Beautiful Cynthia;

Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER XXXI. A LOVE-INSPIRED HOPE.

Dunton turned his head. "He did," he said huskily. "And he is killed? You saw him—dead?" "No," he replied, "he is—missing. But—he did not go on, but strove faintly for words that should conceal the horror of the story—but we searched for him; we did not find him. The Afridis are brutes after a fight—the women—"

Northam stopped him by a gesture. "You understand, Cynthia?" he said gravely.

She went to the window and looked out, seeing nothing; then she opened her hand and looked at the ring as if she were striving to gain some information from it—something more convincing than Dunton's words; and at last as the two men were beginning to feel that the strain of the situation was intolerable, she said, as if she were speaking to herself: "He is not dead!" "Not dead!" echoed Dunton, startled; for there was absolute conviction in her tone, in the eyes, which wore the expression of a seer. "No," she said, "not dead. Do you think I should not know?" She smiled on them and struck fresh terror to their hearts, for they feared that the shock had overturned her mind. "Do you think that I could hold this?" she held out her hand with the ring in it—and not feel, if—if he were dead?" Northam took the other hand—she drew back the one which held the ring, as if she feared he was going to take it from her. "Try and—and think so until—Ah, no, Cynthia, I can't pretend; I can't let you deceive yourself; it would only be the harder to bear when you realized the truth. Poor Frayne is—"

"No! no! no!" she broke in. "He is not dead. If he were, I should know it—he sure of it. And I am not, I am not. If he had been killed I should have felt it the moment he—"

"You don't believe; you think I do not know what I am saying?" She smiled; then her eyes flashed from face to face. "You searched for him, you—"

"Did everything that mortal men could do, Miss Frayne, I beg you to believe!" broke in Dunton, with sad eagerness. "We left no place unsearched; we went out parties; we wired in every direction. A big reward was offered, is still on offer; it has been increased—he turned toward Northam—"It is a sum large enough to tempt even an Afridi."

She drew her hand across her forehead, and stood for a moment looking before her; then she said, with all the old sweetness: "Will you sit down—I beg your pardon—oh, pray sit down! You—were wounded?"

Dunton waved the question aside as he took a chair. Northam still stood beside her, for he feared that she might break down, fall suddenly. "I am sorry! Now, will you tell me everything, please, Captain Dunton—it is 'Dunton,' is it not?—do not keep anything back; do not be afraid; I am quite strong—and calm. I want to know—ah! can you not guess how badly I want to know? Wait, I will tell you," she went on, with a simple pathos which brought the tears to Dunton's eyes and made Northam bite his lip. "Mr. Frayne and I were engaged to be married. We—we loved each other when we were quite little—and we used to play on the hillside together—you can see the place from where you sit. There is a bridge over the stream—"

"You are trying yourself too severely," muttered Northam.

"No; let me go on. We were to be married, but the day before—yes, actually the day before—I was told that he was ruined, and that I should only make his ruin more complete, mar his future, drag him down, if I married him."

Northam did not start, but his brows came together, and he looked at her keenly, as if a suspicion as to who had been her informant was dawning on him.

"I wrote to tell him that I could not marry him—I did not give the real reason; I knew he would not accept it. I—I let him think—oh, that I had ceased to care for him. Ceased to care for him!" she repeated, with a smile. "And so I—I sent him—no, not to his death, but to risk his life, to get wounded." She shuddered, and her hand went to her throat as if she were choking. "Now you know that I have the right to hear everything. I have, have I not?—It is part of the punishment which I have borne. Please, Captain Dunton!" she implored, as she sank into a chair beside him.

CHAPTER XXXII.

A BRAVE RESOLUTION.

Northam signed to him, and Dunton told his story.

He could not tell her everything—could not speak of the conduct of the Afridi women after the fight—but he dwelt on his affection and admiration for Darrel, and Darrel's splendid courage and the qualities which had endeared him to his men and his brother officers.

"He didn't know what fear was," "He never did, he never will!" she breathed.

"It was his extraordinary pluck that led him into danger; he was in the thick of the scrimmage and fighting. Oh, but you know!"

"I know," her eyes responded mutely.

"He would have been first at the fort, but the colonel gave him the order to charge the hill on the flank; the Afridis were strong there, and—and—Frayne went too far. Some of his men saw him fall—and would have gone to him, but they were surrounded. The rush carried them away, Miss Drayle. I've wished many and many a time since that I could have changed places with him, and—and I wish it now more than ever."

She stretched out her hand and laid it on his wasted one; for the first time her eyes were wet.

"You—you said that very well, and I—I—know you spoke the truth," she said, in a whisper. "Everybody loved him."

"Not one of his men but would have died for him," he broke in hoarsely. "I—I think I'll go now, Miss Drayle."

Her hand closed on his. "Not yet, I am cruel. I am making you suffer. Will you forgive me? He gave you this ring the night before?" He inclined his head; he could not speak. "And you have brought it to me. Not as a death token; no! no! It is a token of hope. Yes, of hope. I—I shall keep it until he comes to claim it—and I shall give myself with it."

Her gaze was fixed above his head, her voice was like that of a prophetess of old, who sees into the future. There was silence for a moment; then she seemed to awake.

"But I am forgetting! What will you think of me? You have come all this way to bring me his token—and I have offered you nothing. I am ashamed! You shall have some tea—what time of the day is it?—yes, tea!"

She rose and went toward the bell, and, before they could beg her to let them refuse, she had rung it. Parsons came in, pale with anxiety and apprehension.

"Some tea, Parsons, please!" she said; then her hand went up to her head, her eyes closed and she staggered. Northam caught her in his arms and carried her to her room.

For days after she had recovered from the fainting fit, she lay in a state of collapse, a marvellous state, in which the overstrained brain was incapable of connected thought, the overturned heart almost as incapable of suffering.

Northam, who remained at the inn, was afraid that she would die; but the doctor did not share his dread.

"A sudden shock, even of the worst kind, does not kill the young and strong, Lord Northam," he said. "But Nature has its limits, and Miss Drayle has overstepped one of them. She will pull round in time for one reason, if for no other. She has no wish to die; she wants to live. A person who takes enough interest in life to ask for the back numbers of the Times, will—"

"She must not have them!" said Northam anxiously.

"Indeed, but she must," said the doctor quietly. "To refuse would bring about a condition much more to be dreaded than her present one. Will you please get them?"

Northam got the papers, and Cynthia read the account of the expedition and the battle; and the doctor's judgment was justified. For when she had gone through the special correspondent's letters, the graphic description of the engagement, she took a turn for the better. And, one morning she told Parsons she intended getting up.

"I want to get well quickly," she said, in response to Parsons' remonstrances and entreaties. "I have a long journey before me—I am going out to India, to the frontier, Parsons. Will you come with me?"

Schoolgirl's Exhausted Nerves

Headaches, Dizzy Spells and Weakness Overcome by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Gallop.

At about the age that most girls are working hardest at school studying for examinations there are important physiological changes taking place which are an additional strain on the nervous system.

Mrs. Gallop has had experience in the cases of her daughter and grand-daughter, and for this reason her letter is particularly interesting to parents.

