Union Between Newfoundland | which Prime Minister Bond should and Canada.

Question Comes Up at Banquet of Colonial Premiers-A Question of Terms.

London, July 17 .- The Canada Club dinner last night was attended by the colonial premiers now in London, and many other distinguished guests: Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, Canadian High Commissioner, in London, presided The Right Hon. Edmund Barton. Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, in the course of an address, made the first public reference to the plan for the confederation of Newfoundland and Canada mentioned in these dispatches. The Australian Premier said he hoped that all obstacles in the way of Newfoundland joining the Dominion would be re-

Identified by the Girl He Assaulted.

Clayton Miss. July 17.-Wm. Odv. a egro who last night attempted to assault Miss Virginia Tucker, of this place, was burned at the stake at midnight. The attack was most brutal. The young lady was riding in the country, when she was attacked, and was so violently pulled from her buggy by the negro that both her legs were broken. The scene of the assault was a lonely spot in a country road. Ody hailed Miss Tucker with the information that she had dropped a package. She stopped the horse, and the negro approached as if to pick up the suposed package. He seized the girl's wrists and dragged her violently from the vehicle, both her legs being broken in the fall. Miss Tucker screamed, and was found a few moments later by a doctor who was driving by. She is now said to be at the point of death. After Ody's capture by the posse, a mob quickly formed and took charge of the prisoner. He was brought before Miss Tucker, who positively identified him, although he asserted innocence. Ody was taken to a spot in the country near the scene of the assault, and bonfire was built about a tree. was told to prepare for death. When the manner of his execution became apparent, he begged piteously for mercy. He was securely bound, oil was poured over his clothing, and in a short period only his charred bones marked the

He was pale and wore a soft felt hat. Otherwise he showed no signs of his injuries. The meeting of the cabinet gave fresh impetus to the reconstruction reports. One of these is the suggestion that the Duke of Marlborough will succeed Lord Curzon of Kedleston as Viceroy of India. But there is not the least possibility of any such appointment. It appears very doubtful if Lord Curzon will come home before the expira tion of his term of office. As a matter of fact there is no appointment which could be offered him, except the Foreign Office, which would be a promotion from the viceroyality of India, and there is no indication that Lord Lansdowne has any intention of retiring. MOLDERS IN CONFERENCE

Matter of Changing Ratio of Apprentices Discussed.

Coal Barons Say Strike Can Only Be Settled by Men Returning.

Toronto, July 16 .- A most important Toronto, July 16.—A most important conference was begun this morning between the convention of the iron molders of North America and C. H. Castle and D. McAfee of Quincy, Ill.; J. Dwyer, of Detroit; D. W. Pick, of Rochester; I. J. Hogan, of Chicago, and other representatives of the Stove Manufacturers' Association respecting Manufacturers' Association respecting the apprenticeship ratio. The relations between the manufacturers and the men have been of the most cordial nature, and for tweive years there has been no strife in any of the union shops in the United States. Molders have become very scarce under the union regulation limiting the number of apprentices to one for every eight journeymen, and the employers urged the union today to agree to the ratio of one in six. The conference is still

SOFT COAL MINERS. Indianapolis, July 16.—The national convention of the United Mine We kers will assemble here tomorrow discuss the advisability of calling a strike to aid the anthracite men, who have been out in the east for several weeks. The action of the convention is uncertain, although the situation tonight indicates that there will be no walk-out of the soft coal men. If President Mitchell would declare that some sort of the soft coal men. his personal preferences, it would not be difficult to foretell the outcome. At present he controls the situation abolutely and can swing the delegates either way. He will not say openly that he wishes war, and while he is willing to advise under no circumstances will he assume to dictate to the convention what to do. He said tonight, however, that the action to-morrow would result in the winning of the strike by the anthracite men in

New York, July 16 .- An informal conference between the presidents of the anthracite roads took place here anthracite yesterday, at which the anthracite strike was discussed. At this conferwere President Baer, of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad; President Underwood, of the Erie; President Fowler, of the New York, Ontarlo & Western, and President Truesdale, of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western It was learned that Rev. Father J. J. Curran, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who called on President Baer at Philadelphia on Monday, was so much discouraged with the result that he will make no further attempts at settlement, and will not try to see any of the other operators. President Fowler, of the New York, Ontario & Western, said: "There will be no conces-sions on the part of the presidents of any kind or description. There can be no settlement except by the men returning to work. Nothing that will happen can change out attitude on these points." Similar statements were made by Messrs. Baer and Trues-

Village Work in India.

Mission literature is of rapidly inreasing volume, and of great value in the increase of information it is affording of the lives of foreign peoples. From a patriotic standpoint, as well as from the Christian, it is of importance that we should learn all that is possible of the inhabitants of India. The Fleming H. Revell Company have issued lately a book by Norman Russell, a missionary who has labored for some years under the Presbyterian Church of Canada in Central India. "Village Work in India," may be divided fairly enough into two parts, one of which gives the experiences of the author in pursuing his appointed work in the villages of that strange land, and the other is a plea in favor of evangelistic work among the natives. The difficulties in the way of Christianizing the people are many, and as occasionally stated would seem insurmountable, but on the other hand, instances are given which would in-dicate that notwithstanding all the barriers of caste, idolatry and poverty, those to whom the Christian missionary speaks are open to the sweet influences of the story of Jesus Christ and his love for men. It is the same India with which so many of Rudyard Kipling's stories deal, but from a different standpoint, and while there is nothing of Kipling's genius flashing from these pages, yet the very simplicity of the tale has its own fascination, and the book is full of interest, especially to all who seek to keep in touch with the progress of the Christian Church in foreign lands. It is fairly well illustrated and sells at

In the latter period all the Australasian colonies are included. From British Africa we in 1901 imported $90,687 worth of goods for consumption, and exported $1,086,965 worth. During the eleven months of the last fiscal year we imported $15,808 worth, all free goods, and exported produce to the value of $3,548,513.

