MAYOR ADVOCATES ABOLITION OF TAG DAYS

Mystery in "Corpse" Reported Lying On Dundas Street

CAN PAY INCREASES
BY SWITCHING FUNDSNo Need of Overdraft To Pay
Boosted Civic Salaries, Says
Mayor Wenige.

ECONOMY ALL SHOT

Opinion Is That Council Too
Generous, While Many Men
Walking Streets Out of Work.

There is sufficient money available to meet the more than $10,000 city hall salary "boosts" made at last night's city council session without an overdraft, it was announced today.

While it is reported that $4,700 remains of the $5,000 set aside in the estimates for this purpose, it is explained that the proposed expenditure in excess can be cared for with money available from other sources. The council may divert this sum to the salary column, as has been done on other occasions for other purposes, city authorities state.

Mayor Wenige was more than disgusted today with the proceedings last night, but states that "those aldermen who were directly responsible for the $10,000 expenditure will have to justify their action to the people on the public platform."

"They will have to answer to the people," he stated. "Why, it was the way they went at it. In certain instances they even went over the heads of the officials and authorized increases for employees, who had not been recommended by the heads of their departments."

Ill-Timed Expenditure.

Mayor Wenige protests that the council spent as much as $7,000 roughly, that should not have been authorized at this juncture. He reasons that an expenditure of this description was very ill-timed when scores of men without jobs are walking the streets looking for employment.

"Do we need a commission form of government with a city manager?" asked the mayor. "I say that we do now more than ever before."

Ald. John T. May also condemns the action of his colleagues. "Certain increases were necessary," he stated, "but a number of them were not, and I voted against them. There was available $4,700 available in the estimates for wages, and I voted for increases aggregating about $4,300."

Ald. W. A. Wilson pointed out today that none of the city officials were increased, and he questioned whether an increase for Police Magistrate Graydon would not have been advisable.

"He is not receiving any too much at $4,000," he said. "Look at the money that comes into the city by way of the police court."

Treated All Alike.

Ald. George Burdick denies it clear that he went to last night's session prepared to spend no more than was available in the estimates, but when he saw others getting increases, he insisted upon all being dealt with fairly.

Ald. Leonard Douglas, chairman of the board of works, denounces last night's action as "wholesale and increases," and charges that some of the outside workers were not even considered.

"Last night's performance should not be tolerated," he declared. "Why, in certain instances the only reason given for an increase was that one person had been given a $100 increase, why not give it to another. I do not consider that last night's session was at all businesslike, and at right at this moment we do not know whether we have effected an equalization or not."

Boost Retroactive.

There is certain misunderstanding among members of the city council. Turn to Page 2, Column 4.

SEES GOOD CHANCE TO GET WATEREngineer Curd Pleased With
Results of Survey of Water Possibilities.

WHAT IT COSTS

The possibilities of an increased water supply to the city of London from the survey being conducted by C. A. Curd, engineer, are excellent, according to E. V. Buchanan, who stated that the engineer was still working in the eastern end of the city.

While Mr. Curd is not yet ready to make a report on his findings, it is drilling being done was a waste of money and a lot of tommyrot, Mr. Buchanan stated that he refused to be drawn into a controversy on the matter. He did say, however, that he would like to ask Ald. Watt where he would get his water from if no wells were sunk.

London is not in a position to go to the lakes for its supply, owing to the fact that it is on a height of land between the two bodies of water. The laying of a pipe line would mean the establishment of several pumping stations and a tremendous outlay.

As far as Ald. Watt's statement that Mr. Curd was costing the city in the neighborhood of $1,500 per week, it has been pointed out that Mr. Curd was brought here under contract at $3,000 per month, this to include all expenses for material and assistance, and that so far he has not exceeded this amount.

AGED MEN ARE PLEASED
TOGETHER PART OF SAVINGS

Two old men came into the Standard Bank yesterday. They had trudged all the way from the Aged People's Home to get their first Home Bank dividend.

The old men told the teller they had $500 each in the Home Bank, which was to be absorbed for the purpose of buying tobacco and little luxuries. Since the Home Bank suspension they had been denied the customary tid-bits which their account provided. They left with $125 each in their pockets.

The Standard Bank is continuing its recently adopted policy of paying a 25 per cent dividend to former Home Bank depositors who assign their accounts to the Standard. In a statement yesterday the interim liquidator said that the payment of these dividends was entirely a personal matter with the Standard Bank and any other financial institution that wishes to follow the example will be permitted to.

U. A. Buchner, who inspected a number of Home Bank assets, is optimistic that a fair return will ultimately be gained from them. The majority require development, and it will, therefore, be some time before final payment is made to depositors.

Only an odd depositor turned over Home Bank saving accounts to the Standard this morning. There still remain more than 1,000, however, who have not investigated their accounts.

If those investigating Home Bank affairs do not order a dividend for a few months or more the Standard Bank stands to lose interest on money advanced to local saving holders. It is anticipated that the goodwill earned will more than offset what financial loss may be involved, however.

THREE MORE OF THE LOVELIEST CHILDREN.

The Advertiser is hunting for the Loveliest Child in the twelve western counties. Here are three picked at random from the scores of photographs which have already arrived. On the left is Marshall Clinger, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clinger, 346 Dundas street, London. In the center is 7-year-old Ruth Marguerite Smith, daughter of Mrs. Thomas E. Smith of Strathroy. And smiling on the right is Robert Benson Sutter, son of J. A. Sutter of Clinton. He is 4 years and 8 months old. The Loveliest Children must be between four and seven years of age, and their photographs must reach The Advertiser before December 12. They will be the guests of honor at The Advertiser's Christmas party. A portrait of the Loveliest Child will be presented to the city of London at the request of Mayor Wenige.

BACK TO INTERIOR

Lester MacGillivray, son of George A. MacGillivray, Bellevue Heights, is apparently determined to continue his quest for diamonds in the wilds of British Guiana, despite tremendous obstacles. A letter and a postcard received by his father this week stated that he would return to the interior immediately in a final hunt for the precious gems.

Young MacGillivray returned to the sea coast temporarily, apparently to stock up for his second venture. The expedition, which consisted of many friends and companions, lured by the spirit of adventure in strange lands, nearly broke up when his medical officer died, and several of the weak-kneed members deserted.

The London man was evidently undisturbed by these handicaps. With a remnant of his party, he intends to seek diamonds in the giant wilderness of South America for two years or more. The part of the interior in which he is going was never before explored by a white man, so far as is known, and it is possible that the young Londoner may stumble upon interesting animal and plant discoveries.

"Lester is in good health," Mr. George MacGillivray said. "He sent us a picture postcard last week, together with a brief note which stated he was returning to the wilderness immediately with his party. It is said that the local explorer is determined to follow the trail of diamonds until his money gives out. He expects it to last, however, three years or more."

ORDER IS DENIED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Mr. Justice Fisher, judge of the Home Bank liquidations proceedings, has ruled that the interim liquidators have no power to borrow from the banks the money necessary to pay the depositors a dividend of 25 per cent, and the depositors will not get their dividend until after the appointment of a permanent liquidator on Dec. 14.

Following the agreement of the Canadian banks to lend $3,750,000 for the dividend, the interim liquidators made plans for the payment, and it was stated that the depositors would have their money within two weeks.

The interim liquidators sought an order at Osgoode Hall giving them the right to borrow the money. I. E. Weldon and Adam Ballantyne, K.C., appeared before Mr. Justice Fisher in his chambers. After argument in the morning and the afternoon, Mr. Justice Fisher refused the order, declaring that the payment of the dividend could only be carried out by the permanent liquidator.

EXPECT FORD

BIG ISSUES LOOM

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The bulk of opinion in Washington today is that the 1924 presidential contest will be waged between President Coolidge, heading the Republican ticket, and William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, heading the Democrats. Large possibilities in the way of a third ticket are recognized to exist, and Henry Ford is the man most talked of to head a third party ticket. The probabilities are, however, that if the fight is between Coolidge and McAdoo there will be no formidable third party movement, inasmuch as Mr. McAdoo would make a strong appeal to many of the voters who incline toward a third party.

Depends on Message.

So far as Mr. Coolidge is concerned, while he does not have the nomination within his grasp, he is assured of something like a third of the delegates already, and it is not easy to see how he can be headed off from the prize. Should his coming message to congress be a failure and not catch the public ear, his nomination would be endangered. It is recognized that Senator Hiram Johnson, Governor Pinchot, Former Governor Lowden and Senator Watkins are the Indiana are candidates and that Senator Wadsworth of New York is overlooking no opportunities.

Mr. McAdoo has been in Washington for the past week, and has effected a strong organization. It is believed he will announce his candidacy within a month. It cannot be said Mr. McAdoo is yet sure of nomination. The two-thirds rule in Democratic conventions may prove his undoing. But it is evident Mr. McAdoo is today the most formidable Democratic candidate. Senator Underwood of Alabama is a candidate, and so is Senator Ralston of Indiana.

Steamship Companies Are Re-

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The government's new immigration policy will mean a lowering of the bars to admit people of all nationalities able and willing to work with certain reservations as regards undesirable. Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration, announced today, following a conference with provincial delegates and transportation officials who are attending the immigration conference. In conformity with his promise of Wednesday night, Hon. J. A. Robb discussed the government's future immigration program with provincial representatives at a private meeting this morning. It is understood that the provincial delegates were generally favorable to the plans enunciated by the minister.

The minister explained that everyone willing and able to work who could measure up to the standard required in Canada would be welcomed.

Asks Reduced Fares.

Previous to the meeting with the provincial representatives, officials of transportation companies had a conference with the minister. They were asked to consider a reduction in steamship fares upon the grounds that the present rates meant an expenditure of from $400 to $500 upon the part of a man who wished to move himself and a family of five from Europe to Canada.

Transportation officials were anxious to know what prospects there were for increasing business next year. The minister informed them that there would be a considerable increase in immigration, and they promised to consider seriously the suggestion of a reduction in steamship fares.

Ticket to Canada Only.

The minister also suggested that the practice of ticketing immigrants through to particular provinces should not be insisted upon in future. Representatives of the transportation companies replied that they were under the impression that Canadian immigration laws demanded this procedure. Mr. Robb informed them that there was nothing in the statutes to make it obligatory. All that was necessary, he explained, was to ticket them to Canada and leave them to decide upon their final destination upon arrival in the country.

Police Find Injured Automobile, But No Trace of Cadaver.

Another "live corpse" mystery that bids fair to outlive the episode near Windsor a year ago, when a drunken man was taken for a corpse, has been brought to the attention of Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton.

At 3:30 this morning Thomas Ryan of Brantford driving an "express" truck, stopped Constable Ross on Dundas street east, and reported moving a dead body on the road east of Dundas street pavement, a little farther towards the edge of the road.

Constable Ross got in touch with police headquarters, who notified Provincial Officer Stratton, who immediately motored to the scene of the accident only to find that the "corpse" had flown or otherwise been removed. The car, that Ryan described as being in the ditch, was still present with a broken steering gear.

"I don't think there was a dead body there at all," said Constable Stratton to The Advertiser this afternoon. "Ryan told the city police about the matter, and I motored right out there. The spot is four miles east of Crumlin and 200 yards east of the pavement. I failed to find any dead body, nor were there any traces that a dead body had been there."

On his way out the constable saw a motor car with lights lit, standing in the Crumlin church driveway, but did not stop to make inquiries. On

He is to be the recipient of the degree of Doctor of Letters from the university from which he graduated. He will have the letters of D. Chancellor Whidden, now of McMaster, was formerly head of the Baptist College at Brandon, and contested the seat successfully for that city at the time of the union government, resigning to devote his time to college work at the time of dissolution.

WORKERS MAY COME TO CANADA FOR $15

Farm Enthusiasts Must Be Booked by Friends Here.

If you have a friend in Great Britain who will guarantee to work on a Canadian farm, you can secure his passage to Canada for less than $15. The federal and provincial governments have broadened the information that anyone who will give assurance that their particular friend or friends across the water are ambitious to enter agricultural work in Canada, they can secure his transportation for 25 per cent of the cost. The Dominion immigration policy is so active, in fact, that it will pay 75 per cent of the expense. A third-class ticket will be handed out to anyone in England desiring it, provided, of course, that he has a friend in this country who will testify to his good faith.

John Farrell, of the local immigration bureau, is circulating the word with bulletins announcing the government's decision in the matter. It is expected the new idea will do much to all Western Ontario farms with workers.

Through this new system and the regular activities of the immigration department together with the work of the Salvation Army, a record number of Englishmen and Scotchmen will come to this section of the province next year. Mr. Farrell said,

TAX FOR CHARITY

Says Worthy Charities Should Be Supported by City Out of General Revenue.

Mayor George Wenige today advocates the abolition of "tag days," the annual welfare drive and similar ventures by suitable provisions in the tax rate to meet these exigencies.

His worship would have the city councils of the future, preferably the council of 1924, take definite steps in this direction, and he thinks at this moment that a two-mill levy would be suitable under prevailing circumstances.

The appointment of a permanent and carefully selected municipal investigator is urged by the mayor, who would inaugurate a special department for this purpose and place it on a business basis.

On Business Basis.

"We have got to get down to 'brass tacks' and consider this problem in a business manner," the mayor warned. "In the first place, it is a well established fact, to my mind at least, that the need for charity will be with us always, to a greater or lesser extent."

"It will always claim our attention. Charity work has really become a business, so why not treat it in a businesslike manner? The money upon all ratepayers in the annual tax would certainly go a long way toward simplifying the work. The money to be raised in that manner, say two mills under present circumstances, would be spread equitably over all the ratepayers. All would pay, and there would be no question about who paid or who didn't, or how rate one gave or could have donated and so forth."

No Overlapping.

As the mayor points out, this annual levy would eliminate or reduce to the minimum the need for "tag days" or the annual welfare drive. "And there would be no overlapping," the mayor said. "The city would go into the question very thoroughly. The investigator would be on the job all the time—a competent paid official—and there would be absolutely no chance that any person would be receiving assistance from two or more sources while others, equally deserving of attention, are passed unnoticed."

The mayor believes that there are always those who deserve recognition who never make appeal to the city or to any of the different organizations, although they are in just as much need as others who have been considered.

HYDRO MEETING BEST IN YEARS, SAYS BUCHANAN

Utilities Manager Greatly Impressed With Toronto Session.

MAY RETALIATE

The recent meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association in Toronto was the biggest and most enthusiastic gathering of its kind in many years, according to E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, who with Commissioner MacFarland, represented the city of London.

