THE SPRINGHILL STRIKE

NO PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT AND THE SITUATION LOOKS GRAPPE-MANY MINERS SEEKING EMPLOYMENT ELSEWHERE.

A Springhill despatch to the Herald says:—Tomorrow will complete seven weeks' strike and there is not the least sign of a settlement. The quietness of the town is remarkable, only three or four arrests for drunkenness since July, and no disturbances of any kind. The town's one policeman is having a great time. Altogether the citizens may well be proud of their home, for it is questionable whether any other mining town of seven thousand population could show such a record for order and peace under similar circumstances. One would expect to find conditions the very opposite to those above referred to prevailing in a place like Springhill, unless you are acquainted with the people.

There used to be an impression abroad that the miners here were an unruly, impetuous lot, who cared nothing for the rights of others so long as force would secure for them whatever they desired. Anyone who associates with them for a little while will very soon find those impressions are imaginary only. The stranger is much impressed with the intelligent and earnest way in which the many intricate points in the present disputes are explained.

One thing above all others stands out very plainly, which is that they have every faith and conviction in the justice of their claims, and determination to win is stamped on every face, and seen in every movement. The streets have a deserted appearance any day, a large number having accepted of the fact that it is unprofitable for all who can do so to go to work. They engage themselves at different places around the province, thus making it comparatively easy to support a few who are not allowed to leave, and who will be at hand to supervise matters as they arise.

The Electric Light Company have just bought culm coal at Pietou, and say the cost of getting the coal into their premises is lower than the cost when they bought coal at Springhill. The fire-wood business is brisk and preparations for winter supplies are going apace.

The merchants take a very grave view of the situation, and see visions of unpaid bills. The people must be fed, and it is the merchants that have to do this, so that they have to feel the effects of this unfortunate strike as much as anybody. The Cumberland Railway and Coal company's officials and mechanics are busy loading all culm along the tracks and storing it near the fire doors. Evidently they are making every preparation for a winter's stand.

REVIVAL OF RUMOR THAT A NEW ENGLAND COMPANY WANTS TO PURCHASE.

(St. John Sun.)
Boston, September 17.—It is reported here that President Miller of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway, which is in control of the Boston and Maine, has made an offer of ten million dollars for the Dominion Atlantic Steamship Line. As the officials here refuse to talk it is impossible to verify the report.

DENIES LINE IS SOLD TO NEW ROAD.

(Boston Daily Tribune.)
Knoxville, N. S., Sept. 18.—General Manager Gillies of the Dominion Atlantic line was interviewed today in reference to the rumored sale of the line to the New Haven road and said there is no foundation whatever for the report. "President Miller will not want our line," he said, "until he has acquired other connecting roads. 'If it for sale' the reporter asked. "Everything is 'for sale' if a high enough bid is made. All I can say now is that ours is not sold. We have a good paying road and something like and we don't think others would like to get possession of it."

TAKE POISON BY MISTAKE

DR. PEPPARD, OF GREAT VILLAGE AND SAMUEL LINDSAY, OF LONDONBERRY STATION, POISONED BY STRYCHNINE ACCIDENTALLY MIXED IN DRINK PUT UP BY THE DOCTOR.

Dr. J. L. Peppard, a prominent physician of Great Village, and Samuel Lindsay, of Londonberry Station, met death by accidental poisoning at the former's home Friday afternoon. The doctor and Mr. Lindsay were engaged harvesting oats. The afternoon was intensely hot and after working for some time both men grew thirsty and went to the doctor's house for a drink of water. As they approached the house the doctor said: "Come into the office and we will have something better than butter-milk." On the shelf were two bottles, one containing strychnine and the other a fruit syrup. The doctor took one of the bottles down and mixed a drink, of which both men partook freely and returned to work. In the hall a few minutes later the doctor, who was driving the horse rake, was seen by his wife to fall from the seat.

Realizing that he had taken poison he called to a boy near by to rush to the house and bring him a drink of mustard and warm water. The boy in the excitement forgot the message and when Mrs. Peppard reached her husband's side he was in the throes of death, and was only able to gasp "I am dying; wrong bottle; how is Lindsay?" and before anything could be done to pass away. In the meantime Lindsay, who was working in another part of the field, became sick and was taken to the house, where he underwent intense suffering until Saturday morning, when he passed away. It is believed that the doctor in mixing the drink for himself and companion took the bottle containing the deadly poison, as they were both alike in size, shape and appearance.

The Mail Order Evil

The fall and winter catalogues of the mail order houses, of Upper Canada, are now being freely distributed over the country. This is one of the growing evils with which the small town and country merchants have to contend. In the past we have repeatedly called attention to the fact that too much money is being sent to the cities, and as far as we know, have had our labor for our pains, other than to create some criticism, which we expect. Every dollar sent to help swell their bank accounts in which they do business. Not a dollar of it ever finds its way back again to any of our country towns in a legitimate business way. They pay no taxes to help keep up our schools and roads, contribute nothing towards the support of our churches or poor, neither do they take any farm produce or part of our churches or poor, neither give any long winded credit in exchange for their goods. It is all a hard money before you see their goods in stores, and yet our farmers expect annually sent to these departments our merchants to pay them a fancy price for their butter, eggs and poultry, for their lumber, wood and shingles, and then they take the money received from our home merchants and send it to a city department store. There is neither economy nor honor in such a manner of doing business. You can write it down in your hat that, as a rule, the city department store will give you no better value than our own home merchants, and our citizens who patronize them, if they would sit right down and think the matter over seriously, would, we believe, come to the conclusion that they are neither loyal nor patriotic in doing so.

And Still They Come

NO FEWER THAN 25 BAPTIST MINISTERS RESIDE IN WOLFVILLE.

