The Old Marquis

The Girl of the Cloisters

CHAPTER V.
A WOMAN'S DREAM.

"Out of the question," repeated the beautiful lips. "Don't you pity him, mother?" with a hard laugh.

"I—you know, Mr. Clifford Revel is not a great favorite of mine, Edith. Of course, he is very nice, and—gentlemanly, not to say distinguished. And everybody says he is very clever—"

"Yes, everybody admires him, and nobody likes him; his case and mine are somewhat similar; perhaps that is why I—pity him!"

Mrs. Drayton looked at her with the anxious, puzzled twinkling of her eyebrows.

"I never heard anything against him, but—who is he, Edith?"

"A Revel, one of the oldest families in England, and connected with one of the oldest and the richest—the Farintoshes. Unfortunately, the Revels are poor, and the Farintoshes rich. He might have been a Farintosh—"

"—an earl, a marquis—but the present marquis unkindly married, and there is a son."

While she has been speaking, Mrs. Drayton has taken up a peering, and rapidly turned over its leaves.

"Yes, yes! I see! And Mr. Clifford Revel is as near as that? But this son—Lord Edgar Fane is his title—"

"The same, dear mother," wearily, absent.

Four Good Lessons to Remember

First—Once your kidneys are affected, chronic complaints are sure to follow—if you don't remove the cause immediately.

Second—You can't neglect kidney or bladder derangements and stay healthy. Fasting off will never cure. You must assist Nature.

Third—The symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble—the commonest symptoms—are: Pains in the back and sides, swollen joints, painful urination, brick dust deposits, and constant headaches or dizziness.

Fourth—The sure and safe remedy for all afflictions caused by weak or deranged kidneys is GIN PILLS.

Gin Pills have been the means of restoring thousands of chronic sufferers to health and strength again. If you suffer from kidney or bladder troubles—use GIN PILLS. They seldom fail to bring relief.

Read what GIN PILLS did for Mr. James Stackhouse, of Toronto. Mr. Stackhouse became convinced that he was in for an attack of kidney trouble. Although subjected to X-ray treatment, the cause could not be located. Finally he was forced to leave his work and go to a hospital. His place was filled by another, as he never expected to go to work again.

Five boxes of GIN PILLS put him on his feet again, and to-day he is physically fit again and ready for work.

Sold everywhere for 50c a box. A free sample on request by writing to The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ontario. U. S. residents should address N. D. Co., Inc., 208 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

"It is an enormous estate," muses Mrs. Drayton, reading the page and a half which is devoted to recording the history of the noble Farintosh family. "Enormous! And—and the titles! There are a score of them! It is an English marquise. Poor Mr. Clifford Revel! It must be dreadful to be so near, and yet so far—"

"Like the song," says Edith, mockingly. "But I am nearly tired of the work for to-night, or this morning, mother; and you—you look worn out. Let us go to bed, and dream that an earl, or a marquis, or a duke is proposing for my hand, and that I am trying on a coronet."

Mrs. Drayton closes the book, but she keeps her fingers shut in between the pages, and looks down at the floor in meditation.

Then she looks up, and, finding the dark eyes watching her curiously, lowers her own, suddenly and nervously.

"Does—does Mr. Revel ever mention his name—this young Lord Edgar's?" she asks, with an affectation of carelessness that does not impose upon her companion in the slightest degree.

"Oh, yes," she answers, leaning back, and resting her head upon her white arms—another study for a picture—the raven hair on the snow-white limbs. "Oh, yes; once or twice he has mentioned him, in the tone that lightly veiled the curse."

"My dear Edith!"

"The words are the poet's, not mine, mother. Why do you ask?"

"Nothing, my dear—simply curiosity."

"Simply curiosity at this hour of the morning, and after such a night's work, is little short of marvelous, mother."

"And—does he see much of him do you think?"

"I have never thought about it. Now that I do think, it occurs to me that they must hate each other like poison; at any rate, that Mr. Clifford Revel must hate this boy—"

"My dear, he is a young man—over twenty."

"You called him a boy yourself just now."

"Did I? It was foolish. He is a man quite old enough to marry."

"Which he will do, no doubt, if only to spite Mr. Clifford Revel, unless he breaks his neck. I have heard—Lord Combermere was talking about him to General Rothsay to-night, in one of his stage whispers that can be heard all over the room—and he said—"

"scarcely listened—that Lord Edgar Fane was what is called in novels 'an adventurous spirit,' fond of danger, with a capital 'D.'"

"Where does he live?" demanded Mrs. Drayton.

Edith laughed.

"Your curiosity is comprehensive, mother. Where does this fortunate heir to a marquise and one, two, three hundred thousand a year reside? I know not. In one of his numerous castles, abbeys, halls, mansions."

"Perhaps he is in town, Edith. If so—if so, it would only be polite to—"

to ask him to accompany his cousin to one of our little evenings—"

The girl arose to her full height, and looked down, with a smile—an awful smile of dark, mocking beauty—upon the pale, anxious, weakly astute face, and laughed—laughed with a soft, half scornful laugh, that made Mrs. Drayton shiver.