Many important questions were discussed, among them being the possible shortage of power by 1926, as predicted by several in attendance. Mr. Buchanan stated that this was a very real danger as, according to the treaty between Canada and the States, only a certain amount of the water at Niagara Falls could be diverted for hydro purposes. This amount is now being used, and with the increase in power users it is felt that within a few years there will not be sufficient power generated at Niagara to supply the demand. The only solution is the use of the St. Lawrence River, but the Ontario government cannot go ahead and develop this navigable water, as it is an international waterway, and complications might arise.

The suggestion of steam plants, as made by Sir Adam Beck, is quite feasible, and will more likely be undertaken. The erection of these would not increase the power charges to the consumer, as their cost would be practically paid for out of the by-products of the coal used in generating the power. These would be gas, coke, coal-tar and many other chemical derivatives that find a ready market.

Mr. Buchanan also suggested that it would be possible to sell the gas to the citizens of the towns where the plant was situated in such a way that steam heating is now done by individual furnaces.

Whether the suggestion recently discussed in Winnipeg of central heating from one of these plants by means of steam, would be feasible, Mr. Buchanan stated that much of the steam would be lost by condensation, while being carried through the pipes. The power generated at these stations, however, would be for use at peak load times only, unless otherwise necessary.

On the matter of the Chicago drainage question, the meeting expressed itself strongly, sending a recommendation to Washington asking that some steps be taken to observe the treaty, setting forth a certain amount of water to be used by the Illinois metropolis. It was suggested that in retaliation, the Canadian government disregard the treaty governing Niagara Falls, and take as much water from there as they wish, thereby showing the States that Canada cannot be imposed on.

Keen Contests Expected For All Six Vacant Seats On Board of Education

Outlook Now Is That None of the Offices Will Go By Acclamation.

CLERGYMAN OFFERS

Rev. Roy D. Mess Accedes to Wish of Friends and Will Be Candidate.

It is a certainty that there will be no elections by acclamation as far as the board of education is concerned. It is more than likely that at least a dozen candidates will enter the field for the six seats, including trustees whose terms expire this year.

So far, two women have been mentioned as possibilities, but it is probable that more will make their appearance before election day.

The retiring trustees are A. E. Silverwood, B. N. Campbell, Thomas Rowe, J. B. Wright, W. A. Casselman, and Edwin Smith. Trustees Campbell has announced that he will seek re-election. If returned as a trustee it is more than likely that Mr. Campbell will next year be chairman of the board.

Thomas Rowe, the dean of the board, a member for the past ten years and chairman in 1917, this morning stated that he did not think he would again be a candidate, although he has been urged to run again and is considering it.

A. E. Silverwood is considered a possibility, although he has not made any announcement. Mr. Silverwood has been on the board for a number of years and is at present chairman of the collegial committee, taking a great deal of interest in secondary school matters. He is in favor of increased collegiate accommodation.

J. B. Wright, who some time ago announced his intention of retiring from public life, has been urged to change his decision and is also looked on as a certain candidate. He has been a member of the board for some time.

W. A. Casselman, another old member, will likely seek re-election, although he has not made any announcement. His information received from an authentic source is that he will again place his name before the people.

Edwin Smith, for six years a member, has definitely cut loose from the board, having tendered his resignation at the last meeting, in order that he may contest aldermanic honors in ward four.

New Possibilities.
George F. Copeland, secretary of the Canadian Club, has been mentioned, as had Clifford L. Gray, manager of the Mason-Rich Company. Mr. Gray stated he would not consider a nomination, but it is hoped Mr. Copeland may be prevailed on to run.

Dr. George S. Weir some time ago signified his intention of seeking a trusteeship, and will be all ready for the fray on Dec. 3. Dr. Weir was for some time attendance officer, and has been more or less prominent in educational circles for some time.

Two new names as likely candidates are Roy H. Cunningham and William H. Jarman, both active in boys' work in the city. Mr. Cunningham is a prominent Rotarian and successful businessman. He is head of the committee in charge of the Boys' Hobby Fair, and had much to do with the success of this undertaking last year. He came to London from Windsor some years ago. While living in the Border Cities he took an interest in educational matters and boys' work.

W. R. Jarman is also a member of the committee in charge of the Hobby Fair, and of the Rotary Club. He is manager of the Forest City Laundry, and has been engaged in promoting boys' work for some time past, taking a keen interest in activities of the younger generation.

Rev. Roy D. Mess, rector of St. David's Church, has announced his intention of being a candidate and will throw his hat into the ring next Monday. Mr. Mess has been approached by several deputations of citizens with regard to the election, and it was only after much consideration that he consented to seek election.

Women to Run.
Mrs. John Rose, president of the Local Council of Women and past president of the Union Mothers' Club of this city, announced her intention of becoming a candidate last night. She has been prominent in educational matters in the city for some time past, and was at one time a regular teacher on the public school staff. At present she acts as a substitute when needed. Officials of the board speak of her as an excellent teacher and well liked by the children.

Mrs. John Crawford is also considered a possibility, as her name will also be handed in on Monday. It is understood that she will accept the nomination. Mrs. Crawford is likewise well known in educational circles, not only of the city, but of the province, being the author of text books at present used in the schools.

She was formerly industrial secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., and for many years a teacher. Mrs. Etta Palmy will also be a candidate, and will be nominated by the Labor Councils. E. B. Smith, retired grocer, has also been asked to become a candidate, and it is likely that his name will also be on the ballot.

The remainder of the board will consist of the trustees elected last year, and whose term does not expire until the end of 1924. These are: Chairman A. N. Udy; Trustees Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt, S. F. Lawson, Dr. A. J. Grant, Rev. Quinton Warner and N. F. Willmott.

Bryden N. Campbell to Run.
Bryden N. Campbell, well-known insurance man of London, last night announced his intention of seeking re-election to the board of education at the forthcoming elections.

For a long time Mr. Campbell was undecided whether he would be a candidate or not, but finally decided to run. He has been a member for some years, and if elected will in all probability be chairman for 1924. He is chairman of No. 2 committee, dealing with buildings and grounds, and a member of No. 3, dealing with the collegial, audit and salary committees. He has been a hard worker on the board and has devoted a large amount of his time to educational matters.

PRESTON APPOINTED.
Brockville, Nov. 14.—Dr. Harold Preston, representative of the Westminster Military Hospital, London, Ont., has been appointed medical officer of the Ontario Hospital here, succeeding Dr. A. H. Brown, resigned.

ALIENS CANNOT VOTE ALTHOUGH TAXPAYERS

Assessment Commissioner Bennett Explains Why Certain Ones Not on Voters' List.

Many people seem to be in ignorance of the fact that under no circumstances may an alien vote at the coming election, Assessment Commissioner Harry Bennett pointed out today.

"This fact was again stressed at the voters' court of appeal yesterday," he stated. "While I have had many inquiries from people who want to know why they are not on the list. That is the reason."

The commissioner states that it is not generally known that there are several persons in this city, holding responsible positions, who cannot have any voice in the government of the municipality or country in view of the fact that they are American citizens having not taken out their naturalization papers.

"Some of these people own property here," he explained, "and some of them pay heavy income taxes, but cannot vote. It would surprise the people if they knew who they were."

NEW ANGLICAN MISSION ESTABLISHED IN CITY

Fact Brought Out at Meeting of the Board of Education.

That a new Anglican mission had been established in the city was brought to light at last night's meeting of No. 2 committee of the board of education, when application was received from the Anglicans of Knollwood Park for the use of Knollwood Park school, while a church was being built.

Consent was not given by the committee, this being withheld until it was known whether Bishop Williams had authorized the establishment of a church in this section.

This morning Bishop Williams stated that authority had been given for the erection of a church at the corner of Oxford street and the city limits to serve the Anglicans in this district. The church will really be a mission of St. Matthew's Church until such time as the district is sufficiently populated to warrant its becoming an independent church.

Work has been commenced on the building, and it is expected that it will be completed by the end of the year, and occupancy early next spring. In the meantime the members wish to hold the services in Knollwood school. It is likely that permission will be given.

AUTHORIZES THE ISSUE OF RENTENBANK NOTES

Associated Press Despatch.
Berlin, Nov. 15.—The finance minister of the Reich has formally authorized the Reichsbank to begin the issue of Rentenbank notes today.

Recent Berlin despatches announced that the German government had made preparations to beginning the issue of the new "Rentenmark" on Nov. 15, when the rate for the redemption of the paper mark would be fixed. No announcement was made in the despatches regarding the size of the issue, or what precautions would be taken to protect it from being pounced upon by the speculators, although an official communique asserted that with the appearance of the new currency "inflation will have to come to an end."

as to whether the salary increases are to be retroactive to Jan. 1 or April 1.

City Clerk Sam Baker states that the date of April 1 was set on the bylaw passed, although a resolution of the council was passed last summer whereby the council stipulated that "the salary question should be deferred until after the British report had been received and the increases then made should be retroactive to the first of the year."

This resolution was moved by Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee, and seconded by Ald. Peter J. Watt.

While city authorities state that the bylaw automatically overrides the prior resolution, two of the members of the finance committee, Ald. Wilson and Ald. Burdick, explained that they had been under the impression that the increases were going to revert back to the first of the year.

Ald. Judd is of the opinion this afternoon, however, that April 1 was the date when the British report was received when he voted. "The reason we set April 1 last summer was because the estimates had been struck before that time," he said.

FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE DR. J. WALLACE

Was War Veteran and Graduate of Western Medical School.

On Sunday, Nov. 11, the second anniversary of this burial, a few friends visited the grave in Woodland Cemetery of Dr. J. H. Wallace of A. C. Island, New Zealand, as a tribute to his memory, and also to place a wreath there, sent by his widowed wife. Dr. Wallace was one of four brothers who left home in the early days of the war, only one of whom returned.

After taking part in the Gallipoli landing, he proceeded to France, where wounds compelled him to start for home via Canada. On his way he stopped to complete his medical course at the Western University, graduating in 1921, when he went to Detroit, after being an interne at St. Joseph's Hospital here for two years. He was intending to go home after an absence of seven years just when he was seized with a fatal illness.

Paris, Nov. 14.—The first union meeting this season of the Falkland Farmers' Club and Women's Institute was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. Ernest Harley, with an attendance of 150. Mr. C. E. Vail, president of the club, presided. Messrs. Aspin, Clement, John McKinnon and Robert Geddy gave interesting addresses. Mrs. Walter Parnell and Mrs. Arthur Tew gave excellent readings. A splendid vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Marshall, Messrs. Percy Nichol and Wheeler. The club "newspaper" was read by Mrs. John McKinnon, and Miss Evelyn Bee gave a recitation. Everybody had a good time.

FINDS OLD PAPERS.
School Trustee Thomas Rowe, while cleaning out the basement of his store on Dundas street, discovered several copies of The Advertiser of 1898 and later years. Prominent among the numbers is that of January 4, 1894, reporting the election of Dr. J. D. Wilson over Edward Parrell, later mayor of Winnipeg, and the collapse of the floor of the city hall.

TWO MORE OTTAWA TEAMS JOIN NEW SENIOR LEAGUE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Two senior amateur hockey teams of Ottawa are reported to have joined the newly organized Eastern Canada Hockey League, which includes clubs chiefly from the province of Quebec. The two local teams are said to be St. Patricks and Munitions, who opened in the City League last year, but who were dropped this year owing to the opening of the five-club circuit.

The teams that now constitute the E. C. H. L. are reported to be: St. Patricks, Munitions, Sons of Ireland of Quebec City, Three Rivers, M. A. A. Nationals and Victorias, the last three clubs being of Montreal. Chicoutimi has applied for a franchise, and may be admitted to the league pending a meeting of the league.

COURT OFFICERS DO QUITE WELL IN "YE OLD DAYS"

Back in 1839 Services Were Well Remunerated When Living Costs Considered.

OLD FEE SCALE

A booklet of sixteen pages, printed by T. and B. Hodgkinson, at the London Gazette office, Ridout street, London, U. C., in April, 1839, bears the title: "Schedule a table of fees and costs, payable to the different officers of the quarter sessions of the peace in and for the London district, to which is added a report of a committee of magistrates, appointed by order of the court of general sessions, dated at London, April 9, 1838, to examine and report on a petition of John Burwell, Esq., and other inhabitants of the London district, praying that a table of fees and costs may be adopted by the said court."

Interesting items in their report were that "your committee find that an allowance of 17s. per annum was granted the clerk of the peace in lieu of stationary and fuel, which continued to be charged to the funds of the district until the April court of quarter sessions, 1831, when an order passed extending the said allowance to the sum of £25 per annum."

The sum of £17 per annum has been granted to the same officer for transcribing all the lands in detail, which are returned by the several assessors of townships for the treasurer's office—a service which your committee considers very inadequately paid."

Fees To Clerk.
The clerk of the peace was "authorized to receive from all applicants for tavern licenses the sum of eleven shillings for the performance of the following services required by the act:—to obtain a license, for taking recognizance five shillings, for copy of regulations two shillings and sixpence, and for certificate that two shillings and sixpence, a recognizance has been entered into, two shillings and sixpence, filing recognizance one shilling."

For the year 1836 and 1837 the clerk of the peace received £186 1s 6d each year, and for 1838 the sum of £187 17s 6d.

The sheriff was paid in fees and a fixed allowance for guards, graders, and other assistants, the number of prisoners in charge and actual expenses of removing prisoners to the penitentiary at Kingston.

For each inquest the coroner was allowed the sum of £2 10s.

The clerk of the court, owing to increased duties was allowed a small additional allowance from £20 to £25, and the high constable was raised from the £20 salary of 1831 to £25.

What the Jailer Got.
The "jailer" received by order of the sessions under authority of the 32 Geo. 3, Ch. 8, the sum of £100 per annum. "In extreme cases of 25s. and a turn of key, he has been allowed their claims, when shown that such have been required."

A medical attendant on prisoners was paid £25 per annum, including his "finding money."

The following justices of the peace signed a report: Geo. W. White, Esq. (chairman), Lawrence Lawson, James Ingersoll, J. Graham, Duncan McKenzie, Shepard McCormick, Wilson Mills, H. Hyndman and J. E. Askin, C.P., certified that it was a true copy.

The clerk of the peace, for making up list of jurors was paid 2s 6d for every hundred names, and for list of jurors assessed over £200 for the sheriff five shillings. For entering record of each new road he received five shillings making assessors and transmitting collector's rolls £1 10s, and for return of district population to government office, for each copy, £1 10s.

