Allies Believed To Have Now Occupied Lille

Mary Boyle O'Reilly Finds Discord Among the Germans

MANY GERMAN PRISONERS ARE SELF-WOUNDED

Evidence of Unwillingness To Fight Among the Kaiser's Troops in Hospital.

ARE ALL TRAINED STALE

Kaiserism Has Drilled Them Into Characterless, Driven Beasts.

STARVED IN BEGINNING

No Commissariat Preparation Made For Defiance of the Belgian Army.

BY MARY BOYLE O'REILLY.
Staff Correspondence of The Advertiser (By Mail).

Fortress of Blaye, South France, Oct. 12.—"Thousands of German soldiers are now prisoners in Southern France. Not one has attempted to escape."

His Excellency Mons Millerand, minister of war of the French Republic, made the statement with a tolerant smile as he handed me a pass to the Fortress of Blaye, France's most-noted military prison.

"You who have been a member of the board of prison managers of Massachusetts, mademoiselle, understand prison discipline. Will you visit the military prisons, observe conditions, criticise deficiencies," asked Mons. Paul Mattey, chief of the department of military justice. "France would deal fairly with her prisoners of war," he added.

At the Great French Prison.

Motor and passes soon carried me the 58 miles from Bordeaux to the prison fortress of Blaye. Major Concel, commander of the huge keep, greeted me at the portcullis, grey head sturdily erect, broad chest half-covered with medals won in France's foreign campaigns. Behind him, framed in the fifteenth-century gateway, alert chasseurs paced on sentry duty, red soldier caps clinging nonchalantly to thin dark heads, French blue overcoats, buttoned back to show the republican culotte rouge, red trousers.

And all about swarmed Boches prisoners in greeny-grey uniforms, brutal-browed, sullen and suspicious. At sight of an officer lounging groups made front with automatic precision.

"They might have been cast at Krupp's," commented the commander. "This war of wars finds me at the back of the front studying the type evolved by Prussia's 40 years of armed diplomacy.

"The German people are by nature kindly, industrious, with mental processes distinctly slow. Kaiserism has drilled them into driven beasts, characterless, with sensibilities blunted, finished bullies. Good fellowship is scientifically squeezed out of them, real patriotism strangled, to make them mechanical contraptions trained to kill. Prussia has prostituted progress to militarism. These poor fellows, well set and sturdy, have been trained stale. They reached us utterly done."

"Officers String Us Up By the Hands."

I spoke with a pudding-faced prisoner—the dullest recruits on earth come from Polish Prussia. His surly tone intended no offence.

"The Kaiser commanded 'Kriegsmobil,' (war mobilize). So we go to fight. I do not know where we go, I do not know who we fight. If we ask why this is our officers string us up by the hands. Therefore we march and march until we must lie down to sleep. This is war."

The listening commander continued: "For days these poor wretches talked of the joys of sleep as starving men discuss food. For weeks they ate as if famished. Belgium's defiance caught the German commissariat unprepared. After a 36-hours' march the rank and file were given just enough rations to carry them into a fight. During a fortnight they had no real meal. Hungry on compressed food, they wolfed green fruits, raw vegetables, even hay.

"The officers condemned to take charge of the German commissary are the wrecks and cast-offs of other corps, pariahs sodden from the bestial pleasures of mud-hole garrisons in Prussian Poland, men held in scant respect by the soldiers.

"Their military train is arranged for perfect roads without interference. No reckoning was made for emergencies. The endurance of Liege disorganized the walk-over. Super-Prussian bullies called upon to follow up howitzer batteries over ruined roads wrecked their traction engines and killed their draught animals while the waiting soldiers starved. Here we give the prisoners what our own soldiers have, neither more nor less."

A Visit to the Prison Kitchen.

Against the huge inner bastion stood three field kitchens, pots, pans and provision safes tidily suspended from the great grey wall. A French chef, potstick in hand, directed his unhandy scullions. Six prisoners peeled a barrel of potatoes, three shredded a box of dried fish from Gloucester, U. S. A., two made invalids' bread porridge in a billy can. All were awkward to obsurdity.

"They brought no cooks and have not been trained to use their wits," commented the commander. "Arriving hot and dirty whole squads lay about

No Official Fear of Invasion

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—The military authorities here have had no formal requests for troops for protection along the border against the possibility of a German invasion such as is outlined in the letter received by ex-Mayor Galbraith, of Westmount. It is pointed out that in case of trouble the men now under training for the second Canadian contingent would be available, and could be landed at almost any point on the border within a few hours. The department, however, does not expect any trouble from such sources.

ALLIES MAKE NOTICEABLE PROGRESS IN THE VOSGES

Recapture Heights and Positions From Which the Enemy's Artillery Has Bombarded St. Die — German Attacks Have Been Repulsed Along Whole Line.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, Nov. 2.—2:48 p.m.—The French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon says that the German offensive continued yesterday with the same violence in Belgium and in the north of France, particularly between Dixmude and the Lys.

In spite of attacks and counter-attacks on the part of the Germans, we made slight progress on almost the entire front, excepting at the village of Messines, a part of which was again lost by the allies.

The enemy undertook an important movement against the suburbs of Arras. This resulted in failure, as did other movements against Lihons and Lequesnoy-En-Santerre.

Slight Progress.

On the centre, in the region of the Aisne, we made slight progress in the direction of Craei-Le-Val, to the north of the forest of Ague, as well as at certain points on the right bank of the Aisne between this forest and Soissons.

At Amont-De-Vilney an attack directed against those of our troops who are in possession of the heights on the right bank of the Aisne, also resulted in failure. The same outcome attended several night attacks delivered in the heights of the highway Des Dames.

Attacks Repulsed.

In the region of Rheims, between the Argonne and the Meuse, on the heights of the Meuse, there was noticed yesterday a recrudescence of activity on the part of the enemy's heavy artillery. The bombardment of these pieces, however, did not show any appreciable result.

"On our right wing an offensive movement of reconnaissance by the enemy on Nomeny was repulsed.

"In the Vosges, in addition to the fact that we have recaptured the heights which dominate Mount Saint Marie, we have made progress in the region of Ban De Sapt, where we occupy the positions from which the artillery of the enemy has been bombarding the town of St. Die."

BULLET WOUNDS ARE EASILY CURED

London Doctor, Now in Paris, Says Men Recover in Ten Days.

HAS CHARGE OF HOSPITAL

Dr. E. Gardiner Declares Few Amputations Are Possible Because of Gangrene.

Mrs. M. J. Gardiner, of 541 Dundas street, received a letter this morning from her son, Dr. Egbert J. Gardiner, who is in charge of the "Anne-Marie" Hospital in Paris. The letter is dated October 16. The hospital, which has 40 beds and is now wholly occupied by wounded soldiers, is a private one:

"Those wounded with bullets are generally back at the front in ten days," writes Dr. Gardiner, "while those wounded by shrapnel almost always have their wounds infected, with the result that gangrene or tetanus sets in. We have a case here of a soldier who was struck by a bullet which went straight through the lungs, and he is now entirely recovered. We do not do many amputations, because if a shell strikes a man and blows off a limb he generally dies before anyone can get to him to stop the hemorrhage.

"I was within 100 yards of the Gare de la Nord, where three persons were killed by a bomb from a German aeroplane."

DIARY OF TRIP

London Sergeant Describes Journey Across Atlantic.

An interesting diary of the trip of Canadian troops across the Atlantic has been received by Arthur Piper, of London Township, whose son Fred volunteered with the Seventh and is now a sergeant of A Company, First Battalion. Sergeant Piper was formerly in the R. C. R. He was made a corporal at Valcartier, and was given his three stripes when he was on the Atlantic. He kept a diary of each day of the voyage, and as soon as he landed in Plymouth mailed it to his father.

Under the date of September 25, the diary was started, when the London troops embarked on the Laurentic. On September 29, Sergeant Piper writes, that there was great anxiety among the fleet, then assembled in Gaspe Bay, over the safety of nine troop ships that had been lost between the Bay of Quebec. The fact that German vessels were known to be on the Atlantic increased the anxiety. On September 30 there was still the same anxiety for these "lost ships," but on October 1 they turned up safely. The last of the transports arrived the next day, and the trip to England was commenced.

There is a blank in Sergeant Piper's diary from October 5 to 8. He significantly explains this by one word, "seasick."

Describing life on board the boat, Sergeant Piper declared the non-coms. lived like millionaires. Stewards to take their caps in the dining saloons, stewards to wait on them at table, stewards to prepare their baths, and stewards to make them generally comfortable, were among some of the luxuries they enjoyed.

On October 14, at 4 p.m., Plymouth was reached.

DIED IN LONDON, ENGLAND.

London, Nov. 2—1 p.m.—The death was announced today in London of Alfred Booth, head of the Booth line of steamships.

EXPECTS ITALY TO JOIN WITH ALLIES

Consul-General in Montreal Says Probable New Minister is Very Friendly to France.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Italy's early participation in the war on the side of the allies is confidently expected by prominent Italians here.

"This looks very much like war," said Chevalier Gualtiers Chilesotti, consul-general for Italy, when informed that Tommaso Titoni was spoken of as the new minister of foreign affairs in the reorganized Italian cabinet, while Baron Sidney Sonnino, former premier, was being mentioned as minister of the treasury. "Tittoni is very friendly to France," the chevalier explained. Tittoni has been Italy's ambassador to France throughout the present European disturbance, and is consequently in close touch with the Government of that country."

The Italian consul-general had received no word from Rome of a more detailed character than the news dispatches last night.

ENGLISH GIRLS SHOWER KISSES ON CANADIANS

"Treat Us Like Dukes Over Here," Says London Soldier.

WONDERFUL RECEPTIONS

British Turn Out Everywhere To Welcome Canuck Contingents.

SHOWERED WITH GIFTS

Women Stand in Line To Give Our Boys Presents, Kisses and Cheers.

England's enthusiastic welcome of the Canadian troops—so enthusiastic on the part of the pretty girls that they kiss the Canuck soldiers as they pass through the various stations—is graphically described by Roy McLeod, formerly of The Advertiser editorial department, and now a private in the Army Service Corps of the first contingent. He has already written several interesting descriptions of camp life at Valcartier, on the trip across, and when the troops landed in Britain, but his latest letter describes the welcome.

In part, it follows:

Townspeople Reception.

"The Canadian contingent arrived in Plymouth on October 11 (Wednesday) and we were given a grand reception by the townspeople, who congregated on the water front and also on the housetops. The ships anchored in pairs in the harbor, and many soldiers crossed from one boat to the other.

"As there was a shortage of matches and tobacco on our ship we were given lots by the other men. On Friday, October 16, we left the boat for the first time, the Army Service Corps and the Princess Patricia Regiment having a route march.

Freedom of Estate.

"Tugs took us to Torpoint, a small town in Cornwall. From here we marched to the fine estate of Gen. Sir Pole Carex, the noted general of the Boer war. Here we were allowed the freedom of the grounds, picking fruit and flowers to our hearts' content.

"Returning by a different route, we again passed through Torpoint, and this time the people were prepared for us. Enthusiasm was marked everywhere. Ladies lined the streets, handing out cigarettes, tobacco and matches to the men, who in return showered them with Canadian coins. The cheering was intense.

Showered With Gifts.

"We returned to the boat, the march being about six miles. On Saturday we left the Royal George at 4 p.m. and marched through the streets of Devonport and Plymouth, where we were made the recipients of many gifts that included jars of candy, cigarettes, cigars, matches, newspapers, fruit and magazines. The kindness of the English people to the whole Canadian contingent could not be improved upon. They claim that we came too unexpectedly for them to prepare for us.

"We left Plymouth at 8 p.m. and arrived in Lovington at 2 a.m. Sunday, October 18. All along the railway line crowds gathered, even after midnight, and showered us with gifts amidst intense cheering. They know how to appreciate a soldier here.

Thrown From Horse.

"We arrived at Lovington at 2 a.m. Sunday and were told off to unload horses. We did, and taking two each we led them thirteen miles to Salisbury Plains in the dark. You could not see a yard in front of you, and my horse threw me off once, when I went to sleep on his back—bare-back at that—and I can't sit down now. The horses waited until I found my cap and drove up to a hedge and mounted again. I had to ride one-and lead the other, but as they had been on the boat 19 days they were stiff and tired.

Mechanical Transports.

"They claim that there are over 1,000,000 men in camp here. Conditions are vastly different here from Valcartier. Few horses are used, and all the baggage and transport wagons are being hauled by huge steam traction engines. The trucks bear the names of English firms who owned them before being seized by the Government. Another feature that is noticeable is the fact that only old men can be seen on the docks, all the young fellows being at the war.

Maple Leaf Passport.

"Over here we are treated like dukes. The maple leaf on our caps is the passport to anything. Every one is sociable, and you are the friend of every Englishman—and every Englishwoman, too, all the pretty girls kissing us at each station.

"Capt. Taylor, of the Seventh, London, who is with the Highlanders, has been given the rank of major.

GIVEN HIS PASSPORTS

Turkish Ambassador To Great Britain May Go Now.

London, Nov. 2.—12:24 p.m.—The Turkish ambassador to Great Britain, Tewfik Pacha, was handed his passports today.

BATTLEFIELD TROPHIES REACH LONDON! GERMAN HELMETS WAR RELICS FOR BRITONS

Attracting considerable attention in London are the war relics from the battlefields, of which these three German helmets are examples. The trophy above at left is the elaborate headpiece of the Kaiser's Imperial Guard. At the right above is the Uhlan helmet, and below the infantryman's headgear.

Andy's Statue Is Pelted By Crowd

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2—12:52 p.m.—A dispatch to a news agency from Dunfermline, Scotland, says that local sentiment against Andrew Carnegie, because of his alleged pro-German attitude, is so strong that the statue of Mr. Carnegie, which was erected by the citizens of his native town last June, was pelted by a crowd.

Carnegie films, which have been exhibited at moving picture houses, have been withdrawn, the correspondent says.

ALLIES CREEPING NEAR TO OSTEND

Within Four Miles, and May Capture the Town Without Resistance—Lille Evacuated.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2—4:50 a.m.—The correspondent of the Times in Northern France, telegraphing under date of Sunday, sums up the situation on the battle front by stating that the allies are daily creeping on toward Ostend, which is now hardly occupied at all in a military sense. The number of Germans holding it is negligible, he says, but if the allies achieve a definite victory in the fight for the river, Ostend will fall unresistingly into their hands.

PROBABLY HAVE LILLE.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2—5:15 a.m.—The correspondent of the Times in Northern France telegraphs that the allies have penetrated to the north and east of Lille, which, he says, "certainly has been evacuated by the Germans, and there is good reason to believe that it has been occupied by the allies."

WITHIN FOUR MILES.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—Dispatches to the Daily Mail from various correspondents at different points in the field of operation in Northern France, report the continued success of the allies, who have reached within four miles of Ostend, namely Leffinghe. The German attack, it is stated, is mainly in the direction of Leffinghe and Slype.

Three thousand Germans left Ostend for Zeebrugge on Friday, and the reports persist that the Germans have left Ostend.

Urgent Message.

It is stated that the allies have intercepted a message from Emperor William to the King of Wurttemburg, telling him it is absolutely imperative to capture Ypres before November 1, otherwise it will be necessary for the Germans to withdraw beyond the Rhine.

Gen. Von Meyer was killed at Dixmude on Friday.

Use Peace Prize To Help Refugees

Nobel Award To Be Handed to Holland for This Purpose.

The Hague, Nov. 2, via London, 10:55 a.m.—The Handelsblad, of Amsterdam, has published a report from Christiania saying that the managers of the Nobel Institute have decided to give this year's peace prize, which amounts to about $40,000, to the Netherlands Government, to be applied toward the support of Belgian refugees in Holland.

WAR OFFICE'S REQUESTS NOT AS HOPED FOR Instructions Regarding Second Contingent Received by the Government at Ottawa.

NOT AS YET DISCLOSED

Effort Will Be Made To Have Some Changes Made in Them.

CONSULTING THE DUKE

Hon. J. D. Hazen Has a Long Conference With Governor-General.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—The war office has been heard from in regard to the composition of the second Canadian expeditionary force, but the Canadian authorities have not yet decided to disclose the nature of the British communication. It is understood that the requests of the British army officials do not exactly coincide with the program which the Canadian Government would like to follow, and that an effort will be made to have the war office vary its instructions. The authorities here would like to send a rather larger number of mounted men than went with the first Canadian contingent.

This morning Hon. J. D. Hazen, acting minister of militia, went to Rideau Hall, where he had a long conference with His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

Later the communication of the war office was considered at a meeting of the Government.

ROCKEFELLER SHIP TO LEAVE TUESDAY

Massapequa Will Carry 4,000 Tons of Flour to Destitute Europeans.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 2.—Losing no time in carrying out its decision, announced yesterday, to help the destitute noncombatants in Europe with the Rockefeller million, the Rockefeller Foundation announced today that the steamer Massapequa, which had been chartered from the New York and Porto Rico Line, would be loaded and able to leave New York for Rotterdam, as planned, tomorrow, with 4,000 tons of flour, rye and beans.

The commission which will be sent to investigate conditions will not get get away on the steamer tomorrow. The chairman is Wickliffe Rose, director-general of the International Health Commission.

AMBASSADORS LEAVE

Russian Representative First to Depart From Constantinople.

[Canadian Press.]

Bordeaux, Nov. 2.—Via Paris, 2:15 p.m.—The Russian ambassador, it was announced here today, was the first of the diplomatic representatives to leave Constantinople. He was followed by the French and British ambassadors. The Turkish ambassadors in London and Petrograd have been handed their passports, and it is believed that the Turkish ambassador to France will receive his passports today.

HAMILTON AND TORONTO STIRRED BY ALLEGED THREAT TO BLOW UP WELLAND CANAL AND RAILWAYS

Dominion Police Instruct Authorities To Be On Guard and Special Squads of Armed Men Are Guarding Public Services Supposed To Be Plotted Against.

[Canadian Press.]

Hamilton, Nov. 2.—Throughout the night railway detectives and local police stood guard over the railway bridges crossing the Desjardins Canal, following the tip furnished the local authorities by the Dominion police of a German plot to wreck these structures and the Welland Canal. The tunnel here has been under guard since the war broke out. While Superintendent Gurdon, of the Grand Trunk Railway, and other railway officials here were inclined to place little credence in the rumored plot, it was evident, from the precautions taken in sending a squad of armed men out to the canal, that the authorities were taking no chances. A guard will be maintained now night and day.

Bridges Under Guard.

There was great activity in railway and police circles following the warning sent out from Ottawa. Railway sleuths, summoned to headquarters at Toronto, were rushed to Hamilton and other points along the line, and Chief Smith dispatched constables from the city. During the night danger signal lights were kept burning on the bridge, and all traffic over the high level bridge was under strict surveillance. The information was also sent to the military authorities at St. Catharines, and today the guard on the canal will be doubled.

Hamilton Agitated.

The reported German plot caused quite a stir here following the alarmist stories of proposed raids from the border by allen enemies of Great Britain, and the request of the Fort Erie council for more adequate protection at that point. It was only recently that Charles W. Heming, chairman of the Hamilton Rifle Association, declared that in Buffalo there was a small army of German reservists better drilled and equipped than the New York state militia. Mr. Heming says that the cry "On to Canada!" is frequently heard at German meetings in American cities.

AUTHORITIES ON THE ALERT FOR ATTACK FROM WITHIN

Toronto Hears That 300,000 Armed Germans in U. S. Are To Co-Operate With Plotters in the Dominion.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Dominion police and local authorities admit there is more than mere rumor in the story that German sympathizers have plotted to blow up the Welland Canal and destroy a Hamilton tunnel. The Welland Canal, of course, is a great grain route which must be kept open. The C. P. R. Hamilton tunnel is on the direct line of communication between Toronto, where troops are mobilizing, and the Niagara frontier, which would likely be the scene of raids by German sympathizers from the United States.

Chiefs of the C. P. R. detective service marshaled their men here today and proceeded to Hamilton and on to Welland with Dominion police. Military guards on all vulnerable points in this district have been doubled, several hundred more men being called out for the purpose.

Incidentally, there is a story in Toronto today that there is an organized plan for 300,000 armed Germans in the United States to invade Canada at various points before Christmas.

RAILWAY VICE-PRESIDENT SENDS WARNING TO CANADA

Overheard Germans Discussing Secret Arming of Half-Million Men To Attack This Country and Advises That Strict Guard Be Maintained.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Nov. 2.—The stories that the Germans of the United States are contemplating a raid on Canada have been given emphasis by a letter received by William Galbraith, former mayor of Westmount, on Saturday. The letter, which came from the vice-president of one of the biggest railways in the Western States, said: "I overheard a conversation last night on a steamboat going from Norfolk to Richmond. It was between Germans, and to the effect that all the German singing societies, which are 500,000 strong, carrying on a propaganda of secret arming and other arrangements for the purpose of attacking Canada from this side. It will pay Canada to be on her guard against anything like this. The Germans here are bitter partisans, and will attempt anything to beat the British."

Steps have been taken to bring this information to the attention of the Dominion Government.

BULGARIA TO BE NEUTRAL

(Canadian Press.)

London, Nov. 2.—5:20 a.m.—The correspondent of the Times at Sofia, Bulgaria, says he is informed on the highest authority that Bulgaria will maintain the strictest neutrality.

Will Join Brother on Firing Line of European War

Major Ibbotson Leonard Going as Junior Major of Montreal Corps.

Major Ibbotson Leonard, of the First Hussars, this city, will go to the front with the second contingent as junior major of Gunn's Battalion, Montreal. Canadian Press dispatches this afternoon contained the notice of the Londoner's appointment. He is a brother of Major Woodman Leonard, of the Sixth Field Battery, now in command of an ammunition train on the first contingent.

Major Ibbotson Leonard left the city last night for Montreal, and Mr. Frank Leonard could not confirm the news of his appointment when seen by The Advertiser today. He declared that the family would know nothing definitely until Wednesday.

[Canadian Press.]

Amsterdam, via London, Nov. 2.—A telegram received here from Berlin announces that after protracted negotiations the war indemnity to the Germans for the city of Brussels has been fixed at 45,000,000 francs ($9,000,000), payable 2,500,000 francs ($500,000) weekly.

TURKEY WON OVER BY HEAVY BRIBES

British Foreign Office Says Germany Was Liberal—Neutrality Urged By Britain.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The foreign office late Saturday night issued a long statement dealing with the situation in Turkey, and the protests made by the British ambassador against what he alleges were breaches of neutrality by Turkey, especially in connection with the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

The statement quotes the note addressed by the Sublime Porte to the powers, in which the Ottoman Government declared its neutrality, and the note communicated by the British ambassador to the Porte, in which he complained of alleged breaches of neutrality.

As Turkey shut off communication with the British embassy on Friday, the British Government considering this a prelude to further acts of aggression, declared its intention to protect British interests and British territory, and also Egypt, from attacks that have been made or threatened.

Britain Has Been Patient.

The statement continues:

"At the beginning of the war the British Government gave definite assurances that if Turkey remained neutral her independence and integrity would be respected during the war and in times of peace. To this France and Russian concurred. The British Government since then has endeavored with the greatest patience and forbearance to maintain friendly relations, in spite of increasing breaches of neutrality on the part of the Turkish and German vessels in the Straits.

An Unprecedented Act.

"On Thursday, Oct. 29, the British Government learned with the utmost regret that Turkish ships of war had, without any declaration of war, without warning, and without provocation of any sort, made wanton attacks upon open and undefended towns in the Black Seat of a friendly country, thus committing an unprecedented violation of the most ordinary rules of international law, comity and usage.

"Ever since the German warships Goeben and Breslau took refuge in Constantinople the attitude of the Turkish Government towards Great Britain has caused surprise and some uneasiness. The promises made by the Turkish Government to send away the German officers and crews of the Goeben and Breslau never have been fulfilled.

Influence of Germany.

"It was well known that the Turkish Minister of War was decidedly pro-German in his sympathies, but it was confidently hoped that the saner counsel of his colleagues, who had had experience of the friendship which Great Britain has always shown towards the Turkish Government, would have prevailed, and prevented that Government from entering upon the very risky policy of taking sides in the conflict on the side of Germany. German officers in large numbers have invaded Constantinople, have usurped the authority of the Government, and have been able to coerce the Sultan's ministers into taking up the policy of aggression.

"Great Britain, as well as France and Russia, has watched these proceedings patiently, protesting against many acts which have been constantly committed contrary to neutrality, and warning the Government of the Sultan against the danger in which they were placing the future of the Ottoman Empire.

Lavish German Bribes.

"Vigorously assisted by the ambassadors of Germany and Austria, German military elements in Constantinople have been persistently doing their utmost to force Turkey into war, both by their activities and service of the Turks, and by bribes, of which they have been so lavish.

"The Minister of War, with his German advisers, has lately prepared an armed force for attack upon Egypt. The Mosul and Damascus army corps have, since their mobilization, been constantly sending troops south, preparatory to the invasion of Egypt and the Suez Canal. From Akabah and Gaza, a large body of Bedouin Arabs have been called out and armed to assist in this venture, and some of these have crossed the Sinai frontier. Transport has been collected and roads have been prepared up to the frontier of Egypt. Mines have been dispatched to be laid in the Gulf of Akabah.

Meeting the Mohammedan.

"The notorious sheik, Aziz Shawish, has published and disseminated through Syria, and probably India, an inflammatory document urging the Mohammedans to fight against Great Britain. Dr. Prueffer, who was so long engaged in intrigues in Cairo against British occupation, and who is now attached to the German embassy in Constantinople, has been busily occupied in Syria, trying to incite the people to take part in the conflict.

"Aggressive action was certain to be the result of activity of the numerous German officers employed in the Turkish army, and acting under the orders of the German Government, who thus succeeded in forcing the hands of the advisers of the Sultan.

End of Turkish Empire.

"German intrigue cannot influence the loyalty to Great Britain of the 70,000,000 Mohammedans in India, and the feeling of the Mohammedans in Egypt. They must look with detestation on the misguided action, under foreign influence at Constantinople, which will inevitable lead to the disintegration of the Turkish Empire, which shows such forgetfulness of the many occasions on which Great Britain has shown her friendship to Turkey.

