

HEAVY PRICE IN HUMAN LIFE IS PAID FOR BLUNDERS OF RAILWAY MEN ON LINE NEAR NEW ORLEANS

Express Train Crashes Into Local at Suburban Station

Eleven Dead and Many More Badly Injured

Another Accident on the Union Pacific in Which 11 Are Killed

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 11.—It was a heavy price in human life that was paid for the errors of railroad trainmen today when a Great Northern express crashed into the rear of a New Orleans and Northeastern local train at Little Woods station, a fishing and hunting camp on Lake Pontchartrain, twelve miles from New Orleans. Eleven dead and many more injured, some of them fatally, are the record of the wreck, which was attended by unusually gruesome scenes in the foggy swamps of the lake shore. To add to the horror of the situation, the wreck caught fire and only the heroic work of the surviving passengers prevented the cremation of those pinned in the debris.

Between Sibley and New Orleans, the Great Northern trains run over the tracks of the New Orleans and Northeastern train was late, and the difference of twenty minutes between the running of the trains was considerably reduced.

When Engineer Blackmann of the Great Northern train took the Northeastern train toward New Orleans, he was given the usual right of way signal, he says, and proceeded to move his train toward New Orleans. At Little Woods, the Northeastern train suddenly loomed up through the fog. Engineer Blackmann applied the brakes and remained at the station while the ponderous locomotive ploughed part way through the train ahead, leaving behind it a trail of corpses and injured passengers.

No one on the Great Northern express was seriously hurt, but those aboard the Northeastern local were "brown right and left or crushed by the express locomotive as it tore through the two rear coaches of the local." As Little Woods has no telegraph station, serious delay was experienced in getting a message to New Orleans, and it was two hours before a rescue train started.

Someone blundered it is admitted by railroad officers, but the delinquent has not been determined. Northeastern Railway officers say that the Great Northern train should have proceeded cautiously after receiving a warning at Sibley that the local train was late. The Great Northern trainmen say that they received no warning at Sibley and that even if they had been warned the Northeastern train should have sent a flagman back when the stop was made at Little Woods.

CHEVENEY, Wyo., Nov. 11.—Eleven are known to have lost their lives in the collision of two Union Pacific freight trains last night at Borie, Wyo., and in the fire which broke out in the wreckage. The dead: J. S. Soley, engineer; John Murphy of Denver, conductor; Hons Christensen of Denver, fireman; J. D. Duran, brakeman; Brakeman Still; Brakeman Dodgers, five Japanese laborers. Only the bodies of Duran and three Japanese were recovered.

DREAMS OF MISSING CREAMER CHILDREN

The Father Seems to Think That They Will be Heard of SACKVILLE, N. B., Nov. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. John Creamer, father and mother of the two children who disappeared mysteriously from their home at Spence settlement one Sunday several years ago, are now living at Rosbury, Mass. In a letter to her sister here last week, Mrs. Creamer says: "John has been dreaming of the children lately. He seems to think that we will hear of them. That will never be, I guess. They seem to be able to find everything but them."

ANDRE'S GRAVE DISCOVERED IN THE FAR NORTH

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 11.—Captain Jean Chalke, master of the fishing schooner Pilot of Brigus, Conception Bay, N. F., said tonight that while his vessel was out fishing in Murgford Bay, Northern Labrador, about August 8 or August 30, he started overland across the cape to Black Duck Bay, three miles distant, and came upon a grave surrounded by a cross bearing the inscription "Andre Ansty, Nov. 7, 1897." The lettering was very faint and it was difficult to tell whether the date of the month was Nov. 1 or 7, but he decided it to be the latter.

Of these all are more or less injured and one has since died. One hundred and fifty men are entombed in shaft No. 2, all of whom are believed to have lost their lives.

It is thought here that a possible explanation of the grave may lie in the fact that fishermen from Notre Dame Bay named Anesty, fish near Cape Anesty every summer, and one of these may have died and been buried there. Against this theory is the well-known fact that Newfoundlanders always endeavor to bring home their dead from the fishing grounds.

The point where the grave was found is about three-quarters of a mile from the coast. Captain Chalke says he can locate it again very easily if required. There was no wreckage or any other objects near the grave. The nearest settlement is twenty miles away.

Captain Jackson, master of the Moravian mission steamer Harmony, which arrived today from Northern Labrador, was unable to throw any light upon the matter. Neither he nor Dr. Hinton, who was also on board the mission steamer, having spent three years in charge of the mission hospital in Northern Labrador, was aware of the existence of any grave where Chalke found one.

SEAS-GOING TUGS TO TOUR WORLD

Will Soon Start From Jersey City on a 14,000 Mile Voyage

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Four sea-going navy tugs which have been building in a Jersey City shipyard, it was announced today, will soon start on a 14,000 mile voyage that will lead them along the same route followed by the fleet of battleships which is now on a globe circling trip. The fleet's mission, according to Captain F. K. Ferguson, who is in command, is to give instructions in mine planting to army and navy officers on the Pacific coast. Leaving the shipyard tomorrow for Governor's Island, where crews and provisions will be taken on board, the boats are due in San Francisco on April 30. After visiting various Pacific coast points the fleet will go to the Philippine Islands.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Members of the American Association and Eastern League walked out of the meeting of the National Association of Baseball Leagues today after the request to oust the southern and western leagues from class A had been denied and a request that the American Association and the Eastern League be allowed to withdraw from the national organization had been likewise refused.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The automobile club of France has decided to hold the big race of 1909 at Angers instead of at Dieppe. The new course will extend throughout the former province of Anjou.

POWERS TO AID PERSIAN REFORM

Russia and Great Britain Will Support Monarch

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 11.—The Novoye Vremya publishes what seems to be an officially inspired article which explains regarding telegrams from Persia concerning the movement of the reactionaries to abolish the Persian constitution, and says that the dignity of Russia and Great Britain, which advised the Shah to summon the Medjles, will never tolerate the abolition of the constitutional government.

ANOTHER ITALIAN DESPERADO CAUGHT

This One is in Jail for Stealing and Striking Boy

HARTLAND, N. B., Nov. 11.—The today Chief of the G. P. F. Police arrested an Italian named Cote, an employe on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, on the charge of stealing a watch and assaulting a seventeen-year-old French lad named Cote. Cote and his brother and five Italians had undertaken a sub-contract on the railway near Foreston. The young Frenchman was injured some days ago and is now in Hartland being cared for by Dr. McIntosh.

FASTING COMPLETELY CURED MISS GODARD

Forty-six Days Without Food

HEALTH RESTORED

And She Suffers Absolutely No Ill Effects from Long Fasting

A few weeks ago The Sun published a paragraph telling of the case of Miss Jennie Godard, daughter of Mr. John W. Godard, of 20 Douglas avenue, who in order to bring about a cure of a disease from which she was suffering undertook to fast for upwards of forty days. This course had been advised by relatives who had heard of persons similarly afflicted being greatly improved. It was anticipated that after the first few days of starvation, Miss Godard would become very much weakened. The contrary happened, for throughout the whole period of fasting she was able to be about as usual and apparently felt absolutely no effects from her abstinence.

ELECT LIBERALS BY ACCLAMATION

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Nov. 11.—This was nomination day for the provincial elections. The Liberals captured Charlottetown without opposition, Hon. George E. Hughes and Dr. Warburton, the present members, being elected. In each of the other four-teen districts there is a full ticket on both sides.

LONDON, cv. 12.—The rate of discount of the Bank of England remains unchanged today at 2 1/2 per cent.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—A secret consultation between R. L. Borden and leading Conservatives of the province, was held here today. The latter had nothing to say when questioned, but it is surmised the question of entering protests was among the matters discussed.

All Purchases Must be Made in the Open Market

Chance Will be Given to All Merchants to Compete

Witness at Inquiry Yesterday Declares He Charged Steep Prices

QUEBEC, Nov. 11.—As another consequence of the disclosure of the marine inquiry now in session here, Hon. Mr. Brodeur has issued an order to the effect that all the patronage list must be suppressed and that all purchases made by the department must be made in the open market, all the merchants being invited to give competitive prices.

Mr. Gale, of the Slade Electric Co., was the first witness this morning. During the last three years his firm did $10,000 worth of work for the government. Orders used to come by telephone. In some instances prices were asked for.

The witness said he used to charge steep prices, but never enough to allow profit of fifty per cent. His accounts were certified either by Mr. Gregory or Mr. Lemieux. Mr. Gale could not say what was the amount of commission paid to Mr. Gregory, and he was ordered to reappear this afternoon with his bank book.

P. Murphy was the next witness. Besides being a saloon keeper he used to sell coal bags and take contracts for the loading and unloading of ships. He supplied bags and loaded coal to the G. S. steamships. The drafts of the witness on Mr. Gregory were cashed by Mr. Odell, the grandson of Mr. Gregory, who retained the fifty per cent. Answering Senator Choquette, appearing for Mr. Gregory, the witness said he was not in a position to wait two or three months for his money. All the deals of the witness with the government amounted to about $5,000.

YOUNG MAN'S AWFUL DEATH

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Harvey W. Watterson, a lawyer and younger son of Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, plunged to his death from the nineteenth floor of an office building at 37 Wall street late this afternoon. His body shot downward for 110 feet, landing on the roof of a ten-story building adjoining. Almost every bone was broken and the head crushed, and death was practically instantaneous.

While there were no eye-witnesses to the tragedy, it was evidently entirely accidental. Mr. Watterson's hat and overcoat were on his closed desk and he presumably remained a moment to lower the window when, either stumbling or losing his footing in some manner unknown, he pitched forward and down to death on the roof below.

Mr. Watterson was 30 years old and married, and lived in Second avenue. He was junior member of the law firm of Wins, Russell and Watterson.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—D. Cameron McCullum, aged 22, ex-teller in the head office of the Farmers' Bank, was sentenced to four years in the Kingston penitentiary by Police Magistrate Kingford this afternoon. The young man pleaded guilty to stealing $16,692.

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

CHURCH NOTES

FOR BUSY MEN.

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

Wise Counsel

In connection with the anniversary of his fiftieth year in the ministry, the Pope issued a letter to the priests of the Church throughout the world, which contains the following weighty counsel on the duty of religious meditation: "There is no priest who can omit this without... harm to his own soul... There are some who... excuse themselves, offering as a reason that they are given entirely to... the advantages of others. They are miserably deceived. For unaccustomed to speak with God they lack the Divine fire when they speak with men about Him... so that the Gospel message seems to be lifeless to them."

Clippings

The Pope has categorically forbidden his clergy to attend any of the instructions given in any of the University classes. Cardinal Gibbons carried a gift of $200,000 to the Pope, on his last visit to Rome.

The Pope still confers fitting titles on worthy men and women in the United States. Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin, widow of an eminent "boss" of Brooklyn, is now a papal Marchioness. The Countess O'Leary and the Marquis and Marchioness Maloney enjoy sonorous titles.

THE ANGLICAN.

Protestors

Speaking of the refusal of the Bishop of Stepey to accept the position of Bishop of Montreal, made vacant by the death of Bishop Carmichael, Archbishop Sweatman of Toronto, said: "They might have been more modest. I received a letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury, who said that he would secure a strong man by going across the water," he added, "but it is preposterous to expect one of the most outstanding figures in the Anglican Church in the world to come out here."

For the Poor

A proposal is being made to erect a church largely for the poor in some district in the diocese of Montreal, in commemoration of the late Bishop Carmichael, who was one of the most loved bishops in the Anglican Church in Canada.

Archbishop of York

The Most Rev. Dr. MacLagan, Archbishop of York, aged 82 years, has resigned on account of ill health. Dr. MacLagan served in the Indian army for some time before taking holy orders, and it is over half a century since he was ordained. At the recommendation of the late Lord Grenville he was made Bishop of Lichfield, and he has held his present eminent position since 1891. His Grace is a tireless worker, and a most diligent scholar, and he still maintains his own interest in everything to do with the army. Dr. MacLagan is very popular in Canada, and he was remembered that it was he who performed the ceremony of crowning Queen Alexandra.

THE PRESBYTERIAN

Rev. Dr. Fotheringham

Citizens of this city will read with much interest the following from the Presbyterian Witness, of the 24th: "Dr. Fotheringham with his family have migrated to California. His departure from amongst us makes a notable blank. He gave his life to the service of the Church in Canada, and served her with consuming zeal and industry. It is not to be denied, it is not to be hidden or forgiven that his self-sacrificing labors have not been well compensated from a material point of view. He is an accomplished scholar, a skillful writer, and an edifying preacher, and he started Sunday school publications for the benefit of the Church that will prove of permanent value. We are sorry to say that notwithstanding the kindness and good wishes of many appreciative friends, Dr. Fotheringham leaves Canada with but small provision for a 'rainy day.' It is well to follow him with our good wishes, but a man who has placed all our people under obligation from East to West—a man whose name will be a household one in our Sabbath schools ought not to be forgotten."

The revised Japanese hymnal, prepared by a Presbyterian missionary, has now reached a circulation of 190,000 copies. It is the most popular book in Japan.

THE BAPTISTS.

Something New

The Tribune has received the following despatch from Boston:—"The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, announced at the service Sunday that he would never again marry a consumptive, and that he would at the next district meeting ask the church authorities to prohibit a marriage where one of the parties was a consumptive. 'I am taking that step,' he said, 'because I do not want to stand before my God as a murderer. The marriage of an uninfected person with one suffering from the great white plague means that both inevitably will have the disease.'

Saul Among the Prophets

John Craig, who impersonated "The Devil," at Castle Square Theatre, Boston, recently addressed the Ministerial Association of that city on "What an Actor Expects When He Goes to Church." A writer in the Maritime Baptist makes this comment: "Mr. Craig presented his subject well from an actor's standpoint; but confessed that the majority of theatrical plays were 'bad.' He also confessed that very few actors ever went to church."

Many of us felt that the inviting of such a man to address a ministerial gathering was a great mistake. Several "protests" have appeared in the "Watchman," as also a strong condemnatory editorial. Christianity gains nothing from the theatre. According to Mr. Craig himself, he appeared in the good. As Dr. Merriam says in his excellent editorial "In all ages of the world the theatre has been the foe of morality and religion, and more so today than ever before."