"Certainly, my dear mother! How long you have been coming to the point! I have been waiting for it for the last five minutes! Certainly! What more natural than that we should invite our friend Mr. Revel's cousin to one of our little dinners, soirees, at home; what more natural than that he should come? It is still not unreasonable to imagine that, coming, he see the great beauty, Miss Edith Drayton, and falls in love with her. Still pursuing our theme, we see him—he must marry, you know—laying his coronet, his marquise, his one, two, three hundred thousand a year, his castles, abbeys, and mansions at her feet, and—"

Look, mother!" and, with a sudden gesture, the white hands point to the white, peerless brow. "Do you see the coronet? No! Let me look!" She goes to the glass, and stands before it for a moment, then turns, and—pale and grave, with a far-away expression in her eyes—almost prophetic, says, slowly:

"Yes, I see it! I see it! There must be some future Marchioness of Farintosh—why should she not be me? Go, mother, and leave me to dream of it!"

Mrs. Drayton arose, without a word, kissed the pale face, and, with a last shiver, glided out.

And miles away, in the sweet country air, all laden with the breath of flowers and pines, Lela Temple lay asleep, and dreaming, too, the moonlight falling on her pure loveliness, as if it claimed it for kith and kin; and her dreams were not of coronets or marquises, but of a handsome, boyish face looking up at her in the starlight—of a deep, musical voice, fearfully, timidly—man's voice though it be—murmuring, softly: "Will you come with me to-morrow?" And, in her sleep, her lips part wistfully, and in an answering murmur whisper "Yes!"

CHAPTER VI. LOVE'S SPELL.

IT is breakfast time in the cloister, as Professor Temple's portion of the Abbey is called, and Lela, sweet and bright as the daisies in the meadows, sits before her neat and shining breakfast equipage, pouring out the cup of cocoa which, with a piece of dry toast, serve the professor for his morning meal.

She is dressed as simply as the daisy I have likened her to, but looks as beautiful and bewitching as she did, in the eyes of Lord Edgar, in the cream-colored gown. For a wonder, this morning, she is not humming her favorite air, "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning;" for a great wonder, she has no book in front of her.

The professor has, as usual, three or four scientific papers and a volume of Virgil around his plate and propped up against his tea-cup. He doesn't notice Lela's unnatural abstinence from song—does not notice that she is peculiarly quiet, and that she glances now and again at his face with a wistful, half timid look that is utterly novel to her.

It is to be doubted whether he

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat, flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Godden, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat, flashes, nervousness, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

Oh, How I Itched!

What long nerve-racking days of constant torture—what sleepless nights of terrible agony—itch-itch-itch—CONSTANT ITCH, until it seemed that I must TEAR OFF MY VERY SKIN—then INSTANT RELIEF—my skin cooled, soothed and healed!

The very first drops of D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema, the wonderful new skin discovery, stopped that awful itch instantly; yes, the very moment D. D. D. touched the burning skin, the torture ceased. A single bottle proves it.

For instant relief from that Itch, get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold everywhere.

would notice it if she came down to breakfast wearing one of his old coats.

Presently she sighs and colors faintly, and rattles the teacup against the saucer; but he does not look up, and continues munching his crust, his eyes and mind fixed on the scientific treatise; then, in despair, she says: "Grandpapa?"

"Eh, my dear? No more cocoa, thank you."

"Very well, grandpapa. What a lovely morning!"

"Yes," he responds, mechanically. "Lovely!" she repeats, ecstatically. "Eh, any better than usual, my dear? Yes, I thought the sun was rather troublesome," and he blinks at the window across the table.

"Troublesome? Grandpapa!"

"Well," he asks, at last, roused to a consciousness that she wants to speak and him to listen. "What is it? Don't ask me what we shall have for dinner to-day, Lela, you know it is never of any use."

"No, I know, dear. I wasn't going to do so; but, grandpapa, now listen to me for a moment. Push the book behind the dish, and then you won't be tempted," and she got up and sat on the arm of his chair, putting her own arm around his neck.

The old man leaned back and patted her hand absently, his eyes following the treatise which she had pushed out of his reach.

"Grandpapa, he asked me to ask you to let me go for a drive with him this morning," she said, a faint color coming into her face, and a strange shyness flickering in her eyes and making them heavy.

"He! Who?" demanded the professor, looking around the room helplessly, as if he expected to see a third person waiting for an answer.

"Who? Why, Lord Edgar, grandpapa."

"Lord Edgar! When—Ah, I remember. Yesterday, of course. Hasn't he gone yet?"

"No, grandpapa; he was here on the terrace last night—and he was very kind. May I go?"

"Go where—for a ride with Lord Edgar? Certainly not! My dear child, have you taken leave of your senses?"

She smiled down at him, the disappointment making itself visible in her eyes and about the drooping mouth.

The professor laughed, in his almost insensible fashion.

"Why, my dear Lela, he would be almost sure to break your neck, and his own included. I have nothing to do with his neck, but I should miss you sadly, my dear. No, it's very kind of Lord Edgar, but I couldn't think of permitting it," and he reached out his hand for the beloved books, as if the subject were done with.

She still kept her arm around his neck, and a little thoughtful smile rose on her face.

"Do you think—are you quite sure that I, or rather, he, is sure to break my neck, grandpapa?" she said.

"Quite, or so nearly sure that I couldn't risk it."

"I can't give him that as a reason, when I tell him I can not go," she said, softly.

DIVIDENDS TWICE A YEAR!

Let us get down to business. Counting 25 working days to a month we have 100 days by the end of July. We need only average 7 engines a day to turn out 700 (and we can do BETTER). After cutting all discounts and sales expenses, the lowest net profit will be $30 per engine. (It will be MORE, but we are talking conservatively). At $30 profit, we can net OVER 20 PER CENT. earnings in four months from now.

Mr. Investor, ask yourself seriously, what is there to hinder us from paying out large dividends twice each year?

