First Criminally Assaulted and Then Beaten to Death.

Attempt to Assault Mrs. Covell Failed, But She Was Badly Treated-Masked Man Demanded the Two Old Women's Money or Life-Mrs. Covell, the Invalid Survivor, Tells the Brutal story.

Rodney, April 20.-Alone in a Rodney, April 20.—Alone in a fittle house on the outskirts of this village two old women were attacked by an unknown man Tuesday night. One, Eliza Lawry, aged 70 years, was beaten to death, and the other, Mrs. Covell aged 75, is scarcely able to tell her story. The crime was discovered early yesterday morning when Mrs. Covell drawged herself positivally to the Covell dragged herself painfully to the Coveil dragged herself painfully to the attention of two lads on their way to school. Help was summened and the villagers were horrified to find the body of Miss Lawry, partly undressed, lying in a corner of the yard near the door of the shed. She was frightfully bester and the ground around was beaten and the ground around

At the inquest yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Covell, seated in a chair, propped up with pillows, with difficulty told the story. Miss Lawry had been living with her for some weeks. Tuesday night, at $30, the two retired. Mr. Covell was away.

"Open or I'll Break."

About 11, Mrs. Covell says, there came a furious knocking at the door and a voice cried, "Open the door or I will burst it in." The woman hurried te the window, but could not see the man. Scarcely ten minutes later the door broke and the man entered, confronting the two old women, dressed in their night clothes. "Mrs. Baker," he said, "I knew your husband, Anderson Baker, I knew him well when he died." Mrs. Coyell's first husband was Anderson Baker of Rodney. The intruder afterwards asked if Miss Lawry was Mary Taylor. Mrs. Covell said she was not and begged the intruder not to hurt her.

"I want your money or your life," he said, "and I want more than that too."

Mrs. Covell gave him two purses, with $1 and $1.50. He declared that there was more money in the house than that, and, seizing Mrs. Covell, jerked her outside the door and thew her on the ground. He kicked her and ordered her to give him more money. "I am Gone." ;
When told he had it all, he kicke

She fied and tried to get into the woodshed, but in a few moments Mrs. Covell heard the agonizing cry, "I am gone!"

Mrs. Covell succeeded in getting into the house and in half an hour the man came in again. The murderer could be heard striking matches in the could be heard striking matteres in the living room and finally entered the bedroom. Dr. H. McL. Patterson testified that Miss Lawry was of an English family and lived in Rodney for many years. She was always known as rather eccentric and had lived at various times with Mrs. Covell. She had some property. One brother, James Lawry, is living in Rodney.

The house is a frame clapboard building, about a mile to the north of the town. It is 500 yards from any dwelling and none of the neighbors heard any disturbance.

The stick used by the murderer was a trimmed branch cut from a tree a hundred yards down the road. It is about an inch in thickness.

Semi-Official Information at Tokie Places Probable Early Fighting Northeast of Paracels Islands - St. Petersburg Thinks Togo Will Not Fight in Open Sea-Jap Army Won't

Tokie. April 19.—There is practically official information for the statement that the Russian battleship and cruiser fleet on Sunday night departer northeast from Callas Bay and probably is anchored south of the Triton Islands, in the Paracels group, awaiting the aerival of the Thutil squadron. The intelligence department of the admiralty board, which has kept in touch with the Russian ships since their departure from Madagascar, announces that the battleships, under command of Rojestvensky, sailed from the Bay of Callac shortly after dark on Sunday night en a course due east.

After leaving Kamranh Bay on Friday, where all the ships of the fleet were coaled, the Russian commander went to Port Callac to take on provisions, perhaps, to kill time in order to meet the squadron which sailed from Jibutil eleven days ago. Rojestvensky ought to meet the sings, it it estimated here, semewhere between Triton Island and the Rombay shouls assuming that the course of the Russians will be toward the Philippin Islands and that Rojestvensky will prefer to take that route on the Russians. The first attack on the Russians.

Togo will decline to give battle in the open sea.

This is what the admiralty officials hope for, as they sincerely believe Rojestvensky would have more than an even chance if the two squadrons lined up in an open fight.

The admiralty has no confirmation of the reported cutting of the cable connecting Formosa with the Chinese mainland at Foochow.

Jap Armies Won't Suffer. Yinkow, April 17, via Tientsin, April Tenkow, April 17, via Tientsin, April 18.—Few transports are now arriving at Newchwang. This contrast with the rush of traffic since the opening of the Liao River indicates that precautions are being taken against possible interference by the Russian Pacific squadron.

Vast accumulations of stores have already been made along the Japanese lines of communication, assuring full supplies to the armies in the field even if the transport service is interrupted.

TOGO'S TACTICS

While confident of Admiral Togo's ability to accomplish the total destruction of the Russian squadron in a big battle, there is the danger of Togo losing one or two of his big ships. Therefore Viscount Hayashi believes Togo will employ his torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers, which number more than a hundred and are vastly superior to the Russian torpedo boat flottlia, in harassing the Russians, while gradually picking off the Russian war ships. He said the coasts of Japan, Corea and Formosa lend themselves to night work with torpedo boats, while the narrow channels will make manoeuving of large war ships

The first attack on the Russians probably will be northeast of the Paracels Islands. Information here suggests that this sea fight is not more than twenty-four hours away. Admiral Uriu'se squadron was in Subig Bay Monday night, and it is believed he is sixteen ships strong, including seven cruisers, the remainder being torpedo boat destroyers. Is there not some way in which an end can be put to the perpetual trouble occasioned ratepayers and paving companies to say nothing of vaste of valuable time and the loss of good streets-by the withdrawals, resignings, re-withdrawals, re-resignings, etc., of petitions for these valuable and permanent local improve-

Can we all not "get together" and devise some way of bettering this condition of affairs in Chatham? It is suggested, for instance, that Chatham should ask for an amendment to the Act by which a name oace signed could not be withdrawn except on application to the county

This is a solution worth consider ing. It would seem in the past that the fault has largely been with the ratepayers themselves. Dozens are re ported to s'gn and withdraw and sign again even within 24 hours. Surely th's is not creditable except under extraordinary conditions. The citizen should be "thoroughly informed of the cause" ere he appends his signature to the application for any kind of pavement and then, in so far as possible, he should abide by his judgment, If exceptional cases should occur an application to the county judge would not be deemed a hardship.