THE METHODISTS

Among the Foreigners

At the annual meeting of the General Board of Missions, recently held in Vancouver, B. C., the following grants were made for work among the foreigners who have settled in Canada. To the Italian Mission in Toronto, $1,000; to the Italian Mission in Montreal, $600; to the Scandinavian work in British Columbia, $850; to the Gallian work at Paken, $1,300; to the All Peoples' Mission in Winnipeg, $3,800; and to the French work $3,775.

For Domestic Missions

The three conferences of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Newfoundland have all allotted to them for the assistance of their weaker charges the sums respectively of $14,695; $11,228; $21,190.

Obliging the Oath

The British Wesleyan Church this year sends over 100 missionaries to the foreign field, a few of whom are returning after a season of their work. One of the number recently attended a valedictory service in City Road chapel, which is spoken of as one of unusual interest. How should we be regarded? What special evils attach to civil war? Who brought about the rebellion here spoken of, and what was the object of it? What action of David's is of special interest to Canadians? What strange order was issued on the eve of battle, and by whom, to whom, and for what purpose? Tell how the two messengers told the sentence, and why so differently. How did David receive the news of victory? Did Job act wisely? About whom may David's question be still asked, and by whom?

SATURDAY SERMONETTE

STAYING POWER.

That is a 'horsey' phrase, and if it has found its way into pulpits and drawing rooms, it was born in a stable. A horse that could not be whipped or spurred around a muddy track and win the race when he was tired out had no "staying power," and was not worth much.

Some horses can run or trot very fast for short distances, but as they have no staying power they are no good for long distance racing.

That is the story of a great many men, and especially of some clergymen, and authors, and newspaper men. The young man who was candidating for the vacant pulpit was so "pretty" well groomed and trotted around the track so gracefully and made such fast time he took the congregation (especially the spinster part of it) by storm. They "called" him, but after three or six months they were sorry they had, for he used up the few sermons he had and did not know how to make any more, and was too honest to steal them, so "the church found out he was a 'quitter,' and not a 'stayer.'"

It is true of a great many writers. They have little versatility, and when they have written their little essay go on repeating it—with variations—until they die or get discharged. Many authors have the same lack of "staying quality." They write one book and you want to see the next one, you were so taken with the first, but you found that the author delivered his one message and had no other. There are men in newspaper offices who can write a few readable articles, and then when they have exhausted their capital write such billings-gate that you have to burn the vile sheets for fear the children would see them.

The tons of filth that was sent out from newspaper offices during the last election campaign was enough to tannish the country.

The real reason why so much that was written was simply abuse and bare faced lying was because the writers had exhausted their knowledge and used up their grey matter.

They had no staying power, and when they had no "case" abused the attorney for the defence.

From the east to the west men are continually moving and in the west they are going still farther west. In any of our cities there are desirable residences for sale, and if the men who are continually moving had homes in Eden they would want to sell them and get away some where else, for they have no staying power. Go in the best farming country in the world and you will find farms for sale, and the men who farmed them are not dead, they are simply restless and want to get away, they have no "staying power."

But there are two classes who have staying power and enough to spare the other fellows who have none. The young fellows who call on their girls as often as they can, and stay as long as they dare.

The "old man" winds the clock and puts out the cat and goes yawning to bed, and yet the young man does not take the hint. After a while (a good long while), she yawns as politely and yet as consciously as she can, and yet that young man does not stop, for he has "staying power."

The minister I know best, has staying power. He will stay at his text and sermon and I know and nod, but he cannot stop, he has such wonderful staying power.

And I learn from all this that staying power, sometimes a good quality and sometimes a bad one.

CATHOLIC MISSION

MOST SUCCESSFUL

Rev. Father Ferdinand, of the Capuchin Order, Preached at Rexton

SONS OF TEMPERANCE

REXTON, N. B., Nov. 6.—The mission which was held in the Catholic Church here from Thursday of last week until Monday morning, was most successful. Rev. Fr. Ferdinand of the Capuchin order was the preacher and although the weather was unfavorable, large numbers attended all the services. The fathers are conducting missions at South Branch and St. Anne at present.

The funeral of Little Miss Ruth McDonald was held on Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. A. D. Archibald and the remains were interred in St. Andrew's cemetery. D. A. McDonald arrived home on Friday from Bartlett, to attend the funeral of his little daughter.

Miss Jean C. Jardine returned on Friday from a visit to friends in Saint John.

Miss Margaret Carter of Buctouche is recovering from her illness. John Keswick of Buctouche has gone to Rumford Falls, Maine, where he has accepted a position with the Canadian Government. Gordon Bowser of this town, who has been accountant of the Royal Bank of Canada at Moncton for some time, has been transferred to the head office at Montreal.

Mrs. John Arsenault left for Maine on Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Fouriear.

George Wicks, who has been head miller in J. D. Irving's mill at Buctouche for some time, has gone to Port William, Ontario, where he has accepted a position. His mill is now to be taken by Ambrose Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmetz and family, who spent the summer at their summer home in Buctouche, are going to Atlantic City to spend the winter.

J. Wise of Buctouche has sold his fast horse to Mr. Copp of the Kent Hotel at Richmond.

Mrs. H. Murray of Buctouche, who has been visiting friends here, has returned to her home.

Thoburn Bowser of his home to Montreal to receive treatment for a diseased bone in one of his limbs. The doctors have located the trouble by means of the X-rays and an operation will be performed.

Mrs. Augusta de Olbequi, who spent the summer at her home here, returned to New York a few days ago.

The death occurred at his home at Ford's Mills, Wednesday night, of Joseph Call, after a lingering illness. Mr. Call, who was 76 years of age, is survived by a widow, who was a Miss Farrer, one son, William Call, of Ford's Mills, and five daughters, who are Mrs. William Irving of Mundeville, Mrs. Whitney of Fines Ridge, Mrs. Wm. McWilliams of Ford's Mills, and Mrs. Frank Graham and Mrs. Howard Lawson of Main river. The remains will be interred at West Branch on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pascal Hebert went to St. John on Wednesday. Mr. Hebert will return home in a few days and Mrs. Hebert will spend two or three weeks visiting friends at Moncton, Memramouc and Shediac.

DANGER FROM SPRINGS.

In the summer, when so many thousands drink from tenting springs in the woods and on hillsides, a warning recently given by Mons. E. A. Martel, the celebrated French explorer of caverns, should not go unnoticed. Contrary to a widely prevalent opinion, Monsieur Martel says that springs of apparently pure water are, in many cases, merely the outflow of surface waters which have disappeared through fissures, carrying with them pollution from the soil and not purified in their passage through the rocks. He thinks that even chalk is not an effectual filter for surface water passing through it.

DRINK WHEN IT'S OFFERED

Mr. McIntyre Makes Caustic Comment

REFERS TO PETITIONS Says Good Many Signers Take a Drink When They Get It Free

The announcement made in The Sun on Saturday to the effect that the temperance people at a meeting held in St. David's church had inaugurated a systematic campaign to oust the salaried clergy from the pulpit, was met with talk on the streets, particularly among the liquor interests.

The business-like air with which the temperance people are going about their work this time makes it look as if there was more chance of accomplishing their purpose than in the past. They cannot be expected to accomplish their end without much hard work as to banish the saloons the temperance cause must be supported by nearly a majority of those voting but at least one-half of the number of those on the list must vote against the dispensation of the grape juice.

To accomplish this the temperance workers are starting out in a systematic manner to canvass every voter in the ward. Some "but voters" whose names appear on the provincial lists will be approached or allowed to sign the petitions.

The workers are hopeful of getting the required number of names and also of getting the votes they want next spring.

The temperance people are not saying much but they intimate that while there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, that nevertheless the cup and lip will probably not have the same opportunity to connect with each other in Dukes' ward after the ballot next spring that they now have.

The dark lantern methods of the liquor dealers are receiving some comment. The matter was discussed in more than one pulpit a week ago, and their proposed meeting was the subject of discussion around town during the week. When the meeting was held it was in the public Sunday school room of a church. Yet in spite of this a pastor morning that it was only through a breach of confidence that the matter had reached the newspapers.

William McIntyre, of McIntyre & Coeman, when asked what the opinion of the liquor dealers was regarding the campaign started by the temperance people last week, declined to make any statement. Mr. McIntyre said, however, that the majority of the petitions were signed by school children and by people who would be very glad to take a drink if they could get it free.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD IN CENTENARY CHURCH SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. Flanders Preaches Eloquent Sermons at Both Services—Special Music—The Children Assisted—Continues Until Wednesday

The anniversary services of Centenary church attracted large congregations yesterday. The pastor, Dr. C. R. Flanders, preached at both services and special music proved a very attractive feature both in the morning and evening.

The musical programme in the morning was as follows: Processional by children's choir; chant, The Earth Is the Lord's; hymn children's choir anthem, No Glad, O Ye Righteous (Sparto) with men's chorus; children's recessional.

In the evening the following music was rendered: Anthem, Sun of My Soul (Edward Turner); baritone solo, How Long Will Thou Forget Me (Mietzke); D. B. Pidgeon; chant, I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes; anthem, O Come, Let Us Worship (Mendelssohn) with soprano solo by Mrs. A. P. Crockett; choral benediction.

At both services tenor solos were given by Murray G. Brooks of Montreal.

In the morning Dr. Flanders spoke on the history of the church and told of its development to its present condition. In the evening he took as his text 2 Col. 2:10: "And ye are complete in Him."

He quoted the saying attributed to Jos. Cook that there are no half hinges in nature, meaning that nature always completes her work. When we find half of a shell on the shore its existence makes us believe that another half must exist. In man the fact that we have lungs shows that there must be air for them to breathe.

In the spiritual realm our innate convictions tell us that there must be another half to complete our spiritual lives. God stands for all that is incomplete in us and in Him our souls are rounded out.

You may say that you do not believe in God but you really do. "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God." No one but a fool would say such a thing. You may not believe in the God of revelation, the God that I believe in, but you must believe in some power that is behind all things. The normal man feels the existence of God. I bring to you the God of revelation that you may think of Him as a spiritual complement.

There is in every man the germ of spiritual life but unless it comes in contact with God it will be dormant. Jesus Christ came and told the world that in Him were life and hope to be found.

We may think that we do not sin because we do not break any of the ten commandments. Does it not occur to you that in rejecting Christ you sin? The saddest words ever spoken by Christ referred to those who had rejected His love. As the candle flame needs oxygen to keep it alive so our spiritual natures must have contact with God in order to live.

The preacher then dwelt on the way in which environment aided development and after giving several illustrations said that he had seen men come in contact with others and under the touch of Divine power become beautiful and good. He had come to the conclusion that no one could be a true man and reach his highest development unless he admits Jesus Christ to his life.

Men ask what they must do as if it was only by striving that they could get Jesus Christ to enter their lives. All that is needed is to trust in Him. God stands ready to develop and perfect all the good in us.

This evening there will be a union Thanksgiving service in Centenary church. On Tuesday evening a church social will be held and on Wednesday evening at the midnight service messages from former pastors will be read.

able criticism, after which meeting adjourned.

At the afternoon session the first number on the programme was a lesson on paper folding by Miss W. V. Keith. This lesson was most interesting and was followed by a discussion in which Miss Avar, Miss Thistle, Inspector O'Brien and others took part. Miss G. Brewster gave an excellent paper on School Discipline which was well received.

This evening a public meeting was held in the Company's Hall, which was largely attended. F. M. Thompson, the chairman of the Board of Trustees, presided. Excellent addresses were given by Hon. C. J. Osmar, Dr. Marvin, H. P. Dole, M. A., Inspector O'Brien and H. C. Atkinson, B. A.

At the close of the meeting the visiting teachers were entertained by the Hillsboro faculty to ice cream and cake.

A musical programme was also rendered, Miss Lewis presiding at the piano. Miss Crockett gave a pleasing vocal solo and Miss Rebecca Bennett gave a reading very effectively. The institute closes on Friday. H. P. Dole will give a paper at the morning session on Experimental Psychology and What it Teaches Us; Miss Julia McIntyre will give a paper on Domestic Science and the School Curriculum; and Miss Lena Wilson will give a paper on Teaching Reading.

BAPTISTS RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Discuss Prospective Union

TELL OF THEIR PLANS Union Will Likely Be Consummated Early Next Year

The maritime delegates to the Ottawa conference of the Dominion Baptist Church reached St. John at noon Saturday.

Among those arriving were: Rev. D. L. Hutchinson, Rev. W. W. McMaster, Rev. T. S. Simms, Edgar Campbell, and Rev. H. G. Kennedy, of Sussex; Rev. Mr. White, of Summerland, B. C., who will preach in Main St. Church tomorrow, also arrived with the others.

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson, speaking of the work of the conference, said that when the Ontario-Quebec convention was in progress a resolution was introduced unfavorable to union. It was protested against it on the grounds that if it reflected the sentiment of the people of Ontario, the Maritime delegates had been misled and they might as well return home at once. The resolution passed but later on the convention passed another of a more favorable nature.

When the delegates from all parts of the Dominion met on Wednesday it was discovered that the people of Upper Canada seemed to be as anxious for union as those of the Eastern and Western sections.

Owing to the strong sentiment in favor of it a resolution could have been passed asking the Church to effect the union. It was decided, however, not to take this step until next year. The convention meanwhile approved a proposition for the united church under the terms of this the national body would have jurisdiction over the home, foreign and Grand Ligne missions, the publication boards, the Sunday school board and several other departments.

A convention will be called next year when it is expected the union will be effected.

The following resolution expressed the conclusions of the convention: Whereas, this convention has given two full days to the discussion of the desirability and practicality of the union of all the Baptist churches of Canada under one organization to be known as "The Baptist Union of Canada";

Whereas, we have also discussed a basis of representation, and the question of the particular denominational interests which shall form part of the work of the proposed union, and

Whereas, we have arrived at a large degree of unanimity upon the aforesaid topics;

Therefore, Be it resolved:— 1.—That we affirm our conviction of the desirability and desirability of such a union.

2.—That we believe such a union would be in the best interests of the Kingdom of Christ as represented in the Baptist denomination in Canada, and would contribute to a speedy and satisfactory solution of many of the great and important problems which are before us as Baptist citizens of the Dominion of Canada.