WITH THE UNITED STATES. From the United States during the eleven months' period our imports for consumption were $107,572,987, of which $54,041,713 were free goods. Our ports totalled $61,165,327, of which $56,953,105 was domestic produce. For the twelve months of 1901 our total imports for consumption from the United States were $107,149,325, of which a little less than one-half were free goods. Our exports to the United States during the same period totalled $70,406,841, all but two and a half millions being domestic produce.

WITH GERMANY.

From Germany our imports for consumption during the eleven months were $9,485,042, and during the previous year $7,020,100, showing an increase of $2,464,942. Our exports for the same periods were $2,400,000 and $2,141,552, or an apparent gain of $258,449 in favor of the eleven months of 1902. The increase was really in foreign produce sent from Canada, as the exports of domestic goods show a decline of $175,-

Our imports for consumption from France reached a value of$6,048,329 during the eleven months referred to, and our exports to $1,244,699. In 1901 our imports were $5,397,793, and our exports $1,581,351.

TRACING HARRY TRACY

When Last Seen He Was Very Tired-Mrs. Wagner's Claim for $2,750.

Tacoma, Wash., July 15.-Officers again believe they are closing in on Harry Tracy, the escaped convict, who is on the Gold Hill trail, east of Buck-ley. He ate yesterday at the Gardiner ranch, on Mud Mountain, and had breakfast today with a logger named Clark. He apparently took the Gold Hill route in order to secure rest. He appeared very tired.

The body of Merrill, partner of Tracy, was found by a Mrs. Wagner and her 12-year-old son, of Napavine, yesterday, and she will claim the retis and Diabetes, upon application, either in person or writing to the above address. while picking berries they discovered the corpse thrown over a log and jammed between two tree stumps a few feet above the stumps of the stu oad. A bullet hole is plainly seen in the back, and there is also one in the wrist. It is believed that there is another wound in the neck, but the sheriff would not permit anyone examine the body. The indications are that Tracy fired the first shot from behind a tree, and then completed the assassination of his dying comrade and brother-in-law at close range. Merrill is believed to have been killed on Saturday morning. June 28.

Save the Creature's Life.

New York, July 16 .- Dr. George Cohen, a veterinary surgeon, who has an office in this city at 135 Division street, went down to his summer place at Rockaway Beach on Sunday to loaf, says the Sun. He had just got his toes in the surf, when a bathhouse man and another fellow came plunging through the sand to him.

"Hey, Mr. Doctor," shouted the other man. "Come quick. Engel's horse has swallowed a million dollars. Hurry!" "What is it?" asked Dr. Cohen, with the judicial calmness of the medical practitioner who is disturbed at recreation by a call.

"Engel's horse has all his money swallowed. He has lost a thousand dollars by his fast horse." "There, there, my good fellow," said the horse doctor, who thought that in this case at any rate he could diagnose a two-footed ailment. "Mr. Engel whoever he is, is not the first man who has lost money by a horse lately. He will very likely lose more before long. There, there." Dr. Cohen kept his eye

"I think you are a craziness," howled the caller. "Couldn't you understand what I say? Martin Engel's horse rods before stopping. He was nearly is choking himself to death, and you play like a baby that never was near the water before. Come quick. Don't you want Mr. Engel's business, that you swim when his horse dies. hey?"
But as soon as Dr. Cohen had heard what Mr. Engel it was that required his services he had dashed out to the Lake street, while playing on a float it. He ran to his bathhouse, grabbed in the old canal, near Bishop Ridley College, slipped and fell into the water and was drowned. The body has not made a wild dash for Arverne, where made a wild dash for Arverne, where Martin Engel lives in summer.

Gases in the Air.

When Lord Raleigh announced that the air contained other gases besides those which had for long been known to enter into its composition there was for the moment a gasp of almost incredulous surprise. If anything were well known by chemists, surely it was the composition of the air. One new constituent suggested, however, the tas argon, was proved by many observations to have a real existence. A little later other elements, some of them hitherto unknown, were found to exist in appreciable quantities in the atmosphere. Among them was the gas of the metal helium, whose presence had been originally detected in the sun's atmosphere by means of the spectroscope. This metal received its name from its supposed existence in the sun alone, as no trace of it had ever been noted on the earth, yet it was now found to be present in the air we breathe. Ramsay and Travers have recently devoted their attention to five new gases in the air. These are, besides argon and helium, neon, crypton and xenon. The chemic relations of these substances are now being determined, and their atomic weight varies from that of helium, which is 4, up to that of xenon, which is 128.

Drawing On Canada.