Rev. Dr. Manning and family will shortly leave for Wolfville, N. S., where they will reside during the winter. Mr. Manning will resume her studies at Acadia College. A rather curious fact in connection with Dr. Manning's removal to Wolfville, is that the twenty-fifth Baptist minister who will reside in Wolfville this winter. This is rather remarkable considering that Wolfville has only a population of a little over a thousand people.

THE EXHIBITION OVER.

One Cause of Its Success, the Perseverance of Exhibitors.
Unquestionably the recent Toronto Exhibition has been a success. One reason for its growth from year to year rests in the increasing earnestness of the exhibitors to make truly artistic displays. For example, the T. Eaton Company prepared a model home of five rooms that attracted thousands to the Manufacturers' building. Every effort was made, not only to display the home-making goods which the company has for sale, but to provide an artistic ensemble. That this was accomplished cannot be doubted. The drawing-room in particular was most beautiful. The walls were paneled in delicate tints, the silken hangings and the soft rug on the floor were in harmony with the upholstery, and the mahogany furniture was exquisite. To complete the picture the company had selected a magnificent Goulay piano of Sheraton design to stand in the corner of the room. The effect was superb. Everyone knows that the Goulay is the finest piano, both in case and in musical excellence, manufactured in Canada to-day, and the Eaton Company will never be found behind the times. It is announced that a similar display will be made by this firm at the Ottawa Exhibition. For their model drawing-room there also an Art Goulay piano has been selected. In fact, no really tasteful drawing-room is complete without this magnificent instrument.

The Windsor Exhibition

Windsor Tribune.—Large entry lists are coming in for the Fruit, Vegetable and Poultry Show to be held here next month. They are chiefly from Kings and Annapolis counties. Hunters had better look sharp or the bulk of the prizes will flow into the two neighboring counties and the pride of the world, the Avon Valley, will be left lamenting. The Windsor School staff is becoming interested, and many of the children are at work on individual and collective exhibits. The Manual Training and Domestic Science departments will also have good collections. It is expected that the schools throughout this and the other counties will send exhibits. The Exhibition Commission held a meeting Tuesday evening in the Board of Trade rooms to further arrangements. The co-operation of every section in Hants is desired in order to make the forthcoming Exhibition the banner county show of the province.

TERRIFIC GALE OFF NEWFOUNDLAND.

Eleven Vessels Wrecked and Five Lives Lost—Worst Storm in 40 Years.
St. John, Sept. 19.—The worst equinoctial gale recorded here in 40 years, swept the Newfoundland coast today. To-night's reports from fishing towns and settlements showed that five lives had been lost. The storm struck many fishing vessels and eleven schooners and sloops were driven ashore at various points, or foundered at their moorings. A large number of vessels are on their way to Newfoundland from Labrador, where the fishing season closed a few days ago, and it is feared more disasters will be reported.

Boy Shot By His Companion

Houlton, Me., Sept. 18.—A double murder, in which two boys were shot by a boy companion while hunting in the woods, took place on Tuesday afternoon in the woods near Lime-stone, a short distance from here, where the boys all live. They are sons of respectable farmers. Guy and Oscar Downing, brothers, were shot by Guy Tardis, who was with his cousin, Fred Tardis.

The two parties met in the woods three or four times, and each time quarrels between them grew worse. The dispute was as to the right of each party to hunt in the woods near each other's homes. Finally, Guy Downing stood his rifle against the fence and ordered Fred Tardis to do the same. The former then went up to the latter and seized him by the collar. Oscar Downing started toward Guy Tardis, who fired his gun, the bullet piercing Downing's lung and coming out at the shoulder blade. He dropped dead instantly. Guy Downing then ran, when Guy Tardis fired at him, striking him on the top of the head, the bullet passing its way through his brain and killing him instantly also.

The Tardis boys were arrested and will be arraigned before the magistrate here immediately. The boys were all about 17 or 18 years old.

HARRY LISTER, Sept. 18th.

The Home Circle.

FOR THE GROWING SCHOOLGIRL.

Between the ages of twelve and fourteen the schoolgirl grows so fast that it is almost impossible to keep her in clothes of the proper size. Her skirts seem to grow shorter daily and waists take on a snug fit that is neither attractive nor comfortable.

To obviate this, very practical dresses, which might be called variations of the Russian blouse, are considered the best form of dress for girls of the above mentioned years.

Made of some serviceable fabric such as mohair or panama, the material is cut in one piece from the neck to hem and laid in deep box platts, either pressed or stitched to the waistline, and from thence they spring out to form the skirt fulness. The underarm seam, haves from the waistline and the bottom of the skirt is finished with a deep hem for future alterations.

The back of the dress is made the same as the front, and there is a tail-end belt which fastens in the front and through a strap like that on the under-arm seam, through which the belt is run.

A yoke effect is created in this model with light blue cloth braided with black soutache, and the neck is cut rousing.

Full sleeves, puffed to the elbow, are gathered into a wide stitched cuff of the serge, trimmed with two bands of hercules braid.

Skirts are longer this year than they have been in previous seasons and the hems are deep enough to allow for two and three inches alteration during the life of the frock.

Jumpers dresses to be worn with washable guimps during the early autumn and to be replaced by those of light-weight woollen fabrics when the weather becomes cooler, are also made on the same lines.

A dress of this type is very much more easily constructed than the two piece dress and seems to have the faculty of adjusting itself more gracefully to the undeveloped lines of the girlish figure.

Materials for such dresses this year are somewhat lighter in weight, though many of them, especially those serge used in very practical school dresses look to be heavy-weight fabrics.

These serges in novelty mixtures of brown, red, green and other staple dark colors are mixed with black in broken check and stripe designs. Frequently the only trimming is a bit of braid at the neck and cuffs and sometimes the trimming scheme is relied upon in the manipulation of the material, the stripes being cut on the bias, on the straight, and on the cross, and used in such a way as to make a very attractive garment.

