In the one speech which Mr. Meredith is repeating throughout the country he speaks of "his principles." But what are his principles? Or rather, what are his present principles? -for there is hardly any subject upon which he has not boxed the compass. It has been so with the licensing system; the plebiscite; the school ballot; sectarian cries; the non-resident cry, etc. Mr. Meredith reminds one of Hosea Biglow's politician who rejoiced that

A merciful Providence shaped us

On purpose we might our principles In order to form some conception of the size of some of the new questions, try and imagine a British statesman making speeches about them. Imagine Lord Salisbury discussing the number of eggs that should be consumed by an asylum official at one meal. Fancy Gladstone growing eloquent over a consumptive calt. Just think of Rosebery putting a paragraph into his speech about saving a few cents on the daily allowance of a lunatic.—["Knoxonian" in the Canada Presbyterian.

Mr. E. E. Sheppard spoke at Strathroy last night in favor of Mr. Meredith, and again sneered at Sir Oliver Mowat as a Christian Statesman.

We are proud of the supporters of Mr. Hobbs for their non-personal and self-restrained campaign thus far. Nothing is ever gained by abuse. Leave that to Mr. Hobbs' opponents. But to every quiet elector, we say, use your earnest, persuasive personal influence with those with whom you come in contact. Never mind all feeling; the friends of Mr. Hobbs are too old campaigners to be caught in any such trap. Combine good nature and freedom from personalities with the vigor of those who feel that they fight not only a good but a winning battle.

"I have heard Mr. Meredith speak several times in the Ontario Parliament. He always impressed me as a man occupying a most undesirable position. His earnestness invariably struck me as simulated. A more paltry criticism of a Government could not be than that conducted last session in our House.- Rev. G. M. Milligan, formerly of London township, now pastor of St. Andrew's Church, To-

EDINBURGH, June 21. - Sir Thomas David Gibson-Carmichael has been selected by the Midlothian Liberals to contest at the next election the seat in Parliament now occupied by Mr. Gladstone, the ex-Premier having declined to stand for re-election.

From Opulence to Prison.

BERLIN, June 21 .- Wilhelm Maas, a banker doing business in Frankfort, was today convicted at Mannheim of fraudulently going into bankruptcy, and was sentenced to two years and four menths' imprisonment. Maas was sentenced to fourteen months and Eugene Maas to eight months in prison. Wilhelm Maas was a member of the firm of Sciomon Mans & Co., who failed with liabilities of about $5,000,000 last January. In consequence of the failure and subsequent development Ludwig Maas committed suicide shortly after the down-interference of the Emperor, who prevented four magnates of his court from voting with the Opposition. The announcement of the vote elicited storms of cheers from the thousands outside of the building. The crowd broke the police lines and hurrahed wildly for Dr. Wekerle. The discussion of the amendments will begin to-morrow. The newspapers say that nobody changed his vote from what it was on May 10, when the bill was rejected.

Balfour Talks.

London, June 21 .- A. J. Balfour, addressing a meeting of dissident Unionists to-day, said it was an historical fact that Radicalism and Socialism had each played a useful part in the development of society. Socialism, however, was no remedy for the existing evils. The theories of the Socialists were doomed because they were not based upon a realization of how much industry depended upon individual enterprise. He could not believe that Great Britain would abandon herself to Socialism. If she relied upon individual efforts for a decade the country would see the external empire flourishing, the phantom of home rule laid and each party, instead of trying to outbid the others in empty promises, trying to benefit every class without injury to the others.

The Death Duties. London, June 21 .- The House of Commons debated again this evening Sir Geo. Baden-Powell's motion made on June 14 last, that in case of property held abroad the amount of the death duties paid in the country where the property was situated should be deducted from the duties payable in Great Britain, this arrangement to be effective only with countries making similar exemptions in the converse case.

Sir William Harcourt said the Government approved of the principle of the motion. The arrangement ought certainly to be reciprocal. The Government would soon introduce a clause in the budget embodying the provision in question as far as the colonies were concerned, not, however, in reference to foreign states. Sir G. Baden Powell responded to this declaration by withdrawing his motion.

Breeze in the Italian Chamber. Rome, June 21 .- In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Signor Imbriani, the meeting was held in the large roller Leader of the Radicals, demanded to know why the family of ex-Deputy Do Felice, recently sentenced at Palermo to eighteen years imprisonment, had been expelled from Sicily.

Premier Crispi is reply read a communication which stated that the De Felices had not been expelled from Sicily

Signor Imbriani insisted upon the accuracy of his own information and in an impassioned speech deplored the persecutions to which De Felice's children were subjected. Addressing the Premier he cried in a loud tone, "Even you have a daugh-

Signor Crispi in a still louder tone replied: "My daughter is not the daughter of a malefactor.'

Then ensued one of those scenes of uproar for which the Italian Chamber is noted. The Radicals and Socialists rushed to a common center, shouting and shaking their fists at Premier Crispi, who remained perfectly passive. Several Socialists and Radicals endeavored to compel the Premier to speak further by crying 'Shame !" "It is infamous that you should add insult to misfortune," etc. These taunts failed of the desired effect, however, and finally Signor Bianchene restored

Voting on Tuesday,

The Law as to Workingmen Polling The. Votes.

The following section of the law governing Provincial elections, passed by the Mowat Government, will be of special interest to the workers in the city of London:

A voter entitled to vote within a city or town shall, on the day of polling, of the purpose of voting, be entitled to absent himself from any service or employment in which he is thus engaged or employed, from the hour of noon in the daytime until the hour of two of the clock next thereafter, and a voter shall not, because of his so absenting himself, be liable to any penalty or suffer or incur any reduction from the wages or compensation to which but for his absence he would have been en-titled; provided, that if so required by the person in whose service or employment the voter is so engaged or employed, the voter so absenting himself shall at some other time during the same or the following week employ himself in and about such service or employment for one hour more than the hours of the usual and ordinary day's work or service otherwise required to be performed by him; provided, moreover, that this sub-section shall not apply where a voter is by his employer or master permitted or allowed at any other period during the hours of polling, reasonable and sufficient time and opportunity to vote .- [55 V.,

TORONTO, June 21 .- During the consideration of the report of the mission board at the Toronto Synod to-day Bishop Sweatman said: "I have received through the post what purports to be a prospectus of the Canadian Church Mission Association. I have no doubt that many of you here have received similar papers. In the letter accompanying it I am asked to give the scheme my support and sanction, which most emphatically decline to do." He regarded the proposal as a distinct act of dieloyalty to the Church and Province.

LINCOLN LIBERALS. NIAGARA, June 21. - A large and enthusistic meeting in the interest of Mr. Robert Thompson, the Liberal candidate in Lincoln, was held in Virgil last evening, The spacious hall was crowded to overflowing. Mr. J. M. Field, councilor of Niagara township, occupied the chair. Mr. Thompson spoke for an hour, and for many good reasons asked the support of the electors. He was followed by Mr. Kew, Beamsville, who said that although he had been a lifelong Conservative he was now speaking and working in Mr. Thompson's interest. The Hon. John Dryden for two and a half hours interested the audience with a resume of the Government's doings, and particularly that relating to his department. His speech was well received and he was heartily cheered on taking his seat. The meeting closed with cheers for Mr. Thompson, the Queen and Hon. Mr. Dryden.

THE PREMIER AT SIMCOE. SIMCOR June 21 .- Sir Oliver Mowat's visit to Simcoe to-day has been highly appreciated by the Liberal party. A very large concourse of people met him at the train and conducted him to Sheriff Jack son's house, where he dined with many of the leading Liberals of the county. The rink, and an audience of 2,000 listened to the Premier and candidates for the north and south ridings discuss the leading questions at issue. After the Premier left Hon. John Charlton spoke with great vigor and somewhat roused the electors for the coming campaign. The campaign fever is running very high in Norfolk, and

WALLACE MET HIS MATCH. OWEN SOUND, June 21 .- Hon. N. Clark Wallace, Dr. Beattie Nesbit and Nicholas Read, Conservative and Prohibition candidates for North Grey, addressed a large meeting here to-night. Mr. Wallace made a speech in support of Mr. Meredith and his candidate. A feature of his address was an attack on D'Alton McCarthy for not coming out in support of Mr. Meredith, the true champion of Protestantism. Mr. Wallace was very severe on Mr. McCarthy, and described him as lurking under the barn in the present critical contest. "Where is Mr. McCarthy?" asked Mr. Wallace, and a voice replied, "At Ottawa, where you ought to be."

In reply to this sally, Mr. Wallace said that Mr. McCarthy was not at Ottawa one day out of seven, and then only when he had some private interest to advance.