The flow of American capital into Canadian lands is growing in volume. An Iowa syndicate has arranged to utilize $1,000,000 in colonizing Manitoba and Assinibola with American settlers, who will pay for their lands in money installments, and partly in labor. Commenting on the exodus from the United States to the Canadian Northwest, and Lord Strathcona's prediction that in ten years Canada would be able to supply all the breadstuffs required by the United Kingdom, the Minneapolis Tribune asserts that the production of raw food for export is not a permanent industry in a progressive nation, and that the most advanced nations import their food, export more valuable products of labor to pay for it, and spend the surplus in luxuries. It does not feel any alarm, therefore, over the transfer of the wheat growing industry from Minnesota to Canada, but regards it as natural, inevitable, and on the whole desirable. Nor, in its opinion, is wheat the only product in question. "Soon," it thinks, "we shall see the wisdom of drawing on the still unspoiled forests of Canada and taking the profit of manufacture out of their lumber as well as our own before letting it go to market." This is a very comfortable view, but we imagine the complacency of the Tribune would be disturbed if it knew anything about the facts of the lumber industry. Once upon a time Michigan saw the "wisdom of drawing on the still unspoiled forests of Canada, and taking the profit of manufacture out of their lumber as well before letting it go to market." But Ontario also became wise, and determined that Canadians should "take the profit of manufacture" themselves. Hence the sawlog policy-of which the Tribune has apparently never heard, or it would not have taken the Canadians for a lot of gudgeons, content to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the "advanced" nation to the south. The forests of Ontario have been considerably "spoiled" by our enterprising neighbors, but hereafter the spoiling will be done entirely in the interests of Canada. The Tribune is quite welcome to any consolation it may derive from the transfer of the wheat-growing industry from Minnesota to the Canadian Northwest. If the most advanced nations import their food, as the Tribune says, the United States cannot be classed among them, because fully twothirds of its exports are foodstuffs. As a patriotic journal the Tribune must refute its own logic. It would be the first to argue that the United States has reached the highest state of industrial efficiency, and this is trug. With the growth of population the United States may cease to become a food-exporting nation, but will it really be an advancement when the American people reach the stage when they will be dependent upon other countries for their food? Isn't that one source of weakness to Great Britain now? Is the gradual disappearance of a sturdy farming population a sign of progress? What a foolish notion it is that agriculture and manufacturing industry cannot thrive side by side! It is false economics, too. Canada rejoices in the role of a great food-exporting nation. The more her plains are filled by a food-producing population, the greater will she become industrially and commercially. Besides, a nation derives a moral strength from the soil.

Blue Blood in Politics.

Joseph Chamberlain committed the unpardonable crime of not being nobly born.-Chicago Tribune. There is truth in such a statement, to the extent that the high Tories preferred to see a scion of nobility as Premier. But has Mr. Chamberlain been handicapped in his political career because he is not blue-blooded? Disraeli was not an aristocrat, but he "broke his birth's invidious bar" and became the political darling of the landed gentry, whose ablest champion he was during the Corn Law agitation. Sir Robert Peel, the son of a cotton manufacturer, was twice Prime Minister of England, with the support of an aristocratic party. Gladstone, whose father was a planter, was at one time "the rising hope of the stern, unbending Tories." These examples prove that merit wins its way to the highest places in British public life, without regard to the arti-Acial distinctions of birth. Sir Robert Peel was the representative of that new aristocracy of wealth which was brought into existence by the rise of manufacturing industry late in the eighteenth and early in the nineteenth century. For generations politics had been almost entirely in the hands of old landed families. Their political suof the mercantile community. British cabinets. There is no doubt that Mr. Chamberlain, as a type of the commercial class, has had to encounter a strong social antagonism in the Unionist party, but it would be rash to say that this has deprived him of the Premiership in the present instance. It must be remembered that he is only a comparatively recent recruit to Conservatism, and that he is He never came a wink too soon, not implicitly trusted by the Tories.

Rectory Street.

When the street car people, without the slightest authority, were tearing up the rails on Rectory street, the mayor professed to be very indignant, as also the city engineer, and they were going to stop it at once, sending out the police, if necessary, for that purpose. However, their zeal soon flagged, and the mayor sought to justify his want of action by the assertion that he had Mr. Carr's definite undertaking that the rails would be put down immediately if the bylaw did not pass. Well, the bylaw did not pass, thanks to the public meeting and the pressure brought to bear upon the mayor and his council, and yet the rails are not down, and we have weak and vascillating talk about not wanting law and the rest of it. Within the last day or two the street railway have removed the crossing on the switch of the Grand Trunk, south of the main line.

Did the mayor have Mr. Carr's undertaking? If so, why is it not carried

The Imperial Conference without Mr. Chamberlain is like a performance of cab horse slips on the pavement, the cab lurches, and the whole Conference is upset. The force of accident in history would make an interesting theme. Would the current of British politics have been greatly changed, for instance, if Sir Robert Peel had not been thrown from his horse? Examples might be multiplied.

An electric railway bill, to promote a great traction project in old London, vas before the British House of Comnons yesterday. It was supported by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and opposed by Mr. Yerkes, both American capitalists. This is only one indication of the extent to which American enterprise is exploiting the British metropolis. The whole work of installing electric traction in old London has been left to Americans. It is not creditable to British enterprise.

A Sensible Suggestion.

[Victoria, B. C., Times.] It is a pity the subject of an empire news distributing agency had not been suggested as a subject for discussion by the colonial conference. The Associated Press is no doubt an admirable institution in the field it was designed for, but it comes far short of meeting the requirements of a Canadian news service. Instead of the news of our own country we receive sensational accounts of negro burnings and seizures of illicit whisky stills where in the south; instead of ac-counts of events in Great Britain we are compelled to read fables about J. Pierpont Morgan buying railway and steamship lines, old pictures or older castles, and American jockeys teaching Britons how to ride. If the press of this country wants to inform its readers about any event of interest transpiring in Winnipeg, Toronto, or Montreal, it is told it can be had on the payment of so much per word extra. The Associated Press should understand it is time for a change.

GREAT FOREST OF CANADA A Timber Belt Four Thousand

> Stretched Across the Continent From Ocean to Ocean.

Miles in Its Extent.

Many persons have wondered if the stories are true about an immense northern belt of timber stretching across Canada from the Atlantic to Alaska. It is said that none of this forest has yet been utilized by man, though it has immense resources in pulp wood and other timber.