"Mrs. J. A. Gallop, 125 Victoria street, St. John, N.B., whose husband is a carpenter, states:—'We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our family for nervousness, headache, dizziness and nervous dyspepsia, and have found them satisfactory in every particular. My daughter Bessie was going to school, and became quite run down in health. By the time she had used three boxes of this remedy her nerves were steady, her general health was excellent and she was entirely free from headaches and dizzy spells. We are more than pleased with the results of this treatment.'

"More recently we used the Nerve Food for my granddaughter, who was out of school for nearly a year from nervous trouble, and noticed improvement in her condition at once."

HENRY BLAIR

No braver act could a man perform than did Chief Officer Blair, who jumped overboard in mid-ocean from the steamship Majestic on Tuesday, May 6th, and rescued W. Keown, a crew member who had attempted suicide. Keown apparently regretted his act as soon as he hit the water, and began struggling. Blair promptly sprang after him and held him up until both were picked up by a boat.

EMBEZZLEMENT.—A boy engaged as a collector in a Water Street establishment has been caught appropriating monies collected to his own use. The employer has given the accused a chance to pay up the amount embezzled by doing labouring work on the premises.

MILNARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Council took place yesterday afternoon. Replies from the Superintendent of the Street car service concerning complaints made by Council's Secretary, were received. An application was received from R. Rathford for the position of caretaker at the Quill Vidi Swimming Pool. Permission was granted Morrison and Hunt to act as agents for the Employers' Liability Association of London. Eng. W. P. Shifren was given permission to repair house on Dick's Square and subject to Engineer's approval. D. Barnes can build factory at rear of house on William Street. James Emberley submitted plans for house. Approved. Labor Political Party leaders—Parsons and Maunder—asked leave to hold public meeting to-morrow on Parade Ground. Allowed. As to fast motor driving, L. C. Sullivan wrote stating that the police had standing instructions to prosecute all persons driving beyond the speed limit allowed by law. The I.G. also referred to Section 8 of Act 1906, and suggested that motor vehicles be prevented on Sunday from the use of Military and Lemarchant Roads. Water and sewerage will be installed in houses on Sebastian St., Cabot Street, Carter's Hill and Angel Place. Councillor Mullaly referred to the destruction done by pigs and goats that are allowed to roam at large. As to the use of private hoses, Councillor Mullaly gave notice of motion amending the law. After the Engineer's report was read the meeting adjourned.

N.S. Footballers Hold Dance and Excursion.

The members of the Nova Scotia Football Club of Bell Island, held an excursion from that place to Harbor Grace last week which while very enjoyable, was somewhat marred by disagreeable weather. They also held a dance later on in the week at Wabana Hall which was very successful, and was enjoyed by all. The following committee of management conducted these events: Messrs. A. Cahill, C. Larner, L. Eagan, J. Gorman, E. Spencer, W. Whyte and W. Thomas.

Baseball To-morrow.

Weather permitting, a number of Baseball players from the St. John's League will journey to Bell Island to-morrow, Empire Day, and play an exhibition game with the Wabana Team. This game will not be considered as a regular League game, and will in no way effect the schedule of games which will take place between these two teams in the Inter-Town competition for the R. G. Reid Trophy.

For the benefit of the "fans" that contemplate going over Saturday, we may state that the 2 o'clock trip of the motor bus will enable them to reach Bell Island before the game starts—which is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. The players will assemble at the office of the Imperial Tobacco Co. at 12:15 p.m. as special arrangements have been made for the transportation of the team and a start will be made at 12:30 sharp. Following are the players who will make up the city team:—
H. A. Brown, M. A. Johns, A. Hiltz, H. Ross, W. MacCindie, H. Peddie, G. Summers, M. Reedy, P. Grace, B. King, M. Finn, H. Power, W. Cahill, T. V. Hartnett, Manager.

Building Boat House.

The first club house on Bell Island is now being erected by the Dominion Boat Club of that place, who will have the honor of being the first to erect a club house on the Iron Isle. This building, we understand, will be a splendid structure, suitable size, and of Bungalow style, and its location is one of the best places available, being situated on Main Street, East Wabana, near the Bank of Nova Scotia. The work on this structure is rapidly progressing and the end of June, no doubt, will see the boat club fully installed there. When completed it will present a pretty appearance and will be quite an addition to the architectural beauty of Bell Island.

Extravagance.

By H. L. RANN.

Extravagance is the habit of living a table d'hôte life on a lunch counter income.

This habit is usually caused by a desire to be in that locality known as the swim. The swim is a place where women begin to send the washing out at the same time that their husbands begin to overdraw at the bank. In order to get in the swim and stay there some people show no respect for the feelings of a bank or for any of their wives' relatives, and soon create the seductive undertow known as insolvency.

No two people are extravagant in the same spot. One family will go without New Orleans sorghum on their pancakes in order to ride seven times in succession on the Ferris wheel at the electric park. Another family will buy meat three times a day and garnish it with real butter and bona fide eggs, and then go without anything in the library but an inherited edition of Pilgrim's Progress and a copy of the Ready Letter Writer.

Many a man is scooting around the country in a six-cylinder automobile which sets up a quart of 25-cent gasoline every time the wheels go round, and then economizes by working his children fourteen hours a day in the berry patch.

Men are more extravagant than women, that is, than most women. Whenever you find a man who complains that his wife is running him by her extravagance, the chances are that he will have his children crowded to the gunwhales with purple neckties, 84 madras shirts and thread-silk hose that are good for two days of hard wear. A man will think nothing of investing $1,000 in a self-starting runabout with tires which cost more than a Jersey cow, but if his wife turns in a hat bill of $22.75 for the entire season he will rear up in a hostile attitude and cast a thick pall of gloom over the evening meal.

Extravagance is a good thing when it is aimed at people who need hole-proof underwear and whole-wheat flour more than they do the sympathetic tear.

VENTURES GETTING READY.—The Adventure, Bonaventure and Bel-laventure are now being prepared for their cruise to Hudson Bay.

MORE FLOATERS CLEARED.—The echre, Humming Bird, and Rolling Wave cleared from Twillingate yesterday for the Treaty Shore fishery.

MANY TROUTERS GOING.—To-night a large number of waltzians leave here by special train for various parts along the line. Many to go to Nine Mile Post and the return will be made Saturday night, the train leaving the Post at 8 o'clock.

RELEASED FROM QUARANTINE.—Magistrate M. O'Toole's residence, Conception Harbour, was released from quarantine yesterday. We learn another new case of smallpox developed yesterday on Pleasant Street in a residence further west than the Moakler house.

SEALS PLentiful.—Crafts which arrived recently from that section report that "beater" seals have been plentiful there of late. Hundreds of these were shot or taken in nets but stormy weather prevented more being killed. The seals are still plentiful there.

Our Imperial Heritage.

To-morrow Newfoundland will play her part in the public celebration of Empire Day, which is a statutory holiday under an Act introduced into the Legislature by the present Chief Justice, Sir William Horwood, about eleven years ago.

It is well that the sons of the Empire should keep in mind the glorious heritage that has come down to them, and to take time occasionally to think of it, for it is worthy of thought and the men who made it what it is are worthy of honor.

