

END INDIGESTION OR STOMACH PAIN IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Sick, Sour, Gassy Stomachs Feel Fine.

Time! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foal breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know Pape's Diapepsin will save them from any stomach misery.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach arrangements at daytime or during the night it is handy to give the quickest, surest relief known.

Don't forget next Friday and Saturday at the Grand Opera House, "The Metaphysical White Cat." Plan now open at Boles' Drug Store, Prince Jacko, the hero of the play, the "Metaphysical White Cat," has always been endowed with the greatest thing in the world. His adventures lead him directly to Wisdom and because he entirely forgets self and only thinks of "great service" that he is asked to render the "dear one,"—the White Cat—and is willing to sacrifice his own feelings to "serve her," he wins all. The comical characters are "Grouch," who loses his health from grumbling and complaining, and old "Toothache," who is the "wet blanket" at the court. "Favesdropper" will only repeat pretty stories, and won't listen to unpleasant things, and shows how merry we can be when we "drop" unpleasant thoughts. It is intended as a character play, with all the butter and honey possible piled on the good "wheaten bread." That true love being "the greatest thing in the world," always brings success and happiness.

Elizabeth Faulkner, wife of James Seller, of Palmerston, was found dead in bed. She died on her 56th birthday and the 32nd anniversary of her wedding.

The boat which went down in Lake Ontario about five miles southwest of Port Hope last Tuesday morning was a pile-driver with two scows, the property of Callaghan and Co., of Toronto.

Off to the Front! Put yourself in top-notch condition by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, a food that supplies the greatest amount of body-building material with the least tax upon the digestion. ### NEWS FROM SIMCOE

New Move Suggested Towards Church Union.

Simcoe, Oct. 24.—(From our own correspondent)—Rev. J. H. McBain was at Ridgeway on Sunday for anniversary services in his former parsonage, and to-day attended a meeting of the special committee of the Hamilton Conference held in Ryer's Methodist church, Toronto, as representative of Simcoe district. Mr. McBain was the author of a motion passed unanimously, the purport of which was that the Hymnal committee of the Methodist church now at work in the preparation of a new book of praise, should confer with the similar committee of the Presbyterian church with a view to having a common new hymn book for both churches.

Jarvis Anglicans had a monster convocation last night to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the rector, Rev. Mr. Russ. The Bishop of Niagara gave the address of the evening, taking the subject, "He went about doing good." Revs. Francis of Cayuga, Brand of Nanticoke, and Douglas of Hagersville, joined those who congratulated the honoured rector, Mr. Guy Marston and Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Alken were over from Simcoe.

R. E. Gunton expects to finish the excavation for the South Ward school house to-morrow. The plans, if followed, will give the girls the north and colder entrance to the building. It is not the intention at present to go on with the brick work before spring, more especially as the interior of the halls will be in buff brick and it is desired that the masonry should be free from stains. The building could not be got ready before Easter, so there is nothing to be gained by winter brick-laying. The contract calls for the completion of the work by August 1st, 1917. Some residents of the North Ward are quite displeased because the north building is not going up. A member of the building committee informed us to-day that there would be activity there as soon as the Alderman from the North Ward got out to council meeting and provided the money. He agreed that the Board was obliged to build a school there, but protested that they could not duplicate the south ward school with the funds on hand. Some citizens from over the river have been threatening to take out an injunction against the work now in progress.

Charles Martin, formerly of Port Dover, moved into his Lynwood Avenue residence to-day.

It is reported that the 133rd will leave Camp Borden on Friday afternoon.

The Courier's pattern feature is much appreciated by some of their Simcoe subscribers. S. P. Squires, of Watford, made a business call to town this morning.

Captain Robinson, of the 133rd, was in town this morning. The captain was snug in Port Osborne while the storm raged on Friday.

The yarn used was purchased with funds raised by the sale of white lilies from the garden of the donors, and most of the work was done during the heat of the summer, when many people were holidaying."

The state of the church report presented at the Ontario and Quebec Baptist convention recorded 2,315 baptisms during the year, a gain of 1,030. Membership, 58,914; an increase of 936.

Gas Found on Alexander Farm

Gas has been discovered on the Alexander farm, in the vicinity of Mohawk church, on the outskirts of the city. For some time past operations have been conducted in this district, and about two weeks ago Mr. Thomas Cox, who holds the lease of the land, for gas, oil and mineral rights, had the satisfaction of completing the first well in the proposed field.

The well extends to a depth of between six and seven hundred feet below the surface, and produces a pressure of two hundred pounds to the square inch. The gas is of a pure variety, containing no sulphuretted hydrogen or other obnoxious ingredients. Some oil has also been pumped, and although the gas products will be a decided advantage, the value of the undertaking will be based chiefly on the oil to be obtained.