There is no doubt that the timber is there, says the New York Sun, and that it is a great reserve source of future wealth. One may easily trace this belt of timber far across Canada on any

The east end of the belt overhangs Atlantic waters to the north of the Strait of Belle Isle, and touches the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, south of that strait. It sweeps westward round the southern prolongation of Hudson Bay, known as James' Bay, northwest between Hudson Bay and Lake Winnipeg, to beyond the Churchill River and then on across the lake regions of the Northwest Territories and still farther to Alaska.

Alaska.

This mighty belt of trees is about 4,000 miles long, and has an average width of 700 miles. Of course, the trees tend to become smaller in the north.

Probably Dr. Robert Bell, the well-known geologist, who has been connected with the Canadian geological survey for many years, has writen more about this northern forest than any other man. He has been studying the geographical distribution of the Canadian forest trees for forty years, and his maps are often distribution of the Canadian forest trees for forty years, and his maps are often used to show the extent of the Canadian timber lands.

One of his maps published in the Scot-tish Geographical Magazine in 1897 shows the northern limits of the principal trees in the four original provinces (the east-ern provinces) of Canada.

in the four original provinces (the eastern provinces) of Canada.

The great northern forest belt has everywhere the same characterstic features. The trees, as a rule, are not large, and consist for the most part of nine species—black and white spruce, Banksian pine, larch, balsam fir, aspen, balsam poplar, canoe birch and bird cherry, with several kinds of small willows. The spruces, spread all through the belt, thrive further to the north than any of the other varieties.

There are great forest fires in this tree belt, but we seldom hear of them. They

There are great forest fires in this tree belt, but we seldom hear of them. They are mostly due to lightning in the summer time, for during the hot, dry season lightning is very frequent in all parts of Canada.

The conditions are then perfect for great forest fires, the pitchy trees burning with almost explosive rapidity. Some of the fires have been known to run over 150 miles in ten hours, or at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

These fires account for the patchy appearance of the great northern forests. If a person stands at a height where he can look over a wide region he sees that all through the forest are different of green, covering larger or smaller These shades of color represent growths of different ages, beginning after forest fires of different periods. This process of growth and destruction is going on all Sometimes the areas destroyed embrace thousands of square miles. On the whole, however, it is believed that the new growth fully replaces the destruction, so that the amount of timber in the forest belt is about the same from year to year.

THE MARKETS

THE LOCAL MARKET. London, Thursday, July 17.

It was a berry and vegetable market here today. Sales were very good, but prices were a trifle lower in the small lines offered.

Grain—No wheat offered. A few loads of oats sold 4c to 5c per cwt higher, at $\frac{1}{2}$! 44 per cwt.

London, July 16.—The offerings at the wool auction sales numbered 12,924 bales. All grades were in good demand, and fine merinos showed an advance of 2½ to 5 per cent above the opening rates. Several lots of good merinos were taken by America, and the demand from this quarter stimulated competition. Cross-breds were firm, but the large supply hampered sellers. Following are the sales in detail: New South Wales, 3,300 bales; scoured, 4½d to 1s 3½d; greasy, 5½d to 1s ½d. Queensland, 700 bales; scoured, 1s 1d to 1s 9d; greasy, 7¾d to 11¼d. Victoria, 2,200 bales; scoured, 9½d to 1s 8½d; greasy, 2½d to 1s 1d. South Australia, 600 bales; scoured, 8d to 1s 6d; greasy, 3¾d to 11d. Tasmania, 100 bales; greasy, 11½d to 1s 1d. New Zealand, 6,100 bales; scoured, 8d to 1s 2d; greasy, 3¾d to 1s. Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 600 bales; scoured, 8d to 10½d; greasy, 4¾d to 9d. River Platte, 41 bales; greasy, 4d to 4¼d. of oats sold 4c to 5c per cwt higher, at $1 44 per cwt.

Hay and Straw—Twenty-five loads were offered, and found a slow sale at $7 50 to $8 per ton. Straw is scarce, at $6 per $\ \text{per}$ per ton. Straw is scarce, at $\ \text{6}$ per ton.

Butter and Eggs—Butter was in fair supply, at 15c to 16c for crocks and 16c to 17c for pound rolls. Eggs are in good demand, at 13½c to 14c per dozen for crate and basket lots.

Vegetables and Roots—There was a large display of vegetables. New potatoes sold at $\ \text{1}$ to $\ \text{1}$ 15 per bu; old potatoes sold at $\ \text{1}$ to $\ \text{1}$ 15 per bu; old potatoes were scarce, at $\ \text{1}$ per by the basket for choice, and 5c per 1b for seconds; cabbage more plentiful, at 50c per dozen; cauliflowers at 40c to 70c per dozen.

Fruits—Black raspberries sold at 5c to 7c per box; currants, black, 8c to 10c per quart; red currants, 4c to 6c per box; goose-kerries, 4c to 6c.

Dressed Hogs—Only about six or eight offered; price paid, $\ \text{9}$ per cwt.

Meats—Sales are slow.

HARROWING EXPERIENCE

Of Harry De Windt and Party, En Route From Siberia to Yukon.

Seattle, Wash., July 16. - A special to the Times from Dawson says: Harry DeWindt, of Paris, traveler, explorer, author, journalist and globe trotter, arrived with a party from Siberia on a river steamer last night. His companions are Mone. le Viscomte Desclinchams Belgrade, of Paris; George Harding, an Englishman, and CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 16.—Grain trading was commonplace today, when compared to yesterday's tumultuous fluctuations.