"They must feel bitterly the degeneration of their co-religionists, who can thus be dominated against their will by German influences, and in many of them realize that when Turkey is pushed into war by Germany they must dissociate themselves from a course of action that is prejudicial to the position of Turkey itself.

Cut Off Embassy Without Notice.

"The Turkish Government, summarily, and without notice, on Friday, cut off telegraphic communication with the British embassy at Constantinople. This is no doubt a prelude to further acts of aggression on their part, and the British Government must take whatever action is required to protect British interests and British territory, and also Egypt, from attacks that have been made and are threatened.

"The British ambassador, in a note to the Sublime Porte on Oct. 6, which did not reach London until Oct. 19, acknowledged receipt of the Porte's note of Sept. 28, setting forth the rules laid down by Turkey to secure respect for her neutrality. The ambassador said that the rules indicated a conception of the duties of neutrals, and 'therefore it was a matter of surprise that the practice of the Ottoman Government should hitherto be so at variance with these principles.'

Goeben and Breslau.

"The ambassador points out that, despite the rule to the contrary, the Goeben and Breslau were allowed to enter the Dardanelles, and remain in Turkish waters for an indefinite period on the pretext that a sale, as to the genuineness of which no evidence exists, had taken place.'

"The note goes on to point out that the two ships were not interned, that they were allowed to search British ships in the Dardanelles, were repaired in Turkish waters, have put to sea under Turkish command, and were revictualled at German expense on their return from cruises in the Black Sea, and were generally allowed to use the Turkish port as a base.

"Finally, says the note, the status of the Dardanelles has been violated by Turkey itself in violation of the series of international acts, and she has interfered with the free passage of British merchant ships through the Straits. The ambassador's note concludes:

Rules of Neutrality Violated.

"'In the presence of the acts set forth above it is impossible for the Imperial Ottoman Government to maintain that they have hitherto observed that duty, as neutrals, the performance of which the Imperial Minister for Foreign Affairs declares them to have had in view when drawing up the rules embodied in the circular note of Sept. 26. If, after consecrating their recognitions of these duties, by an official communication, the Imperial Government should continue to tolerate the use of Turkish territory by German ships and agents for purposes connected with the war, His Majesty's embassy will feel itself constrained to protest with renewed vigor against what it cannot but consider the partial and unneutral attitude on the part of the Imperial Ottoman Government, and must reserve to His Majesty's Government complete liberty of action, if, on the other hand, the object of the communication is to prove that the Imperial Government is prepared to embark on a new line of action, the embassy will have the utmost satisfaction in taking the act of assurance in that sense, and bringing it to the knowledge of the British Government.

Announcement in India.

SIMLA, British India, Nov. 1. — Via London, 5:21 p.m. — The announcement of the unfriendly attitude of Turkey toward the allies was made throughout India today in an official communication, wherein the Viceroy of India deplores "the endeavor of a Chauvinistic element to drive Turkey into a war with Great Britain for the benefit of Germany and Austria."

The reception which the announcement received in the outlying districts will not be known for some days, but responsible leaders of the Mohammedan community are already holding meetings in support of Great Britain, while the mosques are organizing prayers for the success of the British arms. The Mullahs are preaching homilies, urging Turkey either to maintain a neutrality or side with the allies.

GERMANY ASKS WOMAN'S AID TO WIN OVER CZAR

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Observer sends the followirg:

"According to a report being circulated in army circles, Russia recently has been approached regarding the conclusion of peace with Germany. It is said that the German Emperor wrote a personal letter to the Dowager Empress, urging her to persuade the Russian Emperor to make peace.

"The Dowager Empress forwarded the letter without comment to Emperor Nicholas, who sent it to Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian army. The Grand Duke returned the letter with this comment:

"'If you comply our armies will mutiny and there will be a revolution in all the Russias.'

"No confirmation of the report is obtainable."

TURKISH FLEET REPORTED TO HAVE SCORED TRIUMPH

Constantinople Says Czar's Gunboat Kubanets and Mine-Layer Are Sunk—Petrograd Claims Kubanets Beat Turkish Torpedo Boats.

[Canadian Press.]

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1. — Via London. — The following official telegram from Constantinople, dated Saturday, is published by the Frankfurter Zeitung:

"A small port of the Turkish fleet in the Black Sea on Thursday sank the Russian mine-layer Prut, a vessel of 5,000 tlins, which has abard 700 mines, damaged a Russian torpedo boat, and seized a coal steamer.

"A torpedo fired from the torpedo boat Haireti-Millet sank the Russian destroyer Kubanets. The Mauvenet-I-Millet torpedoed a Russian coastguard ship, which was severely damaged. Three Russian officers were saved by us and imprisoned. The Turkish fleet suffered no loss and the battle was successfully continued."

Sebastopol, according to a dispatch from Constantinople to the Frankfurter Zeitung.

Submarines at Antwerp.

A dispatch from Rotterdam to the Evening News, dated Saturday, says:

"Esschen, a Belgian town on the Dutch border, directly north of Antwerp, has been occupied by German soldiers and marines, who are preparing winter quarters there.

"The Germans are strengthening and mining the roads around Brussels, Grammont, Antwerp, Lokeren and Ghent.

"Six submarines, which arrived at Antwerp by rail, are now being fitted and tried in dock."

It is officially reported, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Paris, that when the French captured Quesnoy Sur Deule, six miles northwest of Lille, yesterday, they took 200 prisoners, two guns and a large number of quick-firers.

Attack On England Postponed.

The Exchange Telegraph Company's correspondent at The Hague sends the following:

"Several trains filled with cannons and submarines, bound from Germany to the Belgian coast, and destined for the proposed attack on the English coast have passed Liege, but have been stopped at Bruges until further notice, the attacks on England having been postponed until the present battle is decided.

"Germany has prohibited the importation of Dutch newspapers into any part of the German Empire."

Allies At Middelkerke.

The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company sends the following dispatch:

"The Handelsblad says that all the German attacks yesterday, north of Nieuport, were repulsed and in some places they were forced back several kilometres, while the Allies on the left wing advanced to Middlekerke. The whole coast line occupied by the Germans is strongly fortified and trenches have been thrown up near Knocke."

Retreating From Dixmude.

The Flushing correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says: "Heavy firing can be heard in Sluis from the direction of Thourout. Everything indicates that the Germans are retreating from Dixmude."

Battle Raging in Black Sea.

LONDON, Nov. 1—An official message has been received at Rome from Constantinople, according to a dispatch to the Central News Agency, announcing that the Russian fleet had attacked the Turkish fleet near Sebastopol in the Black Sea. Details of the battle are lacking.

The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company sends the following dispatch:

"The Russian gunboat Kubanets put up a fight against two Turkish torpedo boats, which entered Odessa Harbor, and attacked merchant ships. The Kubanets finally drove the Turkish boats off."

Turkey Blames Russia.

BERLIN, Nov. 1 (Via wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—An official Turkish report forwarded from Constantinople by the correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, says that the Russians opened hostilities on October 28, firing upon a portion of the Turkish fleet, after having for some time interfered with the evolutions of the warships.

Russia Says Turkey Hit First.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 1.—The following official statement was given out here tonight:

"The communications from Berlin and Vienna agencies saying that the Russian fleet opened hostilities against the Turkish squadron are common inventions. They are trying manifestly to lead into error public opinion in Constantinople, which is purposely being kept in ignorance concerning the perfidious attack on our coast by Turkish warships under the command of German officers.

"The same proceedings were employed when Germany declared war on us, it being said that Russian soldiers invaded German territory, while as a matter of fact not a single Russian soldier crossed the frontier before war was declared. Previous to the Turkish hostilities our fleet undertook no action. It is evident that if the initiative had been taken by the Russian fleet, the bombarding of the ports and the sudden attack of the Turkish fleet could not have taken place."

ACTING PRESIDENT AT GUELPH RESIGNS

Prof. Zavitz Will Not, However, Sever Connection With College.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, Nov. 1.—As a result of his trouble with the students of Ontario Agricultural College over the forming of an engineering corps by the student body, Professor C. A. Zavitz, who has been acting as head of the institution during Dr. Creelman's absence, yesterday tendered his resignation as acting president of the institution. This does not mean that he will sever his connections with the college.

Professor Zavitz has strong religious vitws regarding military training. Mr. J. R. Spry, chairman of the college committee with regard to military training, has received a letter from Hon. James Duff, minister of agriculture, stating that he wished the student body and faculty to feel that they had the backing of himself and the department in this matter, and if necessary he would be glad to take up with the faculty and with the military authorities the question of arranging the calendar so that credit would be given for time spent in that work.

Favors Project.

It is also known that Hon. James Duff yesterday forwarded to the acting president of the Ontario Agricultural College a letter, in which he formally expressed his hearty approval of the formation of an engineering corps for home defence by the students, and also giving instructions that a suitable building be placed at their disposal for instruction purposes.

Explains Situation.

Acting President C. A. Zavitz, of the Guelph Agricultural College, writes to The Advertiser as follows, in connection with the recent discussion that has taken place regarding military drill.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I notice an item in your paper today in reference to military drill at the Agricultural College. The college students asked for a meeting to discuss military drill at this institution. The request was granted. The meeting was held. A committee was appointed. This committee should have reported the results of the meeting to me at once. This would have been sent on to the minister of agriculture for his decision. No report was sent to me. On Wednesday evening a request was received from the chairman of the committee for permission to give notice at once to have drill on the college campus on the following day. I told him that the proper way would be to send a report or a request from the committee, through me, to the minister of agriculture for his ruling before military drill was started. I considered I had no right to approve of what the minister had not sanctioned in an official way. I have refused no request for any meeting of the student body.

HAD DYSPEPSIA

So Bad Could Not Take a Drink of Water Without Suffering.

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much. Drink too much. Use too much tobacco. You make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of a short time before dyspepsia follows.

That old, 40-year-old remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, will cure the dyspepsia and will cure it to stay cured as we can prove by the thousands of testimonials we have received from time to time.

Miss Sarah McRae, Newfield, Ont., writes: "I write to say that I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters, and have found it the best remedy I have ever used for dyspepsia. Two years ago I had stomach trouble so bad that I could not even take a drink of water without suffering. I took six bottles of B.B.B. and have been entirely cured, and can now eat anything without any bad after effects.

Burdock Blood Bitters is an old and well-tried remedy, but on account of the many substitutes we would ask you to make sure that our name appears on both the label and wrapper, as this preparation is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. b

HEADACHE, COLD OR SOUR STOMACH, REGULATE YOUR BOWELS—10 CENTS

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, sickening headache. Cascarets will remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. One taken tonight straightens you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Cascarets, too.

John Aitchison, of Cainsville, Caught Walking on Tracks.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, Nov. 1.—James Aitchison, a middle aged man, supposed to belong to Cainsville, was found upon the Grand Trunk tracks at Copetown today. He was taken to the Brantford Hospital, but expired shortly after arrival there. Both legs were severed at the knees, and although an operation was performed, it was ineffective. It would appear that he was struck by a train as he was walking in towards to city.

KHEDIVE OF EGYPT TO ASK EXPLANATION FROM BRITAIN

First Trouble Over Turkish Action Expected From That Quarter—Berlin's Story of Turks' Motives—Germans Clever in Retreat.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2—10:25 a.m.—War has not yet been formally declared on Turkey, but the withdrawal from Constantinople of the ambassadors of the Triple Entente powers is regarded in London as being equivalent to a signal for hostilities, which Turkey has anticipated by a naval raid in the Black Sea and by a reported land expedition, which is said to have penetrated into Egypt.

Evidence accumulates that Turkey intends to proclaim a holy war. Ample measures, however, it is asserted, have been taken by Great Britain and Russia against this probability, and it is evident that the first trouble is expected to arise in Egypt, where, it is said, the Khedive intends to ask Great Britain for an explanation of her attitude towards Turkey.

The Motives.

Berlin claims that Turkey was forced to throw in her lot with Germany because the Porte recognized that an entente victory would mean the disruption of the Turkish Empire with Constantinople, Armenia and Turkestan going to Russia, Arabia to England and Syria to France. On the other hand, in the event of the defeat of the Triple Entente nations, Turkey was to be guaranteed territorially, to be given aid in reconquering the Caucasus and Egypt, and be given, perhaps, something more.

The usual charges and denials are being made as to the responsibility for the first attack in the Black Sea, but these are issued chiefly for consumption by the neutral countries, since the inevitability of the conflict was recognized by both sides.

Lille Probably Reoccupied.

The battles on the sand dunes along the Belgian coast still are dragging on with painful monotony. Advances by either side are only for short distances, and are made at fearful cost. Further east, the allies claim to have penetrated to the north and to the east of Lille, which is believed to have been reoccupied by the allies.

Other reports claim that the allies daily are creeping nearer to Ostend, which even now scarcely can be said to be occupied in a military sense, but as long as the Germans hold the river the town does not need any considerable force to retain it.

Another unconfirmed special report also states that a large German force was cut off from the main army when a Belgian bicycle corps blew up a bridge, and that many thousands of the invaders surrendered.

Germans' Rapid Retreat.

In Russian Poland little is learned regarding the operations, but it is now becoming clear that the superiority of the German transport service has enabled the retiring forces to distance the Russian pursuit. It is hardly likely that fighting will be resumed along this front until the Germans make a stand or resume the offensive. The Austrians still are holding out with great stubbornness on the extreme Russian left, and it is considered hardly possible that the Russians will assume a full offensive until all danger of their wing being turned has been prevented by the hurling back of the Austrians along the River San.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS IN CONVENTION HERE

District Meeting Now in Session at Colborne Street Church.

Committees to carry on the succeeding year's work were elected and reports and addresses heard at the opening session of the London District Epworth League, in annual convention at the Colborne Street Methodist Church today, attended by over 100 delegates.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with devotional addresses conducted by our pastor of the church, Rev. D. N. McCamus, followed by an address by Rev. Herbert J. Creasy, the president of the district league.

"The first and one of the most important works of the Epworth League is to generate purpose in the souls of its young people," said Rev. S. T. Bartlett, the general secretary of the Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church. He urged the league members to generate in boys and girls the purpose to be good, and in doing this, they would go a long way to accomplishing the work of their organization.

Spirit Magnetic.

The speaker declared that the spirit of the Epworth Leagues should be magnetic, and that the young people should be drawn toward them, rather than dragged, as was too often the case.

Rev. A. J. Thomas, of the Dundas Centre Church, in conducting a discussion on the "Problems of the Missionary Department in the Leagues," found that the general difficulty was in circulating and getting members to read literature about missionary work.

The work of the summer school held this summer at Goderich was outlined by Miss Lily Payne.

Officers elected to the business committee were Rev. G. N. Hazen, Rev. ... Lloyd, Rev. Wm. H. Harvey, ... J. E. J. Millyard and Miss M. ...nes.

Those elected to the committee on resolutions and memorials were Miss L. Payne, Rev. G. J. Kerr, of Delaware, Miss McCullough, Mrs. Tutt and Rev. A. J. Thomas.

The morning session closed at noon, and delegates were served with luncheon in the schoolroom of the church, under the auspices of the Colborne Street League.

REQUESTS EXTENSION

Street Railway Wants More Time to Make Improvements.

Things are going from bad to worse with the London Street Railway Company, according to Manager C. B. King. The board of control today received a letter from him, asking that the company be granted a further extension of time for the installation of the extra switch in West London ordered by the council, on the ground that finances are very low.

In fact, Mr. King intimated that the company would have to save every nickel it possibly could in order to be able to pay for the four news cars which are on order, and which are to be delivered next month. He went on to say that, although the West London service had been improved in point of schedule, number of cars, etc., very considerably, the earnings showed an actual falling off. He ascribed this to the depression consequent on the war.

The board was in favor of allowing an extension of two months, and will so recommend.

MUST CLEAN UP

Merchants Who Allow Cellars to Become Littered Face Prosecution.

In future, Fire Chief Aitken will prosecute rigorously any downtown storekeeper whose premises are not found to be kept reasonably clear of rubbish which might prove a fire danger. He was instructed to that effect by the board of control today, following his report that the basement of a Dundas street store, where a fire occurred recently, was so littered with packing cases and other stuff that the firemen hardly could make their way across it.

"Why don't you summon the offenders?" the chief was asked, and he replied: "If you say so, I will."

Controller Ashplant suggested that a beginning might be made with the members of the board of control.

THREE LOSE LIVES IN COLUMBUS FIRE

[Canadian Press.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 2.—Three men lost their lives in a fire which damaged the Industrial Home of the Volunteers of America here last night. More than a score of lodgers, who were in the building when the alarm was sounded, escaped uninjured. The dead: John Taborn, of Columbus; R. E. Butler, of Cleveland, and David Cameron, of Pittsburg.

The victims were suffocated by dense clouds of smoke.

OPTIMISTIC REPORT GIVEN OUT IN BERLIN

Nothing But Success Mentioned in French and Galician Battles.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 2—By wireless to Sayville, L. I.—Information given out today for the press in official quarters, is as follows: "The progress of the fighting on the front in the north of France is regarded here as highly favorable. The report given out yesterday, with its news that the French had been thrown back across the Aisne at a point near Soissons, and that the operations already had been extended to the west front of Verdun, is regarded as the most favorable issued for some time past.

"Letters from the front reaching Berlin describe the fighting between Nieuport and Ypres as probably the fiercest of the whole war.

"The Germans forced their way southward by repeated night attacks. The toll of death was great on both sides.

"The fighting in Poland has not yet recommenced, but in Galicia, according to special dispatches, events would appear to be approaching a decisive moment. A dispatch received here from Cracow says the Russians have been thrown back across the River San and ejected from Leseaisk, whence the Austrians pursued them for a distance of four miles. An Austrian official report declares merely that the Austrian forces in Central Galicia have retained all the captured positions to the north and east of Turka, near Stary-Ambor; to the east of Przemysl. They repulsed an attack near Disco, the Russians losing many prisoners. A Russian column, composed of infantry, cavalry and artillery, has been defeated to the north of Kuthy, on the frontier of Bukowina and Galicia.

"The exploits of the Turkish fleet, which bombarded Odessa and Sebastopol and destroyed two Russian warships, nineteen transports and several oil tanks, caused great enthusiasm here."

SAYS FAREWELL

Lieut.-Col. Wigle Takes Leave of His Regiment.

Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle practically said farewell to the Twenty-first Regiment at Windsor on Friday, when he took command for the last time. Col. W. E. Hodgins, Lieut.-Col. McCrimmon, Majors Tooley and Hogg, and Capt. Ingram were present from the headquarters staff to conduct the inspection of the regiment.

In the course of his remarks to his men, after the inspection, Col. Wigle said: "When I come back from the front, if I do come back, I will take no further active part in military service. I have enjoyed every bit of the time in the service, and feel honored that I have been chosen to command a regiment that is going to fight for the Empire."

The command of the Windsor regiment has been turned over to Major C. S. Robinson. Col. Wigle will come to London Wednesday to take charge of the Eighteenth Battalion until it is ordered away.

HOLDING RESERVIST

Man, Believed To Be Austrian Soldier, Remanded by Magistrate.

Andrew Block, thought by the police to be an Austrian reservist, was remanded today by Police Magistrate J. C. Judd for one week on a vagrancy charge, in order that the police may have an opportunity to establish his identity.

Block, who was arrested by Detectives Robert Egelton and Harry Down in the Grand Trunk yards Sunday, stated in court that he is a Russian Pole, and came here from Berlin, Ont., to look for work. Block also claims to have come into this country three months ago from Rochester, N. Y., and that he has been a resident of the United States for three years.

In searching Block yesterday the detectives discovered a letter sent to him the contents of which were not disclosed. The envelope was addressed to Andrew Block, 61 King street, East Berlin.

GOEBEN DAMAGED

Russian Warship Hits Her and Forces Her Away.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, Nov. 2.—Via London, 2:00 p.m.—A dispatch from Sebastopol says that the former German cruiser Goeben's bombardment of that Black Sea fort, was put an end to by the Constantinowska, whose batteries forced the warship to withdraw.

The shore station subsequently intercepted a wireless telegraphy message from the Goeben, which said: "Damaged. Will return to Constantinople for repairs."

Active Turkish Cruisers Identified With Those Bought From Germany.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2—7:11 a.m.—A Rome dispatch to the Central News asserts that Turkish gunboats are reported at the entrance to the Gulf of Suez. Numerous detachments of Turkish cavalry, according to the same dispatch, have reached Akabah, a fortified village of Arabia, on the gulf of the same name.

SANK BRITISH VESSEL.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to the Times from Petrograd, dated Sunday, says that a British vessel, the Frederick, was ignited and scuttled during the bombardment of Novorossysk. The Turks also wantonly bombarded Anapa, a Russian seaport of the Black Sea, at the western extremity of the Caucasius range.

SEBASTOPOL BOMBARDED.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, Nov. 1, via London, Nov. 2.—The newspapers report that the cruisers Goeben and Breslau and four Turkish torpedo boats bombarded the shore near Sebastopol yesterday morning, shelling the railroad and docks. The Russian shore batteries replied. The warships disappeared along the Crimean shore to the eastward, after inflicting trivial damage.

Theodosia, on the Crimean coast, 18 miles north of Sebastopol, also suffered a bombardment on Saturday, when a Turkish cruiser sailed close enough to throw thirty shells into the city.

MINISTRY WILL RESIGN.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—The Constantinople correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company, in a dispatch dated Saturday, says: "The American embassy takes charge of the British, French and Belgian nationals' interests, and the Italian embassy will look after the Russian nationals. It is expected that the cabinet will fall and be succeeded by a war ministry, representing the extreme elements of the committee of union and progress.

"It is reported that a body of two thousand armed Bedouins have penetrated Egyptian territory."

IS THE GOEBEN.

[Canadian Press.]

Amsterdam, via London, Nov. 2, 10:05 a.m. — The correspondent of the Handelsbladt telegraphs that the Turkish cruiser Sultan Selim, which bombarded Sepastopol, is the cruiser known as the Goeben when the vessel was under the German flag.

FINED FOR ASSAULT

Free-for-All Sets Steve Komiski Back Twenty-Five Dollars.

Steve Komiski pleaded guilty in police court today before Police Magistrate J. C. Judd, to a charge of assault and wounding Philip Luko and Joseph Poliski, and paid $25 fine and costs into the court coffers as a result of a free-for-all fight on the south side Saturday night.

The evidence was very contradictory, Komiski stating that the other men picked a quarrel with him, and that in the row which followed, he kicked them both in the head. Poliski swore that without provacation Komiski picked up a chair and assaulted Lucko and himself. Lucko when asked about the trouble shook his head.

"Me no speak English," he declared.

Magistrate Judd ordered him locked up until he could speak English, but Lucko failed to learn the language in ten minutes, and the case was disposed of.

DIVINE SERVICE

Special Church Parades at Queen's Park and Barracks.

Rev. H. B. Ashby, of the Church of the Redeemer, conducted services yesterday morning, at Wolseley Barracks, at which about 200 men are quartered, part of the number who will form the second contingent from this division.

The men were formed up in the barracks, Mr. Ashby preached on the subject of Obedience, pointing out that it was the first principle in military training, and that it was also a soldier's duty to obey the word of God. The speaker also led the soldier congregation in the hymns. The service was concluded with the National Anthem. Services were also conducted at Queen's Park, where about 600 men are encamped, by Rev. A. Appleyard, rector of St. Matthew's Church.

SIXTY GUINEAS PER CENT INSURANCE

Lloyds' Regard Italy's Taking Part in War as Likely.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—2:45 p.m.—A premium of 60 guineas per cent was paid at Lloyd's today to insure against a declaration of war by Italy on one of the great powers before the end of November. This high rate indicates that the underwriters regard the risk as considerable.

Kaiser Tells Regiment That His Enemies Will Be Beaten.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 2.—Via London, 11:55 a.m.—In addressing the Brandenburg regiment in France recently, at a point behind the front, Emperor William closed his speech with these words:

"When the war is finished, we should see each other again. Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten."

This information is conveyed in a letter received in Berlin from the front.

WINDING-UP ORDER FOR MONTREAL FIRM

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Application was made in the practice court today, and a petition filed in the insolvency court for a winding-up order against W. H. Scroggie, Limited, one of the largest drygoods stores in this city, by Stewart & MacDonald, Exports, Limited.

The defendant company waived delays and consented to the petition being returned forthwith. The order was granted by Judge Charbonneau.

The total liabilities of the company are said to be $700,000, although its assets are substantial. The company recently built an enormous store on St. Catherines street.

ITALIAN CITIZENS BELIEVE ITALY WILL FIGHT TURKS

Professor Pasquale Venuta Declares That Londoners Are Not Appreciative of Great Influence Native Land Has Had in Favor of Allies.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Some of my Italian compatriots in London have expressed to me a certain "hurtness" because of an incident observed in a local picture theatre last week. The battleships of the great nations were being shown on the screen, the various national anthems being played by the orchestra at the same time. Loud applause greeted the French, Russian, Japanese and United States ships, in common with the British ships, while an almost oppressive silence prevailed when the Italian battleships were shown and the Italian "Royal March" played. There appears to be a considerable feeling in Canada that Italy has not given to the allies the active support that she ought to have given.

The Triple Alliance.

It must be remembered that Italy was bound by treaty to Germany and Austria, but that through friendship for England, Italy took advantage of the fact that Germany was the aggressor in the war, to break "la triplice alleanza." Had Italy not preserved her neutrality, the southern boundaries of France, no less than her eastern boundaries, would have been invaded by her foes, and the capture of Paris would have been much more imminent if not actually effected.

If, on the other hand, Italy had immediately taken sides with the allies, in the opinion of many people, the war would have been speedily ended. I do not think so. Italy's espousal of the cause of the allies would more likely have been the signal for Turkey to join at once, directing her hostilities towards Egypt, as she is doing today. This very thing, Italy did not wish to invite, as it would and does endanger the Italian interests in Tripoli and Somalia.

Will Fight the Turk.

But now that Turkey has taken the aggressive, it is my opinion, and the opinion of practically all other Italian Canadians, that Italy will very soon be at war alongside of England against the Turk. It is necessary for Italy to safeguard her interests in Africa against the possible extension of the Turkish dominion, and now when the British interests in Egypt are threatened, I firmly believe that Italy will not stand aside and allow the British, for whom the Italian people generally feel the warmest sympathy, to fight alone the common cause against the Turk.

