

To my Brother.

In thought, I see thy face—
And it is changed, since other days when we Lined in the school boy through and village race,
In youth's first revelry.
Seasons come and go—
And strangers walk where friends were wont To be—
But o'er the latter waves of life that flow,
My spirit yearns to thee.
I will not deem it wrong,
Thus to pour forth affections of my soul—
Thus with a love that I have cherished long,
But here with current roll.
Love was not born to die—
"Love is of God"—the man re-born of heaven
His soul is filled with love, for God is given, Even by the spirit through his Son first sign.
Again, how cannot die—
Oh! blessed work—like balm upon the air—
Like summer rain on buds that withering lie—
Love cannot die, even though a world despair.
Love cannot, cannot die;
The hopes of youth, the day dreams that swept
In bright procession over manhood's eye—
Alas! for these, they were all born to die.
Call back the infinite past—
Stand amid ruins—lad the dead arise—
Restore the laurel broken on the blast,
And bid it wave again to southern skies.
They heed not thy command—
"O'ward! still on ward!"—purs creator's voice,
The sea today rolls where were once our land,
And they who wept a morn, at night rejoice.
There is no changeless thing,
Save love alone, on earth's arena wild—
The gathering years are fraught with woe, and Vain sighs for hopes that perished with the child.
But love—'t cannot die—
It came from God—when earth shall pass away,
The love that changed not through eternity, Shall change not through the future's endless day.
"Love is of God, and God is love."
Life may break down the face of youth,
And days may summon age to woe, while love But ye are deathless ones, Oh, LOVE and TRUTH.
Ye bore apostles on,
Through fiery paths, and heard the martyrs' knell.
Ye stood beside the Cross, and gazed upon The wondrous work that saved a world from hell.
Ye stood beside brave men,
Who bled for the right, who died to save
The slaves of error—mightily were ye then,
And mightily ye triumph o'er the grave.
—W. McK.

Sabbath Schools the Hope of Cities.

Great cities are always greatly wicked.
There is not a great city on earth at this time, nor did one ever exist from Solom to St. Louis, from New York to New York, from Babylon to Baltimore, from Perspolis to Paris, that does not exemplify the truth of our remark. When we say greatly wicked, we would not be understood as overlooking the fact, that the world everywhere lives in wickedness. But a rural population, remote from cities, is much less given to crime, corruption and degradation, than the same number of persons in a city relatively. Nor would we intimate that many pious lots are not to be found in large cities. But Lot and his family in Sodom, searcely inappropriately represent how far these persons are in the minority. There is a city on this continent, in which the house of her "whose steps take hold on hell," the gambling saloon, the pestiferous dram-shop and the theatre, do not receive from day to fifty to a hundred Sabbath-day, for one who attends an evangelical church. Hence it is, that Christian churches in cities, of all denominations, by recent investigations, are found to be doing little more than holding their own—exercising a feebly conservative, rather than an aggressive influence. Why can't these facts without profound regret? Especially, as great cities are the natural product of social laws? We cannot do without them. Their existence cannot be hindered, and the more rapid their growth, generally the greater the prophy of their infancy. And how rapid the growth of cities in this country has been, and especially does one tremble at the corruption of large cities, in view of their corrupting influence upon the country, recently enhanced a hundred fold by reason of our railroads and other increased facilities for travel. The "three" bill is sent a hundred miles into the country in the morning, and responsive to its call, the incipient wily and newly reduced votaries of wantonness and wine—are found where a mercenary destruction can place its hand in their pockets and look its infernal charms into their hearts at the evening.
The city is full of the hopelessly abandoned. Perhaps it is wrong to say any thing for ourselves in this matter. It is well, we will not discuss the doctrine in the abstract. We would not have Christian zeal cease effort in any direction as hopeless. But it is enough to say, that facts occur in cities daily to justify our assertion, and for ourselves in this matter. It is anywhere is to be found this kind of a prison walls of lost souls, beyond which humanity seems to have reached a point in the descending scale of degradation, that hope cannot get down to, it is to be found in great cities. Here, sensuality riots and not in its excesses. Here, desperation seeks death, and it is not long in finding it.
Here, besides of seductresses, like the web of the spider in every nook and corner of a deserted dwelling, spread out their seen and unseen meshes. Here, the burglar and the robber, under a hundred types of character, watch for their unsuspecting victim and the soul for its excesses. Here, the drunkard revels in the place of drunken revelry both like a pot of fire and brimstone. Before the wine-glass, authority lays down its —making a total of 101,651. Such results in a school, which is now only three years old, and which at first contained hardly a single element that gave promise of success, are truly gratifying and wonderful, and call for devout gratitude to God for his prospicious providence.