Yesterday afternoon a party consisting of Mr. Geo. D. Watt, Mr. Alfred Jones, Dr. Porter and Mr. Cox visited the well and made an examination of it. The gas was lit by Mr. Watt, and when the pressure was turned on to the fullest extent, it threw a sheet of flame of about fifteen or twenty feet.

It is the intention of Mr. Cox to proceed at once to develop that portion extending from Mohawk church to the Glue works, and from the T. H. and B. Railway tracks to the river, amounting in all to about five hundred acres. Should the field be as productive as anticipated, the export of the oil would be accomplished with facility, owing to the close proximity of the T. H. and B. Ry., to which the fields are adjacent.

Other ventures of a similar nature have been exploited in that district in the past. The Cocksbutt Plow Company operating two wells on their property for the past thirteen years, while there is also a well on the Bow Park farm.

Mr. H. M. Marshall, of Agassiz, who was gone by a bus some months ago, is out and about again, having made a very satisfactory recovery.

Mr. A. H. Scall, head of a Calcutta firm, purchased in Vancouver last week blankets and supplies to the amount of over $25,000 for British Indian troops.

It looked like moonlight, but Jane knew as she opened her eyes that the silver light at the window was a fairy balloon with an elf in it, an elf with a wonderful fairy fan made of water-lily petals. Sure enough, it was. The very next minute in at the window floated the clear, sweet call of an elfin horn and then the elf looked in and laughed.

"All aboard for the doll convention!" he cried. "Ready Jane?"

Jane was ready. So was her doll Clarissa. There was nothing more to do but to fan Jane into a doll size with the fairy fan. After that they climbed into the silver balloon and the elf sailed them to the doll convention in the fairy forest, where night after night now all the dolls of all the nations met and chattered.

Now Jane had many wonderful adventures at the doll convention, but never once had she seen the doll from Japan. Luckily Jane had just seated herself when the doll from Japan arrived, trotting daintily along on wooden shoes that seemed to have stilted on the bottom. The elf said her name was Plumblissom. At any rate, there were plumblissoms in her simona, plum-coloured silk around the neck of it, and plumblissoms on her sash. Her black hair was combed high, her almond eyes Jane found rather friendly, and over her head she held a paper sunshade.

Jane ate a fairy candy and asked the doll in Japanese to let her hold

SWEEPING OFFENSIVE

The French victory won on terrain that has seen some of the bloodiest fighting of the war, and won despite the maze of fortifications that covers the Verdun front, is a welcome antidote to the Teuton victories against the Roumanians. It is evident that Mackensen and Falkenhayn cannot draw troops from other fronts to battle for Bucharest. It is an omen of renewed allied pressure against the Kaiser's lines in the west.

Fifty Shots to One

With the break the French guns began to bathe the German trenches with shell. Recent visitors to Petain's headquarters have reported that the French artillery on this front was firing fifty shots to one for the Germans. The execution of the bombardment did in the enemy's line tends to prove the statement.

Soon before noon the Poilus sprang to the attack. Then began a series of assaults that swept through the first German line and beyond into the Fort of Douaumont and the village. Meanwhile the right wing was moving toward Vaux, a position as much disputed as Douaumont. Here they reached the outskirts of the village.

Smash Crown Prince's Dream

On the left wing, nearer the river, the rush was irresistible. It swept through the Thiaumont Wood and Farm lying in low land dominated by ridges to the north, into and beyond the Haudremont quarries, which have been converted into a veritable fortress, and astride the road from Douaumont to Bras.

Thus in a few hours the French have regained positions that it took the Germans months to wrest from them. The resistance they met was comparatively weak. This may have been due to the fact that the Kaiser's Generals have withdrawn troops to the Somme front, or it may have been due to the efficiency of the artillery preparations. At any rate the last fragment of the Crown Prince's dream has been crumbled.