The Planet submits this suggestion. We should be pleased if the aldermen were to take it into their considera-

AN IMPORTANT JUDGMENT.

A case almost unique in Canadian court annals has just been disposed of in St. Catharines, comments the St. Thomas Times. The legal ity of the boycott has been tested in Great Britain and the United States, but this is about the first time in Canada in which employers have taken action against labor organizations for damages. The Gurney Foundry Company of Toronto, lest nearly all their trade in St. Catharines because of boycotting. The labor union officials, it is said, sent out circulars describing Gurney goods as "antair," and the effect was to rain the trade of the firm in St. Catharines. It was also brought out in evidence that agents and employers were intimidated by threats to such an extent that they had to stop selling Gurney furnaces. The Gurney Company took action against trade union officials, demanding heavy Ramages, and have secured a verdict against the unions collectively for $1,500. The Gurney Company in 1902 determined to keep an "open" shop, and have since run their business without reference to the unions.

In summing up, after hearing the evidence and listening to arguments, Mr. Justice Anglin took strong ground against the St. Catharines workmen, and the jury found for the plaintiffs, awarding claimed many times that sum.

The outcome of this trial is most significant. A precedent was the judgment against the union men in the Taff Vale Colliery of Wales, tried in the British courts a year or two ago, when the allied trades unions were called on to pay considerable damages, and paid the amount awarded by the courts.

It is too bad that capital and labor samuet get along amis-ably, and doubtless there is fault on both sides; yet it seems only fair that trade unions should be amenable to law, as the capitalists are. How far union men may go in talking to the detriment of a firm's business, has to be considered. As private individuals there can hardly be any restrictions placed upon them; but getting to-gether and taking organized action appears, by Judge Anglin's decision, to make them liable. It is a pity that a good feeling cannot be maintained between employers and employed, so much distress would thus be obviated. Men willing to work should have an oppor-tunity of earning a respectable living; yet a capitalist should be allowed to run his own business. Where is the line to be drawn and who will draw it?

Our villages are in a bad way. The evils set out in your recent anticle. "The Truth About Country Life," are no exaggeration. And of all the causes that have brought about this sad state of affairs the ambition of Hodge is the most potent.

Modern civilization penetrates even the remoter hamlets of the kingdom. The laborer does not, because he cannot, live to-day in blissful ignorance of the great world's bustle and affairs. The schoolmaster has done much, the newspaper has done more, the traveling circus and the village library have assisted, and a vague unrest in the bucolic mind is the result.

DESERTED VILLAGES.

ish Writer in London Express Given Remedy for Overcrowding Slum and Empty Cottages.

unrest in the bucolic mind is the result.

Because his betters travel now as never before, and he hears their speech, watches their manners, and marks their dress, the desire for imitation arouses fitful stirrings in his breast, and appears in weird extravagances of costume and habis. He does not, as his father did, put his mind into his plowing and sowing, and his tending of the sheep: nor does the placid animalism of the alehouse fill the ambition of his lefaure hours. The club feast loses its charm, and the weekly market ceases to satisfy. The big city beckons not in vain, and one day he gets upon to satisfy. The big city beckons not in vain, and one day he gets upon the carrier's cart and is gone.

The band of advancing education has begun to play, and Hodge is facing the music. He feels it has a message for him, and, though he cannot interpret it, he follows, with open mouth and ears, and when the strains are silent he finds himself in the thick of the fray.

A Vague Ambition. The man is seeking something he cannot find in the village. What is it? A living wage? Say rather a pittance and a portion of land that helped it out, the cultivation of which was but an irksame addition.

bitance and a portion of land that heliped it out, the cultivation of which was but an irksome addition to the long day of dreary toil. He had no recreation.

But he had a home? True, of a sort; and picturesque to the sight, indeed, but not seldom an offense to the smell. At the school there percent indeed, but not seldom an offense to the smell. At the school there penetrated his slow-moving mind certain facts about the strange machine called the human body, its claims and duties. He came to put a sinister interpretation upon certain sights and scents and conditions of things that his fathers had ignored for generations, till even his stolid conservations, till even his stolid conservations was aroused, and he gathered up his bundle and quitted.

Into the question of wages one need not go; what the farmer can, and what he should, pay are considerations beside the point. What he does pay we know, so does Hodge, does pay we know; so does Hodge, and he says it is not enough, considering what he has to endure and what certain earlier emigrants, who have chanced on good fortune in the cities, tell him of their circumstances.

So be exects to take his chances in the town, though the only occupation majore, environment, and experience have fitted him for is agriperience have litted him for is agri-cultural labor.

Model villages are a suggested remedy. And such are to be found in England here and there. But do they meet the case? I think not. It is the bustle and attraction of tewn life that the laberer wants.

the bulk of the Garden City community.

Where Bedge Benefits.

But the point I would at present make is this-that Hodge will not be forgotten. About five-sixths of the estate of say, six or eight thousand acres, will be given up to agriculture in the form of small allotments or larger farms, and the propured will have a market for his produce at his door. Should he find it to his advantage to send away his produce, a convenient local line will give him is, id access to the main railway system.

