Revelations of the Last German Ambassador in England:

My Mission to London, 1912-1914,

By PRINCE LICHTENOWSKY.
(With a preface by Professor Gilbert Murray.)

The war has produced few human documents of the importance of Prince Lichtenowsky's "Memorandum." It throws a flood of light upon the diplomatic correspondence published by the belligerent chancelleries in the opening months of the war, particularly upon the German White Paper, whose reservations it exposes, whose enigmas it untangles, whose lies it lays bare.

It is the diplomatic story of the Prince's Ambassadorship at London, from 1912 until the war drove him home to Berlin in August, 1914, when he was deprived of rank and distinctions.

Should be read by every man and woman in the Empire; 60 pages, stiff covers.

Prices 25c.; by mail, 27c.

CHAPTER XXVIII
FIGHTING LIFE'S BATTLE.
 Having paid his bills he went to the station, and aimlessly took a ticket for Paris. In Paris he would be able to think of his ultimate destination. Here, in Florence, he could think of nothing save the pale, lovely face of the girl he had left weeping in the square! The girl whose happiness he would give his heart's blood to secure, the girl whose felicity he had ruined and wrecked!
 More utterly wretched than he had thought it possible for him ever to be, he paced up and down the station.
 The usual bustle and stir of an arriving train passed him by unnoticed, the people started now and then at the tall, distinguished man with the wan, haggard face, but he was unconscious of their glances. All his thoughts were concentrated on Floris Carlisle.
 The expected train came in, and he was turning in his restless promenade to get out of the way of the bustle, when he saw the door of a first-class compartment open and a gentleman alight. It was Lord Norman!
 In a moment, at sight of him, Oscar Raymond stood motionless, then with an effort he recovered his presence of mind and slipped behind a pillar.
 Lord Norman held out his hand to some one in the carriage, and the one who proved to be Lady Blanche. Lord Seymour followed, and the two valets and Lady Blanche's maid came up to them from a second-class carriage.
 Oscar Raymond took in all the scene meant in a moment.
 They were married!
 He leaned against the pillar; his arms folded across his chest, his head drooping.
 They were married! The plot he had conceived had been successful!
 Lady Blanche had triumphed, and Floris Carlisle was left in the blankness of solitude and desertion.
 An awful rage and despair sprang full-born into his breast.
 Lady Blanche looked more beautiful than ever as she stood by Lord Norman's side. The old serene, placid loveliness had returned to her fair face, and shone in her velvety eyes.

"I have triumphed! I have won!" seemed to proclaim itself in her very gait and bearing.
 And as he looked there rose before his eyes the vision of Floris, pale and sad and despairing, robbed by the vilest acts of her lover, and her young life condemned to melancholy and hopeless solitude.
 A mad rage devoured him. With clinched hands he strode forward as if to accost her, then he remembered what he was and shrank back. But he would not leave Florence now!
 He waited until the party had started for the hotel, in the grandest carriage available, then moodily followed them.
 When he reached the hotel, the confusion attendant upon the arrival of such important guests reigned rampant.
 In the stir and bustle and confusion of waiters and chambermaids—flying apparently with no definite purpose, hither and thither—his return was unnoticed.
 He waited in the shadows of the hall for a little while, with no settled intention in his mind, only a dim, vague rage of impatience then a thought struck him.
 He went to the office and opened the visitors' book. Never, for a moment did he doubt that they were married, but he thought he would ascertain.

With trembling hand he turned to the page for the day and bent over it in the dim light.
 Then with a low cry of relief he shut the book and wiped from his brow the sweat that had gathered there.
 The name she had written was not Blanche Norman, but Blanche Seymour!
 They were not married yet!

CHAPTER XXIX.
THE SPORT OF THE GODS.
 THE moon rose over the city and poured its light on to the front of the Hotel Italia.
 On a balcony on the first floor Lord Norman was seated in a low chair.
 A cigar that had gone out was between his fingers, and his thoughts seemed to have wandered far away.
 He was looking older by some years than when we saw him last, and there was a scar on his forehead which Lord Harry's stag had left as a slight reminder.
 There was, too, a sad moodiness in the dark eyes that robbed his face of its youthfulness, and was not good to see.

It was the look of a man who had found life considerably less worth living—a look of doubt and distrust of his fellows, which Rousseau might have worn in his worst epoch.
 He sat very still, and with the grave, queer look in his eyes, and doubtless his mind was wandering to some of those moonlight nights on which, with Floris by his side, he had felt assured that the world was the best of all possible worlds, and that life was well worth living.
 Absorbed in this moody contemplation, he did not bear a light step on the window sill behind him; and Lady Blanche stepped out and laid her hand on his shoulder before he knew that she was near.
 "How beautiful it is, Bruce," she said, softly, looking out on the city that lay in the moonlight beneath them like a picture of Canaletto's. "I am awfully fond of Florence. And one sees it at its best to-night."
 He nodded, but did not speak.
 Never very talkative, he had become remarkably silent and short of speech since the news of Floris' "falseness" had been broken to him.
 "Poor papa has gone to bed," she went on, softly, her hand resting on his shoulder, so that her white, delicate fingers could touch his hair. "He is tired out. What do you think he said to-night, Bruce?" and she blushed and smiled.
 "Don't know," came listlessly from his lips.
 "He said that we might have waited until we were married before we made this trip, and that it was confoundedly like a honeymoon. Poor papa. It was a little too bad to drag him across the channel, but it will do him good, and I am sure you are ever so much better, aren't you, Bruce?"
 "Considering that there hasn't been the slightest thing the matter with me for months past, I may say that I am," he answered languidly. "I've noticed, Blanche, that you have got a fixed idea in your head that this trip was made for my especial benefit. It is very flattering to me, but my—"
 "Yes, yes, I know," she said, with a little laugh, but with a sudden restless shimmer in her eyes that was strangely at variance with her serene and reposeful voice. "But all the time it was I who was so anxious to get out of England. It is quite true, Bruce, I had grown sick of England; Scotland, especially."

 "Scotland isn't England," he murmured.
 "I longed to get away, and I should have been ill if I hadn't crossed the channel. And—and it was so good of you to consent to our marriage taking place at Paris—"

He looked at his cigar, and seeing that it was out, flung it away and felt for his cigar case.
 "I have a letter to write now, Bruce," she said, presently. "It is but a short one. Wait here and I will join you when I have finished."
 And she left him.
 Five minutes passed, and then he rose and began to pace up and down. The balcony ran the whole length of the house, and making a turn, reached the head of the staircase leading to the street.
 The city looked so beautiful that he felt tempted to a stroll. He got his hat from the room, and passing along the balcony went down the steps into the street.

Ten minutes after he had gone, a tall figure, a duplicate of his, stepped out from one of the rooms on the same floor, and, walking to the spot where he had sat, went to the rail and leaned over.
 As he did so, Lady Blanche came through the window with the letter she had written in her hand.
 "Bruce, I have written my letter. Shall we go and post it? A walk would be beautiful now, it is so cool and pleasant. Bruce, are you asleep?" and she went up softly behind him and touched his arm.
 The man turned round slowly and raised his hat, the moonlight falling fully upon his wan and haggard face. Lady Blanche staggered and clutched the rail with one hand while the other flew to her heart.
 "Oscar Raymond!" she breathed, with aghast lips. "Oscar Raymond!"
 Lord Norman stood for a moment at the bottom of the steps, then aimlessly turned to the right and sauntered along the quiet street.
 The beauty of the city, hushed in the serene rays of the moon, touched him with a pensive sadness, and recalled the past with a peculiar poignancy.

 He was to be married to Lady Blanche in two or three weeks, by which time they expected to reach Paris in their wanderings; but if any one had stopped him and asked him why he was marrying her, he would have been puzzled to find a good and sufficient reason.
 After the recovery from the shock of Floris' supposed baseness, he had declared that he would never again look upon a woman with the eyes of kindness, would live and die hating and avoiding her sex.
 For weeks he had kept himself secluded from the world, had shut himself up and yielded to the bitterness and grief which the destruction of his faith in his beautiful girl-love had caused him.
 But men of Lord Norman's class cannot remain in seclusion long. They have duties to perform which may not be neglected, and gradually he emerged from his retirement and was seen in his old world again—the world of the clubs and "the shady side of Pall Mall."
 Lady Blanche played a waiting game, and her reward came in due season.

One evening in the midst of a song she was singing while he was lounging in the glasshouse within hearing of the song came to an abrupt stop.
 He turned to see the cause, and saw that her head had dropped on her hands, as if she had broken down.
 He flung his cigar away and went quickly to her.
 "What is the matter, Blanche?" he asked.
 She looked up and tried to smile, as if ashamed and annoyed.
 "Nothing, nothing at all," she said, wiping her eyes. "I felt rather low-spirited, that was all. Everything seems to go wrong and at cross-purposes, doesn't it? Go back to your cigar, Bruce, and I'll play something exuberantly lively."
 "Do not," he said.
 Then he stood still and looked down at her.

He knew that she loved him; she was beautiful—a woman of whom any man might well be proud.
 It was necessary that he should marry, unless he wished the old title he bore to die out.
 Why not she as well as any other? In time, he told himself, with a swift pang—he should forget Floris, should learn to love Blanche.
 He made up his mind in a moment as he stood there.
 "Blanche," he said, laying his hand gently on her shoulder, "will you be my wife?"
 For a moment the color left her face, and her heart seemed to stand still. It had come at last.
 "Be my wife, Blanche," he said, gently, "and I will try to make you happy."
 She turned her face upon him and looked at him with all her soul in her eyes.
 "Ah, Bruce, you would have to try such a very little. Ah, you know—you know."