3.—That we express our hearty approval of the proposed constitution recommended by this convention, and the propositions made to this convention by the committees representing the various interests which have been considered.

4.—That we appoint a committee of fifteen to prepare reports of the work done and action taken by this convention to send copies of these reports to:—

a.—The Secretaries of the various Baptist Conventions in Canada;

b.—The Clerks of all the Associations;

c.—The Clerks of all the Baptist churches in Canada.

CANADA'S CREDIT REMAINS GOOD ON OTHER SIDE

London Editor Speaks at Ottawa

DISCUSSES TARIFF

Says German Factories Would Close if Country Fought Great Britain

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 5.—Francis W. Hirst, the editor of the London Economist, addressed the Canadian Club Saturday. He said Canada could continue to borrow as long as British lenders were convinced that the funds they lent were being honestly spent for remunerative objects. At present Canada was borrowing at a rather rapid rate, but the growing tide of imports in the form of wheat, cattle, butter, cheese, lumber and fish would pay the interest. He opposed the plan of putting on duties on British imports to bargain with the colonies for mutual preference as the tariff reform league proposed. The British free market was the most potent factor in Europe for peace. Germany, Great Britain and England sold Germany 30,000,000 pounds of goods annually. If Germany declared war on England she would be declaring war on German workers, as the English market and German factories would be closed. Mr. Hirst did not approve of Britain putting up a tariff against the colonies and then going to them to bargain for preference on the basis of the damage the tariff had done.

Parting of the Ways

If a tariff was adopted by England the agriculturists would have to be protected by it or the tariff bill would never pass the House of Lords. Bonds of bargaining, he declared, in place of bonds of affection would mean tariffs forced on Canada, Australia and other colonies from Downing street, and that would mean the parting of the ways. Mr. Hirst declared that if the Canadian tariff were lowered gradually Canada would become a cheaper country to live in, would be a cheaper country in which to produce goods, and the result would be an immense growth, as the people would come in and capital would pour in to start manufactures. Hon. Mr. Fielding, responding, briefly said that while the majority of Canadians favored the preferential tariff idea, it was a good thing to occasionally hear the other side of the story.

DARING ATTEMPT TO MURDER A GOVERNOR

Sir Andrew Henderson Keith Fraser Narrowly Escapes Assassination

CALCUTTA, Nov. 5.—A daring attempt was made last evening by a Bengali to assassinate Sir Andrew Henderson Keith Fraser, the Lieutenant-governor of Bengal. Like three other attempts that have been made to take the life of the Lieutenant-governor since his appointment to that office in 1903, this latest attack upon him proved unsuccessful. Sir Andrew, escaping without any injury, was accompanied by the Maharajah of Burdwan, an important division of Bengal, and Secretary Barber of the Young Men's Christian Association attended the lecture given by Prof. E. D. Barton at the University at the town hall, which was filled to overflowing with an audience that included many of the most prominent residents of the city. The lieutenant-governor stepped upon the dais, a young man, who afterwards gave the name of Nhowdury, rushed up and thrust a revolver within a few inches of Sir Andrew's body and pulled the trigger twice. The cartridges missed fire and Mr. Barber, who is an American, flung himself upon the Bengali. The latter struck savagely at the secretary with his revolver and wounded him severely on the head, but was eventually overpowered.

In the meantime the Maharajah, a man of great stature and strength, seized Lieutenant-Governor Fraser and swung him bodily through a door out of harm's way. A group of Bengalis occupying the front chairs jumped quickly to their feet and rushed out of the hall. They escaped during the commotion. It is believed that they were present in order to assist Nhowdury but took alarm at his complete failure to carry out his plan.

MACHIAS MILL BURNED

MACHIAS, Me., Nov. 5.—The principal industry of the town of East Machias has been wiped out by two fires, both apparently of incendiary origin, which have destroyed the mills of the East Machias Lumber Company. The steam saw and planing mill valued with its stock, finished and unfinished, at $30,000, was burned last night, while another mill belonging to the same company was burned several months ago.

TAYNTOR FOLKS HAVE A RATHER ENJOYABLE TIME

Burglars Cover Them for Hours

$10,000 WORTH STOLEN

One Burglar Has Scruples About Stealing Wedding Rings

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—With a ray of a burglar's dark lantern shining in their eyes and two revolvers held by masked men covering them, the five members of the family of Charles E. Tayntor, a wealthy granite dealer, lay in bed in the Tayntor home at Borough Park, Brooklyn, for more than an hour this morning, while a third masked burglar picked up $10,000 worth of jewelry and silverware. Then the burglars bound Mr. Tayntor hand and foot and escaped with their booty. Mr. Tayntor, who has a number of rich granite quarries in New England, is known as a crack shot. It is believed that the burglars knew his name and took no chances with him. The men gained entrance to the house by breaking a window on the ground floor. The burglar who was ransacking the room found a jewel case with two wedding rings in it on a bureau and was about to take them when Mr. Tayntor asked him not to. The burglar replied that he would take everything of value he could find. Then one of the burglars standing guard over the family spoke up. "Don't take those wedding rings. I am a married man and have some sentiment about wedding rings," he said.

Rings Were Left

The rings were left, but two toy banks belonging to Charles and Harold, the Tayntor boys, were broken and rifled of $17. The boys cried and were ordered to be quiet. When the room had been completely searched the third burglar went downstairs and piled up the silverware. He later returned to the bedside and commanded Mr. Tayntor to give up a $500 diamond ring he wore. The ring would not come off, so one of the burglars grimly drew a jack knife and was going to cut Mr. Tayntor's finger off. Mr. Tayntor protested and asked permission to go to the bathroom and soak the ring off with soap and water. "We will do that ourselves," said the man who appeared to be the leader of the trio, and he did forthwith. After this the leader lifted Mr. Tayntor's pillow and found a revolver under it. He laughed and dropped the weapon into his pocket. Then the three men produced a rope and bound Mr. Tayntor's hands and feet. They ordered him not to make an outcry for fifteen minutes, saying one of their number would remain on guard that length of time. They then hurried away. The telephone wires had been cut and an hour elapsed before Mr. Tayntor could notify the police. He was able to give a perfect description of the three men, and the burglars were at his assistance, as the burglars were all dressed alike and wore masks. The burglars wore black suits, black derby hats, kid gloves and white masks. They had woolen "masks" over their shoes. Mr. Tayntor believes one of the men was a negro and the fact that the men wore gloves would seem to indicate this.

SPENDS A QUIET DAY IN NEW YORK TOMBS

Morse Didn't Receive Yesterday—May be Out on Bail Today

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Assured the every possible step has been taken looking to his release tomorrow under bonds, Clas. W. Morse, the convicted banker, spent a quiet Sunday in the Tombs. He received no visitors and spent most of his time reading newspapers and writing letters, and the United States district court of appeals will decide tomorrow whether bail will be accepted for Morse. In local circles tonight the prevailing opinion seemed to be that the banker would be released under exceptionally heavy bail, amounting perhaps to $125,000.

PUTS INTO CALAIS MUCH BATTERED UP

CALAIS, Me., Nov. 5.—Schooner R. Bowers, Captain Kelson, arrived from Philadelphia today with forestomast, foremast, foretrussell and jibs carried away and fore rigging damaged, also leaking badly. The Ewers encountered a heavy gale October 2, with cross seas, which tore off the hatches and strained the vessel badly. She was kept aloft with difficulty. Captain Kelson attempted to get inside Sandy Hook, but was forced to sea. He reached Beaver Harbor, N. S., November 6th, where a survey was held, and was towed from that port to Calais by tug Little. The R. Bowers is coal-laden. The captain's wife and child were on board.

Assassin Under Arrest—Preliminary Trial Set for Friday

CHIPMAN, N. B., Nov. 5.—As the result of a quarrel over a fifteen-cent laundry bill another stabbing affray which may result in another murder trial took place near here yesterday. Again the assassin is an Italian and this time his victim is a man of his own race. Frank Deatti, the man who used the knife, is under arrest and his victim, William Cortiga, is lying in a critical condition under the care of Dr. Lang. Deatti's crime was peculiarly vicious and cowardly. Both men are employed under the Toronto Construction company on the G. T. P. near here. Saturday they got into a dispute over a laundry bill amounting to fifteen cents and fought their quarrel with their fists. Deatti got decidedly the worst of the scrap and after it was all over slipped into the bunk house, seized a large and ugly knife and sneaking up behind Cortiga, stabbed him in the back, inflicting a terrible wound. Deatti was at once seized and taken before Commissioner Farris, who remanded him to jail until Friday next. Cortiga is dangerously wounded and whether he will live or die is not known.

TWO KILLED AND SEVENTEEN HURT

Bad Collision on Electric Car Line Near Vancouver, B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 5.—At midnight Saturday a collision on the interurban line of the British Columbia electric railway took place between Beacomfield and Gladstone, two suburban stations near Vancouver. Motorman Murdoch MacDonald of Vancouver was killed, Motorman Jamieson had his skull fractured. He has since died. One car dashed down a hill and ran into the other, driving through it as far as the second compartment. Passengers were thrown to the floor and those in the first compartment badly hurt. Seventeen are in the hospital.

BRITISH SUPREMACY AT SEA IS MENACED

At Least That is the Opinion of Writer of Article in The Quarterly Review—Government Accused of Ignoring a Crisis in English Naval History.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—"Our Endangered Sea Supremacy" is the subject of a weighty article in this new number of the Quarterly Review, which draws attention to the fact that in ship-building England and Germany are now "running a neck-and-neck race." In the past three years the amount of British ship-building "has barely exceeded the quantity placed to the credit of the German fleet alone."

This fact in itself is sufficiently grave, the article states, to cause deep-seated anxiety, "but a more serious feature of the outlook is the attitude which the British government has assumed toward armaments generally and the manner in which Mr. Asquith and his colleagues, in endeavoring to placate the socialist section of their supporters, have forced the United Kingdom into a position of extreme financial difficulty."

A ST. JOHN ARTIST

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 7.—A New Brunswick artist, with friends and relatives in Fredericton and Saint John, and who is now living in one of the suburbs of Boston, is reaching fame through painting the portrait, at the command of a Chinese Emperor, of one of the noted beauties of the Flower Kingdom, Miss Julia Wong, who is now attending a fashionable Massachusetts ladies' college. The artist is Andrew Fenety, a native of St. John. He is a nephew of the late Wm. Fenety, and a nephew of the late Wm. George E. Fenety. Mr. Fenety is a member of a family of noted artists. His brother, George Fenety, enjoys a great reputation as a designer of the most delicate embroidery designs. Miss Wong's father was His Excellency Wong Kai Koh, who was appointed minister to the United States, and who met a tragic death on the day following his appointment. He was China's high commissioner at the St. Louis World's Fair.

Maple Leaf Drags Into the Crescent During a Heavy Gale

BOTH DAMAGED

PARRSBOBO, N. S., Nov. 7.—The schooner Maple Leaf, Captain Spicer, from New York for Wolfville with hard coal, dragged into the schooner Crescent, lumber laden, from Economy for Vineyard Haven for orders, yesterday at Spencer's Island during a strong westerly gale. The Crescent had her headgear and rail forward carried away and other minor damages, while the Maple Leaf had her stern so badly damaged that she will require extensive repairs. She proceeded to Wolfville and the Crescent returned here for repairs.

same time additional burdens have been placed on the exchequer. In the last three budgets surpluses have been secured by postponing necessary expenditure on the navy.

GOVERNMENT IGNORES CRISIS

No provision has been made for the adequate maintenance of the fleet in future years and the government has ignored the naval crisis which is approaching. The world's fleets are being reconstructed and the German navy act of this year has pledged the German Empire to a naval expenditure of $1,000,000,000 in the next 10 years. By successive navy acts, each increasing her programme and outlay, Germany has stimulated naval expansion throughout the world. Meantime, the British government has been intent on peace manoeuvres. Whereas in the past three years British naval expenditure has been reduced by an aggregate sum of $110,000,000, as compared with the high-water mark of 1904-5, German naval expenditure has risen by $80,000,000. Actually, the comparative outlay on the British fleet in the three years has fallen by $170,000,000.

The German calculations have been explained by Herr von Rath as being based on the view that "England, under a Liberal government, would, in view of the demands of her social policy, refrain from building a large number of ships, and might even build fewer. It was calculated that when the Conservatives returned to office Germany would already have obtained a lead which it would be difficult for England to recover."

EXPLOSION IN MONTREAL DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Dynamite Goes Off on Scow

SHOCK WIDELY FELT

Windows Smashed in Many of Leading Office Buildings

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Half a ton of dynamite stored on a scow belonging to the Montreal Harbor Commission exploded at a quarter to one o'clock this afternoon with a roar that was heard and a shock that was felt all over the city. The scow was moored alongside the guard pier, 2,400 feet from the buildings fronting on Commissioners street, but the concussion was so great that not a pane of glass was left intact in the buildings on this street, while buildings a third of a mile from the water front suffered more or less damage from broken glass. A peculiar feature was the manner in which some buildings, entirely escaped while others suffered severely. In the Corlatine building not a whole pane of glass remains, while in the Board of Trade, next door, only a few panes were broken. On St. Paul street, which is occupied by wholesale warehouses, hardly a pane of glass was left intact and the entire police force had to be placed on duty in the district until carpenters could be secured and the windows blocked.

Caused by Fire

The explosion was caused by a fire the watchman on the scow built and left burning while he went home for his dinner. The watchman on a drill boat lying alongside saw the fire and immediately put out for the shore in his boat. He managed to get a safe distance before the explosion came. Had the explosion occurred on a work day, when this quarter of the city is filled with people, loss of life would probably have occurred, but on Sunday the place is deserted except for a few watchmen and firemen. None of the vessels in the harbor were damaged. The loss from broken glass will amount to at least $50,000.

FIVE NEW BRUNSWICKERS GRADUATE FROM HOSPITAL

Are Now Entitled to Engage in Practice of Nursing

Five New Brunswick girls, at least one of them from St. John, were members of the graduating class from the Hartford, Conn., Hospital Training School last week. The St. John girl was Miss Helen Hennessey, daughter of C. Hennessey. Her associates from the hospital were Lavina Elizabeth Emberton, Louise Mand Pinder, Nellie Beatrice Armstrong and Frances Jean Jenkins. The graduating exercises were of a most interesting nature and the following officers were elected: prominent personages. An address to the graduates was made by Miss Clara Noyes, superintendent of St. Luke's hospital, New Bedford, Mass. Many New Brunswick girls have graduated from the Hartford Hospital, which is one of the best in the United States.