Drive's Twofold Purpose

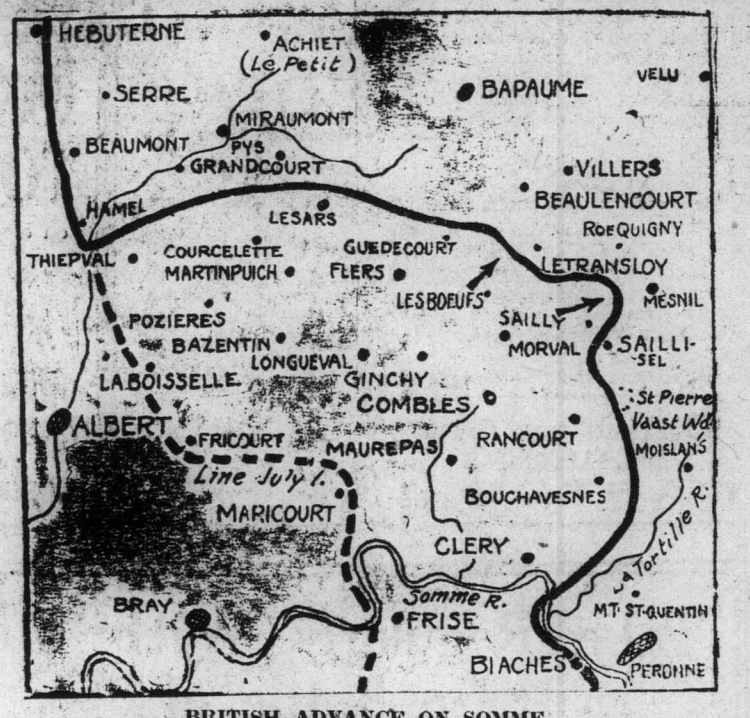

The purpose the Verdun offensive serves is twofold. It puts increased pressure on the German forces, and so makes the task on other fronts easier. Another end it may ultimately serve is in preparing the way for a new drive for Metz.

The German line in this sector, it must be remembered, is a very sharp salient, with its tip at St. Mihiel. Until this wedge is wiped out a French push eastward is almost impossible. By breaking through the German line north of Verdun the French can flank the enemy's position, at St. Mihiel, and so force its evacuation.

Disorganize Enemy Reserves

But the immediate effect of the attack on the Meuse will be on the Somme operations. With the Balkan movement in full swing it seems hardly likely that the Kaiser's Generals can muster enough men to withstand two great offensives on the western front. When the thrusts for Peronne and Bapaume are resumed this pressure will be a maximum.

The resumption of the Somme offensive cannot long be delayed if it is believed here. To offset this the Germans are shelling the enemy's lines steadily between the Ancre and the Somme. A formidable counter-offensive was planned, military observers here assert, but the new Verdun attack may interfere seriously with this plan. Little action has taken place along the Somme. Berlin, telling of the repulse of heavy allied attacks on both sides of the river describes the great losses of the Entente's troops, but outside of artillery actions neither London nor Paris reports any operations.

BRITISH ADVANCE ON SOMME The heavy line shows the present position of the British line north of the Somme compared with the position held on July 1st. Arrow shows the direction of the latest attacks.

The lull here cannot continue, observers say. Only by pressure against the Teuton at all possible points can the Roumanian situation be relieved. The Verdun offensive is the first move in that direction.

Kaiser at Bapaume

La Liberty's correspondent on the front in northern France says that the growing intensity of the bombardment between Ancre and Somme indicates that the Germans are preparing for another attempt to remedy a situation which is becoming more critical for them each day. Emperor William, adds the correspondent, has never been reported to be at Bapaume personally overseeing the preliminaries for the formidable counter-offensive in view, for which the German army on the Somme front is said to have received strong reinforcements in infantry, and more especially in artillery.

What Berlin Reports

To-day's German official statement follows: "Army Group of the German Crown Prince.—The enemy attempted to assist the attacks on the Somme by attacks near Verdun. Our positions on the east bank of the Meuse were strongly shelled by artillery. Hostile infantry was held in its trenches by our strong and efficient artillery fire. Attempts to attack were thus frustrated."

The charge of the Crown against the accused was explained by Mr. Somerville, Crown counsel, to the jury, he pointing out the technical differences existing between murder and manslaughter, the former being the intentional or reckless causing of death without such a serious intention. In the present instance the charge laid against the accused was that of manslaughter. Mr. Somerville gave them a brief resume of the entire case to the jury, recounting the incidents of the fateful garden party at the home of Wm. Loft on the night of August 9; the disturbance created by Sam Hill, and the ensuing riot resulting in the violent death of James Powless, who, stated several witnesses, was struck on the head with a stick held by accused, Percy Martin. Powless recovered from the first attack, but was a second time attacked and left the grounds in a dazed condition. The next day he remained unconscious, and was left in a coma to the Brantford general hospital, he passed away.

