ARE YOU TIRED OF PAYING BLUNDER TAXES?

Many a business man pays as much money for the luxury of blundering as a steam yacht or private touring car would cost. "Blunder Taxes" cannot be evaded—whatever else waits, these must be paid. If a business man gets into the habit of making the same blunders more than once, the taxes will soon amount to confiscation.

BEAVER GOT OFF ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Off as Easily as She Went—No Damage Done

amer Beaver arrived in port yesterday morning. Captain Henry Turndal was able to get her off on Sunday night, having lightened the cargo. "A line was tied to the winch, full steam was ordered, and the vessel off just as easily as she got on." Light tides aided in extricating her from the mud. The captain had about fifty yards away from her where his vessel had struck was a high bank, and if the vessel had struck there, it would have been a total loss. After the vessel was floated she took her cargo and proceeded here. Her cargo, a chest of building stone, and are also about fifty dozen bass on board.

STEAMER HELD UP AND PASSENGERS LOOTED

RIGA, July 2.—A daring crime was committed on board a passenger steamer plying between Riga and Mitau yesterday. The vessel had fifty passengers on board. Half the journey had been accomplished when six men drew revolvers and covered their fellow-passengers and the crew. The pockets of the captain, the sailors and the fifty passengers were then systematically searched by the bandits. Then they compelled the captain to bring the steamer to a stand near the township of Schlock. Here the bandits landed, and went to a farm close by. The farmhouse was looted and one of the farmer's sons killed.

NEGRO WAS HANGED

CHICAGO, July 2.—A negro who committed a criminal assault on the sixteen-year-old daughter of Ira Robinson, near Womack, was captured Saturday night and after being taken to the scene of the crime, was hanged and buried yesterday morning. He confessed his guilt and offered no resistance to the mob.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENTS

NO PROSPECTS FOR TRIAL SOON

Patrick McCloskey Fell Off Harry Thaw Must Take His Turn With the Rest

Gilbert Stevens Foreman For J. S. Gibbon & Co. Sustained Very Severe Injuries Yesterday

Case of Standford White's Murderer Will Not Come Up Before October—Valuable Witness Gone

NEW YORK, July 2.—That there is no prospect of a speedy trial for Harry Kendall Thaw was increased today by District Attorney Jerome, who returned to town for two days to devote his personal attention to the case. Owing to the fact that during the summer there are only two parts of the court of general sessions in session, and that the district attorney has not yet decided that it would be unfair to other prisoners who are awaiting trial to advance the Thaw case on the calendar. For this reason it is hardly probable that Thaw will be arraigned before October.

The death today of Thaw's valet, William Bedford, in the Presbyterian Hospital, from complications following an operation for appendicitis, removed an important witness from the case. Assistant District Attorney Garvan today gave out the substance of the last statement made to him by Bedford. From his statement Mr. Garvan said he learned that Thaw was not addicted to any drug. Bedford declared that he had not acted as "a go-between" for Thaw to get letters to Mrs. Thaw. He had seen no notes passed, he alleged. As to the revolver, the valet supplemented his previous statement that Thaw had carried a weapon for three or four months by stating that he had carried a weapon for about two years, in connection with the European trip of Thaw and Miss Nesbit and that Thaw had accompanied Thaw and that Thaw had accompanied Thaw and that Thaw had accompanied Thaw.

THE DAY HAS AT LAST ARRIVED

Children Can Romp to Their Hearts' Content—Miss Miller, Play Ground Supervisor, Is Pleased

Miss Miller of Montreal, who is to take charge of the public playground in Centennial school, arrived in the city last evening. She was met at the depot by Miss Peters, who accompanied her to the playground.

Miss Miller expressed herself as being very well pleased with the grounds, and with the appliances there. She has had several years' experience in the work and was for one year in charge of the public playgrounds in Montreal.

Miss Miller said that the children are to be allowed to come and go when they please, the grounds being open from 8.30 a. m. to 5.30 p. m., with an hour and a half allowed for dinner.

There are sand tables, swings, croquet balls and kindergarten work provided for the children. The kindergarten work consists of card sewing, marching, circle games, and block games. Basket ball is also to be played by the youngsters, and a piano has been secured, singing being one of the kindergarten programs.

