AN IDEAL
SUMMER
RESORT

523748

Yarmouth, Nova Scotia

Tourists who visit Yarmouth during the summer can hardly realize that their friends in Boston, a short 250 miles away, are experiencing a "hot wave" while they are enjoying delightful sea breezes, with the thermometer at about 75 degrees.

Leaving Central wharf, Boston, at 1.30 p. m., on one of the Boston & Yarmouth steel ocean-going steamers which sail daily, Saturday excepted, during the summer months, a short and healthful sea voyage of about sixteen hours will bring you in sight of Cape Forchu, at the entrance to Yarmouth harbor, so named by De La Saussage on his way from Penobscot to France in 1613. After passing Yarmouth Light, the "Bug" and Markland, the steamer reaches her dock about 7 o'clock, a. m., where numerous hackmen are ready to convey the visitor to his destination, or, if one is undecided where to go, he can be directed to the Secretary of the Tourist Committee, who will be pleased to render any assistance he may require.

YARMOUTH, the "Gate City" of the Province of Nova Scotia, situated on the extreme southwestern end of the Province, has been wonderfully gifted by nature on account of its perpetual coolness of climate and salubrious breezes, tempered by the Gulf Stream which sweeps past the coast, making the climate one of the most delightful and healthful in the world.

EVANGELINE PIER—Where the Boston steamers land their passengers.

The scenery in and around Yarmouth is charmingly diversified—a succession of hill and dale, lake and river, island and ocean, bursting upon the view at every turn.

The facilities offered for sport or healthful recreation are scarcely to be excelled. For boating, fishing or bathing there is a choice of ocean, bay, harbor, lake or river. For camping and hunting Yarmouth County offers opportunities that are hard to excel. The country is intersected with excellent roads for driving, motoring or wheeling.

The town of Yarmouth has about thirty miles of streets, and a drive about town will repay the stranger. Many of the streets are lined with shade trees and the visitor will feel constrained to ask the drivers to walk their horses frequently in order that the vista of charming homes and well kept lawns and gardens may be more fully seen and admired.

Yarmouth has its full share of churches, nearly every denomination being represented. There are also Masonic, Knights Templar and Oddfellows lodges and Y. M. C. A. rooms.

The Yarmouth Public Library contains over 5000

volumes, is centrally located and issues on an average about 400 books weekly. It is open every afternoon and evening (except Friday in Summer), and every Sunday afternoon for reading. Strangers and tourists visiting the town may avail themselves of all the privileges of the library the same as residents. During the summer of 1912 an average of 100 books a week were taken out by tourists.

In case the tourist wishes to replenish his wardrobe or provide himself with any article for his personal use or comfort he is sure to be suited in one of the numerous retail shops. In the dry goods stores will be found genuine imported English and French goods and rare Canadian furs.

Several dealers carry lines of souvenir goods from which visitors will be able to select mementos or odd presents for friends at home. United States money is taken at par everywhere.

Residents of the United States are allowed to take into the United States, free of duty, articles to the value of $100 which is in the nature of wearing apparel.

Electric cars run through the main street of the town, passing the hotels, the railway station, post office and principal public buildings and shops. At the southern terminus of the line is located the Golf Links.

The situation of this piece of ground for this purpose is most charming. From a high ridge running through it the Yarmouth harbor, sound, capes, islands, the Bay of Fundy and Atlantic ocean are spread out, making a beautiful picture.

At the northern terminus is Lakeside Park, an ideal spot for picnics. Boats may be hired and many pleasant excursions can be taken on these beautiful inland waters.

GRAND HOTEL.

THE leading hotel in Yarmouth, as indeed in eastern Canada, is the Grand. It is a handsome brick and stone house of one hundred rooms, occupying a site overlooking the harbor and Bay of Fundy and is furnished with all modern hotel requirements and conveniences, including electric lighted bedrooms with private bath, single and en suit, and new passenger elevator. This hotel is located very convenient to the Boston steamers and railway stations and has successfully catered to the American summer tourist travel for a large number of years. The management endeavors to make guests perfectly comfortable and can offer most complete arrangements and up-to-date conveniences to suit the travelling public. The table and service at this house will be found thoroughly satisfactory, while the prices are very moderate.

