CHURCHILL SAYS FIGHT IS ILLEGAL... Home Secretary Shuts Down on The Johnson-Wells Battle... WILL GO TO COURT... Articles Signed and Next Move Will Be Before a Magistrate—Real Trouble is Declared to Be That of Color Question

FRENCH NAVY DISASTERS... Other notable French naval disasters of recent years were: Oct. 16, 1906, submarine Lutin lost off Biscaya, 13 drowned. Feb. 19, 1907, cruiser Jean Bart lost off the northwestern coast of Africa; no deaths. Aug. 18, 1908, gun exploded aboard battleship Couronne at Toulon; 33 dead. Sept. 23, 1908, gun exploded aboard cruiser La Touche Tréville at Toulon; 33 dead. May 27, 1910, submarine Pluviose remained submerged after diving in the harbor of Calais; 27 dead. Sept. 20, 1911, gun exploded on the French cruiser Gloire at Toulon. One man killed and 13 injured, five fatally.

MOUNT ETNA STILL ACTIVE—CHOLERA EPIDEMIC ADDS TO TERROR

SENTRIES WATCHING ADVANCING LAVA... According to late cable advices the lava stream from Etna continue to advance, but so slowly that no buildings will be in danger for the next few days. Government outsiders report that a couple of thousand people, mainly women, attempted to remove relatives from a cholera hospital, four miles outside Francavilla, being frightened by the idea that the building was threatened with destruction by lava. There were about one hundred patients and several suspected cases under treatment in the hospital. People are arriving at Taormina in great numbers to view the eruption, and two winter hotels are filled with tourists.

THE MAN WHO DID IT.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 25—Robert Bickardie, Liberal, M. P. for the St. Lawrence division of Montreal, who is in town on a tour of inspection, was asked "who did it?" "I don't remember his name," he said long ago. "He's the man who wrote 'Rule Britannia.'"

YORK COUNTY LOAN PAYMENT IN NEXT YEAR

Another Twenty-Five Percent Dividend After First Of 1912... FARMERS' BANK CASE... New Phase Expected—Effort to Get Hundred Cents on Dollar—Ballots to all Presbyterians to Vote on the Union Question

(Canadian Press) London, Sept. 25—Home Secretary Churchill has decided that the Johnson-Wells fight is illegal, and that unless the promoters voluntarily abandon their match they will be arranged before a magistrate to prevent a breach of the peace. It will be for the magistrate to decide, after hearing the evidence, on both sides, whether or not the match is contrary to law. The promoters of the fight, however, do not intend to abandon it, and Johnson and Wells last night signed articles agreeing to box under the National Sporting Club rules. Therefore, it is expected, that proceedings will be undertaken in Bow Street to form a test case, governing the future of boxing in this country. While the litigation is based on religious and moral grounds, the real trouble is the color question. It is the fear of the infraction of a black victory on Great Britain's colored subjects that weighs most with the authorities. James White, the promoter of the match in an interview last night, said: "The intention is to test the legality of the home secretary's decision. Probably the case will come up on Wednesday or Thursday. If the court decision is adverse, the match will be declared off as far as I am concerned." He added that the fight might take place in Paris, but he would have no interest in it as Johnson and Wells had now agreed to abide by the rules of the National Sporting Club. If the match is declared illegal, said White, "then boxing is doomed in England."

ENGLAND TO HAVE A COMMISSION TO END DISPUTES OVER LABOR

Board to Equally Represent Employers and Men and to Be Given a Year's Test... (Canadian Press) London, Sept. 26—The government has decided to appoint a board of trade commission empowered to arbitrate labor disputes. The commission will consist of twelve commissioners, representing equally the employers and the employees with Sir George R. Arkwile, a well-known strike breaker, as permanent chief. Sir George has represented the board of trade at the settlement of various strikes during the last year. The government will nominate the commission in order to secure men of judicial, rather than partisan type, but they will be trusted leaders. Thus on the men's side, invitations have already been sent to Messrs. Thorne, Bowerman and Enoch Edwards. The scheme will be experimental for a year.