CONSERVATIVE WEAKNESS. The time for petty complaints has gone by and the death knell of roorbachs has been sounded. The Muldoon affidavits and the Leys correspondence have fallen flat, and the voters are taking no stock in the bull and calf incidents. The people want to hear and discuss bigger questions, and so long as the Conservative speakers and newspapers continue to deal almost exclusively with those ineffectual complaints they will merely waste valuable time. There are bigger issues at hand, and they offer much better material for a vigorous warfare against the Government party. Now is the time for Mr. Meredith to say distinctly just how he would go about developing the mines, and husbanding the timber resources, and to get down to details while he is at it. And he should require his supporters to do likewise. But up to date the Conservative policy on broad issues is in the background, and details are utterly lacking. Therein is the weakness of the Opposition, and until it enunciates an attractive policy that will rouse the electors, just so long is it neglecting opportunities and wasting time and speech. Toronto Star.

POKER POLITICIAN. At the nomination meetin for East Lambton at Watford on Monday, Mr. Pettypiece, of Forest, was interrupted by a question as to whether he played poker. He acknowledged that he had, and if the elector who asked the question was opposed to an M. P. P. doing the same he could not vote for Mr. McCallum, the P. P. A. candidate. This Mr. McCallum denied. Confusion reigned supreme for a few moments, when Mr. Hamilton, a cousin of Mr. McCallum's, stepped forward and

A SIGNIFICANT CONTRAST. From 1878 to 1893 the increase in the cost of civil government in Ontario was 17 per cent; in the Dominion it was 60 per cent. In the last four years the increase in Provincial expenditure was 8 per cent; in Domion expenditure, 27 per cent. Since 1878 the cost of legislation in Ontario increased 5 per cent; in the Dominion, 85 per cent. In the last four years the Ontario increase was 41 per cent, while that of the Dominion was 64 per cent. The contrast is a striking one.

WITHDRAWN. Mr. Durocher, the Conservative candidate in Ottawa, has decided not to go to the polls.

John Tierney, of Arnprior, has withdrawn his nomination as Liberal candidate in South Renfrew. This leaves Dr. Dowling and R. A. Campbell (both Libs.) in the field.

R. H. Cassidy, the Independent candidate for Russell county, has resigned.

THE WOMEN FOR ARMSTRONG. The friends of John Armstrong in labor circles are well satisfied with the appearance of things as regards their prospects in the coming election. The finances are coming in splendialy, and on every hand there are most encouraging signs of success. A number of women and girls have started on a canvass in Mr. Armstrong's behalf, and they have some interesting reminiscences to relate with reference to Dr. Ryerson's attitude towards organized abor at the time of the strike in the East End of the girls in a glove factory .-[Toronto Star.

Personal Attack Upon Mr. Hobbs Because He Brought a New Industry to the City.

all parties are preparing for a vigorous fight | He Accepted the City Council's Terms Which Were Strongly Supported by His Present Traducer.

> The Free Press makes a personal attack on Mr. Hobbs, the London citizen candidace, because, when his firm set the old Elliot factory booming after it had been standing idle for years, it accepted from the City Council the terms that had already Company, Stevens & Burns, the London Furniture Manufacturing Company, the London Tool Company and other factories controlled by Conservatives.

When the bylaw under which the Hobbs Brothers brought a new industry to London was passed our city contemporary warmly supported it, and when such firms as Stevens & Burns applied for similar terms to that subsequently offered to the Messrs.

Then the Free Press cry was, "Encourage establish themselves in Toronto or Hamilton. Keep our citzens from deserting us," Under the circumstances can any thing be more contemptible than the attitude of the Free Press now, when it is advocating the candidature of a man who is paid $13,500 a year to help in building up Toronto? It assails Mr. Hobbs because he brought an entirely new industry to London. It advocated like consideration to old established firms in this city. But it desires to have the London employer of labor knifed, and the man who deserted London six years ago, and now takes his orders from the Toronto City Council, placed in the position of honor. And to effect this the Free Press and those who agree with it are prepared to swallow all their past professions about the fairness of the civic bylaw under which so many of our manufacturers operate, and under which Mr. Hobbs brought to London a new industry. Is that civic patriotism?

Is that what the retail merchant of London ought to expect of a London journal? Is the advocacy of Toronto interests, as against those of this fine trade center, what the workers of London desire? We say No!

The retailers of London say No f The workingmen of London say, emphatically, No!

And the electors, by a large majority, will vote No on Tuesday next.

London First is the motto of all well wishers of London. Mr. Meredith himself says that "Toronto First" is his motto, and no one blames him. But he can easily get a seat where he serves as a best paid municipal officer. London will be represented by a London citizen. Mr. Meredith does not even have a vote in this city in this campaign.

LONDON, June 21. - Frank Guido, a musician, to-day obtained a verdict of £50 for libel against the Evening News. The News recently erroneously announced the death of Guido, and in so doing, said that the was suspected of knowing something about the Fenian outrages and the death of Dr. Patrick Henry Cronin, the Irish Nationalist, who was found murdered at Chicago on May 22, 1889. The Evening News also declared that Guido was the trusted agent of the Irish extremists in London and America, and that his profession, that of musician, only served as a blind to his real occupation.

Fully Discussed by the Synod of Huron.

Various Amendments to the Canon Suggested, and Several Adopted.

Personnel of the New Executive Committee-Delegates Chosen to the Provincial Synod-Special Yearly Assessment to be Made.

Thursday Afternoon. In the synod this afternoon the debate on the amendments to canon 28 was resumed and some small alterations were made. Churchwardens may now appeal to the executive committee against any mission assessment and the decision of the executive shall be final. The scale of grants laid down in the proposed canon created an exciting debate and at times the bishop picnic of the Blenheim Sons of Scotland had trouble to secure order. To the was held at Erie Eau Lake yesterday, and scale of grants were three promises was a success in every particular-large stating that the seniority of the clergy crowd, charming weather and fellowship, shall be calculated by the number of years and excellent music and dancing. Alex. of actual parochial service in the diocese, but that if the available income of the mission fund is at any time insufficient to provide incomes according to the scale, then a pro rata reduction to meet the deficiency shall be made by the executive fied the critical eyes of the spectators. It of all incomes except those of purposes of the provisos and clause were to educe the deficit of $12,000 or to prevent it from increasing. It was stated that there were 1,290 collections which had not been taken up in the diccese during the year. This was denounced by some as a neglect of duty. Amendment after amendment was lost until Mr. Dymond offered one which enacts that the reduction shall only be made on the incomes derived from the mission fund. This carried and the canon passed its second reading. The clerical scrutineers on the ballot for members of the executive reported the election of the following: Revs. Dean Innes, Canon Davis, J. H. Moorehouse, D. Williams, Canon Richardson, R. Hicks, R. McCosh, W. Craig, G. C. Mackenzie, Canon Smith, T. R. Davis, J. C. Farthing Canon Hill, Canon Young, G. B. Sage, Principal Miller, Archdeacon Marsh, H. A. Messrs. Gray and Imlach were left to settle between themselves which will accept the position of substitute. Rev. E. N. English gave notice of motion to request the W. A. M. A. to include the mission interests of the diocese in their plans of work, and to urge the formation of auxiliaries in every congregation in the diocese.

Thursday Evening.

The consideration of canon 28, which occupied so much time, was concluded tonight, and all that now remains are a few matters referred from the executive, and the reports of committees-that on temperance being among the number. The principal ground for discussion at this evening's session was the report of the committee on church debt. It recommended that to provide means with which to carry on the work of the diocese, each parish shall be required to contribute to the funds of the synod a sum amounting in the aggregate to not less than 20 cents per annum from every member of the church. Onehalf of the contributions should be given to the mission fund, three-eights to general purposes and one-eight to the widows and orphans. Rev. Alfred Brown, a member of the committee, spoke strongly in favor of the scheme and presented a statement show. ing that by this plan the receipts would greatly increase. At present some congregations were away below the pro rata while others were above. Objection to this plan, however, was raised by some of the clergymen of country districts. They did not think it right that rural parishes having but one service a Sunday should pay equally with those having two. Rev. G. C. Mackenzie saw another difficulty in the way. It would be almost impossible to correctly state the number of members or families in the parish. Mr. W. J. Imlach, of this city, was not wholly in favor of the principle of the plan. He thought a circular from the bishop would produce large collections. The first necessity, though, was the education of the parishioners to their responsibi ities. Rev. A. G. Smith was going to touch upon more than the subject of discussion, but he was called to order by the synod. Mr. Smith expressed his disapproval of the assessment plan. Mr. Matthew Wilson, Q.C., Chatham, expressed a few brilliant ideas in regard to the plan, but he could not agree with it. Bishop Baldwin said that he was forced to strongly commend the scheme for two reasons-from his practical experience in Montreal, and from the internal principle carried by it. He had found in Montreal that it was the greatest scheme in force, and that if carried out efficiently was certain to prove successful. The general principle was adopted, and the synod went into committee of the whole to consider the details.

The advisability of assessing each family $1 instead of 20 cents per member was also considered, and an amendment by Rev. T. R. Davis to that effect was carried. The money will be divided as recommended. Any unexpected balance of the general purpose fund will be transferred to The usual practice of adding to the that on which their appearance is desired the mission work.