CAUGHT IN YARMOUTH COUNTY.

HOTEL MARKLAND.

MARKLAND.

MARKLAND is an ideal summer resort. Unique in its situation, embracing the entire West Cape Forchu at the entrance of Yarmouth harbor, it is entirely surrounded by water, swept by ocean breezes on all sides, and connected to the mainland only by the government breakwater and driveway.

From Markland Heights and the broad piazzas of Hotel Markland is to be had the most wonderful and grandest panoramic view in western Nova Scotia. On the west lie the restless waters of Old Fundy dotted with craft of all sizes and kinds. On the south is the Atlantic Ocean with the bold coast line and the Tusket Islands in the distance, while in front of the hotel lie the still waters of Yarmouth harbor with their beautiful sandy beaches. The Hotel Markland is so situated that every room and balcony commands a view of the water and surrounding country.

INNER FALSE HARBOR—MARKLAND IN THE DISTANCE.

Steamer Markland makes hourly trips to Markland, two and one-half miles away, and no tourist visiting Yarmouth should miss taking the trip down the harbor, as the sail in the trim little steamer is a delight in itself.

Within a radius of a few yards may be found seawater of three different degrees of temperature. The water of Outer False Harbor, coming in directly from the Atlantic Ocean, is best suited for those whose systems readily react from the effects of a cool dip. A few paces from this body of water is a snug little retreat called John's Cove, which is an arm of Yarmouth Sound. The bright clean sands of its shores become charged at low tide with the sun's rays, which at flood tide warm the water to a noticeable degree. On the same principle, but to a greater extent, is the water of Inner False Harbor tempered by flowing over a vast expanse of flats. The clean sands of Crescent Beach and John's Cove are a delight to old and young alike. On the East Cape is a lighthouse and fog alarm maintained by the Dominion government.

A number of summer cottages have been erected in the vicinity of Hotel Markland.

At Hotel Markland the guest is sure of a hearty welcome from Capt. A. B. Crosby, the genial manager.

ELLIS HOUSE, PORT MAITLAND.

PORT MAITLAND

IS a pretty place, famous for its hard sand beach, five miles in length. The village is recognized as the leading watering place in Nova Scotia and contains 800 permanent inhabitants. A large number of pleasure seekers, vacation people and American tourists visit this popular summer resort each year, thus testifying their appreciation of its beautiful sand beach, fishing and boating facilities and other numerous attractions.

The Ellis House is an up-to-date hotel and modern in every respect, situated in the centre of the village and on an elevation sufficient to ensure perfect health, comfort and satisfaction to all. Owing to the large increase in business this hotel has been recently enlarged and can now accommodate 75 guests. Mr. H. D. Mumford, the Lessee and Manager, has had many years' experience in catering to the travelling public and guests are assured of a pleasing reception and good accommodation at a moderate price.

A drive to Port Maitland is recommended to any

HEBRON.

AT the head of the Milton Lakes, and about three miles from Yarmouth, is the village of Hebron, one of the most beautiful in Nova Scotia. Picturesque drives, ideal picnic grounds, delightful boating facilities and a hospitable people are among its many attractions. There are several boarding houses in Hebron, among which is the favorably known Draffan Farm, situated on the main road and with a fine view of the lake and surrounding country. This house, like other modern residences, is fitted with electric lights.

OHIO.

OHIO is a pretty village on the line of the Dominiqu Atlantic Railway, with well kept houses and lawns. Beyond the village the road plunges into the forest primeval, with its undergrowth of ferns, flowers and perfumed shrubbery, and then bursting upon the hospitable and home-like villages of Pleasant Valley and Deerfield, furnishing a charming variety of scenery.