HAMPTON, Kings county, Nov. 7.—The annual meeting of the Hampton Curling Club was held last evening in one of the rooms of the Court House, and the following officers were elected for the season of 1908-9: J. M. Scovil, president; T. C. Donald, vice-president; F. M. Sproul, M. F. P., secretary; R. H. Smith, treasurer; T. Wm. Barnes, Percy E. Gligsey and James H. Sproul, executive committee. One new member was balloted for and elected. The members were in force, and a good deal of interest was displayed by them, as arrangements for the winter sports were submitted and discussed. "The rink building will be put in condition at once and ice is hoped for by Christmas. Another meeting to discuss the winter programme will be held next Thursday evening at the same place. A class for Bible study was inaugurated last evening, with twenty-five to thirty in attendance, at the Methodist church, with Rev. G. A. Ross in charge. The system which will be followed was set forth at length by the leader, who also spoke on Hebrew Literature and especially on that which has been preserved for us in the Bible. The class will meet every Friday evening and the first study night will be occupied in a consideration of Genesis I. and the first four verses of Genesis II. Mrs. F. M. Humphrey invited the class to meet next week in her parlors, which kind offer was thankfully accepted.

POWERFUL PERFUMES

It is said that a grain of musk is capable of perfuming for several years a chamber twelve feet square, and that, too, without sustaining any sensible diminution of its volume or weight. Such a chamber would contain 2,385,84 cubic inches of space, each cubic inch containing 1,000 cubic tenths of inches, making in all nearly 5,000,000,000 of cubic tenths of inches. Now, it is probable indeed, almost certain—that each cubic tenth of an inch of the air of such a room contains one or more particles of the musk, and that this air has been changed during the series of years an inconceivable number of times. This being the case, it is only natural that the imagination should recoil before attempting to compute the number of particles which must have composed that single grain of perfume! Numerous as they must have been, taken all together, they have no appreciable weight or magnitude. True it is that the human mind cannot conceive of such "infinitesimal littleness."

BUDAPEST, Nov. 5.—A woman in Budapest is seeking a divorce on the ground that her husband insists on consulting a doctor whenever he partakes of a dish which she has prepared.

SARDOU SUCCEUMS TO LONG ILLNESS

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Victorien Sardou, who had been ill for a long time, died today from pulmonary congestion. He was the dean of French dramatists and a member of the French Academy. The man whose first play was hissed and who then wanted to go to seek his fortune—died rich and honored, with the proud title of France's greatest and most prolific contemporary dramatist. Victorien Sardou was a man possessed of singular charm and was greatly beloved, and there is universal regret that he left no memoirs. He was born in Paris, Sept. 7, 1832, the son of Leonora Sardou, an educationist, and the compiler of several publications. At first he studied medicine, but was obliged, in consequence of the embarrassment of his family, to give private lessons in history, philosophy and mathematics. He also made attempts in literature, writing articles for several reviews and for the minor journals. His first comedy, "Les Vacances des Etudiants," was produced in 1854 in the Odeon, then the second state theatre, but it proved a complete failure. He then wrote the comedy, "Les Fantes de Monche," which was produced with great success in 1860, and subsequently adapted for the English stage under the title of "A Scrap of Paper."

CROWDED HOUSES STILL

At the age of 75, Sardou witnessed the production of his latest drama, "L'Affaire des Persones," at the Porte St. Martin Theatre. This play, which has to do with the infamous personage Camarilla, which existed under the reign of Louis XIV., and which was presented for the first time on Dec. 7 last, is still running to a cry. In the year 1857 M. Sardou was in a state of abject poverty and extreme distress. He was living in a garret and was prostrated by typhoid fever, but his neighbor, Mlle de Brecourt, nursed him with tender care during his illness, from which he slowly recovered. He married her the following year and was by her introduced to Mlle Deland, who had just established the theatre which was named after her.

But Dies France's Greatest and Most Prolific Contemporary Dramatist

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Victorien Sardou, who had been ill for a long time, died today from pulmonary congestion. He was the dean of French dramatists and a member of the French Academy. He married her the following year and was by her introduced to Mlle Deland, who had just established the theatre which was named after her.

His Earlier Pieces

M. Sardou's earlier pieces, after his first failure, were performed at this theatre. Nine years after his marriage he was in possession of a handsome fortune and European renown when a gloom was temporarily cast over his career by the death of his wife. "Monseigneur Garret" was one of the longest successes of the little theatre, and "Les Pres-Saint-Gervais" transferred into an opera-bouffe, was afterwards brought out at the Theatre des Varieties, and also in English translation at the Criterion Theatre in London. Almost every land knows the stage heroes and heroines born out of Sardou's resourceful mind. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has worn resplendent triumphs in roles he wrote for her, such as "Tosca," "Fedora," "Theodora" and "Gismonda." "Mme. Sans Gene" was written for Mme. Rejane, in which she portrayed the outspanned, good-hearted wife of Marshal de France. It was translated into English and Sir Henry Irving and Miss Terry were seen in it at the Lyceum. The great English actor also appeared in "Robespierre" and other products of the genius of the master Frenchman. M. Sardou realized a princely fortune by his writings and built a splendid chateau at Marly-le-Roy. His marriage on June 17, 1852, Mlle. Soulier, daughter of the conservator of the Museum of Versailles. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor in 1863 and was elected a member of the French Academy in 1877.

BOY KILLED IN THE WOODS BY A SHOT FROM RIFLE IN HANDS OF HIS FATHER

ST. ANDREWS, Nov. 9.—The town was plunged into mourning today by the tragic death in the woods at Elmville yesterday of Lester A. Rollins, the fourteen-year-old son of Douglas A. Rollins, blacksmith. With his parents he had driven to Henry Crear's to spend Thanksgiving day in the woods. Yesterday the lad expressed a desire to see the spot where his brother William had shot a moose a few weeks ago. The two started out, accompanied by Crear and John Irving. Rollins, the elder Rollins took his rifle along with no expectation of doing any shooting.

Father Stumbled
While going through a rough piece of woods the father stumbled and the rifle was discharged. The bullet entered the boy's side and emerged from the back of his head, causing instant death. Leaving the body in the woods in charge of Irving the two others walked back five miles to break the sad news to deceased's mother and to get a team to bring the body out.

The shock has nearly crazed both parents. The body reached St. Andrews at 4 o'clock this morning. The deceased was a remarkably bright and lovable lad. He won the Lieutenant-Governor's medal in the recent High School entrance examinations and the presentation was to have taken place in a few days. He was organist in the church and was greatly interested in school and Sunday school work. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

It is reported here tonight that a youth named Hall was fatally injured by his own gun in the woods near St. George.

ELOPED, CHASED BY EUROPE, ARE MARRIED

PARIS, Nov. 9.—While J. L. Morgan of Montreal, N. C. was awaiting the confinement for his runaway daughter, Fayette, and W. P. Craig, with whom the young woman eloped from Florence, Italy, about three weeks ago, the pair were married at Canterbury, England. The ceremony took place last Friday.

Mr. Morgan returned to America in ignorance of the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Craig are now in this city. Craig was employed as a broker's clerk in New Orleans, and on a recent visit to Montreal, N. C. fell in love with Miss Morgan, who is 17 years old. Mr. Morgan forbade the marriage, and the young man declared he would marry without Mr. Morgan's consent.

Morgan promptly sent his daughter, under the care of a chaperone, to attend an art school in Florence. Craig's efforts to outwit the father were rewarded by a bequest of $3,000, which enabled him to get to Europe as soon as did Miss Morgan. He found her in Florence, and they made a voyage attempt to be married on the continent.

Meantime Mr. Morgan got news of what had happened, called American agents throughout the continent to find the pair, and hastened to Europe.

MOUNT STEPHEN GIVES HIS PASTOR $73,300

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—St. Paul's church, the leading Presbyterian place of worship in the city, tonight celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the induction of Rev. Dr. Barclay as pastor and signalled the occasion by presenting the Doctor with $73,300 in gold. At least this was the original intention, but during the week there arrived from Lord Mount Stephen, for many years a leading member of the church, securities to the value of $73,300 which he asked should be added to the congregation's gift to Dr. Barclay as a testimonial of esteem to his old pastor.

Dr. Barclay enjoys the distinction of being the best paid clergyman in Canada, his salary being $7,000 per annum, the occupation of a costly manse, heat, light and the services of a man, together with other incidentals.

CHEATHAM, Nov. 8.—The death occurred this afternoon of Amos Parley, aged 83 years, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William Danery. Mr. Parley has been a widower for many years and was the last of his generation. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from Mr. Danery's residence. Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. David Johnston, which occurred at Funchal, Matão. Mrs. Johnston was a Miss Janet Flemming and resided in Chatham. The body will be brought on, arriving here Tuesday night and the funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon from James Mowatt's residence.

Rev. George Woods, pastor of St. Andrew's church, delivered a strong Scott Act sermon today. He went into the matter fully, taking up the number of drinks as compared with last year. He also compared the convictions during the same period and showed that while drunkenness had increased, there was a decrease in the convictions and the act was very poorly enforced. The speaker stated that there were very practically open bars in the town and that the council had done hardly anything to stop the traffic.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The prime minister, Herbert H. Asquith, was the principal speaker at the Guildhall banquet tonight, which marked the inauguration of the new Lord Mayor of London, Sir George Wyatt Truscott, and brought to a fitting close the celebration of the King's 74th birthday.

BOND APPEARS TO HAVE LOST IN THE FINALS

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 9.—Defeat now stares the Bond government in the face. Unless some of the opposition members elected to the Newfoundland legislature are unseated it now looks as if the battle cry with which Sir Edward Morris and the People's party went into the contest in the ancient colony, "Bond is done," has been fulfilled.

ALBERTA TO VOTE FOR A NEW HOUSE

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 9.—The Provincial Legislature of Alberta will be dissolved within the next few days and an election will be held in Alberta Dec. 15. Premier Rutford has at present 23 members of a possible 25. The government holds all seats except High River, where A. J. Robertson, Conservative, was elected and Rosebud, where C. D. Hebert sits for.

SCENES AND PERSONS ASSOCIATED WITH THE BALKANS CRISIS

DR. McALISTER IS WARMLY GREETED

Newly Elected Member for Kings-Albert Given Grand Reception at Riverside

LIBERAL ELECTED

HOPEWELL HILL, N. B., Nov. 5.—Dr. McAlister, the newly-elected representative of Kings-Albert, was given a grand reception at Riverside last evening, when a largely attended demonstration was held in honor of the recent magnificent Liberal victory. Such a large gathering had not been counted on and arrangements had only been made for the friends to meet in the very happy vein, his remarks being received with loud applause.

The Doctor said while he was not sympathizing with the Conservatives, he did not wish to gloat over his victory, though he felt proud of being elected to represent the big constituency of Kings-Albert. He realized, he said, the great responsibility that rested on his shoulders and he would earnestly endeavor to do his duty by those who placed him in the honorable and responsible position he now occupied. He looked on it as not his own but the people's victory and in the future he had a right to be judged by the way he served them in the home.

W. E. Read acted as chairman and there were a large number of ladies present. Before the meeting a bonfire was lighted on the hill at the rear of the village, where a large number gathered. Dr. McAlister, who was accompanied by his wife, was a guest while at Riverside of Dr. and Mrs. Carvath. The councillors' bye-election at Alma to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Councillor Shields was held yesterday and resulted in the election of Leonard Martin, merchant of Alma, who defeated Wm. Rommel by 23 votes, the votes standing 106 to 83. The result is a victory for the Liberals, a great effort, it is said, having been made by the Conservative party to elect Mr. Rommel. A number of prominent Conservative leaders were on the ground from early till late and it is said great influence was brought to bear but without avail. Alma parish seems to be pretty safely in the Liberal column.

HOPEWELL HILL, Nov. 6.—The young man Tilly of Hopewell Cape, who shot a cow mouse on the marsh there a few weeks ago, was fined $100 and costs by Stipendiary Magistrate yesterday. The young man said he had no idea the animal was a cow, the ears, it was claimed, giving in the distance the appearance of antlers. It is understood the young man had no license at the time, but secured one after the shooting. John Tucker, who lives in the neighborhood of the tall timber, near Memel, says there is a bear in there that is on altogether too familiar terms with the family. The other night brim came into the yard and licked up all the feed that had been left in a tub at the corner of the house for the pig, and Mr. Tucker thinks that that is going a little too far. He fired several shots at the bear but missed. Joseph Dobson is suffering from severe illness. Dr. Marven of Hillsboro was down today.

Russell Bros. are getting out a cut of 300,000 feet of lumber to be sawed at the Russell Brook.

DARING HOLDUP SATURDAY NIGHT ON CALAIS STREET

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Nov. 5.—A daring highway robbery was committed on one of the back streets in Calais late Saturday evening. Jed Kelly, a quiet inoffensive young man, conducts a small grocery store in that city at the corner of North and Garfield streets. He had closed his place of business and had crossed Garfield to Lafayette street on his way home. Here he met a young fellow named Fitzsimmons, who spoke as he passed and then instantly turned and struck Mr. Kelly a savage blow with an iron bar on the back of the head, an accomplice named Boone leaping from behind a fence as the man fell.

"VILLAINESS" WAS SLAIN BY ACCIDENT

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 5.—A special despatch from Hibbing, Minn., says that Ellen Geary, aged 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Geary, was shot and accidentally killed, this evening while rehearsing with other children in an amateur play. She was the "villainess" and Russell Barrett, aged 13, was the hero. While reciting the lines of the play, young Barrett aimed a gun, not supposed to be loaded, at the girl and pulled the trigger. The little one fell dead with a bullet in her head.