President's Address. The president, in moving the adoption of the report, pointed out the changes in the position of the bank during the year. The general shrinkage of business has led to a figure they have ever reached in the history of the bank. He briefly commented on the creditable manner in which the banks in Canada had sat with the busy reporters and enjoyed | carried the country through the troubles of the year past, and pointed out the conservative policy pursued with respect to the rumored thereafter that the bondsman paid | tempting opportunities of profitably and safely lending money in the United States which the year offered. In speaking of losses made by Canadians through speculations in New York and Chicago, he said: "We hear every now and then of large sums of money having been transmitted through brokers' offices to cover margins on adverse speculations. I would be afraid to repeat some of these statements, because, no matter how true, many peop e would refuse to believe them, but it is certain that in the aggregate the stock and grain speculating public of Canada have had to bear losses amounting to many millions of dollars-a very serious and direct burden upon the industry of this country. We are not likely to fail in sympathy for those who make losses in attempting to build up an industry or to carry on have failed to make money for themselves, 54 awards. but this species of gambling which year after year only results in taking money out Chicago and New York is very much to be regretted."

The vice-president briefly seconded the resolution, and the general manager was then called upon to address the meeting. General Manager's Address.

Mr. Walker, in his opening remarks, referred to the satisfactory measure of prosperity which the bank had had during the past year, and he then proceeded to comment on the business of the country generally, stating that we might take considerable satisfaction out of the moderation of our course in public and private business for some years past, whether this course was enforced upon us by conditions we could not alter or was the result of our own prudence, and that we might congratulate ourselves upon the soundness of our business institutions because they had so admirably stood the severe strain put upon them during a time of great trial. He pointed out the disastrous effects of the collapse of last year to the world generally and especially to the United States, and trades the causes which had led to such unfortunate results. A complete referm of the banking system of the United States was in his opinion necessary, but there appeared to be no settled opinion yet as to the form remedial legislation should take. Referring to the condition of our and diminished trading are general, and own country, he continued as follows:

there fare certainly many more idle men than usual, but none of these unfavorable conditions approach in degree to the conditions in other countries. Farmers' notes for implements, apart from the Northwest, while not paid perhaps quite as well as usual, were nevertheless well paid, and mortgage interest and installments were well met. Economy is general, and this, although such a good thing in itself. has much to do with the prevailing feeling that times are hard. The clearing house returns show a decrease from $1,038,000,-000 to $925,000,000 for the year just closed, a falling off of only 11 per cent, as against 26 per cent in the United States. Our prosperity of course depends very much on the power of other countries to buy, and we cannot expect that our foreign export trade will continue to grow as rapidly as it has during recent years. The main question for us is one of prices. On the import side we are benefited by the lower price of the manufactured articles and raw material we import. We are also likely to import most carefully, because the spirit of economy for the time being is very strong. When we turn to the export side the ques tion is, do we export products of the kind at the moment not being over-produced by the world, and are we turning our attention to the products in which there is apparently the most certainty of a favorable

For the year ending June 30, 1893, the value of our export of woods in all conditions, manufactured and unmanufactured. was about $29,000,000, against $25,000,000

five years ago. What the year which is just closing will show we cannot say, but one of the features which showed conclusively in what strong States firms, who had contracted to take our lumber, carried out their obligations, notwithstanding the financial storm. Had it not been for this, our lumbermen would hardly have known what course to pursue during the past winter. As it was, they doubtless intended, as a whole, to take out about the usual quantity, but the early mild weather broke up the winter roads, and, as a consequence, some hundreds of millions of feet are left in the woods. In the Ottawa district most of the logs were got out, and, despite some trouble with low water, will in the main reach the mills promptly. The logs held back are mainly in the Georgian Bay and North Shore dis-

In the Ottawa district the cut of logs and the logs carried over will make the supply about the same as last year, a little over 6,000,000 pieces, but the quantity of timber made is trifling.

The nature of the market will depend much on the United States tariff. The entire cut of deals has been contracted for and is being actively shipped to Great Britain, aided by low freights. The business with Great Britain in thin lumber is steadily growing, and that part of the trade is very satisfactory. On the other hand, part of the lumber paid for by United States buyers is not yet shipped, and although many good contracts for this season's sawing have been made, the actual shipments are smaller than at any time $28,182,010 36 recently. While this is due partly to the very bad condition of business in the United States, the settlement of the tariff will doubtless make a market for our lumber, although perhaps with a slight concession in price from last year. Stocks in the United States are said not to be large, and our supply will no doubt be required.

Agricultural Interests. Turning from the forest to the dairy, we have once more exceeded any previous record in cheese making, and by our victories at Chicago have advertised Canada as beyond doubt one of the greatest dairy countries in the world. For the year ending March 31, the value of cheese exported was $14.647,000, a gain of about $1,000,000 on the previous year, and while we increase the exports of the United States continue to decrease, falling last year for the same period to $6,492,618, a decline of about $1,500,000. The season in Canada has been profitable to both the cheese-maker and the shipper, and the price in a year of general decline was nearly a quarter of a cent per pound higher in the average than for the previous year. New factories are not only being built in the districts noted for cheese making, but many parts of the country which have not hitherto produced cheese are now preparing to do so. The question of absolutely prime importance is that we shall keep up the high quality. The awards at Chicago may seem to make such a dread unnecessary, but it is at the moment when we have achieved the position of being the largest cheese exporters in the world and our reputation is at the highest that we are apt to become careless. Putting the results of the June and October competitions together Canada, out of 687 any real trading venture; they have, per. | entries, obtained 608 awards, while the

The farmers generally, and especially the cheese factories, are at last taking up seriof Canada to help support the brokers in ously the very important business of fattening hogs. Although, as compared with cheese making and cattle feeding, it is only in its infancy, what may be done is indicated by the fact that while our exports of pork product down to 1889 were less than half a million dollars, for the year ending 30th June, 1893, they exceeded $3,000,-000. That we have something to learn as to quality and the kind of animal from which the best return can be obtained there is no doubt. As in every other farm product, if we are to secure the British market we must raise not the second best,

The business of shipping live cattle, which amounted five years ago in value to about $9,000,000, had increased to nearly $11,000,000 for the year ending 30th June, 1893, but during the past year the business has been unprofitable to almost all concerned, both graziers and shippers. A fall of about 11 cents per pound is a very serious shrinkage, but what relation the present somewhat improved price has to the actual cost of production is a matter not easy to learn. Even if the British restrictions were removed, it would doubtless take some time for the business to entirely recover. Meantime the country is full of fat cattle, and in many parts the farmers' slownesse in paying the storekeeper is doubtless due to the great quantity of stock on their farms and not to inability. Many of the animals fed on grass this season have been bought by the graziers at very low prices and the removal of the restrictions, accompanied as it would be by a slight improvement in price, would bring about large shipments. The prospect of fair treatment by Great Britain to our cattle is now very good, however.

The export of fruits in all conditions has exceeded in value $3,000,000, while hay has reached half that figure. Both businesses are subject to large risks because of the great variability in the crop gathered, but the growing importance of fruit especially demands the attention of the better class of farmers. If as much intelligence as is applied to cheese-making could be applied to the orchard the results would astonish the people of Ontario. Of course my remarks do not apply to the Niagara and adjacent districts, where fruit growing so well developed and profitable.

It seems reasonably clear then that so far as the product of the forest and the dairy are concerned, we are prospering and need not fear over-production. In pork products we have room for indefinite expansion, and every farmer should bear this in mind. In our cattle trade the course is less clear and we can only hope for better prices and just treatment from Great Britain. We will also hope that the tariff legislation in the United States, when settled, will again give a reasonable measure of freedom to the trade in the products of lesser importance, but which in the aggregate have much to do with our farmers' prosperity. During the last five years we have increased our exports about $28,000,000, the increase in the imports being only about $15,000,000, and the difference for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1893, between hands the business is generally held was $10,000,000 against us. If we can even maintain this situation for a few years we will do well. We are likely to improve the comparison as far as imports are concerned, owing to the prevailing economy. Can we not also, by further improved methods, make the world still give the preference to our products because of superior quality and cheapness and, despite the smaller purchasing power of the world, continue to increase our exports?