The modes of carrying on the operations of the school seemed to be as complete as possible. Nothing which promises to make the Sunday school more attractive or efficient is left untried. A printed constitution is put into the hands of every one connected with the management of the school, in which his specific duties are clearly defined. Every teacher is furnished with a manual, prepared by the superintendent, containing valuable suggestions and friendly counsel. New scholars, as they are enrolled on the register, are presented with an ornamental certificate, which contains a schedule of the duties which they are expected to perform. When a teacher is not in his seat, a printed note is sent to him by the superintendent, requesting an immediate answer to the cause of absence, that it may be directly entered in the "absence register." When a scholar is absent, he is visited by the teacher during the week without fail, and the result of the visit is reported to the superintendent. Such arrangements, thoroughly carried out as they are, tend greatly to increase the interest of scholars and teachers in each other, and in the school. As a natural result, the attendance is regular and large. The superintendent, in a recent annual report says:
"The children are very much devoted and attached to the school, they like to come, and do come through almost all kinds of weather. On the Sabbath after a great snow-storm, January, 5th, the attendance numbered upwards of 200. Hardly a shelved path in the neighborhood was to be found, and yet many waded through the snow over the school, to get to the schoolhouse. They were not deterred by the times they might be seen on the tops of fences, and sometimes trying to force their way through the almost mountains of snow-drifts on every side."
The superintendent of this great vitality reform school, is Jeremiah Johnson, Esq., one of the best and most energetic of men.
He has purposed erecting his dwelling in the neighborhood of the Sabbath school, and devotes nearly the whole of his time to the enterprise, together with the proceeds of a liberal fortune which providence has favored him. It is not this extent of time, and his devotedness, that we wish to commend, but the spirit that follows. A recent visitor to this school concludes a communication in these words:
"The Lee-Avenue Sunday school is the greatest marvel to its best friends. No other school will always be successful with the parents, but she need seldom be unsuccessful with the children. Not that she need entertain sanguine hopes of this generation, but she may of the next. It would seem that the Sabbath school was invented and inaugurated just at the proper time to aid the church in this great emergency. If she could get at the parents, the Sabbath-school teacher can at the children. With proper diplomacy, he will seldom be denied access, and this, perhaps, is the only way of access to the parents' heart. In our experience, we have found that the Sabbath school teacher, by the aid of the parent, faithful Sabbath school teacher—the company of laymen who organize and successfully prosecute a Sabbath school enterprise in our cities—being the first of philanthropic and religious sentiment, and as doing a work in which the pastor may aid, but a work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only
hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, but a
work that can only be done by them. We consider the Sabbath school as the only hope for city heathenism. The church has
no other means by which she can enlighten
its darkness, or penetrate its interior. And
yet, alas! the lay power of the church is
comparatively unaided over this great subject.
It is a department of usefulness, in which
a goodly degree of success is never doubtful.
How pleasing to labor when one is always
certain to reap what he sows, and that his
harvest will be proportionate to his efforts in which the pastor may aid, white tents of the diggers, looking from the opposite side, like the campment of an army...

set apart for the erection of Government buildings; and though the project may never be carried out...

to the irrevocable past, has been suddenly departed. Rev. Dr. Hayes suggests that a monument be erected on the spot...

Important from Nicaragua. We are in possession of private reliable advices from Nicaragua of the highest importance...

Mexico. Immense placers of pure gold have been discovered in the southern portion of the State of Guerrero...

United States. The extra session of Congress has completed its business and adjourned...

General Intelligence.

Domestic.

His Excellency Lieutenant General Eyre, Commander of the Forces in British North America arrived in this city on the afternoon of Wednesday the 10th inst.

Canada.

The Correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser writing from Toronto, August 28th, says several questions of importance demand immediate attention on the part of the Government.

The delay in the settlement of the question leads to delay and embarrassment in other matters—the erection of the new provincial University building is in some degree affected by it.

Special Notices.

Missionary Anniversaries.