ERIOUS SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, April 4.

(Via Reuters.)—Sir Ernest Shackleton, who has lately returned from the Antarctic, interviewed by Reuters, said the position of the Allied northern forces was undoubtedly an anxious one. The Bolsheviks were well equipped, well organized, ably led and largely outnumbered the Allies, hence both the German and Archangel fronts were in danger. It was not merely a question of saving our own troops, for a million people had thrown in their lot with us, consequently there was a moral obligation to take action. An announcement in this connection would be a spear point thrust into the heart of Bolshevism and an incentive to Russian mobilization. Sir Ernest Shackleton was confident that sufficient volunteers could be obtained to meet the situation and urged that the British had not yet realized what was at stake, if the peril was not instantly grappled with, whereas three months' campaign by a volunteer army would break the Bolshevik master which was becoming far worse than German militarism. Grief, indignation and bewilderment are the feelings expressed by the newspapers by the revelation of the position at Murmansk, while it is urged that the peril of the troops is a reason why the Peace Conference must settle its policy toward Russia without delay. It is emphasized that no steps must be neglected to relieve the front. The Times suggests that the best form of relief might be an offensive against Petrograd or Moscow, but as the best way to defend Roumania would be to invade Hungary from the west from the direction of Czechoslovakia.

SERIOUS SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, April 4. (Via Reuter's.)—Sir Ernest Shackleton, who has lately returned from Murmansk and Archangel, interviewed by Reuter's, said the position of the Allied northern forces was unacceptably an anxious one. The Bolsheviks were well equipped, well organized, and largely outnumbered the Allies, hence both the Murmansk and Archangel fronts were in danger. It was not merely a question of saving our own troops, for half a million people had thrown in their lot with us, consequently there was a moral obligation to take action. An announcement in this connection would be a spear point thrust into the heart of Bolshevism and an incentive to Russian mobilization. Sir Ernest Shackleton was confident that sufficient volunteers could be obtained to meet the situation and urged that the British had not yet realized what was at stake, if the peril was not instantly grappled with, whereas three months' campaign by a volunteer army would break the Bolshevik front which was becoming far more than German militarism. Grief, indignation and bewilderment are the feelings expressed by the newspapers by the revelation of the positions at Murmansk, while it is urged that the peril of the troops is a reason why the Peace Conference must settle its policy toward Russia without delay. It is emphasized that no steps must be neglected to relieve the front. The Times suggests that the best form of relief might be an offensive against Petrograd or Moscow, but as the best way to defend Roumania would be to invade Hungary from the west from the direction of Bucharest.

REPORTING BOLSHEVIK LEADERS

BRISBANE, Aus., April 4. (Via Reuter's.)—The military authorities here have initiated proceedings with a view to deporting Communist leaders. The returned soldiers accordingly decided to discontinue anti-Russian demonstrations, pending the Government's reply to resolutions previously mentioned.

AFTER THE BOLSHEVISTS.

BRISBANE, April 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—A labor newspaper which applauded the carrying of a red flag by Russian demonstrators, has had its windows smashed by angry crowds. Russian shops were also damaged. All Brisbane hotels have been closed until further notice. Returned soldiers ### and others have passed strongly worded resolutions, demanding deportation of Bolshevik Russians and sympathisers, including two labor members of Parliament. They also urge that the State Government cease its apathetic attitude towards traitors and that the Commonwealth Government abandon its tolerant attitude otherwise they declare that returned soldiers will take drastic action.

GERMAN MINERS ON STRIKE.

ESSEN, April 3. Despite would-be quieting reports, the strike situation in the Ruhr district has grown distinctly worse in the past few hours until now about half the entire mine personnel is out. The number of men out increased late yesterday afternoon and early today from 58,000 to 110,000. A few mines are still operating in the Boshum district. Many of the mines are threatened with "drowning" because even emergency work has ceased.

ADJUSTING LABOR DIFFICULTIES

LONDON, April 4. An optimistic view of the work of the industrial conference comprising representatives of employers and the trade unions of the United Kingdom was expressed at a joint meeting of that body held today to discuss a secret report made by the committee of that had been appointed to make recommendations as to an adjustment of the outstanding difficulties. Arthur Henderson, the labor leader, in speaking of the result of the deliberations, said "we got along well, we do not want any disagreement." While Sir Alan Macgregor, chairman of the managing committee of the Engineering Employers' Federation said the employers were prepared to honor the report immediately the trade union accepted it.

WILSON ILL.

PARIS, April 4. President Wilson has a fair degree of fever, although just what his temperature is has not been revealed. Except on question of the greatest importance, no one is permitted to enter the President's room. Members of the Supreme Council and representatives of other governments sent inquiries to the White House regarding the President's condition.

SHIFTING THEIR QUARTERS.

MUNICH, April 3. Further manifestation of the movement which is spreading among many of the better classes in Munich and other parts of Bavaria, was the information here today of the Coun### cil of Immigration under the auspices of the League of South American Emigrants. Many people are preparing to leave the cities and settle in the rural districts or in other German states.

VALOR REWARDED.

LONDON, April 4. The King today invested with the Victoria Cross Capt. Coulson Mitchell of the Engineers, who on October 31st last at the Canal near Cambrai, led a small party in advance of the first wave of infantry to save the canal bridges, and under heavy barrage cut a number of lead wires. In the attack on another bridge, he killed three and captured twelve of the enemy.

SMUTS AS INVESTIGATOR.