The area and population, occupying position of dominance in the four quarters of the globe are on a scale of grandeur of which the annals of the world afford no adequate parallel. The resources of that Empire are almost infinite and are tasked the genius of the people to exploit. That genius is of no mean order for it is solving successfully problems which other ages have left unsolved, and promises to utilize for the use of man the magnificent imperial heritage.

Will Become Epidemic.

Unless the Health authorities look sharp smallpox will soon become epidemic. Besides the boy Hicks, referred to elsewhere, Messrs. Hatcher and Power of Pleasant Street whose houses adjoin have contracted it. The latter's son runs a large baker shop on New Gower Street, and necessarily there is much traffic there among people going and coming. To-day this place as well as the private houses alluded to above were placed under quarantine, but God knows how many people have been brought into contact with the germs of the disease.

NO PRACTICE—Gower Street Choir will not meet for practice tonight.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. James W. Walsh left by this morning's train for St. John's en route to Montreal, where he has secured employment at his trade, job printing. A number of his friends were at the station to say good-bye and wish him much success.

The funeral of the late Miss Helen Isabel Duff took place yesterday afternoon. The scholars of the C. of E. High School, and also those of St. Andrew's (Presbyterian) Sunday School attended, as did also a very large number of our citizens. Rev. T. B. Darby assisted the pastor, Rev. F. S. Coffin, both at the church and grave side. The death of Miss Duff is mourned by all her acquaintances, and many were the tokens of sympathy received by the family. No less than thirty-six wreaths were sent by friends of the family to adorn the casket of this young girl.

A death under sad circumstances took place in the West End on Tuesday night. Mrs. William Newman, who lived with her husband, who is old and deaf, died suddenly during the night, and when the old man made the alarm and the neighbors gathered, they were surprised to find so much signs of poverty and neglect. It is hard to speak of a human being in such a way as we are compelled to speak of this poor old soul, but nevertheless the plain truth is, that this woman was in such a state of poverty and neglect nothing could be done but get a coffin made as quickly as possible and put the remains in just as they were found. It is about time that our Government created a new office, that of Poor Inspector, to call around on people of this class and see that something is done for them. Relieving Officers no doubt do their share when called on, but something more is needed, as the above case will show.

The Agricultural Society held its monthly meeting on Monday, and a very interesting meeting it proved to be. The Society decided to hold the annual exhibition this fall, about the 22nd of October. Owing to so many cattle being killed through want of hay last fall, it is hoped to offer a large number of prizes, so as to induce people to keep all the young cattle possible. It is hoped that the Government will see the wisdom of this and assist in every way possible.

The Italian troops were forced to retire after a battle with Arabs on May 16th outside of Galba, near Dema. The Italians were advancing in three columns against the Arabs to a position where they met with stubborn resistance and were finally compelled to retire to Dema, abandoning three held guns damaged during the fighting. The check is ascribed by the Italian commander to the superior number of Arabs, to the fatigue of Italian troops and difficult ground. The casualties sustained by the Arabs are said to number five hundred, while the Italians lost quite a number of officers and wounded.

August 27, 1912, two men in an automobile shot out of Halifax. October 14, 1912, the same two men went into Vancouver. Let your imagination take you over 4,160 miles of travelling which words fail to amply describe and you'll find yourself saying: "We know that where a car can go, Dunlop Traction Tread tires can also go, and help materially in getting the car there." Men like Haney and Wilby, who made the first All Red Route trip across Canada give great credit to Dunlop Traction Tread tires, for here are extracts from their own signed statements:

"I desire to testify to the wonderful wearing qualities under most trying conditions of Traction Treads."
—HANEY.

"It was simply wonderful to see how the tires held the car to the road under the very worst weather conditions and to find the sense of fear disappearing when motoring over narrow ledges, overhanging precipices and on 25 to 30 per cent. grades."
—WILBY.

Dunlop Traction Tread is the highest priced tire made in Canada. You discover that fact when you are actually buying the tire. You forget it when you commence totalling up tire mileage received and tire mishaps averted.

GILLETTE

The Symbol of Clean-cut Modern Manhood

By making shaving so easy, the Gillette Safety Razor has done much to develop the typical man of to-day—that strong, aggressive, successful individual who scorns to disguise his features with a beard or to appear with an unkempt stubble on cheek or chin.

Shaving with the Gillette takes but three refreshing minutes. You waste no time honing or stropping—or fuming in the barber's waiting row. The Gillette makes home shaving so easy and luxurious that it is no more a task, but an agreeable incident in the morning toilet.

There are over 40 Gillette styles from which to choose. Standard Sets, like the illustration, cost $5.00—Pocket Editions $3.00 to $5.00—Combination Sets, with brush, soap, and other toilet articles, run from $5.50 up. From the assortment which your Hardware Dealer, Druggist or Jeweler can show you, buy a Gillette—you'll enjoy it.

Morrisites Disappointed at Wesleyville

Dear Sir—Allow me space first to contradict the statements made in some of the public papers, about Morris' reception at Wesleyville. We can imagine now what a man of this stamp is capable of doing in the shape of political deceit.

I will give you the correct or as near as possible, statement about Sir Edward's reception at Wesleyville. There was quite a crowd on the wharf which generally is when the Prospero arrived, and especially on her first trip in the spring. As she was trying to the wharf, one of our leading men called for cheers for Sir Edward Morris. Three persons responded distinctly, two more in a mumbling manner. I could give you all the names if required. When these few found they were in such a minority, I tell you they felt very small, and you can imagine the feeling of Sir Edward. So ended the significant reception of Sir Edward at Wesleyville.

I will give you a little private conversation with one of our leading men when he was comfortably seated in the parlor with Captain— "What do you think of politics here?" "Now, sir," replied the captain, "I suppose you want me to give you the truth as far as I know. At Wesleyville you may get one-third, and for sure no more than that. In the adjoining settlements from here to Newtown, you will get none at all. At Newtown proper, you may get one-third. At Pool's Island I can't say much about; but I don't think you will do very much."

"Is that so?" asks Sir Edward.

Mr. Editor, that does not look very much like a big reception. You will have to forgive me; I am not giving you about the disappointment of the Morrisites. They thought as the boat arrived in the proper time and was going to lay here for the night that Sir Edward was going to have a public meeting, and tell us about his "making good," what the Herald has been squealing about. But I suppose he was ashamed to walk over the roads here after promising us a carriage road, and leave us worse than we were before. He may come several times and not get as many men home as there was on this occasion. He might have told us that he forgot about the carriage road and the light-house, and why he did not have all the public monies spent through the road boards as he promised to do. Also, why he is giving out so many family grants, and how much one firm here received from his Government and how much that firm was paid for wharfage last summer when the dredge was here, and why it was done when she had two Government wharves to go to; why he is making so much fuss about fish markets and then to allow a combine to beat St. John's to keep down the price; about his little mistake in figuring out the cost of the branch railways; why he is giving Reid so much control in our country, and how he enjoyed his trip which cost us $7,000. He might have asked us if we were going to support his Picnic Party again. But what use for me to ask about these things? The end of the Picnic Party bluff and deceit will soon be over and the quicker the better, for feeding the fat sow is far worse than ever before. I would say more, but I know I have taken too much space already. I suppose some will be saying, this fellow

A Munich Object-Lesson

Lord Haldane, the Lord Chancellor, has paid a high tribute to the work of Dr. George Kerschensteiner, organizer of continuation schools in the city of Munich, whose work and writings have had so wide an influence in Germany. Lord Haldane said that it was a work which ought to be known better here, and that is indeed true," says Mr. L. G. Chiozza Money, M. P., who gives some useful information in Westminster Gazette as to what is done in Munich.