On the Right Side.

In conclusion, let me say, that in writing this, I have been prompted only by a desire that the Italians in Canada and the Italians in Italy should not be misunderstood in regard to their positions in the present world crisis. The Italians everywhere are only too anxious to give every possible assistance and encouragement to England and England's cause. Sincerely,

PROFESSOR PASQUALE VENUTA.

London, November 2, 1914.

Professor Venuta and all others of London's good Italian citizens have demonstrated by contribution and services upon which side they and their country stand.

BOTH SIDES IMPROVING IN DEFENCE AGAINST AIRSHIPS

Using Cannon To Bring Down Craft—Storm Raging on North Sea.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 1, via London, Nov. 2.—The effects of the approaching winter on the campaign already are evident. Heavy frosts are reported in East Prussia, and the campaign in Poland has been waged for some time under most disagreeable conditions, caused by rain and snow storms. A severe storm is now raging on the North Sea, making it uncomfortable for the naval outposts, because of the rolling and plunging of the torpedo boats and submarines. German life-savers yesterday rescued the crews of three German commercial steamers, which were wrecked off Heligoland.

A letter received in Bremerhaven from the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha speaks of the frightful weather prevailing at the front. The trenches are filled with water, and the men of his regiment, who for fourteen days were on duty at the front, stood day and night in water breast high. The enemy's searchlights played constantly on the German positions, and it was impossible for one to show his head above the embankment even at night without drawing their fire.

Guarding Against Airships.

Only the scantiest news from the German side is being published here. For their descriptive stories the newspapers rely largely on dispatches telegraphed from abroad, which they are permitted to print fairly freely. Information concerning the comparatively definite location of the battle line is derived almost entirely from such sources.

There are indications that both sides have greatly improved the effectiveness in their anti-aeroplane defence. The Germans have installed anti-balloon cannon extensively, and have converted a large number of captured French machine guns for use against the fliers, thereby hampering air attacks on the batteries and trenches, such as described in the following letter from an artillery officer: "We were bivouacked in a little wood. Suddenly we sighted three aeroplanes. Two, evidently French, flew directly toward our battery. Rifle fire against these dare-devils was absolutely useless. We crouched like flocks of hens under a hawk as an aviator circled overhead. A bomb whizzed down, but luckily the wind carried it to the edge of the wood, wounding only one man, while the flier was circling to regain his position above us.

Was Not a Friend.

"The third machine, which appeared to be a German and bore the iron cross, the German recognition mark, on both wings, crossed our position flying fairly low. We expected him to attack the other machine, but instead there was again an ominous whizz and a bomb landed in our lines, killing four men and wounding others. The tragedy, however, was not ended. The first flier returned, dropping another bomb squarely above our battery, killing ten horses and wounding four men. The two aviators, one of whom surely was British, then flew off to join their third comrade.

"Now we are protected by balloon cannon. Yesterday our protectors brought down a British machine. The observer was killed and aviator was wounded by shell fragments. The machine, curiously enough, was little damaged."

CONTROLLER OPPOSES NEW "ROLLER" SYSTEM

Objects to Garbage Cans Being Left Out On the Streets.

The board of control today authorized Mayor Graham to make arrangements for the insuring of the garbage stables and barns and their contents. It was explained that a three-year $2,700 policy, with about 27 months to run, had been held by Contractor Boss, who had agreed to turn it over to the city for a price which was almost as low as the cost of taking out new insurance for one year for $2,300. He suggested, therefore, that it be taken over, and an additional $2,300 insurance taken to bring the total up to $5,000.

The offer of Contractor W. G. Webster, to refund to the city one-half of the amount he had received for teaming earth taken out of the Wharncliffe road sewer excavation to fill in private properties, was accepted. Mr. Webster reported that he had received altogether in this connection about $87.

The board decided to allow a claim of $4, submitted by C. Reid, for damage to his wagon occasioned by dropping into a depression in the road on King street, near Rectory street.

Need Larger Carts.

Garbage Superintendent Dodd reported that the "roller" collection system had proved successful, although considerable opposition had been made by householders. He said three days' work could be done in two days, and one-third less wagons would be needed for the new system, but that larger carts would have to be installed to bring about this result.

Controller Rose was not in favor of the system, and declared that he would not approve the leaving of cans out on the sidewalk for hours at a time. The people were paying for backyard collections, and should get them. However, Mr. Dodd was authorized to continue the experiment.

A letter was received from the Ontario Railway Board, saying that November 12 had been set as the date for considering the plans of the Winnett subdivision. It was decided to oppose the passing of the plans, on the ground that the street arrangement was unsatisfaltory.

Want Wires Underground.

The city solicitor will apply to the railway board on the city's behalf for power to order the placing of all telegraph, electric light and telephone wires underground.

THE DOCTOR DECLINES

Will Not Be Candidate For Mayoralty This Year.

Dr W. J. Stevenson sent out a statement today in which he declined to accept the support of the Trades and Labor Council as a candidate for mayor. He said he did not have the time to give from his practice to enter a mayoralty contest, and for this reason he withdrew from further consideration of the office.

MYSTERIOUS MEETING AT PORT OF HONOLULU

Collector and Japanese Consul Hold Consultation at Midnight.

[Canadian Press.]

Honolulu, Nov. 2.—A midnight conference was held between collector of the port and the Japanese consul here last night, and wireless messages were exchanged with the United States revenue cutter Thais, patrolling outside the harbor.

The collector appeared perturbed, and was uncommunicative as to the cause for the meeting at that unusual hour. Two large Japanese cruisers, the Hizen and the Asama, are hovering outside the harbor, near where the Thais is on duty, but whether the conference and the messages had to do with them or not could not be learned from any official source.

SERVIANS REPULSED AUSTRIAN ATTACKS

Inflicting Heavy Losses at Emmora and Banja on October 29.

[Canadian Press.]

Nish, Servia, Saturday, Oct. 31.—Via London, Nov. 2.—9:43 a.m.—A semi-official note has been issued here as follows: "The enemy, operating October 29 in the direction of Gutchevo, bombarded our positions at Eminova and Banja from 7 o'clock in the morning until noon. At this hour they attacked, but were repulsed by our troops. Our counter-attacks developed into violent bayonet combats in which the enemy, sustaining heavy losses, was forced to fall back in disorder, leaving three officers and about 300 men on the field.

"The enemy delivered another attack on our positions in the evening, but was again forced to retire with heavy loss.

"Nothing of importance has occurred on the remainder of the front."

LOCAL NEWS

PROMISSORY NOTE CASE.—Jarvis & Vininig have issued a writ on behalf of Elliot, Marr & Co., against Jas. H. Jenson, for goods sold, and for three promissory notes, the total value being $387.

LEAGUE "AT HOME."—The Memorial Methodist Epworth League will hold an at home at the church Tuesday evening. A musical program has been arranged for the evening's entertainment.

ALLEGED BIKE THEFT.—Edwin Smith, a north side young man, was arrested by Detective Harry Down Saturday as he was in the act of selling a bicycle for $10 that he is alleged to have stolen from Gordon Udy, of Maitland street.

TRANSFERRED TO TORONTO.—The action of A. Lorne Becher, of this city, against A. B. Rickman and Charles Cronyn, of Toronto, over some mining lands in the Gowganda district, that was to have been tried at the fall assizes here, has been taken off the list and a reference made to the master in Toronto to take the account.

NO MORE "HOLD-UP."—Complaints have reached the board of control concerning the street railway company's practice of holding up cars at the Grand Opera House at night to the greater convenience of the general travelling public, and the company will be notified that this practice must cease.

FAIL TO CONVINCE.—Sergeant-Major McGuire, Sergeant Birrell and three policemen failed to convince David Armstrong in police court that he was drunk Saturday night, and after a somewhat lengthy discussion, Magistrate Judd adjourned the case until Friday in order that David may bring his witnesses. Armstrong was charged with a breach of the liquor act.

SUIT FOR BUILDING.—A writ has been issued by Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons, on behalf of the Dyment-Baker Company, against W. N. W. Bailey for $742 and $25 costs, the value of labor and material supplied by W. T. Barnes to the defendant, at his request for the erection of a house in this city. The claim was assigned to the plaintiffs by Barnes, and notice of the assignment sent to the defendant.

SUING WIDOW.—Richard Oke, the poultryman, of this city, has issued a writ against Mrs. Ida Oke, widow of William Oke, asking for a declaration that a Huron and Erie debenture for $7,500, a diamond ring and a gold stopwatch, form part of the estate of the late William Oke. The writ states Mrs. Oke has taken these articles for her own use. Mr. Oke also claims an injunction to withstrain Mrs. Oke, as administratrix of the estate, from selling some real estate in London Township. The writ was issued by Meredith & Fisher.

NO. 8 OFFICERS.—At Dundas Centre Methodist Sunday school yesterday, No. 8 Club elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Honorary president, Rev. Amos J. Thomas, M. A., B. D.; honorary vice-president, Donald C. McNaughton; president, Albert E. Cowley; vice-presidents, A. Reyburn, C. Hourd; secretary, Ira Sumner; treasurer, John W. Cahill; auditor, Cecil Hilliard; teacher, Professor James H. Bowman; assistant teacher, Henry B. Ashplant; ways and means committee, Leonard Tait, Fred Ashplant, John W. Cahill, Ira Sumner, Ernie Armstrong and J. W. P. Jones. Interesting reports of progress for the year were read. As an extra to the Sunday school lesson, each Sunday, Professor James Bowman gives an outline of the week's doings in the European war, and this has a means of drawing a large number of the boys to the class, which meets at 2:45 o'clock on Sundays.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Harold Pattison Crouch, formerly Miss Elsie Henderson, will receive Thursday, November 5, at her home, No. 2, St. George Apartments, Wellington street, and afterwards on the first Tuesday of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Tate, 784 Dufferin avenue, spent Sunday with friends in Dutton.

Mrs. R. Albert Brown (nee Beatrice Cline) will receive for the first time since her marriage, Tuesday, November 3, from 4 to 6 o'clock, at her home, 507 Queen's avenue.

"OVERTIME" REFUSED

Engineers' Clerks Will Get Nothing From City.

The bill for "overtime" on behalf of two clerks in the engineer's department was re-presented to the board of control today with an explanatory letter from City Engineer W. M. Ashplant, pointing out that the work for which he was asking extra pay for his men was of a special character. He said also that he had had an understanding with the board that overtime pay would be forthcoming for this, and added that if the board would not pass the account he would feel bound to pay the amount out of his own pocket.

Controller Moore suggested that "if he is foolish enough to do that, let him."

Mayor Graham denied that any arrangement had been made to pay extra for the work mentioned. On the other hand he declared that when Mr Ashplant had approached him on the subject he had said very distinctly that this would not be done. The board again refused to approve the account, which amounts to about $45.

FEARS FOR RELATIVE

London Woman Has Heard Nothing Further About Brother.

Since news reached this city that the hospital ship Rohilla had been wrecked on the rocks off the coast of Yorkshire, Mrs. William Tunnock, 252 Ottaway avenue, has been anxiously waiting for news of the safety or otherwise of her brother, John Martin, and a brother-in-law, Charles Woontoon, who were members of the vessel's crew when last she heard of them. So far no word has reached her.

Mrs. Tunnock believes her two relatives may have been transferred to some other ship when the Rohilla, which was previously a transport, was converted into a hospital ship. They were troopship sailors, she points out, and may have been sent to another of the troopers instead of being retained on the Rohilla after her conversion.

PARLIAMENT GRANTS $5,000 TO BOY SCOUTS

Organization Has Now $60,000, and Activity Will Continue.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—The Canadian Boy Scout movement is in funds to the amount of $60,000, and it is announced that the financial stringency will have no adverse effect upon its activity.

A statement given out says, that, through his Royal Highness's efforts, a sum of $60,000 has been raised by subscription for the work of the association. By a parliamentary grant of $5,000, the seal of governmental and parliamentary approval has also been set on the work.

NO LOCAL FEAR OF GERMAN PLOT

Railwaymen Say There Is No Special Effort To Guard Line.

COL. SMITH APPOINTED

Made Honorary Colonel of the Seventh — Eighteenth Battalion Over Strength.

It was announced at militia headquarters today that Paymaster Major E. R. Tooley was transferred to Victoria, B. C., and leaves for his new post on Thursday. He will serve there in the same capacity as he has served in the first division. His work will be supervised by Major Shannon, adjutant-general of the staff.

Major Spittal, of the Seventh Regiment, announced today that Lieut.-Col. A. M. Smith had been appointed to succeed the late Col. Little as honorary colonel of the regiment. Col. Smith stated this afternoon that he would accept the honor conferred upon him.

There was no important news received at militia headquarters today, although the officers were deeply interested in the report of the plot to blow up the Welland Sanal and the C. P. R. tunnel at Hamilton. At the railway offices it was said that no official confirmation of this report had come out of the general railroad headquarters. So far as local railroad men know, no special effort is being made to guard railroad property as a result of the report of this latest plot.

When war first broke out, guards were stationed at all high bridges and important property points of both the Grand Trunk and C. R. R., but these were gradually withdrawn, until normal conditions again prevailed. In the opinion of one local railroad man, there will probably be no general move to protect railroad property until the menace from dynamite become than than mere report.

Recruited Over Strength.

The Eighteenth Battalion has been over-recruited so far as its actual strength is concerned, although the 10 per cent reserve force is not yet completed. Today the following arrived to be quartered in the camps at the barracks and Queen's Park: Walkerton 10, Chatham 20, Galt 4, St. Thomas 20, Berlin 5. This brings the number in both camps up to about 825.

With the battalion at full strength the probable apportionment of its members will be as follows: London 150, Windsor 200, Woodstock 75, Chatham 75, St. Thomas 100, Strathroy 25, Sarnia 65, Stratford 75, Galt 125, Guelph 100, Walkerton 50 and Clinton 50. The number from Berlin is included in Guelph's figure.

Mentioned in Dispatches.

Col. A. M. Smith received word today that Capt. T. C. Sinclair, of the Royal Field Artillery, a son-in-law of Capt. Albert Lund, had been specially mentioned with other officers in the dispatches of Gen. French sent from the battle front to London, England.

Mrs. Sinclair is a niece of Col. Smith. Both Capt. Sinclair and Capt. Lund are well known in London.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN, COPETOWN MAN DIES

James Aicheson Had Both Legs Cut Off on G. T. R.

[Canadian Press.]

Brantford, Nov. 2.—With both legs cut off by a Grand Trunk train, James Aichison, Copetown, was brought to the General Hospital here yesterday and died soon after admittance, owing to loss of blood.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Charlotte Stoneman.

Mrs. Charlotte Stoneman, widow of John Stoneman, died at Montlac, Sask., on Wednesday, while visiting her sons. Mrs. Stoneman, since moving to London from St. John's, London Township, a year and a half ago, had resided at 988 Richmond street. She is survived by four sons—William, Fred, John and David, all of Montlac, Sask., and four daughters—the Misses Marjorie, Lottie, Dora and Annie, all at home. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:15 to St. John's Church, where services were conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Richardson. Interment was made in St. John's Cemetery.

Alan T. Pardoe Buried.

The funeral of Alan T. Pardoe was held this morning from his late residence, 316 Oxford street, at 7:30 o'clock to the C. P. R. station, the remains being forwarded to Toronto on the 8 o'clock train. Services were held Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the house by Rev. Canon Craig, of St. John the Evangelist Church.

Mrs. McLean's Death.

Mrs. Mary Ferguson McLean, formerly of this city, and widow of John D. R. McLean, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Reynolds, 593 Markham street, Toronto, Saturday night.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Reynolds, and one son, J. C. McLean, of Bangor, Maine, and one sister, Mrs. Shoebottom, Weyburn, Sask. Mrs. McLean was a sister of the late Senator Ferguson, and the late Justice Ferguson. She was a daughter of the late John Ferguson, of Home Farm, London Township.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning on the arrival of the 11:06 G. T. R. train from Toronto to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Child's Death.

The death of Frances Taylor Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Alena Stewart, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingram P. Taylor, occurred at the residence of her grandparents, 94 Horton street, early this morning. She was 8 years and 6 months old. The funeral will be private, and held on Wednesday to Chatham, where interment will be made.

CRIMINAL INDICTMENTS AGAINST DIRECTORS

William Rockefeller Among Railroad Men Implicated—Conspiracy Charge.

MANY GERMAN PRISONERS

a well mopping their heads with filthy rifle-cleaning flannels. They waited orders to wash! At work the same. Of independence or efficiency we find no trace. Without officers they act helpless. Yet toward their officers they show sinister suspicion.

"Kaiserism's divine right to govern wrong fosters brute force and terrorism in the military caste. Prussian officers shot down their own men at Liege and in the fight of Heligoland. The German soldier realizes himself a pawn in the imperial game.

"When the nations declare peace Germany will face civil war."

Along the esplanade between the inner and outer walls stretched a line of regulation army tents, floored with straw, hung with the prisoners' possessions and with porous water bottles cooling in the draft. One tent was a canteen, its counter laden with apples, tobacco, postcards and jam.

Prisoners told off to work in the French vineyards earn 30 cents a day, of which each man keeps eight cents for pocket money. All are free to write home as often as they choose and to receive any number of home letters.

French Doctors Saved All the German Wounded.

Dr. Marlier, in surgical cap and coat, led us through the emergency hospital. Hastily arranged in a fifteenth-century bastion, the ancient halls connected by quaint little corridors were clean and sweet as new paint could make them.

"Of 1,200 prisoners brought here on September 12, 680 were wounded. We operated on all within 24 hours—without losing a case." Professional pride rang in the physician's voice. Fifty prostrate "enemies" smiled their satisfaction. Each lay between sheets and upon an iron camp bed under a French army blanket.

Beyond the foot of 20 beds hung 20 cavalry boots weighted with sand. Unseen cords extended under the bedding. "These men have fractured legs," explained the doctor. "The weight now will prevent limping later."

A French zouave, his brown face quite sober, sat by a bedside stroking an "enemy's" arm which throbbed with fever.

"Me, I was drunk again," confessed the culprit. "The cure sent me here for a penalty."

Nearby five medical assistants were cutting lead sheets into economical splints.

"Here we have a new thing," boasted one enthusiast.

"The envelope of the new bullet is magnetic. Therefore it may be extracted from a depth of six inches by this electric magnet."

Wound Healed, But Forgets Who He Is.

In the next ward a gay little chasseur footed an imaginary fling in a Highlander's kilt. Half the buttons on his coat showed symbols of British army corps—exchanges with comrades in recent battles. Thirty badly-wounded men applauded the impromptu entertainment. One, apparently unhurt, sat dully aloof. "Poor lad, said the doctor, pityingly, "we have done what we could. His head wound is healed. But he has forgotten who he is."

One patient, mummified in elaborate splints, told the story of his prison ward in French. "As for me I am an Alsatian, born since '70. Shrapnel smashed my thigh. After I woke the German Red Cross found me. 'Thigh bones take three months to knit. He is done for as a soldier,' said the bearers. Therefore they abandoned me to the French. You can count 18 bad fractures in this hospital alone. When we came here dozens were groaning with wounds, hundreds hoarse with bronchitis, some sick with enteric fever. The trenches are awful."

"Is there enteric fever in the German trenches?"

The Alsatian's lean face grew scornful. "Enteric—and worse," he said grimly. "The next ward is filled with Lorrainers, all wounded in the left hand or arm—they did it themselves. Beyond that are a hundred Poles.

Polish Prisoners Refuse To Talk German.

"Since the Czar gave Poland home rule they have begged a prison apart. They are Germans no longer. Being Poles, they refuse to speak German or to understand German. Between German Poland on the east, Germanized Alsace-Lorraine on the west, socialists in every army corps ———," a shrewd smile completed the sentence.

In France, German prisoners receive daily: Bread, 1 lb. 8 oz.; good quality, well made; meat, 1 lb., fresh, reasonably tender; vegetables, 8 oz. fresh, or 3 oz. dried; rice, 2 oz.; white beans, 1 oz.; coffee, 1-7 lb.; sugar, 1 1-3 oz., or 35 grammes.

KAISER'S BIG GUARD AMUSES KING ALBERT

Belgian Ruler, on Firing Line, Often Eats With Soldiers.

[Canadian Press.]

Amsterdam, via London, Nov. 2.—"The Belgian king's bearing when he is under fire is splendid," says the Tijd's Dunkirk correspondent. "While the wounded were being withdrawn on one occasion, he stood calmly smoking a cigarette and superintending operations with projectiles bursting all around.

"The King is a great comrade to the soldiers. Frequently he takes his meals at the soldiers' mess, discussing with the men the conduct of the campaign and the likelihood of early peace. He has been greatly amused at a visitor's account of the huge retinue of guards with which the German Emperor is surrounded."

PUZZLING?

IN COMMENTING on the contribution of the sum of $100,000 to the patriotic fund by the residents of Berlin, Ontario, and vicinity, the Literary Digest says "the loyalty of many German-Canadians to the land of their adoption is as pleasing to the people of Canada as it is puzzling to witnesses of German-American zeal for the Fatherland."

Let us suppose that the United States had been one of the guarantors of Belgium's neutrality. Let us suppose that Germany violated that compact in defiance of the United States. No one in Canada believes that the United States would have stood aside and allowed the crime without a forceful protest. Our big neighbor is not the sort that tears up scraps of paper, nor permits the other guarantors to tear them up. Indeed, we find in the Cuban incident almost a parallel for the Belgium defence; the spirit of protection for a smaller country was what caused Uncle Sam to take a hand, the blowing up of the Maine being merely an aggravation.

Then let us place the United States in the place of Great Britain. The American people are at war with Germany and there are those who are skeptical of her motives, just as the Literary Digest appears to be somewhat skeptical of Britain's integrity at the present juncture. How does the German-American stand now? Does he revolt and fight for the Fatherland, or does he stand by the country of his adoption? We venture to say that he would choose America with a just cause rather than Germany with no cause at all.

We admit that the sight of German-Canadians contributing to the cause of the allied nations is literally spectacular. Yet the sight of the same German-Canadians volunteering to fight for the Allies is a hundred times more spectacular. It is thrilling. For who shall say that one German-Canadian would fight for Great Britain if he had not been seized with a "sacred right of rebellion;" a sense of the tremendous justice of Belgium's cause, if he were not certain that his service was in the supreme interests of his Fatherland, and that it was the perversion of the best in the German character which he sought to set straight.

These men of German blood who go from Canada are more truly fighting for the land of their forefathers than are their kinsmen upon whom the Kaiser has cast his baneful spell. And while it may be "puzzling," if regarded lightly, we assert that the German-American, who sought and found freedom in the United States, would be acting just as the German-Canadian is acting, if his adopted country were in England's place today.

PRINZIP'S SENTENCE.

THE world was astonished at the twenty-year sentence of Prinzip, actual slayer of the Archduke Ferdinand. That he should escape so lightly, while other plotters, several removes from the actual murder, were sentenced to death, seemed an astounding miscarriage of justice. Nothing but the bare statement of the result of the secret trial has been given out, but the probability is that Prinzip turned states' evidence. Perhaps, too, the court discriminated between the instrument, and chose the "higher-ups," the real murderers, for the greater punishment. Prinz seems to have been the ordinary "Red," a half-crazed anarchist of the violent type, and now it is intimated that he was merely a tool for a clique in Austria-Hungary, who were determined that Ferdinand should never be permitted to bring into play his democratic tendencies. Ferdinand made no secret of his desire to see the Hun Parliament more representative of the people, a freer institution, devoted to advancing the prosperity and happiness of the people. He was a deeply religious man, too, who, if he had reached the throne would have made it uncomfortable for the licentious aristocracy that has ruled Austria-Hungary. Perhaps the world would be amazed if it was informed of the identity of the original conspirators.

WILL GERMANS REVOLT?

THE Wall Street Journal recently declared that an early defeat would be the best thing that could happen to Germany for the sake of herself and the world, especially in regard to trade.

It requires a very casual glance at the war up-to-date to show how true this is.

Three months ago the German armies plunged through Belgium in an attempt to rush the French off their feet, and take Paris. Today the Germans are still in Belgium, and appear to be losing ground. In East Prussia the Kaiser's legions are slowly but surely being rolled up, and all this at an expenditure in money of at least $12,000,000, and in men, killed, wounded and missing, of probably half a million. The German General Staff has admitted that it was the intention to reach Paris within a fortnight at the outmost; twelve weeks after that famous dash Germany is rushing operations for a winter to be spent in the trenches. With all her ports sealed up by the fleets of the Allies, nothing can get out and little can get in. Export trade, which, it was figured, might be at a standstill for a few weeks, while France was being crushed, will now be at a standstill for many months.

When the pinch comes, when food supplies are running short, and are conserved for the armies, one wonders what the civilian population of Germany will think of the Kaiser and his military clique. Will the pressure of privation and industrial stagnation drive the people of Germany to revolutionary methods that will abruptly end the war? And what will be the feeling of the Prussian soldier when he learns that he has been fed up on fake news of revolts in India and Ireland, of labor strife in England, and of disastrous British defeats by sea? After a while the humiliation and true significance of entrenching upon his own soil will dawn upon him, and when the news comes of sufferings at home, he may start to think and act for himself instead of letting the war machine do it for him as at present.

ME UND MOHAMMED.

THE ALLIES now have two good slogans. One is "Crush the Prussian" and the other "Drive the Turk from Europe." Let Turkey meddle with Egypt and she will have Italy at her front door, glad of the chance to wipe the crescent off the European signpost. And now it is as the New York World says "Me und Gott und Mohammed." The World foresees the end for Turkey, a threatened carving of that savory bird among the powers. It adds:

> Even if Bulgaria sides with Turkey, the land forces added on the German side would only cancel out against Italy and Roumania. If Bulgaria goes with the Allies, the balance of added strength will be heavily the other way, and may endanger the very existence of Austria-Hungary as a great power. Why, then, has Germany enticed her ally into the war?
>
> No answer is possible except that the plump and amiable Mohammed V. is Commander of the Faithful. Hard beset on both her frontiers, Germany in her desperation urges a Moslem holy war in the East, and especially in Egypt and India. She may be disappointed. With Boers in the British cause putting down a Boer rebellion; with Irish Nationalists by thousands on the Belgian side; with Catholics fighting Catholics, and Greek Churchmen fighting Greek Churchmen; with Slavs fighting Slavs, and East Indians in France aiding the conquerors of India, whose physical touch would profane their very food, this war reveals race and religion as slender reeds to lean upon compared with the habit of nationality and the power of discipline.
>
> One thing is sure. No nation except Servia risks in the war so much as the Turk, and the Turk risks it without excuse. Whatever happens, there will still be a France, an England, a Germany, a Russia. It is not certain now that there will be a Turkey.