Then he bent and kissed her, and she put her arms round his neck and drew him down to her in a passionate embrace.
 And so she had won him at last. She was too clever to rest assured on a false security.
 While Bruce was in England he might meet Floris Carlisle at any hour, explanations might ensue, and—She persuaded him to take her, Lord Seymour accompanying them on a continental trip.
 "We can be married at Paris, Bruce. I hate London. Let us be married at Paris."
 He had consented, as he would have done if she had asked him to take her to Timbuctoo; and so here they were in Florence, and in a few weeks they were to be married.
 Lord Norman sauntered on, thinking of it all, wandering mentally back to the old days when Floris was at his side, and he had so often tried to persuade her to name the day for their union. She had always put him off.

A PRACTICAL SET OF SHORT CLOTHES FOR A LITTLE GIRL.

 2513—This outfit comprises a simple dress, a short-waisted petticoat, and a combination garment consisting of waist and drawers which could also serve as a model for bloomers. The dress is a design good for lawn, batiste, gingham, chambray, voile or percale. For the undergarment muslin, cambric, long cloth and nainsook could be used. If the combination undergarment is used as rompers, it could be of galatea, gingham, drill, linen, repp or percale.
 The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 4 requires, for the dress, 2 3/4 yards; for the petticoat, 1 1/2 yard; for the combination, 1 1/2 yard, of 36-inch material.
 A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A DAINTY DRESS FOR PARTY OR BEST WEAR.

 2487—In soft batiste, china silk or crepe, handkerchief linen or dimity; this will make a pretty frock. It is also nice for all-over embroidery, flouncing, embroidered voile or dotted swiss. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length.
 The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.
 A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

GERMANS FELL BACK.
 WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, July 22. (By the Associated Press.)—South of the Ourcq, under the combined pressure of French troops advancing from the west and the Franco-American forces who followed the enemy across the Marne and who are now pushing him northward, the Germans fell back rapidly during the day, and to-night the Allies were on a line marked by the villages of Lacroix Griselles and Epeldis which means an advance of five miles from west and three miles from the south. French troops carried the heights overlooking Lacroix and Gri-selles. At the point of the Boche positions south of the Marne the Franco-Americans made a rich haul of material including 400 machine guns and thirty cannon including two big guns.
 The heaviest fighting on the eastern side of the salient was in the hills and woods west of the mountain of Rheims where the enemy is fighting tooth and nail to maintain himself.
 The Germans were attacked fiercely in this region to-day by British troops including a Highland division who took from them Courton Wood, Rheims
 Wood, and villages of Bouilly and St.
 Euphrase. The Germans evidently mean to hold on at all costs to their flanking positions in the mountains of Rheims and on the plateau above Soissons.

AMERICANS DRIVING AHEAD.
 WASHINGTON, July 22. Fresh successes for the American forces in their drive between the Aisne and the Marne were reported in General Pershing's communique for yesterday, received to-day at the department. The Americans were driving ahead with undiminished vigor and spirit, the statement said.

GERMANS PROTECTING WESTERN FLANK.
 WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, July 22.—Frederick William, the German Imperial Crown Prince, has been obliged to call for help from his cousin Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria. German divisions from the army in the north have been hurried down to protect the western flank of the defeated army which has been driven back over the Marne and ejected from Chateau Thierry by Franco-American troops.

AMERICAN TROOPS CROSS THE MARNE.
 LONDON, July 22. American troops yesterday crossed the River Marne between Charleville and Oland east of Chateau Thierry, and captured the Wood of Barbellon, according to an authoritative announcement made here to-day. The Germans are stubbornly resisting the French crossing of the Marne, but the French have succeeded in getting two elements over at Mogy and Courcelles and are constructing foot bridges under heavy fire. The Germans are using gas shells in large numbers.

ENEMY STRUGGLING UNDER DI-FICULTIES.
 PARIS, July 22. (Havas Agency.)—All the military critics of the newspapers after careful examination of the tactical position and the strategical situation, have come to the conclusion that whatever happens, the Allies' counter offensive is a new and great victory of the Marne. The difficulties with which the enemy is struggling are pointed out by the Petit Parisien, which appends this comment: "The enemy who boasted that he would capture Chalons in two days is now congratulating himself on his ability to defend himself as he is doing and pointing to this as a great victory."

GRATITUDE TO ALLIES.
 PARIS, July 22. Between the dream of a break up of the French army and the breaking of one's own army in front of the French, there is a difference that perhaps the German people will perceive.
 The truth is that the military balance which since March 21st had leaned to the side of the Central Powers, has been forcibly swung to the side of the Allies since July 15th. Premier Clemenceau's newspaper, "Homme Libre" declares that beyond everything it is our infantry, our Poilus and the Allied troops to whom must go our gratitude. But adds the paper, the victory is also due to the fact that we have been able to bring our forces under a single command. With such a leader as Foch, who can tell to what results this new victory of the Marne, achieved in the last days of the fourth year of the war may lead.

EVENING UP MATTERS.
 PARIS, July 22. When the Bavarian Crown Prince answered the German Crown Prince's appeal for help and sent some of his divisions from the Picardy front to aid the Germans in the Marne salient, an equal number of British divisions was detached from the north front and moved to the sector southwest of Rheims. The British divisions are composed of picked troops.

ENEMY DESTROYING MATERIAL AND MUNITIONS.
 WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON
 THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 22.
 (By the Associated Press.)—There were signs everywhere to-day that the enemy is destroying his material and munitions in the pocket to the north of the River Marne between Soissons and Rheims, preparatory to the entire evacuation of that area.

GERMANS CLINGING ON DESPER-ATELY.
 WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON
 THE MARNE FRONT, July 22.—The Germans are clinging desperately to the line south of Soissons in an effort to protect their flank. The Americans fighting on this front have completed the cutting of the narrow gauge railway to Chateau Thierry. The pounding process is being continued by the Americans and their Allies in this sector keeping the enemy uncertain from moment to moment regarding the Allied intentions. Prisoners taken by the Americans say that if the strenuous offensive of the Allies continues, the Germans will withdraw much further north where they will fight for their lives. The Allied heavy artillery is hammering military objectives in the Soissons area.

ACROSS THE LINE AT SEVERAL POINTS.
 WASHINGTON, July 22. Mr. Baker said, the official advice confirms the fact that the Soissons Chateau Thierry railway had been cut and General March, Chief of the Staff, supplemented his statement by adding the Allied forces were across the line at several points. The effect of this upon the German forces further south was, Mr. Baker continued, their prompt withdrawal from Chateau Thierry and Marne sectors, when the chief supply lines were severed. For the last two days, Mr. Baker added, the reports he has received invariably have been favorable to the Allies.
 There have been no recent substantial additions to the number of prisoners taken, the Secretary continued, nor any exact estimate of the war material captured.

REGAIN LINE.
 LONDON, July 22. The French troops in Champagne between the Sulpe and Messiges have regained all their old front line, according to advices reaching here this evening.

FOLLOWING ON THE HEELS OF THE ENEMY.
 PARIS, July 22. French troops, says La Liberte, continue to cross the River Marne in strong forces northeast of Chateau Thierry. They are following on the heels of the enemy who can't long hold ground with General De Metzera army coming from the south and General De Goutt's coming from the west.
 The latter army has reached the region of Chatelet Wood. General De Goutt's troops which have been fighting hard since the beginning of the counter offensive, last night crushed the effort made by the Germans, and took 1,000 prisoners. Information received in Paris this morning says the French patrols operating beyond Chateau Thierry have learned the retreat of the Germans extends several miles deep. The German artillery can scarcely be heard.

BELIEVED FAVORABLE.
 TOKIO, July 22. (By the Associated Press.)—It is believed in political circles here that the Japanese Government's reply to the proposal made by the United States relative to the Entente Allied intervention in Siberia, will be de-

MISS FRASER DECORATED.
 PARIS, July 22. Upon recommendation from General Foch, Premier Clemenceau has decorated Miss Fraser, an English ambulance driver with the Cross of the Legion of Honor and the War Cross.
 The citation reads: Charged with the transport of wounded men on Thursday night under heavy bombardment, she received two serious wounds from a torpedo which destroyed her ambulance. She had the superb courage to reach the hospital two hundred feet away afoot to inform the doctors of the plight of the wounded men. She then fell unconscious. When transported to the British hospital for an operation, she insisted that her wounds should not be treated before the doctors attended the injured men for whom she was responsible.

AGREES TO PROPOSAL.
 LONDON, July 22. The Japanese Diplomatic Council has agreed to the American proposal for joint intervention by Japan and the United States in Siberia, says a Central News despatch from Tokio under date of July 17th. A proclamation will be issued assuring Russia that the Entente has no aggressive designs in intervening in Siberia. The despatch adds, it is probable that a relief commission will accompany the joint expedition.

AUSTRIAN CABINET RESIGNS.
 LONDON, July 22. The entire Austrian Cabinet has resigned, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen to-day.
 Emperor Charles, it is added, has accepted the resignation of the Ministers.