Many conditions were bearish, and early in the day it was expected that July corn would take another drop. This, however, did not occur and the absence of weakness gave rise to the opinion that the July corner might not be a thing of the past after all. At the close July corn was 14c up September corn Stephen Rastorguyef, a Russian from Yakutakat, Siberia, whom the government insisted should accompany DeWindt through the wilds of Si-

DeWindt and his party left Paris Dec. 19, and when interviewed last night told of harrowing experiences with cold and hunger.

Commanded by Capt. John Bartlett, she sailed from New York for the north on July 3, 1898, parted company with thing of the past after all. At the close July corn was \(\frac{1}{3} \) cup, September corn unchanged. September wheat \(\frac{1}{3} \) corn and September oats \(\frac{1}{3} \) corn to \(\frac{1}{3} \) corn lower, and September oats \(\frac{1}{3} \) corn to \(\frac{1}{3} \) corn lower, Local receipts of wheat were \(\frac{125}{5} \) cars, only \(\frac{2}{3} \) of contract grade, but nearly all new stuff; Minneapolis and Duluth reported \(\frac{215}{5} \) cars, making a total for the three points of \(\frac{340}{340} \) cars, against \(\frac{25}{3} \) last week and \(\frac{360}{3} \) a year ago. Primary receipts were \(\frac{886}{3600} \) bu, compared to \(\frac{1,116}{3600} \) bu. Seaboard clearances in wheat and flour equaled \(\frac{517}{31000} \) bu. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat \(\frac{145}{350} \) cars; corn, \(\frac{450}{350} \) cars; oats, \(\frac{70}{3} \) cars; hogs, \(\frac{27,000}{3} \) head. The party report famine among the natives at Nijniskobynisk.

The Famous Steamer Remodeled, Strengthened and Fortified for Polar Work.

New York, July 17 .- The Peary Arctic steamship Windward has left for the north. She came down under her own steam from Newburg, N. Y., machinery.

The Windward has been completely hanged, and goes north as a full powered, completely equipped, and thoroughly commodious ship for Arctic work. To admit the new and powerful boilers, once in the Vigilancia, wrecked on the Cuban coast, the mainmast was removed, giving the ship the nondescript rig of square sails on the foremast and a fore and aft spanker and topsail on the mizzen.

Across the deck just forward of the poop was built a house which has five staterooms, three of which, on the starboard side, will be occupied by ing on the port side, while the roof of the house serves as a bridge for the navigating officer.

The new engine is a "steeple compound" and is expected to give speed of from 7 to 8 knots, equal to that of the fastest of the Newfoundland sail-

PLANS FOR THE VOYAGE. The Windward, after coaling at Sydney, C. B., proceeds north through the Straits of Belle Isle, touching at Godhaven and possibly at Upernavik, and should reach Peary's headquarters about Aug. 1.

Stores for a year and additional supplies for the Jenson station at Cumberland Sound were taken on. In addition to the customary supplies a large amount of material for the Eskimos, presents from Mr. Peary in recognition of their faithful work, and scientific instruments with which to carry on deep sea work were shipped.

HAS A LONG HISTORY. The Windward, a 320-ton bark, is the most interesting and historic of all for more than a quarter of a century emloyed in whale fisheries. Extensive repairs were made to the hull and machinery early in the spring of 1890, and July 20, commanded by Capt. Samuel W. Bartlett, she sailed from Sydney with Mrs. Peary on board for the north, and, except for a report ther was heard from her until the arrival of the Erik, the auxiliary ship of 1901, at Etah Aug. 4. Saved Person Detests Rescuers. "A very remarkable thing about rescues from accidental deaths, and one which is completely at variance with popular theories, is that rescued person invariably detests the man who has saved his life. "I have drawn the attention of several prominent psychologists to this every feature connected with it, including the life-saver. No Such Thing as Death-Grip.

"Another mistaken impression about swimming rescues which has caused the loss of many lives is the belief in the celebrated but non-existent 'death-There are many things connected grip.' This belief has caused many rescuers to keep away for fear they might be carried down in the grip, and

"People in the water who are drowning may catch hold of you, but not in the way we hear so much about, by which the two go down to their deaths locked in an unbreakable grip. Best Way to Effect Rescue.

"The best way to make a rescue is to swim on your back, holding the other person on his back and with his head about the middle of your body. This gives you a hand free, and you have your man in such a position that he cannot interfere with your movements by grabbing your legs.

"Everybody has heard the tale that drowning man comes to the top three times before going down forever. There is little foundation for such a superstition. A man may go down once and never come up again, or he Pay Your Water may come up more than three times. It all depends on the vitality of the individual and his luck in catching worked out if the swimmer will stand his breath as he rises to the top of the water.

> "If the drowning man grabs you, you can make him let go by pressing jaw. Pressure there will produce such pain that the victim will involuntarily break the grip on your hand or leg to put his hand up to the source of the

"Another fallacy is that drowning people throw up their hands just as they start to sink. The feat is one which only a good swimmer can perform, and will not be done by a man who is drowning, because he is not a good swimmer. To throw up your hands out of the water you must 'tread water.'

ST. ANDREW'S PICNIC

Outing Next Tuesday Promises To Be Very Successful.

Every arrangement is completed for the great outing of Scotchmen and their families on Tuesday next. The crowd that will be at Port Stanley promises to be larger and more enthusiastic than any picnic of St. Andrew's has ever seen before, and the committees who have the plans in hand are confident that this year's outing will be more distinctly enjoyable than any of its predecessors. The music will be furnished by the Kilties Granger left today on a business trip from Toronto and the 7th Regiment band, and will be of the usual high standard of these well-known organiof their friends as well.

Toronto, Ont., July 17 .- A lawsuit, which promises to be a big legal battle, was entered today against the City of Toronto, B. V. Hole, of London, and the Forest City Paving Company. The object is to prevent the laying of pavements on three Toronto streets, contracts for which the council on Monday night awarded to the Forest City, Company, who were the low-est tenderers. The plaintiffs in the action are Wm.