There is, in the United States and Canada, a certain amount of discussion going on as to the beet-root culture. It is claimed that we can easily excel Germany in growing beet roots, and yet, for some reason, we have not made a success where it has been tried, and perhaps it may be said that we have not given it a practical trial at all. Without presuming to have any opinion on the subject, we would like every farmer to consider that we imported in 1893, $7,500,000 worth of raw sugar. syrups, etc., and that, if even the proportion of that which was represented by German beet-root sugar, which for the United States and Canada is about onefifth, could be supplied by the Canadian farmers, the gain to Canada would be very great indeed. We pay to foreign countries for iron and steel and for raw sugar $20,000,000, nearly one-sixth of our whole imports. If these are materials for the production of which we are by nature well situated, it is at least discreditable to such an enterprising people that more is not done to develop these industries. The year has been, as we all know, particularly hard upon our people in the Northwest, in common with the districts in the United States where wheat growing is the leading feature in agriculture. A very low yield per acre and prices lower than ever before to a country depending mainly on grain means something uncomfortably near disaster, and there is no use in disguising the fact that in actual power to pay debts out of the current season's products, the farmers of the Northwest were worse off during the past year than ever before. But it would be a mistake to conclude therefrom that the people of that part of Canada are doubtful as to their uture. In the course of their progress to material wealth our Northwest Provinces must expect the recurrence at intervals of such vicissitudes, and the question is, what are they to learn from the present experience? That they must raise everything for which there is a market other than wheat is clear, and in this they will only repeat the experience of what were once great wheat. growing States in the United States, but which have many years since passed the maximum of wheat acreage. That they must farm more within their own means, both as to capital and the employment of labor, seems clear, but they have in the past only displayed the same expansive tendencies as their fellow merchants, and as all people in new countries who have not yet got their financial bearings. Hereafter. both from lessened ability and greater dread of debt, there will be improvement. But while the experiments in mixed farming are being made and the dreary lessons of enforced economy are being learned, the fact remains that for years to come wheat must be the main item in what they have to sell; and if they have to face the opening up of an indefinite area of new wheat lands in the Argentine and elsewhere, they may have a hard time of it for a while. But the Argentine has again collapsed financially, and its farmers are about to learn that fancy prices for wheat in worthless paper money with gold at a premium of 325, may be quite delusive as to the profits of wheat growing. We are not yet prepared to be. lieve that the rude agriculturist of the Argentine can in the long run raise wheat cheaper, having regard to quality, than the farmers of the Northwest.

Thrift and the highest intelligence in wheat culture, combined with an energy unknown to the mixed races of South America, must give the victory to us, unless the question be entirely one of transportation. But doubtless, as with most of the transportation. The Canadian Pacific Railway claim to carry as cheap as is possible, and in the present condition of railroad earnings this is probably true. But it is also true that railroads will year after year be forced to lower rates, and must somehow carry wheat to Europe at prices which will leave a living profit so the farmer over a series of years. The great transportation question, however, which is agitacing many people in Canada and the United States, is the possibility of a better water transit. Can we not improve upon the Erie Canal as a means of getting to seaboard? Are we to see the foreignbound traffic of the upper lakes deported at Buffalo, or are we to try and secure that traffic, and, what is much more important provide the necessary cheaper transportation to our Northwest Provinces? We who are inexperienced in the practical aspect of such matters talk vaguely about widening and deepening the present canals, or about a new canal across Ontario, or of connecting French River and Lake Nipissing, and PRINCE ALBERT, thus making a route by the Ottawa River. For lack of information we do not know what should be done; we only know that something practical might be done. In such an emergency it seems clearly the duty of the Dominion Government to have surveys made and report on all the proposed routes, so that the people of Quebec. Ontario and the Northwest Provinces may at least be in a position to express an intelligent opinion on such a vital question. I am sure we are sufficiently free from local bias to hold up our hands for whatever route will accomplish the great end of being the cheapest from the west to the seaboard. If there are those who say we cannot afford the expenditure, the answer is that we do not know whether we can or not until an intelligent report is before us. If success in wheat growing is all important to the Northwest, and if, having overcome the terrors of frost, the barrier is transportation, we must in some way remove it. In the meantime let us remember that about 12,000,000 bushels of wheat and about 25,000 head of cattle were exported, and altogether the Northwest realized about $6,000,000 out of their products, which is not a very bad return for such a small population. Reports from 45 districts show that the acreage under crop in the Northwest is as large as last year; in some districts larger, and, while rain is much required in many places, prospects are quite good, and the general feeling is not at all one of discouragement. In our own Province there has been damage by rain on low lands and some replanting is necessary, but there is no reason to doubt that we will have about as good crops on the average as usual. The motion for the adoption of the report was then put and carried. The usual resolutions expressing the thanks of the shareholders to the president. vice-president and directors, and also to the general manager, assistant general manager and other officers of the bank, were unanimously adopted.

The retiring board of directors were reelected, as follows: Messrs. George A. Cox (president), John I. Davidson (vicepresident), James Crathern, William B. Hamilton, John Hoskin, Q.C., LL.D., Robert Kilgour and Matthew Leggat.

The fact is, Dr. Grant is chiefly obnoxious to the Toronto centralizers. The anti-Mowat newspapers in Toronto desire to have all our educational institutions entered there. One of the first things that they would agitate for, if the Toronto city solicitor were successful, would be the abolition of the Western University in this city, the Medical School and every other educational facility that is possible. They now say that it was a great mistake for Sir Oliver Mowat to grant a charter to the Western University and to permit the operation of a medical school in this city. Let us send a strong London man to the Legislature to resist these centralizing influences. Mr. Hobbs will be a power not only against this contemplated attack by Mr. Meredith's friends, but will be able to work most effectively to add to the eminence of this city as an educa tional center, through the establishment of a Normal School here Mr. Hobbs has already done much to make this city an industrial and commercial center, while his opponent has been building up Toronto. Let us give the London citizen candidate a chance to aid us in still another direction. He has the pluck.

Mark the emasculating of the facts. There is a suppression of truth by our contemporary, and a mean attempt to make it appear that the ADVERTISER hits below the belt.

Mr. Meredith is not a native of this city, let it be first stated, but of an adjoining township. That fact is of small moment compared with the issue before the electors, which is whether or not this fine center of trade and commerce shall be represented by the agent of our rival city of Toronto, who receives $13,500 a year to specially work to advance the welfare of that place?

When Mr. Meredith is kept so busy at his duties as city solicitor of Toronto on Saturday that he is compelled to travel on Sunday in order to reach this city on Monday, we in London have an object lesson regarding his attachment to his new home that apparently cannot be met by his London newspaper organ except by misrepresenting the ADVERTISER and by refusing fair play to the friends of the London citizen candidate when they send letters for publication to it.

What shall be said of the cause that could not stand unless it suppressed the reports of the London Trades and Labor Council, the representative organization of workingmen?

Then our city contemporary continues to misrepresent the position of Mr. Hobbs as a member of the Sons of England. It does so in face of the fact that it refused to print the letter of Mr. James Carter, past district deputy of the Sons of England, written in vindication of Mr. Hobbs. Mr. Carter, like many other natives of England who are supporting Mr. Hobbs in this contest, was formerly a Conservative, but his British blood revolts from the side that treats a fellow-Englishman as Mr. Hobbs has been treated in this campaign. The newspaper of the Toronto candidate also suppressed the letter written by the present district deputy of the Sons of England in vindication of Mr. Hobbs against the untrue accusations brought against him by the Free Press. Why this concealment

The ADVERTISER feels it is in good company when its declarations are distorted and misconstrued by Mr. Meredith's organ. This is a splendid motto. Be not misled We give above a fair sample of how that of fact entirely different from that which is warranted. It is too had that a campaign cannot be conducted by our contemporary without acterized its treatment of Mr. Hobbs, of dock (Lucknow). The next session will be of England, of the district deputy of the Sons of England, and of Mr. Peter Ryan. penalties of a libel suit. The others can calmly await the judgment of the electors upon the whole question of the advocacy of the Toronto candidate. That the electors will indorse tactics so unfair and so repre-ment we cannot for a moment believe.

CONSERVATIVE MERCHANTS ALSO

SLANDERED. If asylum supplies are only furnished by political favorites as the Free Press, Mr. Bartlett et al. continually do cry, it is not out of place to ask them why Hunt Bros. of this city secured the coal contract for the London asylum for three years? Why was the flour for the same institution bought from Mr. Plewes, and why did Mr. Benjamin Higgins handle the butter? Simply because their tenders were the lowest. They are all strong Conservatives, or will the Free Press and Mr. Bartlett et al. impeach their party loyalty by classing them as "political favorites" of the Mowat Government? The Free Press and Mr. Bartlett et al. have traduced the merchants of London because they have sold goods to the London asylum at current prices. They have slandered these merchants as a band united by the "cohesive power of plunder." They have been time and time again indicted for the grossest misrepresentation. Do the Free Press and Mr. Bartlett et al. place these good Conservatives in the some awful

WHAT WOULD COME OF IT. Under control of the municipalities, illicit liquor dealers in New York were allowed to sell as much as they pleased the year round, so long as they paid the local municipal heelers a "footing" of $200 for each place. Surely no one in London wants "municipal" control of the traffic when it produces such results. Mr. Meredith advocates the adoption of the New York

MR. MEREDITH AND ONTARIO'S TERRITORY.

