

KING VICTOR GOES TO THE SCENE OF ACTION WITH HIS GENERALS

Will Share All the Hardships and Play His Part With the Others.

Rome, via Paris, May 27.—Although the departure of the King for the front was kept secret, the news spread here and in the provinces.

ROME, MAY 26, VIA PARIS, MAY 27.—Except for the flags which fly not only from every house, but almost from every window, Rome gives little indication of being the capital of a country which has entered upon a great war.

STIRRING PASTORAL LETTER

London, May 27.—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have issued the following joint pastoral letter, which is to be read in all churches June 6.

STRATEGIC POINTS ON THE AUSTRO-ITALIAN FRONTIER

Information gathered by correspondents on the eastern frontier of Switzerland shows that Austrian and German forces, with heavy artillery, have been concentrated at Trent, Bozen and Meran.

TURKISH GUNBOAT IS SUNK BY A BRITISH SUBMARINE TO-DAY

Incessant Attacks on Dardanelles by the Allied Artillery Bears Fruit—Zeppelin Raid on England This Morning—One Woman Killed.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

PARIS, May 27.—A Turkish gunboat of the Aidin Reis type was sunk in the Sea of Marmora, within sight of Constantinople, by a British submarine, according to an Athens' despatch to the Journal.

PARIS, May 27.—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Athens, dated May 26, says the action of the Allies against the Turkish positions on the Dardanelles straits is continuing vigorously.

SOUTHEND, Eng., May 27, 10.35 a.m.—Another Zeppelin airship raid was made upon this town last night, and it is reported that three persons were killed by the bombs which were dropped.

The entire town was illuminated by the bursting of shells dropped by the air craft. The material damage caused appears to be less than on the occasion of the last raid.

"We Rallied Again Under Lieut. Jones"

Graphic and Detailed Story of "G" Platoon From Pte. A. Wakeling, a Survivor of Two Previous Wars.

By far the best letter so far received by a survivor of the "Fighting Fourth," is reprinted below. Little by little the story grows, and we are learning just what an advance it was to say I am quite well, and in the very best of health and spirits, and as fit as a fiddle.

Boer war, he came to Canada and settled down, as he felt, to civilian life. He was prominent in church life, being a member of the great grandsons of King Charles Albert, who, in abdicating the throne of Italy on the battlefield at Novara in 1848, after his defeat by the Austrians, bequeathed to his descendants the sword of the kings of Saxony, which he requested never should be sheathed until the Austrians were entirely driven from Italian lands.

British Battleship is Sunk in Dardanelles

London, May 27.—The Admiralty has announced the following: While operating yesterday in support of the Australians and New Zealanders off the shore of the Gallipoli Peninsula, H.M.S. Triumph, Capt. Charles Fitzmaurice, was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterwards. A majority of the officers and men are reported to have been saved, including the Captain-Commander.

Since the present war broke out the Triumph has been in operation in both far eastern and European waters. As flagship of the British Asiatic Squadron, she participated in the bombardment of the German base of Tsing-Tau, China, last October, and was reported to have been damaged by the shell fire of the German forts.

British Gain At La Bassee

Paris, May 26.—Fighting in Northern France is proceeding on a vast scale. The British troops have made a new advance in the direction of La Bassee, capturing a number of prisoners, of whom several were officers.

British Gain At La Bassee

The following official statement was issued by the London War Office last night: "The first army continues to make progress east of Festubert. A territorial division carried last night a group of German trenches, capturing 25 prisoners, and morning at captured one officer, 21 men and a machine gun."

Forts Are Taken In the Tyrol

Rome, May 27.—Italian troops are to-day swarming through the mountain passes on both sides of the "Trentino salient," driving before them the Austrian garrisons of the forts guarding all the entrances to the Tyrol, the Austrians in only a few cases offering resistance.

Canadians and Indians Block German Attack

London, May 27.—Canadian and Indian troops on Tuesday night successfully repulsed at the point of the bayonet a vigorous German attack near Richebourg. Having destroyed the British wire defences by means of terrific artillery fire, the enemy launched a strong attack and succeeded, despite severe losses suffered in the open, in reaching our trenches.

At the same time Italian forces entered Tyrol by the Tonale Pass, occupying Forcellina and Montosso, a strongly fortified camp on the Val Giudicaria, the same route followed by Garibaldi in 1866, taking Ponte di Caffaro in its thrust toward Riva, at the head of the Lake Garda, which is connected by railroad with Rovereto.

CARRIED ABOUT 700 MEN

The Triumph, which was commanded by Captain Maurice S. Fitzmaurice, was a vessel of 11,985 tons and of 12,500 horsepower. Her crew of officers and men in times of peace numbered about 700 men. The vessel carried four 10-inch, fourteen 5-inch guns and fourteen 14-pounders and four 8-pounders. In addition, she carried two 18-inch torpedo tubes.

BIG AERIAL RAID

Paris, May 27, 2.37 p.m.—A French aerial squadron, composed of 18 aeroplanes, each one carrying fifty kilos (110 pounds) of projectiles, this morning bombarded a chemical factory at Ludwigshafen, on the Rhine, opposite Mannheim. Fire broke out in several of the factory buildings as a result of the bombardment.

Women's Institute

The annual meeting of Terrace Hill and Grand View Women's Institute took place on May 19th in the kindergarten room of Grand View school where future meetings are to be held. The room was tastefully decorated with flowers and made comfortable by Mrs. G. Alderson, whose meeting this was to have been. The following officers were elected for the year. President, Mrs. Bayless; 1st vice-president, Mrs. A. McWebb; 2nd vice, Mrs. E. Alderson; secretary, Miss R. Deau; asst. sec. Mrs. E. Schertzberg; district director, Mrs. A. Kenny; directors, Mrs. Eastcott, Mrs. Price, and Mrs. C. Alderson; representatives, Mrs. Alderson, senior, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Laing and Mrs. Kilgour; auditors, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. Laing and Mrs. Price. This finished the business of reorganizing, and was followed by a splendid musical program in which Miss Lake, a most talented musician from the city, kindly favored us with several piano selections, and two of our juvenile members, Misses Marion Laing and G. Price, vocal solos with Mrs. Laing accompanying. At the close of the program, Mrs. G. Alderson served bananas and home-made candy. The delegate meeting on June 21st will take the place of the regular meeting.