The second charge against the prisoner was that of occasioning grievous bodily harm to the late James Powless.
At the request of the Crown counsel, all the witnesses were excluded from the court room, and Dr. Chapin was summoned to the witness stand.
Dr. Chapin, assisted by Dr. Spicer, performed a post-mortem examination upon the body of James Powless, finding death due to hemorrhages, a fracture of the left parietal bone of the skull. Such a fracture might be caused either by a blow or by a fall from a height to some hard surface. There was evidence of two or more blows having been struck, there being abrasions upon the brow and the left side of the head; the tissues of the skull were swollen and saturated with blood. In the interior of the skull an artery had been ruptured from the blow on the side of the head. A blood clot pressing upon the brain was the cause of death. The hemorrhage might commence immediately after the striking of the blow, but would not cause immediate unconsciousness or death.

In consultation with Dr. Mott upon the then unconscious Jas. Powless, Dr. Chapin found all evidences of internal hemorrhages. Conveyed to the hospital, Powless died some 30 minutes after his arrival there. There was a slight chance of saving the man's life at the time when Dr. Chapin had been summoned.

Cross-examination for the defence, Dr. Chapin believed that more than two blows had been struck Powless, but could not tell which had been struck first.
Resident physician at the hospital, was next called. He had assisted Dr. Chapin in the post-mortem examination, and confirmed the evidence of the last witness. In addition to the fracture of the left side of the head, an abrasion had been found over the right parietal bone; both of these injuries might have been caused by a blow. He considered that more than two blows had been struck, but that the one producing the fracture of the skull had caused death.

Hardy Martin, a one armed Indian, resident upon the Reserve, reached the scene of the dancing party between 9 and 10 on the evening of August 9, remaining until the close of the festivities at about 2 o'clock the following morning. Witness saw Percy Martin, at the garden party. He did not see the row which occurred about 10 p.m., but witnessed that later in the evening. Attracted by the noise, he had reached the scene from the rear of the house. The house in question, stood on the right-hand side of Sour Springs' Road, running east and west. The dancing platform was on the west side of the house, at a distance of some four feet.
Next to the organ was a booth, where soft drinks and refreshments were sold. The dancing floor was about 12 feet square.

When the witness reached the dancing floor, which was raised slightly from the ground, he observed a row in progress near the refreshment booth, at a distance of some 14 feet from where he stood. The fight was moving gradually towards the rear of the house.
James Powless was standing near the witness, who saw Percy Martin approach the dancing floor from the rear of the house, snatch up a torch and struck Powless, who stood next to the witness. Powless fell. The stick used was about four feet in length and one and a half inches in width, being wielded by Martin with both hands. Upon Powless falling to the ground, Martin made a fist to assault upon him, and Powless rose to his feet after about four seconds, and attempted to strike Martin twice, but failed; he was again struck by Martin with the stick, and fled from the scene.

No bad blood existed between Percy Martin and the witness, who were relations and good friends. Witness knew of no bad blood between any of the persons at the dance.

W. S. Brewster, cross-examining the witness, read the evidence of the latter given in the police court some time ago, wherein he testified that he expressed ignorance as to who had struck Powless the second blow; whereas in the court to-day he had sworn Percy Martin dealt both blows.
The fight in progress was described by the witness as the worst he had ever seen. He was busy dodging bottles, flying through the air. Among those in the fight he identified Geo. Sam and Jack Hill, Geo. and Wm. Loft. Dangling was in progress at the time of the commencement of the fight. When first seen by the witness, Percy Martin was not in the fight, nor did he enter the general fray after his assault on Powless, which occurred some nine feet from the general fight. Challenged by George Hill, after the flight of Powless, Percy Martin had retired from the scene.

Witness did not see the stick in Martin's hands after the first blow struck Powless, but as no one else was near the scene at the time, he concluded that Martin must have struck the second blow.

Mrs. Sarah Van Every was also present at the garden party, arriving there between 9 and 10 p.m. She witnessed the first disturbance of the evening, when Sam Hill had been asked by Bill Loft to play the guitar, and having complied to act in a sportive manner, was ordered by Geor. Loft to desist. The two Lofts then assaulted Sam, who left the grounds, subsequently returning between the hours of 12 and 1, when the dancing was in progress. The row re-commenced upon his return, Sam being again attacked near the refreshment booth. Witness was near the spot at the time, and saw Percy Martin, Jas. Powless and Hardy Martin; she stood behind a tree in front of which were the two latter. She witnessed Percy Martin attack Powless, as recounted by the last witness. Powless was unarmed, and made no attempt to enter the fight. Witness left the scene at the time when Percy Martin attacked the prostrate Powless with his fists.

Cross-examined by W. S. Brewster, the witness became very hesitant in her evidence, appearing dubious as to whether she had seen Percy Martin before the fight, and as to the time of the first disturbance of the evening. Her evidence given at the inquest was produced by Mr. Brewster, stating that she had left the grounds before midnight.
Samuel Hill the stormy petrel of the garden party was next summoned to the box. He is a musician, and upon his arrival was asked by Wm. Loft to play the guitar.