Bodine,

Why Coughing Weakens You.

A patient German scientist of a statistical turn of mind calculates that the amount of energy expended by a person who coughs once every quarter of an hour for ten hours is equivalent to 250 units of heat, or the nourishment yielded by three eggs or two glasses of milk. Coughing is thus seen to be an expensive luxury. he has a system—a scientific side to his farming as well as a business side. The man who does things and know why he does them is the one who reaches the top. Most farmers know that the reason that clover and all the relations of the clover family are great restorers of feetility is because they are nitrogen gatherers. They enrich the land because down at the roots of these plants are multitudes of little nodules and in these nodules are millions of small organisms gathering in nitrogen from the air and storing it in such a way that the plant will give it up to the soil, where some other crop like corn or wheat can find and use it.

An imitation of nature's method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous force is used when you take an alterative extract of herbs and roots, without the use of alcohol, like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This vegetable medicine coaxes the digestive functions and helps in the assimilation of food, or rather takes from the food just the nutriment the blood requires.

Pure blood is essential to good health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood. It thus cures scrofuls, eczema, eryspelas, bolls, plumples, and other cruptions that mar and scan the skin.

JAPS SEEK OUR SEAL.

Venturesome Schooner Now on th Canadian Pacific Coast.

Canadian Pacific Coast.

Indications how the progressive Japanese is turning the tables industrially on the Causian is well illustrated in the latest development of sealing industry. For years Victoria's (British Columbia) sealing fleet has crossed the Pacific to hunt along Copper Islands, and in waters contiguous to Japan. Lately a fleet has sprung up at Yokohama which has exploited waters on the Asiatic coast, not till this spring, however, have they crossed to this side, News received from the west coast recently by the steamer Queen City, describes the arrival at the old historic centry by the steamer Queen City, de-scribes the arrival at the old historic port of Nootka, of the Japanese sealing schooner Kinsel Maru. She came in for fresh water and to seek shelter from fecent southeast gales. She left Japan on December 6, and has already been down the California coast after pelts, along the very routes followed by Vic-toria schooners. The fact that some along the very routes followed by Vic-toria schooners. The fact that some of the best white hunters of the port of Victoria now hunt off Yokohama prob-ably accounts for the Japanese knowl-edge of these waters. They have a catch of a hundred skins, and after leaving Nootka will hunt along the British Columbia coasts and Aleutian Blands and finish the season to Roberts Islands and finish the season in Behring Islands and finish the season in Behring Sea.

The vessel will return to Japan about Christmas. She is a staunch-built schooner of 130 tons, and has a crew of 30 men, only four of whom are whites. The crew assert this is an experiment on the part of the owners, and should they be successful this season quite a number of vessels will come, across next year and try their luck. The Japanesa enjoy a great advantage over British Columbia sealers inasmuch as they are not bound by the modus vivendi, and can hunt within nine miles, instead of sixty miles, of the rookeries. They have no close season to observe such as British Columbia hunters are compelled to observe between May 1 and August 1.

To have a servant se industrious as to interfere with all chance of comfort was the unfortunate experience of Mr. Portgan, who lived is Africa, and is the author of "Station Studies." Buttons that disappeared one day were replaced before the dawn of another in entirely inopposite spots. New flannel shirts were shrunk by unnecessary washing until they were past all service.

The trouble was, writes Mr. Portman, that nothing could stem the flow of his good intentions. I had only, for instance, to leave my lodgings for a few moments to find on my return my camp-bedstead carefully folded up in one corner of the room, the mattress and blankets forming a neat roll in another, and any clothes which I had happened to leave about snatched away for washing. It mattered nothing that I wished to lie down on the bed, use the mattress to encourage my siesta and change into the clothes; all this lay outside Hamis' view of his duty. Nothing would induce him to swerve from his unvarying rule of life, nor any remonstrance gain any response but the three words, delivered with a pitiful smile at my ignorance, "It is custom."

"Custom," for example, decreed that he should sprinkle water on the veranda at daybreak to lay the dust. It mattered nothing that a flood of its way, and the stones were sprinkled according to rule.

It mattered nothing that a flood of rain had been pouring all night and had removed all possibility of dust for hours to come; custom still had its way, and the stones were sprinkled according to rule.

Custom bade him bring me a cup of tea before I rose. I did not want it, and told him so day after day; but weeks passed before I managed to prevent his bringing it. In accordance with custom he daily seized my bed, bedding, and all the underclothing on which he could lay his hands, and sprea! them on the patch of grass or, worse still, on the wall-surrounding it. But custom hardly ever reminded him that if rain fell they would fossibly get wet and as they would jossibly get wet and as rain storms in Africa are likely to resemble waterspouts in volume and April showers in frequency, the chances of my having a dry bed by the evening soon grew to be very small

William Ernest Henley, poet and William Ernest Henley, poet and essayist and acknowledged as one of the leading English literary critics, who a couple of years ago aroused all England to wrath and disgust by an attack on Robert Louis Stevenson, the author, has again stirred up the literary world on both sides of the literary world on both sides of the Atlantic by turning the vials of his wrath on the poet Wordsworth. savoring of the bumpkin, the yokel, the lout.

Burns and Byron have, on the other hand, received Mr. Henley's approval, and a few days ago he was awarded the second prize of 50 guinsas from the London anademy for his essay on the "Life, Genius and Achievement of Burns," and his book, "The Works of Lord Byron." was highly laudatory of that author.