PARIS, April 4. (Via Reuter's.)—The papers here anticipate that General Smuts beside investigating armistice problems in Hungary will undertake a general enquiry into the political, social, military and economical standpoints.

NOTABLE BUDGET.

LONDON, April 4. It is expected that the budget which will be introduced soon after Easter will be notable for the first installment of imperial preference. The Times says that the Government is desirous of beginning with customs' duties and will add twopenny on the pound of tea to foreign countries.

GERMANY'S LIMITED FORCES.

PARIS, April 4. The proposed limitation of German armaments has at present for the Germans largely an academic interest, as the dependable forces which the state and private enterprises have been able to raise by an incessant advertising campaign and offers of good pay and bonuses to volunteers do not reach the lowest figures mentioned in reports as to the size of the army to be allowed Germany by the Peace Conference. According to the latest advices from German sources the Socialists, in addition, retain their old objection to militarism and are not enthusiastic about even the proposed popular militia on the Swiss model.

THE DANZIG QUESTION.

PARIS, April 4. Marshal Foch is expected to arrive from Spa tomorrow. No word has yet been received in Paris respecting the negotiations with the Germans over the landing of Polish troops at Danzig.

THE PEACE TREATY.

PARIS, April 4. The opinion was expressed to-night by a responsible British authority that the Peace treaty would be ready for signature by Wednesday next.

TROUBLE AT KRUPP WORKS.

BERNE, April 4. A general strike has been begun at the Krupp works where the employees cannot agree with the employers on the question of wages, according to a report from Essen. The men say they will stay out until their demands have been conceded.

The Majestic.

Bobbie Burns' immortal poem, "Tam O' Shanter," pictureized and screened at the Majestic Theatre, brought nearly every lover of the great Scotsman to the Majestic last evening. Expressions of enthusiastic praise were heard from all sides, and there was absolutely no doubt at all as to the nature of the reception "Tam O' Shanter" received. The big 5-reel film, "The Fight," also was well liked and viewed with much interest. The story deals with a woman's fight for the mayoralty of a large city. The political crooks and rogues, with their bribery and corruption, were opposed to her, and it was they she had mainly to fight. Needless to state, her cleverness and strong personality, won her the victory. Both these pictures are teeming with interest and striking scenes, and will be seen to-night by those who were unable to attend last night, with pleasure and enjoyment.

Misplaced Tolerance.

The seamen of a Union-Castle liner have decided, with Burke, that there is a limit at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue. Two pictures are held up before them. In the one they see South Africa, in virtue of its position in the British Empire, absolute mistress in her own house, more prosperous than she has ever been, with a Government enjoying, individually and collectively, special prestige in the world at large. In the other, drawn by General Hertzog and his Nationalists, they are asked to recognise a State founded on violence and robbery, wholly lacking freedom, liberty, and righteousness. The two pictures are incompatible, and in their rough-and-ready way the seamen decided that they would have nothing to do with a monstrous calculator of Great Britain. It so happened that General Hertzog intended to sail to Europe by that vessel with a deputation to the Paris Conference to request that South Africa might be taken away from the British Empire and its own elected Government and handed over to him. With a rare sense of humour, for which he alone appears to have been responsible, the Admiral at Simonstown offered the deputation a free passage on a British cruiser. General Hertzog at first refused to contribute to the gaiety of nations, and is understood to have appealed to a Portuguese shipping company to take him seriously, and to France. On second thoughts, however, he seems to have accepted the Admiral's order. South Africa can well spare him for a season, or longer. If ridicule does not kill the Republican movement, it will be of interest to watch the effect upon it of the return to South Africa of General Botha and General Smuts, with the fruits that they will have garnered in Paris.—United Empire Magazine.

Communism and Labor.

Communism may be defined under two heads, (1) as that system of social organization in which goods are held in common, and (2) the theory or system of social organization involving common ownership of the agents of production, and some approach to equality in the distribution of the products of industry. The popular use of the words conforms to the latter definition. In use, scientific socialism quickly developed and eventually superseded communism in its political sense. The social nature of the new organization gave it at once a place in the life of the people, and its incursions into economic realms, at once affected capital, which ever on the look out for a possible rival, discovered a powerful foe in Socialism and its creed of equality.

The purpose of the present article is to show, briefly, the influence of Communism of labor, the subject coming within the purview of the series already, and to be, written on the various phases of labor and its ancient and honorable character. Leading economists agree that communism does not avail itself sufficiently of the motive of self interest in order to obtain from each laborer the best and most finished form of production of which he is capable. In Communist circles, it is urged that a man's industry does not belong to himself solely, but to the community of which he is a member, hence, it can easily be assumed that each individual laborer will not throw into his work the same amount of energy and zeal as he would were the results of his labor to benefit himself alone, consequently the volume of work produced is not so great as it could be, because the man is part of a whole and not his own sole beneficiary. If married, he is not working for his family only, but in order that every family may receive a proportion of the fruits of his toil. If single, and a better worker than his neighbor, also single, he does not benefit by his extra capability, because the man who is less productive shares equally in the output of the more energetic. This naturally does not create that desire for competition which is the success of industrial craftsmanship. Self interest is the incentive by which every man is anxious to get the best possible return for his labor and service. It is the motive power of the whole machinery of industry. Communism, with its share and share alike, checks production. It does not stimulate the worker for the reason that he has no self interest in his work. And yet it might be argued that the more that is produced the more will be received. That may be quite true, but it is at the expense of the hustler, for the drone is on exactly the same basis in his weekly receipts as the eager worker. Were there an arrangement by which each individual worker would receive only as his output warranted it would perhaps speed up the slackers, but on the other hand it would be destructive of the communistic spirit. Communism is too ideal as yet for the present age. We have to get further into time ere there will be a universal settling down into the principles of equality in the division of earnings. Competition is rife everywhere and the age is too hard, the race for existence too strenuous to permit us to enter into that idyllic state which would be the solution of all the problems that affect the earning and eating of our daily bread.