Allen, who sues on behalf of all ratepayers, and with him is the Construction and Paving Company of Ontario, who were unsuccessful tenderers for the work on these three streets. Chicago, July 17 .- Corn was the opening today. Receipts continued to be very heavy, 492 cars, of which 225 der. were contract. Private elevators turned out 105 cars and 22,000 bushels, making a total of over 400,000 bushels of contract today. Bearish conditions prevailing, however, had no weight with the shorts. When the Harris-Gates crowd began bidding up July options, the trade was all at sea as to what the buying meant. July opened 3-8c to 1 7-8c higher at 66c to 671/2c, and at once advanced to 681/2c. September opened 1-8c and 1/4c lower to 1-8c and 4c higher at 59 3-8c to 59%c, and sold to 601/2c. After the advance of the first half hour the buying of July eased, and that option hung fire a while, then slid back to 601/4c.

Piano Recital.

A piano recital was given last evening by the piano pupils of Mr. Bert Weir, at his residence, 493 Adelaide street. The assisting artists were Pauline Mowat, contralto, and David Murray, violinist. The young pianists displayed talent, and showed the careful teaching and training given them by Mr. Weir. Miss Mowat was in excellent voice, and her songs were greatly appreciated by the audience. Mr. Murray's selections on the violin were one of the most pleasing features of the evening. The following programme was rendered:

WHEAT CUT DOWN BY HAIL

Thousands of Acres Swept of Crops-Cut Swath 100 Miles Long.

St. Paul, Minn., July 17 .- While it now seems practically certain that no lives were lost in the terrific storms that devastated a portion of the Red River Valley near Grand Forks, N. D. Tuesday night, the loss to farmers will be heavy. Hardly a farm in the pathway of the storm-end it was almost hundred miles, by ten miles wide-but had some building either demolished or damaged. The loss to the wheat crop is reported to have been heavy. Thousands of acres of wheat were literally beaten into the ground by the hail that accompanied the wind and rain. In some places every vestige of the crop was cut out.

It is as yet impossible to make any. thing approximating a correct esti-mate of the damage done, but it will doubtless be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

FRENCH SENTENCED

Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Common Assault Only.

Joseph French, jun., an Oneida Indian, appeared before Judge Edward committing an indecent assault on Sophia Noah, an Indian girl under 18 years of age. No evidence was taken. After a conference between the judge. Crown Attorney Magee and Talbot Macbeth, K.C., counsel for the prisoner, the latter consented to have his client plead guilty to a charge of common assault. Judge Elliott, in passing sentence, said that there was no doubt that the girl had been badly used, but the evidence taken before the magistrate was not sufficient to connect the prisoner with the offense charged. In consideration of the prisoner's previous good character, his pleading guilty to the lesser charge, and his having already spent six weeks in jail, the judge imposed a light sentence, ordering him to be incarcerated till 1 p.m. on July 23.

While he many a man would have brought her an ice from the North Pole to be so commanded with such a motive. While he executed his mission he was scheming a thousand ways of meeting his tormenter here, in this very house, at the Villa, in the park, whenever and wherever he could get a glimpse of her. His head was doing. And yet this was a man who could drive an unruly team to an inch in a crowded thoroughfare, who could steer a boat to a nicety in a gale of wind, whose friends believed him to be heartless, blase, impenetrable and cold as the very ice he handed to his cousin.

While she sipped it she kept him near her. She was especially kind, and perhaps a little patronizing to Bella, but she had determined to make her feel in a thousand ways that her cousin was her own peculiar property; that the idea of a whise Jopes flying at such high game.

thousand ways that her cousin was her own peculiar property; that the idea of a Miss Jones flying at such high game was simply ridiculous, and that to enter the lists against herself, with all her advantages of person, position and propinquity, was but to insure defeat.

Gilbert in the happiest frame of mind, for reasons of his own, played into her hands unwittingly, and suffered her to appropriate and tyrannize over him with all the satisfaction of a willing captive. Even Lady Olivia scowled at them as she passed; and Bella, who thought it the most natural thing in the world that cousins should be engaged, treasured up that fact for future comment, and entercousins should be engaged, treasured up that fact for future comment, and entered into the spirit of the conversation with a good-humored vivacity that Lady Gertrude thought rather "pushing." and Gilbert never thought about at all. It was a pretty "ame enough of blindman's buff, and nobody caught.

Bella would have enjoyed it more had tingluded another player. In the midst

Bella world have enjoyed it more had it included another player. In the midst of her smiles she winced every now and then to think John Gordon had broken his promise and had not come. He who had got her the invitation to this gathering of smart people, who took such an interest in her first plunge into society, who had told her so assuredly that he would be there to take care of her if she wanted him, and now to forget all about it, and not to come. It was unlike him—it was inconsiderate—it was unkind!

Gordon attends to business before pleasure. An express from the office reached him at dinner at his club. He had been closeted for hours in that office, poring over accounts by the light of a tallow candle, in company with a dirty man, who looked as if he had just come off a long voyage and a short allowance of fresh water: which is, indeed, the fact. fresh water: which is, indeed, the fact. Since then he had been home to dress, and is now jingling here in a cab as fast as that vehicle can bring him.

As Bella sailed downstairs in the wake of her chaperone, John Gordon was coming up, but he turned back to accompany her to the cloak-room, and postponed paying his respects to his hostess and her niece till he should have put her into the ce till he should have put her into the in the string, waiting to take her off.