For drawing up warrant of distress to distrain the goods and chattels of collectors, who shall not have collected the rates and assessment for the year, the clerk was given ten shillings and for warrant to distress the collectors surpluses, ten shillings. He was paid two shillings sixpence for drawing up oath of assessor. Administering oath of allegiance and granting certificate and registering marriage certificate cost two shillings sixpence each.

Constables Fees.
Constables and bailiffs got sixpence per mile for "necessary travel to make service of any process connected with the court of general sessions." The clerk of the peace, for attending the court of oyer and terminer, per diem five shillings. For hire of carriages or sleighs drawn by two horses, when actually necessary, or when employed by order of magistrate, per diem fifteen shillings. Hire of carriages or sleighs drawn by one horse, ten shillings. Their daily allowance for subsistence of prisoners was not to exceed two shillings and sixpence.

In closing up the report the committee on fees have the following: "Whatever may have been the conduct of the committee on fees, your committee cannot but condemn the strongly expressed mode of use in the petition, as regards the want of a table of fees, a measure adopted in all courts merely as a matter of convenience, that the time of those appointed to examine accounts may not be unnecessarily taken up in discussing charges for duties of every day occurrence, for all accounts are required to be audited."

"Pompous Verboosity."

"When, therefore, your committee look at the pomposity of the first and second reasons, stating the acknowledged truism of the pure source of justice, and the necessity for its equal administration and find it gravely stated that the purity of the stream may be sullied, or the balance of the Beam destroyed by the discussion, whether a constable shall be paid sixpence or fourpence per mile for apprehending a thief, your committee think that Mr. Burwell, the petitioner, has arrived at most lame and impotent conclusion."

EMPLOYED BOYS' CONFERENCE WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Noted Speakers Address First "Y" Session of Its Kind Held in Canada.

AT GALT Y. M. C. A.

The first Y. M. C. A. Employed Boys' Conference held in Canada met on Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Galt and proved a great success. The conference was under the direction of the Ontario and Quebec territorial committee of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. of the Christian Association of Canada.

The opening session was held in the gymnasium of the Galt Y. M. C. A., and took the form of a banquet, followed by an interesting program. J. G. Lorrman, chairman of the boys' committee of the Galt Y. M. C. A., was the chairman, and the chief speaker was C. C. Robinson of New York, a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. and a specialist in employed boys' work.

Among those present were delegates from Brantford, Buffalo, Galt, Hamilton, London, Kitchener, Oshawa, Ottawa, St. Catharines, Toronto and Woodstock.

A number of Galt employed boys, accompanied by their bosses, gave the event the name of a "Boy and Boss banquet." Mr. C. C. Robinson delivered an inspirational address. He emphasized that almost all boys were endowed with some special talent, and it was the task of the Employed Boys' Organization to help discover what this talent was and put it to work. The one who had the happiest time was he who found out what God had given him to do. What we want to do, he said, is to help boys and young men to study out how they can use their talents for the development of humanity instead of against it.

Immediately after the splendid banquet, which was provided by the Mothers' Club of the Y. M. C. A., a lively sing song was enjoyed under the leadership of Paul Sampson, boys' work secretary, Kitchener Y. M. C. A., and Carey Foster, Young Men's Section secretary, Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. This was followed by an address of welcome by J. F. Roeloffson, president of the Galt Y. M. C. A., and fraternal greetings from Stuart Lockie of Galt, and William Hull of Toronto. The chairman also read telegraphic readings from the High School Boys' Conference and Session at Montreal.

On Sunday the delegates visiting Galt joined the Great War Veterans in their parade and memorial service at Knox Church. At the afternoon session, C. C. Robinson told what great problems faced the working boy due to heredity. The traits which we inherit are both desirable and undesirable, and it is our business to develop those which are desirable and overcome those which are a detriment to us.

After each session the boys broke up into four discussion groups. They elected their own officers, and were coached by older delegates. At the close of the conference the boys brought in their own findings, which will be printed and circulated to all delegates.

The delegates from London were Whit Tummings, Allan Kay, C. Kemp, Bob Ferguson, Dave Finlayson, Ernie Johnson, Jim Dey, R. Caldwell, C. B. Chapman, W. H. Spearman and Frank Clark.

ASQUITH STARTS CAMPAIGN; LIBERALS OPTIMISTIC

ASQUITH OPENS CAMPAIGN FIGHT CHARGING FEAR

Liberal Leader in Britain Declares Free Trade Is As Essential As Ever.

CONDEMNS ACTION

Associated Press Despatch. London, Eng., Nov. 14.—The Liberal campaign is in full swing. In a speech delivered tonight at Walsall, H. H. Asquith, leader of the Independent Liberal wing, attributed the action of the government in rushing the election to fear of parliamentary and public discussion of its record, and declared that the present action was unprecedented in the nation's political annals. The Liberals, nevertheless, welcomed a campaign upon such an issue as protection. He asserted that if a government majority were returned, it would be interpreted as a mandate for a free hand to turn the whole fiscal system upside down. The former premier said the Liberals believed the maintenance of free trade could be shown by actual and indisputable facts to be as essential to Britain's domestic and international interests as ever. They would not be content with a merely negative attitude, but before many hours elapsed they would put before the electors a definitely constructive policy.

In a speech at Bath tonight Viscount Grey, one of the Liberal leaders, assailed the policy of protection, and said he had an impression that the Conservatives were the most uncomfortable party in the country over the new issue. He warned his hearers that things in Europe were going from bad to worse; shaping, not perhaps immediately, but very certainly for a new war. He thought the time was getting closer and closer, and that unless the French government could meet the British views, British public opinion would become so convinced that the interest of Britain was to be kept outside and welter that it might try to cut adrift from the continent altogether. The only way to safety lay in making the League of Nations effective.

UNCLE SAM LOOKS AT TARIFF WALL AGAINST WHEAT

Commission To Consider If Present Tariff Against Canada Adequate.

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, Nov. 14.—The United States tariff commission has decided to investigate the import duties on wheat. A thorough study of the whole question of wheat rates, it announced today, has been ordered, and a preliminary hearing will be held November 26.

The commission's machinery is to be set in motion in advance of the initial public hearing, a committee of its agricultural experts and representatives of the department of agriculture beginning immediately the assembling of information as to whether the present tariff duty of 30 cents a bushel is adequate to protect the interests of the producers in the United States.

Although the work is scheduled to go forward as speedily as possible, commission members asserted tonight that they could not hope to complete the task in less than three months. The order for the hearing was issued in the hope, it was said, that a preliminary meeting of all interested parties might result in expediting final action. At the same time doubt was expressed generally as to whether the present question could be done in time to afford relief for the producers of this year's crop.

The commission's chief problem is in the determination of whether the 30-cent duty carried by imported wheat offsets the difference in production costs between the Canadian farmer and the American farmer. The exact difference must be determined by the commission. Commission officials said they expected to study information as to conditions and prices everywhere in the world, but they asserted that the present question appeared to largely limited to Canadian imports.

CONCERT PARTY VISITS THE BYRON SANATORIUM

On Wednesday night the patients at Byron Sanatorium were entertained by a visit from the Blue Bird Concert Party, and judging by the applause, thoroughly enjoyed the visit of these popular entertainers. As the "chocolate colored com." and in the role of porter at the Bonvil Hotel, Jack Allen kept the audience highly amused. Miss Fleeta Harris gave a quaint recitation and later did some clever acting as the hotel clerk. Will Higgins highly entertained the audience with "Thanks Very Much" and again in the capacity of oil salesman. Miss Winifred M. Reeves with her quaint monologues, made quite a hit. George Currie, Scotch baritone, rendered two delightful songs, then added to the gaiety of the sketch as the heavyweight traveler. Considering the short time this party has been before the public they already present a strong program of fun and gaiety, interspersed with dashes of sentiment. From start to finish there was not a dull moment in the program.

MACKENZIE'S CONDITION REPORTED STILL CRITICAL

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 14.—Although Sir William Mackenzie, who was taken seriously ill on Sunday last, maintained his strength to some extent, his condition is still very critical. This was the statement made tonight by his physician, Dr. Heffering.

The threatened pneumonia attack has not yet developed, but it is thought that danger from this source could be considered over until three or four more days have passed without further symptoms appearing.

MARK ARMISTICE DAY.

Special to The Advertiser. T. Bury, Nov. 14.—By request of Mayor Odette, the local clergy and a large concourse of citizens assembled on Memorial Park for Armistice Day. After an appropriate address by his worship, two minutes' silence was observed, the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison and the National Anthem was sung.

Members of the city council have very effectively dealt with the city salary question—so thorough were they in special session last night that they sanctioned increases throughout the various departments, aggregating more than $10,000.

Mayor Wenig and Ald. Leonard Douglass, chairman of the board of works, were hopelessly outnumbered in their fight to keep the recommendations within easy range of the heads of departments. The evening was most interesting as viewed from the spectators' gallery, and any of the participants who emerged unscathed from the fray was carrying horsehoes. As an instance of how smooth and methodical were the proceedings, Ald. Gordon Drake was ordered out of the council chamber by Mayor Wenig, but refused to do so from the chair, and defied the chief magistrate to remove him. Following the urgent solicitation of his colleagues who evidently did not desire to have the session break up in a disorderly fashion, the mayor withdrew his order, insisting upon strict attention to duty and no shouting.

Salary Debate. "That's right. I forgot about that," City Clerk Baker acknowledged. Ald. Gordon Drake then moved that the commissioner's salary be placed at $3,000, and it was carried. Five members supported the $3,500 proposal: Ald. Judd, Wilson, Colbert, Drake and May.

Assessors' Salaries. Mayor Wenig and Ald. P. J. Watt opposed the elevation of the assessors' salaries to $1,800. The assistant assessors, however, were elevated to $2,000 without opposition, and the vote was unanimous, setting the clerks at $1,200 and the stenographer at $900.

Then the Drake-Wenig scrimmage was noted, after which Ald. John T. May moved they adjourn. "It is not worth while to continue the way we have been," he pointed out, thinking no doubt about the board of works salaries yet to be discussed. Later, when the council voted down a proposal for the mayor that all hostilities would cease at 8:45, Ald. Judd rushed to protect Ald. Drake, announcing that someone had uttered the last remark. The question was asked, "But never saw anyone shout a remark at the mayor, and the latter instantly ordered him from the hall."

From the center of the field Ald. Judd rushed to protect Ald. Drake, announcing that someone had uttered the last remark. The question was asked, "But never saw anyone shout a remark at the mayor, and the latter instantly ordered him from the hall."

Mayor Wenig left the meeting midway, having an appointment to meet a large delegation. Ald. Judd occupied the chair with more or less success, the struggle being maintained until 10:45, despite the prearranged adjournment. All hostilities would cease at 8:45.

Ald. John Colbert tilted with City Clerk Baker on one stage, while the former charged at Assessment Commissioner Bennett's salary had been set by department heads, and not by the council.

Salary Raised. Assessment Commissioner Bennett's salary was elevated to $3,000, but four members supported Ald. Judd's more radical proposal that assessors were elevated to $2,000, the assistant commissioner to $2,000, the stenographer to $1,200, and the city engineer to $2,700.

Dr. C. S. Tamin's salary as inspector of herds and dairies was increased from $2,000 to $2,500. Sanitary Inspector Sanders was increased from $1,500 to $1,800. His assistant H. C. Boss, was elevated from $1,200 to $1,500, and the plumbing inspector, J. C. O'Connell, was increased from $1,700 to $1,900.

Nora Toll, assistant city clerk, was elevated to $1,100. The city clerk's office was increased to $1,500, and stenographers to $840 and $900.

W. M. Veitch, assistant city engineer, was increased to $2,700, and several other clerks in the city engineer's department were also increased. Substantial increases were given in the city treasurer's and city auditor's departments.

Granted Increases. John Moule, police court clerk, was granted an increase, as was the market clerk, the clerk of the weigh scales, the manager of the fish market and the storekeeper at the city yards.

Ald. Douglass, as chairman of the board of health, also opposed increases for that department, exclusive of the increase for Dr. Tamin. He was practically the lone voice calling in the wilderness, although both Ald. Watt and Ald. May joined him in his persistent and continual protest that they were going too far in their actions.

"Christmas boxes" was the term applied by Ald. Douglass as the council voted certain increases, and the mayor remarked, "Voting away the people's money."

It was good while it lasted—three hours—and Ald. W. A. Wilson wore an expression as he trudged homeward.

In this country, and that is what is driving so many out of it into the States."

Clerk Denies It. "Ald. Colbert has made statements that are not true," City Clerk Baker stated. "I did not recommend any salary increase for Mr. Bennett. Neither the city treasurer or the city engineer made any recommendation. I did not know what was on the list until it was handed to me."

"Why did the clerk, all of which were higher than these here tonight?" challenged Ald. Drake.

"I'm sorry, but I think you're wrong," said Ald. Drake. "You kicked yourself about your clerks." Ald. Judd moved that the commissioner's salary be $3,500, but Ald. Colbert rose in rebuttal to the city clerk.

"He says my statements are not correct," he declared. "I can furnish proof to show that his statements are not correct. City Treasurer Bell stated at that meeting that we could not set Bennett's salary over $2,600. City Collector Turner would be kicking."

"That's right. I forgot about that," City Clerk Baker acknowledged. Ald. Gordon Drake then moved that the commissioner's salary be placed at $3,000, and it was carried.

Five members supported the $3,500 proposal: Ald. Judd, Wilson, Colbert, Drake and May.

Assessors' Salaries. Mayor Wenig and Ald. P. J. Watt opposed the elevation of the assessors' salaries to $1,800. The assistant assessors, however, were elevated to $2,000 without opposition, and the vote was unanimous, setting the clerks at $1,200 and the stenographer at $900.

Then the Drake-Wenig scrimmage was noted, after which Ald. John T. May moved they adjourn. "It is not worth while to continue the way we have been," he pointed out, thinking no doubt about the board of works salaries yet to be discussed.

Later, when the council voted down a proposal for the mayor that all hostilities would cease at 8:45, Ald. Judd rushed to protect Ald. Drake, announcing that someone had uttered the last remark. The question was asked, "But never saw anyone shout a remark at the mayor, and the latter instantly ordered him from the hall."

From the center of the field Ald. Judd rushed to protect Ald. Drake, announcing that someone had uttered the last remark. The question was asked, "But never saw anyone shout a remark at the mayor, and the latter instantly ordered him from the hall."