Services in connexion with the Anniversaries of the Wesleyan Missionary Societies will be held on the respective dates as follows:

Standing Notice.

The following are the times appointed by the Conference for making the different collections in the present Conference year:

Wesleyan Conference Office.

LETTERS AND MONIES RECEIVED SINCE OUR LAST.

Now here is a case of balance of trade that is most striking, not to say alarming, for it shows that England is losing her gold, and France her silver...

Halifax Markets.

Table with 2 columns: Commodity and Price. Includes items like Beef, Mutton, Pork, Sugar, etc.

Commercial.

Flight of Bullion to the East.

The Anglo-Saxon, an interesting weekly published in Boston by Dr. Bartlett, formerly proprietor and editor of the Albion, in its article with the above heading, makes the following exhibition:

Wesleyan Book-Room.

Select Literary Notices.

We are indebted to Messrs. Carter & Brothers of New-York for the following new works, just received:

Not Many Years Ago.

ADVERTISEMENT.—Patent or Proprietary Medicines were almost entirely unknown, but of late there has been brought into use an assortment of them.

Notice to the Public.

WITH reference to the Notice issued from this Office on the 14th inst., respecting the treatment of Letters, &c. for England, we would beg to drop into the Letter Box, after the hour of closing the Mail, and up to the arrival of the steamer from Boston.

Sands' Sarsaparilla.

FOR purifying the Blood, and curing all those diseases arising from impurities of the blood, this medicinal preparation is the best, and most efficacious...

LIVERPOOL HOUSE.

Important to Buyers.

THE Stock of Dry Goods, previous to Fall Importation, will commence for this date to dispose of...

Shipping News.

PORT OF HALIFAX.

Table with 2 columns: Ship Name and Arrival/Departure Date. Includes ships like H.M. ship Brilliant, Briggs America, etc.

Marriages.

At Liverpool, on the 3rd inst., by Rev. A. Martell, J. W. Briggs, Esq., of W. J. Drake, to Miss Mary A. daughter of L. D. Drake, Esq., of Liverpool.

Deaths.

On the 12th inst., LAVINIA, wife of James Butler, Esq., residing on the 4th Street, at Cambridge Street, Boston, Mass., died at the age of 50 years.

Shipping News.

PORT OF HALIFAX.

Table with 2 columns: Ship Name and Arrival/Departure Date. Includes ships like H.M. ship Brilliant, Briggs America, etc.

New Advertisements.

JUST RECEIVED AT THE WESLEYAN BOOK-ROOM.

A FRESH SUPPLY OF Arthur's Tongue of Fire!

CHILD'S LIBRARY.—Series A.

NEW Autumn Goods!

At the Albion House.

PER SOLEMNLY SIGNED AND SIGNED, THIRTEEN PACKS...

Notice to the Public.

Sands' Sarsaparilla.

LIVERPOOL HOUSE.

Important to Buyers.

Shipping News.

PORT OF HALIFAX.

Table with 2 columns: Ship Name and Arrival/Departure Date. Includes ships like H.M. ship Brilliant, Briggs America, etc.

Poetry.

The Pass of Death.

It was a narrow pass, Watered with human tears, For death had kept the outer gate...

Miscellaneous.

My First Temptation.

At an early period I lost my father, and as he left me but a little of the world's goods...

then seized my hat and left the store. The fresh air revived me somewhat, and I hurried to the tailor's.

A Quaker at Court.

Mr. Justice Willes recently observed a member of the Society of Friends seated in the grand jury box with his hat on.

Wolves and Wild Horses.

One of our most respectable exchanges publishes the following and vouches for its truth.

Gems of Prose from Cowper.

Praise affects us as money does; the more we get of it the more vigorously we search over it.

Wolves and Wild Horses.

One of our most respectable exchanges publishes the following and vouches for its truth.

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK.—The following statement gives the present circulation of the principal weekly newspapers published in that city.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

Many of the most despicable governments have opened their eyes to the fact that the health of their subjects is the basis of their power.

Female Complaints.

No female, young or old, should be without this cure, as it is the only one that is safe and effective.

INCIDENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

OF THE ECONOMY OF SALVATION, ITS DOCTRINES AND DUTIES.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE formerly the residence of the late William Crane...

$100.—Proclamation.

To the Mayor and Citizens of Philadelphia and the Union. I PROPOSE to give my Electric Oil on any one of the following terms...