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL.
 VIENNA, July 22. (Official.)
 In Albania the enemy's attacks were renewed north of Berat and in the Upper Devoli Valley three days ago.
 Excepting local fluctuations the enemy nowhere obtained any advantage.
 In the fighting that is in progress between the Semeni bend and the sea reconnaissance detachments penetrated enemy positions at many points.

TRAINED GUNNERS BROUGHT UP.
 WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON
 THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 22.
 In connection with the heavy machine gun fire which has been encountered by the Americans, prisoners say machine gunners from a divisional school are being brought up to check the Allied drive in the Franco-American advance launched this morning. Along the line on the south and to the west the Germans gave more ground and are slowly continuing their backward movement. To the north of Chateau Thierry, two additional towns have been taken by the Americans on the front north of the Marne since daylight this morning.
 The enemy is increasing in his resistance along the line south from Soissons, where every yard which the Allies push forward further hampers the German lines of supply. On the front where the Franco-American forces are pushing is just to the north of the Marne. The enemy is carrying out a stubborn retrograde action, but despite this the Allies continue their gains. In the region of Soissons another town was captured by the Americans and yet another has fallen into the hands of the French, improving the Allied position and likewise covering the enemy's line of communication. The Germans left a number of machine gun nests in the hands of the Allies. The Germans are using their artillery in guarding the slow retreat.
 On the whole the concentrated forces of the Crown Prince have materially slowed down the Allied progress.
 There is no indication, however, that the enemy will be able to counter attack successfully. Additional prisoners were taken to-day.

THANKS ARMY.
 PARIS, July 22. General Gourard, the Commander on the front east of Rheims where the Germans in their offensive last week stood by a stone wall defence, issued the following to his army the day after the German offensive was check-ed: "To the soldiers of the Fourth Army—On July 14th you crushed the effort of fifteen German divisions supported by ten more. Their orders were to reach the Marne that evening. You stopped them just where we decided to engage them and won the battle.
 You have the right to be proud, you heroic infantry, machine gunners of advance positions who got the signal that the attack had begun, and broke it up. You aviators, who flew, your battalions and batteries who crushed it, you of the staffs who also carefully prepared the battle field. I count upon you for the same reason, whenever the enemy dares attack you,
 and with all my heart, as a soldier,
 I thank you."

We Must Not Lose.

The operations of the past few days on the Western Front, show that everything is proceeding in a generally satisfactory manner, in fact rather more success has been the reward of the Allies, than was conceded when the enemy offensive had spent itself. It is not, however, yet the time for felicitations, no matter how confident we may feel of ultimate victory, for a number of statements of a disquieting nature have come over the cables. One of these is to the effect that the Germans have considerable bodies of reserves back of their lines, which have not yet appeared in action. To determine the strength or quality of these there are no means available. Another of equal importance, and urgent, is that in his advance the enemy has gained a footing on the hills South of the Marne, which dominates that river. Still, considering the narrowness of the whole German front in this sector, and the possibilities of their holding it for any length of time being precarious, this footing gained may not be considered so alarming as it looks. Indeed, there is every possibility of his being ejected from his hilly positions within the next twenty-four hours. It is early yet to make any forecasts, but the Allied general staff have the whole situation well in hand. There can be no such thing as loss now. Every ounce of strength, every particle of effort must be put out to make the victory presaged a decisive one. "If we should lose, the lights of the world will go out," said Mr. Samuel Gompers, addressing the American Federation of Labour at St. Paul, Minn., a few days ago. Can we imagine what this would mean? The lights of the world will be extinguished by a German victory. The lights of the world are Liberty, Justice and Truth. Can we afford to have even one of them snuffed out by the mailed hand of the Hun, set alone all three? Would we rather not fight to the last man to preserve that burning light, which the enemy would ruthlessly put out, than under his rule the darkness of subjection would cover the earth? We have heard of German methods, have been told of them, have read of them: Men who have witnessed atrocities committed by the soldiers of the Kaiser, have time and again set them forth that the world might read. Commissions have investigated and have reported, and their reports have corroborated all that was told of rapine, slaughter and plunder by the blonde beasts of the German armies. Think then what it would mean to have the lights of the world go out, and in their place to have burning the lamps of German Kultur. An indictment of fourteen counts was recently drawn up by an American paper against the Kaiser which is here presented, with but a slight change, made to suit general conditions, and will be interesting. The range of the offences follows:-

He has committed outrageous crimes against people of every class upon the high seas.
He has willfully and needlessly killed women and children.
He has tortured and slain prisoners of war.
He has violated every known law of war.
He has violated every international law which stood in the way of his brutalised warfare.
He has killed non-combatants, including little babies.
He has made bonfires and heaps of ruins out of churches and hospitals.
He has sunk hospital ships.
He has made war upon Red Cross workers and deliberately bombed their areas.
He fomented plots against the United States, while that country was at peace with Germany.
He has hired destructionists to destroy life and property in the United States, and in every other country which resisted his power lust.
He has committed unforgivable crimes against the female population of conquered territory.
He has torn up treaties and scorned the rights of humanity.
He has plunged the world into this war and by so doing has become the arch-murderer of all time and the slayer of more human beings than all the murderers of the world within the last several hundred years.

You who read what do you think? There is only one way. The dragon must be slain. The freedom of the world demands it, and whether he is slain in defeat, or lives in victory to impose his will upon and oppress the world with Kaiserism depends as much upon the people of Newfoundland, as it does upon the people of any part of the Empire. New Church for Holyrood.

In another column we publish an appeal from Rev. W. Finn, P.P. Holyrood, for funds wherewith to erect a new church to replace the building destroyed by fire recently. This appeal will surely commend itself to the charitably disposed and religiously inclined people of Newfoundland. No greater misfortune can befall a community than that by which destruction is brought upon sacred edifices, and our christian and civilized sympathy compel us to take heed and to give. We sincerely hope that this appeal of Father Finn will meet with a prompt and liberal response, and that upon the ruins of the old church, will be reared a structure which will be a fitting memorial to the efforts of the good Pastor and people of the Parish of Holyrood and to the greater glory of God.

Fell Overboard.

This morning, while playing around Shea's wharf, a young lad fell overboard into the water. His companions had not seen him fall but were attracted by his cries for help. Immediately they told a man who was standing nearby, who threw off his coat, jumped over the wharf and rescued the boy, who had gone under twice. When he got the boy on the wharf he found him uninjured except for a good fright, which may possibly keep him away from the wharves for some time.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, July 23rd, 1918.
Canthardine Hair Tonic is not merely a stimulator of the scalp increasing the growth of healthy lustrous hair, but is also an excellent and scarcely to be surpassed dressing; and so it fulfills a double purpose. Canthardine is in no sense a hair dye, but by improving the health of the hair follicles, it promotes the return of the natural color to the hair. This tonic is not sticky nor greasy, does not stain, and is pleasantly perfumed. Two sizes, 35c and 60c. a bottle.
For nervous and neuralgic headaches, McMurdo's Headache Cure (Waters) is a quick, safe and reliable remedy. Price 30c. a box.

Big Katch.

The shades of night were falling fast As over Prescott Street there passed A man who bore 'mid fog and rain, A parcel marked with letters plain: Big Katch.
His hair was thick, his eye below Shone with a bright and joyous glow, And like the soldiers' bugle rung The words from off his sturvy tongue: Big Katch.
In happy homes he saw the light Where sixteen dollar coal burnt bright, Above the sky looked wild and dark, But he sang as happy as a lark: Big Katch.
You're feeling glad an old man said, The man with Big Katch raised his head, And hugged the parcel by his side And only with one word replied: Big Katch.
O stay, a woman cried, oh do And tell us of your secret true; A smile shone in his dark brown eye And to her he made this reply: Big Katch.
The night is dark, the lights are out, Be careful what you are about, This was the woman's last farewell But still he answered with a yell: Big Katch.
At break of day those men so shrewd Who now eat less to save the food, Were offering up their morning prayer They heard a voice shout on the air: Big Katch.
A man stretched out upon the ground, By a milkman from Torbay was found With a parcel hid beneath his coat, And on it in black letters wrote: Big Katch.
In Anderson's daylight there he lay, They said he came from Loby Bay; While from above a soft and slow A voice fell like a flake of snow: Big Katch.

Edgehill Church School

The Calendar of the Edgehill (Windsor N.S.) Church School for girls is a neat and attractive booklet. This school is now in its 23rd year and numbers among its pupils many Newfoundland girls. The 1918-19 first term begins on Wednesday, September 11th. In addition to the regular school course, which includes all general subjects, there is a domestic science course, which is open to pupils who have gone through the school or have attained a certain standard of proficiency. The title of "Associate in Arts" of the University of King's College, N.S., is open to all students who can pass the prescribed examination. Examinations in Practical and Theoretical music are also held, as well as in Drawing and Painting. Rev. H. A. Harley, M.A., is Managing Director, and Miss Gena Smith, Lady Principal, who is assisted by a staff of thoroughly trained teachers.

Not Responsible.

The brand of "Port Wine" which has made its appearance on the market during the past week is not of our manufacture and we know nothing of it. It is impossible to imitate or copy our brands. In regard to our competitors, in the words of Kipling, "we have left them sweating and toiling a year and a half behind!" When we charge you a dollar a bottle for our wine, which is the retail price throughout Canada, we are not going to sell you a syrup. Ours has the "warm feeling" and just as much "kick" as the prohibition law will allow.