Mayor Wenig left the meeting midway, having an appointment to meet a large delegation. Ald. Judd occupied the chair with more or less success, the struggle being maintained until 10:45, despite the prearranged adjournment. All hostilities would cease at 8:45.

LIBERALS AND LABOR HOPEFUL OVER CAMPAIGN

Nervousness Noted Amongst Conservative Party in General in England.

LEADERS PREPARE

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Eng., Nov. 14.—Pending Premier Baldwin's further exposition of his protectionist policy, which will be made in the course of the debate on the labor censure motion in the House of Commons tomorrow, political interest is widely absorbed in active preparation for a sharp election campaign.

The cabinet had a long sitting today when, it is believed, outlines of the government policy were laid down. There is even a misgiving and nervousness among the members of the Conservative party generally, as contrasted with the enthusiasm displayed in the Liberal and Labor ranks.

The present campaign differs in important particulars from a similar campaign which carried the Liberals triumphantly to victory in 1906. When Joseph Chamberlain launched his famous protection move which smashed his party, there were practically only two big parties in parliament—Conservatives and Liberals—with a very small Labor party and a few Irish Nationalists. Now the Labor party in the House of Commons consists of 144 members and is the official opposition.

Agreement. If the reunited Liberal and Labor parties could be induced to co-operate there is very general belief that the protectionists would be defeated. The Labor party, however, has consistently refused to co-operate with the Liberals, and as a consequence Liberals are fighting Laborites in the constituencies and giving seats to the Conservatives on minority votes.

The expiring parliament was in point of fact elected on a minority vote of the electorate for this very reason. The Liberal press is making appeals to the Labor leaders to agree to some sort of an election agreement, to prevent such internecine fighting in the constituencies, on the ground that the present is a unique occasion, where Liberal and Laborite have an equal interest in defeating protectionism. Up to the present the Labor leaders are not hurrying to respond.

The election oratory has begun with great gusto. Having no details of Premier Baldwin's plan to criticize his opponents are concentrating on the suddenness of his conversion to protection and on the fact that many of the biggest trades suffering from unemployment—the shipping, mining, engineering and cotton industries, which, it is said, constitute 90 per cent of the total unemployed, cannot possibly benefit from a tariff on foreign manufactures.

Ex-Premier Asquith in a speech at Walsall tonight pointed out that unemployment was equally as bad under the present parliament as elected, but that none of the ministers had mentioned protection as a remedy and even up until August Premier Baldwin in his public statements had never hinted at protection.

"This dissolution is the worst example I have known of the political pusillanimity and cynicism," he declared.

ROBB TO EXPLAIN HIS NEW POLICY ON IMMIGRANTS

Minister Promises Definite Answer in Regard To Immigration To Canada.

VIEWES PRESENTED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—When provincial representatives who attended the immigration conference here today, meet Hon. J. A. Robb, privately Thursday morning, they will be given definite information regarding the government's future immigration policy.

This announcement was made by the minister just before the conference rose for the day. He expressed a desire to see officials of transportation companies at his office in the morning, after which he would meet the provincial delegates. Several of the provincial representatives complained during the afternoon session, that they could not discuss the immigration question fully unless the Federal government placed before them some concise program dealing with future policy.

The conference will continue its sessions tomorrow and will conclude in the late afternoon, according to present anticipations.

This afternoon's session was given over almost entirely to presentation of the viewpoints of the various provincial, representatives. Delegates from every province except Manitoba and British Columbia were present.

Great stress was laid on the migration of young people from Canada to the United States by spokesmen of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario.

Hon. John S. Martin, minister of agriculture for Ontario, felt that the Federal government should acquaint the provincial representatives with its future immigration program, so they would have something definite to discuss. He said Ontario was confronted with a serious industrial situation at the present time, as young men were attracted by the high wages offered in Detroit, Buffalo and other large American cities along the border.

When an appeal was made to provide work for the British harvesters which would keep them in the country, Mr. Martin said that Ontario agreed to place 4,000, after making a survey of agricultural conditions. The farmers of the province were now asking for the men, but the men were not forthcoming, according to the minister, who was anxious for an explanation.

JOHN GOGO CASE IS STILL BEFORE TORONTO COURT

Magistrate Jones Overrules Objection Put Forward by Counsel For Defence.

TELLS STORY OF TRIP

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Counsel for those arrested in connection with the raid on the liquor launch Hattie C., on Oct. 6 last, when John Gogo was fatally shot, were overruled by Magistrate Jones in the police court this afternoon when objection was taken to the case for the crown being reopened by the evidence of witnesses given at the inquest. His worship promised, however, to note the objections in regard to the admission of the inquest evidence in the meantime allowed same to be read.

Fred Vanwinkle, arrested on the launch, in his evidence today stated he had been acting as cook on the launch, which was operated by the late John Gogo, who had leased the vessel from his father, Sydney Gogo. The latter's only interest in the boat had been to inspect it at certain intervals to see that it was in repair.

He said that the liquor on the last trip had been unloaded in crates from a box car at Belleville, and that they had been forced to put in at Frenchman's Bay near Toronto, owing to rough weather and in doing so had damaged the bow of the boat by colliding with the pier. Following this they had attempted to make the trip across to the American side as was the usual custom, but when four or five miles out in the lake had become nervous over the condition of the boat and returning had finally put in near the Woodbine at Toronto.

Vanwinkle was unable to state at what point on the American side the liquor was usually unloaded, but admitted that it was sometimes transported to a smaller boat near the American shore.

The witness swore that the liquor seized on board the launch was the same cargo which had been placed on board at Belleville.

The case was then adjourned until Friday.

URGES USE OF STEAM TO RELIEVE HYDRO SHORTAGE

AUTOS COLLIDE WHEN DENSE FOG ENVELOPS CITY

Misty Evenings Reported To Be Prevalent Throughout Entire District.

WORSE NEAR RIVER

The prevalence of enveloping fogs throughout the city for the past week invites speculation as to whether London is in for a "fog age." Upon inquiry it has been discovered, however, that many other cities and towns in Ontario have experienced the same misty atmosphere, and the cause is simply abrupt changes in temperature.

In old London, where the fog is a national institution, little inconvenience is felt, but in London, where mist of this nature is something of a rarity, fogs are dangerous things. Last evening three minor automobile accidents were reported, one at the corner of Grand avenue and Ridout street, one on Victoria avenue and the third on Richmond north. The damaged machines were left out all evening. In each case the fog was blamed.

Persons residing near the river bank are made more uncomfortable by fog than any others. The severity of the pressure about the Thames and the inevitable mist which rises voluminously to great heights, makes that territory hazardous for motorists. The slogan in the evenings when it is sometimes impossible to see further than ten feet ahead is "slow and easy," yet several accidents have taken place.

"This foggy condition is universal," the Advertiser weather expert said. "About 7 or 8 o'clock the weather gets chilly and the moisture becomes a dense mist."

Although a source of discomfort to Canadians, the recent fogs have many compensations for old Londoners. In fact, it is so essentially reminiscent of home that if you accost a dozen people on the street in a fog you will find that half of them are old countrymen. They revel in the old London fog.

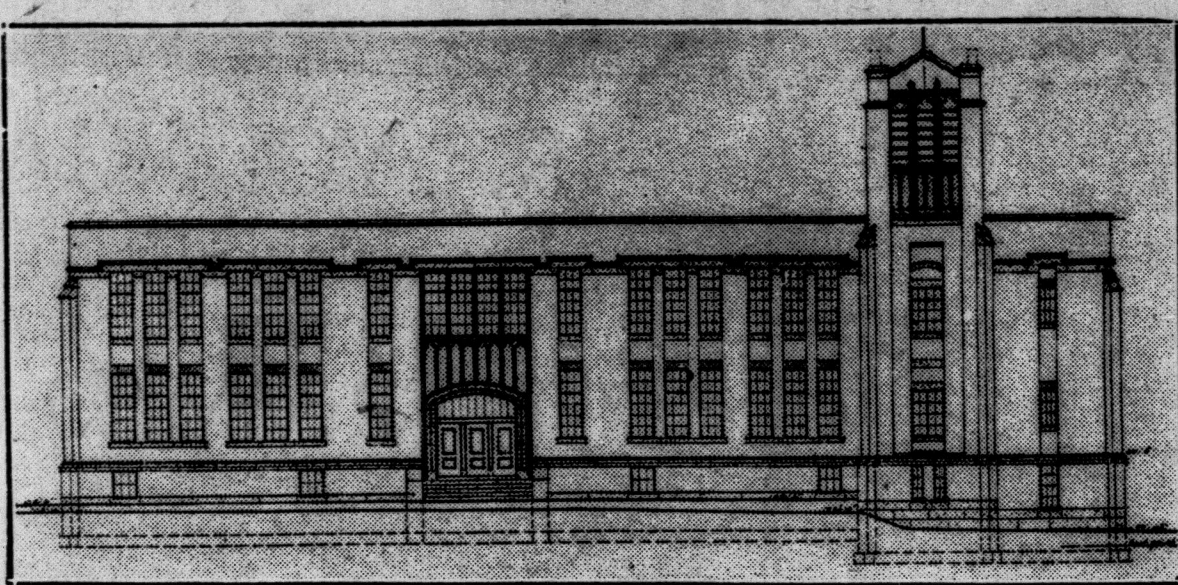

The grotesque and ghostly aspect of strolling citizens during a fog is another feature that gives entertainment. For the first time many persons got a first-hand idea of what votaries of Conan Doyle see in the course of their famous scenes. Everybody turns ghost during the foggy evenings, and the surprise of bumping into a ghost and finding an old friend is pleasant and entertaining.

"A decided cold spell will end our fogs," the weather bureau specialist said, "but when that will set in is hard to determine."

ROYAL WINTER FAIR'S BIG RING FEATURES

New Spectacular Musical Ride by Royal Canadian Dragoons.

One of the big features of the ring performance of the Royal Winter Fair, which hits its stride in the Royal Coliseum, Toronto, on Tuesday, will be the first appearance in an indoor ring of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, under the direction of Major Timmins. For several weeks Major Timmins has been rehearsing fifty dragoons and horses in a new musical ride, which, through the courtesy of the British war office, will be staged at the Royal Show. The ride, the most difficult ever attempted by the Dragoons, was received enthusiastically at the recent military tournament in the Crystal Palace show, London. These highly-trained horses will, in addition to the musical ride, appear in some new stunts and will go through intricate steps in remarkable co-ordination.

Other features will include Dorothy Wood, the Edmonton society girl, who will give a thrilling exhibition of jumping with her thoroughbred hunters, Sir Ivan and Quail. These horses, ridden by Miss Wood, jump over a seven-passenger automobile. Miss Wood's performance is described as being of unusual value and merit.

The appearance of the American cavalry officers in several of the loud-jumping events in connection with the horse show, will enable patrons to get a close-up view of the American officers chosen to represent the United States at the Olympic games. J. Wilson Jardine's Symphonic Orchestra of 50 pieces will supply the music in the ring. There will also be an orchestra of prominent leaders in the industrial section of the Coliseum.

Pioneer Couple of Historic Port Celebrates Jubilee

Scores of Friends Honor Captain and Mrs. William Berry, Life-long Residents of Port Stanley.

Special to The Advertiser.
By a Staff Reporter.
Port Stanley, Nov. 15.—Linked as it is with more than one phase of the picturesque history of this place, the golden wedding of Captain and Mrs. William Berry, which is being celebrated in the parish-room of Christ Church today, is of deep interest to scores other than the 100 persons, friends and relatives, who are actual guests. The captain and Mrs. Berry represent two of the oldest and largest families of Port Stanley. Of the Berry family, Captain William is the second of nine sons and daughters to celebrate a golden wedding, and Mrs. Berry in her celebration follows a lead already established by two of her four sisters. And to make the 50th anniversary all the more memorable, just following the wedding supper, at which at least 75 persons will be guests, Captain and Mrs. Berry are to witness the christening of their 19-month-old granddaughter, Constance, the second child of their daughter, Mrs. Albert Hunter of Southwold.

In the Berry home, keeping company with a log-book, a chronometer, and other souvenirs of the captain's career on the Great Lakes, is a framed document, whose twin hangs in the White House at Washington. The document has to do with one particular day of the eventful sixteen years which Captain Berry spent as consul district for this district, and he is hereby respectfully requested to communicate this vote of appreciation to the president and government of the United States. (Signed) James Gough, clerk; and Alex. Taylor, reeve. Mr. Taylor, whose signature the document bears, is still a prominent resident of the village.

Next June Captain Berry will reach his 72nd year. Seventy years of his life have been spent in the village. When but two years old, he came, one of a family of nine children, from Sussex, England, down the lake by way of Kingston. He reached America fatherless, the father dying suddenly as the boat docked in New York. For at least 50 years, his life has been spent in the village, and he is directly responsible. This is the planting of the great row of willow trees which have given a name and magnificent cooling shade to that part of the village which in the summertime is its busiest spot—Willow Beach.

Since his marriage, which took place in one of the early Anglican parishes of this city, of which the Rev. Mr. Zaveris was rector, Captain Berry has sailed with vessels up and down the Great Lakes, for some years conducted a grocery store in the business block, which is now opposite the old Franklin House, and later he entered the fishing business, the first man to take out a license for gill-net fishing. Of late years he has lived retired, first on Smith street, and latterly in a modern home built on the spot on which he and Mrs. Berry first commenced house-keeping 50 years ago.

Mrs. Berry, who is now 71 years of age, was Miss Flora McDonald, an Edinburgh girl, who married one of the early residents of Port Stanley, and one of a family of five sons and five daughters. Two of her sisters, Mrs. Ferguson of Detroit and Mrs. Duncan Munn, also of Detroit, have recently celebrated their golden weddings. A brother—Hugh—recently came from Detroit to reside in Port Stanley, and other relatives in the village are Mr. Dan McDonald and Arthur McDonald, a nephew. The widow of another brother—John—still lives in the village.

Captain Mark Berry of the village, a brother of Captain William, celebrated his 55th anniversary last New Year's Day. Of the immediate family, the following have arrived for the celebration: A son, William J. of Seattle; three daughters, Mrs. Geo. Millman of Dexter, Mrs. Albert Hunter of Piquet, Mrs. Thomas Gregory of Petrolia, and two sons, Luke of Port Stanley, and Mark of London, and three grandsons, Milton, Marvin and Earl Berry of Detroit.