Mr. Meredith, like many a man who does not bridle his tongue, does not like to be criticised himself. And yet we do not know of any public man who, with so vulnerable a record of twisting and turning, has been more leniently treated by writers and speakers. For example, Mr. Meredith's record on the question of Ontario's territoral rights should alone be sufficient to point out to the electors of Ontario the danger of intrusting him with the keys of the Provincial citadel. Mr. HOW THE CAMPAIGN FOR THE TO- John Bertram alluded to the matter in a recent address as follows:

"In every one of the controversies that had come up, that had arisen in relation to the interpretation of the British North America Act, the rights of Ontario were upheld by Sir Oliver Mowat, while Sir John Macdonald stood out against Ontario, but the reputation of Sir John Macdonald as a great constitutional authority went down before Sir Oliver Mowat. (Applause.) In no single case taken to the Privy Council that came up in controversy between Ontario and the Dominion but the verdict invariably cam back in favor of Ontario. The greatest of these questions was the question as to our boundaries. Mr. Meredith voted for Sir Oliver Mowat's resolution calling upon the Dominion Government to do justice to Ontario, but he did not stand to his guns and did not continue to support Sir Oliver in this resolution. Whatever the influences were, he failed to support Sir Oliver Mowat, and turned around and supported the contention of the Dominion Government. He had changed his mind, something that he was very apt to do. By the boundary award Ontario obtained 100,000 square miles of timber and mineral lands, the value of which was enormous, extending from Thunder Bay almost west to Winnipeg, and north to Hudson Bay.

Hon. S. H. Biake, Q.C., also spoke as

"Now, I had the pleasure of speaking the other evening about a number of things that Sir Oliver Mowat was doing for this Province. I told you that he had won seven Waterloo victories; I told you of that splendid victory which enlarged the boundary of this Province and made it a worthy heritage of the splendid band of citizens that inherit it, and whose children are here in order to possess it. I told you of that, but I had not the time to tell you that Sir Oliver Mowat had not only to fight foes without, but that he had to fight foes within. (Hear, hear.) I had not the time to tell you that while he was introducing resolutions endeavoring to carry this boundary policy of his that W. R. Meredith, fighting in with the Ottawa people as against Ontario, was voting down the very resolutions whereby Sir Oliver Mowat was gaining for us these victories. (Hear, hear.) I have now time to tell you, and here it is: Sir Oliver Mowat introduced this resolution: 'We avail ourselves of this, the earliest cpportunity at the present session, to reiterate our determination to give our cordial support to any steps which may be necessary for ascertaining and maintaining the just claims and rights of Ontario as by the award,' etc., and to give Ontario her just rights, and W. R. Meredith and his 25 followers voted against that. And just in the same manner we had the Streams Bill, another of the victories. (Applause.) And when a resolution was brought in W. R. Meredith and his 25 followers voted against that also. Not only foes without, but foes within! (Applause.)"

FRIDAY BARGAIN DAY.

rub, rub. But don't let its help A Defined Bargain,

That is, as Webster defines it. According to his dictionary, a bargain is "a gainful or satisfactory transaction"—mind that word "satisfactory." Our definition of bargain varies not one jot from accepted authority. In this store of ours the transaction is always "gainful"for you-"satisfactory"-for both. And here's a sample lot of "bargains" as we understand the term.

ST. MARYS SLUGGERS WIN. The London Lacrosse Club went to St. Marvs yesterday afternoon for the purpose of playing the national game. They were disappointed. The St. Marys team played a combination of football and baseball. It was a contest between science and brute strength and the latter won. The London boys were touled and belabored unmercifully, and returned home last night covered with cuts and bruises. The referee was a non-official one imported from Ingersoll. Foul after foul of the most flagrant kind were called to his attention time and again, but he ignored them all. The most charitable view that can be taken is that he did not know the game. Despite the brutal work of some of the St. Marys eleven, they had to fight the allotted time to make their four goals, which were scored in 22. 27, 10 and 17 minutes respectively. It was no fault of the London boys that they dip not win; had it been pure lacrosse they would have. The game stood 4 to 0. The more gentlemanly members of the home team and citizens who saw the match expressed their regret to the visitors that they had been so badly treated. The Tecumsehs are improving rapidly and now have a capital eleven. They will meet Glencoe at 4 p.m. to-day on Victoria Park with the following players: Angus, goal; C. Caswell, point; J. Model Campaign Meeting in No. 5 Ward. TORONTO, June 21. - The London Cricket

> Workingmen Largely in Favor of the City Candidate.

A Reminder of the Peddle-Meredith Contest - Characteristic, Manly, Straightforward Addresses by Thos. S. Hobbs, the Coming M. P. P.; Chas. S. Hyman, M.P.; Dr. Geo. C. Davis, Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, Ald. J. W. Jones and T. H. Purdom - An Orderly but Enthusiastic Gathering.

The largest and best ward meeting of the present campaign was held last night in the interest of Mr. Hobbs in the East End Hall. There was no Toronto city official there to deliver an address, nor yet a Toronto cowboy with his rope similies. Neither was it attended by citizens from every ward in the city, as was Mr. Meredith's meeting of Tuesday night, when the 960 seats of the middle stand in the park were filled with "3,000" people. It was a ward 5 meeting, it was a Liberal meeting, it was a big meeting and an orderly meeting. The applause was unstinted and the enthusiasm unbounded. The auditors were composed almost entirely of workingmen whose clothes and faces told of arduous toil and rest well earned, and there was not one among them but cheered with might and main when their friend Mr. Hobbs rose to speak.

Sound and stable men of the ward occupied seats on the platform. F Ald. Geo. Heaman was chairman. Beside him sat Ald. John Nutkins, Ex-Ald. John Wilkey, C. R. Somerville, Geo. W. Logan, D. L. Hardey, J. B. Laidlaw, Thos. S. Hobbs, T. H. Purdom, Dr. Geo. C. Davis, Dr. Cl. T. Campbell and A.d. J. W. Jones.

Thos. S. Hobbs. Mr. Hobbs spoke first and was cheered to the echo. "I thank you for the very kind reception you have given me to-night," said Mr. Hobbs. "As far as an night," said Mr. Hobbs. "As far as an of pluck, energy and perseverance. election is concerned I am comparatively a stranger in No. 5 ward. It is true that a few ways and No. 5 ward through and the same few years ago No. 5 ward turned out very strong in support of a man who was then opposing Mr. Meredith. I refer now to Mr. Peddle. I stood shoulder to shoulder with you in that fight, although in another part night, June 23. A large number of entries of the city. No. 5 ward in those days did have already been received by Secretary nobly, and if the city proper had been true to its own interests, and if the men in charge of the campaign in the other four wards of the city had been as true to London as you were, your man would have been elected by an enormous majority. I have been a resident of this city for twenty odd years, and engaged in business for 17 or 18 years, and I trust that on the night of the 26th of this month that I will still be able to call you comrades in arms, as you were eight years ago. (Cheers and applause.) I trust that this ward will be as true to its own interests as it endeavored to be then. (Renewed but I tell you, boys, I have had to fight | loyal to the city of London by bricks and the battle of life like the rest of you. (Applause and cheers.) Continuing Mr. Hobbs said he was an out and out supporter of the Mowat Government. (Cheers.) That Government had been pure and unsullied, and the colleagues of Mr. Mowat able and efficient. By supporting that Government London had much to gain, the speaker pointed out, in the way of educational advantages. It was no wonder that aim has been to oppose the Government. Let Toronto, whose paid servant he is, have the lawyer who is opposing the Government. Why should he have the honor of representing this city when he neglects it? As an employer of labor if I moved my factory or warehouse to Toronto and withdrew from London you would say if I asked you to elect me. "Hobbs, you have got a cheek to ask us to Ontario in charity and for educational vote for you." (Cheers.) Ontario to-day was the only Province out of debt, and despite Mr. Meredith's denials there was a substantial surplus. He would give special at the time of Confederation. Were privileges to no class or party. Mr. Meredith had said that if Mr. Hobbs ran his business like Mr. Mowat he would be bankrupt in a year. "Well," said Mr. Hobbs, "if there is such a need of good business men in the Legislature I ask you, gentlemen, is it not better to send a busis ness man to Toronto to see that the business is carried out." (Applause and cheers.) Mr. Hobbs went on to deny election. (Laughter and applause.) The the charge that timber was recklessly sold, and said that even the Free Press, in the article that it had to retract and humbly apologize for in Mr. Ryan's case, admitted that the timber was sold by auction and the highest bidder got it. Those who were shouting the loudest now had nothing to say when the Dominion Government attempted to give away fifty square miles of timber limits to friends of the Conservative party. It was creditable to Mr. "QUADRANTS" CONTINUE SCORING. Mowat that he had fought for and reclaimed 100,000 square miles of Provincial territory. Mr. Hobbs closed by saying that if elected his first care would always be the interests of the city of London. (Prolonged cheering.)