POSTMASTER OF NEW YORK SHOT BY INSANE MAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Edward M. Morgan, postmaster of New York city, who was wounded in the abdomen today by a bullet fired by E. H. B. Mackay, an eccentric English stenographer, who then committed suicide, was resting well tonight and unless complications develop he will recover. Mr. Morgan probably owes his life to the quick wit and bravery of his fourteen-year-old daughter, Dorothy, who saw Mackay draw his revolver and struck it with her hand. This deflected the bullet, otherwise the postmaster would have been fatally wounded, for his assailant was at close range and fired four shots in all. The shooting occurred at 14th street and only a short distance from Mr. Morgan's home. He was on his way down town at the time.

ANNUAL LABOR CONVENTION

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 5.—Beginning at ten o'clock tomorrow morning at the Auditorium, the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, it is predicted, will be the most important gathering of delegates to a convention of that body in its history. The foremost question to be discussed is endorsement of the political programme carried out by the executive committee during the recent political campaign, which has generally been referred to as Mr. Gompers' plan. Opponents of Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, are working together in an effort to prevent his re-election. They are charging him with "mercenary political activity."

A CRUEL INSINUATION

JUDGE GREGORY DENIES ATTACK ON LAW SCHOOL

FREDERICTON, Nov. 5.—Judge Gregory in an interview with the Sun correspondent denied absolutely that he had attacked the St. John Law School or said anything disparaging to it, as reported in Saturday night's Globe. He had no such intention as he says he was not known to express an opinion. What he did say, however, was that it was unfair by legislation to exempt the graduates from the examinations which other students were compelled to take.

PORT ELGIN NEWS

WILL DEVISE PLAN TO OBTAIN GRANT

The annual meeting of the Exhibition Association will be held in the offices, 23 King street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. President A. O. Skinner will be in the chair. The report of the last exhibition will be presented; it will show a slight loss, although the prize-lets and other expenditures were greatly increased.

In all probability the meeting will discuss the best plan to pursue in an effort to secure for St. John the Dominion exhibition of 1909.

IN SIGHT OF PORT, BLOWN 450 MILES

Further Details of Wreck of Spear

Crew Finally Picked Up in Mid-ocean by a Steamer

Further details of the wreck of the schooner R. D. Spear, well known here, have been received. The schooner sailed from Philadelphia on Oct. 20, bound for Calais with a cargo of coal. She did not leave Delaware Breakwater until the 27th, because of heavy weather, and after getting to sea was lambasted by northeast gales. She crawled on up the coast, however, until she was only a short distance from Sandy Hook, when she sprang a leak last Friday and the crew had a hard time working the pumps, as she was deep with the coal and the waves swept over her.

There was five feet of water in the hold on Tuesday, and the main deck was almost awash when the smoke of a steamer was made out to the southeast.

She quickly sighted the sinking schooner, for she bore down and was soon within 500 yards. As the steamer drew near Captain Relyea and his men made preparations to leave the schooner, although a heavy sea was running. They finally cut away the yawl astern and after a perilous time reached the liner's side.

Captain Relyea figured his vessel had been blown 450 miles to sea when she was abandoned.

The schooner was built at Bowdoinham, Maine, and hailed from Eastport. She was twenty-five years old and was of 297 net tons.

HE MIGHT BREAK THEM

Lady Aylesford has had her pet dog fitted with gold rimmed glasses. She explains when her friends smile that the poor doggie's eyesight has become so defective that she had to take him to her oculist. This pup would not show up very well in a dog fight, but it might be interesting to see him wipe his glasses on the grass after entertaining a bone.

CAPTAIN AND CREW CAST AWAY ON A BARREN ISLAND AT NIGHT

After passing through an experience such as few men have, Captain George Gale, of 150 Victoria street, and the crew of the schooner Ida May wrecked on a ledge six miles from Turner's Island, Maine, arrived home last evening on the New Brunswick Southern train from St. Stephen. Capt. Gale was seen at his home last night by a Sun reporter and gave a story of the wreck and the experiences of himself and crew.

The Ida May was practically a new vessel, having lately been refitted, and was bound for St. John with a cargo of coal for George Dick. When Capt. Gale went aboard about seven o'clock Thursday night, the vessel was on her proper course and a nine-knot breeze blowing. About 9 o'clock he went on deck again, he was surprised to find the course of the vessel had been altered and that she was then among breakers. After the vessel struck the captain, seeing that she was liable to go to any moment, decided to take to the boats. After great difficulty the boat was launched and then without food or water the crew started out on their six mile row to Turner's Island against a northeast gale, which places they reached just as the crew were about exhausted. Here they remained until Friday morning exposed to the elements, not having even a roof to cover themselves, as the island is perfectly barren.

On Friday morning a fishing vessel hove in sight and in answer to their signals of distress sent a boat to take them off. The fishing boat then headed for Jonesport, Me., to land them. Meeting a vessel coming out of Jonesport, Capt. Gale requested that he be transferred to her in order to visit the wreck. This was done and Capt. Gale found his ship breaking up rapidly, and in 24 hours was not a trace of her remained. During the stay of the crew on Turner's Island the life-savers had boarded the ship and finding the crew and boats gone, came to the conclusion that all hands must have been lost.

Capt. Gale and his men are none the worse for their experience, but it is one that they hope never to repeat. The Ida May was built at Waterborough, Queens Co., in 1900, and was owned by Capt. Gale and others.

AUSTRALIA'S PLANS FOR FUTURE DEFENCE

(Victoria Colonist.) Our Sydney correspondent sends us on Wednesday an interesting account of the Defence Bill just introduced in the Commonwealth Parliament by Mr. Ewing, the Minister of Defence. It shows that the Australian people have not failed to note the changes that are going on in the world around them, and entitles them to enhanced respect, not only from the Empire, in which they are the first community to grapple seriously with the duty of military training upon a national scale, but also from the world at large. The remoteness that may once have been regarded as a sufficient defence has been practically abolished by modern science. Distant nations, once negligible quantities from the Australian standpoint, can no longer be regarded in that light. Population that once had room enough and to spare in their own countries are now seeking outlets Australians have awakened to the fact that the vast unsettled areas of their island continent may offer irresistible temptations to peoples experiencing an imperious need for expansion. Their own population furnishes at the best but an exiguous garnish for so immense a territory, and they perceive that, if they desire to retain secure and permanent possession, they must hold it as a state organized for peace or war, not as a collection of irresponsible units pursuing their individual aims. Mr. Ewing's bill gives expression to the conviction that has been slowly forcing itself upon the minds of thoughtful Australians, that the time has come when they must be prepared to defend. It is significant that Mr. Ewing could lay this down as a prelate which it was not necessary to prove. That alone indicates a great development of opinion in recent years. Starting from this point Mr. Ewing tersely stated that the unanswerable argument that it is the duty of every man to take part in a work of a national necessity, and the duty of the government to see that he performs that duty. Furthermore it is the duty of the government to see that the training given shall be such as to fit for the work which, in certain eventualities, they would be called upon to do. That is the logical basis of the Bill, which ordains compulsory training, beginning at the age of sixteen with one hour a week and four days yearly. Youths of eighteen will for three years undergo a training of eighteen clear days yearly, and for five years longer an annual training of seven clear days. There are various subsidiary provisions, but the essence of the measure lies in training the whole male population, and in beginning the training at an age when mind and body are alike plastic.

It seems to be fairly certain that the Bill will pass. It responds to a widespread conviction of the peril incurred by a comparatively small commonwealth holding an immense and coveted territory, yet destitute of any adequate defensive organization. It also appeals to those who cherish the Federal ideal which means that it is not merely approved in theory, but is one of the objects of the party's immediate endeavours. The Labor party in Australia is entirely free from the curious and unaccountable prejudices of labor leaders in this country against participation in the elementary duty of citizenship. Of course, there will be objectors. The foolish cry of conscription has already been raised although, as Mr. Ewing remarked, there is all the difference in the world between taking men from their homes for months or years of life in barracks, and making them undergo a few weeks' work in the open air, which is good for themselves and beneficial to the country.

Here at home we may note the same confusion between compulsory training and compulsory service. The two things are not only different, but in a sense antagonistic, yet it seems impossible for some people to separate them in thought. Compulsory training is the best safeguard against compulsory service. For the compulsion to serve, that is to fight or be subjugated and plundered, comes from without, and the absence of training is the strongest temptation that can be offered to other nations to exercise that compulsion. In enacting compulsory training in the use of arms, the Australians are making no constitutional innovation, nor should we make any were we to follow their example. They and we already compel the whole population to be trained in certain ways, though it is getting to be recognized that we have not been very wise in our distinction of subjects and methods. If boys may be compelled for many hours every day to learn things which are not very interesting, nor always very useful, it is certain that we can be compelled to compel them for an hour or two a week to square their chests and to erect their heads. If at a later period we compel people in one way or another to contribute money for the defence of the state, we cannot be exceeding our powers if we ask them to give, in the form of a healthful exercise, a portion of the time in which the money is earned, or perhaps spent. Australia, at any rate, are shaking off the prejudice against extension of compulsion beyond the curriculum of the Board school. They are taking a broader, and we venture to say a saner, view of the powers and duties of the state, as well as of the duties and responsibilities of the individual citizen.

They will reap an ample reward, of which the sense of national security is only a part. They may never have to fight. The better trained they are for fighting, the smaller is the risk that any one will attack them. Even apart from that, they are adopting an invaluable instrument of national education. The Federal idea—the sense of citizenship in a great Commonwealth—which has been something to go on in the framing of the measure under discussion, will be greatly reinforced by its operation. The youths who undergo their annual training will be instinctively taught to look beyond their local surroundings, and to think of themselves as working for the Australian Commonwealth. People believe in what they work for, and indeed it may be doubted whether there by any other way of reaching vital belief. Make people from their early years actually do something for the state, and then you will have a public spirit in the community such as can never be obtained by merely preaching the duty of patriotism. This measure, properly administered, will prove potent to evoke and organize Australian patriotism, as distinguished from the self-assertion of Victoria or Queensland or New South Wales. Town dwellers in Australia do not suffer the squalid privations that are too often found in older countries, but they will be greatly benefited physically and morally by compulsory training. If it did nothing more than teach men to cease from slouching, to carry themselves erect, to move with precision, to act in unison with others, to understand the value of discipline, and to think regimentally, the system would be fully justified as an agent of national education. Even conscription is forgiven in countries that suffer it for the sake of its indirect physical and moral benefits. But the fundamental moralities of the drill-ground can be taught by a state that knows its duties without any approach to conscription.

GERMAN ANGER AT KAISER MAY BRING REVOLUTION

Von Buelow Says William Will be Careful in Future

Parliament Bitterly Represents Imperial Recklessness and Folly

May be Beginning of Strife Between Crown and Parliament

Kaiser's Tactless Talk Wrought With World Consequences

PRINCE VON BUELOW

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Emperor William has been so severely judged by his parliament as he was today during the debate in the Reichstag on the interpellations concerning the conversations published with the permission of the Emperor in the London Daily Telegraph on Oct. 28. The criticisms of his majesty's court, his Ministers and his majesty's treatment of the constitution, as well as of his freedom of speech, went to lengths that astonished observers acquainted with the traditional caution of the chamber in dealing with the personality of the sovereign. And the Emperor seemed to have no defenders.

Chancellor Von Buelow made an address lasting fifteen minutes, but he lacked his usual spirit and a personal high in his confidence in authority for the statement that he told the Emperor that neither himself nor his successors could remain in office unless his majesty was more reserved. Prince Von Buelow spoke solemnly, and without making use of any dramatic effects. The house received his explanation in icy silence, instead of giving the cordial applause which a general trial, follows the chancellor's fine parliamentary declarations.

The Conservatives, representing largely the landed aristocracy, were almost as relentless as the Socialists, the Radicals and the National-Liberals, and today's proceedings are regarded by the extreme left as the beginning of a long contest between the crown and parliament, that may end in Germany having a ministry responsible to parliament and not to the crown alone.

When Herr Bassermann, the National-Liberal leader, a friend of Chancellor Von Buelow's, and a specialist in foreign affairs, began his denunciation of the incident there was hardly a vacant seat on the members' benches, while the galleries were brilliant with the faces of the Emperor's subjects.

Herr Bassermann was followed by Herr Weimer, Radical, and he in turn gave way to Herr Singer, Socialist, who declared that if any other servant of the state had done such a thing as had Emperor William he would be brought before an imperial court for trial.

Prince Von Buelow spoke earnestly in reply to the critics of the government and his address was devoid of gesture. He said: "I must weigh my words because of the effect they will have abroad. I do not wish to add fresh prejudice to the damage already caused by the publication in the Daily Telegraph. It is not my duty to add to the confusion that the story of a detailed plan of campaign to end the Boer war is not right."

"This plan consisted merely of some academic ideas concerning the conduct of war in general, which the emperor conveyed to Queen Victoria in the course of the correspondence and it was without practical significance for the operations then going on or for the end of the war."

"We must defend our policy during the Boer war against accusation and equivocation. We gave timely warning to the Boers that they would be alone against England and that there was no doubt regarding the result."

"The facts with reference to the question of intervention long have been public property, and whether the communication of these to Queen Victoria constituted a violation of diplomatic rules depends on circumstances known to the public."

"Concerning the statement attributed to Emperor William that a majority of the German people is hostile to Great Britain the expressions used by the Telegraph are too strong. Serious and regrettable misunderstandings have existed between Great Britain and Germany, but the German people desire peaceful and friendly relations with that empire, joined with mutual respect."

"Too great stress also is laid upon the point in the interview dealing with the interest in the Pacific Ocean which is incorrectly presented as interest to Japan. We never thought of obtaining a portion of the Pacific arising from economic development and we have no idea of undertaking a maritime adventure there. The extension of the German fleet is just as little intended for aggression in the Pacific as in Europe. The task in Germany's policy is not to limit the development of Japan.

"For twenty years the emperor has striven to improve the relations with Great Britain, often under difficult circumstances. The peoples of both countries occasionally have attacked each other without real justification and the emperor considered this a misfortune for both and a danger to the civilized world. The emperor's scientific thoughts, purposes and efforts, often, without reason, have caused doubts to arise. We wish to avoid anything like the currying of favor abroad or anything appearing to favor our insecurity or the running after anyone, but I quite understand the emperor feeling aggrieved when attacked because of his zealous and honest efforts to bring about good relations with Great Britain. Some have gone so far as to imply secret designs against Great Britain in connection with the fleet, but these implications are entirely false.