DRAFFAN FARM.

who may plan to make their headquarters elsewhere. Either the inland or the ocean drive may be taken, and it is a good plan to go by one and return by the other. The inland or highland lake road leads along the shores of a beautiful chain of lakes for about half the distance to be traversed; on through Hebron, Wellington, Hartford and Darling's Lake, each with its hospitable farm houses and characteristic bits of scenery. The ocean drive takes one through the charming villages of Chegogin, Pembroke and Short Beach, past the "Cream Pot" gold mine, the broad Atlantic being in view all the while.

Regular coach lines between Yarmouth and Port Maitland furnish transportation or one may engage a livery team or automobile.

HAWTHORN N. HEDGES.

CHEBOGUE.

THE legacy of the Red Man, which remains to remind us of his former possession of the land, is the poetic Indian names, of which many are still retained. Chebogue applies in a general way to the region south of the town of Yarmouth and in a more particular way to the river and the villages of Central and East Chebogue and Chebogue Point. There are several routes by which the Chebogue may be reached. A very pleasant one is to proceed south from the town on the continuation of Main street, along the shores of Yarmouth Sound, through the tidy villages of Sand Beach, Kelley's Cove and Rockville to the Point, returning to Yarmouth by way of Central Chebogue and Arcadia or Salem, some fifteen miles in all. In nearly all of the places named will be found homes open to accommodate tourists.

Sand Beach is so called from its lovely stretch of smooth sandy shore. From the hills of Kelley's Cove a splendid view is to be had of Bunker Island, Markland, the Sound and the broad Atlantic. Rockville is a charming village, while Chebogue Point offers excellent advantages for studying the ocean in all its moods. Fine surf bathing and deep sea fishing may be indulged in to the heart's content.

Central Chebogue, on the western bank of the Chebogue river, is one of the prettiest places in the vicinity of Yarmouth.

"LUPIN" ROAD, CHEBOGUE POINT.

ARCADIA.

ARCADIA is the first station on the Halifax and South Western Railway, four miles from Yarmouth, and one of the cosiest little villages imaginable. It nestles among the hills at the head of the graceful winding Chebogue river, flanked by a placid lake, forming an ideal picture of rural beauty.

SALMON RIVER, YARMOUTH CO.

TUSKET.

PASSING Pleasant Lake, the village of Tusket is seen standing on the eastern bank of an important river of the same name. Many fine salmon are taken from this stream every year and the lakes and waters tributary to it abound in trout. The tide comes to the village and the bather is offered his choice of fresh or salt water. A goodly number from the United States make a practice of visiting Tusket every vacation season. There are several boarding houses in this favored village. The sportsman who knows the signs stops off at Tusket.

Not far from Tusket are the French Acadian settlements of Wedgeport, Belleville and Eelbrook. Good country board may be had in either of these places. A sojourn among these kindly people offers the opportunity for variation to those who are seeking new experiences.

THE ARGYLES.

VISITORS are certain to be favorably impressed with the beauties of the Argyles (the Head, Central and Lower) which lie along the shores of Lobster Bay, twenty miles from Yarmouth. There is a certain Scotch beauty about the Argyles which must have plucked hard sometimes at the memory of the hardy western highlanders who first settled the place. The surrounding scenery closely rivals the rugged grandeur of the magnificent Scottish Highlands. It is the centre of a fine fishing and hunting country.

There is a curious natural phenomena at the Narrows, where for six hours the waters rush madly up stream and for the next six tumble as rapidly down again. The gorgeous sunsets, over which visitors to Yarmouth go into ecstasies, are seen at their best in this locality. The island-studded waters furnish fine duck shooting, and Lobster Bay teems with tasty crustaceans. Good accommodations can be had at several houses here.

THE PUBNICOS.

THE PUBNICOS are on the line of the Halifax & Southwestern Railway, about thirty miles from Yarmouth. These settlements are scattered along the shores of Pubnico Harbor, the subdivisions being Pubnico Head, East Pubnico, Lower East Pubnico and West Pubnico. In the two places last named the French language is commonly spoken, the inhabitants being Acadians. As Pubnico Harbor is a noted center of the fishing industry there need be no difficulty experienced in procuring boats and tackle, and there will be no disappointment with the results of a fishing excursion. The beautiful land-locked harbor is perfectly safe for boating, and there is a fine opportunity for surf and smooth water bathing.