The blue serges show a touch of white, blue or tan cloth with black or blue braiding. The trimming is done on the waist only, and the skirt is perfectly plain, except for the deep hem and sometimes two or three inch wide tucks.

In coats there are the plain models hanging loose from the shoulders with full length coat sleeves and some trimmings of cloth for every day wear. The tan coat may not be as practical from the point of service as that of a darker fabric, but it is always becoming to any type of child and looks well with any color frock.

Children's millinery is rather interesting this season from the fact that it is extremely becoming. Large shapes predominate and fall crowns and wide floppy brims make coquettish hat gear for every day as well as for dressy wear.

The idea of the all silk hat in women's millinery has found a place in children's, and some very serviceable as well as smart hats of tulle silk, the brim and crown severely tailored, are altogether practical additions to the every-day wardrobe.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted joints, but one that will restore the growth back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now stretch the pain and ease of this deplorable disease.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is a powerful, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many former cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it is a permanent cure. These small-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic blood, seem to dissolve freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these granules are freely passed from the system, so the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual cause to suffer longer with this terrible, dull, and in confidence pronounced

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy ROYAL PHARMACY.

HEALTH RULES FOR PUPILS.

The Journal of Education contains a number of "health rules for pupils" and instructions to teachers for carrying out the direction for the cleanliness of the school-room. The teachers are required to post a copy of these rules where they can be easily read, and are directed to give a series of short lessons on the rules and the reasons for them; in short, as far as possible, to see that they are observed. They are as follows:

"The germs which cause tuberculosis (consumption), pneumonia, la grippe, diphtheria and many other diseases, are found in the saliva, especially when mixed with secretions or discharges from the nose, throat, or lungs. It is not uncommon for these diseases to exist in so mild a form that the child is hardly sick and yet such cases are capable of spreading the disease. The spit mixes with the dust on the floor, becomes dry, the germs are set free, rise in the air, enter the lungs and cause the disease.

"Children are not careful as to what they handle, and their chances of acquiring disease are much increased by putting their fingers into their mouths.

"The long passage from the nostrils to the lungs gives off, and is constantly wet with a sticky secretion, the object of which is to strain the dust, disease germs and other foreign substances from the air before it reaches the lungs. It will be readily understood that this secretion, even from a healthy person, might contain disease germs.

"Both paper money and coins are capable of carrying dangerous germs. Remembering that money is frequently handled by persons affected with the most loathsome diseases, the necessity of this rule will be at once understood.

"The intelligent teacher will be able to apply the principles given above to all the rules, and show the pupils the great necessity of observing them."

DON'T FOLD YOUR ARMS.

By folding your arms you pull the shoulders forward, flatten the chest and impair deep breathing. The position you hold your body in the most of the time soon becomes its natural position. Continuously folding your arms across the chest will develop a flat chest and a rounded back, just as many another bad habit works harm. Here are a few hints which you would do well to make habit: Keep the back of the neck close to the back of the collar at all possible times. Always carry the chest farther to the front than any other part of the anterior body. Brace the abdomen in and up a hundred times each day. Take a dozen deep slow breaths a dozen times each day. Do these exercises properly dress loosely. You cannot do them properly otherwise.

NERVE TONIC.

The morning cold sponge or plunge in a warm room, followed by a hard rub with a coarse towel, acts as a fine nerve tonic, and is an extremely useful measure in preserving good health.

TO REMOVE SPLINTERS.

The following is clipped from the London Times. It is well worth remembering to try in case of emergency: When a splinter has been driven deeply into the hand, it can be extracted without pain by steam. Nearly fill a wide mouth bottle with hot water, place the injured part over the mouth and press it slightly. The suction will draw the flesh down, and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter and the inflammation together.

ETIQUETTE OF WEDDING INVITATIONS.

Wedding invitations do not require a written answer unless cards include breakfast or luncheon at the home of the bride, or bear the letters R. S. V. P.

Cards to a large church wedding do not require a reply. The invited guest attends or not, as he desires, for an invitation to a church cannot be considered a proffer of hospitality.

Cards to a church or home wedding followed by a reception need no written answer if their recipient purposes to attend; the presence of the guest serving as an acceptance. If unable to attend one should mail on the day of the wedding two visiting cards addressed to the bride's parents. Acceptances should be on a sheet of writing paper, as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott Smith accept with pleasure the kind invitation of

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Spencer to the wedding of their daughter on Tuesday evening, October 8th at eight thirty o'clock. Regret may be couched in the following form: Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott Smith regret their inability to accept the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Spencer to the wedding of their daughter on Tuesday evening, October 8th at eight thirty o'clock.

THE TALE OF A TEN CENT PIECE

A coincidence happened here recently which is worthy of note. Some time during the summer a gentleman in Boston received a remittance from a young lady of this place, among it being a Canadian ten cent piece. A couple of weeks ago, this gentleman came to Bear River to spend a few days, and on Sunday went to the Baptist church. As the contribution plate came around, he looked for his "mit" and here was this same ten cent piece, which he dropped upon the plate. Nothing strange about that, but, sitting in the seat directly ahead of him was the same young lady from whom he received it.

A Heathy Industry Jeopardized

THE PRACTICE OF CONSIGNING LUMBER TO FOREIGN COMMISSION BROKERS IS DETERMINANT TO THE INTERESTS OF THE TRADE.
 (Canada Lumberman and Woodworker)
 Amid the mass of unusual features which, during the present season, have developed in the lumber industry in Canada, none has given cause for more anxiety, particularly in the Maritime Provinces, than has the growing practice of "consigning" lumber to commission brokers at British or Eastern States ports. At present the consignment "evil"—no milder term will suffice—bids fair to seriously impair the well-being of the lumber industry in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. If the home market were in a less healthy condition, some excuse might be found for the anxiety displayed by manufacturers in Eastern Canada to rashly consign their product to foreign commission brokers at the risk of pecuniary loss and the possibility of doing grave injury to the lumber industry, but when it is considered that there is not the slightest reason for fearing a material decline in the demand for Eastern spruce, pine and hemlock, it is rather difficult to realize why sane men will persist in deliberately sacrificing their own best interests and jeopardizing what would otherwise be a healthy industry.