Observed at the House.

Yesterday Mr. Downey (St. George's), spoke quite lengthily on the bad road system, and poor agricultural policy, adding weight to the latter by saying some farmers had given up the land altogether for want of encouragement or words to the same effect. A nice time indeed to talk of improving roads and agricultural methods. We ask the gentleman for St. George's why he did not use some of his flowery eloquence earlier in order to better the things in question? In fact Mr. Downey almost gave his conferees away when he said the present condition did no credit to somebody (note the hesitation).

Mr. A. B. Morine spoke very strongly in support of the resumption of the old Bonavista Bay Steamship route, saying that it was utterly unfair to the people of the bottom of Bonavista Bay that they should be neglected, for the benefits of any other organization or class.

We note that the Minister of Militia has already started preparing the special list of voters called for. We give it unhesitatingly that the said work is the quickest ever performed by the Militia Department, and we presume he is relying upon his excessive speed in this matter for a return to power. It's almost a pity to disillusion the gentleman but betta come boy, gotta come.

It was rather amusing yesterday evening to note some of the Government members indulging their ready propensities in the House, and that too while the Premier was speaking. Ye Gods! Was there ever such an exhibition of disrespect to a leader of such world wide renown?

Diana's Turnout.

The Diana finished discharging yesterday morning, her complete turnout being 56 young harks, 9 old harks, 1546 young hoods, 1251 old hoods and 16 bedlamers, a total of 2878 seals, weighing 123 tons, 3 cwt., 1 qr., 10 lbs. gross, and 110 tons, 7 cwt., 3 qrs., 15 lbs. net. The gross value of the catch is $14,467.16, and net, $14,092.26. The crew of 151 men shared $30.90 each. The average weight of the young harks was 40 1/2 lbs.

"Cape Breton's" Boiler Explodes Off Cape Spear -- Steamers Rush to Assistance With Doctors and Nurses.

A wireless received by the Minister of Shipping before noon to-day told that the S. S. Cape Breton had suffered an accident shortly before, when a short distance off Cape Spear. Mr. Crosbie immediately got busy and the D. P. Ingraham left port about 12 o'clock for the scene of the accident, taking Doctor Campbell, several nurses and supplies for injured persons. About three-quarters of an hour afterwards Hon. J. C. Crosbie left in his whaling steamer, also to render any aid possible. The Cape Breton's boiler blew up and it is reported that many of the crew are so mangled and injured as to be suffering frightful pain, and the news of deaths having occurred is expected every minute. The Cape Breton landed a cargo of coal here yesterday.

Public Meeting Casino Theatre, Monday Evening, 7.45, for the purpose of Presenting to the Governor a set of Petitions passed at last evening's meeting.

Bond May Come Out. It is rumored around town to-day, that in view of the resolutions passed unanimously at the Casino last night, to request the extension of Polling Day till late in May, that Sir Robert may decide to lead the party of the Opposition if that request is granted. We need not point out that this request, which is backed up by the majority of the people of St. John's, and also by all the people of the outports, will most probably be concurred in by His Excellency. This three weeks' extension gives the Opposition the fighting chance necessary to ensure a more than doubtful success, and with Sir Robert again at the helm who can for a moment doubt the issue? Well might the Nationalists tremble, and bemoan their past culpability. They see too late and repent their folly, now the time of vengeance is near. They merely keep up their character by belittling and vilifying the doings of the people who are tired of and disgusted with the present administration.

Painful Accident. A couple of days ago Mr. Albert Thorne, carpenter, working at Reid's, met with a very painful accident when he was struck in the eye by a piece of nail. The doctor having been summoned the patient was ordered to bed for two or three days. He is improved somewhat now, but the accident very nearly resulted in the permanent loss of sight in the injured optic.

Deputation Received. We are informed that the deputation of twelve appointed at the Casino last night to call on His Excellency did so to-day at noon. Mr. F. Moore was Chairman, and Mr. E. B. Harris, Secretary of the Deputation. His Excellency informed the committee that he would meet a deputation at 9 o'clock Monday night in order to listen to the resolution that was unanimously passed at the Casino last night.

Congratulations. We desire to extend hearty congratulations to Mr. J. E. P. Peters, who celebrates to-day the 80th anniversary of his birth. Mr. Peters is a highly esteemed citizen of this city and we hope time will deal so leniently to him that it will be our pleasure to offer him many more birthday congratulations.

Sneak Thief Busy. This morning, a poor outport woman went to the East End Post Office to post a letter, and after putting on the stamp, she left her purse containing about four dollars, on the desk, and went forward to put her letter through the slot. On returning to the desk her purse and contents had disappeared, and it is to be hoped that the sneak thief who purloined the poor woman's money will be found out. Nobody but the most depraved specimen of human nature would have committed such an act towards such a poor person, the loss of which she sadly mourns.

There were upwards of 1200 persons on the present, including some of the most prominent people of the city. Mr. Kelly spoke very appealingly to the audience, setting out the reason why a meeting was called, and asking immediate opinions on the question of organizing an opposition. Mr. A. ### People's Verdict Expressed Last Night-- Organize and Fight Government--Resolutions of Protest Adopted -- A Most Wonderful Demonstration.