The grounds will be open today for children from four years of age to twelve. The opening will not be public, but an admission will probably be given after the children have become accustomed to the games.

One or more supervisors will always be in attendance, so the children will never be left entirely alone. Quilts and beanbag chairs have been added to the equipments on the grounds.

In Montreal, Miss Miller says the circle games, swings and picture blocks were the most popular. In that city there is an evening class for boys, at which they are taught physical drill and have games suitable for their ages.

The captain of the Norwegian bark Vivax complained to the police last night that three of his crew had left him and had shipped on an American schooner. He will try and locate the men today and have them brought before the magistrate, as they are to be compelled to return to his ship.

The death occurred yesterday of J. Fred Estabrook, son of J. F. Estabrook, merchant, of North Market Street. Deceased had been in the United States for some years. He leaves four brothers and two sisters. They are William G., a member of the firm, W. E., and A. J., employed by the firm, and Ralph of Yassie & Co., Mrs. Jas. Cowan and Mrs. J. W. McAlary of the North End.

Wonderful Developments Now in Progress in Pulp and Paper Industries—New Mills From Coast to Coast.

(Pulp and Paper Magazine.)

There has been marked activity in the progress of the pulp and paper industries in British North America during the past few months. From far Vancouver Island in the West to Newfoundland in the East comes news of new companies entering into the pulp and paper fields, and generally speaking they are strong financially, and will quickly have an important place in the trade.

The Quatsino Power & Pulp Company, Limited, owning 70,000 acres of timber land will immediately let a contract for the construction of a pulp mill at Quatsino Sound in the northern end of Vancouver Island. C. L. Laing, secretary of the company says:—"We will erect a pulp mill having an initial capacity of from 60 to 70 tons per day. The erection of such a plant will involve an expenditure in the neighborhood of $200,000, the cost of which has been provided by Eastern capitalists. It has taken some little time to perfect all arrangements, but I am safe in saying that the plant will be in operation by the end of the year. We expect to fill a market for the entire output of the mill in Asia, and will later make extensions and take up the manufacture of paper."

Another large project is under way at Bella Coola in the Burrard district, British Columbia, where $1,500,000 will be invested in a pulp and paper mill plant. The principals in the industrial venture are J. E. Hart, city attorney of Seattle, and A. E. Williams, of Seattle. The capital comes principally from the Eastern States. At the present time a survey party of twenty-five men is in Bella Coola Valley completing the survey of the pulp lands. The mill is the founder of the Norwegian colony at Bella Coola. Several years ago he interested in the pulp and paper industry in the Bella Coola pulp proposal, and a lease of lands was secured from the Province. Subsequently Mr. Hart, of Seattle, to take the matter up, Mr. Williams declared roundly that the company will commence the erection of a pulp and paper mill near Bella Coola in the coast near Vancouver. The Norwegian colony has been surveyed and other preliminaries settled. The Norwegian colony has been surveyed and other preliminaries settled. DOWNHILL CABINETS

ST. PETERSBURG, July 2. Petrunkevitch, the veteran leader of the liberal movement, who has been prevented by ill health from taking prominent part in the councils of the greatest weight in the councils of the constitutional democratic party, in an interview granted to the Associated Press today expressed his conviction that the downfall of the present cabinet had been decided, and he declared his fullest confidence that the composition of a responsible parliament will soon be entrusted with the reins of government. Mr. Petrunkevitch said, notwithstanding, as a factor of the greatest weight in the councils of the constitutional democratic party, in an interview granted to the Associated Press today expressed his conviction that the downfall of the present cabinet had been decided, and he declared his fullest confidence that the composition of a responsible parliament will soon be entrusted with the reins of government.

The result of Premier Goremykin's trip to Paterhof today has not translated into his last return; but it is understood that no definite decision was reached as to his successor or the composition of the new cabinet.

The bill will come up before that body at Thursday's session.

ST. JOHN STAR, TUESDAY

A Story of France in the days of Louis XV., and how the work of a traitor was foiled by the energy of Madame Pompadour.