Compulsory Education Schools.

"In Germany," he says, "there is rapidly spreading the compulsory continuation school system, which ensures the proper induction of the child into the responsibilities of life. I say ensures advisedly, for it is the extraordinary fact that to-day in Munich all but a few hundred of the boys are accounted for in the compulsory continuation schools. If we compare Munich with, say Manchester, we have a striking and significant contrast between two cities of almost equal size, the one of which is training all its youth, while the other is leaving nearly all its youth untrained."

At School Until Eighteen.

"Under the Kerschensteiner system the boys of Munich are trained until eighteen years of age. Compulsory whole-time elementary education is continued until fourteen years of age, and for four years longer the child remains a continuation scholar. Towards the close of his elementary-school training the boy begins to combine practical with theoretical work, if I may be pardoned for suggesting by the use of such terms the false distinction which is so commonly made between theory and practice. Upon leaving the elementary school at fourteen, and passing to the trade which he has chosen, he becomes a compulsory continuation scholar, and is instructed by experts in his particular calling, while also continuing his general education."

"In Munich the continuation school is a beautiful building, which it is an education in itself to work in. I thought of one of the Munich continuation schools the other day when I stood half-paralyzed by the hideous vulgarities of the interior of our Victoria and Alberta 'Art' Museum. From the electric light fittings to the door-handles the Munich continuation school building is a credit to one of the most beautiful cities in the world. The continuation schools embrace classes for all the trades of Munich. There are over fifty distinct manual training classes, equipped with everything that science can provide. Let me give one illustration to show how thoroughly the thing is done."

"They make linoleum amongst other things at Munich, and when we went to the linoleum classroom we saw small tables covered with anatomical models. What had these to do with linoleum? The answer is that the students were being taught the meaning of their bodies, and the laws of health, that they might protect themselves from the dangers attached to the making of linoleum. When I saw this concrete example of German thoroughness and German common sense, my mind flew back to a recent instance in this country, in which shown in evidence that men working in a terrible dangerous trade refused to protect their own lives, so ignorant were they."

School for School.

"Two keels to one," they say about the Navy. Is it too much to ask for 'school for school'?"

Mr. Chiozza Money has himself introduced every year since 1908 a Continuation Schools Bill based on the main features of the Munich system. Mr. Pease told the Commons the other evening that only 13 per cent. of the boys between 14 and 17 attended continuation schools. And in London of 30,000 boys who leave school yearly only 28 per cent. find work in skilled trades, and 70 per cent. of the casual dockers on the Thames are Londoners. Mr. Pease's own facts show what can be done in the way of teaching trades. Pupils on leaving existing trade schools, he says, can always obtain good places and good wages. London has room for 20 more such schools, and the Government grant is to be raised from £2 17s. to £5 per scholar.

Rossley Giving Away Empire Souvenirs.

There is a great show at Rossley's and last night was another record one. The Lorraine Buchanan Company is a fine combination and last night the large and enthusiastic audience enjoyed both acts immensely. The Wooden Wedding is a dainty little comedy full of laughs. The part played by Miss Buchanan of an extravagant wife, inviting so many people to her fifth wedding ceremony, to show off before a woman she hates and the ruse on the husband's part, to try and cure her of her extravagance, is a splendid piece of acting. The singing of Billy Devans brought him storms of applause. Then Coca and Beall in their act Levenski's first Lesson, is one laugh all through. There is enough variety to please all. To-night everybody entering the Star Theatre will be presented with a beautiful souvenir in honor of Empire Day and to-morrow each child will also receive a little memento in honor of the Glorious Twenty-Fourth. There is a fine programme for Saturday. Billy Devans sings 'The Veteran,' a song that will be well worth the price of admission alone. Don't forget the souvenirs will be given to-night and to-morrow at Rossley's.

Charge of the Light Brigade at The Nickel Theatre.

Manager Kjelley, of the Nickel Theatre, has arranged a programme of especial interest for Empire Day. One of the films will depict that famous charge which was the most sensational of the world's history. The picture is entitled "Victoria Cross," or the story of the Charge of the Light Brigade. It depicts that famous lady whose bravery and tenderness is known to all the fair sex—Florence Nightingale. The film was procured at a great cost and at this time when the patriotism of all is stirred, should prove attractive.

The resignation of Major General MacKenzie, Chief of the Canadian Militia, has caused not a little comment in the military circles in which Colonel Sam Hughes moved, during his visit here last year. He recalls how the Colonel declared there was no danger of submarine not coming to the surface with two such hot-air artists as Winston Churchill and himself aboard. It is not surprising a hot air artist should not hit it off with a British General.

LONDON, May 22.

Reference to the Atlantic War between the C.P.R. and the "Pool," the Standard announces that, as the result of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's visit, a provisional agreement has been arrived at as regards emigrant business from Trieste. The terms are not yet made public, but the Standard says: "We believe we are correct in the statement that the C.P.R. and Austro-American line which represents the Atlantic Pool, will in future despatch alternate boats from Trieste, while the profits derived from this source are to be placed in a pool, which, in its turn will divide its surplus balance with the C.P.R."

LONDON, May 22.

Before an immense and distinguished audience at the Royal Albert Hall last night, Commander Evans delivered his eagerly awaited lecture on the British South Polar Expedition which cost the lives of Captain Scott and his companions. The Commander was second in command of the expedition. Lady Scott and the widow of the other explorers, who perished were present. Commander Evans story was told with remarkable modesty, and contempt for dramatic effect. The audience was enthusiastic. When the picture of Capt. Scott and his party at the Pole, were displayed there was tremendous applause. The story has already been told and retold, but it was with a fresh thrill that the audience listened to his own story of the heroism of his companions, Crean and Lashley, who, when he was overtaken by scurvy, stood by him and dragged him on a sledge for twenty-five miles to the hut. In point of fact they were short-handed, and the picture of the rescue, as the lecturer said, "I did not wish to alarm my seamen companions by telling them at this early stage that we must march longer hours to get home, so put on the hands of my watch an hour, and therefore they turned out an hour earlier each day." Lady Scott, he said, remarked on the magnificent spirit shown by her husband and his specially selected ten mates. When they knew that Queen Alexandra's little silk Union Jack had been anticipated by the flag of another nation, Scott and his comrades had done their best, and never from one of them came an uncharitable remark. Commander Evans' account of the party's return in March was practically the same as that contained in his historic cablegram from New Zealand.

EMPIRE DAY, May 24th.

It is intended that the "Empire Day" celebration shall be the outward sign of an inner awakening of the peoples who constitute the British Empire to the serious duties and responsibilities which lie at their door.

It is to be hoped that the simultaneous turning of so many minds to the problems of Empire on the same day may unconsciously lead to a thoughtful and systematic instruction of the rising generation in matters mutually interesting to British subjects in all parts of the world.