At the present time the British markets are flooded with spruce deals from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and prices, which a short time ago were satisfactory, are to-day unreasonably low. The combined holdings of Liverpool and Manchester at the beginning of July were nearly double what they were at the same date last year, Manchester having 19,200 standards as compared with 7,980 twelve months before, while 15,000 standards are said to be still due to arrive. The actual decline in the price of spruce deals is from ten to fifteen shillings a standard. One exporter of this material states that, whereas last winter he was getting 28 7/8 for spruce, he is now able to obtain only from 27 5/8 to 27 1/8. In spite of this extremely unsatisfactory condition, spruce deals continue to be shipped from all the regular ports in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, on a scale which the "Timber Trades Journal" declares is much greater than the demands of the country warrant. There is a lack of confidence that even the present unsatisfactory position will be maintained at its present standard.

In the face of such a statement the only rational course of procedure should be an imported cessation of exports on the part of the Canadian shippers. If such were the case, the English brokers might reasonably be expected to refrain from pressing on unwilling customers a commodity which the latter may very well presume will drop to even lower figures. In fact, if spruce continues much longer to flood the English market as it has recently been doing, buyers on the other side may be forgiven if they assume that a little later on they will be able to buy landed stock more cheaply than they paid c. i. f. rates. In London landing charges alone amount to $5 to $6, and, with a few months' rent and interest, the total charges soon reach the $10 mark, and naturally it suits buyers to simply pick up stocks as they require them and let the broker or shipper pay all the charges which they themselves would otherwise have to incur.

Moreover, it is not only in British States ports that the consignment evil has had its effects. In New York and other Eastern States ports there are Canadian firms manufacturing in Eastern Canada and having selling offices across the line, and these firms have recently been confronted with a situation that bids fair to rival the present condition of affairs in Britain. Consignments of Canadian lumber, marked "vergoes," are shipped down to commission brokers and are almost invariably received with indifference. Buyers do not care to make an offer for such lumber, whether they need the lumber or not. In the former case they may make a ridiculous offer that means a dead loss to the consignee or they may state that they do not want to buy at any price. The broker is offering it to everyone by circular letters or through solicitors and if no offers are received he eventually becomes desperate and begs customers to make some kind of offer, and then has no other option than to take the best price available, regardless of the shipper's interest, he being always protected on his commission. Cases are cited where Nova Scotia cargo shipments have been sold on the New York markets at an actual loss to the consignee.

The millmen readily see that such a condition of things can have but one remedy. If they would withhold their stocks it would not be long before buyers would be compelled to change their tactics and search for lumber instead of having it dumped down before them at practically their own prices. Lack of confidence among manufacturers militates to the greatest extent against such co-operative action, but, surely, where the market is placed in jeopardy and financial losses must speedily follow, concerted action can and will be taken. That opinion is unanimous regarding the evil of consignments was emphasized in a peculiar fashion in England last month when London importers boycotted an Archangel cargo of deals which was submitted for sale at auction without reserve by Messrs. Churchill & Sims. To again quote the "Timber News":—"Acting in concert, the leading merchants abstained from bidding, with the result that the goods were sold at disastrously low prices. It is evidence of the strong feeling which exists that importers should by white goods that they had plenty of room for in their own stocks were slaughtered to outside buyers at ridiculous figures. Last any should imagine that the bottom has dropped out of the market, we hasten to point out that the low prices fetched were entirely due to the voluntary abstention of the importers. Their action reacts upon themselves, when their own case is considered, has no weight in comparison with the good which the abstainers seek to bring about. If the boycott convinces shippers of the determination of London merchants to actively resist 'consigning' and if it means that they are likely to be heavy losers by the practice, much good will have been done. "A cargo of two may be expected at the end of the season, when the market has dropped out of itself for good or ill; but to have regular dimensions dumped upon us before the consignments of contract stuff have received any appreciable portion of their purchase is a serious hardship. It is grossly unfair, and the metropolitan buyers are giving evidence that they do not mean to take it lying down. Whatever is done by small and unimportant shippers, we hope that the large and influential exporters will not do anything to call for a repetition of this week's action by the people who, after all, are their best and largest customers. It is to be hoped that the exporters will do something to remedy the present state of affairs even to the extent of boycotting, if necessary, the brokers who encourage such consignments. Canada has become a very important factor in supplying lumber to the United States and Great Britain, and it seems strange indeed that such business cannot be handled to yield a profit. If there was not a single consignment made within the next sixty days it would simply revolutionize present conditions and put values where they belong, and we urge that immediate action be taken by exporters to render this curtailment possible.

The effort to hold a meeting last Friday evening to reorganize the Y. M. C. A. was an absolute failure, but three or four persons being present. Still this does not imply that the move towards re-organization is hopeless. It merely shows a lamentable indifference or a disposition to "shove the work" on to the other fellow.

We are publishing by request an article from the September number of the "Canadian Lumberman" dealing with an "unsatisfactory" feature of the lumber industry in the maritime provinces, which is working detrimentally to the interests of the trade.

General Booth states that he believes drunkenness to be increasing in the world. Few men are in so good a position to speak with authority as is the head of the organization whose work brings its officers into constant contact with those addicted to the drink habit.

WHERE DOES THE RESPONSIBILITY LIE?