(Continued.) A faint cry escaped from Denise's lips. For the moment she leaned faint against the chimney-place, white and sick. Andre looked at her, but he made no effort to offer her either sympathy or help. Then he walked back, Denise watching him, and flung the letter into the fire. Denise started, but she said nothing, though her great grey eyes were eloquent with half a dozen questions. "The letter has served its purpose," Andre said. "Adieu, Marquise!" "What does this trickery mean?" she demanded, hotly. "You must forgive one who loves you," was the calm reply, "for love laughs at tricks. The Comte des Forges is alive and well; he has a woman in his shoulder, for the poor Comte is always believing that some one is betraying his honor and mine. And the Comtesse has a tickle heart. Yesterday I was his second, so I know."

revenge. "Adieu, Marquise! I go to my duty and revenge," he said, and he left her there under the spell of his mastery, with her bound and at her feet, and the flames of fire pointing to the motto "Dieu Le Vengera!" CHAPTER V. Andre rode at a walking pace down the slope to the village, for he wanted to think. He had always prided himself on his knowledge of women; he had imagined he knew Denise as well as himself. She was of his class, lovely, high-spirited, proud, patriotic, and best of all a true woman. Hence, he was a sore and surprising blow to his pride to discover that she should reject his love because she had lived the life of his and her class. He had gone to the chateau to confess everything, to swear that from this day onwards no other woman, be she beautiful as the dawn, as enchanting as Circe, could ever occupy five minutes of his thoughts. And he meant it. Those others, the shattered idols of a vanished past, had simply stunted vanity, ambition, a physical craving. But Denise he really loved. She inspired a devotion, a passion which gripped and satisfied body, soul and spirit; she was that without which life seemed unmeaning, empty, poor, despicable. But why could not she see this—the difference between a fleeting desire and the sincere homage of manhood to an ideal, between the gallant and the lover? What more had a wife a right to expect than the love of a husband, brave, loyal, faithful? It was unreasonable, for men were men and women were women. Yet here was a woman who did. But he would—must—win her. That was the adamantine resolution in his breast, all the stronger because she had scorned and defied him. Yet he would win her in his way, not hers. Yes, he would conquer her against herself. For him life now meant simply Denise—the hearth and the soul and the spirit of Denise—the conquest of a woman's will, the hot pulses of health and strength, of manhood, his noble blood and ambition throbbing responsive to the resolution. He thanked God, the God who was young and the God that there was war and a prize to be won. Yet he also felt that this love meant something new, something that transformed him into something that he had never dreamed of as possible. And victory would complete the change. So as he rode the fierce thoughts tumbled over each other in a foam of passion. In the suburbs he caught a vision of a new heaven and a new earth from which he was rudely awakened.

April dusk. He was mad, this boyish fool, stark, raving mad. But how prettily and elegantly he played the part! "See," the Chevalier said lightly, "there is no one to interrupt—the murderer, Toilette knows neither my name nor yours; she will hold her tongue for money and in half an hour you will be gone—and I"—he shrugged his shoulders—"well, it is clean lying here, cleaner, anyway, than under the grass in that dirty churchyard." "You mean it?" Andre asked slowly. The Chevalier took off his saucy hat and drew the hood over his eyes. He was the first in which the Vicomte de Nereuc had fought for a woman's sake, but the stranger, maddest that man's wit or a boy's folly could have devised. Andre was as cold as ice now, and he calmly surveyed his opponent as he tried the steel of his blade. He was young and supple and insolent; the beardless popinjay was; but he had the fence's figure, and the flicking of his weapons revealed to the trained eye that this was no affair of six paces and a coup de matre. Andre had dropped into the confident of his own famed skill and rich experience. No, he would not kill him; he would teach him a lesson that he would not forget. For a brief minute both scanned the ground carefully, as if testing it with their feet, and marking the falling of the lights from those smoking torches, the flickering of the shadows in the new chill of eve. All around was deathly still. Not so much as the cluck of a hen to "On guard!" (To be continued.)