THE HAR.

DEEP SEA CATCH.

CARLETON.

CARLETON is a charming village north-east 18 miles from Yarmouth, with its great lake, picturesque mill stream and mill, lovely groves and orchards, with inviting hammocks swinging in the cool shady spots. The eye is feasted upon rare glimpses of river, lake and forest; the ear is delighted with the tuneful lays of the feathered denizens of the wood. As autumn approaches the scene is enriched with the brilliant hues assumed by the foliage.

KEMPTVILLE.

KEMPTVILLE, twenty-four miles from Yarmouth, is a frontier village, yet it affords all the comforts and luxuries a reasonable being would expect to find. It is on the upper waters of the Tusket river, one of the most famous salmon and trout streams on the Atlantic seaboard. On the Crown Lands, back of the village, roam the lordly moose, the hunting of which is the finest and most exciting sport to be had in the north country, while small game is plentiful. Experienced guides for either hunting or fishing may be engaged at reasonable rates.

As the back country is intersected with cart roads and waterways, sportsmen may be conveyed to the desired locality without difficulty, which renders it desirable for parties which include ladies.

The chief industry of Kemptville is lumbering. There are very comfortable boarding houses, and, like most of the villages throughout the country, Kemptville has its stores, post office and telephone connection with the town of Yarmouth.

A drive along the banks of the Tusket or a canoe ride down the river should, if possible, be taken by the visitor.

In the foregoing pages is contained but a brief outline of what this country offers as a summer resort. The reader is cordially invited to come and fill in the outline for himself.

GAME INFORMATION.

BIG GAME—If you want to have a successful hunt come to Yarmouth County. Our hunting-ground is easy of access. Twenty-four hours from the time of leaving Boston you can be in a beautiful moose country. Good guides can be secured at reasonable prices, who can supply you with all outfits. Open season for moose September 16 to November 16, and you are allowed to kill one animal. You also have a chance for bears and wild cat, large numbers being killed every season. Deer, being introduced in the Province some years ago, are becoming very plentiful and sometime in the near future there will be an open season for this beautiful game animal.

SMALL GAME—Yarmouth County affords some of the very best of small game shooting. Woodcock and English snipe are wonderfully plenty. Fine covers within a few miles of Yarmouth town. Partridge (ruffed grouse) were very plentiful last year, large numbers being killed. All signs indicate that this king of game birds will be found in increased numbers this season. Rabbits by the thousand. If you take a trip to our inland lakes you will see rafts of blue-winged ducks. Plover, curlew, yellow-leg and all other beach birds can be found in immense quantities along the sea shore and marshes. Sea birds, such as coot, old squaw, blue bill and whistlers are shot in great numbers. Guides, with boats, dogs, decoys, etc., can be secured for all small game shooting.

TROUT AND SALMON—The famous Tusket River of Yarmouth County. This stream with its many branches, is a favorite resort for a large number of trout and salmon fishermen. A week on the river will give you a most delightful canoe trip and as many trout as you wish. The Salmon and Argyle rivers are also fine trout streams. The best trout fishing is to be had during the month of May, and the best salmon fishing from the 25th of May to the 15th of June. Open season for salmon fishing with rod and line 1st of February to the 15th of August.

OTHER INFORMATION—The laws in reference to game come within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature, while the fishing regulations are made and controlled by the Dominion Government.

WITHIN A NIGHT'S JOURNEY OF BOSTON

Immortalized by Longfellow as the home of Evangeline, blessed with a delightful summer climate, and with numberless rivers and streams that teem with the gamest of fighting fish, Nova Scotia stands by itself as the vacation country par excellence.

It is wonderfully picturesque. Old world customs and speech, coupled with modern transportation facilities and up-to-date hotel accommodation, will make your summer vacation an ever remembered pleasure.

The ox, shod like the horse, still draws the humble farmers' produce to market as he did 150 years ago, while the quaintly-garbed inhabitants adhere to the mannerisms and speech of their forefathers.