COWS MILK PRIMARILY
is an animal food, intended to nourish the young animal. The digestive system of a calf is strong; it is preparing to eat hay and roughage. The digestive system of the Human Being is far more delicate. It requires more delicate food. It refuses to handle rough fodder or raw material. One system of Clarifying and Pasteurizing milk refines the product. We furnish you with a finished article, a Human Food. Pure, wholesome, clean milk is very pleasant to the taste. It tastes like MORE.

Laid at Rest

The funeral took place last evening on the arrival of the 6:35 Grand Trunk train, of Mr. David Wood of Winnipeg, formerly of Brantford. A number of the members of Salisbury lodge S. O. E., of which deceased was a member, had gathered, as well as other friends. Interment was in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery, and Rev. Mr. Hamilton was the officiating minister. At the grave, the S. O. E. service was also observed, each member dropping a rose on the coffin. Pres. A. B. Lee and A. T. Pickles officiated. The pall bearers were J. H. Adams, R. E. Yeates, C. P. Coles, G. Thomas, G. Meggait, and E. B. Roe. Two sons, Messrs D. and A. Wood accompanied the remains from Winnipeg. The following tribute is taken from the Winnipeg Free Press:—"Daniel Wood, aged 79, a pioneer resident of Winnipeg, having lived here since 1852, died Saturday afternoon at 2.30. His death occurred at 455 Alexandra avenue. "Funeral services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. F. McCullagh. The body will then be shipped to Brantford, Ont., where interment will be made by the side of Mr. Wood's wife, who died 20 years ago. D. D. Wood and Chas. A. Wood, sons of the deceased, will accompany the body to the east. "Daniel Wood was born April 11, 1836, at Bilston, Eng. He served his apprenticeship with his father as a steelmaker in the Shelton iron works, Staffordshire. Here he afterwards assisted in the manufacture of battery plates of nine tons weight for ironclad war vessels, which was considered a most formidable armament in those early days. Mr. Wood had the distinction of helping to make the first cable to be stretched across the Atlantic ocean, in which a large amount of old cannon and spent cannon shot was melted. "Mr. Wood came to America at the close of the Civil war, settling in New York. He subsequently worked at his trade in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, Missouri, and Kentucky. The prevalence of fever and ague forced Mr. Wood and his family to leave St. Louis. He came to Canada, and located in Brantford, Ont., working for the G.T.R. in the bridge-building department for some time. He served with the Canadian troops at the time of the Fenian raid, serving under Major Lemmon of Brantford. He was a personal friend of the late Sir William Whyte, and secured through him a position as stationary engineer at the C. P. R. shops in 1882. "Mr. and Mrs. Wood had a family of 13 children, five of whom are now living. Ex-Ald. D. D. Wood and Charles A. Wood of Winnipeg; Thomas A. Wood of Sacramento, Cal.; Miss Isabelle Wood, of New York; and Mr. James Herbert, of Winnipeg, survive him. There are a number of grandchildren and also two great grandchildren. A photograph recently taken shows four male generations. Mr. Wood was a lifelong member of the Conservative party, and for the past quarter of a century was allied with the Sons of England."

Obituary

JOHN STEWART
The many friends of John Stewart will be grieved to learn of his sudden death. The gentleman was 92 years of age and had retired some years previously. He was born in Scotland but has lived in this country for forty years, residing in Ononaga. But he was very well known in the city having been an earnest member of Zion Church for many years. He was also known as a strong Liberal.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife and two sisters, Mrs. Knightly, of Dalhousie street, and Mrs. Grant, of Guelph. The funeral will take place on Friday from 244 Dalhousie street to Greenwood cemetery.

Six Times They Tried and Failed

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Montreal, May 26.—The Gazette this morning has the following under date of North of France: "Such incredible tenacity and disregard of waste of life are being displayed by the Germans in their furious attack northeast of Ypres that the execution done by the British artillery fire upon La Bassée and the Germans second line near that place, and the progress made by the French north of Arras toward Visay, become of mere subordinate interest. Through clouds of gas were projected again and again toward the British trenches, the Germans never succeeded in their attack on Monday in putting the lines in serious danger, though they did gain footing in some trenches; but the front as a whole was successfully held. A terrific bombardment was opened in the course of the night. It proved a continuous hail of shells, which showed clearly that the Germans intended to advance at all costs by sheer weight of metal and men. Under this appalling avalanche of steel and high explosive the British bore themselves wonderfully, though suffering heavy losses. They steadily awaited the onrushes that were to follow. Then their opportunity came. Suddenly in the moonlight the Germans swarmed up on their trenches and began to form for the advance. The British artillery and machine guns, assisted by the French artillery, let loose a tornado of lead among them, mowing them down like grass but with absolute disregard of the slaughter the German troops continued to reform themselves into massed columns, and then started to advance in their old style formation. Six times in succession, I am told, their columns swung forward to utter annihilation; yet all this colossal sacrifice of life yielded them nothing except a few ruined farms. Meanwhile, to prevent the French and Belgians on the British left from advancing and causing a diversion, the Germans turned upon their lines of fire which the British had been the first recipients. It is reported that the French and Belgians did not suffer greatly in either loss of ground or men. Relatively slight as these German successes are, the British could have prevented them, but only at the price of a sacrifice of life equal to that of the Germans, deliberately exposed themselves. That, however, is not the allies policy, which is rather to allow the enemy to bleed himself in such carnage and reserve their own human material for the hour of the forthcoming advance.

Mrs. Goldie Mincer of Chicago deeply mourned her husband as missed for divorce. Washington says from 16,000 to 18,000 men will be needed within a few weeks on the harvest fields of the United States. The largest makers of saloon fixtures in the United States have had to drop the business in face of temperance work success.