THE EDITOR.
The regular Editor of this column is out of town at present. He has a "date" on with some trout at Come-By-Chance. If he catches them he will be as good as the old pill on "first" he should be able to satisfy our local requirements and help out the food situation materially. We would, however desire to warn our readers against any fish stories that may find place in this column after his return.
THE WEATHER.
After the past two weeks we have come to the conclusion that the Spartans weren't such remarkable people after all. They could stand for a lot, but not for the brand of perversity we've been getting here of late. It's about time that a deputation of citizens called on that Toronto man, burned him at the stake and then threw his ashes in Rennie's River.
ON THE CROSS.
There has been more Baseball played on Rawlin's Cross this year than in all the Leagues of the U. S. combined. The pennant winners have been settled since last Sunday week, and the Mount Cashel series is now in progress of adjustment by our heroes who patronize that locality. Peter Ryan has been recalled repeatedly from his lair nearby to settle disputes between the fans who sometimes blaze up hotter than a ball-store over plays that were made weeks previously on the battle-field.

PREPARING FOR RETREAT
FRENCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS
July 22 (via Reuter's Ottawa Age)
—This afternoon, north of the Marne the enemy is preparing for a retreat in the angle between the Marne and the Aisne by blowing muniton dumps and burning railways which they had no time to repair. The enemy's position is in a wooded and broken country, with main roads and railways, and is coming under the constant pressure more difficult hourly. 40c.
front has only one line of rail from the Aisne to the neighbourhood of Bourg to Bazoches, where it crosses the main line on the Soissons Rheims road. The latter road is in condition for use for a certain distance astride Bazoches, but the station there is being constantly bombed. The Germans must find it difficult in using the limited rail facilities. The remaining forces the enemy may possibly fall back the Vesle line, abandoning Oise the commanding plateau separate the Oise and the Nesle valleys.

WAR REVIEW.

(By the A.P.)—The drive of Franco-American force into the Soissons-Rheims salient between Soissons and the region of the Marne continues. The Germans at some points are retreating desperately, but their forts thus far have proved fruitful more than slightly impeding the advance. Further ground has been gained by the Allied forces, south of Soissons, in the centre of the line of the Oise, and north and east of Chateau-Thierry. Additional large numbers of Germans have been made prisoners and numerous quantities of guns and war materials have been captured. In the Marne region American troops on the northern bank of the stream are on the heels of the fleeing enemy east of Chateau-Thierry between Chateaufort and Gisors. At last reports the advance had pushed virtually four miles from the old positions on the southern bank and they were pressing the enemy north, in the direction of Fere Tardenois, possibly with the intent of endeavouring to link with the French forces proceeding east along the Oise. Further east along the Marne the French have been ordered to throw forces across the northern bank of the stream. Severe fighting "in progress" between the British and Italian forces and the enemy, southwest of Rheims, where the British have made a further advance, while in the Champagne region east of Rheims, the French are reported to have regained all their old front line positions between the R. Scarpe and the town of Massiges. German defensive has noticeably stiffened on the west side of the Rheims Soissons salient, but although large numbers of reserves have been thrown into the fighting the manoeuvres seem to be more in the nature of strategic rearguard actions, designed to buy the large forces of the enemy, in the Chateau Thierry pocket, to escape northeast, than a purpose to stand a give battle with the ultimate aim of holding or beating back the Franco-American troops. That the Germans now realize to the full that the Allies have the upper hand in the battle seems apparent from reports that they are burning villages behind them, their retreat, and destroying large quantities of stores and war materials throughout the entire salient, which they have found it impossible to move owing to the rapid retreat of the Allies across various ends of the lines of communication, and the destruction of others by the Allied guns. The guns now are throwing shot-

PREPARING FOR RETREAT. FRENCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, July 22 (via Reuters's Ottawa Agency).—This afternoon, north of the Marne, the enemy is preparing for a further retreat in the angle between the Marne and the Ardre by blowing up munition dumps and burning stores which they had no time to remove. The enemy's position is in a heavily wooded and broken country, without roads and railways, and is becoming under the constant Allied pressure more difficult hourly. The enemy to feed the Soissons-Marne front has only one line of railway from the Aisne to the neighbourhood of Bourz to Bazoches, where it joins the main line on the Soissons-Rheims road. The latter road is still in condition for use for a certain distance astride Bazoches, but the junction there is being constantly bombed. The Germans must find it most difficult in using the limited railway facilities. The remaining forces of the enemy may possibly fall back to the Vesle line, abandoning Oise and the commanding plateau separating the Oise and the Neve valleys.

WAR REVIEW.

LONDON, To-day. (By the A.P.)—The drive of the Franco-American force into the Soissons-Rheims salient between Soissons and the region of the Marne continues. The Germans at some points are counter attacking desperately, but their efforts thus far have proved futile in more than slightly impeding the advance. Further ground has been gained by the Allied forces, south of Soissons, in the centre of the line at the Ourcq, and north and east of Chateau-Thierry. Additional large numbers of Germans have been made prisoners and numerous quantities of guns and war materials have been captured. In the Marne region the American troops on the northern bank of the stream are well on the heels of the fleeing enemy east of Chateau-Thierry between Charleville and Gland. At last reports the advance had been pushed virtually four miles from their old positions on the southern bank, and they were pressing the enemy north, in the direction of Fere en Tardenois, possibly with the intention of endeavouring to link with the French forces proceeding east along the Ourcq. Further east along the Marne the French have been enabled to throw forces across the northern bank of the stream. Severe fighting is in progress between the British, French and Italian forces and the enemy. Southwest of Rheims, where the British have made a further advance, while in Champagne to the east of Rheims, the French are reported to have regained all their old front line positions between the River Scarpe and the town of Massiges. The German defensive has noticeably stiffened on the west side of the Rheims-Soissons salient, but although large numbers of reserves have been thrown into the fighting the manoeuvres seem to be more in the nature of strong rearguard actions, designed to help the large forces of the enemy, in the Chateau Thierry pocket, to escape northeast, than a purpose to stand and give battle with the ultimate aim of holding or beating back the Franco-American troops. That the Germans now realise to the full that the Allies have the upper hand in the battle, seems apparent from reports that they are burning villages behind them in their retreat, and destroying large quantities of stores and war munitions throughout the entire salient, which they have found it impossible to move owing to the rapid strides of the Allies across various ends of their lines of communication, and the domination of others by the Allied guns. The guns now are throwing shells far behind the lines, searching out the entire country side, while airplanes are winging their way over the retreating columns and harrying the enemy with machine gun fire. The efforts of the Germans to retard the Franco-American troops were particularly heavy Monday in the regions of Griseilles and Beau St. Germain respectively. Northwest and north of Chateau Thierry, and to the east of Chateau Thierry, where the Americans are giving them battle on all three sectors, the enemy lost further ground, and his forces in the Chateau Thierry pocket were in greater jeopardy. In France and Flanders the British continue to harass the German lines with small attacks and raiding operations, and the Italians are keeping up their pressure against the Austrians both in the Italian and Albanian theatres. In the latter, considerable ground has been gained along the Devol Rivers.

ADDED TO GAINS.

PARIS (Official) To-day. During the course of the day the Germans attempted by powerful counter attacks to check our progress between the Marne and the Ourcq, but the Franco-American troops resisted all the assaults, and added to their gains, advancing beyond the heights east of Lacroix and Griseilles, taking the village of Eplois, and gaining ground northeast of Mont St. Pierre. Between the Marne and Rheims there was hard fighting which gained no results for the enemy. We maintained our lines in the Courton Wood and Bois du Rol. Further north British troops made an advance capturing 200 prisoners and 40 machine guns. North of the Ourcq, on the Champagne front, great artillery activity is reported but there was no infantry action.

A GOOD OMEN.

LONDON, To-day. An Admiralty statement says that the same day the German troops were driven across the Marne by the Allied armies, a German submarine was sunk by a British torpedo boat destroyer Marne.

10.00 A.M.

PROGRESS UNCHECKED.

PARIS, To-day. Heavy German counter attacks launched for the purpose of checking the progress of the Allies, between the Marne and the Ourcq to-day, were without avail, according to the official statement to-night, and the French and British made further advances in the region of LeCreux and Griseilles as well as northeast of Mont St. Pierre.

BAD FOR THE HUN.

LONDON, To-day. A Russian wireless despatch received here, reports that the Ukrainian railway strike is extending. The despatch says 200,000 (?) men are out and that all efforts by the Germans to keep traffic moving have failed. A German service from Kiev has been held up and the cars turned over.

BOMBING THE ENEMY.

PARIS, To-day. (Official).—The activity of our bombing machines was maintained at a high pitch. On July 21st, during the day and night expeditions, 50 tons of bombs were dropped on enemy railway communication cantons and bivouacs in the Valley of the Vesle and the Ardre. The stations at Leon, Pizmes, Berry au Bac and Fere en Tardenois, crowded with troops and convoys, were the objects of a very violent bombardment. A great fire, followed by several explosions, was observed, and another fire broke out in the Fismes station. Tens of thousands of cartridges were fired at German troops, and batteries, which were silenced, in the region of Courmont Roucheux and Villeneuve the same day. Our aviators brought down many enemy machines.

IN THE EAST.

EASTERN THEATRE.—There was reciprocal artillery activity on the Lower Struma, west of the Vardar to Srka di Logan, and in the Serbian sector, on the Struma, a Greek reconnoitering party dispersed a Bulger detachment and brought back six prisoners. North of the Devoll our troops captured Austrian positions on the River Holta and took 100 prisoners, three of them officers, and several machine guns. Allied aviators carried out bombardments in the region of Seres and Pojradetz.