It is the moral character of the people of a nation which determines the position which such nation shall occupy in the world.

It is useless to multiply armies and fleets, to supply them with the most modern appliances of war, if the men behind the guns are ignorant of the meaning of the terms loyalty, obedience, self-sacrifice, courage, and devotion to duty.

The country may possess richly-endowed universities, colleges, and technical schools; its factories may be supplied with the best machinery; but if its merchants, its manufacturers, and its workpeople are self-seekers, devoid of honesty, careless of the general weal, idle and profligate, ruin will sooner or later overtake that country.

The only hope is in the education of the young. If ever a higher sense of public duty is to take possession of the nation, it will be through the class-room and the playground; and it is such patriotic teaching which the "Empire Day" movement endeavours to encourage.

EARL OF MEATH.

Victoria, the Great and Good.

"She wrought her people lasting good,
Her court was pure; her life serene;
God Gave her peace; her land reposed;
A thousand claims to reverence closed
In her as Mother, Wife and Queen."
—Tennyson.

A thousand years ago England was governed by a king who gloried in being the father of his people. He lived enshrined in their hearts by reason of those personal virtues which stood out in bolder relief than the mere attributes of royal state. The centuries have come and gone, bringing us monarchs—some excellent, some mediocre, and some whom we wish had been better, but there had been no worthy successor to Alfred the Great until the throne was ennobled by the beautiful life of Queen Victoria. Alfred, the greatest King, and Victoria, the greatest Queen, are twin monarchs in the exemplification of the combined attributes of greatness and goodness. The personality of Queen Victoria dominates all hearts, and as the years go by, the nation realizes that not only was she a good and kind-hearted woman but she was a far-seeing monarch, with statesmanlike qualities of mind.

Now that the lips of her ministers are in measure unsealed, we learn how wise was her judgment at critical times, and with what rare intuition she divined the voice of the great democracy.

It not infrequently happened that the so-called "advisers" of the Crown sought advice from her whom they were supposed to advise, and the function of Privy Councillor became reversed. Lord Salisbury himself, four times Prime Minister during her reign, gives the remarkable tribute to the Queen's sagacity that her independent judgment had so often proved superior to that of the Government that it had become almost an axiom with ministers that it was dangerous to the best interests of the Empire to pursue a course of which she had doubted the expediency.

In considering her personality the trait which stands out most prominently was her simplicity. Few of Queen Victoria's subjects ever saw the Crown upon her head, or the Sceptre in her hand, but no such outward symbols were needed to emphasize the majesty of her presence. She moved amongst the people in the homeliest of attire, and her dignity lost nothing by it. An old woman recalling the coming of the Queen to Balmoral said: "When she cam' drivin' down the road we coudna believe that it was the Queen, for she was just wearin' a paisley shawl quite o' the ordinar'—indeed my ain mither had ane no unlike it." Still, no monarch carried royal dignity with more impressiveness than Victoria. "I am rather short for a Queen," she used sometimes to say laughingly, but her personality overtopped everything else, and all privileged to come within the range of her direct influence bear the same testimony to the royal dignity and benignity which emanated from her.

The reign of Queen Victoria will always be famous for its wonderful advances in nearly every line of progress. Whether we consider things material or intellectual, it has indeed formed one of the most memorable epochs of British history. It was a reign inspired by ever-widening ideals, and added unceasingly to the sum of national happiness, national intelligence, and national morality. There was a great growth of territory and population, an expansion of industry, an extension of commerce, an advance in science, united with an increase of prudence and tolerance and kindly feeling amongst all classes.

When Victoria came to the throne, railways and even steamships were in their infancy, there was no such thing as the electric telegraph, penny postage was unknown, innumerable inventions and discoveries, by which life in our day is made easy, had no existence.

With this immense progress the name of Queen Victoria will be associated in all time coming, and posterity will not unreasonably conclude that a great deal of the prosperity of the Victorian era was due to the presence of a sovereign who in her public life was conspicuous by her good sense, and in her private life was remarkable for her good example.

Queen Victoria's Reading.

She devoted a good deal of time to current events, which she always followed with the greatest attention. She found time, however, to make herself familiar with many great imaginative writers, poets and novelists. Amongst our English writers her favourite poets were Shakespeare, Sir Walter Scott, Tennyson and Adelaide Proctor. The hymns of Bonar and Faber were those to which she was especially attached. Her favourite novelists were all women—Jane Austen, Charlotte Bronte, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Craig, George Eliot and Edna Lyall. Her favourite flower was the Lily of the Valley, and it would be a charming tribute to her memory if everyone could wear a Lily of the Valley on Empire Day.

The Victorian Era.

Victoria's sage—the Age of Knowledge,—pours
Old England's hearts and hands o'er Austral shores:
In either world new nations rise amain;
Each Christian realm unlocks the bondsman's chain.

The night of ages History rolls away;
Fresh wonders Nature teaches day by day:

Steam, light, electric force, 'neath Science wand,
Knit closer bonds betwixt each class and land;
The torch of Progress shines on every hand.

Leading Events in the Life of Queen Victoria.

Queen Victoria was born at a quarter past four on the morning of the 24th of May, 1819; "the little May flower" her German relatives used to call her. She was the only daughter of the Duke of Kent, the fourth son of George III. Her mother was a German, the daughter of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

Her father died when she was only eight months old, but she enjoyed the watchful guardianship of one of the most sensible and devoted of mothers.

She reached her legal majority in 1837, and four weeks after William IV. died and at five on the morning of 20th June, the Princess was roused from her bed to learn that the Sceptre had passed into her hands.

"Poor little Queen!" said Carlyle at the time, "she is at an age at which a girl can hardly be trusted to choose a bonnet for herself, yet a task is laid upon her from which an archangel might shrink."

The Coronation took place on 25th June, 1838, in Westminster Abbey, and inexperienced as she was, it quickly came to be recognized that she was well-meaning and high-principled.

In 1840, on 10th February, Queen Victoria was married to her cousin, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The tastes, the aims, the hopes, the aspirations of the royal pair were the same. Their mutual respect and confidence went on increasing. Their affection grew if possible even warmer and more intense as the years advanced. Companions in all occupations, the burdens and difficulties of life were thus lessened more than by half for each one of the persons thus happily united in the true marriage of the soul.

The Queen's home-life was a busy one. Children soon added to the liveliness and interest of the household, and the family of the Prince and Queen numbered nine—four sons and five daughters.

"We have our trials and vexations," said the Queen in a letter, "but if one's home is happy, then the rest is comparatively nothing."

The great calamity of Queen Victoria's life came in 1861, when the Prince Consort passed away. All her joy was shattered and all pleasure in work was gone, and she led for a time a life of strict retirement.

In 1867 was celebrated the fiftieth year of her accession to the throne, when a great national pageant was held, the Queen going in procession to Westminster Abbey. And in 1897 her Diamond Jubilee was celebrated in commemoration of her having completed the sixtieth year of her reign.

In 1901 she died, having reigned longer than any previous monarch. As Gladstone says, "On her fidelity in the discharge of her great office, and in the great pattern of character which she has exhibited, she has laid down what is in many respects a model for every man, every woman especially, and every child that inhabits her dominions."