FOR 1915 COPPER
CHARLES A. STONEHAM AND COMPANY announce a new publication in their series of PROTECTIVE PUBLICATIONS, entitled "COPPER."

The new booklet contains a wealth of vital and valuable information, on this subject. It comprises sixty pages, divided into five parts. Part I, contains the history of Copper Metal, the part now being played by American Miners in the World's production and demand, together with a forecast of the future of the red metal. Part II, is devoted to Copper Securities, the history of the share markets and the present relationship of securities prices to the new conditions in the metal. Part III, contains Copper Statistics of incalculable value to the investor and speculator, showing production and consumption figures, price ranges, dividends, etc. Part IV, represents an analysis of thirty-five Copper Companies, giving capitalization, funded debt, officers, dominant interests, property location and acreage, ore reserves, costs, annual output, and at the end of each Company statement of the special War Revenue Act, 1915, which provides that postage stamps may be used in lieu of inland Revenue War Stamps in fulfillment and discharge of any requirement under the Act that adhesive stamps be affixed. The public is at liberty at all times to use postage stamps for any purpose for which inland Revenue War Stamps may be used, but it is especially provided in the Act that inland Revenue War Stamps are not to be used on letters, postcards, postal notes or post office money orders, the only stamps allowed on these being ordinary postage stamps or postage stamps upon which the words "War Tax" have been printed.

Laid At Rest

WALTER KERR.
The funeral of the late Walter Kerr took place yesterday from his late residence on the Mt. Pleasant road, and was very largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The late Mr. Kerr was born in the Township of Brantford 58 years ago. He was the eldest son of the late G. H. Kerr and a nephew of the late "Big" Walter Kerr, who was widely known throughout the country for his unusual stature and strength. For many years Mr. Kerr was an extensive farmer, but owing to ill health was forced to retire. The services were conducted at the house and the grave by Rev. Mr. Code of Mt. Pleasant. The pallbearers were: G. Cox, James Coleision, E. Kinard, H. Biggar, J. Catherwood and W. Martin. Many and beautiful were the floral tributes, testifying in solemn silence to the esteem in which deceased was held. Thus was laid to rest a sterling citizen and a kind father and husband.

Mohawk Cadets Were Inspected

The Mohawk Institute Cadets were inspected yesterday by Major Barker. The inspection was held in the morning. About fifty Cadets were on parade and looked splendid in their service uniforms of khaki. Armed with the Ross Rifle, they were put through company and arm drill by Instructor Niblick. The only disappointment of the boys was that they didn't have time to show the inspecting officer all of their drill. In speaking to Major Smith and Principal Turnell of the Institute afterwards, Major Barker was highly complimentary in his remarks of the boys' efficiency and expressed himself as well pleased with his inspection.

DIRECTIONS REGARDING WAR STAMPS.

Enquiries having been received in regard to the payment of war duties on bank cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, express money orders, proprietary or patent medicines, petroleum, wines or champagne, as well as upon letters and post office money orders, notice is hereby given that this use of postage stamps is in strict accordance with the provisions of the special War Revenue Act, 1915, which provides that postage stamps may be used in lieu of inland Revenue War Stamps in fulfillment and discharge of any requirement under the Act that adhesive stamps be affixed. The public is at liberty at all times to use postage stamps for any purpose for which inland Revenue War Stamps may be used, but it is especially provided in the Act that inland Revenue War Stamps are not to be used on letters, postcards, postal notes or post office money orders, the only stamps allowed on these being ordinary postage stamps or postage stamps upon which the words "War Tax" have been printed.

LAUGHING WITH LEACOCK CANADIAN LOSSES REPORTED

Don't forget the lecture by Professor Stephen Leacock, the celebrated humorist, in Zion Church, Brantford, Thursday evening, June 3rd, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Women's Patriotic League. Tickets 50 cents. Half of the proceeds of the lecture will be devoted to the Belgium Relief Fund and half to the Red Cross. Professor Leacock is giving his services entirely without fee or expense. It is reported that the Canadian division on active service has been in action since the fighting last week, when they captured a strong position held by the Germans. While no official statement has been made, reports are to the effect that the losses have been heavy and total in the neighborhood of 1000.

GERMANS SIGNAL AUSTRIAN FLEET FROM A BREWERY

All Germans in an Italian Brewery Arrested as Spies — Railway is Damaged by Severe Shell Fire.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Milan, May 26.—Via Paris, May 27.—Destruction of the railroad-junction evidently was the object of the bombardment of Ancona by an Austrian squadron which raided the Italian coast Monday, according to additional details which have been received here. The warships appeared off Ancona about midnight, accompanied by two aeroplanes which flew over the city. The bombardment began at three o'clock and continued two hours. Shell of all sizes were fired. The guns were trained not only upon the railroad yards but upon the military hospital, the Bank of Italy and two barracks. The cupola of the cathedral Apse was damaged.

Slight damage to the railroad was caused by shell fire between Porto Recanati and Porto Civitanova. The Austrian warships retired from Ancona when an Italian fleet appeared. Because of reports that the Austrian squadron had been signalled from an Ancona brewery, all Germans employed there were arrested as spies. CHARGED WITH TEMPORIZING. Rome, May 26.—via Paris, May 27. Commenting upon the proclamation of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria with having adopted in 1859 a temporizing and threatening policy in the hope of averting hostilities, Piedmont answered by crossing the Ticino River "which led to the brilliant victories of San Martino and Solferino."

Skilled Mechanics are Wanted For Gt. Britain

Ottawa, May 27.—George N. Barnes, British Labor member for St. George's, and W. Wyndham, representing the British Board of Trade, who have been commissioned to secure skilled mechanics on this side of the Atlantic for the munitions factories in Great Britain, held conferences with the Canadian Shell Committee yesterday afternoon and with members of the government. They also addressed the Myors' Congress in the morning and explained the reason of their visit. Skilled laborers accustomed to handling metal and working on lathes who desire to go will have their fares paid to England, and will be insured the highest rate of pay. If they stay six months they will be entitled to a return fare. WONT TAKE THEM IF NEEDED HERE.