1.30 P.M.

EVEN GERMANY CRITICISES. LONDON, July 22. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen, says the selection of Duke William of Urach, as Sovereign of Lithuania, under the title of King Medour, has aroused criticism in Germany. A despatch from Amsterdam, March 19th, said the Ducal Crown of Lithuania had been offered to Duke William of Urach and that he probably would accept it. (Urach is a town in Germany in the Kingdom of Wurttemberg.)

IMPROVEMENTS FOR IRELAND. LONDON, July 22. The Government is now considering residence Circular Road, and interdevelopment of Ireland's mineral resources, and the improvement of the country's wonderful natural facilities on the west coast, for the construction of harbors and shipyards, said Viscount French, Lord-Lieut. of Ireland, speaking at Rockingham, near Boyle, to-day. Viscount French remarked that the country had escaped the ravages of war and was enjoying abnormal privileges as regards trade. During his speech he rebuked the "wild and seditious speeches made in various parts of the country and the scandalous literature by which ignorant people are inclined to be sorely misled." The Lord-Lieutenant said he would not deny that the country had certain grievances and that means had not yet been found to satisfy the just aspirations of either the North or South of Ireland, or to harmonize conflicting claims. "But who could think of domestic grievances when the world's enemy is at the gates," he asked.

GERMAN POSITIONS UNTENABLE.

PARIS, To-day. (Havas Agency).—Fresh progress in the region of Gulchy le Chateau, says the Echo de Paris, will soon render the German positions in that sector untenable. New forces of General Demitris army have crossed the Marne between Passyn and Dormans, says the Petit Journal, which concludes that the northern bank of the Marne in this region will soon be cleared of the enemy.

PIERCING FIGHTING RAGES.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 22 (by the A.P.)—The fiercest fighting continued throughout the day on both wings of the German salient between the Aisne and the Marne. The efforts of the enemy were concentrated in an attempt to prevent the Allied troops from cutting through on either side and thus impeding the great mass of German troops still within the semi-circle. Despite the German determination, French, British and American troops all made progress. Probably the heaviest fighting to-day occurred on the eastern wing of the salient where British troops took part. The Britishers, who had arrived on the scene only recently, engaged the enemy in hand to hand combat in the extremely wooded district southwest of Rheims. Fresh divisions faced them. One German division which had held the lines against the Italians had been annihilated, only a few hundred remaining. The Germans had a large number of machine guns in their hands. The British captured forty of them in the course of a strong attack, in which they made progress and took more than two hundred prisoners. Altogether the day was satisfactory for the Allies, who are threatening the German communications everywhere. There is every reason to believe that the Germans are hurrying forward more divisions to add to the sixty they already have thrown into the battle.

ALLIES HOLD ADVANTAGE.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, To-day.—German resistance resulted in harder fighting to-day. The operations were robbed of some of their spectacular features, as the day advanced, by the determination of the enemy not to be crowded into a retreat. South of Soissons the Allied troops maintain all positions as they were Sunday night, except in some cases where they have been improved slightly. The Allied positions, however, are no apparent danger from the attacks of German reserves. In the area north of Chateau Thierry, the enemy is reported by air observers to be still moving northward, but very slowly and fighting rearguard actions all the while. All the French and Americans are hanging close to the heels of the retreating Germans, and are taking every occasion to move forward. Army headquarters moves ahead bit by bit as the line advances. Enemy airplanes have been active on observation work, but the shells fired by the German artillery, in an attempt to search out the Allied rear, indicate that the airmen failed to spot the Allied positions. Many shells have dropped along the Marne at intervals but little damage has resulted. Throughout the day the heavy guns of the Allies bombarded the enemy lines with excellent results, according to aerial lookouts. Over all the territory retaken damage wrought by the American and French guns shows that the positions formerly held by the Germans suffered much more than the Allied lines, notwithstanding that the volume of fire from the Germans was greater. Further large numbers of prisoners were taken from the Germans to-day.

PARIS CONGRATULATES SOLDIERS.

PARIS, To-day. (Havas Agency).—The Municipal Council of Paris, and the General Council of the Seine, have sent congratulations to the French and Allied soldiers who contributed to the successes of the last few days.

DAMAGING TO ENEMY.

LONDON To-day. The correspondent of the Daily Mail with the French army says there is reason to believe that General Foch's success is going to prove more damaging to the enemy than had hitherto been assumed, and that the number of prisoners and guns captured largely exceeds the present estimate. The correspondent cites that one army corps returned their captured guns as thirty, whereas they actually numbered eighty, and asserts that there is a great disparity in the casualties of the enemy and of the Allies. He says that the German killed or wounded are extremely numerous, and that in one case virtually the whole of one battalion was found dead on the ground in a wood in which they were taking shelter. On the other hand he declares the French and American casualties during an attack were less than half the number of prisoners taken.

Obituary.

MRS. C. S. PINSENT.

The remains of the late Mrs. C. S. Pinsent, who died at Hughesville, U.S.A., a few days ago, arrived in the city by yesterday's express for interment. Deceased was formerly a Miss Brown, of Hr. Grace, and widow of the late C. S. Pinsent, Esq., for many years clerk of the Black Rod in the Legislative Chambers. She lost here two years ago to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Birchby, at Hughesville whose husband was formerly curate at St. Thomas's Church. Another daughter is Mrs. K. E. Badcock, wife of the Secretary to Admiral Tretyn, of the Royal Navy, and one son, Mr. E. S. Pinsent, of the law firm of Clift and Pinsent, to whom the Telegram offers deep sympathy. The funeral took place this afternoon from her son's residence, Circular Road, and interment was at the C. E. Cemetery.

Young Woman Missing.

Early this morning, it was reported to the Police that a young woman of the South Side was missing from her home, 100 St. John's Street, at noon, and it is feared that she had met with an accident. She was last traced to the vicinity of LeMarchant Road, and Bennett's Dam, but after that, no trace could be discovered. The young woman has been released from the Asylum for the Insane a few days, and her friends are very anxious for her. The police were searching for her all last night.

Early Hay Cutting.

What is about the first hay cutting this year is taking place on a city farm now, operations began yesterday. The farm in question is above Sme's Bridge, between the South Side and Waterford Bridge Roads, extending from the bridge to the next railway crossing. The hay, on this farm, although high, is far from being ripe, it having nearly nearly a month to which to grow. We conclude that the owner's object in having to cut is to obtain the high price now available, but which, however, will not be so high when all the farmers cut their hay. A great many tons of hay will be mowed in this way, but the owners will make up by the high prices now offering.

New Bank Note Issue.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce here have received for circulation a new issue of its Notes in denominations of $5.00 and $10.00. The date of issue to the public will be the 24th of July, thus marking the fiftieth anniversary of the day when the President of the day when the President of the Bank, Sir Edmund Walker, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., entered its service. The designs of the new Notes are entirely different to anything now in circulation and have been designed and engraved especially for the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and are handsome and attractive in appearance.

PERSONAL.—Herbert Pike, of the S. A. day school, Carbonara, has been awarded a certificate of accuracy in reporter's style from the Sloan-Duclan headquarters, Ramsgate, England. Teacher Miss Mabel Barber.

HERE FOR SALT.—Upwards of fifty motor boats, skiffs and small craft reached the city last night and this morning from points in the Ferryland District to obtain salt. The Minister of Finance and the Minister of Shipping have arranged to give them a fair supply to tide them over for a few weeks pending the arrival of larger shipments from abroad, when we are assured there will be sufficient for all.

Police Court.

Three stowaways, charged with hiding on the s.s. Ranger from St. John's to Sydney and back, were up before court this morning. The captain of the Ranger produced a bill of expenses amounting to $30, but which, however, the boys could not pay. In the event of their being unable to pay the costs, the captain is not desirous of sending the boys to the Penitentiary. The trap berth case between Benj. Garland, Fishery Warden, and Robt. Lewis came up again this morning.

Fishery Report.

Bonne Bay—Nothing doing. Fortune—No bait; traps 5 to 35 qtls.; boats and dories, 1/2 to 3 qtls.; St. Mary's—Traps 5 to 20 qtls.; trawls and jiggers, 2 to 3 qtls.; plenty caplin. Grand Island—Nothing doing. Marytown—No fish for traps or trawls. Lawn—Fish scarce this morning; some traps 2 to 10 qtls., others none; nothing for trawls; caplin scarce. Trinity—Little fish taken in traps; none with hook and line; sufficient caplin for bait.

King's Beach.

We hear many complaints from carmen and teamsters regarding the King's Beach. Their grievance is the lack of a road from the Anglo-American Telegraph Co.'s corner on Water Street to the Foster and Shields' corner on Duckworth Street. As it is at present, a horse coming west on Duckworth Street, must go to the road crossing the Beach, which road ends at the Times' printing office corner, to turn down to Water Street. What is needed, is to build a road before mentioned, having the lower end of it meet the lower end of the one already there, forming a V.

"DESERTERS FOR REVENUE."

Last evening the Military Police were around town searching for four soldiers who have deserted. About 1 o'clock this morning they captured one of them, who offered such strenuous resistance that he had to be handcuffed. The others have not yet been located.