GAME OR BUSINESS.

THE Cologne Gazette takes exception to what it calls the sporting language of the English on the subject of the war. Mr. Churchill's rattling metaphor about the German fleet, and Sir John French's charge that German soldiers don't play fair strike the German editor as the language of triflers, vulgar, frivolous and irresponsible. War, he says, is a business of high moral import and Germany will teach these British to be serious about it.

The trouble with the enemy is that he does not fully appreciate how seriously or sadly the Briton takes his sport. It is hard for him to conceive that men can even play games according to old, trite, Christian, exploded maxims of chivalry, honor and honestly, while Germans have advanced to the higher plane of hacking through by any means. Some will prefer the English way of playing war to the "business is business" method of Germany.

It is probable that "Germany Over All" is not only a better song than "Tipperary" from the musical viewpoint, but also a more serious composition. And yet we British are peculiar enough to prefer the men who sing nonsense with a merry eye and play football between the sessions in the trench to the soldiery that take themselves more seriously than anything else, and, practicing drunkeness, insult, outrage and needless butchery, call it the only culture. We hope we are not going to be taught that sort of seriousness and morality. We will rather stick to our games and our sporting language. Though we may admit that Churchill talked indiscreetly, we shall still agree with Sir John French that war should be conducted on principles as fair as those of a rugby match. Few will grieve over the German moralists that Baron Fisher may order strung up for misuse of flags or firing on rescue boats.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Smart-set and evening clothes, and one clear call for money.

Have you located the garden gate the boys carried off Hallowe'en?

No doubt De Wet has the liquor party of South Africa behind him.

That cold spell was only a bluff of Gen. Winter. The real attack is coming later.

What a terrifying Hallowe'en mask might have been made from the Kaiser's countenance.

The Turk refused to stand pat, but when this war is over the Allies will see he stays put.

As soon as the German navy Kiel-ed.

It may be said it's fate was sealed.

Carranza declares he is ready to leave Mexico. So, after all, Huerta did leave something in the treasury.

For centuries to come the Belgian "bogey-man" song will run "The Kaiser'll get you if you don't watch out."

A German general says the Kaiser will play Santa Claus to Paris yet. It'll be a mighty awkward chimney to come down.

The average European capital can be moved about on rollers. Toronto should bear this in mind when she is inclined to slight London.

"Women and children first" cried the Kaiser to his Zeppelin commander as the big ship started out to bombard a few Belgian homes.

Turkey is trying to squeeze under the gate before the man with the axe gets him. She now claims the bombardment of Russian ports was an act of Germans, using battleships without the consent of the Ottoman Government.

There are thirteen hundred German officers in the Turkish army. Just the right number to "queer" the campaign for the Sultan.

The Emden seems to be made of different stuff than the Goeben and Breslau, which hunted cover within a few hours of war's declaration.

After listening to the Kaiser's oracular boasting, one may expect any day to pick up a newspaper and see the twelve apostles in spiked helmets.

The Cossacks are being charged with frightful atrocities by neutral journalists. The allies will do well to execute a few hundreds by way of example.

--and the Worst Is Yet to Come

PRESS COMMENT ON THE WAR

STIR 'EM UP.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

Young Canadians who turn a deaf ear to their country's call should be presented with nice white petticoats by the girls most interested in them.

CAN HOLD THEM.

[Hamilton Times.]

We imagine that if Kitchener did not think that there were enough of troops on the French coast to "hold" the Germans that he would rush the Canadians over onto the front.

NO WIPING OUT.

[Stratford Herald.]

Germans should temper their hatred of Britain. When this war is over they may need to appeal to British fair play to save them from being utterly wiped out as a nation by the Russian steam roller.

SOON THE CANADIANS' TURN.

[La Presse.]

The Germans yesterday made the acquaintance of the Hindu troops. Soon the Canadians will salute them.

A Canadian worker in the woods walked a hundred miles to enroll himself in the French-Canadian regiment. There are still patriots!

JOFFRE CONFIDENT.

[Hamilton Herald.]

It is reassuring to learn that General Joffre isn't worrying about those hosts of German reinforcements being rushed to the western battlefront to "back their way through" to the channel ports. He "is able and ready to meet any reinforcements brought up by the enemy," says the official report.

THE LONG TEST OF ENDURANCE.

[Springfield Republican.]

The Germans will be as helpless as Napoleon in the long test of endurance against "the nation of shopkeepers" unless they can somehow destroy the British fleet. British sea power and British gold are terrible foes. And Germany has scarcely scratched either of them. From this point of view the British people have hardly begun to fight.

GERMANY'S ONE FRIEND.

[London Express.]

The support of Turkey cannot be of any great moment, but Germany is so utterly friendless among the nations that she is eager, by any means, to enrol Turkey as an ally. Great Britain, France and Russia have nothing to any extension of the war is to be dreaded from a hostile Turkey, but since plored, they would regret that Turkey should be mad enough to play a hopeless part in a hopeless struggle.

WELDING THE RACES OF THE EMPIRE.

[London Daily Mail.]

Disraeli in 1878 gave the world a hint of the extraordinary military resources of the Indian Empire, when he moved a division of Indian troops to Malta during a diplomatic crisis. It has been reserved for German policy to strengthen British sympathy with the Indian peoples and to weld the races of the Empire by that sense of unity and reciprocal affection, which comes with common effort and sacrifice in the fighting line against a common foe.

GERMAN PEOPLE BEFOOLED.

[London Times.]

Every nation gets the press it deserves. Germany has long been content with a spoon-fed press, and the result is that in the hour of her bitter humiliation, when her dreams of world-conquest are shattered for ever, the German Government, through the obsequious newspapers, have befooled the people. They cannot do so for ever, and when Germany awakens to realize that Paris and France alike are beyond her grasp, the hour of retribution will have struck. The awakening should come very soon now.

NO PEACE BY SUBJUGATION.

[Detroit News.]

As Lord Churchill points out, peace can never come by subjugation. It can never come by "Britain over all the world," or "France over all the world," or "Germany over all the world." It must come only by the nations living their own lives quietly, enjoying their own possessions while respecting those of others, and each confining in the other's joint civilization. The nations must become neighbor-nations, not ruler-nations. And the rulers who sit in chairs of state must be men of works and arts, and not men of the sword. The sword was never a wise ruler; it has sometimes been a useful servant.

GERMANS IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE

[Le Canada.]

Developments both at home and abroad should convince us of the fact that every German abroad is an agent for his Government (if not dangerous now he becomes so at any time), and we should act in consequence. We would be the last to ask that Canada should take action against the Germans located amongst us such as Germany has taken against English, French, Russian and Belgian citizens who resided there before the war. But it is evident that a certain amount of precaution is necessary, and we ask the Government to give the subject careful consideration.

NO FEAR OF INVASION; BUT.

[La Patrie.]

The danger of a German invasion of Canada is a distant one, in view of the fact that Germany could not cross the Atlantic without first giving battle to the English fleet. And as to talking of annexing Canada, that involves a German victory in the present war, which is impossible. Thus the principle of the Monroe Doctrine is not threatened. We have no reason to seriously fear an invasion, but the Government would do well to protect the country against the enemies in our midst, the Germans and the Austrians who may be tempted to cause us serious trouble if the authorities do not keep their eyes open.

"WE ARE ONE NATION."

[Westminster Gazette.]

In Mr. F. E. Smith's speech we note the following passage:

"We are one nation, and I care nothing for the ripple on the waters a week ago. We relegate it, if it ever should be raised again, to a time when the war is over. When the cry was raised in the House, 'God save Ireland,' Mr. Redmond shouted, 'God save England.' It will take a great deal to make some of us forget that."

And this was greeted with cheers—in Liverpool! We do not know whether the Kaiser amongst his many accomplishments smokes a pipe, but if he does we hope he will put in it what Mr. Smith says—"We are one nation."

THANKS, MR. SOBOTKA!

[Buffalo Times.]

Przemysl, Przemysl, how often has it proven a stumbling-block to our untutored tongues! Fain would we have rolled it musically, or mouthed it, or hissed it, or twanged it. But we couldn't get anywhere near what seemed to be a correct pronounciation. It constituted the despair of the warfan! A dozen times a day it recurred in conversation. It became Perzebizzle, Perchimel, and P-R-Z to a certain non-industrious few. Now the secret is out. The most mispronounced of all words will now in future lose that reputation. Secretary Sobotka, of the Austrian embassy, says it should be pronounced "S-h-i-m-e-a-s-e-l."

THOSE AIRSHIPS.

[Brantford Expositor.]

In Brantford it would be easy to find a score or more of people willing to take an affidavit that they saw an aeroplane on more than one occasion hovering over this city, notably near the waterworks. The Wellanders are confident an aeroplane has been overlooking the canal. The Londoners say that an airship has been spying out the city's water plant at Springbank, and the Sarniaites that there has been a similar heavenly visitor in their neighborhood. How much of this is real? How much the result of a feverish imagination? There is, however, the satisfaction of knowing that the aerial visitor, if such there be, has not thus far displayed any belligerent purpose.

WOBBLY GERMAN OPINION.

[New York World.]

We all hope that England's position as the world's dictator will be shaken, but it is tenfold our duty to fight against Russia's becoming the world's dictator.—Berlin Tageblatt.

What a pity Germany did not discover it earlier! If she had put a defensive army in the west and had assailed Russia in force at once, what a difference in military fact and in the world's opinion! No Louvain; no Antwerp; no Rheims Cathedral; no invasion of a guaranteed neutral; no Belgian troops in line; no bombs dropped on women; no million British arming for next spring; no British navy with any warlike purpose except protection of the northern coast of France—whose immunity might have been conceded. Sad words these, and never sadder than now: "Too late!"

GERMAN ETHICS.

[London Daily News and Leader.]

Herr Dernburg, who knows what logic is, tells the American people that "international treaties must not be overrated." This is Germany's contribution to international ethics, stamped with the life-blood of a little state; that no treaty, no obligation, no pledge can stand in the way of Germany's interests." Six hundred years ago an English king had inscribed upon his tomb as his political testament these words: "Keep your pledges." One hundred and fifty years ago Montesquieu, a Frenchman, and one of the master spirits in political philosophy, demonstrated that all civilization rests upon fidelity to the plighted word. It has remained for Germany in the twentieth century to relegate by word and deed all this to the refuse heap of outworn barbarism. German culture is on the march.

WAR NOTES—THE BIPLANE.

[Port Huron Herald.]

The biplane does not flap its wings up and down in flight as does the goose or that other celebrated bird of passage, the turkey. The wings remain stationary, and the only thing about the biplane that flops is the tail, and this goes round at the rate of four million revolutions per second. When a biplane is doing its durndest it makes a noise which resembles a cross between a sawmill and a boiler factory. It rattles like the bones end of a minstrel first part, and sends forth an aroma like that of a combination tannery and glue factory.

The quietest one I ever heard sounded like a $9 automobile going over a corduroy road with its diaphram banging against its rear axle. I don't know where the smokestack is on the biplane. They keep it carefully concealed, and I don't know where they dump their ashes. They stay up two or three hours at a time, and never spill a thing on the crowd, excepting perhaps a few mokey-wrenches and now and then a mechanician or an aviator.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

John, whose father was a baker, was in the habit of bringing his teacher a fresh pretzel each day.

"I wish you would tell your father not to make them quite so salty," she once said, laughingly.

Thereafter the shiny, brown delicacy—always minus the salt—was found frequently on her desk.

"It is very kind of your father to make one on purpose for me, she told him.

"Oh!" was the startling reply, "he don't make them this way. I lick the salt off."

The War Presents a New "Made-in-Canada" Opportunity—

(Prepared by W. H. Bowman Of McConnell & Fergusson, Advertising Agency, Toronto.)

Every dollar spent for "Canadian-made" products is a contribution to the support of Canadian workmen and Canadian industries. The larger the amount of money spent for "Canadian-made" products the greater the number of workmen required to produce these products.

The money that Canadians spend for "imported" products is just that much withdrawn from the support of Canadian workmen and Canadian industries, and just that much support given to foreign industries and foreign workmen. The more money spent for imported products the less work for Canadian workmen.

To Succeed, The Movement Needs Driving Force

The people of Canada are beginning to grasp the foregoing facts----beginning to realize the true meaning of the "Made-in-Canada" movement. With the right sort of force to drive it along, this "Canadian-made" propaganda, which has already attained great momentum, could be made a tremendous national success.

It is the duty of everyone to lend a hand. It is the duty of the Canadian newspapers to exert their power on its behalf. It is the duty of the Canadian Manufacturers Association as a body to play a strong hand. It is the duty of Canadian labor to support the movement loyally; the duty of retailers and clerks, whose influence in the final sale of goods to the customer is so weighty, to do their big part. And it is the duty of the Canadian public, the court of last resort, to buy "Canadian-made" products and make this movement a national success.

This "Made-in-Canada" movement undoubtedly presents a great advertising opportunity. It is always good strategy to hit the enemy, and hit them hard, when they are at a disadvantage. And the "Made-in-Canada" crusade has already created a prejudice against "imported" goods----a decided disadvantage. The time is now ripe to hit them hard, to make the disadvantage fatal. And in no way can Canadian industries strike so hard or so quickly as through the power of Newspaper Advertising.

To Identify Individual Manufacturers With the Movement

It is only by Advertising that individual Manufacturers can quickly and closely identify themselves and their products with the "Made-in-Canada" crusade. How otherwise are Canadians going to quickly know which goods are "Canadian-made"? How otherwise are they going to distinguish between "Canadian-made" and unlabelled and unstamped imported goods? How otherwise can they be made to realize that any manufacturer's "Canadian-made" products are equal, if not better, than imported competing trade-marked products which already have built up a reputation in Canada? How otherwise are they going to know what to ask retailers for?—It is too much to expect the public to search through retailers' stocks to find out if their requirements can be met by "Made-in-Canada" products. And if Canadian manufacturers haven't enough faith in their products to tell the public about them----to advertise----how can they expect Canadians to have confidence enough in the merits of their products to buy them in preference to "imported" competing lines, which they have been in the habit of buying?

Another point to remember is this: The greater the number of "Canadian-made" products that are advertised the greater the benefit to all concerned. It is, therefore, to the interests of Canadian manufacturers, individually and collectively, to advertise their "Canadian-made" products whole-heartedly, aggressively and forcefully.

Now is not the time to "mark time." Not the time for a manufacturer to "hide his light under a bushel." It is the time for action. The time to come out into the open--to ADVERTISE. And by Advertising NOW, manufacturers are enabled to cover an immense amount of territory at a comparatively low cost, because many of the newspapers, particularly the big mediums with general circulations, have of late largely increased their circulations without so far increasing their rates. All things considered,

Now is the time to advertise

WOMEN TO SELL PATRIOTIC ISSUE OF THE ADVERTISER

Daughters of Empire and Others Will Help Belgian Funds.

The various local women's organizations affiliated with the Local Council of Women are assisting with the sale of the special edition of The Advertiser, to be published for the Belgian Relief Fund. The Aberdeen Association, the girls of the Y. W. C. A., members of Western University Alumnae and the King's Daughters of St. George's Church, have volunteered to help.

Miss Masbeth Convener.

At a meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, held on Saturday at Cronyn Hall, when the various chapters were represented, a number of ladies offered to assist in the sale. Miss Meta Macbeth, of the Princess Patricia Chapter, is the general convener of all the assistants, and any ladies desirous of helping should send their names to her at once. Captains are being appointed, and the various groups of "news women" given different districts of the city in which to sell the special edition.

HOME-RELIEF LEAGUE

The thanks of the league are due to six little girls—Louise Duffield, Dorothy Stevely, Babbie Chisholm, Agnes Duffield, Elaine Stevely, Laura Allen—for the gift of $12.90 for our fund. This is the proceeds of a play they held, and is the second donation from them. The officers and members of the league greatly appreciate the gift, and the spirit that prompted it.

Some weeks ago we asked our readers if any of them could spare a baby carriage for our use. We got no response to this request, but hope to be more fortunate this time—we want it for a delicate baby, whose health depends on a plentitude of fresh air. Surely somebody has just what we want, stored in some forgotten corner of the attic.

Won't you get it out, and notify the secretary by postcard to Hyman Hall, or by telephone No. 353?

TEA FOR DELEGATES.

The delegates to the Women's Institute convention will be entertained at a tea in the Alexandra School on Thursday afternoon of this week, and given an opportunity to visit the various departments of work in the Industrial School. Tea is being looked after by the Local Council of Women, and the Women Teacher's Guild, Miss Macpherson, of the Collegiate, and Miss Stuart, of the Industrial staff, having charge of the arrangements. A group of domestic science girls from both schools will assist in serving.

SALE OF WORK.

The annual sale of work and home-cooking will be held in Chalmers Presbyterian Church on Wednesday and Thursday, November 4 and 5. Some very nice articles will be on exhibition, as well as a goodly array of home-made baking.

BILL AND THE WIDOW

Bill sighed at the loss of his good Sunday boots, and turning to the widow, said:

"Just pick up the lines, will you please? This brute of a horse is forever switching them out of my hands." The widow complied, and then he pulled one corner of the robe cautiously down, and the widow got in.

"What a lovely evening," said she, "and so warm I don't think we need the robe over us, do we?"

(You see she had a nice new dress and a pair of new gaiters, and she wanted to show them.)

"Oh, my!" said Bill, earnestly, "you'll find it chilly riding, and I wouldn't have you catch cold for the world."

She seemed pleased at his tender care for her health, and contented herself with sticking one of her little feet out, with a long silk necktie over the end of it.

"What is that, Mr. Smiley, a necktie?"

"Yes," said he. "I bought it the other day, and I must have left it in the buggy. Never mind it."

"But," she said, "it was so careless"; and stooping over she picked it up and made a motion to stuff it in between them.

Bill felt her hand going down, and making a dive after it, clutched it in his and held it hard and fast.

Then they went on quite a distance, he still holding her soft little hand in his and wondering what he would do when they got to Greens, and she wondering why he did not say something nice to her as well as squeeze her hand, and why his coat was buttoned up so tightly on such a warm evening, and what made his face and hat so dirty, until as they were going down a little hill one of the traces came unhitched, and they had to stop.

"Oh, murder," said Bill, "what next!"

"What's the matter, Mr. Smiley?" said the widow, with a start that came near jerking the robe off his knees.

"One of the traces is off," said he.

"Well, why don't you get out and put it on?"

"I can't," said Bill; "I've got—that is, I haven't got—oh, dear, I'm so sick! What shall I do?"

"Why, Willie," said she, tenderly, "what is the matter? Do tell me," and she gave his hand a little squeeze, and, looking into his pale and troubled face, she thought he was going to faint; so she got out her smelling-bottle with her left hand, and, pulling the stopper out with her teeth, she stuck it in his nose.

Bill was just taking breath for a mighty sigh, and the pungent odor made him throw back his head so far that he lost his balance and went over the low-backed buggy. The little woman gave a little scream as his big bare feet flew past her head; and covering her face with her hands, gave way to her tears or smiles—it is hard to tell which. Bill was "right side up" in a moment, and was leaning over the back of the seat, humbly apologizing and explaining, when Ed Wilbur, with his wife and baby, drove up behind and stopped. Poor Bill felt that he would rather have been shot than have Ed Wilbur catch him in such a scrape, but there was no help for it now, so he called Ed to him and whispered in his ear. Ed was like to burst with suppressed laughter, but he beckoned to his wife to drive up, and, after saying something to her, he helped the widow out of Bill's buggy, and into his and the two women went on, leaving the men behind. Bill lost no time in arranging his toilet as well as he could, and then, with great persuasion, Ed got him to go home with him, and, hunting up slippers and socks, and getting him washed and combed, had him quite presentable when the ladies arrived. I need not tell you how the story was all wormed out of bashful Bill, and how they all laughed as they sat around the tea table that night, but will conclude by saying that they went to the show together, and Bill has no fear of Gus Sackrider now.

This is the story about Bill and the widow, just as I had it from Ed Wilbur, and if there is anything unsatisfactory about it, ask him.

(The End.)

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

"A Number of Things."

Dear Miss Grey,—This being my first call on you for assistance, I trust I shall not be too troublesome. Like the rest of your readers, I enjoy your page very much. Will you please answer the following?

1. At dinner, should the host or gentleman guest ask the blessing?
2. In what year was the Boer War fought?
3. What year did good Queen Victoria die in?
4. Some months ago I started to keep company with a gentleman, and grew to be quite fond of him, although I did not show it. He told me that he cared for me, and then I did something which I thought would please him, but found that it displeased him greatly. Please tell me how I might win back his affection, as I still care very much for him.
5. Have you the song called "Life's Engineer"—"Life is like a mountain railroad, with an engineer that's brave."

Thanks for the trouble. GIRLIE.

Ans.—1. The man of the house generally does, unless the guest is a clergyman, or an old gentleman.

2. On October 12, 1899, the Transvaal Boers invaded Natal. This was the first step in the conflict, and final peace was not declared until May 31, 1902.

3. 1901.

4. I don't know from reading your letter whether you still "keep company" with him. If not, it would not do for you to make any advances, as that would likely drive him away still further. If he really cared for you, don't you think he will come back? And if he didn't have any real affection for you, then you are better without his company. Interest yourself in something else, my dear,—"the world is full of a number of things"—do you know who wrote that?

Father and Dimples.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly print in your valuable column the answers to the following questions?

1. I am 16 years old, and will graduate from the high school next June. Do you think I am far enough advanced?
2. My nose is often very shiny. Do you know of anything I could use to cure this?
3. Will vaseline make the eyelashes long?
4. I have always lived in the city with my parents and brother, but now I have no one left but my father, who is a traveller. I have a good chance to travel about with him when my education is complete, but I think this would be tiresome. I would rather take a position, but he would always be away. Please advise.

Thanking you, I remain, DIMPLES.

Ans.—1. Yes.

2. Dissolve a teaspoonful of borax in an ounce of rosewater and dab this on the offending member.

3. Yes, if used for some time. Be careful not to get any into the eyes.

4. This is a family matter, just for you and your father to decide. If it was going to add to his comfort and pleasure to have you along, you would be glad to go with him, I am sure. I do not believe, though, that this knocking around would be good for you. Don't you think it would be best to keep your home, so he could always have somewhere to call "home" and have an elderly woman as a housekeeper and chaperone for you. Then you could take a position if you wished.

For Rough Hands.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you be kind enough to publish again in your column the lotion for rough hands which was published a few days ago, as my paper was mislaid. One of the ingredients was tragacanth.

Hoping it will appear in tomorrow evening's edition, if possible.

AN ADMIRER OF YOUR COLUMN.

Ans.—One and a quarter ounces of gum tragacanth, one ounce alcohol, two ounces glycerine, two ounces cologne, two ounces rosewater, one tablespoon boracis acid. Dissolve the gum tragacanth in a pint of warm soft water, then add the rest and bottle.

Know This Verse?

Dear Miss Grey,—Have you, or any of your readers, the poem, "We Are Getting Near the Gate That Opens on the Day"? The first verse is:

"Just fifty years ago, dear wife, since first we came this way,
I young and strong and blithe of heart, and you my Queen of May.
The skylarks sang far up the blue, and cuckoos matched their powers,
Till heaven seemed just as full of praise as earth was full of flowers."

Ans.—Referred to other readers.

A Fond Visitor.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again. I am a fond visitor of the "Mail-Box," and derive much pleasure from reading your column. Will you please answer the following questions?

1. Are the following materials in black considered proper for mourning: silk or wool, crepe de chine, moire silk and taffeta silk?
2. Can you paint a tapestry rug the same way as you do a rag carpet, it being dark green?
3. Is this the time of year one's hair falls out? Mine is falling out terribly, and I feel worried about it.
4. Is peroxide harmful to use on the face?

I am inclosing a recipe for apple-sauce cake, which I have always found to be good.

Hoping I haven't troubled you too much, I am yours, BROADWAY.

Apple-Sauce Cake.—One cup raisins, 1 cup currants, 1 cup apple sauce, 2 cups flour, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves or allspice, 1 teaspoon soda.

Ans.—1. Yes, any of the materials you mention are much used by those in mourning.

2. I refer this query to "Mrs. Homebird," who so kindly helped us before. Will she please tell us what she thinks?
3. With some, the hair falls worst in summer; with others, winter affects the hair this way. I think this tonic should cause the hair to cease falling: One part glycerine, one part alcohol, or bay rum, one-quarter part castor oil, one-twentieth part tincture of cantharides. Rub into scalp with the fingertips three nights a week.
4. The constant use of the bleach is sure to drythe skin too much, and turns it yellow in time.

Your recipe is very much appreciated.

Another Request.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly print for me in your valuable paper, if possible, the words of the old song, "Just a Handful of Maple Leaves," which came out about the time of the South African war, and another old one, "Mother Put the Wheel Away."

Hoping to see these in print soon, and thanking you in advance four your kindness, I remain, old Galt reader, "DODE."

Ans. — Request referred to other readers.

Is He Worthy?

Dear Miss Grey,—As I am quite interested in your column of The Advertiser, I am going to ask you to answer a few questions for me.

I am 20 years old, and have been going with a young man about a year and a half. I like him very much, but my mother opposes very much me going with him. She thinks he is too old for me, and thinks I should marry someone in a better position. She will not allow him to come near the house, but he does not know this. Should I tell him. I have been away from home for two years, and did not have to take him to the house, but this winter I intend being home, and I don't know how I am to entertain him, as it will be too cold to walk the streets, and I don't like doing that anyway.

