut Street
Bedford, Pa.

"Yes, Rounder was addicted to poker and cocktails before the marriage. She told him it was never too late to mend, and he reformed."
"That was fine."
"Yes, but he is telling her it is never too late to mend."
"In what way?"
"Why, he keeps her up till long after midnight mending his shirts and stockings."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FISH CULTIVATION

ON NORTH SHORE

The Salmon Fishers Promise a Good Season—Illicit Traffic
in Sea Trout has Disastrous Effect.

"Our Medicine Bag," in the September Rod and Gun, has the following talk:

Mr. G. D. Smith, the Fishery
Commissioner for New Brunswick, has kindly supplemented the account we gave in the June number of his experience in fish cultivation by further particulars which we are sure will be of particular interest to the great body of our readers. He says:

"There is no question as to the advantages of planting wall eyed ova either salmon or trout instead of keeping them in the hatchery to develop to the fry stage before distributing. In May, I placed nearly 200,000 trout ova in natural waters where I would have, later, placed the resultant fry, 15,000 of them being put where Mr. Alex. Johnston, the well known Loch Lomond Fishery Guardian, could daily note their development. These eggs were packed at the New Brunswick Government's hatchery, Bartibog, in boxes designed and made by myself, the whole lot, including their envelope of moss and snow, weighing only 160 lbs. I transported them 200 miles—twenty-six by railway. The loss in transit was less than one-tenth of the per cent.
and between the time of planting and hatching the mortality was even less than that. Mr. Johnston weekly reports to me until the fry had absorbed their sacca, where hatching, that the experiment was an unqualified success. In this quantity of ova, which was not half a load for a single horse buckboard wagon, had been kept in the troughs until hatched out, the resulting fry would have required at least forty cans for their transportation to the planting places, and these cans, with the necessary water, ice, etc., would be carried in at least five double express wagons. The experiment has therefore demonstrated that the loss by this method of planting is very much less than when the work is done in the fry stage, while the expense is, comparatively, only nominal."

SALMON FISHING IN N. B.
The present season promises to be the record one for salmon in Northern New Brunswick for both anglers and netters. A number of the latter have taken more in a single night than during the whole of last season. All the rivers—the Restigouche, Upsalquitch, Jacquet, Nepisquit, Miramichi and smaller ones share in the great catches being made and which will no doubt exceed those of 1896, which has heretofore held the angling record.

SEA TROUT A FAILURE.

The run of sea trout in New Brunswick has on the other hand been a failure. It is stated that for some years the wholesale fish dealers have been carrying on an illicit traffic in the young of this valuable game fish. The shipments have been quite heavy to Canadian as well as to United States centres.
The principal guilty parties—those who hire the pool hand to mouth fishermen of out-of-the-way places to scoop the fingerlings with bag nets—are persons of influence, and these men get transportation certificates to the effect that the contraband fish have been legally taken. A crusade was made against this traffic last winter, and it is hoped it will have a repressive effect. Prominent citizens ought to be ashamed to be detected in promoting and profiting from illegal traffic in baby fish, but those in the wholesale fish business are said to entertain no such sentiments.

GREAT FISH CENTRE.
The importance of the Miramichi,
N. B., as a fresh fish shipping centre is strikingly illustrated by the railway returns of two stations in the parish of Chatham alone for three months of last winter. There was in the shipments about one car load of frozen salmon. With that exception the fish were the catch of the winter months named and consisted of smelts, tomcods (frost fish), flounthers and eels.
In December 619 1-4 tons were sent from Loggieville, and 252 1-4 tons from Chatham; in January 467 1-2
tons from Loggieville and 267
tons from Chatham; in February 436 1-2
tons from Loggieville and 205 1-2 tons from Chatham, making a total of 1532 1-4 tons from Loggieville and 725 1-4 tons from Chatham, a grand total of 2257 1-4 tons from both stations.

SHOULD WE SLEEP LONGER

Women Need Less Repose Than Men—Beerbohm Tree's Rest for a First Night.

"Women, I say without hesitation, need less sleep than men, and I say that after observation of many hundreds of them."

Dr. Josiah Oldfield, the well-known specialist, cannot account for the fact, but yesterday he told a daily Mail representative that, whether they are of the working classes or of higher station in life, women need, and their nature is satisfied with, less sleep than their husbands or other male relatives demand.

Meantime man differs as to what he needs. The following are experiences or advice as to the duration of sleep sent to the Daily Mail by distinguished men:—
The Bishop of Ripon: When young, take as much sleep as you need; when old, as much as you can get.
Sir Frederick Treves: The average amount of sleep for myself is seven to eight hours.
Sir George Lewis, the well known solicitor: I think eight hours sufficient. I sleep nine hours.
Vincent Hill, general manager of the Southeastern railway: I think it is better that people should sleep as long as they can, and that is my practice.