DEAD IN THE WARPING DISASTER 350 OR MORE

Bodies Picked up and Some Sailors Rescued—Muster of the Survivors on Sister Ship—Story of Officer Who Could Not Take Suggestion

(Canadian Press) Toronto, Sept. 26—A thin ship, the admirals' discipline on board the Liberté. The lieutenant, who is serving on another warship, was sent with a party to help extinguish the fire on the Liberté. He found the ship's deck a scene of horror. The ship was destroyed by an explosion, and the mangled bodies of 350 or more were scattered about the deck. The survivors of the disaster, with the exception of those in the hospital, are temporarily quartered on the sister ship, the Liberté. The ship is now being used as a hospital for the wounded. The search of the wreckage of the battleship continued throughout the night, with the aid of great acetylene torches. Occasionally a launch drew away from the illuminated spot in the harbor, disappearing into the darkness to reappear presently with a body or two of the missing. Some of the missing were probably drowned. The search of the wreckage of the battleship continued throughout the night, with the aid of great acetylene torches. TROUBLE IN SUSSEX... MISSIONARY ENTERPRISE... A BUSY WINTER... TROUBLE IN SUSSEX. Sussex, April 26—(Special to Times New Reporter) A lively dispute is in progress in Conservative circles as to which is the greater port, Kipling or J. D. O'Connell. Mr. O'Connell himself entertains no doubts in the matter. MISSIONARY ENTERPRISE. Mr. Peter Binks informed the Times new reporter this morning that he had canvassed all his subscriptions to foreign missions. This course was decided on after he had read of the conditions that exist in the Orient. Why should I be worried about the Chinese and Hindus? said Mr. Binks, when the descendants of the Lombards and the present bulwarks of the Empire in Queens-Sunbury have whipsy camps and dollar worship in their midst, as testified by the St. John Standard and Col. McLean? Mr. Binks states that he will start a fund to be used by the Standard and Col. McLean to convert the people of Queens-Sunbury. ON LEAGUE WINGS. A patriotic citizen who has had his eye on a fat office since Friday morning last says that he never knew the time to pass so slowly. Prince Sees His Matrimonial Affairs Portrayed in Comic Opera — The Military Secretary of the Duke of Connaught — The Man Who Made Asquith Politically

(Copyright, 1911, by the Brentwood Company.)

It is not often that a royal personage is entertained by seeing himself and especially his matrimonial affairs portrayed on the comic opera stage. Yet this is what has fallen to the share of Prince Joachim of Prussia, whose name figures in the Almanach de Gotha, described as "residence unknown," and who has been turned out of the German army by his cousin, the Kaiser, and deprived of all his military honors and dignities.

He is now staying at Marzenbad, under the name of "Count Joachim Hohenstein," while, with him as his reputed morganatic wife, is the Baroness von Liebenberg, formerly known as Marie Sulzer, a favorite of the music hall stage of Berlin.

It is for her sake that he is an exile from the land of his birth, and shorn of his prerogatives as a prince of the blood, for Germany's diplomatic representatives abroad have been directed to prevent his recognition as a prince of Prussia, by the courts and governments to which they are accredited.

The other evening Joachim and the baroness attended the local theatre to witness the performance of "The Count of Luxemburg," which had so great a success in London, at Daly's last summer, and which is in reality a musical staging of their own matrimonial affairs.

In "The Count of Luxemburg," a Russian grandduke wants to marry Angèle Didier, an opera singer, but she must have a title before the Czar will consent. Therefore the bankrupt Bohemian Count of Luxemburg is offered $100,000 to agree to marry her without seeing her and to being divorced from her within three months. In reality, the actress in question was Marie Sulzer, the "Russian Grandduke" was Prince Joachim of Prussia, and the "Count of Luxemburg," a penniless Austrian nobleman named Baron Victor von Liebenberg.

Prince Joachim was so infatuated with Marie Sulzer, even during the lifetime of his father, the late Prince Albert of Prussia, who died as regent of Brunswick, that he was bent on marrying her. But Prince Albert, who entertained a horror for everything in connection with his stage, endeavored to prevent this by stipulating in his will that if his son married any woman not of noble rank he should forfeit his share in his enormous estate.

How It Was Planned

Prince Joachim therefore, after his father's demise, arranged that Marie Sulzer should leave the stage and marry in London Baron Victor von Liebenberg. The baron was to quit her on the wedding day, and to immediately secure a divorce on the ground of desertion, leaving Marie Sulzer his name and the bona-fide title of baroness. In this way Joachim expected to avoid the provisions of his father's will.

The marriage of Baron Victor von Liebenberg and of Marie Sulzer took place in London, and they left one another within an hour after the wedding ceremony, as arranged. But before the divorce proceedings could be completed, Emperor William interferred as head of the reigning house of Prussia. Taking advantage of the fact that Marie Sulzer had forfeited her German nationality and had become an Austrian subject, by her marriage to the Austrian Baron von Liebenberg, he caused her to be expelled from Germany as an undesirable alien, and sent Joachim off to Germany's African colonies, on military duty.