Hoping that I have not asked you too much, and that I may read this in your column soon, in The Advertiser.

"WORRIED."

Ans. — I am always sorry when a mother does not allow her daughter to entertain her friends at home. It very often rouses a spirit of opposition in a girl's heart, and she gives more thought to the person in question than would be the case if she met him only in a casual way. I think you will have to tell the young man frankly that your mother does not wish you to "keep company" for a year or so; that she thinks you are too young. If the man is in earnest, I think he will try and have a talk with your mother, telling her his prospects of providing a home for you. If he can show his real worth, it is very probable she can be won over. In the meantime, I think you had better obey her wishes.

OLD SONGS AND POEMS

Copies of the following, sent by Faithful Reader, Would-Be Helper, G. V. E., Marvaleen K. and Mt. Elgin:

THE MILWAUKEE FIRE.

'Twas the grey of early morning when the dreadful cry of fire,
Rang out upon the cold and piercing air,
Just that little word alone is all it would require
To spread dismay and panic everywhere.
Milwaukee was excited as it never was before,
On learning that the fire-bells all around
Were ringing to eternity a hundred souls or more,
And the Newhall house was burning to the ground.

CHORUS—

Oh! hear the fire-bells ringing at the morning's early dawn;
Hear the voices as they give that dreadful cry;
Oh! hear the wail of terror 'mid the fierce and burning flame,
Heaven protect them, for they're waiting there to die.

The firemen worked like demons and did all within their power
To save a life or try to soothe a pain,
It made the strongest heart sick, for in less than half an hour,
All was hushed, and further efforts were in vain,
When the dreadful alarm was sounded thro' the oft-condemned hotel.
They rushed in mad confusion every way;
The smoke was suffocating, and blinding them as well;
The fire-king could not be held at bay.

At every window, men and women wildly would beseech
For help in tones of anguish and despair.
What must have been their feelings when the ladders could not reach,
And they felt Death's grasp around them everywhere?
Up in the highest window stood a servant girl alone.
The crowd beneath all gazed with bated breath;
They turned away their faces; there was many a stifled groan,
When she jumped to meet perhaps as hard a death.

A boy stod in a window, and his mother was below.
She saw him, and the danger drawing near;
With upraised hands, to pray for him, she knelt down in the snow,
And the stoutest man could not restrain a tear.
She madly rushed towards the fire, and wildly tore her hair:
"Take me, oh! God, but spare my pride, my joy."
She saw the flame surround him and then in dark despair,
Said: "God have mercy on my only boy."

TOO MUCH LOVE.

A SPLENDID STORY OF WESTERN LIFE

LAHOMA

By JOHN BRECKENRIDGE ELLIS
THE AUTHOR OF FRAN

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"The reason I would like to have a lover is as follows: So I would understand the experience of being regarded that way. It would be like plowing up the sage-brush to plant Kafir-corn and millo-maize, because, until such time, there is bound to be a part of my nature unworked.

"Now, there is a nook in Mr. Gledware's library, a sort of alcove where you have a window all to yourself, but are shut off from the rest of the room, and that is where I was when two men came in softly and closed and locked the door behind them. I couldn't see them, but as I was starting up to find out what it meant, one of them—it was Mr. Gledware, which surprised me greatly, as he had gone with the rest to the picnic—spoke your name, Brick. As soon as I heard that name, and particularly on account of the way he spoke it, I determined to 'lay low' and scout out the trouble. So I just drew up as small as possible in my chair, as you would slip along through the high grass if Indians were near, and I listened. Maybe if I had finished my civilization I would have been obliged to let them know I was there; but fortunately I haven't reached the limit yet.

"The other man, I soon found, was Red Kimball; they had about finished their conversation before coming into the room, so the first part was lost. Mr. Gledware had come for his check book, and the check was for Red Kimball. Red Kimball used to be the leader of a band of highwaymen up in Cimorron, when it was No-Man's Land; it was his band that attacked the wagon-train when Mr. Gledware acted the hero—only, as they were disguised as Indians, Mr. Gledware didn't know they were such till later. He came on them afterward, without their disguises, and they would have killed him if you, Brick, hadn't knocked down Red and shot his brother! So, as I listened, I found out that Mr. Gledware wasn't the hero he claimed to be, but was the man you saved, and he is my stepfather, and I was carried away by him, and taken from him by the Indians, but he wasn't killed at all. And my name, I suppose, is Lahoma Gledware; at least, not as Red Feather had taught me, 'Lahoma Willock.' And I am no kin to you at all, Brick; you just took me in and cared for me because you are Brick Willock, the dearest, tenderest friend a little girl ever had—and these lines are crooked because there are tears—because you are not my cousin.

"I'd rather be kin to you than married to a prince.

"Red Kimball says you were one of his gang of highwaymen, but I know it isn't true, so you don't have to say a word. But he is determined to be revenged on you for killing his brother. And the reason he's waited this long is because he didn't know where you were—good reason, isn't it? Tell you how he found out—it all comes from my getting civilized. He's a porter at our Kansas City hotel. So when he heard the men talking about how I had once been kidnapped by the Indians, and wrote nearly every day to my cousin Brick Willock, which they thought was an odd name—he guessed the rest.

"It makes my blood turn cold to think that all the time we were living quietly and happily in the cove, that awful Red Kimball was hunting for you, meaning to have your life—and in a way that I'm ashamed to write, but must, so you'll know everything. He means to have you arrested and tried for his brother's murder—and he says he can hang you!

"And Mr. Gledware is his witness. That's why Red has come after him. You'll think it strange that after his gang were about to kill Mr. Gledware in the prairie, that he should come to ask him to act as witness against another man. That's what Mr. Gledware told him. But Red Kimball answered that it was all a bluff—that they had never dreamed of shooting him or his little girl.

"When No-Man's Land was added to Oklahoma, a pardon was offered ot Red Kimball and all his gang if they would come in and lay down their arms and swear to keep the peace—you see, most of their crimes had been committed where no courts could touch them. Well, all the gang came in. But what do you think? That terrible Red Kimball swears that you were one of his gang, and that as you didn't come in and surrender yourself, the pardon doesn't apply to you! It was all I could do to keep from stepping right out and telling him you were one of the most peaceable and harmless of men, and that you just happened to be riding about when you saw Mr. Gledware's danger, and had just to shoot Kansas Kimball to save me and my stepfather. You a highwayman, indeed! I could laugh at that, if it didn't make me too mad when I think about it.

"Then Mr. Gledware talked. He said maybe it was a bluff against him, that standing him up against the moon to be shot at, and he could never be on any kind of terms with Red; besides, he said if Brick Willock hadn't saved his life, he'd always have thought so, so wouldn't witness against him, though he had no doubt he belonged to Red's gang. But that was nothing to him. And he couldn't understand how Red could have the face to come to him about anything, but was willing to pay a sum to keep all the past hushed up, as he didn't want any 'complications' from being claimed as a stepfather by Lahoma! The past was over, he said, and Lahoma had a home of her own, and he was satisfied to be free of her—and he would pay Red something to keep the past buried.

"Then Red spoke pretty ugly, saying it wasn't the past he was anxious to have buried, but Brick Willock. And he said that Mr. Gledware was a witness to the murder, whether he wanted to be or not, and Red was willing to confess to everything in order to have Brick hanged.

"Then Mr. Gledware, in a cold and unmoved voice, said he must go back to the picnic, and 'Mr. Kimball' could do as he pleased.

"But that wasn't the end. 'Do you know,' says 'Mr. Kimball,' 'that Red Feather is in town, laying for you?' he says. Mr. Gledware gave a dreadful kind of low scream, such as turned me sick to hear. It reminded me of the cry of a coyote I heard once, caught in a trap, that saw Bill coming with his knife. The room was as still as death for a little while. I guess they were looking at each other.

"At last Red says, pretty slow and calm, 'Would you like to have that Indian out of the way?' Mr. Gledware didn't answer, at least not anything I could hear, but his eyes must have spoken for him, for Red went on after a while: 'It's a go, then, is it?' Well, that'll take time—but, in a few days—maybe in a few hours—I'll deal with the chief. And I want your word that after that's accomplished you'll go with me to Greer County and stay on the job till Brick Willock swings.'

WESTERN UNIVERSITY WINS DISTRICT TITLE; SARNIA SAILORS AGAIN DOWNED BY COLLEGIANS

McKay Recovers Loose Ball Twice and Crosses Sarnia's Line in First and Last Quarters — Smith and McCart Individual Stars.

TUNNEL TOWN PLAYERS WORKED HARD TO WIN, BUT MISPLAYS AT CRITICAL MOMENTS BEAT THEM

Grand Work of Western's Line and General Steadiness of the Team Saved Locals at Several Stages—Final Score Was 13 to 7.

[BY BERT PERRY.]

The Sarnia Sailors tried hard to stop the Western University's rush to the district championship at Tecumseh Park Saturday, but the calmer, steadier and less erratic playing of the London Collegians triumphed and Western cinched the district honors by beating the Imperial City squad by the score of 13 to 7 in about as exciting a game as has been witnessed in this city for years.

To say that the visitors from the Tunnel Town were outplayed would be putting it wrongly. Never were two teams more evenly matched. The Sailors were not beaten until the final whistle blew. Even after Western scored a touchdown in the last quarter and took the lead from the visitors after they had valiantly and successfully striven to overcome London's earlier lead, the Sailors did not lose heart. With a touchdown as the only thing that would put them back in the running again, the Sarnia players worked for that touchdown as they had never before worked for a touchdown in their lives. But again that calm, direct and terribly effective steadiness of the Western team stood in their way.

The Slip That Never Came.

There were moments, many moments in the gruelling minutes of that final quarter when one little slip in the cog of the Western machine would have upset everything. They were thrilling and heart-breaking moments for the hundreds of Western rooters in the stands who were suffering mentally what the players were suffering physically from those Sarnia attacks in the final minutes of the game. It is heart-breaking to fight for a touchdown when you know that a touchdown is all that will save you and that every minute takes just sixty seconds off your chance of getting it. It is heart-breaking to fight against the scoring of that touchdown when you know that preventing it is all that stands between you and championship and that any minute is able to bring some slip, some untoward and unexpected happening that puts it hopelessly out of your reach.

Picture this, and you picture the minutes of the fourth quarter of Saturday's game. The final minutes on which the whole result of the game hinged. But Sarnia did not score that touchdown. Not that it didn't play hard enough for it. No, not that. But because Western played just a little harder and, perhaps, a little headier, and certainly more effectively to prevent it.

Might Have Looked Lucky.

There are those, particularly Sarnia fans, who will say Western was lucky to win. The fact that the Collegians scored two touchdowns on Sarnia misplays gives what they will term a "lucky" twist to the victory. Right here, let it be better and more correctly termed a seemingly lucky victory. To be victorious, one has to be quick to take advantage of any element of chance that comes in one's way or any element of mischance that comes in the other fellow's way. In rugby, the elements of chance and mischance play an important part. One must expect them and be ready for them when they do come. In the second quarter of Saturday's game, if Eddie McKay hadn't happened to be just where he should have been when one of McCart's kicks was blocked on the Sarnia line, Western would have failed to score a touchdown on the play. Again in the fourth quarter, if Eddie McKay hadn't been right on the job again as he should have been, the touchdown that gave London the game would not have been scored. In the third quarter, when Chatto let the ball slip and roll from him on an end buck, if "Rosie" Roy Wright hadn't been playing for just such a contingency and been ready to meet it when it did arise, Sarnia would have undoubtedly scored a touchdown instead of the deadline touch, which netted the Sailors two points.

Was it luck that Western blocked that kick of McCart's behind the goal line? It was the only place on the field where a blocked kick could be most easily converted into a touchdown. We do not know what London player or players blocked that kick, but he or they deserve as much credit as McKay for the scoring of that touchdown. Was it luck that McKay ran yelling at McCart and rattled him so that he miserably muffed one of Ross' high punts, enabling the London wing man to rescue the ball and race across the Sarnia line with it? Was it luck that Roy Wright beat Stokes to the ball when Chatto dropped it, and prevented the Sarnia flying wing from recovering it in time to score a touchdown? If you can term any of these things luck, then you are justified in calling Western's victory lucky.

Smith and McCart the Stars.

There were two players in that game whose work stood out prominently above everything else. Bill McCart, of Sarnia, and Art Smith, of London, were the two. Smith was the best man on the field, without a doubt. His linebucking for yards time and again and his general all-round effectiveness stamp him as one of the best players that ever trod a local gridiron. His work was a revelation to the London fans, who were seeing him in action for the first time. No player in the game worked harder than he, and although he figured but little in any of the London scores, it was greatly due to him that Sarnia's score was kept down. In running out kicks and bucking the line he has no equal in this district, and London gained yard after yard almost every time he carried the ball through. He was laid out several times, but always revived and went at it again harder than ever.

McCart's kicking and his ability to run back some of Johnnie Ross' punts were a big feature. Toward the latter part of the game he either suffered from over anxiety or nervousness, for he developed a surprising habit of muffing punts and in one case in particular, it proved costly. Loomis also starred on the Sarnia back line, and one time he got around the end for a run of several yards, being downed just about three feet from the London line.

Cameron, a little chap, who replaced Sinclair on the Sarnia line-up in the second half, proved a star, and in view of his work it is hard to understand just why he is not a regular. A sure tackler, he stopped many a London man who had broken away, and three or four times he got Smith when Art was in a fair way to carry the ball some distance. He worked hard and showed a keener knowledge of the plays than some of the Sarnia regulars. On the line, VanAlstyne and Bossenberry played their usual good game, while Smith and Brown also looked good. Jeff Garvey had to quit with stomach trouble in the second half, and Campbell took his place. Jeff was not as effective as he was in Sarnia a week ago. Gilchrist, at quarter, played a great game, and at this position at least, Sarnia showed marked improvement over the game in Sarnia the week before.

Western Players Looked Good.

Every one of the Western University players deserve a great deal of praise. They all worked hard. Each one is a cog in a machine that is working better and more in harmony every time out, and as such each did his share. Tommy Chatto was the only man forced to retire. He was laid out with a wrenched knee in the last quarter and had to quit. "Cap." Stephens took his place. Gus Edwards was replaced at half time by Pierce, formerly of the Hamilton Tigers, and he proved a hard worker. There was nothing the matter with Edwards' playing, but Coach Stephens wanted to give Pierce a chance. Both are good men and there is little to choose between them. On the London line, Duffield, Rowan, Chatto and Steele showed up well. Bill Duffield was great at bucking the Sarnia line, and he chopped a few holes in it time and again. Chatto, Rowan and Steele also proved adepts at this kind of work, and they also were good at tackling. Eddie McKay and Ireland excelled themselves and their work was a feature. Both followed up well and were always on the job, and in the thick of every play. Fitzgerald, Doupe and Little were just a bit better than ever, and that is saying a great deal. It's hard to beat this trio of scrimmage men for all-round usefulness. Stanfield and Ross were very effective on the back division. Ross did not do as much kicking as he generally does, the team playing more of a bucking game than a kicking one. In the last quarter, however, he was called upon to exercise that left foot of his a little more often, and he was there every time. Sometimes, it appeared as though his kick would be blocked, so close were the Sarnia linemen, but each time the ball soared away out over their heads. Only once did he have a kick blocked, but Sarnia failed to get much advantage from that. Stanfield starred in running back punts and tackling. He will be missed when he leaves for Toronto shortly.

Sarnia Scores First.

Sarnia got the jump on the locals in the first quarter. It took only a few minutes of play after the kick-off for the Sailors to score a point on a rouge. Ross being tackled behind the line after catching one of McCart's punts. London started in to buck and made yards. Smith tried a drop-kick from some distance out, but it was short and to the side. London lost ten yards when Steele went to tackle Loomis, who called for yards. Soon after, Smith took McCart's long kick and ran the ball 40 yards back up the field. It was a beautiful play. Several Sarnia players lay sprawling behind him where he had shaken them off when they tried to tackle him. London kicked on the first down and so did Sarnia. Smith was tackled and forced across the line, giving Sarnia a safety touch, which made the score 3 to 0 for Sarnia at quarter-time.

In the second quarter London made several gains right at the beginning. However, Sarnia was given the ball on a forward pass, but Smith took McCart's kick and again London tried bucking. The locals got yards each time on their three times, and they bucked Sarnia back about 30 yards. Smith went through for a run of 25 yards and was hurt on the play. London again bucked for yards, but the game was delayed while Garvey was patched up. On an onside kick, London lost the ball. McCart tried a couple of bucks, but being unsuccessful at getting yards, he kicked one of his long spiral punts, and London ran it back several yards. Smith soon after tried another drop-kick, but this time he was short. It was from some distance out. Ross ran one of McCart's punts back some distance, and soon after "Musky" kicked over the Sarnia line. McCart ran the ball out, but on the first down he tried to kick, and the ball was blocked. It bounced back over the Sarnia goal line at an angle that carried it over toward the northwest corner of the field. McKay was nearest it, and he was on it in a couple of seconds for the first touchdown Western had scored this season. Smith converted it nicely though, from a difficult angle. Half-time blew soon after, the score being: London 6, Sarnia 3.

Sarnia Catches Up.

The second half was a period of delays. Several players were used up in this half and time was taken off frequently while they regained their wind. Garvey and Chatto were the only ones forced to retire, and it was in the final quarter that they went off. Soon after the kick-off, McCart got the ball to London's 10-yard line, but it was soon carried back down the field again. Cameron's tackling was the feature of this stage of the game. He got Smith on one or two occasions when the London halfback was making one of those ground-gaining runs of his. Chatto, Smith and Ross were all laid out for a few minutes at different times in the first part of this period, but all revived and continued in the game. Loomis got a loose ball about the middle of the field and made a beautiful run diagonally down field, being pulled down within a yard of Western's goal-line. It was Sarnia's great chance for a touchdown, but like the Saturday before in Sarnia, the Sailors could not profit by it. The first buck gained but an inch or two and the second buck was shoved back a yard by the London line. On the third down, Gilchrist tried to carry the ball over himself, but he was downed almost before he got started, and Sarnia's chance was gone. Western made a gain on its first down and Chatto tried a centre buck on the second down. He was shoved back and off to the side, and in the rush lost his grip on the ball. Wright and Stokes both went after it together with a lot of other players of both teams. Wright got to it first, but could not grab it. He and Stokes scrambled for it, and in the scramble the ball was knocked behind the London line. Wright, however, managed to knock it outside the dead line before Stokes fell on it, and it only counted a dead-line touch, which made the score 6 to 5. Sarnia got the ball near enough to the London line shortly after to enable McCart to kick to the dead-line, making the score 6 to 8. London tried two bucks, and on the third down Ross kicked, but the kick was blocked. However, the ball was rescued by Western, but soon afterward when the teams had changed ends at the beginning of the fourth quarter, Sarnia got the ball and McCart kicked over the Western line and Smith was forced to rouge, giving Sarnia the big end of a 7 to 6 score.

McCart's Costly Muff.

London tried to work the ball back into Sarnia territory now, and Ross kicked on the first down. The London wings followed up well, and McKay was almost up to McCart when the Sarnia halfback went to catch the ball. Eddie was yelling at him in the hope of rattling him and causing the muff, and the strategy succeeded, for the ball dropped through McCart's arms as though they were tissue paper and bounced behind him. McKay was on it in a minute. He juggled it for a moment as he went to pick it up, and McCart nearly got him. But, once he had the ball, McKay was away like a shot and there was no one to stop him from scoring a touchdown. Smith failed to convert, the score now being Western 11, Sarnia 7.

Both teams tried the kicking game after this, Sarnia to keep the ball in Western's territory and London to keep it safely in Sarnia territory, making it all the harder for the visitors to do any scoring. Western was more successful in this kind of game than the Sailors, and it was not long before Ireland kicked to Sarnia's dead-line on a fake end run, the score now being 12 to 7. Chatto was hurt a few minutes later, and both he and Garvey went off. Garvey was suffering with stomach trouble. Campbell replaced Garvey and Stephens replaced Chatto. The teams were exchanging punts most of the time now, and the ball was kept mostly in Sarnia territory. McCart was forced to rouge on one of Ross' punts, this being the last score of the game, and bringing the count up to 13 to 7. McCart was hurt soon after, and after he revived, Eddie McKay grabbed a loose ball and raced across the Sarnia line again. However, the referee would not allow it, claiming it was an offside. The game ended shortly after play was resumed.

Referees Were Good.

Stirrett, of Petrolea, and Smith, of London, handled the game, and there was little kicking on the decisions. Neither team was favored and the game was kept clean; in fact, the two games that Western has played with Sarnia have been the cleanest ever played in this district, not a man being penalized in either case. Both have been splendid exhibitions of Rugby, and if the approval of the fans who witnessed it is any criterion, London will soon be ranked with Hamilton, Ottawa and some of the other larger Canadian cities as a Rugby town. One of the biggest crowds that has witnessed a game of Rugby in this city in years turned out Saturday, and taking a peek at the grandstand and bleachers one would almost think that London and Ottawa were out there playing for the Canadian League championship, rather than London and Sarnia for a Rugby title.

The teams lined up as follows:

Western University—Flying wing, Edwards; halves, Stanfield, Ross and Smith; quarterback, Wright; scrimmage, Doupe, Little, Fitzgerald; inside wings, Duffield and Rowan; middle, Steele and Chatto; outsides, Ireland and McKay.

Changes—At half time, Pierce for Edwards; in fourth quarter, Stephens for Chatto.

Sarnia—Flying wing, Stokes; halves, McCart, Loomis and Sinclair; quarterback, Gilchrist; scrimmage, McDonald, Hubbard and Smith; insides, Bossenberry and Newhouse; middle wings, Van Alstyne and Brown; outsides, Garvey and Duncan.

Changes—At half time, Cameron for Sinclair; Campbell for Garvey.

Referees—Stirrett of Petrolea; Smith of London.

McGILL RUGBY PLAYER TO GO WITH CONTINGENT

ERIC "BUSTER" REID,
Son of George M. Reid, of this city, who has been a member of the McGill Rugby team for the past three years, with a number of other McGill players, "Buster" has enlisted and is at present drilling to go with the second Canadian contingent.

ST. THOMAS C.I. WON AGAIN FROM SARNIA

Capture W.O.C.R.U. Semi-Finals by 9 to 0 Score.

GAME WAS HARD FOUGHT

Saints Had TooMuch Weight and Tackling Ability for Sarnia Students.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 1.—A large crowd turned out to witness the Rugby game between Sarnia and St. Thomas at the Athletic Grounds on Saturday, including hundreds of fair Collegiate girls, who rooted their team to victory. The score was 9 to 0.

The locals again proved their superiority over the Tunnel City Collegians, and triumphed in a hard-fought battle which bristled with brilliant plays. Maxwell, the St. Thomas flying wing, while slightly handicapped by a wrenched shoulder, tackled admirably. Zeke Ponsford proved to be the star ball stealer of the game. Robertson, George Ponsford and Webb played a star game on the line for the locals.

LeBell, Gray and Cowan put up a strong game for the visitors. LeBell was hurt frequently owing to a strained back.

Shortly after play was commenced, Sarnia kicked to Ponsford, who ran back 20 yards. The play was up and down field. Robertson bucked for a touchdown from the 10-yard line. Webb converted. Score, 6 to 0, first quarter.

At the start of the second quarter LeBell, the fast halfback of Sarnia, was hurt. Saurwein was put off for rough tactics. The play was even in the third quarter, Sarnia having to rouge. Score, 7 to 0.

In the fourth quarter St. Thomas forced Sarnia to rouge twice, making the final score 9 to 0. The teams lined up as follows:

Sarnia—Outside wings, Morris, Fitzgibbon; middle, A. Ellis, McKenzie; inside, Crothers, Saurwein; scrimmage, McGibbon, McDonald, Stokes; quarter, Cowan; left half, Gray; centre, E. Ellis (captain); right, LeBell; flying wing, Johnston.

St. Thomas—Outside wings, Chant, McGregor; middle, Tufford, Flowers; inside, Douglas, Dazois; scrimmage, Tanner, H. Ponsford, Payne; quarter, Finlay; left half, G. Ponsford (captain); centre, Robertson; right, Webb; flying wing, Maxwell.

Referee—Houser; umpire, Houston.

WELSH AND WOLGAST MEET IN TEN-ROUND BOUT TONIGHT

Lightweight Champion Makes His First Appearance in New York Since He Won Title.

New York, Nov. 2.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, and Ad Wolgast, a former title-holder, will box ten rounds here tonight. The men have signed to weigh in at 135 pounds, and as each has spent several weeks in hard training, both are expected to meet the weight requirement without difficulty.

Tonight's match will be Welsh's first appearance in this city since he won the lightweight championship title from Willie Ritchie.

REGINA WINS WESTERN CANADA CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats Winnipeg Rowing Club in Winnipeg By Score of 20 to 12.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1. — Playing the open game to a perfection never before seen in Winnipeg, the Regina rugbyists once more demonstrated that rugby as played in Regina is superior to that played in Winnipeg, when they defeated the Rowing Club squad at River Park on Saturday afternoon for the Western Canada championship, by the score of 20 to 12. It was a game which was decided in the air, the superior and better-placed kicking and fast running of the rear guard of the champions being the chief factor in the outcome.

ARGOS HANDED OTTAWA A DECISIVE BEATING

Scullers Easily Outclassed Capital Squad—Final Score Was 30 to 2.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Argonauts handed their ancient enemies, the Ottawa team, a 30 to 2 beating yesterday. Ottawa never had a chance. They tried hard, but Argos' big wing line ripped them to pieces almost at will, while Argos' rear guard had it all over them in all departments. The entire Argonaut rear guard played stellar football today. Murphy was very tricky, and Frank Knight's tackling was the best seen for many years on a Toronto field. Murray tackled well, too, and Burkhart played one of the best games of his career. He scored two touchdowns.

D. McCann and Davies looked like Ottawa's best men. Bouches also showed up very well. The line-up:

Argos—Flying wing, Murphy; halves, E. Smith, Holmes, O'Connor; quarter, Mills; scrimmage, Simpson, Davison, Patterson; inside wings, Foster, McFarlane; middle wings, Mottler, Buckhart; outside wings, Murray, Knight.