Morrisiphitis.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Morris' war dogs were let loose after the arrival of the train on Sunday night, which brought back to town the globe-trotting Premier. They have been growing viciously for the past two days. Yesterday's Tory organs both senior and junior, are crum full of fapoodle about the People's Party and the meanerings of Sir E. P. during the past two weeks in Fogo District. But despite the fact that Premier Morris himself in a three column interview in both the Daily News and the Herald, backs up to the hilt the telegraphic despatches which these papers have already published, do not anticipate that this particular process of cooking a la Morris will have any effect on the electors. Sir Edward Morris has run the whole gamut of political trickery in the thirty years he has been in public life; and I think I am stating his case fairly when I say, those who know him best trust him least. His ipse dixit, that he has captured the old Liberal stronghold of Fogo might well be taken with a whole hoghead of water measure. On the contrary, I learn the Prime Minister comes back with an intensified feeling that the people of the north absolutely refuse to "take the bait," and are anxious for the time when they can haul from power the present government.

Why was Sir Edward Morris forced to bolster up his case with a lengthy interview immediately after his return, if his tour had been as successful as those despatches intimated? Was not the purpose of his visit, viz. to inquire personally into the needs of Fogo accomplished, when he obtained the Clyde at Horwood homebound with his tail cut? We think so; but there were other districts to be deceived and if possible made to believe, that there was some slight chance north for the Tory party in the fall elections. We must, however, right here protest, at the suggestion of a clerical friend, against Sir Edward Morris dragging the names of clergymen who may happen to attend a meeting, into his "interviews." The veneer of his sinister purpose is altogether too thin. The monopoly of an outboard clergyman's life is especially heavy at this season; and even a Tory Premier's political flare-up is bound to attract all and sundry in the neighborhood. But this does not furnish justification for incorporating the names of clergymen who happen to take in the show, into Morris' political bark. Sir Edward is a whole Nickel in himself on some occasions, especially when he undertakes to go the whole hog alone as in the present instance. We remember four years ago when he started out on his stumping tour of the country, he took his faithful Minister of Justice along with him on the principle, we presume, of "scratching my back and I'll scratch yours." What's the game now? Mr. Morrison really looks as if he is overworked and worried and a change of air might do him good; still, if he can wait until the fall, he will be given a lengthy rest from his official labors.

Still another political fire-bug, who signs himself Riverhead Voter, is credited in yesterday's Herald with "rubbing it into Lloyd." This is presumably you, Mr. Editor. His cause of complaint against you seems to be that you have been "practical" only a few years in the country. Well, I can remember you over 30 years in St. John's. Evidently this booster of E.P.M. is suffering from a neuro attack of Morrisiphitis and is liable to get worse during the dog days.

Yours,

Another Cut in Gas and Electricity

That there would be a reduction in the cost of light by the Montreal Power Company, was announced at the office of the secretary-treasurer, this morning. While Mr. Norris' schedule would go into effect in the month of May, he has not yet made a formal announcement to the amount of the reduction. This will be the first reduction in the rates for gas and electricity since the inauguration of the company some time ago. They declared they would

Best Food in the World is Good Homemade Bread, Made of BEAVER FLOUR

When you bake the bread yourself, and know that anything you put in is as good as "Beaver" Flour, then you have a product that cannot be equalled.

Bread made of "Beaver" Flour will nourish and sustain you longer than any other one article of diet.

Bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, is the least expensive of wholesome foods. The cost of living becomes a very reasonable cost, when you make the principal part of every meal this good home-made bread.

You can eat bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, three times a day for a lifetime, without wanting a change. This shows it's good for you.

All this is true because "Beaver" Flour is a blended flour. It contains exact quantities of nutritious, full-flavored Ontario Fall Wheat blended with a little Manitoba Spring Wheat to give added strength. Western Spring Wheat Flour is too strong and flavorless to make real home-made bread or good pastry. Ontario Fall Wheat makes the best flavored and finest pastry flour in the world and, with a little Spring Wheat added for strength, makes the ideal Flour for both bread and pastry.

"Beaver" Flour is not like the woman who can only make one kind of cake or one kind of fancy pastry. "Beaver" Flour is like the attractive, capable, clever housewife who can make Bread, Rolls and Biscuits—Cakes, Pies and Pastry—and makes them all equally well. Isn't this the kind of Flour you want? Then order it at your grocer's.

Another Cut in Price of Gas and Power Promised.

That there would be a further reduction in the cost of gas and electric light by the Montreal, Light, Heat and Power Company, was the announcement made at the office of J. S. Norris, secretary-treasurer and general manager, this morning.

While Mr. Norris admitted a new schedule would go into effect during the month of May, he declared no official announcement could be made as to the amount of the reduction.

This will be the sixth cut in the rates for gas and electric light since the inauguration of the new policy by the Company some time ago, when they declared they would reduce the price of gas and electric light as far as consistent with good service.

Asked if it was not because of continued reductions made in the price of gas and electric light by the Westmount municipal plant that led to the policy of reduction made by the Light, Heat and Power Company, Mr. Norris declared that it was not, and said that the competition of the municipal plant in Westmount had absolutely no effect on their business. The reductions were made periodically as circumstances would permit.

The Westmount plant, it was pointed out, obtained their power from the local incinerator, and while Mr. Norris did not deny that power was cheaper in Westmount, he said that Montrealers were provided with gas and electric light at as cheap a rate as anywhere else on this continent.

Mr. Norris remarked that when the policy of reduction was introduced, gas cost the consumer $1.26 per thousand and cubic feet and electric light 12 1/2 cents per kilowatt hour. The present rate of electric light is 7 cents per kilowatt hour net, and gas, 95 cents net.

The forthcoming reductions will probably lower the price of gas another five cents.

In May, 1908 the price of gas was reduced to $1.15 per thousand cubic feet. In 1909 it was reduced another five cents, and a like reduction occurred in the following year. In 1911

A BOY'S MOTHER.
My mother, she's so good to me,
'Er I was as good as I could be,
If I could be as good—no, sir!
Can't any boy be as good as her!

She loves me when I'm glad or mad;
She loves me when I'm good or bad;
And what's the funniest thing, she says
She loves me when she punishes.

I don't like her to punish me;
That don't hurt; but it hurts to see
Her cryin'—then I cry; an' men
We both cry—an' be good again.

She loves me when she cuts an' says
My little cloak an' Sunday clo'es;
An' when my pa comes home to tea,
She loves him most as much as me.

She laughs an' tells him all I said;
An' grabs me up an' pats my head;
An' I hug her, an' hug my pa;
An' love him just 'nigh' most as ma.

Wrestling Slugging Match.

Contestants Took up the Entire Rink at Amherst.

Amherst, May 13.—John Kilonis and Dan McDonald, who wrestled here last night, went 46 minutes without either obtaining a fall.

McDonald commenced slugging and was warned by the referee. Kilonis next secured a strong hold and Dan patted him again. Then the merry war commenced.

The men wrestled on the mat and all over the rink. Finally Referee Webster Fraser threw up his job in disgust and left the building without giving a decision.

The two men then made a side bet of $100, the money being placed in a local newspaper man's hands.

Previous to this Archie Fraser, the Nova Scotian white hope, took a fall from Harry Levine, Kilonis' sparring partner, in six minutes.