Mr. Barnes, however, states that he will not take men of this class from the Dominion if any objection is advanced by the government here, and it is not thought likely that many men will be taken from Canada. Men of the class which appears to be desired by the British government are not, as a rule, on the unemployed list in Canada at present, and the munitions factories, steel works and manufacturing plants, engaged in making shells, gun-carriages, etc., are at present running pretty well to capacity, and, therefore, need their men.

PREMIER'S ANNOUNCEMENT. To the Mayor's delegation yesterday, Premier Borden stated that $200,000,000 of orders had been placed with Canadian firms by the Canadian Shell Committee, and that these firms were employing many skilled laborers. In addition it is announced that the Dominion Steel Works of Sydney, Nova Scotia, has commenced the manufacture of a high explosive substance of exceedingly high explosive substance of.

great powers of expansion, which is a by-product of the coke-ovens. It is further stated that the Algoma Steel Company, at Sault Ste Marie, will also manufacture the requisite quantity of this substance at an early date. COPPER, ZINC AND BRASS. Arrangements are also well under way for the refining under Government auspices, and possibly with government assistance, of copper and zinc mined in British Columbia, and for the manufacture of brass in the Dominion. At present the copper from British Columbia mines is shipped across to the United States, in the face of a freight rate of $10 per ton and of a heavy duty. It is estimated that the cost of refining the heavy freight rate when reimported into Canada. It is computed that at Trail, B.C., a refining plant could be established for a million and a half dollars, and that the cost of refining the copper and manufacturing the brass would be more than compensated for by the saving in price of the manufactured article. This is the first time that the shells being made here which is not manufactured in Canada at present. Gun carriages are also being made in the Dominion, and guns assembled.

SKILLED MECHANICS CANNOT BE SPARED. The Dominion is, therefore, it will be seen, fast becoming an important manufacturer of munitions, and it is doubtful whether skilled mechanics in any number can be spared. Certain classes of artisans and laborers are out of employment, but not many of the class desired by Mr. Barnes. It is stated that 30,000 skilled mechanics are required, and Mr. Barnes states that he does not expect Canada to supply a very large proportion of these.

THE SITUATION

John Bull has lost another battle-ship in the Dardanelles, making four in all which have met with a like fate thus far in the effort to force these straits.

The struggle between the Germans and British, French and Belgian troops continues with very little variation. In this war there are no individual engagements to determine the tide of victory.

On the Eastern front, the Russians are still clinging to the foe with unabated determination. A tremendous drive by an army under General Mackensen is at present the most notable feature in this area of the fighting.

AN INSIGHT INTO GERMAN MILITARY BRUTALITY.

Many people have been surprised at the inhuman atrocities of German militarism and have been amazed that a people supposed to be largely of the placid type should lend themselves to, and applaud such things.

Two or three years ago there was published in Germany a modest little volume entitled "Recollections of My Army Life," by Capt. Hans Pommer, retired, an ex-officer of the 1st Infantry Regiment of the Upper Rhine.

Among the episodes of his army life that he describes is a farewell banquet given (apparently in Berlin), by the officers of the Elgeborn camp, to their brother officers in a cavalry division which was about to be transferred to another post.

In describing this banquet, Capt Pommer says: "More than once I have witnessed manifestations of incredible vandalism which are almost beyond description.

ciety is very thin; that it is, indeed, only a superficial varnish, and yet, that corps of officers was composed of representatives of our highest aristocracy, including a Prince of royal blood.

The sudden transformation of civilized human beings into savages could not have been kept a secret behind the walls of the Officers' Club.

NOTES AND COMMENT. To be frank about it, Turkey still shows that she has some stuffing left.

Our neighbors have decided to await with "patience" the complete particulars regarding the latest attempt to torpedo a boat flying the Stars and Stripes.

Royalty has shown up in first class shape in this war. First and foremost there is that grand man, King Albert of Belgium.

Those good people who used to think that the local military forces were largely of "the playing at soldiers" order, have had their eyes completely opened by the events of the last few months.

Letters From Soldiers on Active Service

The subjoined letter was received yesterday by Mr. W. G. Johnson, "Courier" staff from his brother, now in hospital at Rouen, with wounds.

My Dear Brother,—Will try and write you a few lines to let you know that I am getting along fine, wounds healing up nicely and fully expect to be out of hospital in the course of a week.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Americans Will Retain Full Control of Their Nerves, Says the Sun

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, May 27.—The New World, in an editorial on the Nebraska, says:

It is to be hoped that an examination of the hull of the American Steamship Nebraska will show that the vessel struck a drifting mine. This is a dubious topic for another Gall-licht incident.

It is difficult to believe that, in view of the situation between the United States and Germany since the sinking of the Lusitania, the German Government would have authorized its submarine commanders to attack American ships.

Such action in such circumstances would be little less than an act of war. No conciliatory reply that the German foreign office could make to President Wilson's note would be a deliberate attack upon a ship flying the American flag.

Whether the injury to the Nebraska was caused by a floating mine or a torpedo remains to be determined, and until the details are fully reported judgment must be suspended.

RECALL AMBASSADOR

The Tribune says: "If the Nebraska was torpedoed by a German submarine, Ambassador Gerard should be recalled."

Such an outrage as the torpedoing of the Nebraska would be properly accepted by the United States as the real answer of Germany to the American note, the declaration of purposes which makes further discussion impossible.

A severance of diplomatic relations is not a declaration of war, but it is one more step, if not the last step. In taking it the United States would give final indication to Germany of the direction in which its policy led and of the approach to hostilities.

WAR MAY COME

"If Germany is to continue the submarine, if she decides to sink ships flying the American flag, if she decides to continue to murder American sailors on belligerent ships, we shall presently be at war with Germany."