There is an echo of the earliest history of the village at the celebration in the presence of Mrs. Fannie Bostwick, daughter of the captain's father, Captain John Bostwick, who was the first settler in Port Stanley, owning the entire village by right of a grant from the government. She is an old friend of the family. Other guests include Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merrifield of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Savage of Detroit, the Misses Ferguson, Mrs. Dana Anthony of Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley of Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Axford of St. Thomas, and others, with still other friends and relatives represented by flowers and expressions of congratulations.

SIR ADAM URGES STEAM PLANTS AS HYDRO AUXILIARY

Presents Figures Showing Great Increase in Use of Power.

IMMEDIATE ACTION

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 14.—Confronted with a heavy annual increase in the consumption of electricity power the hydro power commission of Ontario has come to the conclusion that steam plants must be established in various parts of the province to take care of the situation until water powers, particularly the proposed big St. Lawrence River scheme, can be developed. Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the provincial commission, today told delegates to the meeting of the Hydro Municipal Association here.

Dealing with the threatened shortage of electric power, he quoted figures to show there had been an increase in the consumption of power within the last two years amounting to 200,000 horsepower. The connected load in 1913 was 45,000 horsepower only. This year it was 625,000 horsepower. Three years hence all available power will be utilized. This fact made it imperative that immediate action be taken for the utilization of all available water powers. He favored the development of St. Lawrence power, but pointed out that it would take several years to accomplish the task. In the meantime, it would be necessary to supplement the present water powers with a number of well located steam plants. One of those plants would be located in Toronto, as owing to the immense progress that has been made in recent years steam plants could be operated profitably by the utilization and exploitation of the by products.

No increase.
Investigations made by the hydro engineers showed that with steam plants generating energy and exceeding a ratio of 40 per cent of the whole energy generated, there would be no occasion to increase the power rates. He had reason to believe, now that a friendly government was installed in Ontario, that it would refuse consent to the issuance of bonds to raise funds for the erection of a steam plant in Toronto forthwith. It would probably cost from $3,000,000 to $9,000,000 to construct and equip a plant of 100,000 h.p. capacity. It would not be possible to utilize Niagara power profitably in eastern and central Ontario so the water powers, supplemented by steam plants would have to be operated.

Sir Adam stressed the fact that the hydro finances were absolutely sound, that its revenues were ample to take care of all capital charges, after meeting all costs of operation, maintenance and renewals, etc. In conclusion, he urged the people to invest their money in hydro bonds, which were as good as gold.

Free of Politics.
In addressing the delegates, Sir Adam Beck said the great municipal enterprise was free of politics, and the former premier should withdraw his reflections. The interference of the late government cost the people of this province $5,000,000, and retarded the use of electricity that was going on, and made no effort to provide for future demand, Sir Adam said.

Referring to his action, he said he had reason to be grateful for the support given him in his own constituency. "I feel that a new life has come to me in connection with my efforts on behalf of the hydro undertaking." He believed that there would be a better understanding in future between the government and the commission.

In 1928, Sir Adam predicted, all the available supplies of power in Ontario would be used to capacity. Speaking of the Chicago drainage canal situation, he said it was regrettable that the Dominion government had not gone on record as opposed. He hoped the condition would soon be remedied. The capacity of the canal was more than the combined flow of the Ottawa and Niagara Rivers.

"If they insist on being pirates they cannot object to us being bandits and when we find we are short at Niagara through the diversion, may we not assume that we also can take advantage of the situation? Why should we go on starving our canal? That may be one method of doing business."

The speaker said that in the last two years there had been an increase of 207,000 in the power demand without any particular industrial activity. Nipigon Possible.

"The Nipissing and the Nipigon districts development are possible as well as the Niagara Falls," said Sir Adam. "You must leave sufficient water in Niagara to take care of the power. We can only divert half of the total."

"In the east we have turned for the future to the power of the sea. We are always stood aloof, they gave, no encouragement or assistance. Now Ontario has had shortage of power. We told them that we could never build a development of the Niagara before they would be out of power. It will be depleted before they would."

CLASSES FOR CHILDREN TO REOPEN IN LIBRARY

Department Conducted by Miss Loveless Has Been Very Successful.

The children's department of the public library is expected to open again in the next few weeks, according to Secretary Richard Crouch. This department of library work, in charge of Miss Loveless, met with great success last year in all branches of the local library.

Classes will be conducted weekly by the librarian in each of the four branches and subjects such as nature study and history will be taken up. It has been the custom of the library in charge of this department to conduct a story-telling class in order to introduce small children to literature. In the central library more than 2,000 volumes of children's books are kept. These will be available in a week's time, when the department will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day.

Teaching Children In Far Away Districts By Mail

Alberta Department of Education Inaugurates Novel Scheme.

PREDICTS SUCCESS

Work To Be Covered Will Range From Primary to Eighth Grade.

Special to The Advertiser.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 15.—School is now in session away at Caracalou and intermediate points in the Hay River country in the far north of Alberta, where there never was anything of the kind before. And it's all due to the new correspondence mail order system of imparting instruction that has been recently put into operation by the department of education. Twenty children in an area of fifty miles will be studying lessons this winter, with the assistance of his majesty's mail carried part of the way, at least, by dog train.

About fifty applications for the newly-installed service have been received by the department, and 25 of these have been already enrolled and supplied with their first lessons. The plan is that these extra-mural students will do their work at home and return it to the department of Education every two weeks for checking up and examination, new lessons being supplied from time to time. The work covered will range from primary lessons to grade eight, and the lessons specially prepared for the purpose are based upon the regular public school curriculum.

The new correspondence course is to be for children in remote districts out of reach of schools and the students already enrolled cover a large stretch of country in the north, northwest and northeast of the province, but with a few entries from the country south of Medicine Hat.

NORTH CHINESE ARMY APPROACHING CANTON

Associated Press Despatch.

Canton, Nov. 15.—The troops of Gen. Chen Chiung-Ming, commander of the northern army, have defeated the forces of Sun Yat Sen, the South China leader, and are within eighteen miles of Canton, according to official reports received here. Many civil officials are fleeing.

Sun's troops are occupying the heights northeast of the city, and he is hopeful of checking Gen. Chen with fresh forces. Sun says he will make a stand outside Canton. There is no disorder in the city.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1923.

The Bonus Idea.

Premier Ferguson's intimation that he is in favor of a bonus on the production of iron ore, or on iron produced from the low grade ore of Northern Ontario, should be called back home for an overhauling.

A bonus on iron ore would mean that there would be more low grade ore used to compete with the high grade ore at present brought in from United States, the people to pay the difference.

The one thing most needed is intensive application to research and method for dealing with our low grade iron ores.

Instead of spending money to urge men to produce an article that cannot compete with Pittsburgh prices on a commercial basis, it would be much better to search out methods that would make better use of our ores, and thus remove the handicap of their low quality.

If a man in the north gets a bonus for producing iron ore, why should there not be a bonus for the farmer in Middlesex who sells wheat for less than it cost to grow it?

Too Much Steam.

Surgeons in session in America gave out figures that must have been intended to make men shiver and shake.

They told that of every person passing 40 years, cancer would claim one in twelve deaths in men and one in eight among women.

The Spartans were never bothered with cancer—were never carved nor treated for it.

They lived close to nature. Cancer is a disease that comes with years and very easy and excellent living. We have helped to develop the disease with a too swift and high-powered civilization.

In plain words, we have too much steam in the boilers.

Not Connected.

It should be made clear that the Toronto paper, "The Worker," which gave vent to the publication of an article offensive to the women who conducted the Poppy Tag Day, is published by the Workers party of Canada, and not by the Labor party.

The Labor party has nothing to do with the other organization. In fact, the Workers party has little or no sympathy with the Labor movement as it operates through the various unions.

They want action and agitation leading up to a revolution that will take possession of the means of production.

It is unfair to associate the Labor party in any way with "The Worker" publication.

The Per Capita Charge.

Figured on returns made in 1921, it cost each man, woman and child in London $56.01 to provide for that year's expenses of municipal, provincial and federal government, or for a family of five $430.05.

The city of London cost $37.78, or $189.90 for a family of five. Included in that amount is the levy made annually to provide interest and sinking fund on the general debt, the upkeep of school, police, fire departments, etc. The total local improvement debt is put into one figure and divided by the number of people in the city.

The Citizens' Research Institute give the following figures, showing the city levy and the total when added to provincial and federal taxes:

City Levy.	Total.
Victoria	$67.32 $145.05
Vancouver	58.75 136.48
Edmonton	69.02 126.03
Calgary	69.49 126.50
Regina	59.40 113.64
Saskatoon	61.25 115.49
Winnipeg	55.30 108.75
Toronto	52.43 100.66
Hamilton	49.95 87.34
Ottawa	38.11 87.34
London	37.78 86.01
Windsor	43.39 91.62
Montreal	34.19 79.65
Quebec	22.92 68.38
St. John	35.72 84.19
Halifax	34.83 82.45

Of the 16 cities in this table only four have a lower rate than London. That, of course, may mean much or nothing at all in regard to the management of other cities. A higher rate in any one year might mean that the city was paying a large portion of its outlay on public works.

Western cities can be expected to show a rapidity of their growth and the call for providing in a few years all the city services that older centers have taken some years to build up.

London's figure, if brought up to date, would show around $40 per capita, compared to $37.78 in 1921, but no doubt the others would show similar increases. None of these comparative tables can be made to walk well on all fours, but as far as they can show anything they indicate that London is still in the ranks of those in good standing, although the tendency of the levy is still upward. A ten-year record of the total tax levy in London shows to what extent this has been true:

1913	$ 880,378.67
1914	962,993.80
1915	1,257,019.27
1916	1,413,212.39
1917	1,505,257.17
1918	1,426,241.52
1919	1,538,104.68
1920	1,929,647.46
1921	2,338,615.56
1922	2,537,013.52

London should set its face against any steepjack work in the matter of making expenditure records. The figures are high enough; they indicate that London has spent liberally in the past and is doing so today. To go to a higher level would be to place a load on the average taxpayer that he is not able to bear.

City Salaries.

The city council has at last finished the salary question, and a vexed problem has been cleared up. In the estimates at the first of the year a sum of $5,500 was set apart for salary increases. The increases granted last night were around the $10,000 mark. On the face of it that looks like doubling the estimates, but it does not work out that way. The assessment department last year cost the city in wages $19,365.75, while the staff at present employed there on the new rate will cost this year $15,500. This alone brings the actual amount paid in salaries back to the original estimate.

The fixing of the salary of Assessment Commissioner Bennett at $3,000 was as low as the council could go in the matter. It is $500 a year less than the salary formerly paid for that position. Mr. Bennett has served on that department for some years. When he was overseas there were other increases given in the department, but when he came back he went on at the old figure. The ability to do the work in hand is the only thing by which any official can be judged, and on that basis Mr. Bennett has shown himself to be a capable assessment commissioner. That office is really the starting point of all civic financing; it is the one chance the people have to get the tax levy spread with equality. If the assessment department is weak, then it is expensive at any price. On the other hand, if it functions according to the laws laid down for it, it is the key to the whole situation.

Mr. Bennett has reorganized the department, with the idea of a small staff permanently employed and interested, rather than a large staff on part time. There has been an increase in assessment this year of $2,312.03, included in which is at least $250,000 of income taxation. The rest has been made up by new buildings coming in and by readjustments on other assessments where inequality was held to exist. There may be places where citizens disagree with his methods, but the assessment commissioner has to abide by the laws, and he has nothing to do with the making of them. The average house has not been increased in assessment this year. That is as it should be, because an increase in assessment would be equivalent to increasing the amount of taxes levied, and there is a general understanding that this is high enough now, and should not go higher.

There were enough fireworks at the council meeting to let it be known that there was a session on. There were more motions and amendments, and amendments to the amendment than could be recorded. There were charges of secret meetings, and of various influences at work. But back of it all there was a fairly wholesome determination to finish the work in hand and not let it drag along farther.

It was not to be wondered at that members of the council acknowledged at times that they were at sea as to what they were voting for. A list with recommendations about salaries had been drawn up, typewritten; it is believed that document had its natal day in July. Since then other committees have operated on the list, and in many cases pen markings had been placed over the original typewriting. One represented an increase thought of in July, and the other an increase thought of in November. The price of coal and the need of an extra blanket must have caused the sympathetic glands of the authorities to operate. Therefore it is better to make increases during the hottest days of July. Many times an alderman had

The Guide Post—By Henry van Dyke

A NEW GUESS ABOUT LIFE.

My name is Legion, for we are many.—Mark v. 9.
I read in the newspapers that Mr. Edison, that most interesting and stimulating American of science, has just made a new guess at the basis of life.
"Humans," says he, "are vivified, their functions, mental and physical, are organized, controlled, and energized, by communities of entities."
These entities are possessed of intelligence; the individuals are indivisible and indestructible, but so minute as not yet to have been isolated by the microscope—so minute they probably can pass through glass as freely as light—etc., etc."
This is certainly a most poetic and picturesque guess—uncountable swarms of invisible "entities" building and unbending human life, like the insects in a coral reef.
I know nothing about the scientific evidence, for such a theory, but certainly it makes a heavy call on faith.
Somehow or other it reminds me of the story of the demoniac of Gadara, who was possessed by something which said: "My name is Legion, for we are many."
Are Mr. Edison's "entities" spiritual, or corporeal, or both?
Are they easier to believe in than angels and demons?
Is science less mysterious than religion?
Has anyone but Christ the word of everlasting life?

ON CHURCH UNION.

Kincaidine Writer Fears That There Will Be Trouble in Working Out of the Plan.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Seeing at times letters re church union, I hope you will find the following letter suitable and worthy of a place in your valued "exponent of public thought."

From the earliest stages of religion an effort has been made to force people to adopt the same system of theology as certain leaders asserted as the only true method of worship. It was the same amongst the peoples we contemptuously call heathens.

It is the same today amongst the Christians.
The simplicity of the early church was soon forgotten in the mad rush for popularity, which under an organized system, became intolerable to a few, who were intimidated by the threat of being burnt at the stake, or imprisoned in loathsome dungeons. After the reformation we find that in England the church was none the less tolerant under its new head. It was under this monarch that Sir Thomas More was beheaded because he refused to take the oath of supremacy. Many others suffered in like manner on the ground of heresy, and in some cases for treason (or more properly for refusing to take the oath of supremacy). And this accounts for many who suffered for treason in the reign of Henry and following monarchs.

Some may say that the Scottish church was more tolerant, but this I deny, as many have heard our fathers and mothers tell of the boat moored on the Firth of Clyde, where the early adherents of the free church sought no unloosened to their own Sabbath school, which was denied them on land.