"The recognition by his majesty of the unjustifiable misunderstanding of his utterances with reference to Great Britain and the excitement and regret aroused by it, am convinced, lead the Emperor in future private conversations to exercise that care which in the interest of uniform policy and the authority of the crown are indispensable. If this gave not to be so, neither I nor any one of my successors could take the responsibility. I accepted the blame for the publication of the article in the Daily Telegraph and offered my resignation and it was the most difficult task in my political life to resolve to remain in office. How long I will continue to do so, I do not know, but I consider it my duty at this difficult period to continue to serve the Emperor and the nation."

GAVE GREGORY $500 PER YEAR COMMITTED ON LABEL CHARGE

Dave's Evidence Feature of Marine Inquiry Yesterday

Man Who Circulated Calgary "Eye Opener" Sent up for Trial

QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—The feature of the marine department inquiry this morning was the evidence of A. Davie, of the shipping and wrecking firm of Davie & Sons, that for the last seven years he had been in the habit of presenting J. U. Gregory, a Quebec agent of the department, with an average of $500 per year. These payments did not appear on the books of the firm, and his brothers did not know anything about these payments. They were not paid as commissions or in return for loans, and he never expected them to be returned. He denied that they were paid in the hope of obtaining further orders, but admitted that he would not have paid them if he had not received work from the department. He claimed that they had never charged the government more than anybody else.

Capt. McGough, of the government steamer Champlain, admitted having received presents from Davie. Late in December, at Christmas time, $25 had been sent him in an envelope of the firm without any accompanying explanation. He had received $50 the year before and twelve months before that $100. He kept these presents as were such as he had received in all parts of the world as a ship captain when accounts were paid. It was a regular habit in the old country.

Bail Denied to Morse

Case Not Extraditable and Morse Might Skip Out

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Bail was denied Charles W. Morse, the financier, who has been sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor at the closing of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today, and it now seems certain that the former millionaire must remain in the Tombs prison at least until December 3, when argument on the writ of error that has been granted him, may be argued.

Judge Lacombe, Ward and Cox of the United States Court of Appeals rendered the decision late today by which bail was denied him. One loophole is left open to Morse's counsel in the decision, and that is that the judges decided that while bail was denied it was done so "without prejudice to a renewal of the application after a bill of particulars is filed."

Judge Hough gave as his reason for refusing to admit Morse to bail the fact that the case was not an extraditable one and it would be easy for Morse to furnish bail through a bonding company as the prisoner was worth $2,000,000. Morse, in an affidavit presented to the judges of the United States Court of Appeals yesterday, denied that he was a millionaire, saying that he had not enough money or securities to meet his obligations.

MRS. GEORGE MOORE.
The many friends of Mrs. George Moore of Fairville will regret to learn of her death, which occurred at her home on the Manawagonish road Sunday morning. She was 68 years of age, and was the wife of the late George Moore, a family of five sons and three daughters. The sons are George, West, John, Thomas, of this city; James and William, in Boston, and Frederick at New York. The daughters are Mrs. B. Wright, Mrs. J. McMaster and Mrs. Godsoe, all living on the Manawagonish road. The deceased lady had a kind and genial disposition, and to know her was to love her.

PHARMACIST
Tells Facts About Caffeine in Coffee
"About twelve years ago I stopped coffee," writes a Colo. man, "and began Postum. At first I was skeptical, but being a confirmed dyspeptic as I was for many years, I enjoy good health and the digestion."
"I formerly weighed 115 lbs., now 140. My waist measure was 28, now 38 inches. Not only this, but I enjoy Postum and my meals, while for years eating was an annoyance and often a torture."
"Like an old whiskey tinker I always thought I had to have my coffee and then always felt its ill effects in my stomach and on my nerves."
"Now I have so completely lost my taste for coffee, that recently, when a cup was given me by mistake and I tasted it, I found it nauseated me. On the other hand, I not only like the healthful effect of Postum, but the taste is peculiarly agreeable to me."
"I have tried other cereal drinks but always come back to Postum. Realizing as I do the soft effects from the poisonous alkaloid in coffee, and being a Postum Pioneer, I am a very successful missionary."
"One man, a school superintendent, from my recommendation, has had quite as happy an experience with Postum as I have had. My wife has also found great benefit from Postum, as coffee was the only thing which disagreed with her stomach at table."
"Being a graduate in pharmacy I know the alkaloid-caffeine-in coffee is a poisonous drug. As there is no drug in Postum I naturally drink it and recommend it to others." "There's a Reason."

CHATHAM SCHOOLS CLOSED BY BOARD

Decisive Measures Taken to Cope With Scarlet Fever Epidemic

QUARANTINED HOUSES

CHATHAM, Nov. 10.—The Board of Health took the decisive measure today to cope with the scarlet fever epidemic. At eleven o'clock the public and convent schools were closed and the 500 scholars who had kept up their attendance will be given two weeks' holidays. Measures will also be taken to keep quarantined houses under guard and to allow no inmates to mix with other people. The free public library, amusement halls and all places of public gatherings except churches will be under the ban.

It was reported that new cases of fever were discovered yesterday, but Chairman Strang of the Board of Health says this is not so. He only knew of one new case. The board closed the schools at the request of the school trustees.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States, witnessed an example of the zeal of New York City bicycle policemen in checking speeding automobiles tonight, when a motor car in which he and a member of his staff were riding was pursued for more than thirty blocks down Broadway and overtaken when it stopped at the Manhattan Hotel, where the Minister was to be a guest at a banquet. The bluecoat was greatly astonished to see two distinguished Celestials step from the cab of the motor car, but was more so a moment later when Secret Service Agent Baldwin made known the identity of the Chinese Minister to him.

VISIONS OF INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS flashed before the bicycle policeman, whose name was Lemmon, but he already had declared the chauffeur under arrest for violating the speed laws, and he said there was no other course left open to him but to take the alleged offender to the night court. Mr. Wu Ting Fang and Mr. Ho, his companion in the automobile ride, walked quickly into the hotel when they saw that the secret service men had taken charge of the case. According to the policeman, twenty-five miles was the average speed, although at times faster time was made.

Broadway was pretty well congested with automobiles and carriages carrying theatre crowds at the time and the machine conveying the Chinese diplomat, dodged in and out, many times narrowly escaping collision.

Government Sets Date at Meeting Here Yesterday

Ernest Hutchinson Government Candidate in Northumberland

Convention Will be Called to Name Carleton Candidate

Members of Government to Visit Gloucester Mines

Meetings of the provincial government were held yesterday afternoon and evening in the government rooms on Church street. Their time was chiefly occupied with routine business of the usual nature.

One of the chief matters discussed was the date for the coming by-elections in Northumberland and Carleton counties. November 24th was fixed as nomination day and the elections will be held on December 1st.

Ernest Hutchinson will be the government candidate in Northumberland. A convention will be held in Carleton county in a few days to select the Conservative candidate in that constituency.

A committee composed of Surveyor General Grimmer, Chief Commissioner Morrissey and Robert Maxwell was appointed to visit the iron mines on the Nepequin River which were recently taken over by the Dominion.

W. A. Quinton's term as steward of the Provincial Hospital for Nervous Diseases will expire on Saturday and arrangements were made for Dr. Anglin taking over his duties as arranged some months ago.

CAPT. HAINS MENACES COUNSEL IN HIS CELL

Mistakes Umbrella in Gloom for Revolver and Tries to Get It

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., gave John F. McIntyre, his counsel, a genuine scare yesterday in the captain's cell in the county jail at Long Island City.

McIntyre, with Gen. Hains, the prisoner's father, and Major Hains, his brother, spent two hours with the captain in the corridor outside his cell trying to get from him a coherent recital of the events leading up to the shooting of William E. Annis. Capt. Hains seemed dazed. Not an intelligible word could his counsel draw from him.

At 5 o'clock Mr. McIntyre gave it up and started into the captain's cell to get his overcoat and umbrella. The cell was dark save for a faint ray that came from an electric light in the corridor. As Mr. McIntyre groped about a shadow appeared behind him. He turned to see Capt. Hains stealing stealthily into the cell.

The captain silently closed the door behind him and in a menacing attitude advanced towards his lawyer. Mr. McIntyre felt a creepy sensation as the captain eyed him. Capt. Hains saw the curved handle of the umbrella. In the uncertain light it took on the appearance of the handle of a revolver.

Crouching, the captain reached for the supposed weapon, the while keeping his eyes riveted upon the uncomfortable Mr. McIntyre. He had the umbrella handle in his grasp when McIntyre called to Thornton Hains: "Come here, Thornton, Peter wants to see you."

The huge-framed Thornton stepped to the cell, took the situation at a glance and, opening the door, tepped his brother upon the shoulder. Capt. Hains turned, dropped the umbrella, and was led away.

"Though I sought and really needed pity, I got very little, for I did not sleep so very sick. It was only my nerves that were weak, and anyone who writes Mrs. Wensley of Halifax, 'I lost myself in a sort of self pity because health seemed so shattered, and with the mental distress that grew with my bodily weakness, I was a burden to myself and a greater burden to my family.'"

"From the first Ferreroze strengthened my nerves, and it seemed to help them, for I became stronger, more composed, slept more and grew more hopeful. When I had taken Ferreroze for about two months I lost that miserable sense of dread. I never could tell what I was afraid of, but expected something dreadful was going to happen to me. Ferreroze gave me the strength to throw aside all these fancies and made me well again."

Ferreroze will keep you there—will show you what it means to be healthy, vigorous, full of nerve energy. Once you're braced up and energized with Ferreroze you'll never again be content with ill-health.

All dealers sell Ferreroze, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Nov. 10.—Death Valley and the surrounding country are in the throes of a series of earthquakes which began three weeks ago and the most violent of which occurred last Wednesday morning before daylight. Samuel Lawrence, who has reached here, says that for three weeks there have been one or two rumble daily. The shocks were light until Wednesday when the crags of the Federal Range seemed to totter. Miners were tossed from the benches, camp equipment was scattered about, horses and mules stamped and immense boulders were thrown down. At daybreak the miners left the camp in consternation.

VISIONS OF INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS flashed before the bicycle policeman, whose name was Lemmon, but he already had declared the chauffeur under arrest for violating the speed laws, and he said there was no other course left open to him but to take the alleged offender to the night court. VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass, Nov 6—Barge Nanticoke, in tow of tug Buc- caneer, while coming to anchor in the harbor, fouled the stern of bark Alice, damaging the latter's stem, cut- ting her to leak somewhat. After clear- ing the Alice she fouled bark Edith, which anchored, and damaged the lat- ter barge's stem. The Nanticoke was slightly damaged.

Card of Thanks—Captain Thornbom and crew of schs Arville H Peary, of St. John, in expressing their thanks for life saving services of Falls Cove and Wash Woods, NC, for their brave rescue from their stranded vessel, which went ashore in that vicinity Oct 31, and for kind treatment at the station afterward.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that an- nounce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throbb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent heaving, with flush- ings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in restoring the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is beyond all question, mar- vellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. All dealers in all countries. Mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Brownlee Island, and is full of water; crew missing.

KEY WEST, Nov 6—Sch William R Wilson, Mohr, from Baltimore Oct 21 for Port Tampa, stranded Nov 5 on Marquesas Bank, jettisoned about 180 tons of cargo, got off without assist- ance, and proceeded for destination.

NEW LONDON, Ct., Nov 6—Tug Resolute and Chas J Sanford, with tow, bound east, are reported ashore off Westbrook, near Duck Island light; very heavy sea and strong wind.

BARGE No 3, owned by the Peoples Brothers of Philadelphia, collided with the ferryboat Gen Hancock this morn- ing during heavy fog, and had her stove in and deck lifted; she filled and sank in the mud at Chelsea.

BALTIMORE, Nov 6—Str Brighton, before reported towed into Port An- tonio with shaft broken, has been taken to Kingston, where she will be hauled out on the ways and repaired.

The Brighton carries an auxiliary shaft and it is thought her delay will be short.

GIBRALTAR, Oct 24—Sch Minnie F Cochrane, from London, and str in- bay on her beam ends. Tenders have been invited for righting and pumping her dry.

HALIFAX, Nov 9—Bark Pietro Ac- camo, Costa, from Montevideo July 16 via Delaware Breakwater Oct 15 for Boston, has arrived here with loss of sails and leaking.

COURT HEARS GUIDE'S STORY

Braithwaite Admits Violations

HIS EXPLANATION

Stanton Fired at Object Sup- posing it to be a Bear

CHATHAM, N. B., Nov. 11.—The bad features of the new policy adopted by the Haazen government in issuing licenses prior to Sept. 15 for shooting moose, caribou and deer in this province were well brought out by R. A. Lawlor in the Braithwaite case. It is against the law for parties to go to the woods before the open season commences. The Stanton party referred to in the trial had got a special license to go to the hunting grounds on Sept. 1 with their guns. The temptation thus put in the way of hunters and guides to clip the few days or weeks off the prohibited season was amply shown.

All Out of Season

Of game secured by this party of four sportsmen and four guides all was shot out of season. According to the evidence of the hunters they were established out to shoot bears, but when other game came their way they could not resist the chance to bag it and run the risk of being discovered. How little this risk would be in ninety nine cases out of one hundred can be clearly seen when the Braithwaite case is considered. All the guides who are sworn to prevent and report violations know that the law is being broken, but not one made any report and in all likelihood these cases would never have seen the light of day if some one like Arthur Robinson had not made it his special work to do the facts. Only because Braithwaite had antagonized Mr. Robinson was the inquiry set on foot with results now known to the public. There is food in it for reflection as to the wisdom of the Haazen government's new departure.

"If ever there was a camp in which the game laws have been openly and wantonly violated it was the Braithwaite camp and he himself is sworn to put down all violations, admits that as far as he knows all the game that came out of his camp with the Stanton party was illegally shot."

On Sept. 12 while Stanton, Williams, Duncair and Braithwaite were at North Pole Stream, Williams and Duncair returned together to Gover Lake camp. On the night of the 14th witness returned to the camp and on the 15th Williams game, and when asked by Mr. Lawlor, "Then all the game the party got was shot illegally?" Mr. Braithwaite answered: "I suppose so."