The poor girl looked up reproachfully in his face as he prepared to wrap her up, and held her cloak out with extended arms for the purpose; but in Lohn's usually imperturbable countenance. John's usually important contentions there was a wistful, pitying expression that she could not fathom, yet that she was conscious she had never seen there before. Half frightened and more than half inclined to cry, she could only get out:

"I thought you were never coming, Mr. Gordon; but thank you for my evening, all the same."

"I hope you enjoyed it," was his answer, as he put her into the carriage; and again the same pitying expression swept over his features. "Good-night, Bella—God bless you!"

He had never pressed her hand sowarmly till tonight; he had never said "God bless you!" to her in her life before. What could it all mean?

The crowd was thinning rapidly, and he made his way upstairs without difficulty. Lady Olivia's reception was for her wonderfully gracious, and Gertrude was still monopolizing her cousin Gilbert. John Gordon walked up to them with his usual cold and impassive air. Gilbert saw nothing in his friend different than usual; but Lady Gertrude gave one quick. usual: but Lady Gertrude gave one quick, searching glance into his face, and put out her hand to him and pressed his kindly, though she had seen him that aftermoon, and moved her dress a little so as to make room on the ottoman beside her. She would never have allowed it, her. She would never have allowed it, but somehow tonight she took a greater interest in him than usual. Although he was colder and more impassable than she ever remembered him, she would have liked to have had him all to herself in a quiet tete-a-tete. THE DETROIT MEETING. Detroit, July 17 .- It took seven heats to decide the 2:17 trot yesterday afternoon, and the event, which was won by Alice Russell, proved to be the best race thus far seen at the Blue Ribbon meeting of the Detroit Driving Club. Five heats were driven in the 2:14 pace before Roamer won the event, and so much time was taken up by these two events that it was necessary to postpone the 2:04 pace, 2:13 trot and the 2:08 amateur pacing event until today. Racing will begin at 12:30 o'clock today, with eight events on the card. The weather and track were splendid and the attendance was in the neighborhood of 7,000. LESTER REIFF'S CASE. New York, July 17 .- Through authoritative sources it is learned that Chairman August Belmont, of the Jockey Club, has taken a decided stand King Along fell. against the reinstatement of Jockey Lester Reiff by the Western Jockey Club. Reiff was ruled off the track by the English Jockey Club. On Saturday John A. Drake, of Chicago, according to report, delared his intention of presenting Savable, Reiff up, at the Futurity post. Mr. Belmont is reported to have said that under no circumstances would Reiff be permitted to ride on a metropolitan trak. As the to ride on a metropolitan trak. As the situation stands the jockey club finds it necessary to decide between the English Jockey Club and the governing body in the west. As in the Sloan case, Mr. Belmont and his associates support the constituted turf authority of England.

THE TRIGGER.

CHANGES IN D. R. A. MATCHES. Ottawa, July 17.-There will be considerable number of changes in the program for the Dominion Rifle Association matches this year. The program is not yet complete, but Lieut.-Col. Hodgins, secretary of the association, is rushing the work of to sweep all the American dog shows. printing, and expects to have the programs ready for distribution in a few days. Probably the greatest interest will center around the Palma trophy match, to be shot on Tuesday, August 26th, in the afternoon. In this match there are to be teams from England, United States, Australia, New Zealand and Canada competing, each team to be composed of eight men. The ranges will be 800, 900 and 1,000 yards, with 15 shots at each range. One of the new matches this year will be the Manufacturers', in extra series, at 1,000 yards. In this match there is a prize list to the value of $200. The Ross match is another new one, and takes the place of the Kirkpatrick match of last year. It will be divided into two series, the first to be rapid magazine fire for two minutes. For this match there are prizes to the extent of $500, of which amount $450 is for individual and $50 for team prizes. The second series is at 800 and 900 and 1,000 yards, value of $300.

shots at each range, for prizes to the This year the Barlow match for tyros has individual and team prizes to the extent of $490. If arrangements can be made a moving target match will be put on this year, and probably one with the Gaudet miniature targets. The Caron Cup will be offered for tyro teams, and the Kirkpatrick Cup for association teams. Long-range shooting will be more generally adopted than formerly, a feature that will make high scores more difficult than usual. The only officers appointed are Lieut-Col. Mc-Donald, of Toronto, executive officer, and Captain De la Ronde, of the 43rd D. C. O. R., as camp quartermaster.

THE BISLEY MEETING. Bisley Camp, July 17.-Yesterday in Fourth race, the venus states, 2-year-old fillies, 5 furlongs—Gravina, 2-year-old fillies, 5 furlongs—Gravina, the Armorer's Company match, Capt. 99 (L. The distance was 900 yards with 10 shots. In the Ely revolver competition, at a distance of about 20 yards, with a stationary target, 6 shots and a time limit of 3 minutes, Capt. A. Margetts, of the 25th Batt., made 39 points. Major J. H. McRobie, a Canadian, but not a member of the team, scored 27 points in the Loder Challenge Cup TEAM BELOW AVERAGE. Toronto, July 17 .- A Toronto member of the Bisley team, in a letter to a friend in this city, holds out slight hope of the Canadians making a good showing in Kolapore Cup competition. He says that the other colonial teams, such as Australia, New Zealand, and Natal, are composed of the picked shots 5, but Hunter Raine went to the post of those colonies, and in practice they at 6 to 5, while Lucien Appleby rehave shown themselves wonderful rifle ceded to 3 to 1. Waswift was backed shots. The Canadian team this year is away below the average. The men who took the highest standing in the D. R. A. matches last year and qualified to compete at Bisley with very few exceptions declined to go for various reasons. In proof it may be stated that the twentieth man ranked 39th on the list at the D. R. A. matches. In future the Kolapore Cup teams will be made up of fifteen members, instead of twenty, and the D. R. A. will pay their entrance fees and allow the men to retain all their winnings. In the past the Canadians have had to take their entrance fees out of their winnings.