Ottawas—Flying wing, Conyer; halves, O. McCann, Boucher, Frith; quarter, Snelling; scrimmage, Walters, Raith, Emmerson; inside wings, Davies, Cassels; middle wings, Vaughan, Stalker; outside wings, O. McCann, Tubman.

Referee—Percy Roberts.

Umpire—H. Gordon.

It is hinted that a Detroit man has his eye on a pacer which showed in 2:05 this year. He wants the nag for the half-mile tracks of Michigan, where he can watch him race.

There may be a lot of changes in the grand circuit for 1915. Fort Erie is out of it.

Kentucky Todd had out a mighty good 3-year-old this year in The Toddler that worked in 2:07¾ at Lexington.

Margaret Druien has won more than $25,000 this year, her campaign including three weeks on the half-mile tracks in June.

Drivers who won ten or more races in fast company this year are Murphy, Cox, Geers, McDonald, Snow, Garrison and McMahon.

INMAN FINALLY WINS A SERIES FROM HOPPE

English Champion Beat American in Toronto Game by Three Points.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Melbourne Inman, English billiard champion, and Willie Hoppe, balkline champion, concluded the Toronto series of the international championship last night, Inman winning the series by the narrow margin of three points, the scores being: Inman, 2,953; Hoppe, 2,950. Inman's biggest runs, both made in the afternoon game, were 28 and 23; Hoppe was over the century mark four times, with 117 and 113 in the afternoon, and 135 and 151 at night. This is the first time that Inman has won a series of the four already played. It took 22 innings in the afternoon for the American to put together the needed 500 points, but he made pretty quick work of it at night, running out in seven innings. The champions left on the 10 o'clock train last night for Winnipeg, where the final series will be decided.

WOODSTOCK COLLEGIATE BEAT STRATFORD C.I.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 1.—In a very ragged exhibition of football this afternoon, the Woodstock Collegiate easily defeated Stratford Collegiate rugby team by the score of 21 to 5. The match was played on Victoria Park before a fair attendance of spectators.

UHLAN BROKE HIS OWN RECORD AT RICHMOND

Richmond Va., Nov. 2.—Uhlan, the world's champion trotter, carrying 191½ pounds, with C. K. G. Billings, owner, in the saddle here yesterday, broke the world's record made by him for one-eighth of a mile, with a running partner, negotiating the distance in 13 seconds flat. The former record was 13½.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1. — The Shamrock intermediate footballers suffered their third defeat of the season on Saturday on the Westmount grounds, going under, to the M. A. A. A. fourteen, by a score of 15 to 6 in an interesting contest.

The Boston people were mighty sore for the minute when they found that Directum I. and William were not coming there last week, but after the Grand Rapids race they were glad that the thing did not materialize.

Woodstock College Beat University Seconds 11 to 0

Visiting Aggregation Show Real Class in Preliminary Game at Tecumseh Park—All Scoring Was Done in First Half of Game.

BY BERT PERRY.

Woodstock College demonstrated that it can produce a tidy little Rugby team at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon. As a preliminary to the Sarnia-Western game, the Woodstock musclemen, as they are commonly called in their home town, played the Western University seconds and when they got through the local scrubs realized they had been through a real game. Incidentally, the visitors walked off with the contest by the score of 11 to 0.

The Baptists were a much lighter aggregation than the local scrubs, but they showed a keen knowledge of the game and displayed as much tackling and bucking ability as the Sarnia or Western University O.R.F.U. teams. Of course, the University seconds were not in real trim for the contest. The team was picked at the last moment, and on the line-up were fellows who had only attended a couple of practices this season and had never played together before. On the other hand, the visitors showed condition and practice, and the play was nearly all in London territory.

No Scoring in Second Half.

All the points of the game were scored in the first half. In the latter period the University seconds underwent a couple of changes, and this seemed to give them new strength. The game was an interesting affair, and although not as fast as the Junior O.R.F.U. game that followed it, was keenly contested, nevertheless.

The visitors were not long in finding the weak spots in London's line, and in the first quarter Poapst went over for a try on a centre buck, after his teammates had worked the ball down the field and close to the London line on a series of runs and kicks. The score at the end of the first quarter was 5 to 0, Hughes failing to convert the try.

In the second quarter the balance of the points was secured. McLaurin, the first little flying wing, grabbed up a loose ball on London's 25-yard line and shaking off a couple of University men who tried to get in his way, crossed the line for the second touchdown. Hughes again failed to convert. A few minutes afterward, the Baptists scored their final point on a kick to the deadline, which netted them eleven points in all. The second half was pretty even. London had few opportunities to score, and although the visitors were close to the line on several occasions, the London players prevented them from crossing it again before full time.

Woodstock Team a Good One.

For a team of youngsters, the Woodstock College team is one of the best ever seen here. When the big game between Sarnia and London was over one of them was heard to say as he was leaving the park: "Well, I'd just like to see our team play those London fellows. They would beat us, maybe, but I'd bet we'd make them go some to do it." The Woodstock lads have a fairly heavy line. Laird, Poapst and Willson all know how to buck and tackle, and they are all husky lads who are young at the game, but perfectly willing to dig in and battle with the best of them. Laird and Beatty Marden got into a slight altercation during the first half, which made them guests of the penalty timekeeper for a few minutes, but otherwise the game was cleanly played, and no one was badly mussed up. Bobby Wallace, Warren, Cavanah and Swartman of the Woodstock team have been seen here before. They all played on the Woodstock College Athletic O.R.F.A. hockey team last winter. They are all good players. "Muck" Vining, the quarterback, is a son of Rev. A. J. Vining, the former pastor of Talbot Street Baptist Church this city, but now of Toronto. He is a promising youngster, and he and "Tim" Wallace make a great pair on any Rugby team. Another former Londoner on the team is Milne, who played hockey and football here two or three years ago. He played the last half of the game only.

Ritchie a Star.

Ritchie was the star of the University team. "Nice" played a fine game, and he is showing improvement every time out. Baldy McQueen was the same old Baldy we used to go out and cheer for a couple of years ago, and Martin, Scotty Hogg, Manley, Smith and McClurg were also good. "Chief" Wilson, of last year's O.R.F.U. team, was out, and despite his lack of practice and condition, showed up well.

The teams lined up as follows:

Woodstock College—Flying wing, McLaurin; halves, Wallace, Cavanah, McGregor; quarter, Vining; scrimmage, Willson, Poapst, Laird; insides, Warren, Beatty and Milne; middle, Patterson and Dingle; outsides, Shields and Hughes; spares, Wilcock and Swartman.

Western University—Flying wing, McAvoy and Graham; halves, Ritchie, McQueen, Martin; quarter, Murphy; scrimmage, Smith, Scott, Matthews, Hogg; insides, McClurg, Elgie; middle, Jackson, J. Murray; outsides, Manley, Kenny, Wilson.

Referees—Ellis of Woodstock; Steele of London.

PIRATES ARE NOW LEADING CITY BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Defeated Cooks Saturday While High Was Winning From Dowlers.

THE STANDING.

	Won.	Lost.	Points.
Pirates	2	0	1000
High School	1	1	.500
Cooks	1	1	.500
Dowlers	0	2	.000

Games next Saturday—3 p.m.—High School vs. Cooks; 4 p.m.—Pirates vs. Dowlers.

The Pirates and High School teams were the winners in the City Basketball League games at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon. The Pirates beat Cooks by the score of 54 to 30, and High School beat Dowlers by the score of 22 to 14. Both games were fast.

PIRATES GOOD IN SECOND HALF.

In the first game the Pirates and Cooks battled on almost even terms. In the first half the score at half-time was 18 to 17 in favor of the Pirates. In the second period, however, the Pirates outclassed their opponents and ran up a big score, the final count being 54 to 30. The teams were:

Pirates.		Cooks.
Thomas	Left forward	Smith
Roberts and Harris	Right forward	Gough
Adams	Centre	Markle
Burridge	Right defence	Bowman

Baskets—Thomas 8, Harris 8, Adams 4, David 6, Smith 4, Butwell 4, Gough 4. Fouls—Thomas 2, Smith 4, Gough 1. Referee—A. T. Taylor.

SECOND GAME CLOSE.

The second game was a close affair also, neither team doing very much in the scoring line. The High School, however, showed a little better team work than Dowlers, and this enabled them to din. The half-time score was 15 to 9, and the full time score 22 to 14 in favor of the High School. "Sandy" McKeracher refereed the game satisfactorily. The teams were:

High School.		Dowlers.
Pelton	Left defence	T. Weir
Grant	Right forward	Davidson
Campbell	Centre	G. Weir
Jepson	Left defence	Mills
Lang	Right defence	Mason

Baskets—Pelton 4, Grant 4, Campbell 1, T. Weir 2, Davidson 1, Mason 1.

Fouls—Pelton 3, Campbell 1, T. Weir 1, Davidson 1, G. Weir 3, Mason 1.

The names Cooks and Dowlers were adopted by the teams using them because these firms supplied the jerseys for the players. The Pirates and High School teams may also change their names, as they are arranging to have suits supplied them by other firms.

HORSE TALK

Peter Pearl, 2:09¼, winner of the $1,000 stake for 2:24 trotters at the Detroit short-ship circuit meeting in June, will be in the Murphy stable next year.

Mr. Jones has decided to breed Dudie Archdale to Etawah. Each has a race record of 2:03¾, which gives the foal something for a starter.

In view of the fact that she did not come along as expected, Judson Girl is to be put to breeding. She will be mated with Manrico in the spring.

Mr. Lazell's trotter, Henry Setzer, is proving a first-class sire, as a pair of his 2-year-olds did the trick this year, Henry Todd, 2:11¾, and Baroness Setzer, 2:15¾.

Now and then we think of days that are gone. A reminder came through the summary of a race at Dallas in which a colt by Alcryon was driven by a man named Nelson.

It is understood the grand circuit is saying a word to Syracuse about cutting the meeting to three days to make room for the runners. It is to be a case of one or the other next season.

J. Malcolm Forbes is to be tried again, this time by Geers, who will see if the stallion can come back. When he trotted in 2:08 at the Detroit fair meeting it looked as though his owner had the right to aspire to the stallion crown for the handsome horse.

LONDON DEFEATED PARIS IN BASKETBALL GAME

Local Juniors Were Never Headed in Game With Paris Juniors—High School Girls Play.

The London Junior Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Junior Y. M. C. A. team of Paris in a game at the local Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. The final score was 27 to 14. The game was a fast and clean one. It was marred in the second half, however, by an accident to Davidson, the left defence man on the Paris team. He suffered some torn ligaments in his arm, and was forced to retire. The local juniors were always in the lead, the score at half-time being 14 to 5 in their favor. Alex. Eastwood refereed. The teams lined up as follows:

Paris.		London.
Hilborn	L. F.	Pelton
Barker	R. F.	Grant
Wentworth	Catcher	Tanton
Wilson	R. D.	Campbell
Davidson	L. D.	Rowe. Lang
		Butwell

Baskets—Hilborn 1, Wentworth 2, Wilson 1, Pelton 8, Grant 2, Campbell 3, Fouls—Barker 1, Wentworth 5, Pelton 1.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS PLAY.

As a preliminary to the game two teams of girls from the London Collegiate played an exhibition contest. The score was 18 to 2 in favor of Miss K. Allen's team. The game was an interesting one, although a little one-sided. The teams were:

First.	Seconds.
R. Hicks, L. F.	M. Simpson
W. Coombs, R. F.	Jessie Love
Irene Dibbs, Catcher	K. Allen
R. Stevenson, L. D.	W. Bryden
Marjorie Meek, R. D.	Ella McKay

Baskets—Irene Dibbs 1, Margaret Simpson 6, Jessie Love 3. Referees — Eastwood and Dunton.

Murphy was 42 times first this year, 22 times second, 26 times third, 12 times fourth, and 41 times outside of the line at the pay window.

Some of the finest reading of the year could be found in the race reports of the Lexington meeting in the turf papers which carefully sidestepped any comment on the Strader-Murphy episode.

Jere Tarlton has a yearling by Tregantle-Bessie Marvin, 2:15¼, that can shade 32 seconds for a quarter in such fine style that he is regarded as one of the best prospects for the 2-year-old futurities next season.

Mr. Billings has ten saddle horses in New York for the fall and winter riding. Most of them are ex-race trotters. Uhlan is not among them, as he is at the farm, Mr. Billings not caring to risk him on the slippery going in th metropolis.

Mr. Billings threatens to sell his splendid farm at Curles Neck, Va. The reason is the attitude of the county officials in assessing him to the limit. A sample is the assessment of The Harvester, which horse they have valued at $75,000 for taxation purposes He never would bring a third of that in the market.

HERRMANN HAS PLAN FOR BASEBALL PEACE

Has Left For Cincinnati To Prepare Amalgamation.

TO ABSORB FEDERALS

Will Leave Only National and American Leagues in Major Class.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—August Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, left here tonight for Cincinnati, and is said to have taken with him a plan for the amalgamation into organized baseball of the Federal League. This afternoon he had a telephone conversation with Chas. Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federals, and later conferred with B. B. Johnson, president of the American League.

Except to admit that preliminary negotiations for ending the baseball war were discussed, Mr. Herrmann would say nothing.

The plan being considered is believed to include the absorption of the Federal League so as to leave but the American and National Leagues in the major class.

MARTIN KILT BANISHED FOR LAYING OUT DE GRUCHEY

Ottawa's Famous "Bad Man" Gets in Some More Dirty Work in Toronto Game.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—St. Patricks, of Ottawa, made their initial appearance here Saturday when they met T. R. and A. A. in a senior O. R. F. U. championship fixture, and met defeat by a score of 11 to 38. Many changes were made in the line-up of both teams. The locals were without the services of Dode, Burkhart, Whale, Foster and Bell. The visitors played Ken Williams on their half line.

De Gruchy, for the home team, played a brilliant game, but was twice laid out by Kilt, who for the second offence was banished from the game. The line-up:

Toronto R. and A. A.—Flying wing, McLaren; halves, Heffernan, De Gruchy, Vivian; quarter, Hobbs; scrimmage, Howe, Lajoie, Brown; inside wings, J. Smith, Crawford; middle wings, D. Smith, Richards; outside wings, Moore, Duncan.

St. Patricks—Flying wing, Nagle; halves, K. Williams, J. Williams, Madden; quarter, Higgins; scrimmage, Ingram, Maloney, M. Fogarty; inside wings, Mullin, J. Fogarty; middle wings, O'Leary, Kilt; outside wings, Adams, Connolly.

Referee—Ben Simpson, Hamilton.
Umpire—Frank Robins, Hamilton.

SNAPPY WORK BY VARSITY WAS TOO MUCH FOR QUEEN'S

Toronto Collegians Beat Presbyterians By Score of 25 to 1 in Spectacular Game.

KINGSTON, Nov. 1.—Varsity took the intercollegiate game from Queen's today, winning a spectacular game by the score of 25 to 1. The teams were evenly matched, but the snappy work on the part of Varsity on several occasions gave Varsity the game. The line-up:

Queen's—Flying wing, McQuay; halves, Razlett, Hill, Rowland; quarter, Quigley; scrimmage, McLeod, Kennedy, White; inside wings, Ellis, Pilgrim; middle wings, Berwell, Dunsmore; outside wings, Slinn, Box.

Varsity—Flying wing, Gage; halves, Lindsay, Doyle, Sheehy; quarter, Stratton; scrimmage, Campbell, Homer, Nicholson; inside wings, McMullan, Brian; middle wings, Cassels, Hughes; outside wings, Adelard, Sinclair.

Referee—Sliter, Kingston.
Umpire—Dr. Hendry, Toronto.

HARVARD BEAT MICHIGAN IN A LISTLESS CONTEST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31.—Harvard defeated Michigan by a score of 7 to 0 here this afternoon in a football game almost devoid of special features or spectacular play, and confined to conservative attack and defensive. The general advance was achieved by a series of line plunges, spiced with an occasional end run, the forward or lateral pass not being used.

PUNTS AND PASSES

[BY PURDOM LOVE.]

Eddie McKay was the man that Sarnia blames for the London victory. Eddie played a grand little game, and was up on the ball every minute. If he hadn't, London would never have got the touchdowns that won the game. When McCart kicked into his own scrimmage in the second quarter from behind the line, it was Eddie that fell on the pigskin like a ton of bricks. Eddie again brought the fans to their feet when he nailed the ball on a fumble by McCart, racing over the line with Bill hard after him, in a vain effort to prevent the score, which was made at an opportune time, as the count was 7 to 6, in favor of the Sailors.

The back division may have won the game for the locals in Sarnia, but too much credit can not be given to the London line in Saturday's game. Though the Sailors had a heavier line, it could not buck the locals, who made their yards time and again by straight bucking.

Don't get the idea that the back division was not present. It was. Most distinctly. Stanfield was a marked man, and did not get away for the spectacular runs that he did in the Petrolea game. However, he played a grand game.

Art Smith was the best man on the field. Art knows the game from start to finish. As a line plunger he had no equal on the field. Mr. Garvey, of the Sailors, will verify this statement. After the game he declared that he got his little tank in the way of Art's head as the latter came through the line with his head down. He said that he never could be able to eat a square meal again.

Ireland gobbled up the Sarnia outside backs in the last quarter just about as fast as he did pumpkin pie and cake at the Hallowe'en dance at the college the night before, which is some compliment.

"Punk" Pollard, the gent from Petrolea, who was scheduled to handle the game for the Sarnia crowd, did not appear, and Brother Stirret obliged. He sure lived up to his name all right, as he stirred up enough trouble for himself by several close decisions. He finished the game with a rule book in his hand. It is a good thing that they did not send "Punk" down; that is if he lives up to his name.

Talking about names, the Sarnia Buccaneers lived up to theirs. They buck and neared the London line, but that was as far as they got. They had the ball within two yards of the London line, and were thrown back on the first and second down, and on the third, "Hogan" Rowan shot through the ring and nailed the quarterback, who was just starting to go around the end on a fake buck. The college has a great line that plays the game every minute.

"That gink from Petrolea is the worst referee I ever saw, Art," said Gus Edwards to Smith, after one of Stirret's decisions. "Never mind, Gus, that old Belgian hair of your will get away yet," said Art; and he did. With his Belgian hair flying in the breeze, Gus tore off 20 yards round the right, and the next time Western got the ball.

Smith would have been even more effective than he was if he had not given himself away on more than one occasion. "All right, Roy," he would call to Roy Wright, the quarterback, just before the latter passed the ball to him. "Get the big fellow," the whole Sarnia line would shout, but it was a good deal easier said than done.

Cameron was about the only Sarnia man that could bring Smith down in his tracks. He and Garvey were the two best tacklers on the Sailors' team.

McCart is a grand punter, and showed up as well as "Mushy" Ross. "Mush" was laid out on several occasions, but stayed right in the game. Allan McConnell, who has had charge of Johnnie during the last week, says that "Mushy" will be in good shape for the next game, a week from Saturday, in Petrolea.

The backs of both teams found great difficulty in catching punts, stating that the wind was about as erratic as some of Friend Stirret's decisions. The wind must have been "sumthin fierce."

If the Sarnia outside wings had followed up as fast as Eddie McKay and Ireland did, they might have gathered in several loose balls. The London backs made some awful fumbles on their own lines, but always recovered before a Buccaneer splashed into view.

"London will go right through to the finals, or I miss my guess" said Manager Dore of the Sailors. "I have seen the Capitals of Toronto, last year's winners play this season, and I think that Petrolea could beat them."

There was something doing every minute of the game, while at half-time a six-round scrap was put on by two 125-pounders from West London. These two youngsters, who probably attend kindergarten, mixed it freely a la Hat Nelson, the crowd applauding every well-aimed blow of the belligerents. The winner's big sister landed down on him like a tornado in his hour of victory, grabbed him by the ear and chased him to the stand.

etaoi

Bill Duffield did the "Ridley glide" to perfection. As a plunger Bill is about the pick of the line. Fitzgerald also was present. "Fitz" has been in the game for some time. His experience was a valuable asset on Saturday. Tom Chatto was hurt in the third period, badly straining his knee. "Cap" Stephens took his place and did his usual yeoman work.

Pierce, who took Edwards' place in the second half, did not show up as well as Gus, although he is a good player.

Earl McLurg, Kenny and Ritchie put up a good game in the curtain-raiser against Woodstock College. Woodstock has a fine little team and should win a number of games this year.

"Tiny" Sage, who was on the yard-sticks for London has a mean disposition. "Wish it was wet," said "Tiny." "I like to see 'em slithering through the mud." The observation reminded us of a game played against Petrolea several years ago, when "Tiny" grabbed "Bloss" Pollard, just at home plate, picked him up by the seat of the trousers, and dropped him into a large mud puddle. Bloss' thoughts weren't any blacker than his face.

Ireland showed some great headwork when he took McCart's onside kick, and punted it away over the heads of the Sarnia backs. Sarnia lost a cool 35 yards on the play.

The hearts of the London fans went into their mouths when the college lost the ball behind its own line. In the mix-up it went out of touch, a Sarnia player grabbing the ball and insisting that it was a touch. However, the referee saw the play.

Sarnia were not as blue as their colors would make them out to be over their defeat. An auto full of fair damsels from the Tunnel Town took in the game and cheered the boys just as loudly as if they had won. The same crowd of girls took in the game between Sarnia and Petrolea in the Hard Oil Town. No wonder Bill McCart played a good game, with a feminine chorus of "Bill," "Oh, Bill," ringing in his ears.

"Mushy" Ross declared after the game that Stirret must have brought some hard oil down from Petrolea, and that "Cap" Stephens had mixed it with some of his own brand of grease, making the pigskin as hard to catch as it was when the porker was alive, and used to gambol at the country fair. "It was just as hard to catch as any greasy pig I ever saw," said "Mush."

There will be a full practice of both the first and second teams at Tecumseh Park this afternoon at 5 o'clock. A full turnout is desired. The seconds will probably go to Woodstock on Saturday for the return game. The boys are determined to win from the Baptists and will turn out every night.

VICTORIA SCHOOL WINS LACROSSE CHAMPIONSHIP

Rectory Street Takes Game Saturday But Loses Round By One Goal.

Victoria School won the Public School Lacrosse League championship on Saturday afternoon, beating Rectory Street by one goal on the round. Rectory Street won Saturday's game by the score of 3 to 1, but the Saturday previously, by the score of 4 to 1. Principal Althouse faced off the ball. The half time score was 2 to 1. Eddie Hawkins refereed, and kept handing out penalties right and left when the youngsters played too roughly. Crowder, Horne and Burgess starred for Victoria, while Robinson, W. Smith, McIntosh, Gillies and McKenzie were the best for Rectory street. Hallett scored the only goal for Victoria, while Robinson, McIntosh and Gillies scored the goals for Rectory street. The teams were:

Victoria — Barned, goal; Stewart, point; Dyer, cover; Hallett, first defence; Horne, second defence; Burgess, centre; Crowder, second home; Reid, first home; Atkins, inside home; Hicks, outside home.

Referee—E. Hawkins. Timekeeper—Mike Collins. Goal Judges—E. H. Johnston and W. J. Clark.

SHAMROCK JUNIORS LOST.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1. — The Shamrock juniors defeated the M. A. A. A. juniors 5 to 2 at the M. A. A. A. grounds previous to the intermediate feature.

AUGUST AND CHARLES HELD A PEACE MEETING

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Peace between organized baseball and the Federal League was discussed informally here Saturday by August Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, and Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federals. Mr. Weeghman admitted the baseball war was the subject discussed, but said the discussion was so preliminary there was nothing definite for the public. Mr. Herrmann would not talk about the meeting.

GIVE RELIEF FOR NON-COMBATANTS

Rockefeller Foundation Has Arranged to Send Help to Belgians.

SHIP SAILS TOMORROW

Commission to Report on Best Method of Giving Assistance.

[Canadian Press.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Rockefeller Foundation has determined to employ its immense resources for the relief of noncombatants in the countries afflicted by the war, and stands ready to give "millions of dollars, if necessary" for the purpose. This was announced tonight by John D. Rockefeller Jun., president of the foundation.

In pursuance of this philanthropy, the foundation will send a commission to Europe in a few days to report first hand how and where aid can be rendered most effectively. At a cost of $275,000, it already has chartered a ship and loaded it with 4,000 tons of provisions for the relief of the starving Belgians.

"This action is taken," Mr. Rockefeller says, "as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely, 'to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world.'"

Million a Month Needed.

Mr. Rockefeller has been in communication with Ambassador Page at London, and makes public a cablegram in which the ambassador says that "it will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation."

"In fact," the ambassador said, "many will starve now before food can reach them." He added that the British Government forbids the exportation of food, and that none can be bought on the continent. It was in response to this urgent message that the foundation decided to send a relief ship "at the earliest possible moment." Mr. Rockefeller makes clear in his announcement that whatever steps are taken by the foundation in its relief work will be absolutely neutral.

SUBMARINE GETS ANOTHER CRUISER

Old British Boat Sunk Off the Belgian Coast—Enemy Probably Has Base in West.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The secretary to the Admiralty last night made the following announcement:

The British cruiser Hermes, Captain C. R. Lambe, was sunk today by a torpedo fired by a German submarine in the Straits of Dover as she was returning from Dunkirk. Nearly all the officers and crew was saved, but the exact loss cannot be ascertained until the men are mustered. The loss of the vessel is of small military significance.

The Hermes was a comparatively old vessel and from a naval viewpoint was of no great value, but the fact that she was attacked so near home indicates that the German submarines must have a base somewhere on that part of the Belgian coast which is occupied by German troops from which they can menace ships of the Allies passing between England and France. Only a few days ago one of them sank the French steamer Admiral Ganteaume, which was carrying refugees from Calais.

How many submarines the Germans have in these waters is not known, but several of them have been seen recently. When ships are guarded by torpedo boat destroyers, as are those engaged in bombarding the German positions, they are comparatively safe, but the opportunity of the submarines comes when one is caught alone as was the Hermes.

The cruiser Hermes, sunk in the Straits of Dover, is the seventh British cruiser to meet such a fate at the hands of German submarines or to be destroyed by mines. Others in the list are the light cruiser Amphion, sunk by a mine on August 6; the scout cruiser Pathfinder, sunk by a submarine September 5; the armored cruisers Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir, sunk by a German submarine September 22; and the cruiser Hawke, sunk by a submarine October 15.