Mr. Henley made his first literary reputation as editor of the National Observer, of which he was the controlling spirit from 1888 to 1898, when he founded the New Review. His influence as a critic, however, has not been bounded by his writings. It has been his delight for years to gather about him young men and to preach to them the doctrine of art for art's sake, and he has had an enthusiastic following. His influence over Stevenson, whom he attacked after the latter's death, was deep and permanent. Henley has the credit of being among the first to recognize the genius of Kiping.

As a poet Henley has done some fine work, and he has published several volumes, his most recent being 'Hawthorn and Lavender.' Perhaps his hest known and most characteristic poem is that which concludes what the lines, "I am the master of my fate; I am the captain of my soul." Mr. Henley is about fifty-four years of age.

License Commissioners for East Kent will Improve Hotels in Their Charge - Mere Drinking Out.

(Special to The Planet.)

Ridgetown, April 20.-The Licens ssioners for East Kent met at Ridgetown to-day and took drastic neasures to improve the hotels under their charge. Ex-Warden W. C. Siften voiced the sentiments of the Commissioners when he said that it had been decided to do away with mere drinking houses. The Commissioners were determined that they would grant licenses to hotels and not merely for the disposal of whiskey. Up till two o'clock the Commissioners had not dealt with the granting of licenses, but from the sentiment of the meeting it was gathered that there would be a wholesale cut in the number of licenses granted in East Kent. The Blenheim case was discussed, and it is quite probable that licenses will be granted in that town, under heavy restrictions. The Commissioners per sonally visited Blenheim and investigated the existing state of affairs there. Mr. Sifton stated that all places in the riding that were mere drinking houses for the young farmers, and had no commercial utility, would be deprived of their licenses.

The members of the License Board were all present at the meeting, as follows: - Ex-Warden Sifton, ex-Warden Francis Gifford and R. L. Jarvis.

The License Commissioners for East Kent cut off quite a number of licenses. The following have been refused licenses: John Easton, tavern Morpeth; John Weese, Arlington Hotel, Ridgetown; Chas. Fluellen, McKay's Corners; Mr. Walker, Charng Cross; Mr. Forbes, Cedar Springs John B. Tuckwell, Westcott House, Dresden (withheld); Richard Maloney, Brunswick House, Bothwell.

Licenses granted: John M. Shel-lon, Queen's, Ridgetown; H. W. Pursell, Anderson Hotel, Ridgetown; Vital Carron, shop, Ridgetown; E. J. Buzzard, A. B. Vester and W. J. BUYING CANADIAN PREFERENCE

Lord Stanley Says It Wouldn't Be Fair to Home Manufacturers. London, April 20—(C. A. P.)—Lord Stanley of Alderly, in a letter to the Westminster Gasette, on the Colonial

Stanley of Alderly, in a letter to the Westminster Gasette, on the Colonial preference says he fears that in the consideration of a policy of Colonial streference, and its advantages, too much attention has been paid to the question of food and raw materials. His lordship asks should we be prepared in se important an article as wood pulp to limit the paper-making supplies from other countries in order to encourage Canada.

In 1992 we imported £2,500,000 worth of weed pulp, of which £648,000 came from Canada. A dire per cent duty on wood pulp other than Canadian-would raise the revenue ninety thousand a year and give a subsidy of about £30,000 a year to Canada. This stimulus to Canadian trade might cause Canada to send us half our total supply, then our revenue would fail to £60,000 per year and Canadian pulp makers would gain £60,000 a year.

If we taxed wood pulp we should have to tax other paper-making materials such as rage, esparto fibre and ather materials imported to the value of about £920,000 in 1903. Thus the whole trade of the paper makers would be disturbed and the cost of materials inhanced for the purpose of buying a Canadian preference.

ONE CANADIAN TENDER.

George's Channel, Bermuda,
Ottawa, April 20.—Only one tender has been received for the improvements which the British Government desires to make in St. George's Channel, Bermuda. It is that of Mr. Geo.
Goodwin, Ottawa, the tender will be forwarded to the Bermuda authorities through the Colonial Office. The British Government invited tenders in Canada as well as at home.

Following Canada's Example. Ottawa, April 96.—The Departm of Trade and Commerce has been n fied by Lord Stratheons of the intat the Imperial Government has bill before the House of Commons the appointment of a Minister of Comerce. In this respect, Great Brit is profiting by Canada's example. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

EXPLANATION WANTED

A citizen called attention thi morning to the fact that there was a difference between the estimated a difference between the estimated cost of the market building voted on by the people and the lowest tender for the same of nearly $3,000. Cty Engineer Jones and Assessor W. H. Gonne figured that the building would cost something over $27,000. The lowest tender was over $30,000. It has been said that changes were made in this plan before tenders were maked for. If this were done, such action was contrary to the wishes of the Council, as the motion passed at the Council, as the motion passed for the plan voted on by the people.

THE MARKET PRICE

Ald. Westman remarked this morning that there was apparently a difference between the figures of City Engineer Jones and Assessor W. H. Gonne and the tender prices, but there was in reality less difference, Extras had been added to the plans that almost made up the difference. Besides the City Engineer and Mr. Gonne had figured on getting about $900 for the material in the market building. Mr. Westman is quite confident that the building would have been constructed at the estimated cost if the extras had not been added. Those included an extension of the market shed, the addition of two meat stalls and the covering over of the space between the shed and the police station.

S F. GARDINER,

Thousands of Women, RULER OF SOUTH AFRICA

ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG uccess of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Rests Upon the Fact that it Realy Does Make Sick Women Well

Thousands upon thousands of Canadian women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.
Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished its widespread results for good?
Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a contury?

done its glorious work for a quarter of a century?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the uterine system, positively curing disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor. estoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are rem

cunne disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhosa falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down" feeling, dizziness faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration, or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

Earning Their "Dot."