CONTROL THEIR NERVES

TRENCH WARFARE ON AGAIN

Allies Have Reverted to Trench Warfare.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 27.—Notwithstanding the superb weather the contenders in the western arena of hostilities, realizing the terrible losses even an insignificant advance entails, have re-verted generally speaking to the trench warfare of the winter, and it is Galicia in the east, the Dardanelles, and perhaps the Italo-Austrian frontier which are most likely to furnish spectacular developments during the next fortnight.

The Russians at last admitted the extent of their retreat from the Dunajec to the San, and while they profess that the Austro-German rush has been held up and that Przemyśl is in no danger, they pay tribute to the impetus and spirit of the advance of their antagonists at the same time that they laud the smoothness of the Russian retirement, which they are calling as masterly as that of the allies from Mons.

Out of breath after their eastward spurt, the Germans and the Austrians are now bringing up reinforcements and fresh ammunition, and another great battle will be fought to determine whether the new lines to which the Russians have fallen back are tenable.

According to the Germans the encircling of Przemyśl is progressing in that they have forced another crossing of the River San only seven miles north of the fortress and extended considerably their line east of this river.

Italy and Austria are now engaged in the familiar role of issuing contradictory official communications relative to the border fighting, but it is claimed that there have been as yet no important engagements. Of the 250 miles of common frontier between Italy and Austria, it is estimated that only one-fifth is of a character for critical military operations and Italy's forces now in the field are following the course dictated by geographical necessity, one army driving toward the River Isonzo and Trieste and the other into the Tyrol, where the rough country precludes any decisive engagements at so early a date.

London was but little disturbed at last night by a Zeppelin airship at Southend. Such raids have ceased to be a novelty, and the result this time was similar to that of previous visits, that is, a few non-combatants were killed or injured, and the material damage was slight.

FOR DARTYMOOR. (From Punch.) Now I be man ov Darty Moor, Grim Darty Moor, grey Darty Moor; I come vrom pur here bat'n no war, An' Tavy be avoaming: I'd pigs an' sheep an' lass—Aw my! An' zays—"My Jan," er zays—"luke!"

To France yu must be roaming! Vur Devon needs her sons again; Her du be rousing moor an' fen; An' yu must fight w' Devon men Vur Darty Moor, yur Darty Moor!

ing! Vur Devon needs her sons again; Her du be rousing moor an' fen; An' yu must fight w' Devon men Vur Darty Moor, my Darty Moor!

"Ei yu woan't fight vur Darty Moor, Grim Darty Moor, grey Darty Moor, Things shall be as they wur avore." Us courted in the gloaming— A-voaming over what'er zud, Till art was plain as Dewar Store— I zays to Dad, "Mind pig sis led, While I be gone a-roaming, Vur Devon needs her sons again; Her du be rousing moor an' fen; An' I must fight w' Devon men Vur Darty Moor, our Darty Moor!"

UNEMPLOYMENT AND POLITICS. (From The Hamilton Herald.) "Unemployment," says The Toronto Globe, "is a governmental ailure." True—but only when one's political enemies are in power. When one's own party rules, unemployment is the result of economic conditions for which no government should be held responsible.

U. S. SHOWS PATIENCE By Special Wire to the Courier. London, May 27.—The Daily News in an editorial on the Nebraska says: "The incident is not likely to make the relations between Germany and the United States easier. Clearly no self-respecting power can suffer this sort of thing to go on indefinitely. President Wilson has rightly, in our opinion, shown great patience in dealing with Germany, but if the German Government is determined to continue his patient as weakness they are unduly a delusion which may prove very disastrous to them."

GEN. ALDERSON PROUD OF BADGE ON HIS ARM

London, May 27.—Haydn Horsey, manager of the Dominion Bank at London, has been notified that his son, Lieut. Clifton Horsey, of the 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada, who was wounded in the shoulder near Ypres, is now on his way to a base hospital in England.

Mr. Horsey has also received a letter from Gen. Alderson, who states that the Canadians have indeed done splendidly. "I have never been so proud of anything in my life as I am of the honor I wear on my right arm," he writes, referring to the badge of the Canadian forces. Lieut. Horsey, writing two days before he was wounded, said: "We have been under heavy shell fire for two days. The trenches are awful."

A RIGHTEOUS PROTEST. (From Punch.) The Imperial Person beckoned to the General to approach. "Have you blown up the Cathedral?" "Yes, sire." "And bayoneted the wounded?" "Yes, sire." "And shot all the women and old men and children?" "Yes, sire." "And made arrangements for tomorrow for the white flag ambulance?" "Yes, sire." "And for the issue of dum-dum bullets?" "Yes, sire." "And gas, asphyxiating gases?" "Yes, sire." "Then you had better get on with the report to the Neutral Powers protesting against breaches of the Hague Convention by the Enemy."

INCONSISTENT ORDERS. (From The Philadelphia Bulletin.) Ex-President Taft, talking about neutrality, said, with his jolly laugh: "I'm afraid your idea of neutrality, my friend, is as confused as was the raw recruit's idea of drill."

"A sergeant was initiating a squad of raw recruits into the drill manual. He lectured them for two hours. Then he got down to practical work."

"Right turn!" he shouted. "There, as they slowly swung around, 'Left turn.'"

"But there a big recruit muttered an oath, stepped out of the ranks, and lit a cigar."

"Hey, there, you!" roared the sergeant. "What are you up to?"

"I'm done," the recruit answered scornfully. "Why, you don't know your own mind two minutes after—"

BASEBALL RETURNS

Owing to pressure on the Courier's leased wire in connection with the war, and the fact that the strain is likely to become still more intense during the ensuing months, it has been decided for the remainder of the baseball season to bulletin the scores of the Canadian League only.

Billy Sunday's campaign at Paterson, N.J., resulted in collections in the hall of $6,741 and 15,000 converts. Striking a tree saved an auto party of Benjamin Gittelsohn of Brooklyn from going down a 150 foot embankment.

BRANTS BROKE EVEN IN SERIES WITH HAMILTON

Dunlop, Shortstop, Knocked Unconscious by Batted Ball—Gabby Ivers Won Game For Hamilton With Timely Bingle.