The Kentville Advertiser says—the effect of Amershot on Kentville the past fortnight has been of no credit to the town or the soldiers. LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The Halifax Exhibition opens today. Thanksgiving Day will be Thursday the 31st of October. Rev. A. S. Lewis, pastor of the Baptist Church, will exchange pulpits on Sunday next with Rev. L. F. Wallace, of Aylesford. A. S. Barnstead, editor of the Acadian Recorder, Halifax, has been appointed head of the Nova Scotia Immigration Bureau. The new house of H. B. Hicks is about ready for occupancy and will be taken possession of by the owner immediately. The Milner Cup, previously advertised by mistake for September 24th, will be shot for on the Bridgetown Rifle Range next Saturday at 200 and 600 yards. W. P. Coole, of the Grand Central, returned from Aldershot last week with a new horse and a fine new "bus" for driving passengers to and from the station. The machinery for the Evaporator plant has arrived and is being put in this week. The management is advertising for help, both male and female, and also for suitable apples. Miss Hattie Walsh was sufficiently recovered from her recent severe attack of illness to proceed on Wednesday last to Kentville for treatment at the new sanatorium there. Dr. Armstrong accompanied her. It is a matter of general remark that the falling leaf is turning to its autumnal tint this year than usual. The probabilities are that the lateness of the spring will be balanced by a corresponding lateness in the arrival of the chilly season. The delightful September weather we have been enjoying was interrupted by a twenty-four hour rain and wind storm on Monday. No trees or plants nor any other crop suffered severely. We have had no damaging frosts as yet. Windsor Furniture and Machine Company's plant was sold Saturday for Captain George Monro, Avondale. The plant had been advertised for sale by tender and failing a satisfactory offer it was sold at auction. Captain Monro bid it in. He is a large stockholder in the concern. Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Spidell had a narrow escape from serious injury in a driving accident at Wolfville on Sunday. Their carriage collided with one coming in the opposite direction. Mrs. Spidell was thrown from the buggy and Mr. Spidell was dragged some distance. They sustained only slight bruises, though the buggy was wrecked. Simasie won the free-for-all race at Fredericton last week, defeating Terrace Queen, owned by C. F. DeWitt, her most formidable rival for the supremacy of the Maritime turf. A report from Fredericton says it was the greatest racing exhibition ever seen here, and half a second was clipped from the maritime record of 2:14 1-2, held by Lady Ringem. News has been received by an exchange of the death in Pennsylvania of Miss Emma M. Sterling, formerly a resident of Aylesford, a lady whose charity and philanthropy was a household word in this province. Miss Sterling came to Nova Scotia from Scotland and established a home for poor girls on her farm at Aylesford, where she prepared them for lives of service and usefulness. On Sunday next, the annual Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in St. James Church, Bridgetown, and in St. Mary's, Belleisle. The choir have special music in hand, the anthems including a fine soprano solo to be sung by Mrs. H. Ruggles. Contributions for decorating should be sent to the school-room on Saturday by 2 p. m. The services in Bridgetown will be 8 a. m. (Holy Communion), 11 a. m., and 2:30 p. m. At St. Mary's, Belleisle, 3 p. m. Collections for the Episcopal Income Fund. The butter famine is not confined to Bridgetown. The Windsor Tribune says—Many towns die for want of confidence and lack of public spirit on the part of the citizens, but at the present time our chief lack of confidence seems to be a scarcity of table butter. Farmers are reported to have acknowledged that the "old bus" can't lift her own weight and if this be true, surely the "old cow" has not given up her natural vocation. We would advise the farmers near Windsor to unload some of their Jersey butter in the home market where they may be sure to get the best possible prices.

Carl Swenson Writing From Quebec Before the Accident Said Bridge Would Fall. New York, Sept. 11.—The World today says Swenson and Swenson, real estate dealers, at Flushing, gave out yesterday a letter to have been written by their brother, Carl Swenson, a boss employed on the Quebec bridge which fell on August 29. Swenson's letter is dated the day before the disaster. "I doubt very much whether the bridge will ever be finished, since the first and second panels of the bottom chord of the cantilever, Quebec side, are buckling. I want to be in New York when she falls. If the bridge goes it will be the worst wreck that ever occurred. Don't show this to anyone. This part is no fool-catcher's story."

PANDORA

RANGE

A convenience much appreciated by every owner of a Pandora is the towel rod attached to the range. As one-third of the rod is made of emery, it makes a splendid knife sharpener, too.

It's always there handy for you. You need waste no time hunting around for the easily misplaced "steel." Bright idea, eh?

An accurate thermometer is a reliable guide to successful baking, while an inaccurate one is a "cheat" of the worst kind.

Every Pandora thermometer is carefully adjusted and undergoes a practical test by heat—is proven correct before being sent out.

The figures, which show the required degree of heat necessary for the successful baking of bread, cakes, pies, etc., are plainly inscribed in black on a white enamel surface, so that they are easily readable, even when the day is dull.

If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora, write direct for free booklet.

BETH'S PREMIUM.

It was very hot to sit still and sew. The needle would get sticky in spite of all the little emery strawberries could give it, and Beth's fingers had never felt so clumsy and uncomfortable. If only May and Billy would play a little farther off it would help some, but there they were in plain sight, under the very shade of maple, with all the games Beth liked best.

It was an apron she was making—white cambric with wee cunning pockets and brestles that were to come quite up to her shoulders, and narrow, delicate tacking over-handing every bit of the way around the belt.

It wasn't at all like the over-hand little girls wear nowadays, but it was stylish then, and very pretty. Beth had made it, every stitch—seams and facing—that had to be hand down so carefully, and it was all these except a part of the tacking. But, oh! there had been such a lot of that—yards and yards—it seemed to Beth as she glanced longingly out once more at the shade, and May, Billy, and the games. When you are only eight years old there are things that seem more interesting than over-handing. Mama, busy at her own sewing, heard a long-drawn sigh and looked up to smile comfortingly. "I think you'll be through by 5 o'clock, Bethy," she said. "You know we must send it off to-night so as to have it entered on time. You've done beautifully, dear, and you deserve a premium whether you get it or not."