Tenth Annual Report.

Of the Longshoremen's Protective Union.

May 22nd, 1913.
Gentlemen.—It affords your officers much pleasure in being in a position to report that there has been a decided increase in membership over the past year, and that the financial condition of the Union is of a highly prosperous character. It is also a pleasure to be able to point to the fact that no disputes of any kind have arisen during the past year with employers of labor and that relations between employer and employee are of a most harmonious character; it is our earnest wish and hope that it may so continue in the future, because the success of one is so closely linked with that of the other. The necessity for organizing a Juvenile Branch of the Union has, in the opinion of your officers, become very urgent for the purpose of preventing the exploitation of child labor in this city. One of the most pitiful conditions noticed by your officers was that a large number of boys under the age of fourteen years are employed on some of the steam boats and on mercantile premises, working upwards of fifteen hours a day, some of them engaged in most arduous work. It is cruel to employ children upon wharves before their bodies and minds are sufficiently mature, and now that it may be said, we are about entering upon an industrial age in this country when the mine, the factory and the workshop are causing many to leave the avocations pursued in the past, measures should be adopted to prevent the greedy employer or the indolent parent from exploiting infant toil.

It is with pleasure that your officers learn that the difficulty which arose between Parker & Monroe, Limited, and their employees has been amicably settled. The request for assistance for those on strike met with a splendid response from the different organizations in the city.

We desire to place on record our high appreciation for the advice and assistance given us during the year by the friend of the toiler, the Honorable M. P. Gibbs; through his aid and advice many a difficult problem which confronted your officers and the Union was solved to the satisfaction of all concerned.

It is with regret that we have to report the death of sixty-six members during the year. The total death benefits paid during the year inclusive of benefits paid for wives and widows of members amounted to $4,180 and the expenses inclusive of mortality benefits are $6,650.00.

The revenue from all sources during the year amounts to $8,069.47, this shows a surplus of revenue over expenditure of $1,418.47.

The number of members added to the roll during the year is 440 and the total number of members on the roll is 2,650.

The Union's financial position is as follows:—

Value of Hail, furniture, etc. $12,000.00
On deposit in the Royal Bank of Canada 9,782.20
On deposit Current Account 626.94
Interest bearing Investments 750.00

Making a total of $22,159.14 after all obligations being provided for.

In resigning the offices to which we were elected a year ago, we desire to convey our thanks to the members for the hearty co-operation and support which they gave us in the work which the duties of our respective offices imposed.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES McGRATH, President.
THOS. J. ALLEN, Fin. Sec.

The officers report having been adopted, the Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., was asked to conduct the election of officers which resulted as follows:—

James McGrath—re-elected President.
Francis Woods—re-elected V. P.
Joseph Flavin—elected 1st Asst. V. P.
James Sullivan—elected 2nd Asst. V. P.
M. A. Halleran—re-elected 1st Treas.
Stephen Rodgers—re-elected 2nd Treasurer.
Freeman Moore—elected Fin. Sec.
Wm. Howell—elected Rec. Sec.
Wm. O'Toole—re-elected Grand Marshal.

The attendance was the largest seen at any of the Union's Annual meetings and a great deal of interest was manifested in the election of officers for the coming year. Mr. T. J. Allen who filled the Office of Recording Secretary for the past nine years did not seek re-election, the work he is now engaged in prevents him attending to the duties of the office.

Police Kills Madman On Street.

FRENZIED MAN CHASES BOYS WITH OPEN KNIFE IN NEW YORK.

New York, May 22.—Just as the vast throng of visitors were pouring through the gates of the Botanical Garden and the Zoological Park, at Fordham Road and Southern Boulevard, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the current of automobiles heading for the parkway was thick, east, wild cries of terror, mingled with howls of rage were heard from the shrubbery in the Zoological Park.

Patrolman Frank Anderson of the Bronx Park station, on crossing duty at the corner, who had just waved his hand to his wife and little daughter, as they passed, heard the commotion and started in the direction of it. He had hardly taken two steps when the crowd before him scattered right and left before the rush of five or six young fellows, hatless and panting, who burst through the bushes into the street.

Half a dozen paces behind them came a short, stockily built man, clad in ragged clothes, who was shouting hoarsely and brandishing a long glittering knife above his head as he ran.

Crowd Scatters in Panic.

The crowd gave way in panic, knocking over women and children and left the policeman alone in the path of the man. Seeing the blue clad figure barring his way, the man yelled some incoherent words, and hurled a heavy stone, which he carried in his hand, at Anderson's head. The missile grazed Anderson's cap and struck a man behind him.

Not having his night-stick, which patrolmen do not carry until after 4 o'clock p.m., Anderson drew his revolver as the man threw, and fired at him at a distance of a few yards. The man reeled back a step, then recovered himself and came on again, the knife poised. Anderson coolly held his fire until the man was only a step from him and about to strike then fired into his breast, so close that the clothing and flesh were singed with flame.

The knife flew out of the man's hand, he fell and lay still. When Anderson looked around him, the first thing his eyes fell upon was his wife, who had rushed towards him when she saw his danger, and fainted dead away.

When Sergeant Fanning and several other policemen, including Chief Inspector Schmittberger, who happened to be near by, came running up, Anderson and nearly every other man near were busy trying to revive not only Mrs. Anderson, but most of the other women in the crowd.

Arrested but Congratulated.

At the same time the crowd of park visitors came running from all directions, the passing automobiles stopped, and in a moment both streets had become impassable. The reserves were summoned from the Bronx Park and Tremont avenue police station, but it was nearly an hour before they were able to get the crowd out of the way.

Capt. Ward of the Bronx Park station when he arrived formally pleaded Anderson under arrest for homicide, but at the same time congratulated him warmly on his coolness and presence of mind.

Unique Dental Operation.

Boy Who Knocked out Four Teeth Has Them Successfully Reset in Jaw.

Albany, May 15.—At the New York State Dental Association, W. Appleton, exhibited an eleven-year-old boy showing four second and permanent front teeth in the lad's lower jaw, which were knocked completely out of his mouth in January and were reset and have grown firmly in their places again. There is no case on record of this ever having been accomplished before.

Two hours after the child had knocked his front teeth out in a fall the lad's parents took him to Dr. Appleton's office. Dr. Appleton found they were in perfect condition and not quite fully developed. Instead of coming to a point at the end of the roots as a fully developed tooth does, their ends were concave and consisted of a single healthy nerve tissue. Dr. Appleton medicated the teeth and replaced them in the lad's alveolar process bone without attempting to extract the nerves. The result was that the teeth grew back perfectly solid into the jaw and gums and are now as good as though they had never been injured. Dr. Appleton also replaced the two other teeth which had been loosened and these have grown properly into place also.

Operations similar to this have been attempted before, but not always with success. In such cases the dentists have always first extracted the nerve from the teeth and then filled the cavity before replacing. Dr. Appleton attributes his success to the fact that he did not injure the nerves of the teeth. The youth of the subject was also an aid to the operation.

TESTIMONY OF FIVE WOMEN

Proves That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Reliable.

Reedville, Ore.—"I can truly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who are passing through the Change of Life, and it made me a well woman after suffering three years."