Hamilton, May 27.—Hamilton made it an even break on the series with Brantford by winning yesterday's game, after the fans were kept shivering until the eighth inning to see the job done. It was a sea saw game and was finally won by Ivers, a pinch hitter, bringing in two runs with a healthy double. During the game, Dunlop, the visitors shortstop, was struck on the head with a batted ball, and was knocked unconscious. He was carried off the field and did not regain consciousness for some time.

OTTAWA DEFEATED GUELPH

Ottawa, May 27.—The Ottawas defeated Guelph by 10 to 9 in the last game of the series here yesterday afternoon. Auld started for Guelph and Ross for Ottawa. Ross was hit hard, and Guelph started the seventh with the score 9 to 2 in their favor. Manager Lee made the mistake of taking Auld out. The Ottawas scored four runs off Kirley, and he was derricked, Dorbeck going in. He was also hit hard. Ottawa scoring three runs and tying it up. Shocker, a pinch hitter, drove in the tying run. In the ninth Fuller beat out a bunt, and Kubat walked. Ross sacrificed them along, and Bullock hit the ball to Dorbeck, who hurled it home, but Fuller slid under him. Fuller, in the sixth, walked, and went from first to third on an infield bunt. He showed great speed on the bases. Lee blundered in taking out Auld, as Carleton, the first man to face Kirley, rapped out a home run. The weather was very cold and the game ragged. Guelph should have won, though the Ottawas showed a lot of fight.

LONDON BEAT ST. THOMAS

Nineteen Runs Were Scored During the Afternoon.
 St. Thomas, May 27.—In a game that went ten innings, and was full of hits and brilliant plays, the London team defeated St. Thomas by a 10 to 9 score. The weather was cold, and more suited for Rugby. Wilkinson was relieved in the eighth, Howick replacing him. Reilly and Hadley and Wilkinson starred at the bat. Score: St. Thomas 9

Game Awarded to Boston Braves

New York, May 27.—Manager McGraw lost another argument with the National League yesterday, when that body, by mail vote, vindicated President Tener's award of the game to Boston that was played at the Polo Grounds on Thursday, April 29. The game referred to was the one which saw the manager of the Giants try unsuccessfully to incorporate Benny Kauff, a would-be deserter from the Brooklyn Federals, into his line-up. President Gaffney, of the world's champions, when he heard that McGraw was about to make an attempt to use the ineligible Kauff, got into communication by telephone with the National League executive. Mr. Tener counselled him under no circumstances to allow his team to appear against Kauff. He also requested that one of the umpires be directed to the telephone.

While Mat Eason was away talking to the president, Umpire Quigley, after waiting the customary five minutes for Boston to answer his command to play ball, forfeited the game to New York. President Hempstead then appealed to Gaffney not to disappoint the crowd, and it was agreed that a game should be played with Kauff participating. Messrs. Hempstead and McGraw urged that this was purely an exhibition game to satisfy the crowd.

Chicago, May 27.—A perfect throw to the plate by John Collins in the ninth inning, returned Maisel, enabled Chicago to win their eighth victory yesterday when they defeated New York 7 to 6. Score:—
 R. H. E.
 New York 6 11 3
 Chicago 7 10 3

Batteries—Keating and Sweeney; Faber, Cicotte, Scott, and Schaefer. At Detroit—Seven of Detroit's eight hits, coupled with three of Washington's errors, enabled the Tigers to win yesterday's game 10 to 5. Ainsbary had a finger split by a foul tip from Young's bat in the third inning. George Burns, the Detroit first baseman, who was stricken with appendicitis during the training trip, played his first game of the season, replacing Kavanagh, who was injured yesterday. Score:—
 R. H. E.
 Washington 5 10 3
 Detroit 10 8 1

Batteries—Shaw, Hooper, Engle, Gallia and Williams, Ainsmith; Durbuc and Stanaage.

How would you like to eat $14.00 worth of candy at one sitting?
 Earl Hamilton, St. Louis Browns' pitcher, did, and says if the sweets had not been so costly he would have eaten several times as much.

When Hamilton made his flip to the Federals and then flopped back to the Browns he was accompanied by a party of Kansas Fed players on a short trip.

Somebody suggested poker and a game was started. Chips were lacking and it was decided to use candy wafers. Hamilton won steadily. He soon had a huge stack of chips piled up in front of him. Something like 40 were of the 50 cent variety.

In a moment of forgetfulness, he tasted one of the chips. He liked it and tasted another.

One of his companions touched him on the shoulder a few minutes later. "How do they taste," he asked.

"The southpaw looked at the remains of his pile of chips. He had eaten 28 at 50 cents per—$14 worth of candy in five minutes.

GIBBONS WHIPPED HOUCK
 New York, May 26.—Mike Gibbons "the master boxer," met a tough customer at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club last night in Leo Houck of Lancaster but outweighed him by ten pounds. Despite the fact that Gibbons nearly cut the Quaker to pieces, the Lancaster man was tearing in at the finish, and in the ninth by sheer weight and aggressiveness landed several hard punches, and had Gibbons doing his best to even up the round.

In the sixth Houck landed a low blow, but it did not hurt, and was overlooked. While the men were banging away for dear life in the tenth, another blow caught Gibbons and doubled him up.

He recovered in time to finish with a display of speed and accuracy that had his opponent dazed.

The MASQUERADER

By Katherine Cecil Thurston, Author of "The Circle," Etc.
Copyright, 1904, by Harper & Brothers

Then, at the moment that he replaced them, a peculiar thing occurred. From the farther side of the dark partition came the quick, rustling stir of a skirt and the slight scrape of a chair pushed either backward or forward. Then there was silence.

Now, silence can suggest anything from profound thought to imbecility, but in this case its suggestion was not that something had happened, then some change had taken place, was as patent to Loder as the darkness of the curtain or the band of light that crossed the floor, but what had occasioned it, or what it stood for, he made no attempt to decide. He sat biting his fingers, his hands spread open on the table under the scrutiny of eyes that were invisible to him, vividly aware of the awkwardness of his position. He felt with instinctive certainty that a new chord had been struck; but a man seldom acts on instinctive certainties. If the exposure of his hands had struck this fresh note, then any added action would heighten the dilemma. He sat silent and motionless.