UNSIGHTLY FENCE.—

We would draw the attention of the Municipal Council to the stretch of fence on Duckworth Street, immediately east of the Custom Building. This fence is a disgrace to the city, and should be removed, and a new one erected in its place.

The Five Per Centers!

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

I was talking the other day with an industrial detective. Perhaps you do not know just what that is. I didn't until I met this one.

An industrial detective is a man who goes into a plant and tracks down some of the causes of "invisible loss." And "invisible loss" is loss caused by unnecessary waste and also by small thefts of one sort and another, often an enormous item. He told me of one firm doing a twenty-five million dollar business which charges up three million a year to invisible loss.

Ninety-Five Per Cent. Guilty. In the course of conversation the detective said one specially interesting thing. "I was in the United States Detective Service for seven years," he said "and they estimate that ninety-five per cent. of all employees are to some degree guilty of petty larceny."

At first I was ready to brand that as absurd. "How can it be so?" I said. "I wouldn't do anything of the sort and you wouldn't and I have many friends that I know are absolutely honest. That must be an overstatement."

Writing a Letter on Office Paper. The detective smiled. "I wonder," he said, "if you realize how many things are really petty larceny. For instance writing a letter on office paper and using office stamps. I suppose you never did that."

"Oh," I said, "I didn't think you meant..."

"No, of course not," he said, "and you probably didn't realize either how much a thing like that counts up. In one business that I called me in there were three hundred and fifteen girls in the clerical departments. Suppose each one wrote a letter a day and used an office stamp. Do you realize that that would amount up to over fifty dollars a week, over three thousand a year?"

I had never looked at it in that light before.

Can You Claim Membership? And as I thought it over I wasn't so sure that I could claim membership in the five per cent. It is some time since I have worked in an office so I can't exactly remember but I wouldn't want to stake my life that I never appropriated an office stamp. I do remember that when I worked on a certain newspaper I used to use the telephone for personal conversations sometimes, although there was an understanding that one was never to use it except for office business. "They pay me little enough and I often work overtime," I used to think. "I guess I deserve an extra privilege or two." (I fancy ninety-five per cent. of the ninety-five per cent. justify themselves that way.)

Could you claim membership in the five per cent?

It is an interesting thought, isn't it?

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

MAKING THE SHOULDERS FIRM. After a woman passes the thirtieth, too often unattractive creases begin to make themselves visible about the throat, while the shoulders show a tendency to heaviness or angularity. This is not because nature intends us to be robbed of charm at this early age, but rather because our little neglects have had time to accumulate and take visible form. Now that you think of it, how do your shoulders please you? Are they a little coarse in texture, and does the throat bear a discoloration or two with a couple of well defined creases encircling it?

All of these conditions are amenable to measures the most mild. When you find how simple it is to overcome them you will wonder you have not come to your rescue long before this. The first agency of re-

A Trench Raid.

What Happens When a Raiding Party Goes Out on the Prowl.

Tucked away in the corner of an official despatch you will often see an insignificant paragraph to this effect: "Last night we carried out a successful bombing raid near —." Of course, in comparison with a huge advance on miles of front, trench raids are of small importance. They are, however, anything but insignificant to those who participate in them.

After four days' rest we had just received orders to proceed "up the line." As we were struggling with refractory pack straps a sergeant poked his head through a hole in the wall of our billet and asked, "Who will come and have a look at the German trenches to-morrow night?"

He dotted down the names of the volunteers and withdrew. We heard nothing more until, at the end of a four miles' march, we arrived at the "support line." Then the names of the raiding party were called out and we were all packed into a dug-out together. This was "cushy," because we had nothing to do that night except the customary "stand to," as twilight merged into darkness. Next day the officer in charge of the raid assembled us and gave us particulars as to what we were to do.

Father Finn's Appeal.

As recently stated in the newspapers my church has been completely destroyed by fire. From north, south, east and west I have received the very kindest expressions of sympathy and encouragement, from His Excellency Governor Harris down to my smallest sister boy, for which I am truly grateful. For the moment I am knocked all in a heap, and hence it is that I appeal to my friends to come to my assistance. I shall be only too glad to personally acknowledge, and through the press, any and all contributions that may be forthcoming. Already I have to sincerely thank:—

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—There appeared in the Advocate last evening, a letter which was signed by a Soldier's Father, in which he puts up a plea for Sergt. O'Neill, who was given a commission in the Regiment. Soldier's Father says he was given it so that he might have authority to properly carry out the work to which he is assigned. Now if that is what he was given it for, why every J.P. would be entitled to a commission, as they are all doing duty in regard to the M.S.A. But I quite agree with him, in what he says (if it is true), about Lieut. James. He should be in Scotland with the Foresters, unless he is on duty here drilling the men now in training (which more than likely he is), but at the same time, taking the two cases, there is a lot of difference between them. Lieut. James volunteered and went across to Scotland, and although he didn't stay long until he was back again, he is more entitled to wear an officer's uniform than Lieut. O'Neill. Lieut. O'Neill never went across, and what is more not likely to go. Yet he can wear a uniform, and a returned soldier once discharged, is not allowed to wear it without permission. The public are not kicking about Sergt. O'Neill going down on the Labrador, but what they are kicking about is being sent with a khaki uniform. I think it is a very lame excuse for Soldier's Father to put up for Sergt. O'Neill, and one that won't go down with the public.
Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain, yours truly, FAIR PLAY.

Sun Burned Skin

You want a healthy summer tan. But sometimes you get it too quickly and then there is a few days of suffering.

The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment takes out the stinging and burning and leaves the skin delightfully soft and smooth. Because it is equally effective in relieving stings of insects and ivy poisoning as well as chafing and skin irritations it is invaluable in the summer camp.

Flying Man Here.

Cadet Royal Reid, son of R. G. and Mrs. Reid, of the Imperial Royal Flying Corps, reached the city yesterday from Kingston, Ont., where he has been in training. Cadet Reid, like his brother Flight Commander Robin Reid, is as much at home in the air as he would be steering a big motor car along the country roads around St. John's. Cadet Reid will return to duty after a brief furlough spent with his parents. Commander Robin Reid is now serving with the British Air Division in Italy and has had remarkable success.

For Skin Disease It is Wonderful.

James Rickett, 40 Pleasant St., Completely Healed by D. D. D.

Gentlemen.—I am more than grateful since using your wonderful D.D.D. for Eczema. My little girl was troubled with Weeping Eczema. I used everything but to no use and I thought D. D. D. would be of no use either. My girl's head became so bad I had to cut her hair off and keep her from school. She got sores all over her body. I used 6 bottles and I am proud to say she is cured. Not a pimple or rash and her skin is clear and white and all the itching is gone. I will recommend D. D. D. to any one I know who is troubled with Eczema. I am ever so happy and thankful for your wonderful cure.
Yours respectfully,
JAMES RICKETT,
40 Pleasant St.,
St. John's, Nfld.
D. D. D., the liquid wash, has become a household word. It has proved itself a remarkable remedy. If you are a sufferer from skin diseases, this remedy will not disappoint you. It has stood the test and is the master preparation for all skin diseases. Sold Everywhere.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Owing to the east wind and sea during the last few days, nothing could be done with trap fishing. However, the fishermen are hoping for another "spurt" this week.

Mr. John Butt, mail officer on the above train, arrived here on Friday. He was accompanied by Mr. Jonas Hollett, of Grate's Cove, who was the guest of Mr. Butt while here. They left for the shore again on Saturday evening.

Messrs. Bishop and Stevenson, two young men of St. John's, took a run around the bay on motor cycle last week, and are enjoying their visit here.

The s.s. Sagona left for Labrador on Friday morning. Among the passengers embarking here were Mrs. Thos. Dunn and her son and daughter, Miss Nellie and Frank. Master Bob Dunn also went by her. Mr. Charles Martin, of Carbonear and Mr. Geo. Herlihy, of Bay Roberts, were also among the passengers.

People are still selling young calves for veal, despite the shortage in our stock of cattle. When will our Government wake up to the necessity of protecting our cattle, as it does the beaver, partridge, rabbit, trout, muskrat, etc.

We would like to see some interested one (and are we not all interested) write this matter up, and try and impress on the authorities the need of a close season for even a few years, for calves, to give our stock of cattle a chance to increase.

Is it just right, while we are asked to save all we can in the way of food, to allow people to kill young calves for veal when they would probably be many times more valuable if left for a short time?

The reports at the last Conveners' Meeting show that there is no flagging of industry among the members of the Association. The Central Workroom had 225 workers during the month of June—a very good number for the time of year—and reported 905 pairs of socks, 200 shirts, and 22 pairs pyjamas. The Central Red Cross Room turned out 13,719 surgical dressings, over 4,900 gauze swabs, 600 packets of different kinds, and 50 packets. These last are a novelty here, and the workers like making them. "Vigornia" Branch reported 4,642 hospital dressings, 525 bandages, 105 tape sponges, 26 over-dressings. The Methodist Ladies' Aid sent in to Headquarters last month, 73 pairs socks, 26 shirts; and the Methodist Red Cross a large consignment of hospital supplies—4,720 dressings, over 100 gauze swabs, 173 roller bandages, (gauze), and 90 kip and shoulder bandages. The members of the last named Society have collected among themselves $262.25 as a contribution to Red Cross Funds. St. Andrew's W. P. A. has sent in 50 shirts, 73 prs. mitts and 10 pyjamas. This is a very excellent showing, as there are so many other claims on these workers. During the month of June the Examining Committee examined, and the Alteration Committee repaired 1,600 pairs socks, 50 pairs pyjamas, and 430 shirts. At this meeting it was agreed that the W. P. A. members, in response to the suggestion of His Excellency the Governor, should take charge of the refreshment tables at the Band Concert to be held in Bannerman Park on July 26th, in aid of the French Red Cross.