NOTES & NEWS.

RAILROAD STATION INDICATOR.—A conductor on the Providence and Worcester railroad has invented a very ingenious apparatus...

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

THE friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick are hereby informed that a Branch Book-Room has been established at the following address...

NEW GOODS.

Per Steamer Canada, AT THE ALBION HOUSE. JULY 31, 1856.

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK.—The following statement gives the present circulation of the principal weekly newspapers published in that city.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

Many of the most despicable governments have opened their eyes to the fact that the health of their subjects is the basis of their power.

Female Complaints.

No female, young or old, should be without this cure, as it is the only one that is safe and effective.

INCIDENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

OF THE ECONOMY OF SALVATION, ITS DOCTRINES AND DUTIES.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE formerly the residence of the late William Crane...

$100.—Proclamation.

To the Mayor and Citizens of Philadelphia and the Union. I PROPOSE to give my Electric Oil on any one of the following terms...

NOTES & NEWS.

RAILROAD STATION INDICATOR.—A conductor on the Providence and Worcester railroad has invented a very ingenious apparatus...

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

THE friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick are hereby informed that a Branch Book-Room has been established at the following address...

NEW GOODS.

Per Steamer Canada, AT THE ALBION HOUSE. JULY 31, 1856.

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK.—The following statement gives the present circulation of the principal weekly newspapers published in that city.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

Many of the most despicable governments have opened their eyes to the fact that the health of their subjects is the basis of their power.

Female Complaints.

No female, young or old, should be without this cure, as it is the only one that is safe and effective.

INCIDENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

OF THE ECONOMY OF SALVATION, ITS DOCTRINES AND DUTIES.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE formerly the residence of the late William Crane...

$100.—Proclamation.

To the Mayor and Citizens of Philadelphia and the Union. I PROPOSE to give my Electric Oil on any one of the following terms...

NOTES & NEWS.

RAILROAD STATION INDICATOR.—A conductor on the Providence and Worcester railroad has invented a very ingenious apparatus...

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

THE friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick are hereby informed that a Branch Book-Room has been established at the following address...

NEW GOODS.

Per Steamer Canada, AT THE ALBION HOUSE. JULY 31, 1856.

WESLEYAN BOOK ROOM.

HALIFAX, N. S. The following New works are expected to land this day.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

Many of the most despicable governments have opened their eyes to the fact that the health of their subjects is the basis of their power.

Female Complaints.

No female, young or old, should be without this cure, as it is the only one that is safe and effective.

INCIDENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

OF THE ECONOMY OF SALVATION, ITS DOCTRINES AND DUTIES.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE formerly the residence of the late William Crane...

$100.—Proclamation.

To the Mayor and Citizens of Philadelphia and the Union. I PROPOSE to give my Electric Oil on any one of the following terms...

NOTES & NEWS.

RAILROAD STATION INDICATOR.—A conductor on the Providence and Worcester railroad has invented a very ingenious apparatus...

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

THE friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick are hereby informed that a Branch Book-Room has been established at the following address...

NEW GOODS.

Per Steamer Canada, AT THE ALBION HOUSE. JULY 31, 1856.

WESLEYAN BOOK ROOM. HALIFAX, N. S. The following New works are expected to land this day. Includes a list of various books and their prices.

DYER'S HEALING EMBROCATION. AN EXTERNAL-INTERNAL REMEDY. A perfect pain destroyer and an invaluable Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Ulcers, etc.

DYER'S Healing Embrocation. A perfect pain destroyer and an invaluable Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Ulcers, etc.

DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S DYSPEPSIA. THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, OR, GASTRIC JUICE. THIS is a great natural Remedy for Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, arising after Nature's own Method.

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room! ST. JOHN, N. B. THE friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick are hereby informed that a Branch Book-Room has been established at the following address...

G. E. MORTON & CO. Wholesale Dealers in Patent Medicines, Perfumery, &c. General Depot and Special Agency for the sale of all countries.

NEW GOODS. Per Steamer Canada, AT THE ALBION HOUSE. JULY 31, 1856. Includes a list of various goods and their prices.

Correspondence.

New Chapel at Digby Neck.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—I owe it to your readers and to the noble-minded Methodists on the Digby Circuit, to give you some account of the opening of a new Chapel at Digby Neck.