Charles S. Hyman, M.P. Mr. Hyman received the ovation he always receives at the hands of a London audience. He was only sorry, he said, that the Dominion Government had not seen fit to do justice to East London and make them part of the constituency of London, a position they were justly entitled to. (Choers and applause.) They had in the campaign before them two gentlemen his previous time over the course by nearly | contesting the riding for the honor to | really on its trial; let the lights be turned represent them in the Local Legislature at on and the Government's acts viewed, Toronto, Mr. Meredith on one hand, a Then Mr. Purdom proceeded and defended man whom he highly esteemed in a personal sense, but who had gone from them and taken up his residence in the city of Toronto. Not only that, but he had become the paid servant of that city. They had cessful, W. Sherbrooke and J. Foot making on to other hand Mr. Hobbs, whose infirst and second best time respectively in the teres , as he had just told them, were centered in their midst. He was proud to see that the Liberal party had selected Mr. Hobbs to be the standard-bearer of the party. (Tremendouscheering.) Continuing he dwelt on Mr. Meredith's responsibility both to the party in Ontario, and to the Dominion Government, whose servile supporter be would be when the Dominion elections rolled around. He was also responsible for the statement of the position of champion of the Protestants | who came here to do the dirty work of the of the country, but he said not one single word in regard to any acts of the Mowat Government which placed him in that posttion and placed the Mowat Government in the light of champions of Catholicism. He had a right, before assuming that position, Mowat had granted London a weekly sitto tell what peculiar acts of the Mowat Government constituted him protector of five-sixths of the Province. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He submitted that Mr. Meredith should have first discussed in detail the particular acts of the Mowat Government which he objected to. He was there to propose in all kindliness to refer to one or two matters which were subjects of controversy in the present campaign. First, they must see whether there was any substance before they fought the shadow. Mr. Hyman continued, and showed that the amendments to the Separate School Bill simply made more easy the work of registering separate school supporters, taking that work out of the hands of the clerks of municipalities and placing it in the hands of the assessors. It did not savor of the bowing of the knee to the hierarchy. He went on to show that when Mr. Ross and Mr. Bell had introduced bills making the ballot compulsory in the election of public and separate school trustees, Mr. Meredith opposed the action, saving that it would have the effect of introducing political feeling into educational matters. "Where Mr. Meredith was in 1882 there I may say I am," said Mr. Hyman. "Those were the days before 'Facts for Irish Electors' had been issued. Those were the days when Mr. Meredith and the Conservative party were not running a Protestant campaign. Those were the days when they were making a direct appeal to the Roman Catholic fellow-citizens, and because they did not answer that appeal in the way that they thought they should answer it, they

Dr. Geo. C. Davis was received with oldtime applause. He referred to his former successes in East London and stated that he had since met some of the electors in their parlors and in their gardens, but what he had to say then he was not ashamed to say again. "Place Mr. Hobbs at the head of the polls on the 26th". (Immense applause.) Mr. Hobbs was a man worked for $1 a day and Mr. Thomas S. Hobbs, manufacturer and wholesale merchant. (Applause, and a voice-"Always the same.") Continuing, Mr. Davis spoke of the pettiness of the average Tory campaign cries. He asked them if it would not be more to their advantage to elect a man whose every interest is in the city of London than a man whose interest was very largely centered in a rival city. (Applause and "Hear, hear.") It was impossible to serve two municipalities at the same time. Mr. Hobbs was a man who gave employment to a large number of men, a man whose every interest is here. It would ill-become the citizens of London to say to a citizen, "If you want honor, if you want distinction here move out," and we will say to the people of Ontario: "We have no one fit to represent us. We send elsewhere for our member of Parliament."

cheering.) My interests are all in this city, and where a man's home is there his heart will be. I am desirous of doing something for this city, where I have struggled up from among the ranks. Some people may say 'Hobbs is a proud man, but I tell you how. I have had to fight mortar." (Cheers.) Dr. Cl. T. Campbell. accept any substitute if offered.

Dr. Cl. T. Campbeli was lustily cheered. Both candidates had obtained success in their own business, he said. Mr. Hobbs, a successful business man of London, and Mr. Meredith, a successful lawyer of Toronto, who owed the patronage of Toronto mainly to the fact that he had been the leader of the Opposition. He assured more had not been done when London had been for years sending down an Opposition member.

"We have," said Mr. Hobbs, "been sending down a man whose chief end and sim has been to oppose the Government.

"The Opposition is the Opposition that they would not help Toronto to get five seats, one more than rightfully belonged to them. (Cheers and cries of "No, no.") For 22 years they had had an efficient. economical and patriotic Government. He did not mean to say that the Government at Toronto had been infallible. It was quite possible that during 22 years laws may have been made as well as appointments which perhaps did not suit everybody. That was quite possible. Of the expenditure of those years $57,000,000 had been handed back to the people of purposes. As a matter of fact the actual expenses of legislation were but a trifle to-day compared with what it was they going to put out an able and efficient Government and try an experiment to see if untried men are going to do a little better than Sir Oliver Mowat? (Cries of "No.") It was possible that Mr. Meredith would be in the next Legislature. After he had been defeated here on Tuesday next it was probable that some Tory hive would be opeued up for his speaker admitted that he did not know what Mr. Meredith's policy was now and if I did he did not know what it might be ext year. (Laughter.) Mr. Meredith's m ny-sided campaign policies were shown up in their many twists and turns-his action on biennal sessions, the time when he posed as the Irish Moses and wanted to lead the Catholic people out of the terrible land of the Protestant Pharaoh. (Laughter.) Now he claimed to be the only true champion of Protestanism. (Laughter and applause.) Where is he anyhow?

Mr. T. H. Purdom, when he could be heard, said Sir Oliver Mowat's Government had stamped on it indelibly the words "caution and progress." It dealt out even-handed justice to everyone. No man need come before the leader with a fawning tone or a crawling mein, but ask as proud men who asked for men's rights. They could appeal to any department of that Government for justice, and whether they were Reformers or Conservatives they would undoubtedly get it. (Applause.) The Mowat Government was the Government's action, while the crowd indorsed his utterances by applause. He said that the Ontario ballot system was the best system that had yet been devised either in this country or in England, in the United States or in any other country in the world. He instanced the stuffing of the United States ballot. There never had been a charge of fraud brought against the Ontario ballot. This was more than could be said about the Dominion ballot. (Cheers.) Mr. Purdom referred to the statements of Lawyer Bartlett in the Westminster rink, and characterized them as a slandering of private citizens in order to try to throw an unjust and untrue accusation against the Mowat Administration. He denied that he had ever received a cent from any Government whatever, or received a cent directly or indirectly while on the stump. Mr. Furdom explained further that his brother There he made a statement altogether had received a contract when the apart from facts. (Applause.) Mr. lowest tenderer had "funked," Mr.

party. After referring to the Free Press Bartlett backdowns in Mr. Cowan's case, and the fact that more than one asylum contractor, are good Conservatives, Mr. Purdom went on to say that Sir Oliver ting of the High Court. He (the speaker) hoped for an enlargement of that policy. (Cheers and applause.) Mr. Hobbs' object first, last and all the time, when in Parliament would be to secure the establishment of a normal school in London. (Cheers.) It was an old Scotch saying that a "ken't deil was better than an unken't deil." They might put in a party that had been kept out of office so long that when they did get in there would be a wild scramble for the bunghole. They could not get better administrators, better business men than the Mowat Administration had proved itself to be. They had had a practical test and had been honest, they had been faithful and they had been capable. (Applause and cheers.) Ald. J. W. Jones.

Ald. J. W. Jones followed and criticised the "cowboy from Toronto," as he called Mr. Sheppard, in his action in comparing the looks of Mr. Meredith and Mr. Hobbs. Mr. Hobbs had not been born with a silver spoon in his mouth like Mr. Meredith, but was a self-made man. (Cheers and applause.) A man born in humble circumstances who owed his present position entirely to personal effort. (Cheers.) Mr. Jones said that he himself was a straightout prohibitionist, first, last and always.

Meredith took upon himself the Bartlett was a St. Louis lawyer, (Cheers.) He asked his hearers if it had not been better for all concerned that the licenses had been taken by Government out of the hands of the municipalities, and he pointed significantly to the orderliness of the meeting and the advanced moral tone of East London compared with what it was years ago. Continuing Mr. Jones made a vigorous speech in favor of Mr. Hobbs and was repeatedly applauded. Mr. C. R. Somerville then proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, ex-Ald. Heaman, and Mr. Hobbs seconded. The resolution carried unanimously and Mr. Heaman replied, after which the meeting broke up with the usual cheers.

