FARM FOR SALE!

A LITTLE GLAD FOR HIM. Blinded windows, sobs and tear-staine faces, And a shrouded baby on a bed; Round the room a tiny maiden paces, Chanting softly, "Little brother's dead. All his pain is gone, so still he sleeps; Jesus Christ our little baby keeps.

Bade her hush her song for includes sake,"
Tried the tale of death and loss to teach her:
Empty cot, wet eyes, and hearts that ache,
Pretty baby buried in the ground,
Father, mother, sister, weeping round.

And the maiden listened, wide-eyed, paling
In the dreary chill of churchyard lore;
Then she pleaded (the child-faith not failing),
"Yes, I know I shan't see baby more;
But—he's one of God's own cherubim;
Mayn't I be a little glad for him?" Oh babe-lips, touched lately by the Maker, How ye shame us poor half hearted men! We, who know death makes our dead partaker
Of a joy beyond our farthest ken,
Yet bewail our loss, till faith grows dim;
Can't we be "a little glad for him?"

-The various trade organizations of the parently much in favor of free trade relaions with Canada and are bringing their influence to bear on the United States commission appointed for the Quebec conference, to induce them to favor the project. Canada is undoubtedly willing to arrange a fairer and broader basis of reciprocal trade and there is a probability that the long looked for "free trade" may result. There is no use, however, in being too sanguine that the hoped for change is at hand. The trade organizations of the Republic may not hold the key to the situation. United take it, have all along been in favor of free trades, but the farmers have held different views. In Canada the farmers are willing to take their chances across a levelled cusnot. Directly opposite conditions prevail in the two countries. In the one the manufacturers are so thoroughly established that they do not fear competition in their home market, especially from a weak rival, and are anxious to gain access to the Canadian market. In Canada the manufacturers have hitherto been practically confined to a market of four million people, and with their business governed by the demands of that manufacturers who are prepared to cater to manufacturers who are prepared to cater to seventy millions of people and, under free trade or reciprocity in manufactures could enter the new market with superior facilities for navigation closes. ter the new market with superior facilities for increased trade and probably control it. On theother hand, the United States farmer has a and fears competition from his Canadian acreage an hundred fold. So we find that the Yankee farmer is afraid of the Canadian, and the Canadian manufacturer is afraid of the Yankee; and under these conditions it border customs houses and leave the timid

The fact that the Republic has -A large quai obtained. The fact that the Republic has gained territory and prestige in the conflict need not discredit the original motive. It was a popular war, and the outspoken sympathy of the people urged a reluctant administration to interfere in behalf of an oppressed and long suffering race. The Cubans are now practically free, but even if their champions conclude to exercise a reasonable suzerainty the yoke will not gall as did the old one. The war has made a greater nation of the greatest Republic of the world and her interests are no longer confined to the North American continent. To guard her new possessions a great military and naval expansion must take place that will place the United States easily second among the great powers of the day without having to win victory after victory to secure the position. The peace is welcomed and a great nation is every-where being congratulated on her triumph, while but little sympathy is manifested for Spain in the sudden downfall that has hastened her end after years of decline.

Pearls. Pearls, the costly product of the pearl fish of the Persian gulf, are obtained from the bed of the sea by divers, who bring up as many of the oysterlike shells as they can and then place them in heaps on the shore covered with sand. They are left for several days while the fish decay and the shells open, after which the sand is sifted and the pearls found. They are then cleansed and polished. The value of the pearl depends on its size, roundness, color and brightness. The most renowned pearls were the two which formed sold as meat brought $125,000,000. Why the Blind Do not Smoke.

A peculiarity about blind pecple is that there is seldom one of them who smokes. Soldiers and sailors accustomed to smoking and who have lost their sight in action continue to smoke for a short time, but soon give up the habit. They say it gives them no pleasure when they cannot see the smoke, and some have said that they cannot taste the smoke unless they see it.

The Household.

The happiest households are those that do not let die out the sentiment connected with various anniversaries. Although gift giving r recognition of such events in a suitable way may be out of the question, owing to he straitened circumstances of those within the gates, there can yet be a little air of festivity when mother's or father's birthday omes round or some wedding anniversary is to be celebrated. An extra dish, a little bunch of flowers or some special music pre-pared for the occasion will show the kindly spirit and the loving remembrance that coun more than the money value of any gift. As the children grow up, if these festivals are encouraged, they will have much to look forward to and much more to remember in the years to come when they go out to do battle with the world and find that sentiment is crushed underfoot and affection is regarded only as a side issue. Life is full of beauty if we only know how o gather it into our bins and storehouses. There need not be great wealth nor worldly honor, but a loyal clinging together of parents and children, marked by happenings that have a direct bearing on each one's individual history, will join the circle closer together and

Do not, we beseech you, plead that you are busy or too seriously occupied with worldly affairs to waste time on such trivial matters as birthday parties and wedding elebrations. Such use of time is not a waste and will prove among the sweetest memories another gone to that long rest from which

Joker's Carner.

-While Spurgeon was still a boy preacher, he was warned about a certain virago, and told that she intended to give him a tongue-lashing. "All right," he replied, "but that's a game at which two can play." Not long after, as he passed her gate one morning, she assailed him with a flood of billingsgate He smiled and said, "Yes, thank you, I am quite well; I hope you are the same." Then came another burst of vituperation, pitched in a still higher key, to which he replied, still smiling: "Yes, it does look rather as if it is going to rain; I think I had better be going on." "Bless the man," she exclaimed, he is as deef as a post; what's the use of storming at him?" And so her ravings