The prince did not remain there very long, and on leaving Africa without the permission of the Emperor and repeating the meanwhile divorced Baroness Liebenberg in Europe, his name was removed from the ranks of the German army and he was forbidden by the Kaiser to take up his residence on German territory. Moreover, the administration of his father's large fortune was vested in the hands of his youngest brother, Prince Frederick William, who last year married Princess Agatha of Hohenlohe, in Potsdam, and Joachim is virtually dependent upon the allowance made to him by his brother.

Joachim is one of the most gifted members of the reigning house of Prussia, and has achieved considerable fame in the musical world as a composer of some works of considerable merit, and which have attracted a good deal of popular attention.

More women would want to do as they like if they only knew what they liked.

WE were speaking of a young girl, who although only twenty-two or three years old, looks thirty. She has not had a particularly hard life. There is nothing especially about her work. She has not had any more than the ordinary mortal's share of sorrows and disappointments. Why, then, this strangely premature aging, we debated. Said the lady—who-always-somehow, "I'll tell you just what I think it is. It's because she has so many responsibilities."

"Responsibilities," we scoffed, "what particular responsibilities has she, a girl of twenty-three, with a father and mother who give her a pleasant home, and not even any younger brothers and sisters to worry her?"

"Well," said the lady, "she has her father's business to carry on, and then there's her mother's housework, and just think of the responsibility of that married sister's home and two children, and then there's her older brother's business—think what a tax that must be for her."

"You mean that she carries all the family responsibilities as well as her own?"

"Exactly," said the lady, "just as most of these people who get old before their time do."

Isn't there innumerable people everywhere who are wearing themselves out just because they have not yet mastered what Harriet Beecher Stowe calls one of the most important parts of the scheme of living—"to learn just what our responsibility is, and to let other people's alone?"

When we were out driving the other day, our horse became frightened and tore down upon a crossroad at a most undesirable smart pace. Just as we reached the crossing, another carriage hove up in front of us, and although we pulled in as hard as we could it looked for an instant as if something were going to happen. Fortunately, the other man whipped up his horse and got past in time to avoid a collision.

"Didn't you think we were going to run into them?" I said afterwards.

"Oh, no," said my companion cheerfully, "I know that if the other man did his part we would be all right, and I thought he would. I believe in not trying to do the whole thing, but in giving the other fellow credit for having sense, as well as you."

It seems to me that that is a philosophy which is too little regarded by many travellers on the King's Highway.

We feel that the whole responsibility of avoiding a collision rests on our handling of the reins, while all the time the other fellow is doing just as much to avoid it.

We feel the burden of whole situations upon us, while in reality we are only responsible for some tiny corner of the business.

We insist on thrusting our shoulders beneath other folk's responsibilities, even though in so doing we do not help at all, but merely weary ourselves and hinder and impede them.

If only we could throw off this foolish weight of other people's responsibilities that we are struggling under, how many of us might throw back our shoulders and lift up our heads and breathe freely once more.

Can't we relax from the strain of all the cares and worries, lest things go wrong, in spite of us, and from the fear that something will happen in this old world if we let go? Can't we quietly listen and rest in that great big question that God asks us as He asked Job, "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?"

WAY HE SAW IT.

"Did you sell your vote?"

"No sir. I voted for that fellow 'cause I like him."

"But I understand he gave you $10."

"Well, when a man gives you $10, 'tain't no more'n natural to like him, is it?"

ORDERLINESS IS BIG ASSET. To teach children habits of neatness, system and order, says Orison Sweet Marston in an article in "Success Magazine," is to instill some degree, at least, of success. Yet they are often brought up amid disorder and confusion, allowed to throw things down just where they use them, and to form slovenly and slopped habits.

IF THERE IS ANY DELIBERATION IN THE WORLD it is that doing "things just for now." Dropping things wherever one may happen to be temporarily saves time. On the contrary this is a great time waster and a great demoralizer of character. A bad habit not only tends to repeat itself, but to increase the tendency in that direction.

IF YOU WERE NOT TAUGHT THE BEAUTIFUL lesson of orderliness in your youth, teach it to yourself now.

FOR BETTER ROADS

The Times prints today two interesting communications on the subject of road building, which were read at the International Good Roads Congress in Chicago. That which relates to road building and maintenance in France is especially interesting. France has an admirable system of roads, and road building in that country is a profession for which young men are especially trained. The writer of the letter expresses the view that the United States will not enjoy good roads until the state takes up the question seriously, provides the training schools or colleges, and makes road-building a profession offering permanent employment to the men trained for the work.