Whether his impassivity had any bearing on the moment he had no way of knowing; but no further movement came from behind the partition. Whatever the emotions that had caused the sharp swish of skirts and the sharp scrape of the chair, they had evidently subsided or been dominated by other feelings. The next indication of life that came to him was the laying down of the crystal ball. It was laid back upon the table with a slight jerk that indicated a decision come to; and almost simultaneously the seer's voice came to him again. Her tone was lower now than it had been before, and its extreme case seemed slightly shaken—whether by excitement, surprise or curiosity it was impossible to say. "You will think it strange," she began. "You will think"—Then she stopped. There was a pause, as though she writhed for some help, but Loder remained mute. In difficulty a silent tongue and a cool head are usually man's best weapons.

His silence was disconcerting. He heard her speak again. "You will think it strange," she began once more. Then quite suddenly she checked and controlled her voice. "You must forgive me for what I am going to say," she added in a completely different tone, "but crystal gazing is such an illusive thing. Directly you put your hands upon the table I felt that there would be no result, but I wouldn't admit the defeat. Women are such keen anglers that they can never acknowledge that any fish, however big, has slipped the hook." She laughed softly.

At the sound of the laugh Loder shifted his position for the first time. He could not have told why, but it struck him with a slight sense of confusion. A precipitate wish to rise and pass through the doorway into the wider spaces of the conservatory came to him, though he made no attempt to act upon it. He knew that, for some inexplicable reason, this woman behind the screen had lied to him—in the conservatory. There had been one moment in which an impulse or an emotion had almost found voice; then training, instinct, or it might have been diplomacy, had conquered, and the moment had passed. There was a riddle in the very atmosphere of the place—and he abominated riddles. But Lady Astrupp was absorbed in her own concerns. Again she changed her position, and to Loder, listening attentively, it seemed that she leaned forward and examined his hands afresh. The sensation was so acute that he withdrew them involuntarily. Again there was a confused rustle. The crystal ball rolled from the table, and the seer laughed quickly, obeying a sudden impulse, Loder rose. He had no definite notion of what he expected or what he must avoid. He was only conscious that the pavilion, with its silk draperies, its scent of musk and its intolerable secrecy, was no longer endurable. He felt cramped and confused in mind and muscle. He stood for a second, then he changed directly, then he turned and, moving directly forward, passed through the portiere.

After the dimness of the pavilion the conservatory seemed comparatively bright, but without waiting to grow accustomed to the altered light he moved onward with deliberate haste. The long green alley was speedily traversed. In his eyes it no longer possessed greenness, no longer suggested freshness or repose. It was simply a means to the end upon which his mind was set.

As he passed upon the flight of steps he drew his rings from his pocket and slipped them on again. Then he stepped into the glare of the thronged corridor. Some one halted him as he passed through the crowd, but with Chilcote's most absorbed manner he hurried on. Through the door of the supper room he caught sight of Blessington and Eve, and then for the first time his expression changed, and he turned directly toward them. "Eve!" he said, "will you excuse me? I have a word to say to Blessington." She glanced at him in momentary surprise; then she smiled in her quiet, self-possessed way. "Of course," she said. "I've been wanting a chat with Millicent Gower, but Bobby has required so much entertaining"—She smiled again, this time at Blessington, and moved away toward a pale girl in green who was standing alone.

Instantly she had turned Loder took Blessington's arm. "I know you're tremendously busy," he began in an excellent imitation of Chilcote's hasty manner—"I know you're tremendously busy, but I'm in a fix." One glance at Blessington's healthy, ingenuous face told him that plain speaking was the method to adopt.

"Indeed, sir?" In a moment Blessington was on the alert. "Yes. And I—I want your help." The boy reddened. That Chilcote should appeal to him stirred him to an uneasy feeling of pride and uncertainty. Loder saw his advantage and pressed home. "It's come about through this crystal gazing business. I'm afraid I didn't play my part—rather made an ass of myself. I wouldn't swallow the thing, and—Lady Astrupp"—He paused, measuring Blessington with a glance. "Well, my dear boy, you—you know what women are?"

Blessington was only twenty-three. He smiled again and assumed an air of profundity. "I know, sir," he said, with a shake of the head. Loder's sense of humor was keen, but he kept a grave face. "I knew you'd catch my meaning. But I want you to do something more. If Lady Astrupp should ask you who was in her tent this past ten minutes, I want you"—Again he stopped, looking at his companion's face. "Yes, sir?"

"I want you to tell an immaterial lie for me." Blessington returned his glance; then he laughed a little uncomfortably. "But surely, sir—" "She recognized me, you mean?" Loder's eyes were as keen as steel. "Then you're wrong. She didn't." Blessington's eyebrows went up. "There was silence. Loder glanced across the room. Eve had parted from the girl in green and was moving toward them, exchanging smiles and greetings as she came.

"My wife is coming back," he said. "Will you do this for me, Blessington? It—it will smooth things." He spoke quickly, continuing to watch Eve. As he had hoped, Blessington's eyes turned in the same direction. "Twill smooth matters," he repeated—"smooth them in—a domestic way that I can't explain." The shot told. Blessington looked round. "Right, sir," he said. "You may leave it to me." And before Loder could speak again he had turned and disappeared into the crowd.

CHAPTER XVII. HIS business with Blessington over, Loder breathed more freely. If Lady Astrupp had recognized Chilcote by the rings and had been roused to curiosity the incident would demand settlement sooner or later—settlement in what proportion he could hazard no guess. If, on the other hand, her obvious change of manner had arisen from any other source—he had a hazy idea that a woman's behavior could never be gauged by accepted theories—then he had safeguarded Chilcote's interests and his own by his securing of Blessington's promise. Blessington he knew would be reliable and discreet. With a renewal of confidence—a pleasant feeling that his uneasiness had been groundless—he moved forward to greet Eve.