The manager of a large dressmaking establishment in New York says: "I establishment in New York says: Is suppose that the most un-American im-migrants we get in this country are not the Chinese of the Poles or the Hungarians, but the Parisian seamstresses, milliners and lingerie workers. These women come here to save the price of a 'dot' out of our high American wages. It takes from two to five years to do that. In all that time they never mix with Americans, never visit a theater, never make the first attempt to learn the language. Some of them go to the French church on Sundays; otherwise they never leave their rooms except to shop. This prenuptial period in New York is just a time dropped out of their lives. They talk of nothing day after day but what they'll do when they get back to Paris and begin to live again."

Will Have Critical Situation to Deal With When He Takes Over His New Duties-New Generation of Boers Must Arise Before the Wounds of the Past Will Heal in That Colony.

That Colony.

The Earl of Selborne, who will shortly succeed Lord Milner as High Commissioner for all British South Africa and Administrator of the two new colonles, will have a critical situation to deal with when he takes over his new duties. The rehabilitation of the conquered States has not proceeded with the expedition that was hoped. The gold industry has indeed been brought to its former point, but this has been possible only by the introduction of Chinese indentured labor, and so a new difficulty has been created for possible only by the introduction of Chinese indentured labor, and so a new difficulty has been created for the already heavily-burdened colony. The Boer population, so closely identified with the agricultural resources of the country, stands sullen and aloof, and it looks as if a new generation must arise before the wounds of the past will heal.

The country is practically an importer of everything. This keeps prices high and prevents settlement. The colony is on the verge of self-government now, and while this may have a tendency to concliate the Boer population, there can be no doubt that it will also add to the angieties of the Administratoor. The Johannesburg population is probably about equal to that of the rest of the country, which, apart from the soldiery, is almost wholly Dutch; so that in a representative body the two elements will come immediately into direct conflict. Lord Milner, no doubt, vacated his office at the present moment because he wished his successor to be appointed by Mr. Balfour's Government, and from that point of view it was not wise to point of view it was not wise to defer the resignation too long. He had held the appointment during the eight years that will probably prove to have been the most trying period in the history of the colonies concerned, and it can well be believed that, apart from the politic desire to give the appointment to Mr. Baifour, he was sincerely eager to be free of the cares of so arduous an office. Had Mr. Baifour's Government gone out of office Lord Milner would probably still have resigned within a year or so; indeed, many of the more extreme among Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's followers would have advocated removing him from office. In either case the appointment would have fallen to the Liberal party—granted they succeed at the approaching elections, and the new Administrator would have been undoubtedly one who had been a prohounced opponent of Lord Milner's policy. The traditions of British politics practically forbid the cancellation of such an appointment as that of Lord Selborne, but the latter, on the other hand, should he shortly find a Liberal chieftain at the Colonial Office, will either conform to the views of his chief or resign office. Personally Lord Selborne has been one of the successes of the long Unionist regime, though he has not perhaps shown any marked degree of brilliance. He is forty-six years of age and sat as a Liberal in the House of Commons at the time of the home rule cleavage in 1886, when he became a Liberal in the same year Under Secretary for the Colonies under Mr. Chamberlain, in this capacity doubtless acquiring special finess for the duties of his new office. In 1900, on the extended lease of power given the Conservatives in that year, he became First Lord of the Admiralty, with a seat in the Cabinet. His department has practically escaped criticism during that period, in spite of vast and increasing expenditure, which may be taken as a reasonable indication of efficiency, but a severer test of this will undoubtedly begin when he takes up his work in South Africa.

HIGH LIGHTS OF FASHION.

The New Tailor Made Gown of Paris.

Grays are extremely attractive this year, ranging from "oyster" to iron gray and elephant gray and affording such a variety of shades that among them almost any woman may find one to wear with comfort and satisfaction to herself. While usually associated with the elder folk, some smart gowns for young women adopt this useful hue gray dress of the cut, which is relieved with rich soft hued oriental embroidery. A circular straw hat of pale chest-nut brown, looped up with satin ribbon and rhinestone studs, completes a cos-

Biscuit and tan shades are to be smart, but how few complexions are really clear enough for them. A trap for the unwary they prove if there is the least sallow tinge in the skin.

As an item of comfort to those who are not exceedingly slim it should be noted that amid the many fluffy examples of the latest chic there appear cer-tain models of the tailor made order. This type of garment is always becoming to the plump woman and is her exclusive property.

Supple cloth and taffeta radium, a tissue in indescribable shades resembling shot mirror silk, together with infinitesimal checks, compose exquisite

It is evident that soft tiny checked canvas and silks made with very fully plaited or tucked skirts will be decidedly popular for elaborate toilet, while cloths in light pastel colors and the new delft blue compose many of the smart tailor made costumes which are particularly noticeable for their perfect simplicity. One especially effective was in light gray tiny checked fine cioth made with a short basked single breasted coat having a black leather helt at the waist. A narrow black taffeta collar opened at the neck to display a white guipure chemisette and amber velvet cravat. The multiplicity of trimmings now necessary if a gown is to be "in it" to the slightest degree it is impossible to describe. Passementerie, braid, fringes, drop ornaments, all are in demand. Buttons and "bobs" play an important part. The latter occur in immense va-riety—beads, jet, sequins and silk or chenille embroidery. Pearl garnitures are dreams of loveliness whether in the daintiest of passementerie or elabo-rate pendent ornaments.