At last evening's football game there was a record attendance and the aim of $100 was realized. The game was an interesting one and the end found the City victorious by 8 goals to nil. There was no doubt about our team being the better one, but all who witnessed the play could see that the naval players are no strangers to the game. They lacked however dash, speed, combination and accurate shooting, all of which, of course, would be resultant from want of

WANTED—A Girl for Re- siring Clothes; must be a good eddle hand and have some knowledge of tailoring; apply PURRELL the Tailor, 365 Water Street.—July 4, eod, f

Published by Authority
On recommendation of the Military Service Board and under the provisions of the War Measures Act, 1914-15, and the Military Service Act, 1915, the following further Regulations have been approved by His Excellency the Governor in Council.

14.—After any class or sub-class has been called out and after the expiration of the time limited by the calling out proclamation for reporting for service or making applications for exemption, any man, who may reasonably be supposed to be a member of the class or sub-class called out, may, at any reasonable time, be accosted by any Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, or by any commissioned or non-commissioned military officer, or by any police officer or constable, and questioned as to all or any of the following matters, to wit:—His name, occupation, place of employment, abode, date and place of birth, and any other matters relevant to show whether or not he is within such class or sub-class, or whether or not he has reported for, or is exempted or excused from military service; and the man shall, if required, produce his certificate or such evidence as may be in his possession. If he have any, showing that he has reported, or is not at the time liable to report; and it shall be the duty of any such man so questioned to answer truthfully, and to the best of his information, knowledge and belief, all questions so put to him.

15.—If any man so accosted and questioned do not answer, or does not truthfully answer, all questions put to him touching the matters aforesaid, or, if the officer questioning him have reasonable grounds to believe that the answers are untruthful or evasive, he may detain the man and take him before a Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law, provided that nothing in this regulation shall affect the application of Section 12 of the Military Service Act, 1918.

16.—It shall be the duty of every person to answer any questions which may be asked of or submitted to him orally or in writing by the registrar or by any military or police officer relating to the age, occupation, abode, address or domestic position of any man who may reasonably be supposed to be a member of any class or sub-class called out or to any facts which may be or use in determining whether such a man is entitled to exemption or enabling him to be found or identified, and any person who fails to answer any such questions shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than twenty-five dollars.

Thoughts Upon the Times

Few people seem to take the trouble to estimate the wealth we have in our fisheries. On account of the vast destructiveness of the war, fish will be the principal article of food for years to come. It will have to take the place of meat to a large extent. The improvements in the methods of catching and curing fish to-day are astonishing when compared with those of twenty-five years ago.

Another feature about our Newfoundland fisheries is the appalling waste which goes on every year and which if properly handled would bring us in millions of dollars. Look at the waste in caplin, cod roes, cod tongues, cod tails, and herring. If other and more scientific countries possessed our natural wealth they would be able to support a population ten times as great as ours, from our fisheries alone.

The public are wondering what has become of the Returned Veteran's Association which was inaugurated a little while ago under such favorable auspices. What stand have they taken, or do they propose to take in reference to the very unjust and unfair appointment to the Military Service of the heads of returned men with good records? The public are watching their every movement in this matter.

The Sargasso Sea.

Westward from the Azores and northward from the Canaries, Sargasso Sea lies—the port of missing ships—a vast expanse of green islets and islands and continents. Weeds show green like emeralds and rises out of the water like the grass of a meadow trailing to the wind. It might be a new-born continent, or an old, forgotten one, so far does it stretch and so lonely is it.

And this vast meadow of green weed—beneath which lost Atlantis sleeps—was, according to old Punic writers, a great trap set by malign gods jealous of the explorations of men. They spoke of it as drawing the ships of the African mariners in to it as by a magnet. Even great galleys, with two banks of oars, could do nothing against it.

Weeds rose high and implacable until by sheer weight they drove the ship down inch on inch and deck on deck; until prow and spars and masts were thrust beneath the waters and it drifted downward through the layers of the ocean, as a dead leaf flutters from a tree, until it rested among the spires of the lost city. And again the weed became as smooth as a carpet and as green as a great layer of emeralds. And the sun played on it as a seductive, iridescent shimmer. And the trap was opened again.—N. Y. Market Notes.

Codfish.—Exports from St. John's last week totalled 10,288 quintals dry, which leaves about 24,000 quintals of the 1917 cure in city stores. The new fish of this year's catch is not yet coming in, either in quality or quantity, to justify a settled opening price. For some parcels of small last week sellers were paid $10, large realising $11. The principal factors influencing the price will be the size of the voyage and the foreign market outlook. Cod Oil.—A large output of refined is looked for this season, the good fishery warranting this assumption. Buyers, however, are not of so good a quality as last year; 7,500 gallons of medicinal oil were exported during the week, and the price has declined to $2.25 per gallon. The demand for Common is not so good and the local price is now down to $270 per ton. Freight rates to the United Kingdom have advanced to such a degree 'as will further tend to keep prices down. There is a hope that prices will go higher if the Canadian and United States demand keeps pace with 1917.

Lobsters.—There was nothing during the week to warrant any comment on either pack or price, very meagre catches having been received. Provisions.—The Flour situation remains unchanged. People willingly are using the prescribed substitutes, but these have now become very scarce and there are not enough in stock to go round. Efforts are being made to increase the supplies of corn meal, rolled oats and oatmeal, in order that the shortage which may be expected in white flour imports be met. Unfavourable weather has given a set back to the Canadian wheat crop, and a possible shortage is therefore not imaginary. The imports are about 7,000 barrels short of last year. Local prices have not advanced. "All Whites" is still selling at $14.75, and "War Standard" $13.30, wholesale. The Pork situation took a sudden change last week, when an advance of one dollar per barrel was made on certain grades. As it is evident that future imports will be on this rise, now perhaps is the right time to buy, with Ham Butt $47 to $47.50; Short Cut Clear $53 and Rib $58. Imports are 6,000 barrels short. Beef is showing more strength with cable indications that higher prices are likely. The demand for war supplies is as yet unabated and is expected to increase rather than lessen, should prospects of the war going into next year prevail. Leading brands are quoted at $42; Packet and Boneless $40.50; Cuttings $26.50. Imports are 5,500 barrels behind last year.

Nothing new to report in Sugar. Stocks are small but there is ample held to meet present demands. With the approach of the fruit canning season in the States and Canada, it is anticipated that it will be very difficult for us to get American granulated, and importers are endeavouring to get as much as possible of "Light Straw" and "Crystal" from West India and Brazil. Nothing to report on Molasses since last week. This commodity remains as it was then.

Turbans and high-crowned sailors are important for Fall. Sashes are increasingly important in afternoon gowns. A navy blue serge frock has collar and cuffs of rose tulle. Country suits have skirts of plaid cloth fringed at the bottom. Flowered china buttons give charm to a plain white frock. Evening scarfs are trimmed on all sides with ostrich fringe. Beige tricotine and Roman striped material make a smart gown.

When you want Sausages, get ELLIS'; they're the best. HOME FISH-LADEN.—The schra. Nettie H. Gladys W. Ivy and Ida have returned to New Perlican with 120, 120, 120 and 200 qts. of codfish each.

British "Whippets."

THE DESTROYER TYPE OF TANK. In a naval sense, the usual "tanks" or landships, whether they be British, French or German, have heretofore been of the battleship type; that is to say, they have been slow-moving, heavily armored and powerfully armed craft, meant rather to stand up and fight to a finish than to dash in and out of a combat and to depend on quickness of movement as the main weapon. But in breaking up and pursuing bands of infantrymen in the open there has been a distinct call for a "destroyer" type of tank—one that could travel at a comparatively high rate of speed and that possessed a higher order of mobility in general.

To the British, the originators of the tank idea, has remained the foremost destroyer type; this type, known as the "whippet," has already made its appearance on the battlefield in recent open fighting, and its debut has been crowned with success. The whippet has caterpillar treads of the usual design, arranged on either side of a sort of flat-car body. On the platform of the flat-car is mounted a single turret which houses the crew and the several machine guns with which the whippet is armed. The flat-car body measures 15 feet in length, while the turret is six feet in height. The engine is placed at the rear of the gun turret, in a separate armored housing. During a recent engagement near Cambrai on the Western front, the German infantry was seen assembling before the British positions. Seven whippets were ordered to disperse the Germans, and in hardly no time they were upon the foe. Meanwhile the Germans, having the larger, slow-moving caterpillar tanks in mind, held their ground with the idea of playing machine gun fire and hurling grenades at the advancing foe. But soon the whippets were on top of them, opening a fierce machine gun fire on the gray-clad groups which soon broke and ran, pursued by the fast whippets. It is further reported that the whippets not only kept pace with the fleeing Germans, but in some instances overtook and crushed those who had escaped the machine gun fire. It appears that the whippet tank can readily make 12 miles an hour, and a fully-equipped Teuton infantryman can hardly hope to maintain that speed for a prolonged period.—Scientific American.

Bang Goes the World.