How many miles of road in the province of New Brunswick would be approved by a road engineer from France—or from any country where road-building is regarded as a matter of importance to the state? To ask this question and consider it is to realize how far behind the province is in this respect.

Public attention is being more generally centred upon this problem of good roads, and there seems a promise of good in the growing favor with which the policy of establishing at least a few great roads, between leading centres or across a province or state, is received. They want such a road through parts of Nova Scotia. We have talked a little about it in New Brunswick. In the eastern United States there are some excellent state roads, and Kansas, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and California are building or preparing to build sections of a great modern road through their territory which will be part of an ocean to ocean highway.

Mr. R. L. Borden has pledged himself to give aid to the advancement of the cause of good roads. Joint action by the federal and provincial governments may therefore be expected, to solve a problem that is of vital importance to rural communities, and the right solution of which means so much to the farming sections of the eastern provinces of Canada.

A CONSERVATIVE TRIBUTE

In contrast to the contemptuous references of some Conservative papers to members of the late government, it is worth while to quote a few sentences from the Ottawa Journal, which bitterly opposed the government on the reciprocity issue. It declares that it would be a good thing for Canada if the eight cabinet ministers who were defeated were still in parliament. It refers to the exceptional ability and great parliamentary experience of Mr. Fielding, Mr. Graham, and Mr. Fisher, as very valuable assets to Canadian public life. It declares that the absence of Mr. Fielding and Mr. Graham must be particularly deplored, as they were of the finest type of Canadian public men. We quote further:—

"Mr. Graham in office showed himself unspurred by power; he retained the confidence of the country in his honesty, fairness and ability, and he increased its liking for himself personally by his good temper and kindly humor. Mr. Fielding similarly leaves office with the absolute confidence in his integrity and personal character of the people of Canada. His political acumen was great; his first real mistake in fifteen years was the reciprocity proposition. To that we fancy he was predisposed by his long training in free trade ideas. We do not believe that prior to the opening of debate in parliament he ever dreamed that the reciprocity proposition could be supposed likely to seriously affect this country's political destiny. Mr. Fielding is a loyal Canadian."

There are some Conservatives who can see no good in any Liberal. It is unfortunate that political hatred can so blind a man, and to Conservatives of that type we commend these observations by a Conservative newspaper.

FACTORY SITES

It is announced that the long-sought-for map of city lands, showing property owned by the city that would be available for factory sites, has been completed; and that printed copies will soon be available. We must not lose sight of the fact that the mere possession of land by the city does not make that land suitable for factory sites. A man who is looking for a location for a factory wants railway connection and perhaps water connection. These facilities are not provided with all of the city lands. There is another consideration. The success of some factories depends upon getting help in the district vicinity of the plant. A factory employing a large number of girls could not very well be located in Lunenburg. The Times is informed that one large factory looking for a site is debarred from a west side location for this very reason. In addition, therefore, to those lands which it has available, it will probably be found necessary for the city to expropriate others, in order to provide for successful industrial expansion.

MEN AND RELIGION

The Men and Religion Forward Movement will be conducted through the agency of existing institutions. It is a laymen's movement. Apparently it will work on broad lines. Rev. Dr. Symonds of Montreal says that "it is essentially a Bible movement, but will not antagonize the reverent and truth-loving critic." It is also a movement toward union, for it brings into harmonious effort members of different churches. Apparently social reform work will have an important place. There has been in the past too much emphasis upon the thought of personal salvation, and not enough upon the crying need of effort to save others—not through their acceptance of a certain view of dogmatic religion, but by changing their outlook on this life and its duties, improving their social surroundings, and enlisting their services in the cause of the world's betterment.

It is a curious fact in human nature that breadth of view is a plant of slow growth. The narrower the appeal the greater the zeal of the members of the sect. The voice of authority has always been very potent in religious matters, even when the voices were discordant and it was obvious to the calm observer that new generations would find new fighting ground, and old beliefs for which men died give place to new.

The Men and Religion movement appears to afford latitude for differences in belief, within certain limits, and to place emphasis upon personal conduct and social service. There is in every city a wide field for its activity, and since it works through existing organizations it is not open, as Dr. Symonds points out, to the charge that it merely adds another to a list that is already a very long one.

It is satisfactory to note that the city has made a beginning in the disposal of its leased lands to persons who either now occupy them or desire to do so.

The French naval horror at Toulon is without a parallel in the naval history of the world. One of the finest of French battle-ships has been destroyed in harbor with great loss of life. The misfortune is the greater because at this time France feels the need of keeping her naval strength up to a high standard.