Beth smiled back and decided that, after all, it wasn't so dreadfully hot, and 5 o'clock wasn't very far away. "Do you think I'll get it, mama?" she asked, for the twentieth time.

"I don't know, dear. If mama was judge, you surely would, but they haven't invited me to award any prizes. You mustn't count on it too much, for you may be disappointed, but your time has not been wasted even if you get nothing but the prettiest apron, and the pleasure of knowing that you made it yourself, and very neatly."

"What is this talk? I hear of premiums and mysteries!" demanded Uncle Ed, coming in from the porch.

"It's the county fair, Uncle Ed—next week—and they have offered five dollars to the best sewing under fourteen years old, and I'm trying to get it."

"Which you surely ought to do, for considerably less than fourteen years, of age," declared the roguish uncle. But Beth was too full of her subject to be teased. Uncle Ed had been away for a month, and it was such a comfort to find somebody who hadn't heard the matter discussed over and over again.

"I'm only eight, Uncle Ed, but I've been most as careful as fourteen, don't you think?" and the needle-roughened forefinger pointed to the tidy hem. Uncle Ed hugged her by his eyeglasses—"because I can't see them at all without," he declared. "Of all the ridiculously small stitches—why, Beth, I'll be surprised if those near-sighted judges don't think you've glued that petticoat together."

"It's an apron, Uncle Ed," explained the small seamstress patiently. "It's very important, because if I get the money it's to go into the bank to help my education. I can be a teacher, and mama won't have to work."

"I see. And if you don't get it you'll have to be an ignorant all your life. I should think it is important!"

And then May and Billy clamored at the window, and Beth set the last careful stitch, and the clock struck 5.

The county fair began as usual, just as if Beth's apron were not a part of it. It was too far away for mama and the children to attend, but Uncle Ed went on the last day, and he was to bring back word of the result. Beth was certain she should not sleep a wink until he came no matter how late that was, but mama insisted on her going to bed as usual, and the next thing she knew it was broad daylight. Uncle Ed was down in the dining room, but he didn't say much—just looked over his glasses, and talked about premium pigs and mowing machines, and pretended he hadn't heard a word about aprons. Bethy crept away by herself. She understood—she hadn't gotten any premium, and Uncle Ed didn't like to tell her. Well, if she couldn't be educated she'd have to be a dressmaker like mama, and sew, no matter how hot it was.

And then breakfast was ready, and Uncle Ed called her to come quick before he starved.

She slipped quietly into her chair and slowly lifted her plate to release an edge of the napkin, and there, under it, folded neatly, lay her very own cambric apron with a blue ribbon pinned fast, and across it a smooth, gray-green, fascinating five-dollar bill.

And this isn't a mad-up story at all, for it every bit happened.—St. Nicholas.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS.

By Waldo Pondray Warren.

It is always a helpful thought for an employe to go about his work, not with the thought that he is working for his employer, but that he is really working for himself.

"I always tell an employe," said a merchant not long ago, "that he is working for himself just as much as if his name were over the door. We furnish him capital, space to work in, and give him the benefit of our systems of handling merchandise, and all that, but what he does is in a sense his own business. If he sells goods, or packs them for shipment, or makes out bills, whatever he does, contributes toward a portion of the net receipts of the store. He is entitled to what he actually earns, minus what he pays for rent, capital and other accessories. If he does well, his business will grow, and he will get the benefit of it. And if he does not do well he will make a failure of his business—just as if he were closed up by his creditors. We can't give him room if he won't pay his rent, or pay interest on the capital we lend him, and so he has to go out of business. In many ways he is virtually in business for himself, and will stand or fall on his own merits."

If this idea were more thoroughly understood by employes everywhere it would do away with a great deal of the desire to shirk and pretend, and inspire each one to put forth his best efforts.

NEW YORK FACES A MILK FAMINE

A New York despatch says:—A milk famine menaces the city, according to prominent dealers. They say the shortage is now eighty thousand quarts a day and that the supply is decreasing daily. The price, they predict, will soon advance to ten cents a quart. The late spring and scarcity of fodder for cows is said to be responsible for the decreased supply.

A JUDGE IN SKIRTS.

(Boston Herald.)

The first woman justice of the peace to be appointed in Lynn, and the second woman to be named to this position in Essex County, is Miss Louise Fairchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Fairchild, of No. 95 Grant street, Lynn. Miss Fairchild, who is only twenty-one years of age, has just been appointed justice of the peace by Governor Guild. She is a native of Milford, Conn., but moved to Lynn with her parents when a child. She was graduated from the English High School of Lynn, and entered Boston University Law School from which she will be graduated next year. After her graduation Miss Fairchild will practice law in Lynn. She will have the distinction of being the first woman to enter the legal profession in that city.

WHY LATIN IS USED BY PHYSICIANS.

"I don't see," said the man who was leaning against the drug store counter, "why a doctor can't write his prescription in English instead of Latin."

The druggist said: "You think, I suppose, that the doctor writes his prescription in Latin so it can't be read so easily—so the layman can't steal his trade and learn what he is giving him. But that's all wrong. In the first place, Latin is a more exact and concise language than English, and, being a dead language, does not change, as all living languages do."

"Then, again, since a very large part of all the drugs in use are botanical, they have in the pharmacopoeia the same names that they have in botany—the scientific names. Two-thirds of such drugs haven't any English names, and so couldn't be written in English."