-The difference between the East London meeting to hear Mr. Hobbs, the London citizen candidate, and the meeting to hear Mr. Meredith, the Toronto corporation candidate, lay is this fact: Mr. Hobbs' meeting was one composed of genuine working men-the bone and sinew of the fifth ward -whereas Mr. Meredith's meeting was, to a great extent, made up of down town swells. But thanks to Sir Oliver Mowat and his "one man one vote" election law, every worker in East London has just as much voting power as a down town swell, and he knows that the man who stands by London is the man worthy support. this afternoon. Mr. Bartlett's Misrepresentations. "I do not feel bad because Mr. P. H. Bartlett, a recent arrival in London, has seen fit to attack my frm," said Mr. Geo. D. Cameron to an Apvertiser representative to-day. "We were the successful contractors for the supply of coal to the London asylum last year, for the simple reason that our price was the lowest. Mr. Bartlett should have been fair enough to tell his friends this when speaking in South London. But as he has not done so I only regard it as a little free advertising. I greatly admire Mr. Bartlett's assurance in managing to obtain so much free advertising for himself. He certainly deserves it. He works hard enough for it."

A London Girl Missing. A Chicago dispatch savs: "What has become of Miss Martha Galvin is a mystery which is causing her relatives great anxiety and the police no little worry. Miss Galvin came here from London, Ont., about three months ago to make her home with her sister, Mrs A. H. Schmidt, of 420 East Forty-third street. One week ago yesterday she left Mrs. Schmidt's house for the purpose of visiting the home of her sister. Mrs. Felton, at 991 has not been seen, although the police have Commerce in to-day's ADVERTISER. Not They have no clues. Letters have been sent pace makers, but on a light roadster, unto her Canadian home, but they know nothing of her there." The girl's parents used to live on King street. Her father, John Galvin, is a pensioner, and for many years worked on on the situation in a cautious, hopeful and the corporation. He had a pension of 2 shillings a day, and when he went to Ireland some years ago he left one-half of it to his wife in this city. The name does not appear now in the city directory. A married sister of the girl is supposed to be living in town.

A Separate School Trustee's Calculation.

"Let me state you a few facts that may not have occurred to the friends of Mr. Meredith who urge that separate school abolition should be made an issue in this contest between a London merchant and manufacturer and a Toronto civil official, said a separate school trustee to an A DVER-TISER representative yesterday. "These men know very well that the separate schools are guaranteed us by a British act of Parliament, and cannot be taken away unless a British Government repeals the act that binds the Canadian Provinces together. But that is not the point I make. Do you know that if the separate schools of London were abolished the taxes of London would be increased over $3,000 a year more than now suffices to educate the children of the city? I make it out in this way: In the separate schools there are ten teachers of the Order of St. Joseph, all properly qualified for teaching each. Three sisters of the Sacred Heart teach the children in Queen's avenue. They, too, are properly qualified teachers, but they serve the people gratitously. Thus, we have 600 children taught by thirteen teachers for $2,000 a year. At an average of $400 a year as public school teachers, these educationists would cost the taxpayers of London $5,200 per annum. It is a mistake to allege that because the women who teach separate schools have devoted themselves to the work and impart religious instruction as well, these schools are inefficient in secular instruction. The trustees hold that they send up and pass as many pupils through the high school entrance examination in proportion to their numbers as do the public schools under Protestant management." It is well to hear both sides of the question. This is an interesting statement.

A Silver Leaf Success. The Silver Leaf Social and Athletic Club gave a grand concert to a packed house in Cullis' Hall last night. The numbers were well given. Special mention might be made of John Fountain's solo and the acting of Levi Bell, who proved himself to be a very good comedian. Thos. E. Taylor, as Parrhasius, was exceptionally good. He is an elocutionist of no mean order. The chair was occupied by the president of the club, Thos. E. Taylor, who introduced the following programme: Chorus, "Steal Away to Jesus"; chorus, "I Hear a Mighty Rumbling in the Sky" solo, "Way Down Upon the Swanee River", Levy Bell; chorus, "Ching-a-ling Kei"; harmenica selection, organ accompaniment, N. Martin; chorus, "Way Down Yonder in the Corn Field"; solo, "You leaving them with the municipal councils. | Can't Lose Me, Charlie," John Fountain; chorus, "These Bones Shall Rise Again"; opposition to this view of Mr. Shore's, solo, "Chop Me in the Head With a holding that it would demoralize the Golden Axe," Levi Bell; chorus, "Don't You Hear Them Bells"; intermission; scene from Parrhasius, entitled "Parrhasius and the Captive"-Parrhasius, an artist, the Morning ADVERTISER a reporter acci- Thos. CRICKET. LONDON VS. TORONTO. Empire: London met Toronto yesterday on the 'Varsity lawn and was defeated by a handsome margin. Wickets were drawn at 4 o'clock, as the Londoners had to catch a train, and only one innings each was played. Dr. Williams and Dr. Beemer alone made a stand against the bowling of Laing and Wadsworth, which the visitors found most destructive. Terry did not come off, although everyone was hoping to see him bat. For Toronto Judge Street made a half dozen in a way which showed his arm had not lost its power since the day when he was the mainstay of the London club.

O'More, with a little tilt of her chin: there is a distinct resentment in her glance. "If you object to running, then don't run. As for me, I am now going to run again-home.

The boys are at her side in a moment. "If you think I didn't win that last penny fairly," says she, "I'll race you all over again. But you must give me the same odds. To that tree over there," pointing to a distant birch.

"All right," cry the boys in a breath. They have thrown themselves into running attitudes, and Terry is about to start, when Trefusis comes quickly forward. 'Miss O'More, a word. I have a letter from your cousin for you; I was going to your place with it. She hopes you will come up to dinner to-night. Whatever Terry's cousin may be feeling on the subject, there is unmistakable hope in the face of Trefusis. You-I may tell her you are coming?" bays he, seeing with a curious pang at his heart that she has not even cared to open the letter he has given her.

"Oh, I don't know," returns she, care-ssly. "I'll think about it. At all events, I'll send her word."

"There isn't time for 'buts,'" cries she, with a rather malicious little laugh at him. "Now Geoff-Max-I'm off!" And, like a second Atalanta, away she dies again, like an arrow from its bow.

CHAPTER II.

Through the wood they have flown all three, and now into an open geld beyond, that runs by the side of the high-road. Here a young man, riding leisurely along, Terry. Turning, she sees him.

"A pax! a pax!" cries she to her brothers, whereon they all troop down to the wail to talk to the man on horseback, a very tall and very well set-up young man, and that uncommon thing, a handsome Irishman.

"Are you going up to the Hall to-night?"
calls over the thickening hedge of furze
d blackberry behind which Terry is standing on tiptoe with a vain hope of seeing him face to face. Finding this impossible, she now smiles at him, though he does not know it, through an opening in the bushes. "I've had a line from Fanny. But I want to know if you are going.

'Why?" she asks. "Only because if you aren't, I shan't go either," says her cousin, Laurence O'More.
"On, well, set your mind at rest. I'm going," says Terry.

"Where on earth are you?" asks Laurance, peering right and left. "I wish I could see you: I'd know what you really meant then.

"Do you mean to insinuate that my word is not as good as my bond?" asks Terry. She clambers up a break in the bank and shows him a learly for shows him a lovely face, just between two branches of furze that are heavily and most sweetly in bloom.

"Well?" she says, saucily, "am I going to Fanny's to-night, or am I not?"
"Oh it wasn't about that I wanted to question you," says the young giant on horseback. "It was—" he hesitates.
Was that Trefusis I saw you speaking to just now in the lower field?"

"He seems to haunt you."

"Don't be stupid," says Miss O'More, turning a little red, however. Oh, stupid ! Mark my words," says her cousin, leaning over his saddle towards her, as if to emphasize his words-perhaps to watch her face more closely: "he marry you."

"Pout! Go home!" says Miss O'More.
She scrambles down from the bank again and goes on her homeward way. But she resigns that penny to the boys. She will run no more. She is tired.
"Terry," says Geoffrey, twisting his arm into hers, "why did you tell Larry that you were going to Fanny's to-night, and M. Trefusis that you didn't know whether you would go or not?"

"Because M. Trefusis asks too many questions," returns his sister, with a dis-dainful little shake of her charming head. If she had known that he was going to ask her yet one more question to-night, perhaps she would not have gone to dine with Fanny, after all.

Terry O'More, the eldest of the O'Mores now living, had been christened Terentia by her mother. The late Mrs. O'More had so adored her husband that when her first baby came she had feared to let this opportunity pass of complimenting him and perpetuating his beloved name, lest a second opportunity for doing so should never arise. As a fact, two other opportunities did arise, and the latter put an end to her pretty, graceful tender life. Her husband followed her to the land of shadows ten years later, killed by a fall from his horse while hunting, and from that time Terry had lived researched. had lived practically alone. Terry she was, for Terentia had been felt to be too impossible a name in a household where the rents had been lowered to such an exent that carriages were put down, and the box stalls where the horses used to stand vere rotting.