The Chapel referred to was standing in frame when I went to Digby in July, 1855, and would have probably stood until this time, but for a few liberal and energetic individuals.

The Chapel was opened on the second Sabbath in July, being the second after the close of the Conference. The Rev. J. G. Hennigar, who used to preach at Sandy Cove about thirty years ago, went with me and preached the dedicatory sermon, which was listened to by a crowded house with devout and deep attention.

I trust the solemn and impressive services of the day will not soon be forgotten, and that God will abundantly pour out His Holy Spirit on all that is connected with this happy and holy day.

Provincial Wesleyan

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

Close of the British Conference.

The session of Conference terminated on Saturday the 16th of August. The task of the President is the subject of favorable comment.

Among the proceedings of the late Conference, in its closing days, most worthy of note was its cordial adoption of the report and resolutions of the Committee of the Contingent Fund.

The Conference reiterate its recommendations of public meetings attended by suitable deputations to be held in behalf of the Home Mission Fund. Evangelical aggression on the strongholds of sin in the mother country is, we firmly believe, about to be carried on by the Wesleyan Church in England with an ardor which is itself the sure pledge of success.

Worldly Amusements, we are happy to perceive, which the heart of man is so reluctant to forsake, and which with a frequency and forwardness to be deplored have of late been making their way into Wesleyan families—received their appropriate condemnation from the unanimous voice of the Conference.

On the last day of the Conference a most interesting address was delivered by the President of the Australian Conference, who had arrived from that country but two days previously: and as it comprises much pleasing information, we reprint the report of it in extenso.

Mr. W. B. Boyce came forward, on the call of the President, and was received with most cordial cheers. He expressed his sorrow that he had not been able to reach the Conference at an earlier period of itsittings. It would have given him great pleasure to have had the opportunity of making a long speech; but he remembered that it was the last day of the Conference, to a Minister on one occasion, to the effect that he had been talking for an hour, and have done." First of all, then, he would speak at Australasia; they wanted men, they needed at the present moment some who had travelled about ten years. Their immense field of operations offered the largest and most important sphere of action in the world for any young Methodist preacher.

The Methodists of Australia felt that to the Missionary Committee and Secretaries they owed a debt of obligation, and thanked the Committee very gratefully for its long-continued kindness to them.—they would always be proud to be a branch of the great Methodist Church. The address of Mr. Boyce was listened to with great interest, and he was greatly cheered on returning his seat.

Early Methodist Preaching. The London Wesleyan Quarterly Review, in an article on the Methodist Church of America, has among its paragraphs the following: "The records of early Methodism in America reveal an account of suffering, endured by the itinerant preachers, such as could not, we fear, be borne at the present time."

The sufferings were of every kind. The mere drudgery of travelling was of itself, in the state of the country at that time, sufficiently harassing.

Boundless forests, infested by wild and hostile Indians, had to be threaded, often without the semblance of a road, and in some directions their woe was greater than the black rapiers, trees, that is, the portion stripped off by the bark. The settler's log hut being reached, there was nothing but the meanest fare,—hard biscuit, often the door or a plank, rarely the more questionable luxury of a bed, while the heat and the preacher had to be guarded from the mosquitoes.

Some of the most interesting speeches, which occupied less than an hour in delivery. I read here a copy of the "Royal Gazette," containing a brief obituary of Mr. ...

Philosophy of Fog. We recently transferred to our columns a portion of an article on this subject which appeared in the Presbyterian Witness. The Rev. Philip Toque, of Tusket, has since then addressed a letter to the Editor of the Vermont Herald, which, as the subject is interesting, we also copy.

The Denison Case. The English correspondent of the New-York Christian Advocate and Journal says: "The decision of our highest ecclesiastical courts has just been given in a case which had for a considerable time excited the deepest interest among all the Protestant Churches."

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

It thus appears there were 174 days of thick fog, and 194 days of light fog and mist, making a total of only 37 days of cloudy weather throughout the year.

From the foregoing the reader will be once perceptive that the climate of Newfoundland necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog than the success of summer.

The Editor of the Presbyterian Witness is in error, in supposing that a very severe winter necessarily produces a greater quantity of fog the succeeding summer.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

The sufferings of Mr. Horne were often very severe; but as far as affectionate and unremitted attention, day and night, could be given to his flock, he was ever diligent.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Mr. Horne was a man of no ordinary talents, and his deep interest in the Being and operation, and in the strictly biblical class, which has been greatly benefited by his instructions, and none will miss him more than they.