"But suppose a doctor did write a prescription in English for an uneducated patient. The patient reads it, thinks he remembers it, and so tries to get it filled from memory the second time. Suppose, for instance, it calls for iodide of potassium and he gets it confused with cyanide of potassium. He could safely take ten grains of the first, but one grain of the second would kill him. Latin is a protection and a safe-guard. Prescriptions in Latin he can't read; consequently doesn't try to remember."

"Now for a final reason. Latin is a language that is used by scientific men the world over, and no other language is. You can get Latin prescriptions filled in any country on the face of the earth where there is a drug store. We had a prescription come in here the other day which we had put up originally, and which had since been stamped by druggists in London, Paris, Berlin, Constantinople, Cairo and Calcutta. What good would an English prescription be in St. Petersburg?" New York Herald.

FAILURE TO DELIVER A TELEGRAM LEAD TO FATAL RESULTS.

An exchange says:—

Failure to have a warning telegram delivered to the person for whom it was intended appears to have been the immediate cause of the great destruction of life at the Quebec bridge. It appears that several men with knowledge of such structures had predicted a collapse, and it is most unfortunate that these were not heeded, and especially that the official telegram referred to was not received in time to warn the men off. There still remains the question why with government and other inspectors the work should have gone on as long as it did when there was apparently so much doubt about the strength of the structure.

The Montreal Star asserts that the Dominion Government, which practically guarantees the whole cost of the bridge, had no engineer on the spot to look after the interests of the Canadian people. A serious deflection in the bridge was noticed on Tuesday. An engineer, employed by the contractors, started at once for New York to see the consulting engineer, Mr. Cooper. That gentleman, recognizing the serious nature of the defect, telegraphed the contractors to "place no more load on the bridge." The telegram reached Phoenixville, the head quarters of the contracting company about noon on Thursday. It lay in the office of the company, waiting for some one to act upon it, till five o'clock. About that time the officials at Phoenixville were consulting as to the advisability of sending the warning on to Quebec, a locomotive and three car loads of steel were run to the extreme end of the unsupported eight hundred feet projection and it went down. There seems to be enough opportunity to allot blame for the disaster, but had the Dominion Government had a capable engineer at the scene of operations, that disaster would not have occurred.

WHAT BETTER? An Irishman was charged with a petty offense.

"Have you anyone in court who will vouch for your good character?" asked the judge. "Yes, sir, there is the chief constable yonder," answered Pat.

The chief constable was amazed. "Why, your honor, I don't even know the man," he protested. "Now, sir," broke in Pat, "I have lived in the borough for nearly twenty years, and if the chief constable doesn't know me yet, isn't that a character for you?"

THE DIFFERENCE. A motorist, who was touring in Ireland, one day met a native on the road who was driving a donkey and cart.

"What is the difference, Pat, between your turnout and mine?" The native looked at the questioner a minute or so, and then replied: "Not a great deal. The donkey's in the shafts in one and on the seat in the other."

PAT WAS RIGHT. A rather amusing incident occurred the other day which affords a good example of that ready wit for which the inhabitants of the old land are so famous.

An elderly lady, who was waving her umbrella towards a tram which had just stopped, in quick, excited accents, thus addressed a laboring man who happened to be near:

"My good man, can you tell me where that tram will leave me?" "Indeed, ma'am," said Pat, slowly, "it'll leave ye where ye are, if ye don't hurry."

And he was right, for it did!

DETERMINED. Two Irishmen went to the races, and one took a bottle of whiskey with him, as a sort of "heart-warmer."

When they decided to "hit" the bottle, they found the cork was very tight, and impossible to get out without a corker.

"Can't you get it out, Mike?" said Pat, after a few minutes of hard work by Mike with the cork. "Yes, begob," said Mike. "I'll get it out, sure, if I have to push it in!"

HIS DISCOVERY. Cholly—you remember I told you yesterday that Miss Perkins told me the night before that she would marry me.

Jack—Yes. Cholly—Well, I happened to think this morning that she said she would marry me on the 31st day of September, so I looked up the calendar to see what day of the week it would be, and do you know, September, has only thirty days!—Somerville Journal

"Your bump of destructiveness," said the phenologist, "is large. Are you a soldier?"

"No," was the reply. "I am a chauffeur."—The Independent.

A TRAVELLING MAN'S EXPERIENCE. "I must tell you my experience on an East-bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to LeGrande, Ore.," writes Sam A. Garber, a well known travelling man.

"I was in the smoking department with some other travelling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said: 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic, her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a death-like look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suitcase and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into LeGrande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into LeGrande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Fifty years we've been united.—Fifty years? It can't be so!

It seems as if our vows were plighted Just back there where life was waking In the beauty of the spring, To a heaven, of love's own making Bound within a golden ring.

When he stross the path with flowers, When he lights the way with smiles Love can hasten all the hours, Love can shorten all the miles. Once again, in that first meeting, Eyes look fondly into eyes That divine within their greeting Paths that lead to Paradise.

Oh! the gifts that time has brought us, Gifts that ever tender grow, While the kindly years have taught us All that human hearts can know. Pleasures purified by pain; Songs that follow after sadness, As the sunshine follows with care.

Let time peccil with her finger Check and brow; who hears the truth, While within our hearts still linger All the love-born vows of youth. Every sign of life's December Let us banish far away. Now we're only to remember 'Tis our Golden Wedding-Day.

Presented to Mr. and Mrs. Eber Chute, Hampton, September 12th.

IF WE KNEW. There are gems of wondrous bright

Of times lying at our feet, And we pass them, walking thoughtless Down the busy, crowded street; If we knew, our pace would slacken, Pained or wounded where it fell, We would speak in accents tender To each friend we chance to meet, We would give to each one freely Smiles of sympathy so sweet.

COALS FROM A FORGE. Fortitude smiles at the few and grins at the many.

He is an exceptional blunderer who does not blame somebody else. Some people are so high-toned that they do not even have common sense. Spend not all you have, believe not all you hear, and tell not all you know.