A sad blot upon the character of the great reformer, Calvin, was that of giving sanction to the burning at the stake of Michael Servetus, because of his opposition to the doctrine of the Trinity, for which he was tried under the head of "blasphemy and heresy."

Nearly all the sects, when strong enough, would adopt the same tactics to spread their own system of worship. Galileo was imprisoned for declaring that the earth moved, which caused day and night, and opposed to the biblical idea of the sun, planets and stars whirling round the earth as the center of the universe.

Buffon had to recant when he declared the earth to be older than six thousand years.
Geology was frowned upon as being a dangerous study until popularized (in Scotland at least) by Miller's "Testimony of the Rocks." This was hailed as substantiating the correctness of scripture in regard to the creation, and opened the way to a closer study of the rock masses as laid down in the order of deposition, thought in the line of archaeology.
The lines of thought laid down by "the church" and preached for fifteen hundred or more years as the "word of God" has to be modified to mean something else than the reading creeds.

A united church cannot exist where freedom of thought is desired, otherwise we shall be forced into the dark ages by a united church, or as in more recent times, sustain an established church.

WILLIAM WELSH,
Kincaidine, Ont.

SAYS IT IN VERSE.

London Voter Breaks Into Rhyme in Order to Put Wenige Back for the Second Term.

"Loyalty to our city," Mayor Wenige's again next year, I hope. Give him your assistance, and he will help us all.
And London will be London when other cities fall.

He worked real hard for London, believe me or not.
It is the truth I'm telling, you know it isn't rot.
A man cannot do everything the first year, you know.
So give him another year, and then just watch him go.

He's made some vast improvements, you can plainly see.
And with co-operation he'll do more, believe me.
He'll say just what he has to say, and not behind the bush, as he's the only mayor we've ever had that's really got the push.

I was not in favor with him a year ago.
But I have changed my mind, right here I'll tell you so.
He's not had the assistance from the council that he should, but maybe they'll change next year, I really wish they would.

Now let's all get together and push this thing along.
By returning Mayor Wenige you will not go wrong.
He's helped us in this past year, helped us like he ought to.
So vote for Wenige, att-a-boy, let this be your motto.

CATTLE ON RIGHT-OF-WAY.

Resident Points Out Some Things That Might Cause Damage to City Property.
Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Residents along the L. & P. S. tracks tell me that there is trouble quite often about cattle getting on the right-of-way, and they complain that some of the cattle guards are not properly constructed, and that there are places where it is easy for stock to get through.

If my information is correct the men who own the cattle are not supposed to go on the right-of-way to drive them off, but must get in touch with the headquarters of the road, and have a man sent out to attend to it. On the face of it this looks like a queer ruling.
What I was interested in particularly is the question as to where the responsibility for damages would be if one or two of these head of cattle were to break some night and throw a car off the track, as has been done in other places, who would be responsible in that case? This is city property, and I think we should see to it that there is no unnecessary risk taken down there.

To the Baby

A babe across the street from me

Her head is round and sweet and
And watches as you used to do.

Her eyes as innocently stare,
She sits there in her buggy, too,
And watches as you used to do.

And her surprise is quite complete;
A neighbor passing on the walk,
She waves her arms and tries to like to sit across and gaze
At all her funny baby ways.

That come with thinking of the years,
I feel a weight upon my arm,
And nuzzle close a yielding form,
It do not see the baby there
For wishing you were small again!

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE
By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XVIII.

Dreams.

A tin box—a handful of nuggets and a roll of bills totalling about $500—this was Denny's legacy. Not much of a gold mine, but to Katy and Denny it was worth millions.

Romance touched them as though Aladdin himself had stepped jauntily from the Arabian Nights saying: "Here, boy, and you, little girl, just have a rub at my lamp! Help yourselves!"

Denny was omnipotent. The wheelbarrow of bricks, quite heavy last week, might now be feathers, so great is the strength of a light heart. Denny was never to be a plasterer. Soon the world would know that great engineer Miss Southwick had predicted.

Nights the two of them talked over their future; nights Denny figured. At last he decided. It would take too long and too much money to wait for a new term and finish high school. So he would study and coach at night. In August he'd take the examination at the university—Poo! Guess he'd pass them.

Denny's dreams were mild compared to Katy's. She wanted for herself, expected the angel or at least a great princess to visit her. In her earliest years she was quite chummy with the heavenly beings, referring to them all her troubles.

Once Lizzie had begged her for the doll's trunk. This, above all her treasures, Katy wanted for herself, but she was so tender-hearted. Lizzie so insistent, she would have yielded had not her guardian angel intervened. At least, indirectly, for Katy had written a little note: "Dear Guardian Angel—Lizzie wants my doll trunk, and I want it for myself. Shall I give it to her? Please answer."

In the corner she added the letters "R. S. V. P." These she had seen on notes pinned to Violet's coat when she wrote to Violet. This solemn entreaty Katy pinned to the top of her crib after the light was turned out, hoping in the morning to see, written in letters of gold, a big "NO."

The angel was a poor correspondent. Every night for a week the note was pinned on the corner, where an angel ought to watch. No answer came. Katy took it as a sign. When Lizzie began teasing again she stamped her foot.

"You can't have it, Lizzie Borely. You can't have anything at all! It's mine. God said so right to me!"

There were other manifestations of divine favoritism. As Katy grew a little older she dreamed of being adopted by some tremendously rich lady, when she sat in her chair just outside the broken alleyway gate women passing would say: "What a beautiful child—what a pity!"

She sat in Old Lady Traynor's garden with its neat grass plat, the heliotrope and roses climbing all over the fence—and dreamed. Perhaps they would buy Shetland ponies and go riding in the park; they might go to the country for a vacation where there was a river and boats; they might go all around the world. Of course, she'd have to get better—well, she would.

Late one afternoon Lizzie came to visit her. Lizzie had a great secret and a brand new red ribbon on her hair.

"Like it, Katy?" This after much wriggling and fooling with her hair. She showed her hand to Katy.

"Oh—beautiful!" Katy drew the word out with a thrilled sigh. "Who gave it to you, Lizzie?"

"It" was a speckled little turquoise ring. Lizzie couldn't answer the question without blushing and making the coquettish faces that were so out of tune with her thick skin and cruelly pug nose. In the midst of her confidence, Denny, the jubilant, scattered in.

"Hello, Liz!" he said, gaily, including even his cousin in his happy spirits. "What's up?"

Lizzie looked at her hand, glanced upward in the coy manner that made her seem such a foolish turnip to Denny's scornful youth.

"You might look, Mister Denny," she said in an aggrieved tone, blushing and holding out her hand.

Katy nodded in excitement, made a hurried grimace:

"Engaged!" Her lips formed the word for Denny.

"Good Lord!" Denny was too surprised for gallantry. "Going to get married, Lizzie? Who in the world?"

"Oh, Denny!" Katy's tone was a reproach.
Lizzie's small eyes quivered: "I'm sure you're nice, Denny Brooks. I should think you'd be glad—"

"Aw, sky, Lizzie—you just took me off my feet. How in the world did I know you had a beau? Course I'm glad. Gee—who is it?"

"Emmett Goss! The grocery clerk? That idiot! Lord, Lizzie, you don't mean it?"

Lizzie's wide mouth puckered: "I'm sure I'm glad I came. I wonder who you are to talk about Emmet. Guess if you earned $50 a month you'd be pretty stuck up, Denny Brooks. Suppose if I ran away and disgraced the whole family, and then pretended to be getting married, you'd think I was sweet—mighty sweet—"

"Lizzie, he didn't mean it. Denny didn't mean it that way at all." Katy reached up and patted her hand. "He just likes you, Lizzie, and thinks you're too good for Emmet or anybody. Don't you, Denny?"

Denny had caught the sudden malice in Lizzie's tone—sensed what she meant.

"Who pretended to get married, Lizzie?"

"Well, I guess somebody did, all right. I guess I know what I'm talking about. Guess I'm not saying things just to be nasty—nasty as can be the way some people do—"

"Denny ignored the taunt: "Did Violet pretend to be married?"

"Did she? Well, I guess, that ain't all she did, either! Guess Sadie Foley went down to Los Angeles on her vacation and met her. Met her with him!"

Lizzie gave him a spiteful dart from her little eyes and laughed: "Who? Well, who did she run away with? She just deserved what papa gave her. As though you don't know who—"

"Clyde Dunstan?"

"Yes, it was Sadie saw them. And she had feathers in her hat and a silver purse. And she told Sadie they were going to be married. That's what she told her. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitation, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."—Advt.

"Maybe it's true."

"And maybe it ain't! At least Sadie was mighty surprised that mamma didn't know. She thought sure we'd know. So I guess Miss Violet ain't so sweet. Sadie said she looked like a walking skeleton."

"And I guess she ain't so happy, either—"

Katy's eyes were filled with tears. Denny wanted to push Lizzie from her.

"Getting cold, Katy; you better come in," he said bluntly, stooping down and lifting her in his arms.

"Never bear to hurt anyone, but Lizzie had already overstayed. She would be late for dinner. This she never did, fearing to antagonize Matt Borely."

"Mean little wretch," Denny carried Katy to her room, set her on the splendid cradle quilt.

"Do you think that's true about Violet? Oh, poor Vee—don't you wish she'd come and live with us, Denny? She could, now."

That night and for many nights as he sat up studying, Violet's pretty face, with the dark hair piled high, came before him. Why did she look like a "walking skeleton"? Could she be hungry?

How terrible if Violet should starve and he owing a tin box with $500. Aunt Josie heard nothing from her—not a word.

The examination time came. . . . Denny sat up half the night studying. He was afraid of the Latin and French.

When the day for these came he couldn't eat. Neither could Katy.

"You'll pass, Denny—I prayed. I'll hold my thumbs for you."

Two weeks later came the report. He was afraid to open it; afraid to evade. At last the envelope was torn. . . . A mistake somewhere—he had passed!

That night there was a celebration—a high head and a high heart pushing a wheel chair along Fillmore street. They went to a movie and afterward to one of the brilliant:

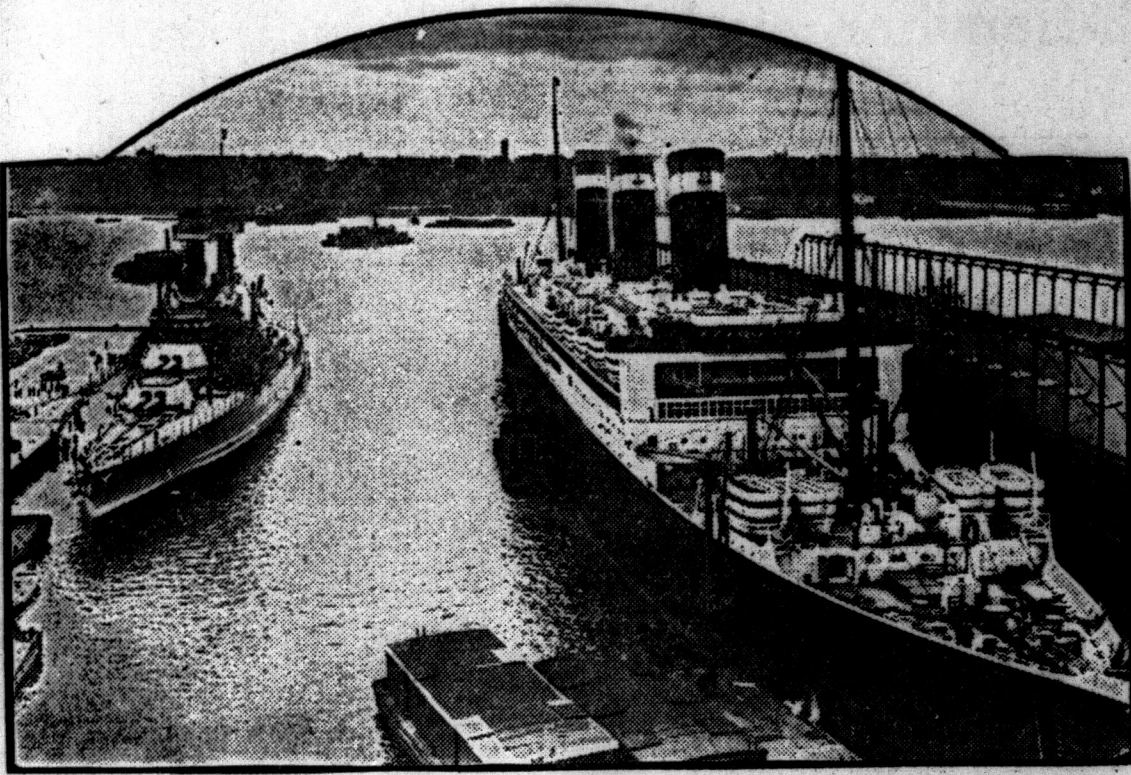

candy stores opened the year after the fire.

"Remember when we used to have only one dish and two spoons, Denny?"

Denny didn't answer. He was watching the table next to them—watching a dark young man with soft, dreamy eyes. Denny's heart chilled—grew burning hot.

Clyde Dunstan laughed into the eyes of a slim, pretty girl—just as had laughed into Violet's.

Rumor Goldie Prodger Might Be Induced to Coach City's Ice Team

Smaller Towns Able To Retain Coaches Fans Think London Should Grasp Chance

Coach Could Be Used To Supervise School Hockey as Well.

Rumors to the effect that "Goldie" Prodger, London's only professional hockey player, might be engaged as coach for London teams this winter have some foundation in the fact that so far the big fellow has not returned his signed contract to the Hamilton pro club.

"I have a Hamilton contract, but I haven't sent it back yet," the N. H. A. speed merchant admitted this morning, but that was about all the admitting the carrot-topped party would make.

Wishes are probably to be blamed for the thoughts which begat these persistent rumors which are flying about over hockey prospects this winter. It has been suggested that it would be worth the while of the A. A. A. to offer inducements which might result in Prodger being retained in London. He could be used not only to coach the intermediate and junior O. H. A. teams, but act as a hockey supervisor for the school teams. It is likely that Western University, making its debut in intercollegiate hockey this winter, will need a coach, and some sort of arrangement could be made between the L. A. A. A., Western University and possibly the playgrounds committee of the public utilities commission. If a playgrounds director is needed in the summer, and there is no question likely to be raised on that point, a hockey director in the winter months could surely be utilized to advantage.