A cable from Belfast declares that if Home Rule is adopted it will be rejected by Ulster, and a provisional government established. This is probably not well founded. No Home Rule bill has yet been passed, and it is extremely unlikely, when one has been adopted satisfactory to the British parliament, that it will cause an open rebellion.

All reports from the west show that there will be an enormous grain crop. The whole country shares in the benefit derived from a big crop, for it enables the farmers to spend money freely for the products of eastern factories. We perhaps do not fully realize how much a bumper crop in the west means to the whole of Canada. That crop will grow from year to year, until it will tax the facilities of all our sea ports to handle the surplus for export.

Mr. F. B. Carvell has been declared elected in Carleton County, and, although a recount is demanded, it is not at all likely to deprive him of his seat. It is a source of much satisfaction to Liberals that Mr. Carvell will be again in the House. He is a fighting man, and will be of much service as one of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's lieutenants. Despite the fact that so many cabinet ministers went down in the late contest, the Liberals will have a strong fighting force, thoroughly familiar with public affairs, and competent to submit the acts and the policy of the Conservative government to a searching criticism, that will be good for the country.

If it be true, as one Conservative paper has said, that there are more than a score of Nationalists in the new Parliament, Mr. Borden's troubles will be greater than at first appeared. Mr. Bourassa and his lieutenants intimate that they have only got faintly started, which means that they have no intention of permitting Mr. Borden to carry out any imperial policy if it is in their power to prevent it. Whatever trouble may come to Canada as a result of the activity of these gentlemen, the responsibility will lie at the door of the Conservative leader, who not only did not denounce them and their works, but permitted some of his lieutenants to appear on their platform and make common cause with them against the government.

TO LONDON OUT OF MOTLEY
O mother city, once again we greet your grave and reverend face. Late veiled from sight by workmen, who labored for a fevered space with hammer, adze and boring-drill To make you discolored gray— A weird and unfamiliar place For which men died give place to new.

Bemused, we tread your pavements when you tricked yourself in gauds and lace, And passed awhile beyond our ken, Leaving us doubtful how to trace The streets where we were wont to pace With surest footing on our way We only found it by the grace Of Robert That was yesterday.

But now, what rapture—by Big Ben I swear it, and the Civic Mace— Exalts me (so with oxygen) To see you, now the glittering race Of King and Queen, Jack, Ten and Ace Is run; discard your grand display And to the realm of memory chase That London Town of yesterday.

Envoi.
Though fittingly in festal case, Mother, you decked your features gay, Right welcome is your ancient face, Dear London Town—

Statement Issued This Morning by Mr. Powell's Partner—Meeting Last Night

The following statement was given out from H. A. Powell's office this morning by his law partner, W. H. Harrison: "A meeting of the Conservative scrutineers of the different polling booths was held last evening, and after a careful count of the votes improperly counted and improperly rejected, it was found that Dr. Daniel's majority could be reduced by only thirty, leaving a majority of thirty-five. Under these circumstances the majority of Mr. Powell's friends thought it inadvisable to take proceedings for a recount, as the only person in holding one was to have Mr. Powell returned instead of Dr. Daniel."

DR. DANIEL'S MAJORITY 110

County Declaration Made Today by Returning Officer—The Vote by Wards and Parishes

In the office of Sheriff deForest in the court house this morning, A. O. Skinner, the returning officer in the recent elections declared Dr. J. W. Daniel elected to represent the city and county of St. John in the next parliament of Canada, with a majority of 110 votes. It was at first published that his majority was only forty-three, but errors had occurred and when these were corrected, it brought his majority to the present figure. Mistakes occurred either in calling out figures, marking down, or in some other way, passing unnoticed for the time being.

For instance in one ward in a booth in Charlottetown the figures published at first were 114 for Daniel and 74 for Lowell, whereas under correction they are 144 for the M. P. elect and 74 for the defeated candidate. This was a mistake in the marking of the box. All mistakes such as this were rectified this morning, however, and the figures in Landdowne in the booth A. to E. were verified. Mr. Maher the returning officer making a statement satisfactory to the court. On account of the figures not being marked on the box, they were in doubt, but Mr. Maher verified their correctness as here published.

Charles F. Sanford was present this morning as agent for Mr. Lowell and Dr. Daniel looked after his own interests. Mr. Skinner, as returning officer, was assisted by his son, Roland. The exact figures are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Votes. Includes Daniel, Lowell, Brooks, Kings, etc.