Beerbohm Tree: I should say in my case eight hours' sleep is better than seven, and nine hours better than eight. I take nine hours' whenever I can, and invariably sleep for that period when on a holiday, and as near to it as possible at all times. Further, I consider sleep before any effort, with the power to go to sleep at any time, most valuable. I have cultivated that power, and invariably recuperate by its aid before the exhausting strain of a "first night," or before playing a new part.

Sir Edward Ward, permanent under-secretary for war: I find six and a half hours enough. I daresay
I could manage nine or ten hours with an occasional wake up; but I should call that "slacking."
Dr. Josiah Oldfield: It is certain that every man must have a certain minimum of sleep per twenty-four hours. Most find that minimum eight hours, but an enormous number are satisfied with five and a half hours. I always sleep eight hours and regard that as, on the whole, the proper minimum for a man. Certainly five and a half hours is not enough.

Sir Robert Ball: Don't expect an astronomer to confess how many hours of the precious night he wastes by staying in bed.
The Earl of Aberdeen, Lord-lieutenant of Ireland: I find that much can be accomplished in either direction by training and habit.
But as to the saying that one cannot burn a candle at both ends I heard the suggestion that it is one of the ways of making both ends meet.

During the six months which Charles Frohman, the theatre manager, spent in London recently, his hours of sleep averaged not more than five. He rose at 7.30 A. M., and rarely got to bed before 2 o'clock, sometimes later.

At the Bank of England a high official said he liked twelve hours whenever he could get it—that is, between Saturday and Sunday.
"Other days I don't get enough."
The principal of a leading firm of stockbrokers said: "Members of my profession sleep well because we have easy consciences. I myself find nine to ten hours sufficient."

WHEN SEVEN MEN DIE.

You know that at least one of them had Consumption. At first it was only catarrh —but it was neglected. When "Catarrh-zone" came so quickly it's foolish to suffer, it's a shame to keep on suffering and hawking. Catarrhzone goes direct to the cause of the disease, that's why it's so dead certain to cure. It stops the cough, prevents that disgusting discharge, clears phlegm out of the throat in five minutes.
Very pleasant, and safe too; get Catarrh-zone from your druggist to-day.

"There is such a difference between the classes in Russia," remarked the little man who always reads the cable news over his breakfast food. "Now, the aristocracy over there own so many castles."

"That's nothing to the peasants, replied the tall boarder as he dissected a fish.
"Nothing to the peasants! Why what do the peasants own?"
"Why, they have castles to burn."

AN AMERICAN DISEASE.

Some doctors go as far as to say that indigestion is the national disease of America.
There is but one national remedy for indigestion and that remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills which accelerate the action of the gastric glands and give tone to the digestive organs. They strengthen the kidneys and liver, cleanse and purify the blood and thus add general tone to every organ of the body. Flush and strength are fast restored and the patient can eat and digest any food he pleases. Test Dr. Hamilton's Pills yourself—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00
at all dealers.

Mr. Urban—"Commuter's wife must be an earthly angel."
Mrs. Urban—"Why do you think so?"

"Mr. Urban—"He tells me they have had the same cook for three weeks." Scribbles—"It's tough on the poets when eggs are cheap."
Dribbles—"How's that?"
Scribbles—"Their fresh lays are not remunerative."

THE TONIC OF HEALTH.

Must be more than a stimulant—must be a food as well. There is no medicine that is both a food and a tonic,—it adds energy, promotes assimilation, converts food into nutrient that builds up nerves, blood brain and bone. That tonic is Ferrozone which contains exactly what a run-down system needs. Ferrozone supplies oxygen to purify the blood, phosphorus to develop the brain it is to harden the muscles.
No wonder it makes such vigorous men and women. You feel a new, fresh, and better by using Ferrozone; try it now. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty chocolate coated Ferrozone tablets, at all dealers.

He alleged that when Police Magistrate option of a fine, the parties sentenced rushed to the chairman of the police committee and since that time practically no convictions had been obtained against the liquor men, notwithstanding a resolution

Had Narrow Escape
From Serious Injury.

Chatham, N. B. Sept. 10.—Chas.
Rainsborough and his wife were violently thrown from their carriage on Saturday about sixteen miles below town and narrowly escaped serious injury. They were rounding a curve when Mr. E.
Hutchison and Premier Tweedie bore down on them in the former's auto going at a lively clip. It is said that Rainsborough's horse jumped across the ditch and over a fence throwing out both occupants and severely bruising them.
The horse and team turned over when landing in the field on the far side of the fence.—Sun.