In spite of anything and everything government papers may state to the contrary, last night's meeting at the Casino was representative of the feeling of dissatisfaction and discontent now reigning in St. John's. There were upwards of 1200 persons of all ages present, including some of the most prominent people of the city. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing an opposition to the Government, and the mass of people who attended, was proof positive that the present holders of office will have to fight hard to retain their positions.

Mr. A. English then spoke, giving his opinion that the whole country was ready to fight the present party and so bring in another era of Government. Ex-Sergt. J. Robinson then declared that it was time an opposition was formed to fight, and to try and make things better in our island. Mr. Fred Moore also spoke very strongly of the need of an opposition. Mr. Frank Murphy, of Placentia, stated that the District of Placentia and St. Mary's were prepared for a strong opposition party. Mr. Fred Ayre and Mr. Will Knowling promised their support toward the dismemberment and defeat of the present Government. Dr. J. S. Taft was another of the speakers, strongly in favor of an opposition, and there were numerous others, and the voice of one and all was in accord that opposition should be organized at once. As evidence of this, a committee of 150 were appointed to organize the opposing party. The resolution to organize was carried unanimously; there was ONE dissenting voice. The committee was then appointed as follows:

- John Davey, Thomas Dunne, Fred Moore, John Nangle, John O'Neill, Charles Power, Moses Wellman, Frank Wellman, B. B. Harris, Capt. Bill Dawe, S. Bradbury, Dr. Taft, Levi Chafe, Geo. resolution passed will be submitted. The intention of the Committee is to have a public meeting on Monday night next and assemble at the Casino Theatre, and afterwards move in a body to Government House grounds where the request of the meeting will be laid before His Excellency. The resolutions proposed and adopted last night were:

shall represent them in the Government of the country. AND WHEREAS the very foundations of Government rest upon the freedom and purity of elections. BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the citizens of St. John's in public meeting assembled do strongly and in the most emphatic manner protest against the holding of a General Election next month, as the holding of same under conditions as now exist will mean the disenfranchisement of thousands of electors throughout the Island thereby destroying the freedom of election so essential to the proper Government of the country. BE IT ALSO RESOLVED that a copy of these resolutions be presented to His Excellency the Governor and both branches of the Legislature. AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that should it be necessary in the interest of the country that an election be held in the month of May next, that His Excellency the Governor be asked to exercise the powers given him under the Election Act by which he is enabled to fix the date of nomination and that such date be not earlier than the 16th day of May next. The general meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which a committee meeting was held, to devise ways and means.

At the House.

(Yesterday.)
Petitions were presented by Mr. [Name] from the South side of Trinity Bay for railway extension; from [Name] and New Harbor for roads; Mr. Abbott, from Openhall, Bayly's Cove, etc., on local affairs; by Mr. [Name] from St. George's, for roads; by Mr. Morine from Port Blandford, Openhall, King's Cove, etc., protesting against the alteration in the [Name] route. The railway petitions brought forth further comment from Messrs. Woodford and Downey. The Bill to amend the Election Act came up for second reading. The Minister (Rt. Hon. Dr. W. F. Lloyd), briefly explained its provisions which made the voters' list taken in 1917 valid; permits all soldiers and sailors who have been overseas to vote, and delays the election in St. Barbe till some time in June. Mr. Morine (Bonavista), pointed out that he had already given his reasons why he thought the election should be deferred, and as extended debate would not alter the Government's view, suggested that to save time the Bill should be put through all its stages to-day. When the Bill went into the committee stage, Mr. Walsh (Placentia) raised the point that the soldiers who had volunteered but did not go overseas should be given the vote as well as those who had done their part. He raised no objection to the election; indeed he had been prepared for it since 1917, when it should have been held, and he thought that the people were ready for it. If not it was a grave reflection on the public spirit of the country. Mr. Currie (Burin), saw the need of making some distinction in favor of those who had gone overseas, and rather favored the Bill in that respect. He contended, however, that some sort of provision should be made for the large number of men still overseas, as it would be very unfair to disfranchise them. The Premier had stated that an effort was being made to bring them home in time, and he believed nothing would be lost if the date of the election was deferred till late in May so as to ensure the returning men their right to vote. The Premier stated that the date of the election has not been decided on. The Government could not agree with Mr. Walsh's suggestion. Mr. Woodford (St. George's), and Mr. Downey (St. George's), approved an early election. Following the passing of the Election Act, the House went into Committee on Supply, and the Minister of Finance, Mr. Cashin, introduced resolutions covering a vote of forty-five thousand dollars for election expenses. In introducing the resolutions he contended that the election was made necessary by the action of the Legislative Council in setting April 28th as the time when the life of Parliament should end. He also pointed out that there were many big questions to be handled, which made a new mandate from the people necessary. Among them was the provision for a new loan to cover that borrowed in the United States three years ago and which must be met by June 30th. He held that an election was needed to give the authority necessary for raising such a loan. Mr. Currie (Burin), was surprised to hear Mr. Cashin take this stand. It was only "throwing dust in the eyes of the people." The necessary arrangement no doubt, had already been made. The Minister had recently been in Canada and made the arrangements. The Canadian press had stated that he was there for that purpose. At any rate, the House was now in session and could pass the necessary legislation for raising this loan at once, without further authority from the people. The Minister denied that he had negotiated a loan while in Canada, though he had discussed it with prominent financiers. The vote was then moved. Mr. Currie asked the following questions:— What salaries are paid to the Chairman and other members of the Pension Board, individually, also a detailed account of the expenses incurred by the Chairman of said Board during his trip to Ottawa to study the Canadian pension scheme. For a detailed account of the expenses of the Food Control Board, together with salaries paid to members, and a detailed amount of collections made by the said Board. What salary was paid to Capt. John Lewis for acting as Fishery Representative abroad, also a detailed account of money paid to him for expenses. The cost of fitting up the Bumpers

"CLUMSY FORGER."