The Hermes was a sister ship of the Hyacinth and Highflyer, the latter of which sank the German steamer Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse. She was a vessel of 5,600 tons displacement, 350 feet long, 54 feet beam and had a depth of 20.5 feet. Her main armament consisted of eleven 6-inch guns and she carried a complement of 456 officers and men. She entered the service in 1900.

Casualties Over Fifty.

DOVER (via London), Nov. 1—4:25 a.m.—Two men killed, nine injured and about forty missing represent the casualties resulting from the sinking of the British cruiser Hermes in the Straits of Dover yesterday by a German submarine. The exact number of missing is not known.

VESSEL FLOATED THREE-QUARTERS HOUR.

DOVER, England (via London), Nov. 1. — It has been ascertained that the British cruiser Hermes, which was sunk by a German submarine yesterday, was attacked twelve miles east by southeast of Goodwin Sands, in the Strait of Dover, at 8:25 o'clock in the forenoon.

A number of torpedo boat destroyers and other vessels immediately rushed to the assistance of the wounded ship, which floated three-quarters of an hour after being struck, and then heeled over and sank. Meanwhile the destroyers rescued the greater number of the crew of 300 men, while other vessels secured the sea in an endeavor to locate the submarine. Two men were killed by the explosion and nine others were injured. About 40 others are missing. The survivors were landed here.

THE LOCAL MARKET

On account of the wet weather, there was not much for sale on the local market this morning. Up til 9:30 o'clock, three loads of hay and a couple loads of oats had been sold. The demand was brisk. Hay went back to $15.50 per ton for the top price.

Oats are going from $1.38 to $1.45 per bushel, with a brisk demand.

There is a good demand for straw. There has been none in for some time, consequently the demand is brisk.

There is no change in the prices of hogs. There will be a shipment on Wednesday in all probability.

Poultry is slow, especially dressed poultry. There was not much demand for it in the market house Saturday. Dressed ducks went as low at $1 per pair.

Some choice Northern Spy apples sold for $1.75 per barrel Saturday. Apples seem to be selling welll.

There is no change in butchers' meats.

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—Liverpool cables were 1½d to 2d higher, and Paris ¼d higher, causing an extremely strong opening on the local market today to the extent of ⅞c to 1¼c. The advance, however, did not last long. A decline set in, owing to heavy profit-taking, and the gain of the morning was lost, prices becoming steadier, around yesterday's close.

A fairly heavy export trade is being carried on daily. One firm early in the day had worked 60,000 bushels of wheat, and fair sales are also being made of oats and barley. During the week the amount of sales for export has been heavy, and there appears to be enough wheat offered to fill requirements.

The cash demand for wheat in the first hours of business was good but on the weakening values a lull set in. The demand for oats is only fair, but there was a better inquiry for barley. Flax keeps dull.

Inspections yesterday were 462 cars, as against 1,134 cars last year, and in sight were 260 cars. Deliveries through the clearing house today were: Wheat, 64,000 bushels; oats, 29,000 bushels, and flax, 5,000 bushels.

Cash Grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.16¾; No. 2 northern, $1.13½; No. 3 northern, $1.08; No. 4 northern, $1.02½; No. 5, 98¾c; No. 6, 93¾c; feed, 90c.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 56c; No. 3 Canadian western, 53c; extra No. 1 feed, 53c; No. 1 feed, 51½c; No. 2 feed, 51c.

Barley—No. 3, 69c; No. 4, 64c; rejected, 60c; feed, 59½c.

WHEAT RECEIPTS.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Wheat receipts, 206,798 bushels.

WHEAT.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Wheat rallied quickly today from a brief setback due to a reported increase of 10 to 20 per cent in the planted acreage of Oklahoma, with seeding still in progress. Commission houses were good buyers on the break. An advance at Liverpool, ascribed to the war developments regarding Turkey, gave confidence to the bulls. After opening ¼c to ⅜c off to a like upturn, the market receded sharply, but then recovered to Saturday night's level.

LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—West End market: Receipts—Cattle, about 2,000 head; calves, 400; sheep and lambs, 1,800; hogs, 800.

The large supplies of cattle under wet, muggy weather conditions caused a slow trade and lower prices for all kinds, excepting prime beeves, which were scarce, and brought higher prices.

Prime beeves, 7¼c to near 8c; medium, 5c to 7c; common, 3¾c to 5c; lean canners, 3c to 3¾c; calves, 4½c to 8½c per lb.

Sheep, 6½c to 7¼c; lambs, 7c to 7½c per lb.

Hogs, 7¾c to 8c per lb.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Too much common cattle in a heavy run at the Union stockyards caused prices to drop about 15c per cwt. Good cattle were scarce. Hogs declined another 25c. Lambs and calves were steady at last week's level. Receipts, 376 cattle, 397 calves, 1,707 hogs and 2,355 sheep.

Cattle—Butchers, choice, cwt, $7 50 to $8; do, medium, $6 to $6 75; do, common, $6 to $6 75; butcher cows, choice, $6 to $6 75; do, medium, $5 75 to $6; do, canners, $3 to $4 25; do, bulls, $6 25 to $7; feeding steers, $6 50 to $6 75; stockers, choice, $6 to $6 50; do, light, $5 to $5 75; milkers, choice, each, $65 to $100; springers, each, $50 to $90; calves, $8 50 to $10.

Sheep—Ewes, cwt, $5 to $6; bucks and culls, $3 50 to $4 50; lambs, $7 25 to $7 70.

Hogs—Fed and watered, cwt, $7 25; f. o. b., $6 90.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 20,000; best strong, others steady; beeves, $6 50 to $11; western steers, $5 75 to $9 25; stockers and feeders nominal; cows and heifers, $3 60 to $9 25; calves, $7 to $10 50.

Hogs—Receipts, 38,000; market slow; light, $7 10 to $7 55; mixed, $7 10 to $7 60; heavy, $7 05 to $7 60; roughs, $7 05 to $7 15; pigs, $4 25 to $6 85; bulk of sales at $7 25 to $7 50.

Sheep—Receipts, 38,000; market was steady; natives, $5 25 to $6 25; yearlings, $6 to $7; lambs, natives, $6 50 to $8 20.

East Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 5,700 head; active; prime steers, $9 50 to $10; shipping, $8 50 to $9 25; butchers, $6 75 to $9; heifers, $7 to $8; cows, $3 75 to $5 50; bulls, $5 to $7 25; stockers and feeders, $6 to $7 25; stock heifers, $5 to $5 75. Veals—Receipts, 1,000 head; slow, $5 to $11 50.

Hogs—Receipts, 22,500 head; active; heavy and mixed, $7 70 to $7 75; yorkers, $5 75 to $7 70; pigs, $7 25 to $7 50; roughs, $6 75 to $6 90; stags, $6 to $6 75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 17,000 head; active; sheep steady; lambs, $5 50 to $8 25; yearlings, $4 50 to $6 75; wethers, $5 75 to $6 90; ewes, $2 50 to $5 50; sheep, mixed, $5 50 to $5 65.

UNION STOCKYARDS QUARANTINED.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The Union stockyards, largest in the world, and the State of Illinois as well, were quarantined against the shipment of cattle, hogs and sheep, on orders from Washington today, according to a statement made by Dr. S. E. Bennett, chief of the local branch of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry at the yards. "This means the practical cessation of the meat-packing business at the yards for the time being," said Dr. Bennett.

AUTO THIEVES "WORK" LONDON'S STREETS

Number of Cars Have Been Stolen Within the Past Fortnight.

Is a gang of auto thieves working in London?

Within the last two weeks a number of thefts of cars have been reported to the police. The machines have been found later by detectivs outside the city limits. In most cases they bear evidence of rough usage.

Saturday night about 9 o'clock a car owned by Dr. George C. Hale was stolen from in front of his home, Hayman Court, Queen's avenue. Dr. Hale had only left the auto standing a half-hour. During that time the walks were thronged with pedestrians, and the pavement with autos. Apparently no person noticed anything unusual in the way in which some unknown person started the motor and drove away.

Police headquarters was notified of the theft, and Detectives Egelton and Down went out on the case. Sunday morning the car was found by the detectives on the Wharncliffe road, outside the city limits. Although the gasoline and water tanks had been filled a few hours before the car was taken, both were empty when the machine was found.

This leads detectives to suspect that the car was driven a considerable distance. A hub on one of the wheels was broken.

Police are making a determined effort to get to the bottom of the mystery. It was stated at the Carling street station last night that if foundt the culprits should be severely dealt with. Whether the thefts are the work of a gang the police are not prepared to say.

COL. W. E. HODGINS LEAVES FOR OTTAWA

Commanders' Trip May Be Regarding Col. Wigle's Staff Commissions.

Col. W. E. Hodgins, first division militia commander, left for Ottawa yesterday afternoon, and it is understood that he will not return until Tuesday. The first draft for officers for the staff of Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, in the Eighteenth Battalion, has been sent to Ottawa and is under consideration by the officials there. It is possible that Col. Hodgins has been called in consultation with regard to commissions on Col. Wigle's staff. This, however, is not generally believed in military circles, as it is customary to accept the recommendations of the commanding officer of a battalion.

There are a number of details that Col. Hodgins might take up with the department and one of these may be "a going over" of the official patronage list in this division.

Indicates Other Contingents?

A number of commissions have been offered to local men who would make good officers. These commissions have been offered in a tentative sort of way, and conditional on their meeting qualifications. These offers would indicate that good officers are in demand, and will be needed, not only for the battalion under formation, but for other contingents to follow.

ARTICLES GOVT. WILL BUY FROM HOME CONCERNS

The London Board of Trade has received a list of articles which the Imperial Government will purchase from Canadian manufacturers.

The list was sent out by S. W. Stovart, purchasing agent for the Imperial Government, with headquarters at Montreal.

The articles are those that are required for army supplies, and it is stated will be bought in immense quantities from manufacturers in this country. Manufacturers wishing to get in touch with the purchasing bureau at Montreal should address communications to Mr. Stovart, at 113 Ridout street, Ottawa. Samples of the articles required are on exhibition there.

The London Board of Trade has placed itself on record as being behind local manufacturers in securing army contracts, and will work in co-operation with city manufacturers who desire to tender for Government contracts.

A list of the articles follows:

Waistcoats, cardigan.
Comforters.
Caps.
Shirts, flannel, worsted.
Socks, woolen.
Drawers, cotton and woolen.
Coats (lumbermen's).
Belts.
Mitts.
Clasp knives with tin opener attached.
Brushes, for hair and for shaving.
Picketting pegs.
Pickett posts.
Shovels.
Mallets.
Mess tins.
Blankets.
Head collars (for horses).
Picks.
Helves (handles for picks).
Shoes.

LIBERAL CLUB BOWLING TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

Special Prize For Bowler Making Highest Score During Week.

The London Liberal Club's five-pin bowling tournament will commence at Hyman Hall this evening. A special prize has been offered to the bowler making the highest score during the week. A half ton of coal has also been put up as a prize for the winner of the progressive euchre tournament which will be held Wednesday night.

FRUITLESS SEARCH

The police throughout Canada and the United States have been asked by William Shosenberg, 9 Bruce street, to search for his 18-year-old son, Roy Roland Shosenberg, who disappeared from this city last July, and from whom no word has been heard since.

Young Shosenberg's parents have spared no expense to locate their boy. Cleveland, Buffalo and Detroit police have been visited personally by the young man's father. Pictures of young Shosenberg have been scattered broadcast, but so far the search has proven unsuccessful.

Monday, Mr. Shosenberg left for Detroit, where he communicated with Chief of Detectives Palmer, but on returning home Saturday no trace of the missing boy had been discovered.

The local police are also aiding in the search.

SURVIVORS LAND.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—6:45 a.m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Batavia, Java, states that an officer, ten petty officers, twenty-three marines and thirteen wounded survivors of the French destroyer Mosquet, which was sunk in the harbor of Penang by the German cruiser Emden, have arrived at Sabank, on the Island of Wai, on the steamer Newburn. The officer of the Mosquet, who was also wounded, died soon after his arrival in the hospital at Sabang.

In the Spotlight

The following letter has been received from Mr. James K. Hackett:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

My Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of a clipping from your valuable paper of October 10, reading as per copy inclosed.

Regarding the comment of your critic concerning my performance I have nothing to say. He was probably more than half right. However, as a man I resent it intensely, particularly because he is guilty of stating untruths regarding facts that do not concern my interpretation. But I most strongly protest against the idea conveyed to the Canadian public that I had inspired in the least Mr. Wolf's questionably humorous comment upon my first appearance in your city. I may add that I have not seen Mr. Wolf for months. I protest particularly because I am too great an admirer of Canadians, and have too many thousands of warm personal friends throughout the Dominion to be guilty for one moment of reflecting in any way upon anything within your borders.

Therefore, I would appreciate it very much if you would print in your columns my letter, as I am now dictating it.

I am a member of the Canadian Club of New York, and I have just sent to them a donation to their war fund which, at the present moment, I can ill afford. I am also a member of the Canadian Camp Club, of which I had the distinction and honor of being one of the founders and directors, in connection with Earl Grey and Lord Minto, and the much-beloved Dr. Drummond, who was my warm personal friend. It is unnecessary to mention other men, dear to the Dominion of Canada, with whom I have been associated, to disprove any implied slight by me on even the smallest hamlet in Canada.

I might say in conclusion, that I think the most undignified and thoroughly undeserved "discharge" of your writer—as we might say under present unfortunate war conditions—went off "half cocked" and "missed fire."

I have dictated this letter most hastily. Had I had more time, I would probably have said less.

With every assurance of esteem, my dear sir, I remain, most sincerely yours. JAMES K. HACKETT.

The article to which Mr. Hackett takes exception, and in view of his fully-accepted disclaimer, justly appeared in this column after an item run in the New York Telegraph, which sneered at London as a theatrical centre. Mr. Wolf began: "According to reports from Canada, James K. Hackett's recent visit to London, Ontario, has its amusing side. Of course, the idea of playing London arouses the first laughter. Etc., etc."

Canadians resent this kind of thing, and it is with pleasure that we publish Mr. Hackett's manly letter, in which he makes plain that the inspiration for the slur in The Telegraph did not come from him. When we wrote the rather bitter note, and included Mr. Hackett as having given his sanction to the paragraph, we had in mind several other incidents of the kind, in which Broadway actors cast aspersions on Canadian cities, not expecting that Canadian theatre patrons would ever see the articles.

As to the matter of "untruths," we may say that there was no intentional misstatement of fact in the article. It was a case of taking "slam" for "slam" and Mr. Hackett, it appears, was the innocent bystander.

At any rate, he faces the charge manfully, and convincingly makes it apparent that he was the victim of a Broadway writer's "cleverness," and that he, as much as any Canadian, resents the insult to the local theatre-going public.

From the tone of Mr. Hackett's letter it would be safe to predict that when he and Mr. Rennold Wolf next meet he will have some sharper things to say than are contained in the above letter.

GERMANS ROUTED BY ARMORED TRAIN

Enemy Had Almost Surrounded British Regiment, But Soon Fled.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail in Northeastern France, telegraphing under date of Saturday, relates how a force of 10,000 Germans was completely routed and scattered by an armored train. He says: "The Germans had almost surrounded a British regiment, which fought on doggedly though so vastly outnumbered. Suddenly an armored train shot up the railway line which the Britishers were holding. Right and left the train poured broadsides of machine-gun fire, mowing down the Germans at every yard, until the line on each side was covered with heaps of dead. The rest fled precipitately, and the British pursued."

COAST TOWNS WRECKED

Germans Appear to Have Abandoned March on Calais.

[Canadian Press.]

Rotterdam, via London, Nov. 2.—4 a.m.—Advices from Belgian coast towns state that the exchange of artillery fire between the Germans and the warships has wrecked most of these towns. Westende, Westkerke and Middelkerke are all in ruins.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM TO HAVE CROSSED RIVERS

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to Reuter's from Amsterdam gives the following official Austrian dispatch received there from Vienna: "The Austrians on Saturday successfully attacked a strong fortified Servian position near Rovrye. Our troops crossed the Save and Drina Rivers, which were obstinately defended by Servians, and occupied Ornabaro, Banovopolje, Rademkone, Gluosi and Tabarovio."

VESUVIUS' ACTIVITY ALARMS THE PEOPLE

Naples via Rome, Nov. 2.—Mount Vesuvius is again in eruption and the inhabitants in its vicinity have become greatly alarmed. On Sunday special prayers were made and processions of people went to favored shrines as a repetition of the disaster of 1906 is feared

The last serious eruption of Mt. Vesuvius occurred in the spring of 1906. Several villages were destroyed, and the property loss was estimated at $20,000,000. About five hundred persons were killed and 50,000 were rendered homeless. Many nations sent aid to the sufferers.

Paris, Nov. 2—5:30 a.m.—Alexandre Millerande, minister of war, has issued an order that all men of the armed service, employed or detached, be immediately integrated in their corps. Commanders are also required to make monthly reports on certain requirements, which are made part of the order.

GERMANS PLACED GUNS ON CHURCH

In Attempt to Defend Pruzkow From Advance of Russian Troops.

POPULATION FOR RUSSIA

Around Warsaw It Offers Every Service—Country Not Devastated.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—Professor Bernard Pars, the British Government correspondent with the Russian army, telegraphs under date of October 30 the following account of the battle around Warsaw, which is issued by the official press bureau: "I have spent some days at Warsaw, and have examined the scenes of the recent fighting as far out as beyond Skierniewice. The Russian river line of defence ran along the Niemen, Babr, Narew, Middle Vistula and the San.

"The Germans had not previously tested seriously the strength of the centre of this line, and the Russian reports issued had so far only spoken of a northern and southern front. Warsaw lay beyond the defensive river line. A rapid seizure of the city before winter set in would have greatly strengthened the Prussian northern front and would have created a moral effect on the Poles, and they might have supported any proposals to negotiate.

Within Six Miles.

"The Germans advanced principally from the southwest, a region largely left in their hands. The German army corps reached a line southeast of Blonie, and at Pruzkow they were little more than six miles from Warsaw.

"The cannonade shook houses in the city: German aeroplanes dropped bombs near the railway bridge, the quarters of the general staff, and elsewhere, killing over one hundred persons, but not achieving their object. The people were much exasperated, and some of them went out to the scene of the fighting.

"The brunt of the defence fell on two Russian corps, especially on one, which included the Siberian troops. These had to oppose three German corps.

"Splendid work was done at Pruzkow, and also by the Siberian Regiment at Rakitna. Here the Germans delayed the Russian advance and placed machine guns on the roof of a church. The inhabitants say that the Siberians long refrained from returning the fire from the church.

Drove Enemy Back.

"The regiment lost its colonel, many other officers and 275 men, but held until reinforced. Several Russian corps arrived and the Russians then drove the Germans back in successive rear-guard engagements, which lasted in all eighteen days. The country up to several miles west and south of Lowicz and Skierniewice is now being recovered.

"The Germans in these operations seized provisions and some valuables, and committed minor indignities, but the country has in no way an aspect of devastation. The population is strongly for Russia, and offers every service to the Russian soldiers

"In Warsaw, great enthusiasm prevails.

Deliberate Retreat.

"The Germans, in retiring, made clean work of the bridges, railways and stores There is every sign of a deliberate and well-executed retreat. Fewer prisoners were taken than in the case of the Austrians, the wounded being for the most part carried away.

"The Russian artillery worked with great precision. There is no sign of any likelihood of any further aggression on this side before winter, but there is always the possibility of an early conflict southward, where the Russians need to secure and complete their conquest of Galicia and the enemy has to guard his base of joint action between Germany and Austria."

RELIEF STEAMER IS NOW AT ROTTERDAM

Unloading Food Rapidly for Transhipment to Belgium.

[Canadian Press.]

Rotterdam, via London, Nov. 2.—The unloading of the steamer Coblenz, which reached here from England Saturday night with 1,000 tons of foodstuffs for the relief of the people of Belgium, began immediately after her arrival, and continued through Saturday night and Sunday at high pressure. The cargo was promptly transferred to river and canal vessels, which last night started on their way to Belgium.

The Brussels correspondent of the Rotterdam Courant, writing regarding the need of foodstuffs, says: "Lines of people form in front of the bakers' shops before daybreak, and a large number of them daily are unable to obtain any of the hard, brown bread, which is the only kind now baked. The flour supply is being husbanded to the utmost, in order that it may last until the American supplies arrive. The American consul expects these within two or three days.

HOW GERMANS GET "TIPS" ON PACIFIC

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 2.—5:10 a.m.—German merchantmen regularly provide German cruisers in the Pacific with coal and provisions from Chilean ports, and furnish the warships with wireless information, according to the Times correspondent at Santiago, Chile.

The correspondent says the merchantmen obtain "leave to depart from the port, probably making false declarations regarding their destination to the Chilean authorities."

NEW YORK POLICE AFTER ILLEGAL VOTERS

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 2.—Final arrangements for getting out the vote tomorrow occupied the attention of the election campaign managers of the various parties today.

It became known today that several hundred warrants for the arrest of men who, it is alleged, have registered illegally in this city, will be distributed to policemen assigned to polling places.

RUSSIA DENIES ANY PERSECUTION OF JEWS

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, via London, Nov. 2.—A semi-official note denies the German allegations that Jews are being persecuted in Poland. The note points out that the war is being conducted by a united Russia, comprising all nationalities without exception.

"Unfortunately, in contravention of article 44 of The Hague Convention," says the note, "the enemy's troops operating in Russian territory are exacting from the Jewish population information concerning our army and means of defence, thus making the population liable to inevitable responsibilities."

GERMANS PREPARE TO LEAVE COAST

Digging New Trenches Behind Ghent—Losses 150,000 Since Occupation of Ostend.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—"The way to Bruges is now open to the allies, owing to their recapture of Roulers, and the Germans are digging new trenches behind Ghent with feverish energy. To do this is to announce their retreat."

This statement is made in the Observer, in a dispatch dated "Near the Franco-Belgian Frontier." The message continues:

"Their (the Germans') losses have been enormous. A German officer captured yesterday estimates that there have been 150,000 killed or wounded since the occupation of Ostend, in northwest Flanders alone. Whole batteries and battalions have been annihilated by the shell fire from the warships. Thousands have been drowned as a result of the opening of the dykes. In the hand-to-hand fighting the German losses have far exceeded those of the allies. Thousands of bodies of Germans floating on the inland sea bear bayonet wounds.

"Only the main roads and railroad tracks remain exposed above the flooded area. The battered regiments are being given no time to reform and amalgamate. They are abandoning their wounded, guns and transports. Unless their fleet comes out to create a diversion they will be driven from the Belgian Coast within a week."

No Time to Bury Dead.

"As showing the huge German losses in the Ypres region, it is said that the British soldiers have buried more than 25,000 Germans," says a message to the Weekly Dispatch, from one of its correspondents in Belgium. The telegram continues:

"There are many great piles of German dead around Dixmude, which it has been impossible to bury, on account of the continuous fighting. Dixmude is a heap of ruins."

BRITISH AVIATORS DO GREAT DAMAGE.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1. — The battle on the Yser continues fiercely, according to a dispatch to the Telegraaf from a correspondent at Sluis. No decisive result has yet been reached. The flooded fields and inundations are proving the best allies of the Belgians and are greatly hampering the Germans.

On Thursday British aviators dropped three bombs in the midst of the German war materials at Lichtervelde (thirteen miles southwest of Bruges), inflicting great damage and killing three German soldiers."

Germany Admits Losses of Nearly Half a Million

Sixty-Thousand in the Past Week Alone.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—The German casualty lists for the past week amount to 62,000, it was announced tonight The total to date is about 420,000.

HEAVY LOSSES STOP GERMANY, SAYS RUSSIA

Czar's Troops Progressing on Prussian Frontier.

[Canadian Press.]

PETROGRAD, Nov. 1.—The Russian General Staff makes the following announcement:

"On the East Prussian frontier our troops are progressing in the direction of Wladislawow (Government of Sulwaki), and the forest of Romentin.

"The German attacks in the region of Bakalarzevo on October 31 have ceased on account of the terrible losses suzered by the enemy.

"Beyond the Vistula we have advanced victoriously along the whole front. We have occupied Opotczno, Ojaroff and Petriknof. We took 400 prisoners and captured six rapid-fire guns, convoys and provisions.

"Upon the San River, near Lezachovo, a Russian regiment, which had intrenched itself step by step, reached the enemy's position, and profiting by the panic among the Austrians, took by assault a temporary fort. Several officers and 500 soldiers were taken prisoners, and five rapid-fire guns were captured.

"A column of the enemy, which descended from the Carpathians and fortified itself near Nadvarna, was attacked and put to flight."

JAPANESE CRUISERS WATCHING FOR ENEMY

HONOLULU, Nov. 1. — The Japanese cruiser Hizen, standing off this port several days watching for German ships, was joined today by another Japanese cruiser. A third vessel in the offing is believed to be a collier.

KILLED WHILE PLAYING HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

MEAFORD, Nov. 1—G. H. Knoles, of Griersville, last night shot Joseph Ferry, 17 years of age, who was one of a party annoying Knoles by Hallowe'n pranks, with a rifle, the bullet entering his head. Ferry died this morning and Knoles was arrested charged with murder.

WELLAND FIRM TO MAKE SHRAPNELL FOR BRITISH WAR OFFICE.

The Electric Steel and Metals Company, Limited, whose plant was recently completed in Welland, Ontario, has received orders from the British War Office, through the Canadian Department of Militia and Defence, for the manufacture of shrapnel shell. A number of the directors of the Electric Steel and Metals Company have been engaged in the making of shells in English arsenals, and this experience enables them to turn out the complete shell in the Welland plant. The present contract will keep the plant going night and day until April, 1915. The stock in the Electric Steel and Metals Company, Limited, was recently issued by Rooke, Bickle & Co., Toronto.

EGYPT FORMALLY ANNEXED BY TURKS

So Says Message From Berlin—Khedive Makes Demand on Britain For an Explanation.