REVERED JUDGMENT.

Magistrate Connors reserved judgment until Wednesday, Nov. 18th.

The first witness called in the morning was Lorenz Munn, who said he saw game in the camp on Sept. 14th or 15th. It was in little pieces and looked like deer or caribou meat. Stanton called it bear meat.

Mr. Gregory, witness stated he had never seen the meat cut up, but judging from the length of the leg it could not be bear meat.

Allen McKell was then called. Previous to taking the stand the magistrate who was going to pay him for the time he had lost since being summoned for this trial and seemed about to refuse giving evidence.

The magistrate informed him that such loss was unfortunate, but could not be helped. He intimated that if witness proved stubborn, sterner measures would have to be adopted and the latter at once began his evidence. He saw fresh meat in the camp on the 8th or 10th, but he could not tell what kind of meat it was. On Sept. 15 about 11 o'clock, Braithwaite told him to go with Mitchell Lake and Duncan to go with him. They were to dress and bring out a moose head, and Duncan was to show him where it was. Either Braithwaite or Duncan told him it was Williams, who had been out on the 14th and Duncan had been with him. Braithwaite had seen away also and returned that evening. He was certain none of the party had been out on the 15th before Braithwaite told him to get the moose head. All the sports were in camp at the time. McKell said when they got to the spot they got the head, but the carcass had been removed.

CASE FINISHED.

The prosecution then announced its case was finished, and after some deliberation between Braithwaite and attorneys Mr. Gregory announced their client would take the stand and make a statement.

In reply to Mr. Gregory's question Mr. Braithwaite said he saw no game shot out of season, nor was he present when any was shot. He was not a consulting party to any illegal shoot-

DEATH REMOVES GREAT SOCIAL LEADER

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR FROM A PAINTING BY CARLOS DURAN

Mrs. Astor, who died in New York a week ago, was for years the recognized leader of the most exclusive social set on this side of the Atlantic.

She was the widow of William Astor, who died in Paris in 1892, who was a son of William Backhouse Astor and a grandson of the original John Jacob Astor, the founder of the Astor family and fortune in this country.

She was formerly Caroline Webster Schermerhorn, a daughter of Abraham Schermerhorn, a wealthy merchant of New York, and a granddaughter of Henry White, whose wife was Ann Van Cortlandt.

She was born in New York City and most of her life has been passed there. Her ancestors were of the old Dutch settlers on Manhattan Island, and probably the first known member of her family there was Jacob James Schermerhorn, who came there in 1638.

ing, and several times mentioned that the laws were not to be violated. He had reason to believe that that had been game shot out of season. On Sept. 9 he and Mr. Stanton went out looking for bears. Before they reached their destination he stopped and Mr. Stanton had got about four hundred yards ahead when he (Braithwaite) heard a shot. He hurried on, and when he got near Stanton the latter said: "I have done it now." Witness said: "Done, what?" Stanton said: "I fired at something in the bushes I thought was a bear and it turned out to be a small caribou. What shall we do with it?" Stanton said: "Leave it here." Witness said: "No, that would make bad matters worse." Witness then dressed and carried the small caribou to camp. That was what Stanton called bear meat.

On Sept. 12 while Stanton, Williams, Duncair and Braithwaite were at North Pole Stream, Williams and Duncair returned together to Gover Lake camp. On the night of the 14th witness returned to the camp and on the 15th Williams game, and when asked by Mr. Lawlor, "Then all the game the party got was shot illegally?" Mr. Braithwaite answered: "I suppose so."

Cross-examined by Mr. Lawlor, Braithwaite said he had been a guide for fifty years. Duncan, he claimed, was an invited guest and only did work because of his good will. It was about 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning of the 15th that Williams asked him to go with Mitchell Lake and Duncan to go with him. They were to dress and bring out a moose head, and Duncan was to show him where it was. Either Braithwaite or Duncan told him it was Williams, who had been out on the 14th and Duncan had been with him. Braithwaite had seen away also and returned that evening. He was certain none of the party had been out on the 15th before Braithwaite told him to get the moose head. All the sports were in camp at the time. McKell said when they got to the spot they got the head, but the carcass had been removed.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 10.—The marriage of Miss Jessie H. Gelke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Gelke of Doucetville, and Allen J. Nordin was solemnized on the 9th inst. in Chatham by Rev. J. Morris MacLean. After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Nordin drove to Doucetville, where a reception was held for them at the bride's parents'. The bride received many handsome and useful gifts.

Rev. W. Nichols of Medicine Hat, Alberta, has taken charge of the Episcopal church here.

Ernest Hutchinson of Douglstown, the well known lumberman and millman, will be the local government candidate at the next by-election, to elect a member to succeed Hon. D. Morrison, resigned.

PROVINCIAL NEWS

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 11.—That there exists in Gloucester a literal mountain of iron ore deposit, extending eighty feet in the air at least four hundred feet beneath the surface, in what quantities, is the report brought back to Moncton with him a few days ago by W. J. Fride, who has been visiting the iron deposits which were recently acquired by the Drummond Co. The Moncton visitor brought back to Moncton with him a few pieces of the ore which are exceedingly rich and heavy. He says that at the present time there are some thirty men at work at the mine, which is about twenty miles from Bathurst. Several buildings are being erected and these are of a most substantial character with stone foundations. The ore will be hauled to Red Pine, a distance of twenty miles from the woodsstock and shipped.

SUSSEX, N. B., Nov. 11.—This town continues to have its large number of Dominion exhibition grant for next year. The only contest was for secretary, C. M. Aughterton being nominated by J. R. Brown in opposition to C. L. Smith, who has acted for several years. Smith was elected by four votes. It was unanimously voted to appoint a committee to wait on F. B. Carvell, M. P., and have him put in an application for the $30,000 Dominion exhibition grant for next year, the idea being if the grant is secured to erect fine exhibition buildings on Rogers' Island.

PETTLEY TELLS GROTESQUE TALE

Row Which Led Up to Stabbing MacKAY HAD LIQUOR Refused to Give Any to Italians—Preliminary Still On

MINTO, Nov. 11.—The preliminary hearing of John Pettley, the Italian charged with the murder of John MacKay at Minto on Sunday, Nov. 1, started here yesterday and attracted much interest.

The evidence of John Pettley, who was also stabbed by Endine, was first taken. It went to show how Pettley had been connected with the affair and how he had been stabbed by the prisoner. It failed to throw much light on the stabbing of MacKay.

Dr. H. B. Hay followed Pettley and gave practically the same evidence as in the previous trial week.

Yesterday's session opened at 2 o'clock before Justice Halifax. H. B. Hay appeared in the interests of Angelo Cordin, who was detained as a witness, and was also suspected of taking some part in the stabbing. J. H. Mackay appeared for the prisoner, and A. B. Wilmot, clerk of the peace, represented the crown.

Through the efforts of Mr. Fickett, Cordin was released.

Sheriff Holden of Sunbury county brought forward some witnesses to the prisoner while he was in jail. The charge of murder, as made out by Constable Upton, was read by Justice Halifax.

The court then adjourned and proceeded to the home of Pettley to secure his evidence. The latter has greatly improved, but was unable to attend court.

Pettley in his evidence stated that he had been acquainted with the deceased, John MacKay, and was with him on Sunday, the night of the tragedy. He met MacKay at 2 o'clock and went with him to the home of Angelo Cordin and had tea there. They had met Saballo Giglio at Cordin's.

He found about fifteen stab wounds on his body and after treating MacKay went over and assisted with Pettley. He succeeded in getting two stab wounds in the abdomen and one in the chest, all of a very serious nature, and caused by some sharp instrument. MacKay was bleeding very freely. On examination of the abdomen wound he found a green fluid escaping and at once concluded the case was serious and perhaps fatal. He told MacKay of his condition and asked him to look to his own power than doctors. The doctor stated that he was all in. The death of the witness made an examination of the wounds in the presence of the coroner, Jure and passed a groove director near the wounds and found that a sharp instrument had penetrated the intestines and caused death. The witness was not cross-examined.

The court then adjourned for supper and resumed again at 7.30 p. m.

John Devine, to whom it was alleged a confession was made, was the first and principal witness. He said he lived at Minto and was a miner by trade. On Sunday, Nov. 1, he was at his home and the proprietress, Mrs. Fleeman, called him "to see poor John," meaning the prisoner. He went down stairs and met Endine, the latter having a gun in his hand.

The gun was produced in court with two cartridges and identified by the witness.

Continuing, Devine stated that the prisoner had given the guns and cartridges to him, saying that they were "a friend for him." Witness asked him what was the matter. The prisoner replied that he had trouble in his house. In reply to further questions from the witness the prisoner stated that he had trouble with John MacKay and John Pettley and stated that he had stabbed them and MacKay might die for he had given him a lot of wounds. He had given MacKay three or four stabs. Cordin was not in the trouble, but he came and got a blow in the eye and turned back.

The witness further stated that Endine had told him that MacKay and Pettley had some whiskey and had given a drink to the Austrian woman and also to Cordin. Pettley said he could not give a drink to the rest of the boys as the liquor belonged to John MacKay. MacKay himself then spoke and said he had no drink for an Italian and used the expression, "Go to h—"

He then struck at the Italian, but the latter stabbed him again. He continued hitting and kicking the prisoner in order to keep him away. The witness, feeling weary, thought it time that he was leaving the place. He tried to work his way toward the door as best he could. Upon gaining the door he found Saballo Giglio standing with his hand against the facing, the door being wide open. Thinking he was in the road witness struck him and Giglio immediately fled. Witness followed with a knife and left MacKay and prisoner in the house alone.

HEARD A MAN FALLING.

The witness thought he saw a stick lying on the ground and thought it would be a good thing to go back and get MacKay out with. He then heard a noise in the house that sounded like stamping upon the floor. He heard something that sounded like a man falling and uttering a groan. He then ran to Mrs. Pook's house, it being the next place. The house in which the stabbing took place is situated in Sunbury county.

This closed Pettley's evidence and the cross-examination by the counsel failed to reveal anything new. Mr. Hearst asked confirmation of a few of the statements made.

After hearing Pettley's evidence the court then adjourned to Kennedy's Hotel, where the proceedings were returned and Dr. H. B. Hay who appeared was the first witness called.

Dr. Hay stated he was a practicing physician of Chipman and remembered on Sunday evening, Nov. 1, about 1 o'clock while he was at Kennedy's Hotel, Minto, he was called to see John MacKay. David Kennedy came in and told him that two men had been stabbed and that his services were needed badly. He went to Pettley's camp and looked at his injuries and saw he was bleeding freely. He called MacKay and examined him. He then called MacKay and examined him. He then called MacKay and examined him.

HAMPTON, N. B., Nov. 6.—The parish of Hampton stipendiary had been occupied all day in a preliminary examination with a charge of indecent assault upon a female, on the information and complaint of Maggie Carson, wife of George Carson of French Village, Kings county, alleged to have been committed on complainant on Oct. 2 last by Robert Knodell, a farmer, residing with his wife at French Village. Knodell was arrested on a warrant and lodged in jail here on Tuesday.

Mrs. Carson and her husband gave evidence today as to the assault, and George Beatty, J. P., and John A. Fowler were heard for the defense as to the reputation and good character of the defendant in the community in which he resided, chiefly with the view of establishing the desirability of granting bail.

The accused was sent up for trial at the next sitting of the superior court in January next, bail being granted, himself in $400 and George Beatty and John A. Fowler, his sureties, in $200 each.

Complaint was represented by F. M. Sprout, M. P. P., and the accused by Daniel Mullin, K. C.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Nov. 6.—An

MINTO, Nov. 6.—At the inquest into the death of John McKay, the man who was fatally stabbed on Sunday by an Italian named Endine, the jury after a half-hour's deliberation brought in a verdict that McKay met his death from the effects of a knife or sharp instrument in the hands of Endine.

There was a large number of persons in attendance at the inquest and the verdict given by the jurors was expected to be a number of witnesses examined, the evidence clearly showing that Endine had done the stabbing. In fact one witness stated that Endine had confessed to him. The evidence of the defendant was not taken at the inquest. In all six witnesses were examined.

The inquest was held before Coroner George Parley of Lincoln. Allan Wood of Lincoln represented the prosecution and H. H. Pickett the defense. The proceedings lasted over six hours, and although there could have been more evidence, the jury gave their verdict.

The inquest was held in the station house here, although about a quarter of a mile distant in a little camp. The jury, after being empaneled viewed the body and then returned and heard the evidence of the witnesses.

Dr. H. B. Hay stated that he had been in the village at the time and was called on to attend to the injuries of the defendant. He found the body badly injured. McKay was stabbed between the eyes with a knife, the wound being about an inch deep, which occurred at an early hour on Thursday morning.

The evidence of two Italians, who were concerned in the fray, was also taken. Trapoleo Ligio gave evidence that he also was struck by Endine. Ligio stated that he received a blow over the eye when he entered the camp. Then he endeavored to keep out of the way and was successful in getting out of the camp.

John Ezere told about Endine informing him that he had done the stabbing. This confession was made shortly after the fray took place.

WENT IN HASTE.

Peicy Kennedy stated that Christopher Pettley had sent for him and he went in all haste to the scene of the stabbing. He first noticed Pettley and looked him over and did what he could to help him. Then he turned his attention to MacKay, who was suffering intensely at the camp. He helped to carry MacKay to the camp.

A man named Dawson, when called, stated that he had been with MacKay after the stabbing and until the time of his death. The deceased man had given him some statements concerning the stabbing.

The jury deliberated for a half hour and brought in the verdict as given above.

Under the circumstances of the case the verdict was generally expected and caused little or no surprise.

Christopher Pettley, the other victim, who was stabbed in several different places by Endine, was not sufficiently recovered to give evidence, although his condition is reported by the doctors to be much improved and his recovery is assured.

The place where the stabbing took place was conducted by an Austrian woman and her husband. The evidence of these persons was not taken at the inquest owing to the absence of an interpreter. However, one will be secured and will take their evidence at the preliminary hearing on Monday next.