On her father's death, her cousin, Mrs. Adare, had offered her and the two boys a home at the Hall, but Terry would not leave the old house, though, indeed, the four walls were all that was left to her, and about a hundred a year. Even old Miss Bridget O'More, her aunt, who lived at Derrymain, about two miles from More House, Terry's home, and who, though "wallowing in money," as the peasants said, was proverbially close-fisted, had deplared herself willing to saddle herself for the rest of her days with her brother's children, but Terry, though much pressed to it by Fanny Adare, would not consent to go beneath another roof as long as her own old roof would stand. Then efforts had been made to provide the desolate child, who was 16, with a companion, but against this sne set her face resolutely, and, with a certain force that startled her listeners and made Miss Bridget shake her head over the future, declined to live with any stranger. She had the boys, she said; Max, who was 14. and Geoffrey, who was 12, as promising a pair of pickles as one could meet with in a day's journey. Besides which, there was Nurse. She would stay

Mrs. Ryan, on being questioned, gave it to be understood that wild horses wouldn't Braw her out of More House.

And Mrs. Ryan, it was felt, was a force in herself. When "the masther lay stretched," as she graphically and with heart-rending sobs described it, it had been intimated to her by one of the maids that there would be little hope of wages in the stretched." future, the "masther" having died most hopelessly in debt, and that she had better

Mrs. Ryan, full of grief, had fallen upon her tooth and nail, and boxed her ears soundly.

After that she had settled down, seen all the other servants out of the house, and accepted a quarter of the old wages she was supposed to receive (there had been great difficulty about the paying of anything during the last few years), accepting that only because her darling, her foster-child, would not be content unless she shared something with her besides her troubles. Terry was the light of her eyes, as unfortunately, in some cases, she was the light of other eyes too.

Thus Terry carried the day, and lived alone in the old tumble-down beautiful house, with only the boys and the nurse to keep her company, and without actual chaperonage of any kind; yet such was the girl that no one ever said there was any thing wrong in the doing of this thing. Terry was Terry; no breath of scandal could come near her. Even the rector's sister, who made all the parish "sit up" occasionally, had never a word to say against Terry; at least, a word that signified. It was not in Miss Gabbett's nature to let anyone go quite scot free. Even her brother, the rector, she condemned at times, and the rector was a saint. Perhaps that was why she was his sister: saints have always burdens to bear.

However, Terry escaped very well at her hands; though her brothers certainly did not. Everything she spared Terry in the way of objurgation she added to the vials of wrath that she daily poured upon the boys. More House was always under her supervision.

Untold Misery-What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and How He Was Cured,-Gentlemen,-About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. Capt. Ponsford, of the Twenty-fifth Battalion, St. Thomas, has resigned. Richard Axford, one of Yarmouth's oldest and most respected residents, passed peacefully away on Monday, after a long and lingering illness, aged 84. He was born in Devonshire, England, on Oct. 14, 1810, sailed for Canada April, 1841, and settled in Yarmouth. He has resided on the farm where he died for 42 years. Mrs. Lathrop Davis, of St. Thomas, is having proofs completed of her claim to a $6,000,000 estate in Australia, to which she is believed to be sole heir by the death of an uncle some time ago. ESSEX.

borough, The beautiful lawn surrounding the residence of Mr. Geo. Willsie, Belmont, was the scene of a large gathering Wednesday night, when a garden party was held under the auspices of the Methodist Church of that village. The choicest refreshments were supplied by the ladies, and after justice had been done to them, an adjournment was made to the front lawn where an excellent programme was carried out. It consisted of solos, instrumentals, recitations, and addresses, and was introduced by the chairman. Rev. Mr. Muxworthy. The following took part: The Cunningham family, Rev. Mr. Quance, Master Campbell, Aylmer quartet, Mr. and Mrs. Learn, Mr. Connor, Miss Dibbs, Mr. Boyd, Miss Tooley, Mr. T. McCord, Miss Beattie and Miss Brown.

SHORT TALKS ON ADVERTISING.

(By Charles Austin Bates.)

Some way or other, it always happens that the judicious advertisor succeeds. Judicious means many things.

Some men better never advertise. Some things better never be advertised. Men who are not honest-who do not keep their promises-whose advertisements mislead and whose stores disappoint-they had better let advertising alone.

There is a man in New York-a furniture 65 to 71 Front St. West, Toronto, Ont dealer-who says that he never expects to sell to the same man twice. He uses all means to get the best of the deal the first time. Makes all the profit he can on the one sale, because he knows that the buyer will never come back-that he will discover the cheat.

Now, it wouldn't pay that man to adverise, and he knows it, and he doesn't adver-

But a fairly honest business, conducted by a man who keeps pretty close to the letter of truth, it will always pay to advertise.

Most business men are careless in their statements. They have become so used to writing "biggest," "grandest," "greatest," "best," that they can only think in superlatives.

They mean to be honest-probably are. They are merely careless, and failure is the price of carelessness in advertising. Maybe not absolute failure, but something very short of success. Every advertisement should have careful consideration. All the discrepancies should be eliminated-no careless statements allowed.

It you can't take time to attend to your advertising carefully, better cut it down. Cut off all the parasites. Cut off novelties -programmes. Cut off the paper to whom you "give a hundred just to get rid of itto keep it quiet." Cut off the paper that is too cheap to be good.

A good advertisement in the best paper will do more good-more in proportion to price-than anything else you can do. A good advertisement of good goods in a good paper will always pay. Always.

Train Stopped by Tramps.

WINDSOR, June 21 .- Last night the midnight express on the G. T. R. was stopped by several tramps as it was leaving the Windsor yard. They tried to get aboard, but were chased away by the train hands, and the train proceeded. The police were notified and arrested several suspicious looking characters, but as noth. ing could be proven against them the magistrate discharged them.

THE MCWHIRRELL CASE.

Rumor That Prisoner Was a Son of the Man He Killed.

TORONTO, June 21 .- It is rumered that the crown has secured evidence which may prove that McWhirrell was a son of the old man he murdered. His counsel, Mr. Robinette, does not place any credit in the report. McWhirrell's real name is Wherrell, and he was born and lived most of his life in England. The story about the relationship is highly improbable. The crown makes no secret, however, of the fact that new evidence has been received, but declines to divulge its nature. It is understood it mainly concerns Walker and may result in his conviction.

COAL FLOWING IN.

The Black Fuel is More Plentiful and Decreasing in Price.

New York, June 21 .- When the coal strike first began to assume serious proportions several large operators in this city, fearing that they would not have coal enough to enable them to fill their contracts, ordered from abroad, England, Wales and Nova Scotia being the principal sources of supply which they sought. Within the short space of ten days some 80,000 tons were thus ordered. This was fully four weeks ago, and of this 80,000 tons there are yet to arrive about 20,000 tons. Some steamship companies have also been importing coal at their own risk as a matter of speculation, and are said to have done fairly well at it. At present, however, no more foreign contracts are being made, for the strike seems to be tending toward a settlement, and bituminous coal is arriving from West Virginia at the rate of 70 to 80 cars per day. From the Cumberland section coal is also arriving freely, and as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has released large quantities that have been sidetracked along its line and brought it down to tidewater, it looks as if the worst of the famine was over. Last week and the week before coal was selling as high as able to walk around, but the shock may $6 per ton, but it was offered here yesterday at $4 50 per ton.

ATTITUDE OF THE CANDIDATES.

The following correspondence, in reply to questions sent by the secretary of the London and Western Ontario Prohibition Union to the two city candidates, has been handed to the press for publication: F. W. Daly, Esq., Dufferin avenue, , London, Ont.

My Dear Sir,-In reply to your letter, asking my answer to certain questions on the subject of prohibition and the regulation of the liquor traffic, I beg to say that the policy of my party and myself has been publicly announced, and by it I intend to proper that I should give any pledges other than those which I give publicly, and which I trust may be found satisfactory to the temperance men and women of the Province. Faithfully yours.

W. R. MEREDITH. London, Ont., June 20, 1894.

F. W. Daly, Esq., 536 Dufferin avenue, city: Dear Sir,—I have your communication in which, as secretary of the London Western Ontario Prohibition Union, you ask my attitude respecting prohibition and the license question.

In reply I may say: First, in general erms, that, as you are aware, the Premier of the Province has promised, if the courts decide that he has the jurisdiction in the matter, to bring in such prohibitory legis-lation as will comply with the voice of the people as embodied in the plebiscite vote of last January, I should certainly feel it my duty to heartily support the honorable the Premier in carrying out to the full every pledge he has given and I need scarcely add that my principles would not change if there should be a change of government.

As to the proposal to go back to some form of municipal control of licenses I consider it a very important question, and if elected to the Ontario Legislature, I will do all I can to prevent the transference of the control of the liquor traffic and the responsibility for the enforcement of laws relating to it from the Provincial Government to any local body. To do so would be to demoralize every municipal council in Ontario. It would not be fair either to icense holders or to temperance people.

I am of opinion that, as a license law, the Crooks Act is the best that has yet been devised. Respectfully yours,