For the bride's gown this season pearls are the coveted trim ornament. Pearl passementeries for more general use combine pearls, rhinestones and spangles and are things of beauty, but how long they will remain a joy is a dubious question. Newest in trimmings are the quilled ribbons used as a skirt trimming and complemented with a broad quilled ribbon flounce on the corsage. Silk and velvet striped ribbon is used to form bretelles and revers. An inlet of Scotch plaid taffeta ribbon on waist and skirt forms another unique bit of decoration.

Few men show any marked effect in being stood aside by a woman.

"I remember," said an old naval off-cer, "hearing of an incident on board of a ship which was commanded by a religious captain who would not allow the mate to use profane language or violence toward the crew and where the work and discipline were carried on more by moral sussion than by force, with the result that things went very slowly. The men did not jump to the braces or ropes, and the general work of the ship was slow.

"While at anchor one day in the harbor of Rio two of the sailors, leaning over the rail, were watching work going on on board of another ship anchored close to them, where the oppo-sive system prevailed. The air on that ship was lurid with the language of the mate, and the men were treated with a violence that was far from necessary, but the work went on quickly. The sails were furled and the yards braced in a smart and seamanlike manner. As they listened to the sulphurous orders of the mate one of the sailors on the good ship remarked sententiously

Verdi Paid the Bill.

"Aida" was first played at Milan an amateur living at some distance came to hear it, but was disappointed. To make sure he tried it the second time, with the same result, whereupon he wrote to the composer complaining of having been put to considerable expense on his account for nothing and inclosing a bill for thirtytwo liri, with a request for the money Among the items was one of two lir for a "detestable supper." Verdi deducted this on the ground that he might have had supper at home, but forwarded the balance on condition that his correspondent signed a formal agreement not to go and hear the opera again, which agreement was strictly fulfilled.

HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN.

Centenary of His Birth Finds Great Danish Author With His Name a Household Word Everywhere.

Household Word Everywhere.

Among the gifts to Hans Christian Andersen on the celebration of the seventieth anniversary of his birth, April 2, 1875, was a volume which contained one of his tales translated into fifteen different languages. Perhaps no new translations have been added in the thirty years that have elapsed since his death, which followed close upon his seventieth anniversary, but the centenary (April 2, 1905) of the birth of the great Danish author finds nis name a veritable household word. The story of Hans Christian's career, to adopt the curtailed name used by his early associates, is the old one of obscurity, poverty, ridicule, struggle and triumph. When honor came to him outside of his own country the associates of his youth cried: "What! Hans Christian called a poet in France and Germany! Nonsense! We knew him when he could not spell, when we gave him clothes to keep him warm and fed him!"

When young Hans left his home in a remote corner of Denmark to seek his fortunes in Copenhaged he wore a suit made from some old clothes of his deceased father, a humble shoemaker of Odense. His trousers were stuffed into the legs of a pair of wonderful boots, and his general makeup and unsophisticated ways earned starved to death or lapsed into misery. Fortunately the influential poets of Copenhagen saw a budding genius in their gawky, ill dressed countryman and set him to studying Latin, Danish and music. He sang in the theatre until his childhood's voice gave out—he was only fourteen years old—then took a place in the ballet.

Andersen's sincerity and purity of mind saved him and won new and stanch friends on all sides. Noble men and women in France and Germany figure among the powerful friends acquired in his young days. It appeared before the author was thirty years old and was soon followed by the first volume of the "Fairy Tales," which laid the foundation for Andersen's worldwide fame. For a long time the role of a writer for children was distasteful to Andersen, but late in life he accepted it in earnest, and his name may be added to the list of those who achieved true greatness after the age of se Phases That Are Now Almost Fer on in the Province of Ontal Country Life in Canada.

Recent events have caused the thoughts of many to turn back to early times in Ontario. One of the best known historians of that period is Mr. Canniff Haight, whose book, "Country Life in Canada," is treasury in its way. The author's memory uncoils like a cord to the time of the Mackenzie rebellion. The distant past is magically summoned by the author on the first page, when by the author on the first page, when he merrily remarks that he does not remember being bora, though present at the time. He does remember how his father threshed the wheat when the writer was still a baby, and tells of the settler turning the sheaves over and over on the barn floor, while the horses and oxen were driven round and round. He recalls, too, a barn raising, and the custom of hurling an empty bottle from the top of the building to the ground. If it was picked up whole, it was a good omen, if not, well, it had probably struck something hard. The settlers were a cheerful lot, and did not permit the hardness of the life they led to make them pessimists. He mentions the lavish hoseitedlike in the settlers were achieful with hoseitedlike in the settlers were a cheerful lot, and did not permit the hardness of the life they led to make them pessimists. He mentions the lavish hoseitedlikes in the settlers were achieful when the settlers we mists. He mentions the lavish mists. He mentions the lavish hospitality universal in the early days, and tells how the plate of a chance visitor would be buried under the rude abundance of hearty fare. To toy daintily with the victuals was to disparage the host, to have no appetite an insult. In this connection the absolute social equality of master and man is mentioned. They are at the same table, and one would not go farther than the other in comments, favorable or the reverse, ents, favorable or the reverse comments, favorable or the reverse, on the meals before him. It was the custom for girls to go to neighbors to live if their own parents could get on without them. In effect, they were servants no more than at they were servants no more than at home, except that they were paid for their work. The idea of the girl's social interiority to her mistress never entered the head of either. As Mr. Haight says: "The fact of the girl going out to work did not unfavorably affect her position. On the contrary, it was rather in her favor, and showed that she had some ambition about her." Indeed, in those days it was rarely the case that a girl shrank from domestic service in order to be a typewriter. Visiting on Sunday. Sunday was the great day of the sunday was the great day of the week fifty years ago. Only a minority of the settlers could go to church, but all could attend to one or two social duties for which the bugy week days had left no time. busy week days had left no time. Visits were always paid on Sunday to friends near or far, and one car readily imagine what a visit meant to people who, as likely as not, had not seen a neighbor's face for a week. Those who did go to church sat on one side if they were men, and on the other if they were women. This fashion prevailed whether in school or meeting-house, and continued for many years after. A married couple who would have to sit side by side would have been conthigh for many years after. A married couple who would dare to sit side by side would have been considered 'ne better than they should be.' The visiting coach of the pioneers was the lumber wagon, though there was a general improvement in most conveyances when the steel spring came into use, about 1840. For long journeys everyone rode horseback. Women traveled hundreds of miles this way, some of them carrying children before them on the saddle. It was an age of bees. The men had their raising bees and their logging bees, where whiskey fiewed like water (the best could be had for 40 cents a gallon), and dogs fought as long as they could stand up. Quilting bees were popular with the ladies of the period, and one of their favorite anusements was to catch a luckless man and toss him on the quilt. Apple bees, too, were great tun. At these functions apples were peeled, cut, cored, and strung to dry, and the greathully appear as apples peeled, cut, cored, and strung to dry, and to eventually appear as apple sauce. These social gatherings always ended in a dance, unless the re-ligious scruples of some objected, in which case the time had to be killed in kissing games, such as "postof-fice," "measuring tape," "lady's slipper," and "button, button." Recreations of the Time.