CHICAGO, July 2.—A despatch to the Record-Herald from Youngstown, Ohio, says that six-year-old Elsie Anderson had died of wounds on her body, apparently the result of a beating with a stick filled with nails. The body was found in a hole in the wall of the top of the head to the soles of the feet there are not four square inches of skin not punctured with what appears to be nail holes and covered with ugly wounds. One arm and a shoulder were broken. Neighbors say that for three weeks the woman has kept the child hidden from her father. When the father returned to his home at night the little one was shut up in the attic. Marks on her arms indicate that she was tied with ropes.

ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY. ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY, who boarded the Bodoy with the intention of surrendering to the first Japanese ship they should encounter. Their initial act was to order a white flag hoisted. The officers of the staff of Admiral Rojestyensky and the commander of the Bodoy make a pitiable exhibition in trying to shift the responsibility for the surrender on each other. Admiral Rojestyensky, though he says he was dazed and out of his head all the time, enters a manly plea of guilty because he took no measures to prevent the surrender.

Several of them With Mr. The Smoke Won First K. Y. C. Cruising Race Finishing So. The annual cruising R. K. Y. C. was held yesterday. The course was from the buoy off Millidge House, eighteen knots. There was a heavy south breeze blowing, and several yachts were reefed through the course. The boats started according to size, and this found much better than the old system of time allowance, as the crew of each boat knew where they stood in regard to position, as soon as the race was over, while in the past the boats all started together and the time was deducted after the race. The judges were taken over the course in Commodore Thomson's steam yacht Scandia. The officers of the day were Commodore Thomson, Dr. Merrill and Geo. B. Hogan. After the boats had returned to their moorings the yachtsmen assembled in the club house, where the prizes were presented to the winners. The first prize, donated by Commodore Thomson, was a complete code of signals; second prize, donated by vice-Commodore Col. Armstrong, was a barometer; third prize, donated by Rear Commodore Dr. Merrill, was also a barometer; fourth prize, donated by J. B. McFarlane, Jr., was one year's subscription to The Rudder.

EDDING AT THE CEDARS

Clara Williams United in Marriage to Herbert Wade, of Brockton, Mass. —Bride Very Popular.

The little Anglican church at the Cedars on the river was a centre of interest yesterday, for Miss Clara Williams, daughter of Mrs. Bayard Williams, of Williams' Wharf, was being united to Herbert Wade, of Brockton, Mass., and the whole countryside was out and about to witness the nuptials. Many friends of the bride went up in the morning steamer, and guests at the Cedars helped swell the large congregation. The interior of St. James' church was delightfully adorned with fragrant blossoms, a floral canopy being the centerpiece under which the contracting pair stood during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Walworth of Kingston. Miss Williams wore a charming costume of white voile and was attended by tiny Adele Holder, daughter of William Holder of the city. The child looked as dainty as a doll in pale blue silk and white hat, carrying a basket of field daisies. The bride's bouquet was of large white roses. She was given away by her brother David, when the ceremony was concluded Mr. and Mrs. Wade had friends repaired to the Williams' home, where a luncheon was served. The remainder of the day was spent in jollification. On the returning steamer the city guests reached town. Today Mr. and Mrs. Wade leave for their new home in Brockton. The bride in leaving the up-river district has the heartfelt good wishes of all, for during her life she was one of the moving spirits in social and friendly circles throughout. Therefore she will be greatly missed. Numerous lovely gifts were showered upon her.

HUGHES—ALWARD

An interesting event took place at the residence of Mrs. W. J. Wetmore, Apoahqui, on Wednesday evening, June 27, 1906, when her niece Miss Mary Alward, of Brockton, Mass., was united in marriage to Hugh Hughes, of Cambridge, Mass., by Rev. A. M. Wood, assisted by Rev. H. F. Hall. The bride who was dressed in cream silk with a veiling trimmed with pink lace, carrying a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern, entered the parlor on the arm of her cousin D. H. Folkins and the stranger the city guests reached town. Today Mr. and Mrs. Wade leave for their new home in Brockton. The bride in leaving the up-river district has the heartfelt good wishes of all, for during her life she was one of the moving spirits in social and friendly circles throughout. Therefore she will be greatly missed. Numerous lovely gifts were showered upon her.