It is a pity more of us are not willing to follow the advice we are so willing to hand out to others. Contentment is the faculty of keeping so happy that you never notice trouble when it comes around.

While everything that is said about us is not true, we ought to be thankful that everything that is true is not said.

Some people are so busy talking about the faults of others that they forget their own, which, in nine cases out of ten, are worse than the other fellow's.

Technical schools are now an assumed fact for three towns of our province, and the day is not far distant when the splendid school system of this country will be so supplemented by mechanical training that every boy, who goes out to earn a living, will be able to work with hand and brain in some useful employment. All our boys cannot be made into professional men, and it is a blunder to undertake to train all as though they were to be such. Today, under prevailing conditions, trade schools are an absolute necessity. Many branches of commerce and industry are so specialized that training is imperative, and this training must be provided to prevent the turning out of jitters, who have no future unless wealthy parents can stake money in some venture as a last chance. Technical training must be the natural climax to the education of a large proportion of the youth of the land. The young man whose education, or the lack of it, leaves him unequipped for the battle of life is in danger of becoming a good-for-nothing.

FOR A SPRAINED ANKLE. A sprained ankle may be cured in about one-third the time usually required, by applying Chamberlain's Pain-Balm freely, and giving it absolute rest. For sale by W. A. Warren, Phm. B.

The Outlook for Coal is Not Encouraging

(St. John Times.) Leading coal merchants when asked this morning relative to the price of coal this coming winter declined to say whether prices would be higher or lower than last year.

The present retail prices have been unchanged since July last and are about the same as they were last year. The Springhill strike, however, brings forcibly to mind the actual position in the coal market at the present. The tying up of these mines which, when working, turn out two thousand or more tons a day, soon makes a big difference in the supply of coal, all over the maritime provinces and in Montreal as well.

The shortage is being felt very keenly by I. C. R., and it is stated that the C. P. R. had made preparations for landing about one hundred and fifty thousand tons of Springhill coal at St. John this year. It is estimated that at the time of the strike the C. P. R. had considerably less than five hundred thousand tons of this coal in their bank at Carleton. They were landing Springhill coal at the west side at the rate of about one thousand tons a day, and when the strike occurred the supply was cut off. It threw a large number of men out of employment, who had been discharging the coal from barges and work on the stock pile bank of Carleton.

In order to provide for the big shortage, the C. P. R. have arranged to bring big quantities of coal from Philadelphia. One steamer has already arrived and the Springhill barges are also bringing this coal here. It is also said the C. P. R. will bring a number of steamer loads here from the old country, as besides the large amounts used on the railway they require considerable for their big steamers.

The very severe weather last winter cleaned up all the large coal stocks that had been laid in, both in hard and soft coals and the result is that the demand for both appears in most cases to have exceeded the supply so that prices have kept very firm.

American hard coal prices have been advanced by the producers in accordance with the plan to increase the price ten cents a ton per month. The brokers, who have been handling anthracite, have been selling at the advance all through the season. Other years there was a slack-up in the demand in July and August, so that frequently dealers were able to buy below the circular rate.

It is said in regard to Nova Scotia and Cape Breton coal that supplies were so cleaned up through the maritime provinces and in Montreal, and owing to the severe winter and late opening of the St. Lawrence river the companies were unable to get the amount of coal forwarded to Montreal that was actually required.

Careful estimates at the first of the year, not allowing for a big strike or the tie-up of any large producing mine, showed that the amount of coal needed for the provinces and upper Canada, made from Nova Scotia and Cape Breton mines this year, would easily take all that could be produced and there has been a general disposition to stiffen rates at all mines and in some cases an advance is asked over last year's prices.

It is estimated that the St. Lawrence trade this year will require about two hundred thousand tons more than last year, largely due to the increase in the amount of coal for manufacturing purposes and for railways.

Taking all these things into consideration it will be seen the demand for coal all over the country would have been very great even had no strike occurred, but with the shortage running into thousands of tons caused by the Springhill strike there is quite a serious condition in the soft coal trade.

American hard coal is somewhat higher in price, and prices on the other side of the Atlantic are several shillings higher than usual. In fact the demand for coal the world over appears to be such that the tendency of prices is bound to be upward.

The present price of soft coal is $8.50 to $7.50 per chaldron delivered and hard coal is quoted at $6.25 for American, and $6.50 to $6.75 for Scotch. The American hard coal is being sold about 25 cents cheaper here than in several upper Canadian and U. S. cities.

OBJECTIONABLE POSTERS. Mr. James J. O'Brien writes in the Assidat Recorder in reference to the advertising matter put out by the Exhibition Commission.

He describes the posters as "disgraceful and insulting representing the honest hard-working laborer, who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow, as little less than a baboon."

This class of posters has been a feature of exhibition advertising ever since the provincial exhibition became a Halifax institution. It doubtless appeals to the artistic instincts of some of the gentlemen prominent on the Commission. It also has something to do with diminishing the attendance at the show. Judging it by these posters the ladies and gentlemen of the country cannot but regard the exhibition as a vulgar institution, and endeavor to maintain their self-respect by withholding their patronage.

Dr. Hodges, of the provincial board of health, reports bad conditions in some Ontario canneries, especially those where the operatives are housed at the factories. He says the bedding is dirty and many stables are in a more cleanly condition. The doctor recommends a change in the health laws of the province.

GREENLAND FOR TUBERCULOSIS. It is claimed the arctic region is an ideal location for the treatment of tuberculosis on account of the almost perpetual sunshine. It is, besides, the air is pure and dry, and the unusual scenes stimulate the desire for exercise. Dr. Frederick Bohm, of Washington, is inclined to believe that a Greenland sanitarium is not only a medical possibility, but a practical business proposition.