Mrs. MARY BOGART, Reedville, Oregon.

New Orleans, La.—"When passing through the Change of Life I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy spells and headaches. I was not fit for anything until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which proved worth its weight in gold to me."

Mrs. GASTON BONDURANT, 144 Polymnia St., New Orleans.

Mishawaka, Ind.—"Women passing through the Change of Life can take nothing better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am recommending it to my friends because of what it has done for me."

Mrs. CHAS. BAUER, 523 E. Marion St., Mishawaka, Ind.

Alton Station, Ky.—"For months I suffered from troubles in consequence of my age and thought I could not live. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and I want other suffering women to know about it."

Mrs. F. M. BAUER, Alton Station, Ky.

Deism, No. Dak.—"I was passing through Change of Life and felt very bad. I could not sleep and was very nervous. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health and I would not be without it."

Mrs. F. M. BAUER, Deism, No. Dak.

Are Your Nerves Exhausted?

Then Take an Egg for Your Morning Meal.

London, May 15.—In an article on the "Easter Egg in Modern Terms" the Lancet has some observations upon the substance known as "lecithin" which should be of the greatest interest to sufferers from nerve exhaustion.

The inflection in mediaeval times that after a period of partial abstinence from food during the Lenten season the egg should form a prominent article of diet on Easter day proves to be a peculiarly sensible one in the light of modern knowledge in regard to its composition.

"Some authorities have gone so far as to assert that the nerve centres depend upon lecithin for the highest performance of their functions and that nerve and brain exhaustion is caused by an undue expenditure of lecithin. Lecithin has thus been employed in nervous breakdown of various forms and the experience is recorded that after a short course of treatment by lecithin the sufferers put on flesh and three to five grains three times a day, half an hour before meals so that the daily maximum intake of prepared lecithin would be 15 grains, which is just a grain short of the lecithin found in a single egg. The supply, therefore, it is obvious, can easily be kept up by the simple custom of taking an average sized egg at the matutinal meal."

The reverence for an egg in religious history was no doubt based upon its life potentialities. In the treatment of nervous disorders the dose of lecithin is from experience a feeling of well being.

A MAN WHO KNOWS

Says GIN PILLS Are Good For Pain in The Back

WHEN your grocer tells you he uses a certain tea in his own home, you feel pretty sure it's good tea.

And when a prominent druggist takes GIN PILLS for his own Back-ache, you can feel quite sure there is nothing else quite so good.

Nothing else quite so good. Winnipeg, May 19th, 1913.

"In the autumn of 1911, I suffered with a continual pain in the back. As a druggist, I tried various remedies without any apparent results. Having sold GIN PILLS for a number of years, I thought there must be good in them, otherwise the sales would not increase so fast. I gave them a fair trial and the results I find to be good."

GIN PILLS have well earned the confidence which druggists, as well as the public, have in them. For years they have been relieving the pain of Rheumatism, Lumbago and Kidney Troubles generally, and changing tortured cripples into strong, supple men and women.

Why should you go on suffering when there is a remedy so easily obtained and so reliable? GIN PILLS cost but 50c. a box, 5 for $2.50. Money back if they do not help you. Sample free if you write National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto.

WHO AM I?

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Who am I? Over my own things they often sound. Again and again ultra-feminine to me, and yet again in a question and again I hear the rumour, "Every one says Ruth Cameron is a man." The only way I can account for this is that the public long ago discovered that some woman's column was written by a man, and was so impressed by this discovery that hereafter they became so suspicious of all women's columns. Now that's all nonsense. Listen, my friends, I've been in the newspaper business a good while, and am in a position to know something about the matter. I know of a great many women writing women's columns, and I don't know of more than one case of a man writing under a woman's name. And that was only done for a little while to fill up a gap. Just one word more. The last letter which I received on this subject said, "Some people think different folks write under the name because it is better some days than others." Perhaps I'm illogical, but it seems to me that is a good proof of the opposite. If the best thoughts of several people were taken, the little chats might be uniformly good. Since they are just the daily output of an ordinary human being, subject to bright day and dull days, and good moods and bad moods, is it not natural that they should be good, bad and indifferent by turns? No, that's a mistake. I'm one person, and I'm a woman, and for the rest I'm your friend, and isn't that enough to know?

NATURE'S ESSENCE. Extracted from Forest Plants.

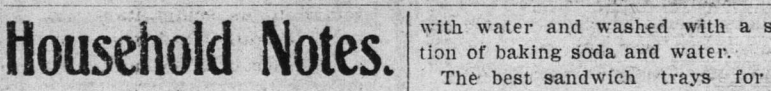

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot, and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have . . .

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PURSCOTT APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes Mr. E. W. WILLIAMS, of Belleville, Kans. "I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicines did harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets."
"The 'Discovery' and 'Pellets' have put me on my feet again"—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

E. W. WILLIAMS, ESQ. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Bell Island Regatta, July 26th.

The annual meeting of the Bell Island Regatta Committee took place at Wabana Hall, Bell Island, on Monday, May 19th, and was one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held by a sporting body on the Iron Isle. Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large number attended, and it was decided to hold the regatta this year on Saturday, July 26th, the whole day being devoted to the regatta alone, while the annual Regatta Ball will be held that night. The business outstanding in connection with the 1912 regatta was finalized, and the annual reports were submitted. The Secretary, Mr. J. M. Greene, submitting the annual report which was quite lengthy and interesting, while Mr. R. Proudfoot, Treasurer, submitted the financial statement showing the committee to have finalized the work of last season with a neat balance on hand. The officers' report being adopted, the meeting was thrown open to the public to form up for this year's regatta, and the election of officers was then proceeded with. Mr. Angus McDonald taking the chair being assisted by Messrs. Archibald and Jardine as secretaries. The following were the returns of all of the old executive to office, all being unanimously re-elected as follows:—
President—Mr. Chas. F. Taylor.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. C. Maine.
Secretary—Mr. J. M. Greene.
Treasurer—Mr. R. Proudfoot.
It was decided to start work immediately, and with a capable committee, and the veteran executive at the head of affairs. It is thought that this year's regatta at Bell Island will be a record one in the annals of the Iron Isle. We hope to publish the officers' report soon.

The Lawnmower.

I've brought forth the mower from where it's been stabled, and oiled up its bearings and tightened its screws, and now I shall push it around till disabled, and try to imagine it's good for my thumbs. I keep it going, now faster, now slower, an hour in the evening, an hour at the dawn; and try to be fond of my red and green mower, my trusty old mower that shingles the lawn. I said to the sawbones: "Say, doc, what's the matter? I'm getting so fat that I can't lace my shoes." He answered: "You'll always get fatter and fatter, for lack of hard labor, that's what's hurting you. Go, forth, be a sprinter, or wrestler or rower, mow your own grass till you harden your brawn." And that's why I sweat with my dingy, dusty mower, my fussy old mower that shingles the lawn. I went to the hay scale this morning and weighed me. I hoped I had lost seven firkins of grease, which and alas, "but the figures dismayed me—I'd gained thirteen pounds, and I called the police! My soul is depressed and my spirits are lower, I hoped to be slender and feet as a fawn, but now I am done with the limewashed mower, the blooming green whisks; may grow on the lawn.