LONDON, Nov. 1. — Turkey has formally annexed Egypt, according to a German official statement, which has been received from Berlin by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company.

The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says that according to a message from Berlin, the Sultan of Turkey has notified all the powers that the British attitude toward Egypt prevented the execution of his Sovereign rights, and the Khedive will demand of Great Britain an explanation of her actions.

Britain and Turkey at War.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 1.—Customs officials were officially informed here yesterday that a state of war existed between Great Britain and Turkey.

U. S. Guarding Interests.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 1.—Turkey has announced that Russian consuls in the Ottoman Empire will not be permitted to leave until assurance of safe conduct are given Turkish consuls in Russia, according to a cablegram from Ambassador Morgenthau to the United States Government, received today.

Great Britain and France have placed their interests in Turkey in the hands of the American Embassy, and the Turkish consul at Havre has turned over his consulate to the United States, and is preparing along with other Turkish consuls to leave France.

The Turkish Minister of the Interior informed Mr. Morgenthau that Turkish warships within the last three days had bombarded Sebastopol.

Mohammedans Denounce Turkey.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 1.—The Turkish Ambassador will be given his passports today.

All the Mohammedan newspapers in the Caucasus are nergetically denouncing Turkey's aggression against Russia, and pledging the loyalty of the Causasian Mohammedans to Russia.

The Russian military authorities are overwhelmed with offers of Cossack volunteers who, although they are exempt from military service, desire to serve.

Ambassadors Leave Turkey.

BORDEAUX, Nov. 1.—6:20 p.m.—It is officially announced that the French, British and Russian Ambassadors to Turkey asked for their passports yesterday, and left Constantinople today. The American Ambassador has taken charge of French interests in Turkey.

Turk Still in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—3:15 a.m.—The Turkish ambassador has not left his residence as yet. At the Turkish embassy it is said that no news has been received from Constantinople. The ambassador has refused to see newspapermen.

Bulgaria Holds Balkan Key.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Athens says that the Russian ambassador and his staff have left Constantinople. It is believed in official circles in Athens that the question of peace in the Balkans depends solely upon the attitude of Bulgaria and Greece, although resolved to preserve neutrality, is closely watching her interests.

Russia Warns Bulgaria.

ROME, No. 1.—8:15 p.m.—A dispatch received here from Athens says:

"Since the beginning of the war, Petrograd has admonished Bulgaria, that if Bulgaria, profiting by the situation, attacks Servia, the Russian fleet in the Black Sea will punish Bulgaria by bombarding her coast towns."

SHORTENS MAIL ROUTE TO NORTH PACIFIC COAST BY MORE THAN TWO DAYS.

Residents in the busy little city of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, are enjoying this winter for the first time the benefits of a direct mail service with the east. Postal service over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Prince Rupert has just been inaugurated, and a great saving of time is being effected. Hitherto the mails have been taken from Prince Rupert and other coast points to Vancouver by steamship and then sent east by rail. Under the new arrangement of direct service over the G. T. P. there will be a clear saving of two, and possibly three, days' time. A letter posted in Montreal or New York should be in Prince Rupert within five days. Via Vancouver it would have taken at the very least seven days. Prince Rupert is destined to be an important stopping place on the shortest route around the world, for any scheme that has for its ultimate object the swift circling of the globe must reckon the city on its right-of-way. The distance from Liverpool to Yokohama by this route is 10,085 miles, as against 10,858 via New York and San Francisco. Moreover, ships sailing from Prince Rupert pass with a few strokes from the land-locked harbor to the high seas, and begin their journey across the Pacific 500 miles nearer the east than a ship would by sailing at the same time from any other Pacific port.

LOCAL NEWS

OCTOBER BANK CLEARINGS.—London Bank clearings for October totalled $7,313,066.

POTENTATE RETURNS.—Potentate Henry Roe, of Mocha Temple, returned from Detroit Saturday, after attending the Moslem Temple's first homecoming.

NO CARD PLAYING.—The Wellington Street Methodist choir spent a very enjoyable evening on Wednesday at J. H. Chapman's in music and games, not cards, as was published in the papers.

BIG THANKOFFERING.—The sum of $250 was obtained at the thankoffering in the Memorial Methodist Church, Richmond street north, on Sunday. In addition, a class of young ladies raised $250, bringing the total to $500.

VAGRANT SENTENCED. — Inep Plaught, a vagrant hailing from Bensall, was sentenced to 21 days in the county jail by S. E. Chown, J.P., of Lucan. County Constable Peter Butler, brought the man in for his visit.

DR. COLEMAN RETURNS.—Dr. H. T. J. Coleman, dean of the faculty of education, Queen's University, who has been the guest of Mr. E. T. White, of the London Normal School, and Mrs. White, returned to his home in Kingston on Saturday.

TO ADDRESS PATRIOTIC MEETING.—Mayor Graham will address a patriotic meeting in Howlett Church, Delaware Township, on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Graham will render several solos. It is expected that a large number will be present.

S. A. REVIVAL SERVICES.—Staff Capt. and Mrs. White, of the Salvation Army, began a series of revival services Saturday evening and Sunday morning, afternoon and evening in the Salvation Army headquarters. Similar services will be held again through the week.

TO CONSIDER PASTOR'S CALL.—The trustee board of the Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, which meets next week, will deal with the call received by the pastor, Rev. J.J.Millyard, to the Listowel Methodist Church, to take effect in June. No action will be taken in the matter until after the board meeting.

LOSS WAS $5,000.—The loss occasioned by last Wednesday night's fire at the old store of Grey's, Limited, amounted, according to the estimates by the insurance appraisers, to upwards of $5,000. Most of the damage to the store was by smoke. The fire itself was confined to the basement and resulted in little direct damage.

MAJOR BEATTIE A VISITOR. — Major Thomas Beattie, M. P., was a visitor at the fair grounds camp on Saturday, taking a keen interest in the soldiers there, and in the arrangements of the camp. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the outlook of sending a good-looking and a good-fighting lot of men to the front.

CONSERVATORY RECITAL. — The recital held at Conservatory Hall, Saturday afternoon, was given by the following pupils: Misses Elizabeth Rennie, Alice Andrewes, Mary Ashton, Jessie Gillespie, Marian Beck, Elsie Mayers, Mabel Cross, Babe Fowler, Doris Shaw, Louise O'Flaherty, and Master Morley Braddon, piano, Miss Lila Smallman, violin.

STORE BURGLARIZED. — Thieves broke into the general store of E. E. Bond, Mount Brydges, early Friday morning. They apparently had several sweet teeth in their heads, as candy, cakes and sugar were the principal articles stolen. High Constable Gumb and County Constable Fisher made an investigation and have an idea who the culprits are. The thieves made an entrance through a window.

NO LIQUOR FOR GUARDS.—Chief of Police Williams has issued a warning that anyone who gives, sells or supplies military guards with liquor, while they are on duty, is liable to a five-year term or a $5,000 fine. He has also warned citizens that anyone will be liable to a long term who supplies liquor to any soldier while in an intoxicated condition. This latter regulation will be enforced as long as the country is in a state of war.

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY BANQUET.—The Laymen's Missionary Movement of London will hold its annual banquet next Friday evening in Talbot Street Baptist Church. The meeting will be addressed by Sam Higginbottom, of India, a noted missionary, who has recently made the agricultural department a feature of the great college at Allahabad, India. Officers for the year will be elected and other business of the association transacted following the banquet.

FIFTEEN FIRE ALARMS.— The fire brigade responded to eighteen alarms during the month of October. Fifteen of the calls were for fires, two turned out to be false alarms and one was an emergency call. The telephone was used thirteen times to summon the brigade and the boxes five times. The disastrous fires of the month were those of the C. N. W. Shoe Company and the Simpson Trunk Company in both instances firemen were injured and the money loss was in the thousands.

AUTO-SPEEDERS FINED. — Nine auto owners, who speeded upon the county roads earlier in the week, when they thought the county police were far away, appeared before Squire Chittick, and handed over $2 each on Saturday. The squire promised a heavier fine for the next offence. Following are the names of the auto owners assessed: Alf. G. Don, Crowarty; W. H. Graham, Clinton; H. R. Greenwood, Mitchell; B. Langford, Lucan; Wm. Abbott, Clandeboye; R. J. Miller, Clinton; H. Gibson, Lucan; A. McLean, Parkhill, and Joseph Skinner, Parkhill.

WILLING TO PAY.—Arthur N. Keene, secretary of the London and Western Motor Club, told The Advertiser that automobile owners in Ontario have no objection to paying the proposed increased tax if they could be sure that the revenue would go entirely toward the upkeep of roads in the province. "For some time," he said, "the matter has been before the legislature, and has been fought by the representatives of the Ontario Motor League, because the Government refused to consent to earmark all money derived from the tax increases and set it aside for roads."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN.—"Sunday Schools in Ontario will undoubtedly start a campaign this year to secure for the Sunday Schools a much larger number of teen-aged members," said Rev. H. H. Bingham, of the Talbot Street Baptist Church. This need for young men and adults in the Sunday School was emphasized by almost every speaker at the annual convention of the association, which closed Friday night in the First Presbyterian Church. The next convention will be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, and will be a monster gathering, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the provincial association.

PLEASING NUMBERS.—The Dundas Street Centre Methodist Church Sunday School orchestra of 30 pieces augmented the choir at the service Sunday night, and under the leadership of C. C. Irwin, rendered some excellent music. The church was crowded, the music rendered by the orchestra being a revelation to many of those present. Following are the selections given: Valse Trieste, Jean Sibelius; arrangement of Onward Christian Soldiers, W. H. Judes, and The Heavens Are Telling from the Oratorio, The Creation. The last two selections were rendered by the choir and orchestra. The Postlude was the Minuet, Paderewski.

WRONG PRICE QUOTED.

Owing to a typographical error in the advertisement of Loyal Blend Cofffe, which appeared in Saturday morning's paper, the price was quoted at 40 cents a pound instead of 45 cents. Loyal Blend is the best grade of coffee manufactured by the I. X. L., and could not be sold at the price quoted in the advertisement.

SUGGEST COMMISSION FOR ARMY CONTRACTS

Municipalities Discuss Industrial Situation With the Dominion Cabinet.

Mayor Graham returned Saturday from Ottawa, where he yesterday attended a conference between a committee of the Dominion cabinet and representatives of the Provincial and Dominion Unions of Municipalities. He went to the capital as president of the Ontario union.

The main question under discussion was the advisability of devising some method by which each municipality would receive a fair share of the Government contracts for army supplies. The appointment of a commission for this purpose was suggested, and probably this will be done.

The mayor was specially interested in a request put forward by municipal representatives for an amendment to the present act concerning the hypothecation of municipal debentures. At present only debentures issued previous to the 1st of May, 1914, may be hypothecated, and the mayor and others pointed out that civic bodies would be better able to go ahead with public work if the act were amended to apply to all debentures issued during 1914. They were promised that the matter should be given consideration and a decision given as soon as possible.

The general unemployment situation also was discussed, but the members of the cabinet committee declared that the Government was not in a position to do much in that connection just now. Most public work was outside, they said, and could not be done in the winter in any case. They advised the various municipalities to carry on as much civic work as possible, and reminded them that Canada was at war, and that everyone must be prepared to bear his share of the hardships which inevitably must result.

A further conference will be held on today but Mr. Graham will not attend it. He declared that the Government also has promised to take over that part of the Federal Square site already acquired, and to pay the $50,000 promised to the city next month.

COOKING WORTH $1,000

Jury Gives William T. Ford That Amount For Its Loss.

For alienation of his wife's affection and for the loss of her company and good cooking, William Ford, of this city, was awarded $1,000 damages and $200 costs from Peter Zimmerman at the fall assizes on Saturday. Mr. Ford originally claimed $4,000, alleging that the defendant had enticed his wife from him. The jury, being made up almost entirely of farmers, who know the value of home comforts, decided the above amount after being out for several hours, some of the jurymen declaring that the plaintiff should have got more.

J. F. Faulds for plaintiff and P. J. Bartlett for defendant.

The case of Gavin Monahan against John A. Barnard for $1,000 damages as the result of an accident at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets on May 29 was still going on when the court was adjourned at 10:30 p. m. till 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, Mr. Justice Lennox having to preside over the court in Cobourg today and tomorrow.

MUCH PAIN FROM KIDNEY DISEASE

Doctored In Vain Until Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Were Used.

Kidney derangements are often associated with disorders of the liver and bowels, and under these conditions ordinary kidney medicines usually fail to effect cure. It is because of their unique, combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so generally successful, even in the most complicated cases.

Mr. Emanuel Bernard, farmer, St. Paul's, Kent County, N.B., writes: "About eighteen years ago my wife was bad with kidney disease, and suffered greatly from headaches, pains in bowels and stomach, and her heart was affected. For a year she was treated by her doctor, with no apparent benefit. She then used five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with most satisfactory results. This gave us such a good opinion of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills that we always keep them in the house to be used for all derangements of the kidneys, liver and bowels." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25c a box, 5 for $1.00, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES TO CONVENE HERE

Sessions Will Open Wednesday and Continue During Thursday.

Between two and three hundred delegates from Western Ontario Women's Institutes will convene in London on Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. The convention will be one of the biggest of its kind ever attempted here. Prominent speakers will enliven the sessions with crisp, up-to-the-minute addresses, and every effort will be made to make the event a huge success.

The sessions will open Wednesday afternoon, when district reports will be heard and work of a preliminary nature disposed of. At the evening session, Mrs. W. Dawson, of Park Hill, will give an address on "The Women's Institute as a Leader in Social Life." Sir Adam Beck will speak on the same occasion on "The Red Cross Society and Local Relief Work." The program will be concluded with a lantern-illustrated lecture by Dr. J. A. S. McCullough, secretary of the provincial board of health on "Public Health."

Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock the sessions will be resumed, when an address on "Patriotism and Citizenship" will be given by Mrs. H. W. Parsons, of Cochrane. At 11:15 o'clock "The Domestic Help Problem" and "The Way Out" will be discussed by Mrs. (Dr.) Henry MacMurchy.

In the afternoon Mrs. S. Courtial, of Wallaceburg, and Mrs. D. Amos, of Exeter, will have something to say on the subject of "How to Maintain Interest in a Women's Institute." Prof. R. W. Graham, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will discuss up-to-date poultry raising. The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides, showing actual "plants" in operation.

Dinner will be served at noon at a moderate fee by members of the W. C. T. U. On Thursday afternoon the delegates will be entertained by the Local Council of Women at Alexandra School.

"MADE IN LONDON"

Garments For Belgian Relief Have Official "Stamp."

The volunteer sewing class at the Collegiate Institute sewing for the little Belgians has made up scores of little suits for boys and girls ranging in age from two years to twelve years. All of the work, which is done under the instruction of Miss Mary Macpherson, director of household science, has the label on it of "Made-in-London." These labels, furnished free by the London Lithograph Company, are sewed in the neck bands and used also as hangers.

Miss Aileen Neville, household science teacher at the Normal School, where a sewing class is carrying on similar work, uses the same label on all clothing sent out there. The suits made by both classes are sent to Montreal and from there forwarded to England for distribution to the refugees.

100 OUT SHOOTING

Good Scores Run Up at Cove Ranges Saturday Afternoon.

One of the best afternoon's shooting in some time was the verdict of over 100 men at the Cove rifle ranges on Saturday afternoon. The weather was ideal and some good scores were made by the members of the various corps present.

Capt. T. J. Murphy was present, and was possibly the busiest man on the ranges. Raw recruits from the Seventh and other out-of-town regiments, some of them handling a rifle for the first time, mingled with the members of the Businessmen's Rifle Club, all receiving much valuable information from the genial captain, who takes an interest in every man on the ranges.

Some of the recruits ran up surprising scores, while the members of the Businessmen's Club all showed improved form. There was no shooting done at 500 yards, the men not having time to shoot at the 500 mark after everyone had shot at 200 yards. There were sixteen targets in operation during the afternoon's shooting.

MISS MERCURY SKITTISH

Wide Diversity Shown in October Temperatures.

The official weather report given out by the observatory in South London last night places the highest temperature for October at 80 degrees, on the 5th and 8th. The lowest notch to which the mercury dropped was 22 on the 27th. The rainfall for the month was 1.93 inches.

GIDEONS HOLD BANQUET

Sixty Members and Friends Spend Social Evening.

More than 60 Gideons, members of the London Camp of Christian Commercial Travelers' Union, and their friends, held a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. Speakers of the evening were W. Cole, Dominion secretary of the association, of Toronto; William Gibson and J. F. Maine, of this city.

Walter A. McCutcheon and Miss Currie, soloist at Askin Street Methodist Church, pleased with solos. A duet by Messrs. Blackie and McCutcheon was heartily encored.

The tenor of the addresses was of the creditable progress made by Gideons throughout the country and the United States and particularly in the local camp. New members are constantly coming into the association and the local camp is more than keeping pace with the forward march.

A DEATHBLOW TO ALL CIVILIZATION

German Victory in Present War Would Be That, Says Rev. R. J. Renison.

LAUDS BRITISH COLONIES

Inspiring, Says Minister, the Way in Which Possessions Have Responded to Call.

"This is a fight for the common people, for the ideals of democracy. Military ambition is fatal to democratic ideals, and the lights of civilization will go out all over the world if the allies go down to defeat in this war. If the British Empire should be crushed freedom would cease to exist, and it would mean that our children would be born into a tributary state of an autocratic power."

Rev. R. J. Renison, D.D., of Hamilton, preaching yesterday morning at the special anniversary service at St. James' Episcopal Church, South London, thus expressed his opinion of the result which would follow if Germany should be successful in defeating the nations arrayed against her in the titanic struggle now raging in Europe.

Not After War.

Britain did not desire war, the speaker said, her ministers had left undone nothing they could do honorably to preserve peace, but the Empire had been compelled to fight for the right of little countries to exist, a right which autocratic Germany sought to deny.

A country's greatness did not depend on vast area. The British Isles, which had produced most of our ancestors, was comparatively small, and Belgium had provided a wonderful example of how great a little country could be. It was a fact that history had been made very largely by the little countries of the world.

A man's nationality, the preacher pointed out, was not merely a matter of geography. What was inside a man was much more important in determining this. We belonged to a nation which always had stood for freedom, and every reader of history must realize how passionately British people had loved freedom.

Wonderful Response.

Dr. Renison declared that nothing could be more inspiring than the way the people throughout the Empire had responded to the mother country's call for men. It perhaps was not wonderful that Australia and Canada should have responded so spontaneously, but one could not but be impressed with the way in which the people of South Africa and India had come forward. The former had been our enemies not so long ago, and the latter lived in a country of professional agitators and of kings and princes differing tremendously in their ideas and ideals. Yet these people without hesitation had offered their services and their lives to the Empire.

This was not so much a matter for pride or self-congratulation, but rather for thankfulness to God. It showed also that it pays to be generous, for Britain's generous treatment of her beaten enemies undoubtedly had been a factor in securing the loyal support of the Boers.

Surprised at Germany's Move.

The preacher said he had been surprised when Germany had deliberately provoked war; he had thought her good sense would prevail over her desire for world power. The result showed that something more than mere culture, of which Germany boasted so much, was needed to develop the best characteristics of a nation. It was not for nothing that the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ had been kept simple, and it was not for nothing that the "higher critics" had tried to take away its simplicity in Germany.

The fact that conscription was unknown in the British Empire was referred to by Dr. Renison with pride. He loved to think that we were a nation of citizen soldiers, and that every man who volunteered for active service made the sacrifice for love of his country. There was something wonderful in the power a great emergency had to spiritualize men.

To Take Evening Service.

Dr. Renison was to have preached in the evening also, but, as Dean Davis, the rector, explained in the morning, he was wanted to preach at a special service in his own church, and as a number of his parishioners were leaving Hamilton to join the second contingent, he did not feel justified in disappointing them on what perhaps would be their last opportunity of attending the church. The evening sermon was preached by Dean Davis.

At both services a special program of music was given. The choir gave splendid renderings of special anthems and hymns, and solos by Misses Elsie Green and Minnie Fox in the morning and evening, respectively, were sung magnificently. C. E. Percy, the organist and choirmaster, also deserves praise both for his own work on the organ, and the excellence generally of the choir.

COULD NOT GO TEN STEPS

FOR THE PAIN IN HIS KIDNEYS.

When you get a pain in the back you may rest assured that it comes from derangement of the kidneys, for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back should be strong and well.

Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the kidneys, and there is no further excuse for any kidney trouble to exist. What more needs to be said? While Doan's Kidney Pills are not a "balm for every ill that flesh is heir to," they are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its inception in the improper action in those delicate little filters of the blood, the kidneys.

Mr. Adelard Cleroux, Eganville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for four years. They were so bad at times I could not go ten steps for the pain they caused me. My doctor could not do me any good. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought five boxes, and now I have been cured for over three years. I will recommend them to whoever may be suffering from kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box; 5 boxes for $2.25, all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doans."

REV. S. E. M'KEGNEY'S FAREWELL SERVICES

Preaches Last Sermon at St. David's Church on Sunday.

Rev. S. E. McKegney preached farewell services at St. David's Anglican Church to crowded congregations at both services Sunday. Mr. McKegney leaves on Friday to become curate of St. Mark's Church, Parkdale, Toronto.

Taking his text at the morning service from Ephesians, iii., 4 and 5, he spoke of the communion of saints, stating that he believed in the communion of saints Sunday after Sunday, and that a grasp of this doctrine meant a great deal to the spiritual life of a man.

"In the first place, there must be communion with God," said the preacher. "This communion is often broken by sin, but Christ comes to our rescue and helps us to make our peace with Him.

"We must have communion, one with the other. In God's sight we reveal our unworthiness, and that we have nothing to boast of. Therefore, when we come to God's holy table, we all come as those redeemed by Jesus Christ.

"We must realize that those who have gone before are in Christ's presence. The penitent thief on Calvary's cross was told that this day he would be with Christ in Paradise. Paul says that to be absent in the body is to be present with the Lord."

Mr. McKegney concluded by declaring that wherever we get a glimpse in the bible of the unseen world we find that the people are engaged in worship, and that the inhabitants of this world are in communion with those above, when they are worshipping God.

HAD NO POWER OVER THE LIMBS

Locomotor Ataxia, Heart Trouble and Nervous Spells Yielded to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It would be easy to tell you how Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures locomotor ataxia and derangements of heart and nerves, but it may be more satisfactory to you to read this letter.

Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D. 3, Sombra, Ont., writes: "Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A FAILURE WITHOUT GOD, SAYS SPEAKER

Ivan Panin Addresses Big Audience in Adelaide Street Baptist Church.

Adelaide Street Baptist Church was crowded to capacity last night to hear Ivan Panin, B.A., speak on "Man Without God: a Failure," or the philosophy of history as expounded by the Bible.

He showed how man, since the beginning, has been antagonistic to God, and has been a failure. "Starting with Adam, who had only one command to obey, he failed, in the sight of God," said Mr. Panin. "Then after the flood a new chance was given to man, and he was asked not to shed blood. This he promptly did, and God cast him off. God began again with the Jews, whom he called his chosen people. The Jews also failed, and God had to destroy Jerusalem and scatter the Jews on the face of the earth.

"Then came the Christian dispensation. God sent his only Son into the world, and has given man the easiest possible way of being saved, by merely asking man to believe on His Son.

"The Christian dispensation will end in the day of judgment, as the previous ones, because man does not take advantage of the offer to be saved.

"Finally comes the last dispensation," continued the speaker. "During the millenium, Christ will come to earth once more, so the Bible teaches us, and the devil will be chained for 1,000 years, so that man will have no chance to say that the devil tampered with him. Christ himself will rule, and yet at the end of the 1,000 years, according to the Bible, when Satan is let loose he will find all the men on earth ready to receive him and to take up arms, under his leadership, against God.

"This is the history of man as outlined in the Bible, that no matter how gracious are the dealings of God with him, when he is put on his honor, so to speak, he is ever found wanting, so that the whole history of man from a biblical standpoint is merely to show man unto himself; that in him there dwelleth no good thing, and that no flesh should glory before God. Human history is simply a lesson to humble man before God."

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Church of the Redeemer Observes Fifth Birthday.

Special services were held in the Church of the Redeemer Sunday in celebration of the fifth anniversary of the church. Choral music formed a pleasing part of the services, both morning and evening.

Canon Craig, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who conducted the evening service, congratulated the members of the Church of the Redeemer on the excellent progress which the church had made, since it had become a separate church. Prior to this time the Church of the Redeemer had been a mission church, dependent upon the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and conducted to accommodate the growing population of the north end of the city.

The Church of the Redeemer, Canon Craig declared, had taken its place among the churches of the city. The speaker praised the services of the church, and commended the rector, Rev. H. E. Ashby.

Mr. Ashby conducted the morning service, and in his sermon dwelt upon the anniversary of the church, its work and progress made in the five years the church has stood. The choir, which rendered special choral selections, was under the leadership of Wm. Vaughn.

ALL SAINTS' ANNIVERSARY

East End Church Was 27 Years Old on Sunday.

All Saints' Day and the anniversary of All Saints' Church, on the Hamilton road, were jointly celebrated last night by Rev. Canon Tucker, of St. Paul's Cathedral, who delivered a special sermon on the work of the church and the communion of saints. He likened the communion of saints to the communion of British citizenship, which at this time is looking from all quarters of the Empire toward the battlefront.

Holy Communion was observed at 8:30 and 11 a.m., while at the morning services, the rector, Rev. A. A. Bice, traced the history and development of the present church, whose 27th anniversary was celebrated. It was established 27 years ago at the corner of Adelaide and Hamilton road by Bishop Baldwin. The present edifice is seven years old.

The choir, under Miss McBride, furnished special music at both services.

FIGHT IN CAFE WILL BE AIRED IN COURT

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GODERICH, Nov. 1. — A row which started in a local cafe on Sunday morning, and which, it is alleged, nearly resulted in a serious stabbing affray, will be aired in the police court on Monday. It is alleged that the young men who figured in the fight were all under the influence of liquor, and as this is a "dry" district this constitutes an offence in itself.

Two inebriates who appeared yesterday and admitted having been drunk were fined $20 each and costs.

Another case of alleged second offence was postponed in order to allow evidence to be collected.