SELECTING THE CANADIAN TEAM

Montreal, July 16 .- Quietly but steadily arrangements for an all-Canadian Rugby football team to tour Britain this fall have been going ahead. The itinerary is practically arranged, and the men are being picked. Messrs. McClure and Jack have been in correspondence with clubs all over Canada, and these have sent in the names of players who would be able to get away. From these the team will be picked. Mr. McClure said this morning that the bulk of the team would come from the two seaboards, for there the English game was played, and there were several men who played on the English and Scotch interna tional teams. Most of the team would be English or Scotch. Out of the 20 there might be four or five Canadians. It would be no use sending a purely Canadian team knowing little of the Emslie was a pitcher for Baltimore in disposed of at a good price. English game. The yachts started in the race Monday last, but were becalmed in the North Sea. The official time of the Meteor III. was 1:53:14. She took 46 hours to cover 310 miles. THE JEFF-FITZ FIGHT. San Francisco, July 17 .-- An ever increasing confidence in the training camps of both James Jeffries and Robert Fitzsimmons, with the odds steadily favoring the former, and a sale of seats for the big battle far surpassing anything of the kind known to local pugilistic history, are the important features of the fight situation here today. Under a blazing sun Jeffries sallied forth yesterday morning and sprinted around Lake Hermit in Oakland, afterward working in the Reliance Club gymnasium for two hours. Fitzsimmons also took a jaunt on the road, but confined himself for the most part to bag punching and vigorous foot work. The sale of seats is proceeding briskly, the receipts showing that nearly $9,000 has been taken in. The betting last night shows Jeffries to be a favorite, the prevailing odds being 21/2 to 1.

EAST MIDDLESEX

Coroner Ferguson explained to the jury that a stone had been found near Ninham's body, and its appearance suggested that it might have been used as a weapon in striking Ninham. stone had been submitted to Dr. Neu for examination. Dr. Neu's report was stone submitted, and find that it bears oner Ferguson to investigate the death of Augustus Ninham. The inquest has coroner said he was going to produce this stone, so that there might be no suspicion of an effort to conceal anything in connection with the case. STONE NEAR THE BODY.

Detective Ward swore that he had been notified of Ninham's death by Coroner Ferguson about 2 a.m. on Sunday, June 22. He had gone to the scene at once, and then returned to the city for the undertaker. About 6:30 he went back to the place where Ninham's body had been found. There he saw marks of a struggle in the dust of the road and the trail where the body had been dragged from the road to the east side of the road. The marks looked as though the legs of the body had been dragged. In the hayfield to the east of the fence the hay was trampled as by the passage of a man across it. Witness found the young men obtained their Gladstone at stone produced about 4 feet from Hueston's livery, could not fix the time where the body had been lying beside the fence. There were several blades of grass attached to the stone, and stains which looked like blood. stone had been moved from some other place to where witness found it. The grass was green under it, and the stone was stained green, as though having come in forcible contact with the grass. There was no depression under the stone, and it did not look as though it had been thrown forcibly to the ground.

TRACED FOOTMARKS IN FIELD.

To Mr. Faulds, witness said that with High Constable McLoud he had gone into the hayfield and followed tracks, which they across the lot. They followed the tracks for about 20 rods, and then lost Witness could not say if the tracks tracks led in a northeast direction times the pains were sharp like a stab from the body, but went further east with a knife and caused me great sufthan Sharkey's. If the tracks went straight the person making them would strike the Pipe Line road, some distance east of Sharkey's. The tracks across the field were evidently made by one person.

Witness said there were footmarks of at least two men around the spot where the body had lain. This concluded the evidence laid before the jury, it being at this point about 9:15. Coroner Ferguson re-viewed the testimony offered, and the jury was then left to decide upon their verdict. It was 10:45 when the verdict was announced. Nearly all the crowd in the courthouse had gone home before the verdict was reached.

GENERAL BOOTH IN LONDON

Famous Founder of Salvation Army Coming Here.

The famous founder of the Salvation Army, General Booth, is expected to be in this city about October 20. General Booth is now seventy-three years of age, and still exhibits a marvelous degree of vitality and endurance. The general began to preach before he was nineteen years of age, as follows: "I have examined the and has been at it constantly ever stone submitted, and find that it bears since. Reports of his meetings in Euno sign of either blood or hair." The rope recently show that his eloquence and influence are not waning, and hundreds of conversions are reported as a result of some of his campaigns. He has visited Canada several times, and much public interest will be felt in this visit, which may reasonably be expected to be his last visit here. He will be accompanied by his aide-decamp and private secretaries and the Canadian leaders. It is not improbable that his daughter, Miss Eva Booth, commissioner for Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda, will accompany him to London.

Enough, coal was produced in the United States last year to give three and a half tons to every one of the 76,000,000 men, women and children in the country.

Lever's Y-Z (Wise Head) Disinfectant Soap Powder dusted in the bath softens the water at the same time that it disinfects. 16 While fielding a ball as it was tra-veling near a horse a Bridgewater (England) publican was kicked by the animal and his leg was broken Johnson commonly required three of four months for the composition of a drama. He generally revised it after the rehearsals had begun, adding here and taking away there, as his judgment and fancy dictated.

There are no more important organs of the body than the bowels

If they are irregular, health must be imperfect. Constipation is the common ailment of the age. Nothing is worse for the bowels than the frequent use of cathartics. They do not cure Constipationthey aggravate it. A laxative does cure.