Coon hunting was popular then, as now, and spearing fish by torchlight often kept a sportive pioneer up all night after a hard day's work. Wild often kept a sportive pioneer up all night after a hard day's work. Wild pigeons were so numerous, and so easily killed or Caught, that one could hardly call the proceeding sport. They were so daring that they would swoop down on the seed grain before it had reached the ground after being cast by the sower's hand. Came of ever sort abounded. One who did not enjoy hunting or fishing must have had trouble in finding pleasure or recreation after the day's work. If he loved reading, and had access to a hackwoods library, he could plungs into Buchan's "Bomestic Medicine," Brown's Union Cazetteer, Ricketson on Health, Jessy Kerzey, "Memorials of a Deceased Friend, "reports of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Job Scot's Journal, or Lewis" "Dispensatory," all of which would be at his disposal. If these tomes did not attract, he could often hie himself to the school-house and plunge into a debate on the subject, "Which is the more useful to man, wood or iron?" or "Was Wellington or Napoleon the greater generals."

Success in Canada.

"Brkenhead" writes to The London Daily Mail: "My son, who was then sixteen years of age, said to me twelve months ago: Father I am tired of office work. Give me £5 and I will go to Canada.' He worked his way out on board a steamer, naid his railway fare to Winnipeg, got immediate employment on a farm, and has already remitted most af the money he took away. He writes that the climate is splendid; that he enjoys the life, and is developing into a big, strong fellow. As soon as the harvest is over he intends taking up a grant of 180 acres. These are facts, and show what an English lad with grit can de in a new sountry."

Afflicted with Brysipelas For Ten Years.

Cured by Four Bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters

Mrs. N. Peister, of Brighton, Ont., was Cured Two Years Ago and Has Had No Return Of It Since.

Read what she says :- "It is now abou two years since I was cured of a terrible attack of Erysipelas, with which I had been afflicted for about ten years. I had tried almost everything, including medieine from several doctors, but could get no relief. I had given my case up as hopeless, but I procured five bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. In fact, the cure has been permanent. It is now two years since I ook Burdock Blood Bitters, and I have not had the slightest sign of the disease returning. I fully believe that your vonderful remedy has taken it so completely out of my system that I shall never be bothered again with it. I have the greatest of faith in Burdock Blood

A. Painting by Murillo.

A Painting by Murillo.

Mr. J. F. Thompson of Toronto tells the following story of his painting by Murillo, so far as he knew its history: 'The painting came to this country in 1832. It was brought to America by a colonel in the British army-by the name of Johnston. The painting was sent back twice to find out who painted it. Each time it was sent back with the statement that it was sent back with the statement that it was the work of an amateur. When Col. Johnston died, the paintings which he had were sold. This painting was sent to an artist's studio in Canada There it remained for years. the art tasts of Canada was somewhat advanced, the painting was displayed at an art exhibition. The first day that it was exhibited the artist was ordered to remove it from the eyhibition. It remained in the artist's studio until the gentle-man I bought it from saw it." Mr. Thompson refuses to give the name of the man he bought it from.

A Simple Floor Treatment.
One of the simplest as it is the prettlest of treatments for a floor is as follows: Wash the floor well and let it dry; then cover it with a cloth dipped from time to time in coal oil, which not only cleanses but penetrates the floor, so that less of the boiled oil is required. In two quarts of boiled oil put beeswax the size of half an egg and boil together till melted and thoroughly mixed. The utmost care must be taken in doling this, as both materials are very in-It is this, as both materials are very in-Liminable. While the oil is still warm apply with a wide paint brush. If the wood has a handsome grain, the oil brings it out beautifully. It only re-quires dusting from week to week.