"He worked with the R. N. Co. for a short period for which he was paid a cheque of $5.00. He erased his own name and wrote that of George White, also rubbed out the $5.00 figures and raised the cheque to $400.90, but did not alter the amount in writing." He did not alter the amount in writing, because this portion of the cheque was written with a PROTECTOGRAPH CHEQUE WRITER and therefore could not possibly be altered. Were this not the case the written amount would have been altered, the cheque cashed, the culprit missing and the company who signed the cheque short $395.90 in their cash. Remember the Bank is not responsible in the case of a raised cheque. If the firm mentioned above did not have a cheque writer they would buy one to-day. Will you wait until your cheque is raised or will you order one to-day? You pay Fire Insurance year after year, why not pay for a Protectograph Cheque Writer and insure your Bank Account for always. Newfoundland is virgin territory for the cheque raiser. It is a profitable business. Guard against it. Buy it to-day, we will deliver it. You may pay for it to-morrow, and not get it.

Mr. Walsh gave notice of a question regarding Old Age Pensions, after which the House adjourned till Monday.

Fashions and Fads.

Panelled frocks are plentiful. A hat of lack Milan has a brim of lace. Box-pleated skirts are great favorites. Discolored revers appear on fitted bodices. Sports suits are being made in velvet. Delicate blouses rely on lace as trimming. The double train has not lost its popularity. The sweater has adopted the very wide girdle. Butterfly bows adorn the fronts of chic hats. Jade green is a favorite color for indoor dresses. Evening gowns rarely boast backs to their waists. Oval necklines are favored for the one-piece dresses. One sees hats with feathers laid flat on the crown. A new flare tunic appears on short dinner gowns. Cross tucking is a novel way of trimming a garment. "Why is the price of smoked halibut up to 55 cents a pound?" queries the Boston Globe, and at the same time asks: "Has there been any increase in the cost of smoke?"

An idea was back of Big Ben's success. That same idea is back of every Westclox alarm to make good clocks, to make them accurate, serviceable, dependable.

When you find the trade mark Westclox on the dial of an alarm, you have found a quality clock.

It means that the clock has the patented Westclox construction. Needle-fine pivots of polished steel greatly reduce friction.

Before it leaves the factory, every Westclox alarm has to pass several rigid tests and inspections.

MUD.

There are many kinds of mud, we understand. Personally, we would be pleased if there was no mud—definitely none, we mean. We feel the entire and undivided population of this city agrees with us in this. A stronger word than dislike should be used, for our sentiments, as mud is concerned, are so vigorous as to be quite unprintable. We believe that some enterprising politician should introduce a Bill at the House of Assembly for the prohibition of mud. In fact, a party make it the chief item of its platform. How imposing it would be the prohibition of mud! As we can gather, the only people in favor of mud are the boot makers. With that mixture gone, sales would go down to zero, who knows—might even disappear altogether. However, as we do share in any of the boot, we would not mind that little mud, and would give our unreserved and powerful influence to the

AND BLATCHFORD IS RIGHT.

It is not healthy for young people to be brought up to do nothing but spend money and hunt for excitement. It is not good for young or old to have unlimited wealth and leisure. It is not good for men, nor women, nor children, to be flattered and fawned upon. Plunketism and slavery degrade and debase the master as well as the servant; the snob lord, as well as the snob lackey.—Robert Blatchford.

JUST COULDN'T SPARE THE TIME.

A negro was up for registration as a voter, and the clerk asked him: "Now, Mose, who is President of the United States?" "Massa Wilson," was the reply. "And the Vice President?" was the next. "Massa Marshall. Oh, I know, sah," replied the negro. "Well, now, if the President should be shot, who would become President?" "Massa Marshall, sah." "Could you be President, Mose?" "No, sah," the negro quickly replied. "Well, why not? Just think now," asked the officer. "Well, sah," replied Mose, bowing to the examination board, "it's very kind ob you gemmen, but if you wud only 'scuse me, sah, I's really very, very busy with ma cotton, sah, jus' now."

AN EXCITING VOYAGE.

During his lonely voyage of 46,000 miles in his nine-ton sloop, the Spray, Captain Slocum was chased by a piratical Moorish felucca, which was luckily disabled just in time by a storm. He was nearly wrecked off the coast of Uruguay, and had an exciting escape from Indians in another part of America. He visited Robinson Crusoe's island, and found it a very delightful spot, though he was not sufficiently in love with loneliness to spend the rest of his life there. Captain Slocum's only "chronometer" during his journey was a tin clock, for which he paid a dollar (about four shillings).

WAR IS —

The warrior's name, The pealed and chimed on all the tongues of fame, Sounds less harmonious to the grateful mind Than he who fashions and improves mankind.—Barlow.

BEGAN YOUNG.

Blondin began to toddle across a rope when he was four. At the age of eight he performed before the King of Italy.

SOME SHELL THIS.

Private Jenkins, home from France, was seated in the village inn one evening surrounded by a group of admirers.