There is little doubt that Prodger would listen to any reasonable proposal, but on the other hand, it must naturally be taken that he cannot be expected to make too great financial sacrifices. Professional clubs are not anxious to lose any of their talent and their terms still show the effects of the inflation period which struck all professional sports.

It is believed that when Chairman Jack Greer of the hockey committee returns from his trip the matter of engaging Prodger will be taken up. The fact is known, would welcome the retention of Prodger, a hockey idol for many seasons in London, to hockey and whose work in professional ranks is always followed with keen interest every year. The opinion is steadily gaining ground, too, among the fans that if the smaller places can afford to engage hockey coaches, London, with a new arena and starting out on a fresh hockey page, should be able to undertake the proposition.

ENTRIES FOR MFRS. LOOP WILL CLOSE ON FRIDAY

Believed Three Outside Men
Amendment Will Carry at Next Meeting.

Tomorrow entries for the Manufacturers' League close with Secretary Suddick. The loop will have at least eight teams, and with every prospect of faster hockey than the league has ever before produced. The publication of the player lists of each of the teams entered will disclose that much switching of material has been going on throughout the summer.

McCormicks will have Andrews, formerly with McClary, as captain of their team. The Stovermen, it is believed, have Johnny Burgess, and there are numerous other switches. More material is being scraped up in view of the fact that the amendment which will allow use of three outside men will probably carry.

L. and D. Entries Close on Friday

The L. and D. will have a junior case entry from the "Y." the Tigers of last year practically intact. Albert Lawrence has been chosen as captain. The lineup will be: Casselman, Fox, Upthegrove, Warren, Cummings, Lawrence, Anderson, McGregor. Entries for the L. and D. C. Age Association close Friday night at the M. C. A. Secretary Butler claims the association is for one of its biggest seasons, with all teams strengthened up and therefore much faster.

Western U. Co-Eds Will Introduce Field Hockey Here Next Season

Girls' field hockey, which is familiar to Londoners only through the picture supplements, will be introduced at Western University next spring.

The fact that McDonald Hall, Guelph, has already made some progress in the game and that an intercollegiate series will be formed shortly has led to plans being made for its introduction at Western in the spring. It will be played as a spring and autumn game.

The fact that it made such strides among the girls' colleges in the United States into its introduction from the British Isles indicates that the game possesses all the merits claimed for it.

One requirement is level and fine turf, sometimes difficult to obtain in Canada or the United States. Western, however, should be located "on the hill" in the spring, and the girls' athletic field there has a turf which looks almost as good as the greens of the London Hunt and Country Club, in plain view from Western's site.

It is possible that the introduction of field hockey by the co-eds may mean that it will be taken up by city teams later. It would fill in splendidly between the close of the basketball season and the start of the girls' softball season.

A local woodworking plant went in for the making of field hockey sticks two seasons ago when several basketball teams intimated their intention of taking up the pastime, so the team would have a seasoned supply of sticks right at hand.

REWARD OF IMMORTAL CASEY IS WILDS OF BOSTON.

McGraw's deal with the Braves emphasizes the peculiar fate of world series heroes, for Casey Stengel, who goes to Boston, was the outstanding hero of the Giants during the recent world's championship games. His homers won the only games McGraw's clan were able to cop.

Down the Line In All Sports

The London Garrison is aiming at two Ontario championships for London, one indoor track and the other boxing.

It is doubtful, however, if the latter could be brought here. The preponderance of Toronto boxers is too high. The Queen City has nearly 500 million artists, amateur and pro, and some estimates place the figure nearer 1,000. Transporting the Queen City boxers here in itself presents a financial obstacle which would take more boxing enthusiasm to overcome than London is liable to show for some seasons.

However, the high aim of the Garrison A. A. shows that this organization has the right spirit.

President T. M. Halligan is supposed to have disclosed some "startling" information while in the city Wednesday, to the effect that Buzz Wetzel may manage Hamilton in the next season's campaign. It won't come as startling news to Hamilton fans who have been fed on Wetzel propaganda ever since the season closed.

For instance, it obviously has done pretty well with his aged collection while he handled them last season, but it's a difficult task for a player breaking into the managerial ranks of the minors with so many major league vets available.

Not much is being heard of Ted Moore, the young light-heavyweight from Plymouth, now getting acclimatized. Moore is only 24 years of age and has a 29-round draw with Roland Todd in his record.

The trades start just as Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, is considering ways and means to strengthen the weaker teams. It is said that Laird Landis of Kenesaw Mountain is considering giving the weaker teams the first choice of all minor league ivory. It always has been a contention that succor for weak sisters only makes them weaker. There is no particular reason why parsimonious owners of baseball clubs should be helped and in this way made all the more parsimonious. Col. Tillinghast L'Honnemieu Huston, who made a million dollars in his brief excursion into the baseball business, contends that the same thing could be done with any baseball club in either league, and Col. Huston's opinions on baseball as a business are worth listening to. Certainly he demonstrated the possibilities for the businessman in baseball.

Ruppert and Charles A. Stoneham, who have the courage and the imagination to spend substantial sums for the building up of their teams, to connive at ways and means to save expenses for rival managers lacking in courage and imagination. The better way to even up the races would be to have the owners of the "weak sister" clubs frozen out of the game altogether so that they could be replaced by owners of the right type.

Let the weak clubs be lowered to the level of the strong clubs rather than have the strong clubs lowered to the level of the weak ones. Baseball as a game and a business has reached its present high standing through competition.

All-Hamilton Rugby Clash On Saturday Finds Tigers As Slight Favorites

McTigue's Hand Probably Sprained Signing Checks For Irish Joy Rides

Special To The Advertiser.

New York, Nov. 14.—Mike McTigue and his lawyer and Joe Jacobs and his legal adviser appeared before the commission on Wednesday. The light heavyweight champion and his manager were advised to settle their differences out of court. McTigue was informed that the commission recognized Jacobs' contract as Mike's manager, and that if McTigue wished to prove that he signed a blank piece of paper, as he alleges, he would have to go to court.

Jacobs brought with him Dr. Philip Jordan, who treated McTigue's injured hand and put it in a plaster cast on Oct. 6. Dr. Jordan testified he had told Jacobs on Oct. 15, the day the McTigue-Turney match was made, that McTigue's hand should be in shape in time for him to meet Gene Tunney on Dec. 10. Dr. Jordan said that when he removed the cast on Oct. 27 he found McTigue's hand in good shape and advised him that it would be fit for ring purposes if "baked out" for a couple of weeks. Dr. Jordan further said that instead of taking the advice to have the hand "baked," McTigue asked him to put it in a cast again.

In McTigue's financial statement of his trip abroad, presented yesterday, Mike declared he had received a total of $6,500 and that the expenses of engaging in the five bouts he had abroad amounted to $8,000. One item of $400 was charged to an automobile trip in Ireland, and the other automobile fares amounted to $1,100. Mike also stated he paid sparring partners $100 a week each and that the board of each cost him $50 a week. Whereupon Jacobs is said to have pointed out that if there were any charges of incompetent management, he would like to see the file them against himself.

However, If Gibb's Knee Doesn't Mend, Bengals May Slip.

Special To The Advertiser.
Hamilton, Nov. 14.—Old King foot-ball still occupies the limelight, even if Hamilton has already won two championships. It was thought that the interest star reached its highest peak when Tigers and Argos battled last Saturday, but the old pot is still boiling over and will continue to do so until Tigers and Argos meet in a deadly combat next Saturday to settle the city championship and, incidentally, to decide which team will represent Hamilton in the eastern final against the famous Queen's team.

It was announced this morning that the Glasco cup, emblematic of the city's championship, which was awarded to Rowing Club last season when Tigers refused to accept their challenge, will be at stake, the oarsmen feeling that Saturday's game should settle the ownership of the trophy for another year.

Looked earlier in the week as though Tigers would step on the field favorites on Saturday, and they may do so yet, but a great deal depends on Bert Gibb. The boy who was the star of last Saturday's game is nursing an injured knee, and it is doubtful if he will be able to play against the scullers. If he does not, Rowing Club feel that their chances of victory are that much brighter, and they have always had a feeling that they were the Bengals' masters.

Down around Scott stadium they feel that a great deal depends on the halfbacks in next Saturday's struggle. The claim is made that the oarsmen have a wing line which can compare with the best of the Tigers front line, and that they have two line plungers who are liable to play havoc with the striped crew. The oarsmen and their supporters feel that if VanLue can play the same brand of football next Saturday that he did at Toronto on the holiday, the Tigers have no advantage on the back-field, as they claim that Art Elford will offset anything that Gibb might do, if the latter is able to play.

From the Tiger camp comes a different tale. The Bengals feel that they are a more experienced team than the east enders, and think that they have an edge in almost every department. Since George Avey has been assisting with the coaching, the Tigers have been taught to use interference to good advantage, and they claim that they get better results from the interference rules than the oarsmen, and that they figure that they have a better balanced back division than Rowing Club, and that, in Manson and Burton, they have two of the best backs who are more experienced and use better generalship than George Redding.

The oarsmen have one advantage on the Tigers. They have seen the Bengals in action on two occasions including the game with Argos last Saturday, while the Tigers have never seen the oarsmen play, and are not familiar with their style of attack. The oarsmen are being taught this week to take advantage of every inch of interference the rules allow, and they feel that they will not be found wanting in that way in the great battle.

Neither team can afford to send any crimping into action next Saturday. Both teams have some tacklers who bring 'em down hard, and a man must be in the best of condition to stand the grueling that is to be had out by both teams, for it is a well-known fact that there is no love lost between the teams, and there will be none of the "after you, Alphonse" spirit shown by either play.

There will be great activity in both training camps for the balance of the week. Tigers will practice this evening at the H. A. A. grounds, while the oarsmen will be out at Scott Park. Despite the heated game Rowing Club had at Toronto on Saturday, the players are all in fairly good shape, and the team will be at full strength for the important conflict.

USE UNIQUE PLAY

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 14.—Royal Military College, Kingston, defeated St. Michael's College at Rosedale Field this afternoon by 16 to 13, in the first of the semi-final games for the intermediate intercollegiate rugby championship. The second game will be played at Kingston Saturday.

In the first period, St. Michael's halfback, fumbled behind his own line and McLane, at inside for R. M. C., fell on the ball for a touch, which was converted. St. Michael's tried hard, heavy kicking, but the tricky and clever playing of R. M. C. was too much for them. R. M. C. 6, St. Michael's 0.

In the second period, Dokes, with a pretty extended run, went over for a touch for R. M. C. This was not converted. Three minutes before half time, St. Michael's booted strongly, forcing R. M. C. to rouse. R. M. C. worked fine interference plays behind the line, which completely baffled St. Michael's for the first two periods. Half time, R. M. C. 11, St. Mikes 12.

In the third period, however, St. Michael's found their bearings and Forner went over for a touch. St. Michael's also booted to the dead-line for a point.

In the last quarter R. M. C. made a series of backs, Dokes finally going over for a touch. Lebel of St. Michael's also scored a touch, running from midfield. He received the ball on a fumble. R. M. C. was forced to rouse, bringing the scoring to an end.

During the second period R. M. C. pulled a new one on on-side kicks. The ball was punted on the line, the pass-out from a scrimmage. R. M. C. used only five men on the line of scrimmage and this move gave them seven players on side to go up and get the kick. They recovered the ball, too.

A Pictorial History of the Growth of the Game.

GREAT CURVES FROM LITTLE CLAM SHELLS GROW.

The story is told of Christy Mathewson that when as a boy he began throwing stones he could beat every boy in the neighborhood, and he became so dexterous, so accurate in his aim, that he often took to the woods with a bagful of stones and came back with a bagful of game. How many important developments thus take place accidentally, so to speak? How many come to light while playing?

If it had not been that Arthur Cummings one day began throwing clam shells across the water and watching their antics, the curved ball might not have put in its appearance in the game of baseball as early as it did. But it did arrive, through this trivial play, just when the professional player arrived, and thus the whole aspect of the game was changed. This was in the late 60's.

Of course, there have been debates as to who really pitched the first curve. Cummings was the substitute pitcher of the Stars of Brooklyn. He was tall, loose-jointed and flexible in arm. That possibly in part why the clam shells curved so, aside from their shape. Cummings argued rightly that he could make a ball curve in the same manner; so when he began to pitch for the Stars he began to study how to get around the pitching rule then in vogue that there should be no "throw or jerk." So he began whipping his wrist in such a manner that the ball started to spin as it left his hand. Playing against the Harvard team of Cambridge in 1867, Cummings pitched, and tried his new ball. Harvard couldn't hit him. Thus entered the curve ball into baseball. There have been reams and reams of print spent trying to explain why a curve ball is a curve, but it can't somehow be satisfactorily explained. The fact is merely that it curves; and you either can do it or you can't. The ball has been out through the third degree by learned professors of physics, but they give it up by saying that the curve is not only one of the mysteries of baseball, it is as well one of the mysteries of science, for it defies certain fundamental laws of physics. Tomorrow: Who Invented the Baseball Diamond? (Copyright, 1923, in U. S. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—Rear-Admiral Grayson is ready to match My Own against Harry F. Sinclair's Zev, the famous three-year-olds to meet at Bowie between Nov. 24 and Dec. 1. Included in Grayson's challenge are In Memoriam and Home Stretch. Admiral Grayson would make the proposed contest a two, three or four cornered affair.

James F. O'Hara, general manager of Bowie, said tonight that he would offer a purse of $10,000 for such a contest, and that any conditions suitable to the owners of the thoroughbreds would be agreeable to him.

Rear Admiral Grayson, it is said, is ready to back My Own to the extent of $10,000 more against Zev, and the only conditions he would insist upon would be a fast track and a distance a mile and a quarter or longer.

Wilson-Reed Winner Meets Middle Champ

Framingham Sunday School Teacher May Be One To Fight Greb.

By FAIR PLAY.
Copyright.
New York, Nov. 14.—Johnny Wilson, who has been training at Summit, N. J., will tackle Pal Reed, the fighting parson, in Boston Friday night, and the man who wins will get a Madison Square Garden match with Harry Greb, the middleweight title. Reed, who is really a Sunday school teacher, the son of a clergyman, is a tough battler, who in the past has just fallen short of championship class.

If Reed should beat Wilson handily it would mean that the predictions which have been made concerning the Framingham Bible sharp are being verified. A fight between Reed and Greb would be an energetic affair, and, of course, doubt, would attract a large following.