Endine, who did the stabbing, was not present at the inquest, he being in jail some distance away. He will also be heard at the preliminary hearing on Monday next.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the hearing of the case, which will be before Justice Halifax. All the witnesses at the inquest will again be heard and others will also give evidence.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 6.—Argument in the case of McKensie Appellant and McLeod respondent was concluded in the supreme court this afternoon and judgment reserved. Fisher Appellant and Town of Woodstock respondent, Carvell, K. C., supports appeal from Carleton county court; Hartley, respondent. Court considers.

At the conclusion of the case court adjourned until ten o'clock Wednesday morning.

Candidates for attorney who passed the recent examination, together with the names of the John Law School, will be sworn in before Judge Gregory at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

enthusiastic meeting of citizens was held in the town council room this evening and an agricultural society for Charlotte county formed, with the view of holding annual exhibitions in St. Stephen. Mayor Grimmer president, F. M. Murchie was elected president, W. S. Stevens secretary, and Frank Littlefield treasurer. The association starts with a large membership and promise of much usefulness.

HALIFAX, Nov. 6.—Seventeen seats in possession of the opposition and three still to be counted. This is the situation in Newfoundland tonight and the closest election the colony has ever known is still in the balance. Not until tomorrow afternoon will the result of Monday's polling be known but no matter how the three remaining seats on the margin between the opposing parties in the balance, they will be exceedingly small. Berge, St. Barbe and Bay St. George are states which have not yet been counted.

In the election Berge returned to Montreal, opposition. He has great personal popularity in that district, and it is likely that he has again carried that district. If the government retains the other two seats, as they are confident of, this will make the standing of the parties 19 to 17. If the opposition carry them Sir Edward Morris will be returned by a majority of one and if each party takes one of the government and opposition will be tied, with eighteen each.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 6.—The end of the Urquhart case was reached in the police court this morning when Col. Marsh, P. M., discharged the prisoner from custody. The magistrate said the evidence showed that the shooting of young Clary was accidental and no motive for the commission of a crime had been disclosed. H. R. Hainsford, who conducted the prosecution, said he had no objection to the magistrate's decision, and Urquhart was given his liberty.

Miss Kathleen McInerney of St. John is visiting the Misses Winslow.

Without doubt one of the most enjoyable functions of the week was the Little Girls' Concert, given by the Little Girls of St. John's on Friday evening. The concert began at nine o'clock in the drawing room and was continued until after midnight, supper being served during the interval.

The Episcopalians of Douglas, held a reception at Nashwaakias, last night, for their new rector, Rev. Mr. Matthews, recently from England.

Rev. Dr. Smith, Sydney, who has accepted the call to St. Paul's Church here, will preach his first sermon Sunday, Dec. 6.

CHATHAM, Nov. 6.—Michael Murray inspector of the board of health states he has made a round of the various parts of the town, and that the sanitary conditions are much better and no new cases have developed lately. He thinks the epidemic has passed its worst point.

A story published in a local and one St. John paper about a sailor stealing a comrade's coat and watch from the Marine Hospital, is made out of whole cloth. The sailor had come to Chatham in a boat and the watch and coat were left on the north shore until ten o'clock instead of only eight, he did not attempt to cross until nine. He was seen to telephone that ensued gave rise to the robbery story.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 6.—Patrick Keenan, a young man of 20, met with a very painful accident last night in the Opera House. Stepping over seats, he fell and split open his lower lip on the back of a chair. Several stitches had to be taken. Dr. Desmond did the surgical work.

Mrs. and Mrs. Hiram Whitney of Whiteville have a young daughter, at Alexandra Lodge No. 186, L. T. E. A. last night, the members and a number of friends assembled to say good-bye to Miss Elizabeth Dick and Abbie Stewart, who will leave next week for Massachusetts to spend the winter. There were speeches, songs and recitations, followed by a sumptuous supper.

Miss Florence Copp, aged fourteen, died last night of scarlet fever.

CHATHAM, Nov. 6.—The church here on Friday afternoon by Rev. Roscoe H. Wing previous to her departure for Bangor, Me., where she will spend the winter, was one of the pleasantest functions imaginable and was the subject of general and hearty admiration by those favored with an invitation. The brilliant affair was given on Friday in Mr. Wing's spacious home, Wellington street.

Mrs. Wing received her guests in the drawing room and was attired in a handsome gown of light blue velvet with chrysanthemum, the color scheme being white. Among those who took part in the afternoon's play were Miss Susie Gillespie, Miss Nellie Goggin, Mrs. George Hepburn, Miss Jessie Miller, Mrs. J. P. King, Mrs. William Dick, Mrs. R. A. Snowball, Mrs. T. I. Byrne, Miss Isabel Gould, Mrs. George Watt, Mrs. F. M. Tweedie, Miss Lucy, Mrs. W. P. Eaton, Mrs. R. D. Hanson, Mrs. H. B. McDonald, Miss Jennie Hemming (Truro), the Misses Beveridge, Mrs. Nellie Brown, Mrs. C. P. Hickey, Miss Mullins (Bathurst), Mrs. E. C. Macleod, Mrs. Warren C. Winslow,

Mrs. Sargeant, Miss Burchill, Miss Frances Goggin, Miss Beatrice Dick and others.

Mr. Murray Tweedie of Minto is in town.

Mr. George Doherty of Sussex was in town Thursday.

Miss Annie Loggie, daughter of W. S. Loggie, M. P., of Walker House in Montreal, where she will join the Canadian teachers who are to tour England.

Preparatory communion services have been held in St. Andrew's church this week on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. Rev. George Wood conducted the first three and Rev. A. J. W. Myers was in charge on Friday evening.

A lecture that is being looked forward to with great interest is that to be given by Dr. John Pringle of the Yukon on Friday evening, Nov. 13.

SHOT HIMSELF IN A NIGHTMARE

Traveler Found Wounded in Toronto Hotel—Will Probably Die

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—In the hallucination of a dream shortly after retiring to his room at the Walker House last night, S. B. Anislie of Reno, Nevada, shot himself in the left breast just below the heart and now lies in so critical a condition at Grace Hospital that his recovery is almost despaired of.

This, at least, was the explanation given by Anislie himself, both to the hotel boy who found him in his room and to the doctors who attended him at the hospital. Although in a very weak condition he retained consciousness until he was in such a weak state that the doctors did not see fit to question him in detail.

He had been in the city since Sunday, and, although he was about the place a great deal, the people at the hotel knew but little about him. He was very quiet, they say, and of apparently good habits and the news of the accident was no little surprise to the management.

Anislie retired shortly after nine o'clock last night. A few minutes after ten o'clock Harry England, a hotel boy, was on the second floor when he heard a shot. He ran in the direction from which the sound seemed to have come, and hearing a groan at the door of room 37, went in and found Anislie lying on the floor. Beside him was a 22-caliber revolver, which England immediately kicked under the bed. He then assisted the man to get up, and in a rather hazy way the latter said he was sick. On being asked how he shot himself, Anislie said to the hotel boy: "I must have been dreaming. I had the revolver under my pillow and must have been in a dream that I pulled it out, and it was accidentally discharged. Get a doctor quick and call for the ambulance."

The manager was at once notified, and Dr. J. Bruce Richardson sent for. In the meantime the police ambulance had been summoned, and no time was lost in getting the wounded man to Grace Hospital. There the wound was examined by Drs. Jordan and J. M. Coffin, and it was found that the bullet had lodged in the left chest. An effort to locate it will be made this morning.

Anislie apparently had some friends in the city, for he was to have met an acquaintance at the hotel yesterday afternoon, but the latter did not turn up. He has an aunt, Mrs. Martha Livingston, living in Reno, and the manager of the Walker House wired her of the accident last night. He also had a card of A. D. Howell, Scranton Railway Company, Scranton, Pa., and a wire was also sent to the latter. It is thought that he was a traveler for an iron firm, and was to have left shortly for Savannah, Ga.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's held a very successful tea in the Temperance Hall Tuesday evening. A substantial bill of fare was presented to the many patrons and the tables were filled many times. Those in charge were Mrs. William Dick, Mrs. E. W. B. Scott, Mrs. James G. Miller, Mrs. V. A. Danville, Mrs. Helen Fraser, Miss Nellie Goggin, Miss Goggin, Mrs. George Stead, the Misses Anderson, Miss Sophie Benson, Miss Bertie Piroe, Miss Susie Gillespie, Mrs. F. E. Neale, Mrs. Mabel Goggin, Miss Florrie Hocken. Mrs. M. A. E. Goggin and Mrs. (Capt.) Betts poured tea and coffee.

In the evening an impromptu but thoroughly enjoyable entertainment was given, in which the following took part: Mr. A. W. B. Little, Mr. F. E. Neale, Mr. Blair Neale, Mr. Hanson,

Mr. Sargeant, Miss Burchill, Miss Frances Goggin, Miss Beatrice Dick and others.

Mr. Murray Tweedie of Minto is in town.

GOAL ENOUGH FOR HUNDREDS OF YEARS

It is Estimated United States Has Two Million Tons Unmined

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—In a monograph on the production of coal, prepared by Edward W. Parker and issued by the United States Geological Survey, it is stated that the year 1907 was one of great vicissitudes for the coal industry, as for the other great national interests, but it was one of exceptional peace in the coal mining regions.

The depression which came at the end of the year as a universal blight to some extent offset the unprecedented demand and record breaking output of coal, particularly in Pennsylvania, which was due to the shortage of anthracite in stocks created by ten weeks' suspension of mining, beginning on April 1, 1907, pending the adjustment of the wage scale controversy. Had it not been for the financial crisis there is little doubt that the coal production would have exceeded a total of half a billion tons and its value $200,000,000.

During three-quarters of the year the railroads were put to extreme shifts to handle the transportation and complaints were loud as to the shortage of cars. Wages were unusually high, but operators were unable to obtain miners in sufficient numbers to fill orders. As it was the total production of 1907 amounted to 499,363,424 short tons of a net value of $81,138,808.

The quantity of coal raised from the ground might be represented by a rectangular column with a base of one thousand feet, extending nearly 34 miles into the air, or to use another familiar figure, with an average of thirty cars of coal to the train and of fifty cars to the car, the number of trains required to transport this product would be 320,200, and the combined length of these trains would extend two and a half times around the world at the equator.

Coal production in the United States has practically doubled in each decade since the first records of production were made for the Virginia mines in 1822, when 54,000 tons were mined. Father Hennepin, a Jesuit missionary, is the first credited with mentioning coal in the United States, his journal recording "a coal mine" on the Illinois River, near Ottawa, Ill.

The Richmond Basin in Virginia was the first to be mined. Ohio coal beds were discovered in 1755. Pennsylvania gave up its first "black diamonds" in 1790, but official reports of the anthracite coal trade are usually begun with 1820, when 385 tons, or one ton daily average, were shipped to Philadelphia from the Lehigh region.

M. H. Campbell, who has prepared a map of the coalfields of the United States, together with a statement regarding the character and geologic age of the coal, estimates the total output at 157,234,000 short tons (of 2,000 pounds). Allowing the total production to the close of 1907 to be 6,385,957,567 tons, or an exhaustion, including waste, of ten thousand million tons, he calculates there are still available 1,993,800,000,000 tons of easily accessible coal. There was thus left in the ground at the close of 1907 a quantity of easily accessible coal 4,150 times the production of the year.

Taking the Pennsylvania coalfields alone, Mr. Campbell estimates that if all the anthracite coal were recovered for use, including that now wasted, lost or left in the mines, the supply would last two hundred years at the rate of production in 1907. At a similar rate of production the supply of Pennsylvania's bituminous coal alone would last approximately 40 years.

This great distinction of anthracite and bituminous coal, hard and soft, or clear and smoky, apart from their use in the Pennsylvania and the Atlantic States, for outside the 40 square miles of the well known anthracite region of Pennsylvania in the counties of Susquehanna, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Carbon, Schuylkill, Columbia, Northumberland, Dauphin and Sullivan there is hardly any true anthracite found elsewhere in the United States. In two small areas in the Rocky Mountain region coal has been locally anthracitized, but the production has never amounted to as much as 100,000 tons in any year.

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—Ray Lamphere will be placed on trial in the circuit court here tomorrow on a charge of murdering Mrs. Belle Guinness and her three children by setting fire to the Guinness home last April. The question of whether Mrs. Guinness is dead or alive will form one of the features of the trial.

HALF OF EUROPE IS NOW QUAKING

Inhabitants of a Large Area in a State of Panic

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Central and Southern Europe have been quaking intermittently for several days, the centre of the disturbance being the Voigtland district of Saxony. No Erfurt and other towns were roughly shaken, and people left their houses in terror. Numerous towns in Gotha and Anhalt were also shaken. The earthquakes have been throughout accompanied by terrifying roarings and explosions, which today were thunderous in volume, lasting for five to ten minutes. The air vibrated alternately, and a snowfall followed in many places. The temperature of the medicinal springs at Badelster has risen fifteen degrees.

Especially severe shocks have also been felt throughout Italy and Sicily, where the greater part of the population is in a panicky condition. The people have fled from their houses, and reports are received from the Professor Belar, of the Litchbach observatory, that "catastrophic world shaking." His theory was that an earthquake this morning, its centre being about 5,000 miles from Litchbach, there was also a violent shock near Litchbach.

Mr. Milnes, the English seismologist, records similar shocks. He is of the opinion that the origin of the distant earthquakes was in the southern extremity of Asia, in the direction of New Guinea, where, he says, probably a continent or the expansion of one is being born.

TWO HUNDRED DROWNED

AMOY, Nov. 8.—The bodies of 78 of the victims of the wreck of the small steamer on November 5, which occurred near Tunan, have been brought here. The steamer was licensed to carry 180 passengers but 600 men were aboard and of these only 100 were rescued. Many of the victims were killed while in the water by practical boatmen intent on robbery. Five of the pirates have been arrested and brought to Amoy, where they will be beheaded.

BIG STEAMER LAUNCHED

STETTIN, Nov. 10.—The steamer George Washington, of the German Lloyd Line, was successfully launched at Bredow, a suburb of this city, today, and christened by Dr. David Jayne Hill, the American ambassador to Germany.

The George Washington is 2700 tons gross, 722 feet long, and is the largest German built and owned steamer in the world. She will have a speed of 18.5 knots.