Chairman William Potter, of the Chairman William Potter, of the Parks and Cemetery Committee, has been busy-seeing that the bare spots on Tecumseh Park were seeded and put in shape. He gave orders to the Chief to keep everybody off the park till the ground was in condition. The Chief ordered the boys off the other anight and they went. To Mr. Potter's carprise, he was informed by the Chief of Police that last night they were back playing under permission of Colonel Rankin, they said, and. Potter says that he is going to Sind out what rights the people of Chatham have in regard to the park, and if the Council cannot control the park he is going to ask to be relieved on his duties as far as Tecumseh Park is concerned, as he does not wish to be held responsible. Ald, Potter is determined that the city shall not spend money to keep the park up if the Council cannot have sharge of it so far as the interests of the pitizens are concerned. He does not wish to have any trouble with the military authorities. The military authorities. omler Explains What He Meant When He Said Water Powers Should Be Free As Air, and Inernment Let Down the Legislative

The Premier regretted he would not have time to reply to the statements of the previous speaker, whose only fault with the financial statement was that the treasurer had not included in his statement of assets the countiess billions of undeveloped resources. The treasurer had received congratulations from the press of hon gentlemen opposite, from the leader of the Opposition and from all sorts and conditions of men outside the House. Mr. Whitney read an econdium of The Farmers. Sun that the treasurer had presented the financial condition of the Province in a clearer and more satisfactory man-than the revenue, and this was borne out by the facts.

Mr. Whitney had been criticized by several Opposition members because he had opposed the passing of the supplementary Revenue Act, but there were two reasons why he had moved the six menths hoist. One was that under preper management and with the conservation of the resources of the Province, such legislation should not be necessary. The other reason was that the act provided that a large preportion of the taxes that had gone to the municipalities should be taken away from them and given to the Province.

away from them and given to the Province.

Opposition Juggle With Facts.

Mr. Whitney said he had also been accused of saying that the water power of Niagara Falls should be as free as air, and in this instance the Opposition speakers were juggling with the facts. What he did say was that these water powers should not be made the sport and play of capitalists and should not be treated other than as an asset of the people of Ontarlo, whose trustees the legislators are. It would never be said of the present Government that they repealed the clauses of the statutes requiring that power concessions pass the House. The old Government had repealed such clauses. He was not disposed to use harsh language, but he would ask hongentlemen opposite if they could produce an instance in any British country where such an outrage would be tolerated by a liberty-loving people. Such legislation should pass through the cruntible of the Legislature. The old Government had deliberately repealed the law requiring this and for the space of two or three years the capitalists and the Government had run riot with the resources of the people, and when all the resources had been given away and their opposition had moved to put back the law where it was the members of the then Government agreed to it. "Show me," said the Premier, "such juggling in any country. I say this power should be free as ar so that not only monopolists and capitalists shall utilize it, but that every ratepayer shall be free to use it."

have found a phrase more applicable to or explanatory of the position of the hon, gentlemen in the past.

Regarding the complaint that a man from Michigan "had been appointed to investigate the accounts of the Province, Mr. Whitney said the gentleman was at work and when he had concluded, he hoped that it would be found that the honor of Ontario shall have been preserved and her esoutcheon shall have borne no insult. The work of this accountant when finished would bear the imprimature of one of the oldest firms in the Province. He asked the House to remember that the Parilament buildings were erected not by Canadian talent, but by a man from Buffalo, and that the Michigander will be found just as good as the man from Buffalo.

Taking Credit Without Due.

Taking Credit Without Due.

The late Government had caused it to be spread over the Province through the newspapers just before election that it had given a grant of $10,000 to Ottawa University and had endeavored to get credit for fis act. But the Government was not prepared to do as it had advertised. This was not a high-minded proceeding, to take credit for an act the Government did not perform. There was nothing brought down to show that the money would not be given until this year. Mr. Whitney also showed that funds to meet deficit of Toronto University were passed, but this item was also left over for the present Government.

Referring to the statement of Mr. Pense that a highly educated man was seldom a practical man, the Premier turned this to the disadvantage of the former Minister of Education, who had trifled with the university grants in such a manner.

Irony For Pense.

Mr. Pense had observed that no scandals had been brought to light. Thope there will be no scandals shown, but I advise him to have partience," said Mr. Whitney.

Will Hew Their Own Row.

Will Hew Their Own Row.

The man who endeavored to hoodwink the people could not continue to hold office in a British country where there is direct Government by the people. If the two extreme parties did as Mr. Clarke said they did, it meant that they were only transferring to one party support which they had given to the other party.

It was not the intention of the Government to follow in the footsteps of sits predecessors. The members of in Government professed no more political virtues than their neighbors, but they believed that the people would appreciate men who endeavored to do their duty, and follow in the pathway that had been blazed out for them by the people on the 25th of January last feeling confident that as long as they did that the people would say they deserved well of them and that they would receive the confidence of the people whose trustees they are.

Mackay Not in Partnership.

Just before the Speaker left the chair at 6 octook A. G. Mackay, excommissioner of Crown Lands, arose to give a statement that appeared in The Mail and Empire yesterday morning an absolute and unqualified denial. The article complained of was to the effect that Mr. MacKay, while Commissioner of Crown Lands entered into a partnership with E. W. Backus regarding a waterpower concession at Fort Francis. There was not a particle of foundation for the story, as he had neither directly nor indirectly had any connection with the partnership.

In answer to Mr. Preston (Braat), if the Government would introduce this session any legislation regarding taxation of railway corporations, etc., Mr. Matheson said no legislation would be introduced this session.

Mr. Hascourt inquired the amount of expenditure on the construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway up to the first of April. Hon. Dr. Reaume said the fotal amount up to adate was $5,009,210,95. The figures apply to expenditures up to March I. A number of bills were read a first

For Continuing Nuisance.

Toronto, Aprili 20.—The Toronto Railway Co. was fined $2,500 yesterday morning by Judge Winchester for continuing a nuisance by backing up its ears on Avenue road and having caused the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Ward last June.

This is the first company in Ontario to be thus fined. The penalty imposed yesterday merning will be a precedent for guidance in the tuture. The only other company in Canada to be fined was the Union Colliery Co., of British Columbia, that was mulcted $5,000 in 1900 for having caused the death of six people by running a car over one of its bridges that was in a rotten condition and caused it to collapse.