Speaking of the New York fans, they are piling up to Boston to get a line on Ted Moore, the British middleweight, in his bout against Tommy Loughran. Syracuse critics have gone wild over Moore on the basis of his showing against Volpette of Wilkesbarre in the Salt City the other night. The English scrapper pounded Volpette to a frazzle, and this was regarded as some feat, since the Pennsylvania had been knocking 'em cold about Syracuse for some time past.

Many a hard working man finds himself handicapped in earning a living by sufferings he seems unable to control. He is tired, rheumatic, cannot eat and feels generally wretched. Dreco works wonders in cases like this, for such sufferings are almost invariably due to a run-down digestive system that does not extract proper nourishment from the food, nor carry off impurities. Read how Dreco cleansed the system of Mr. Fred Ranson, of 125 Oxford street, London, Ont., and toned and strengthened his organs to proper, healthy functioning.

"I suffered from stomach trouble, weak kidneys, sluggish liver, constipation and impure blood," says Mr. Ranson, "and was generally in pretty bad shape as a result. Nothing seemed to help me, but one day I fortunately read of Dreco and decided to see what it could do with my case."

"Two bottles of this great medicine have made a wonderful change in me. They hit the spot. My rheumatic pains have greatly lessened. I sleep soundly and have a good appetite. The pains in my back have disappeared and my bowels are regular."

"I am a new man altogether and feel that Dreco has added several years to my life. I cannot praise it too highly as it is rapidly ending the pains and sufferings that caused me so much misery and once more I am able to enjoy living."

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is made from pure herbs, roots, bark and leaves and is a reliable corrective for all disorders of the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys and purifies the blood.

Dreco is being specially introduced in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and is sold at all their stores in London, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Stratford. It is also sold in other cities as follows: Chatham, W. W. Turner; Sarnia, Ingersoll's Drug Store; Galt, Cant & Cant; Ingersoll, A. L. Law; Ridgeport, D. H. Stewart; Bothwell, Bothwell Drug Store; Lucan, H. S. Stanley; Goderich, H. C. Dunlop; Strathroy, F. L. Grieve; Tillsonburg, C. V. Thompson, The Rexall Store, and by a good druggist everywhere.

LEAVE FOR WEST

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Nov. 14.—On the eve of the departure of the world's champions for the west, where they will engage in a series of exhibition matches, the Ottawa Hockey Association announced tonight that it had given notice of three important changes in the playing rules of the National Hockey League. The changes will be in effect when the team from Secretary Sam Davidson. The visitors are billed to play fifteen games, opening at Montreal July 26 and winding up at the same city on September 1. There is a possibility of the team not being able to reach Montreal in time to start their trip until August 2 and, in this case, a new schedule will be necessary which will not mean any change in the western schedule but will take a game away from Hamilton.

Winnipeg gets two games, the visitors being scheduled to make their first appearance here on August 9 and will stop off for a match on their return on August 25. Montreal and Toronto will also receive return visits. August 4 is the date for the Hamilton game, according to the suggested itinerary.

Queens and Argos, last year's Eastern Canada finalists, is on, while that between the Scullers and Varsity will likely be played. If it is played, it is likely that Varsity's share of the gate will be handed over to the Varsity Rowing Club towards the expenses of the Olympic crew.

SERVICES WELL ATTENDED.
Blyth, Nov. 14.—The first of the series of evangelistic services in the Methodist Church which began last night was well attended. Rev. J. W. Remains of D. L. Shaw Are

MANY TRIBUTES

The funeral of D. L. Shaw, general secretary and treasurer of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers of the C. P. R. for 24 years, was held from his residence, 267 Waterloo street, yesterday afternoon at Dorchester Cemetery. Mr. Shaw, who died at his home Monday morning, was 62 years of age and was popular both in the railroad world and in the city at large. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Werby, Maitland Street Baptist church.

Mr. Shaw was born at Dorchester, is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Herman, owner of Cinespolis, and one brother, John, ticket agent at the C. P. R. station here.

The pallbearers were all members of the C.N.R. telegraph committee: C. Troyer, Glencoe; W. M. Middle, Breslau; F. A. Tebo, Lefroy; A. Blackwell, Toronto; E. N. Grant, Scarborough Junction, and F. A. Grant, Arnprior.

The four honorary pallbearers were: G. D. Robertson, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, Ottawa; J. M. Main, deputy president; J. T. Eddy, general chairman of the C.N.R. telegraphers, and E. Chapman, general chairman of the C. P. R. telegraphers.

The late Mr. Shaw commenced his road career as an operator on the Grand Trunk 30 years ago, and when left the service to become secretary of the Grand Trunk telegraph organization, he was agent of the G. R. at London East.

For more than 15 years the organization experienced many difficulties, during which time Mr. Shaw was its chief support. The present flourishing condition of the organization is due to the efforts of Mr. Shaw more than any other individual. The material benefits and human happiness that have come directly or indirectly from his efforts are beyond estimation.

The many beautiful floral tributes from the C.N.R. and C.P.R. telegraph organizations, as well as from the divisions on both railroads adding London, together with the attendance of representative telegraphers at the funeral, fittingly attested the respect and esteem with which Mr. Shaw was held by his railroad employers.

There are 185 subordinate divisions of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, of whom have a secretary, president, Mr. Shaw was the oldest in the United States or Canada.

No matter how much brains you use, you can't do your best unless you feel your best. Every minute of the day. And you can't feel your best when sleep no longer refreshes you and you get up for work feeling dull and tired. So work out by the middle of the afternoon that you are nervous and feel like flopping down on a bed. Often your digestion isn't like it used to be and you don't get the full nourishment from your meals; you are using up more strength and energy than you are replacing and unless you take better care of yourself a breakdown is almost sure to follow.

Build yourself up. Take a good tonic, as your doctor would advise, just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's after the next few meals and notice

At a reunion of the Elliott family of Exeter recently there were representatives present of five generations, the oldest of whom is still in splendid health. The photograph above shows Mr. Thomas Elliott, sr., the head of the family, who is great-great-grandfather, still hale and hearty, and able to do a fair share of his own work. Mr. Elliott, sr., who now lives at Kirkton, is shown at the right; to the left is his youngest son, Thomas Elliott, jr., a resident of Exeter; sitting is Mrs. N. S. Three New Candidates An-

To Stand.

There will be at least three new candidates for the board of education this year. Last night Mrs. John Rose, president of the Local Council of Women and past president of the Union Mothers' Club of the city, announced her intention of standing for office. Mrs. Rose, who has been approached by several prominent businessmen of the city with the view to getting her to let her name stand, has been connected with educational matters practically all her life. She is a mother and has children in the public schools of the city, and was at one time a teacher on the public school staff.

The Rev. Roy D. Mess, rector at St. David's Church, has also stated his intention of running for the school board, having been approached on the subject by several citizens.

A third candidate will be Mrs. John Crawford, formerly industrial secretary for the local Y. W. C. A., and for many years a teacher. Mrs. Crawford is the author of text-books now used in the public schools of the province.

DIAMOND THIEVES

Smash Store Window—Escape
in Fog—Take Only Diamonds.

BORDER WATCHED

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, Nov. 14.—Although the Windsor authorities were asked to keep watch on all highways from Chatham in hope of effecting the arrest of thieves who perpetrated a diamond robbery at the Waterhouse jewelry store about 3 o'clock this morning, police are without any clue as to the identity of the men. A dense fog aided them to escape.

Diamond rings to the value of $500 were scooped out of the store front, after the window had been shattered with a brick, wrapped in an old shirt. Jewelry valued at approximately $3,000 was in the window at the time, but the thieves evidently desired diamonds only.

Sam Boswell, night watchman in the Austin store, chanced to be peering through a window of one of the upper rooms, and saw a car draw up in front of the jewelry store. A man alighted and hurled a brick through the window. He returned to the car immediately. Boswell telephoned police headquarters. It is learned that Patrolman Henley had observed the robbery. He noted that the first figures of the license marker were "187," but the last three were obliterated by mud. It is thought the car was owned in Windsor.

CALIFORNIA AND PACIFIC COAST TOURS.
When winter comes the Pacific Coast, States and British Columbia offer a haven of refuge from our rigorous climate, particularly Sunny California. California has become famous as a winter tourist region because of its excellent climatic conditions, its varied and magnificent scenery, the possibilities it affords for all kinds of outdoor sports and recreations, its splendid motor roads, sun-bathing, etc. The Canadian National Railways offer a wide choice of routes embracing rail and sea trips. Travel one way through California, Rocky Mountains, British Columbia and the Pacific Coast to Vancouver and Victoria, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Any agent of the Canadian National Railways will be pleased to furnish full information regarding these tours.—Adv. N.15,19,21

BRUNSWICK DIES
FROM APOPLEXY

Cousin of Late Edward VII.
Was Son of Hanoverian

Associated Press Despatch.
Gmunden, Austria, Nov. 14.—Ernest August Wilhelm, Duke of Brunswick-Lunenborg, and former Duke of Cumberland in the English peerage, died today. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy yesterday on his estate here.

Ernest August Wilhelm was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1845, the son of the king of Hanover. He was a cousin of the late King Edward. He had a courtesy command in the British army, but adhered to Germany during the world war and was deprived in 1919 of his British rank of nobility by a king's order in council. The Duke of Albany also lost his British title at the same time for a similar reason.

The dead duke married Princess Thyria, a sister of the king of Denmark. In 1913 he renounced his right to the throne of the Duchy of Brunswick in favor of his son, who when Germany became a republic, had to give up his regency. Since the war the duke has lived on his estate at Gmunden.

Prior to the world war the duke was considered one of the most wealthy of European royalty, his palace at Gmunden being filled with purchase of German and Austrian famous treasures of all kinds, notably silver. His fortune, however, became greatly depleted through his war bonds and later through the collapse of the financial situation in Central Europe.

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it. I have taken it before each of my children were born and afterwards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and ringing in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to try it. He bought a bottle for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends.—Mrs. FRED H. SMITH, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectively as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

Court.

Special to The Advertiser.
Brantford, Nov. 14.—There will be a non-jury sitting of the supreme court here on Monday, November 19. Mr. Justice Masten will preside.

An insurance test case between the Brandon Shoe Company of Brantford and the Gore Mutual Fire Insurance Company will be of considerable importance, as a big sum is involved.

In March of this year the plaintiff's factory was destroyed by fire, and the plaintiff claims payment of the amount covered by a policy. There are a number of such policies, but the court has directed that only the one test action be tried.

The defendant alleges that the sprinkler was turned off by the plaintiff, its servants or workmen; that it was the duty of the plaintiff to keep the system in good order, and consequently the defendant is not

GERMANY WILL SET RHINELAND AFRIFT DUE TO BIG EXPENSE

Expect Ruhr Leaders Must Solve Own Problems—

"PASSING THE BUCK"

New Solution Will Require
Complete Reversal in Reparations Procedure.

Associated Press Despatch.
Berlin, Nov. 14.—After November 25, Germany no longer will be able to meet the drain upon her exchequer for the payment of unemployment doles in the Ruhr and the Rhineland, and will then set both these regions adrift, permitting them to shift for themselves.

This direct statement was made in official quarters here tonight. Unless Chancellor Stresemann arrives at a different conclusion after pending conferences with leaders in the occupied areas, as the Reichstag opposes such a policy, it is now believed that the immediate future of the Rhineland and the Ruhr will be wholly determined by the nature of agreements which the local leaders are able to enter into with the French employment doles which the German government is paying out to unem- ployed men and women in the Rhineland and the Ruhr will amount to 200,000,000 gold marks in the next ten days.

An autonomous state in the present stage of occupation and under pre- vailing economic and social con- ditions is viewed in Berlin circles as inexpedient and not feasible, and the inclination in government quarters appears to favor a plan to hold the occupying powers responsible for getting the local populace fed and back to work, and otherwise read- justing completely the desolated con- ditions in all lines.

Wholly Independent.
In the event the latter solution is adopted, the Berlin government will invest the local German authorities with plenipotentiary powers, author- izing them to deal with the French, Belgian and British authorities, thus making the occupied zones temporarily wholly independent of official intervention by the central govern- ment. Chancellor Stresemann and other champions of the proposed plan to jettison the Ruhr and the Rhineland, who are under military occupation, believe that passing "economic autonomy" is the solution to the problem now confronting the government along the Rhine. Any movement in these areas in the di- rection of forcing the establishment of autonomous state would require the initial support of one-third of the qualified voters and a consequent three-fifths vote for ultimate ratifi- cation.

There is an apparent desire to pass along the buck to France and Bel- gium, leaving the German populace to make its peace with the occupying powers for an indefinite period and permitting the central government to wash its hands of the legacy be- queathed it by nine months of pas- sive resistance.

Separate Agreements.
If this solution is adopted by the central government it will, incident- ally, press for a complete reversal of procedure with reference to repara- tions; and, while no statement is forthcoming in this respect, it is as- sumed the creditor powers would have to enter into separate agree- ments with the industrialists regard- ing deliveries, while the question of gold payment would be protested by Germany on the ground that she was deprived of uninterrupted disposition of her complete economic organiza- tion or a demand would be made for a postponement of cash payments un- til the country's financial situation had sufficiently recuperated to war- rant them. The impending decisions with respect to the Ruhr and the Rhineland therefore have a weighty bearing on Germany's foreign rela- tions, as well as on the further trend of internal events.

Voerwaerts, the Socialist mouth- piece, declares the proposed policy of temporary abandonment of the occu- pied areas does not afford the slight- est prospect of regaining them at some future time and it upbraids the men "who prefer to sing 'The Watch on the Rhine' than to keep it."

President Loebe has summoned the Reichstag for next Tuesday when the political situation will be discussed.

NEW MADEIRA LINENS FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

The designs are more varied and more richly carried out on the ex- ceptionally fine quality Irish linen, now available for the workers of this exquisite handicraft. Works of art, wondrously executed, as only the workers of the Isle of Madeira can. True, there are many qualities of real Madeira which are governed by not merely quality of linen, but more particularly by the number of embroidery stitches to the given inch, which really constitutes the main cost of an article. We would particularly draw your attention to the delightful needlework. The new lower prices added to its practical wearing and laundering qualities insures general favor, making Madeira linen practical and pleasing gifts. SEE WINDOW DISPLAY.

Ingersoll, Nov. 14.—James Parkin- son, an employee of the Ingersoll Packing Company, was seriously in- jured when he attempted to stop a runaway, and is in Alexandra Hospi- tal with a fractured leg. When the whistle at the plant sounded at 1 o'clock a team of horses became frightened. Parkinson hurried to hold them, and was knocked down, one wheel of the wagon passing over one of his legs.