IS THE END OF ALL THINGS AT HAND? Astronomers are pretty well agreed that the end of the world may come quite suddenly—and at any moment. At this very instant there is a new star that may be crashing towards us at a terrific rate. There are several ways in which the end of the world might conceivably happen. A collision might occur between two of the dead—and therefore invisible—suns which are known to be circling about in space. The speed of some of these unseen suns is certainly not less than five hundred miles a second.

The collision which evolved the new star—if that be the real explanation of its origin—must have occurred many centuries ago. How do we know? Because its distance is so inconceivably remote from us that its light, travelling at the rate of 185,000 miles a second, would take some hundreds of years to reach us! So, what we call a "new" star may actually have been born about the time that William the Conqueror landed in England. If this new star comes anywhere near the earth, all would be up with mankind, for the oceans of the world might seethe over the earth in waves of molten lava.

There are other ways in which the world may conceivably come to a sudden and premature end. The sun may explode, for instance! All suns, astronomers tell us, shrink as they cool, and ours is no exception to the rule. Some day the cooling external crust, thousands of miles in thickness, will contract to a degree so great to be borne any longer by the molten, seething mass within. Then the sun will blow up like a gigantic bombshell. And—good-bye to our earth. Another way the end may come is forecasted by a certain learned professor shortly before the war. He believed to have discovered that the world had "jumped its orbit," so to speak, and had started to wobble in space like an intoxicated ball. This irregularity will shortly cause our summers to become rapidly hotter and our winters to attain

This type, known as the "whippet," has already made its appearance on the battle-field in recent open fighting, and its debut has been crowned with success. The whippet has caterpillar treads of the usual design, arranged on either side of a sort of flat-car body. Bang Goes the World.

IS THE END OF ALL THINGS AT HAND?

Astronomers are pretty well agreed that the end of the world may come quite suddenly—and at any moment. At this very instant there is a new star that may be crashing towards us at a terrific rate.

There are several ways in which the end of the world might conceivably happen. A collision might occur between two of the dead—and there are fore invisible—stars in space. The speed of some of these unseen suns is certainly not less than five hundred miles a second.

Should two such objects, while travelling at this enormous velocity, collide with one another anywhere within a few thousand million miles of us, sufficient heat would be evolved to instantaneously transform our sun and all the planets—including the earth—into incandescent gas.

Some such collision is the most probable explanation of the advent of the new star. Luckily for us, however, the catastrophe occurred at too remote a distance—fifty billion miles away, at least—for us to be directly affected; though if the new live sun, born out of the heat evolved from the clash of the two dead ones, comes careering in our direction, there is no saying what will happen.

The collision which evolved the new star—if that be the real explanation of its origin—must have occurred many centuries ago. How do we know? Because its distance is so inconceivably remote from us that its light, travelling at the rate of 185,000 miles a second, would take some hundreds of years to reach us! grow colder and colder. So that within thirty or forty years at the outside, according to his calculations, the entire human race will be alternately frozen and fried to death.

Such speculations as the above may seem fanciful, but they are not so really. Not far from us, as astronomers compute distances, are the "Leonids," a loose agglomeration of countless myriads of meteors. At intervals our earth's path cuts their orbit; then we get a fine display of what we call "shooting stars." The "Leonids," scientists tell us, are merely the disintegrated debris of a world, destroyed by a collision such as may some day similarly affect our own world.

Awful Moments in Mid-air!

THRILLING AND UNEXPECTED EXPERIENCES.

There may have been a more thrilling air adventure than the following but, if so, it has not been recorded. A British airman was, on May 10th, 1915, up alone in a single seater machine.

Sighting a German aeroplane, he went in pursuit. Then the unexpected happened. While trying to reload his machine gun he lost control of his steering gear. His aeroplane, taking the bit in its teeth, as it were, turned upside down. The belt around the airman's waist happened to be loose, and the jerk of the machine when it turned completely over almost threw the pilot out; he only saved himself by clutching the rear centre strut. His belt had by then slipped down round his legs.

Thus he hung, head downwards, as the aeroplane whirled down, spinning round the while like a falling leaf, from a height of 8,000 feet, to about 2,500 feet. Making frantic efforts to free his legs from the belt, the pilot at last managed to disengage himself and reach the control lever—with his feet! By a miracle he succeeded in the bit in its teeth, as it were, turned over with dreadful slowness, completely looping the loop, whereupon the airman slid back into his seat. He had been within a three seconds' journey of death.

Can any predicament more awful be imagined than for a man, flying alone amid the clouds, suddenly to realize that the earth may not be beneath his feet?

This sometimes happens; the following instance is typical (writes Mr. Leonard Crocombe in the July "Wide World Magazine"). A British pilot was flying at about 7,000 feet, enveloped in thick clouds, when, in a moment of agonized suspense, he realized that he had no sense of position. With nothing to guide him, entangled in an impenetrable white fog, he literally did not know whether the earth was below or above him—whether, in fact, he was flying upside down or with his planes tilted at some perilous acute angle to left or right.

This agony of suspense was mercifully brief; but it was succeeded by a shock calculated to unnerve anyone less up to concert pitch than a fighting airman, for suddenly he emerged from the cloud bank—and at that moment the world seemed to rise up to him. He was hurtling earthwards at a ghastly pace! So terrific was the pressure on his plane that he only managed to right his machine when within a few feet of the ground.

A British machine was reconnoitering high over the German lines. Suddenly a shell burst near it, killing the pilot and severely damaging the aeroplane, which nose-dived 6,000 feet. During that terrific fall the observer, who was uninjured, succeeded in slipping from his seat to that of his comrade; he then unclasped the dead pilot's hands, sat upon his knees, and in that appalling position, righted the hurtling aeroplane and contrived to turn its plunge to death into a safe glide just as it reached to within a few feet of the ground.

A piece of bursting shrapnel severed one of the control wires of a French bombing aeroplane that was soaring over the Bulgarian lines in the Doiran district one September day in 1916; the machine immediately started to dive to earth in a giddy spiral. When within 300 feet of the ground, however, the observer actually hoisted himself on to the upper plane. There, lying on the canvas, he restored the balance of the machine by moving the plane by hand. The motor controls being undamaged, as soon as the machine's equilibrium was restored the pilot was able to reach his lines. The observer meanwhile remained perched on the top of the upper plane.

Fads and Fashions.

Hats display rolled brims. Double sleeves are very smart. Pin tucks adorn all smart blouses. Skirts are slit, revealing slips of satin.

Waistcoats are embroidered in beads. The beaded bag continues in high favor.

Boleros are liked for afternoon gowns. The charm of the true tailor made is perennial.

Dolly Varden hats are weighted by organdie hems. Black and white flowers trim an afternoon frock.

The Ballad of The Colors.

Red is the color of courage rare,
White is the symbol of purity,
And blue is the breath of the higher air.

Where men may meet their dream,
And be
The valorous knights of chivalry.
As they dart and wheel through the cloudy rack,
But—whether in trench or sky or sea—
Only the Hun flies flag of black.

When, in response to the trumpet's blast,
The French leap forth, with that gallantry
Which knows no thought but to do and dare,
To set their soil forever free,
Above their heads, triumphantly,
The Tricolor is floating back—
Blue, white, and red, its panoply,
Only the Hun flaunts flag of black.

When the sons of Britain fare
To the fields of Picardy,
Their colors mingle there
In the blood brothers,
To attack
Beneath the colors three—
Only the Hun flaunts flag of black.

Princes, who fight for Liberty
And seek not helpless lands to sack,
Ye wear the badge of unity—
Only the Hun flaunts flag of black.
—Reginald McIntosh Cleveland, in New York Times.

A Further Advance in Mechanical Surgery.

By F. Honore.

M. Painleve and Professor Quenu recently presented before the Academy of Sciences of Paris an apparatus developed by Drs. Heitz-Boyer for the reduction of fractures in a manner which constitutes a brand new surgical technique. The device is based upon the simplest of mechanical and geometric principles, and makes it possible to rest a broken bone with mathematical precision, regardless of the personal skill of the operator.

At present, in reducing a fracture, a forceps is used shaped in general terms like a compass; and it is in this that the two ends of the broken bone are gripped. In addition to blocking access to the point of junction, this forceps is not even the ideal instrument for bringing together and matching up the two broken ends, which are frequently much displaced by muscular distention.

To remedy this state of affairs the inventors employ a forceps of which each arm consists of two rods sliding freely upon one another in the lengthwise direction, and locking at the operator's pleasure. Each arm is terminated by a bit constructed so as to grasp a bone readily; and the arms are joined by a movable bar so built that both the distance and the angle between them can be varied at will. This supporting bar furnishes the fulcrum necessary to transform each arm into a lever—in each case the short end being that between the bar and the bit, the long end the part above the point of attachment of the bar. The two lever segments thus defined are normally, on each bar, in the ratio of five to one, though this can be changed by moving the point of attachment of the cross-bar.

Consequently, when the operating surgeon applies an effort of, say, 30 kilograms, a force of 150 kilograms is developed at the point of application of the bit to the bone. It is accordingly a simple matter to bring the bars gradually into exact parallelism, and thus bring the two ends of the broken limb gradually into a proper fit. At the proper instant the whole system is made rigid by tightening the screws at the various joints. We then have the fractured bone held securely in place by elements which have contact with it only at considerable distance from the fracture itself. The latter is then entirely unobstructed, and a permanent splint of the appropriate kind can be easily and quickly applied.—Scientific American.