Poetry.

The Pass of Death.

It was a narrow pass, Watered with human tears, For death had kept the outer gate Almost a thousand years.

Miscellaneous.

My First Temptation.

A splendid story for boys. At an early period I lost my father, and as he left us with little of this world's goods...

Miscellaneous.

Mozart and the Pope.

In the year 1770, when Mozart was in his fourteenth year, he travelled with his father to Rome.

A Quaker at Court.

Mr. Justice Williams recently observed a member of the Society of Friends seated in the grand jury box with his hat on.

Miscellaneous.

Wolves and Wild Horses.

One of our most respectable exchanges publishes the following and vouches for its truth.

Miscellaneous.

Anecdote of Shelley.

Shelley took great pleasure in making paper boats, and floating them on the water.

Miscellaneous.

Notes & News.

RAILROAD STATION INDICATOR.—A conductor on the Providence and Worcester railroad has invented a very ingenious apparatus...

Gems of Prose from Cowper.

Prize affects us as money does; the more we get of it, the more we are to lose.

Miscellaneous.

Incidental Illustrations.

Incidental Illustrations. Economy of Salvation, its Doctrines and Duties.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. WHY ARE WE SICK? These pills purify the blood.

Miscellaneous.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

General Debility.—Ill Health. Many of the most despotic governments have spent large sums of money to exterminate the human race.

Miscellaneous.

Female Complaints.

Female Complaints. No female, young or old, should be without this course of pills, which corrects and regulates the monthly course of all periods.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE, formerly the residence of the late Mr. John W. ...

Miscellaneous.

TO THE MAYOR AND CITIZENS OF PHILADELPHIA AND THE UNION.

PROPOSED TO TEST THE ELECTRIC LIGHT BY GAS ON ONE OF THE STREETS OF PHILADELPHIA, on the ...

Miscellaneous.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Price Two Shillings. A SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY, FOR BRITISH AMERICA. BEING AN ELEMENTS OF GENERAL GEOGRAPHY, in which the British Empire is treated with the fullness and detail requisite to impart to British American youth a knowledge of their own country.

Miscellaneous.

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

Wesleyan Branch Book-Room! ST. JOHN, N. B. THE Friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick have been pleased to receive from the ...

WESLEYAN BOOK ROOM HALIFAX, N. S.

The following New Works are expected to be published this year.

- THE TEMPLE OF KNOWLEDGE, by Dr. Arthur's new work. HART'S BOOK OF COMMON PRAYERS, by the Rev. Dr. Hart. THE HISTORY OF THE REVOLUTION OF 1783, by the Rev. Dr. Hart. THE HISTORY OF THE REVOLUTION OF 1783, by the Rev. Dr. Hart.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. WHY ARE WE SICK? These pills purify the blood.

Miscellaneous.

General Debility.—Ill Health.

General Debility.—Ill Health. Many of the most despotic governments have spent large sums of money to exterminate the human race.

Miscellaneous.

Female Complaints.

Female Complaints. No female, young or old, should be without this course of pills, which corrects and regulates the monthly course of all periods.

Miscellaneous.

Wesleyan Book Room.

Wesleyan Book Room. The following books are constantly kept on hand.

Miscellaneous.

TO LET.

FOR A TERM OF 5 OR 7 YEARS. THE STONE DWELLING HOUSE, formerly the residence of the late Mr. John W. ...

Miscellaneous.

TO THE MAYOR AND CITIZENS OF PHILADELPHIA AND THE UNION.

PROPOSED TO TEST THE ELECTRIC LIGHT BY GAS ON ONE OF THE STREETS OF PHILADELPHIA, on the ...

Miscellaneous.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Price Two Shillings. A SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY, FOR BRITISH AMERICA. BEING AN ELEMENTS OF GENERAL GEOGRAPHY, in which the British Empire is treated with the fullness and detail requisite to impart to British American youth a knowledge of their own country.

Miscellaneous.

WESLEYAN Branch Book-Room!

Wesleyan Branch Book-Room! ST. JOHN, N. B. THE Friends of Wesleyan Methodism in New Brunswick have been pleased to receive from the ...