Her face, with its rich, clear coloring, seemed to his gaze to stand out from the crowd of other faces as from a frame, and a sense of pride touched him. In every eye but his own her beauty belonged to him. His face looked alive and masterful as she reached his side. "May I monopolize you?" he said with the quickness of speech borrowed from Chilcote. "We—we see so little of each other." Almost as if compelled, her lashes lifted, and her eyes met his. Her glance was puzzled, uncertain, slightly confused. There was a deeper color than usual in her cheeks. Loder felt something within his own consciousness stir in response. "You know you are yielding," he said. Again she blushed. He saw the blush and knew that it was his words, his personality—that had called it forth. In Chilcote's actual semblance he had proved his superiority over Chilcote. For the first time he had been given a tacit, personal acknowledgment of his power. Involuntarily he drew nearer to her. "Let's get out of this crush." She made no answer except to bend her head, and it came to him that, for all her pride, she liked—and unconsciously yielded to—domination. With a satisfied gesture he turned to make a passage toward the door.

But the passage was more easily desired than made. In the few moments since he had entered the supper room the press of people had considerably thickened until a block had formed about the doorway. Drawing Eve with him he moved forward for a dozen paces, then paused, unable to make further headway. As they stood there he looked back over his shoulder. A study in democracy a crowd always is," he said. She responded with a bright, appreciative glance, as if surprised into naturalness. He wondered sharply what she would be like if her enthusiasms were really aroused. Then a stir in the corridor outside caused a movement inside the room, and with a certain display of persistence he was enabled to make a passage to the door.

here again, they were compelled to halt. But though tightly wedged into his new position and guarding Eve with one arm, Loder was free to survey the brilliantly thronged corridor over the head of a man a few inches shorter than himself, who stood directly in front of him. "What are we waiting for?" he asked good humoredly, addressing the back of the stranger's head. The man turned, displaying a genial face, a red mustache and an eyeglass. "Hallo, Chilcote!" he said. "Hope it's not on your feet I'm standing." Loder laughed. "No," he said. "And don't change the position. If you were an inch higher I should be blind as well as crippled."

The other laughed. It was a pleasant surprise to find Chilcote amiable under discomfort. He looked round again in slight curiosity. Loder felt the scrutiny. To create a diversion he looked out along the corridor. "I believe we are waiting for something," he exclaimed. "What's this?" Then quite abruptly he ceased to speak. "Anything interesting?" Eve touched his arm. He said nothing. He made no effort to look round. His thought as well as his speech was suddenly suspended.

The man in front of him let his eyeglass fall from his eye, then screwed it in again. "Jove," he exclaimed, "here comes our sorcerer! It's like the progress of a fairy princess. I believe this is the meaning of our getting penned in here." He chuckled delightedly. Loder said nothing. He stared straight on over the other's head. Along the corridor, agreeably conscious of the hum of admiration she aroused, came Lillian Astrupp, surrounded by a little court. Her delicate face was lit up; her eyes shone under the faint gleam of her hair; her gown of gold embroidery swept round her gracefully. She was radiant and triumphant, but she was also excited. The excitement was evident in her laugh, in her gestures, in her eyes, as they turned quickly in one direction and then another.

Loder, gazing in stupefaction over the other man's head, saw it—felt and understood it with a mind that leaped back over a space of years. As in a shifting panorama he saw a night of disturbance and confusion in a faroff Italian valley—a confusion from which one face shone out with something of the pale, ethereal radiance that filtered over the hillside from the crescent moon. It passed across his consciousness slowly, and in its light the incidents of the past hour stood out in a new aspect. The echo of recollection stirred by Lady Bramfell's voice, the re-echo of it in the sister's tones; his own blindness, his own egregious assurance—all struck across his mind. Meanwhile the party about Lillian drew nearer. He felt with instinctive certainty that the supper room was its destination, but he remained motionless, held by a species of fatalism. He watched her draw near with an unmoved face, but in the brief space that passed while she traversed the corridor he gauged to the full the hold that the new atmosphere, the new excitement, had gained over his mind. With an unlooked-for rush of feeling he realized how dearly he would part with it.

As Lillian came closer the meaning of her manner became clearer to him. She talked incessantly, laughing now and then, but her eyes were never over the corridor, then glanced over the heads crowded in the doorway. "I'll have something quite sweet, Geoffrey," she was saying to the man beside her as she came within hearing. "You know what I like—a sort of soufflé flake wrapped up in sugar." As she said the words her glance wandered, and Loder saw it rest uninterestedly on a boy a yard or two in front of him, then move to the man over whose head he gazed, then lift itself inevitably to his face.

The glance was quick and direct. He saw the look of recognition spring across it; he saw her move forward suddenly as the crowd in the corridor parted to let her pass. Then he saw what seemed to him a miracle. Her whole expression altered, her lips parted, and she colored with annoyance. She looked like a spoiled child who, seeing a bonbon box, opens it to find it empty. As the press about the doorway melted to give her passage the red-haired man in front of Loder was the first to take advantage of the space. "Jove, Lillian," he said, moving forward, "you look as if you expected Chilcote to be somebody else, and are disappointed to find he's only himself!" He laughed delightedly at his own joke.

The words were exactly the tone Lillian needed. She smiled her usual undisturbed smile as she turned her eyes upon him. "My dear Leonard, you're using your eyeglass. When that happens you're never responsible for what you see." Her words came more slowly and with a tone of ingrat amusement. Her composure was suddenly restored. Then for the first time Loder changed his position. Moved by an impulse he made no effort to dissect, he stepped back to Eve's side and slipped his arm through hers—successfully concealing his left hand.

The warmth of her skin through her long glove thrilled him unexpectedly. His impulse had been one of self-defense, but the result was of a different character. At the quick contact the wish to fight for—to hold and defend—the position that had grown so dear woke in renewed force. With a new determination he turned again toward Lillian.