Millidgeville has been forging ahead rapidly as a summer resort. Among the cottages soon to be erected there will be one owned by Horace King, who has contracted with F. He has not definitely decided upon the plans for the house yet, but it will probably be about two and a half stories high.

LOCAL NEWS.

Band is requested to play tonight at 8 o'clock. Meet every member at 8 o'clock.

A meeting of the city laborers' union will be held this evening in their rooms, Sutherland Hall. A full attendance is requested.

Mrs. Harry M. Pratt, (nee Vincent), will receive her friends Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings at 89 Millidgeville Avenue.

Verner L. O. L. will meet tonight at 7:30 at Orange Hall, Germain street. The St. John county officers will pay an official visit to Dominion L. O. L. No. 141 at 8:30 this evening.

Real summer travel commenced in earnest this morning and all the trains coming and going were filled to their utmost capacity. The Brockton train was especially crowded and although there were a number of extra cars on that train yet standing room could hardly be obtained.

Attention is drawn to the card of Bustin and French, solicitors, etc., in another column. Their offices are at Chubb's corner. The members of the firm are Stephen Bustin, formerly of Bustin and Porter, and Miss Mabel French, B. C. L.

Arthur McMann, of Brockton, and well known in this city, returns to Cambridge, Mass., in a few days to resume his work. His visit east this time is a sad one, being here to inter the remains of his wife, formerly Miss Barry, of P. E. I. The burial was made on a private funeral.

Edward Lucas, the Nova Scotia negro who was recently sentenced to life imprisonment for rape and fourteen years more for housebreaking, spent last night at the county jail. He is in charge of Sheriff Gates, of St. John's Royal, who is taking him to the penitentiary at Dorchester.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Church of England S. S. Teachers' Association will be held in St. George's church school house, Carlton, this evening at eight o'clock. The programme will consist of a paper on Music in the Sunday School, by Miss McCarthy, teacher of music in the Moncton public schools.

The adjourned special meeting of the common council is being held this afternoon. The regular July meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock. Among the questions which will likely be up for discussion are C. P. R. matters, in regard to improvements at this port; the ferry system as affected by the Sunday observance law and the west side dredging situation.

The traffic on the I. C. R. out of the city yesterday, for 1st July, was the heaviest that has ever been seen since the beginning of the road. The C. P. R. also did a great business and on the Brockton express, which was due to arrive here at 11 o'clock last evening, were over one thousand passengers. There were also several special trains which were crowded to their utmost capacity.

The fourteen months old child of Walter McKay, of Sheriff street, had a narrow escape from strangling to death on Saturday afternoon at Mr. McKay's home. The child was playing with a small ball which in some manner went into the child's mouth and stuck in its throat. Dr. McInerney managed to extract the ball from the child's throat.

SPLENDID ATTRACTIONS FOR THE EXHIBITION

Mr. Milligan, manager of the exhibition committee, received a letter from P. G. Spencer stating that the attractions which he is bringing for the smaller amusement hall are attractions that ran for six months in the big Hammerstein vaudeville hall, New York. Mr. Spencer also said that he will make the announcement concerning the arrangements for the larger amusement hall in Thursday morning's papers. Letters have also been received from nearly all the manual training teachers in the province, stating that they have all exhibits now ready for the exhibition. A letter from T. B. Kitchner stated that the model school of the Provincial Normal School will also have a manual training exhibit, but will not enter competition with the other schools.

Demonstration IN CORSETTING COMMENCED TODAY AT MRS. LTD. Ladies of St. John and vicinity are being treated to a series of common-sense talks—little lectures, they may be called—on Corsets and the Proper Wearing of them. Miss Castle, of New York, a lady whose experience in this work in metropolitan cities has made her a very intelligent demonstrator, arrived yesterday, and is pleased to meet our friends and patrons. A special apartment has been set aside for this purpose. Though Corsets in general is the theme of the demonstrator, she particularly exemplifies the pre-eminent qualities of the famous "F. P." brand, which includes the "Armorside," "Elonga Hip," "Military Form," "Sultana," etc., goods which won highest gold awards at St. Louis. We trust the Ladies of the city will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn some new phases of corset-making and corset-wearing, for Miss Castle comes very highly recommended by houses in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.