"I suppose," said old Farmer Muzel, "ye had some narrow escapes out yonder?"

"Well," answered Tommy, "nothing to speak of much, but I remember one night I felt like a drink, so I goes down to the estaminet. I'd just got me 'and on the doorknob, when just then old Fritz sent one of 'is big ones over right on the house, and, believe me, it knocked the 'ole blooming show down and left me standing there, silly like, with the knob of the door in me 'and."

JACK SHEPPARD.

Jack Sheppard was an English criminal who made himself notorious in the early part of the eighteenth century by his daring robberies and his sensational escapes from Newgate Prison. He was hanged at Tyburn, 1724. Two hundred thousand people turned out to witness the execution. Jack Sheppard is the hero of a well known novel by W. Harrison Ainsworth.

The best part of a war is its end.

"Is the city doing all it ought to?" reduced to its lowest terms, equals, "Am I doing all I ought to as a citizen?"

The postmen in Portugal save themselves much walking on Sundays by delivering letters at church.

WHAT DIPLOMACY DOES.

Magistrate: "It's very disgraceful that you should beat your wife."

Prisoner: "Well, your honour, she aggravated me by keepin' on sayin' she'd 'av' me up before that bald-headed old humbug, meanin' yer honour."

Magistrate: "You're discharged."

WE WON'T BE HERE THEN.

Mr. T. A. Edison, the famous inventor, takes a cheerful view of the future of humanity.

"There will be no poverty in the world a hundred years hence," he once declared. "There is no limit to the cheapness with which things can be made, and the world will soon be flooded with the cheap products of machinery—not poor products but cheap products. Why, then, should we expect poverty to continue? Poverty was for a world that used only its hands; now that men have begun to use their brains, poverty is decreasing."

Make your will.—C.E.

Our cook has left us. This is the hundred and fiftieth to leave us within a year. Can you suggest a means whereby I can keep a cook?—Worried Housekeeper.

Glad you enquired, W. H. All you have to do when you get a cook is to make over the house to her; give her the automobile, making the proviso, however, that you be allowed to use it twice a month; make your will in her favor; let her eat with you; give her the best bedroom; guarantee her seven nights free each week, and every Sunday; an extra holiday in the middle of the week would do no harm; allow her to receive her young man in the parlour; give her three assistants; call her "Miss"; allow her to use the piano whenever she feels like it. In addition, treat her with the utmost respect, and above all, NEVER COMPLAIN OF THE COOKING. By faithfully following these suggestions you will be enabled to keep a cook for a month.—C.E.

Girls! Girls! Try It, Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

Laughter means life—it stirs up the vitality of the whole body.

More miners die of consumption than are killed by mine accidents.

More fatal tram accidents happen on Sunday than on any other day.

Bolting to death used to be a form of capital punishment in England.

Although ridiculed as a crasse it is a scientific fact that sour milk helps to longevity.

Horses have been known to live to forty years, dogs to twenty-two, and ants to fifteen.

There are three times as many women centenarians as men in the United Kingdom.

Tetotalers live, on an average, 6 1/2 years longer than moderate drinkers, and eleven years longer than heavy drinkers.

Scientists say that we are never nearer death than when we sneeze, the act causing a momentary convulsion of the brain.

Caproni's Airplane Plan

Paris, Monday.—A mail and passenger air-service is about to be opened by Signor Caproni between Rome, Naples, Palermo, and Brindisi. Two types of Caproni planes will be used: a 450-h.p. biplane for 12 passengers, and a 600-h.p. triplane for 26 passengers.

Signor Caproni, who is now in Paris, is a great believer in bigger aeroplanes. He says he is building one four times as large as the biggest he has at present—his 600-h.p. triplane.

He is taking great interest in the Transatlantic flight, for which a Daily Mail prize of £10,000 awaits the first across. He himself does not intend to make an attempt till next year, when his new machine will be ready to cross from Ireland to Newfoundland.

"I am quite sure the Atlantic will be crossed this year," he says. "Why not? Naturally it will not be plain sailing. The enterprise has its risks, and it needs to be well planned and backed by sufficient means and Government interest. Ships must space the distance, and that means money." —Daily Mail.

Buick
MOTOR CARS

Make your Motoring season an enjoyable one by owning the Car that all other motorists look upon with envy—the Buick Six is the most envied car in St. John's.

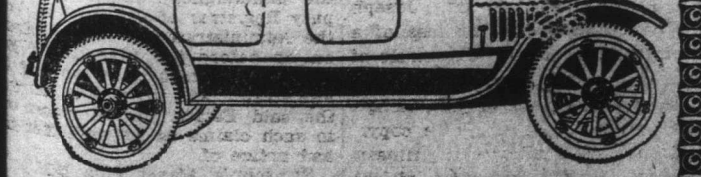

The Buick is always ready to take you anywhere you desire to go—it never falters.

When you press the starting pedal of the Buick, you are assured immediate response—the Delco starter is always on the job to turn over your engine every time you require it.

Buick Cars are luxuriously equipped, and upholstered in genuine black leather—no imitation. Strength of construction is an inherent quality of all Buicks. With the new Sixty Horsepower Valve in Head engine sixty miles an hour is easily accomplished, besides hills are made short work of.

A new and valuable feature is the entirely enclosed valves and engine, thus keeping out all grit and dust and giving longer life to the car, consequently the Engine is noiseless.

We shall be happy to let you look over our 1919 Buick Six which recently arrived—you will be convinced why it is the most envied car once you have examined it.