George Loft, playing the organ, ordered him to desist from playing the fool, but before he could comply, he (witness) was attacked by Geo. and Wm. Loft. Freeing himself, he left the grounds, remaining away for a considerable length of time and returning about midnight for his wife. He was accosted by the Lofts, Percy Martin and Wm. Hill. Earlier in the evening he had received three drinks of gin from a bottle in the possession of Percy Martin, who drank at the same time.

The attack upon Sam Hill on his return to the grounds took place near the booth. For the moment he lost sight of Percy Martin, but soon later beheld him with a club in his hands. Hill did not see Powless struck.
Cross-examined, Hill admitted having been fined in the police court for disorderly conduct on the night in question; also for supplying liquor to Percy Martin, which he did not admit having done.

The Colonial. Those who attended Dr. Zell Hunt's entertainment last night at the Colonial not only saw a show, but were shown in a scientific way the possibilities of concentration and mental mastery. The doctor awakened Miss Vera Wolfe from her long hypnotic trance and there were no ill-effects on the young lady. Then followed a series of experiments that were thrilling at times and extremely laughable in other tests. Dr. Hunt starts on a world tour shortly through the United States, Australia, South Africa and England. There will be telepathy to-night and Lady Burke will answer all questions by clairvoyant power. Pictures precede and follow Dr. Hunt's exhibition.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look! Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, flatulency, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a happy, playful child again. Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a fifty cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Anniversary of Balfour Church

The services at Balfour Street Presbyterian Church on Sunday were of an unusually interesting character both morning and evening. It being the occasion of their anniversary Rev. D. Anderson, of Burlington, took charge of them, and preached two interesting and helpful sermons. Good congregations were present at both services. On Tuesday evening a concert and social was held. A good program was arranged, consisting of readings by Miss Thompson, solos by Miss Moffat, Messrs. Buck and Ponton, piano solo by Miss McIntosh, and addresses by the Presbyterian pastors of the city and the pastor of Oxford Street Methodist Church. Rev. D. L. Campbell, the pastor of Balfour Street Church, was the chief attraction of the evening. The death of a relative, which fact, marred to some extent the pleasure of the occasion. Rev. C. A. Woodside, however, very ably filled the chair, and helped much to make the occasion both pleasant and instructive. At the end of the program a lunch was served, and after votes of thanks had been passed, the evening was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

TRUE BILL IN MARTIN CASE

Percy Martin, Indian, Must Face Trial on Manslaughter Charge.

True bill upon both counts of manslaughter and assault, doing grievous bodily harm, were returned by the Grand Jury against Percy Martin, Indian, at the opening session of the Fall Assize Court House building before Hon. Mr. Justice Sutherland.

In his address to the grand jury, Mr. Justice Sutherland emphasized the three purposes and duties of the jury, the deciding whether a true bill should be returned against the persons indicted before the court, the inspection of the public buildings of the city and the submitting of a report upon the latter. He instructed the jury into the manner of their investigation of the case, pointing out that two indictments were laid against the accused man, Percy Martin, and that true bills might be brought in upon both charges, manslaughter and assault with intent to do bodily harm, upon either charge or upon neither, as the jury saw fit. Justice Sutherland also instructed them in the manner of the inspection of the public buildings and institutions of the city.

The jury then retired for the purpose of deliberation, and the calling of the petit jury took place. The civil case of Robinson vs. Berry was then proceeded with, A. L. Baird appearing for the plaintiff, and E. R. Read for the defendant.

The plaintiff claimed that a contract existing between the two parties had been broken by the defendant. After a lengthy hearing of evidence, judgment was reserved by Justice Sutherland.

At 4.20 the Grand Jury re-entered the court room, rendering a true bill in both counts against Percy Martin and then retiring once more for the purpose of proceeding with their inspection of the public buildings of the city.

Arraigned in the dock, Martin pleaded not guilty to both charges against him and was remanded for trial until this morning.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts for Backache or Bladder Trouble—Neutralizes Acids. Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush of the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Arrangements Well Under Way For Big Boxing Bout

Pete Scott of Hamilton Will Oppose Jimmy Conway of Scranton, Pa., in Ten-Round Encounter at the Opera House.

Arrangements have practically all been completed for the staging of the ten round bout between Pete Scott, of Hamilton, and Jimmy Conway, of Scranton, in the Grand Opera house on the night of Friday, November 3. It is so long since the sport lovers of the city have enjoyed a boxing treat of this nature that there is every reason to believe it will draw out a packed house. The bout really deserves a large patronage for it is easily the best ever offered Brantford folk.

Scott is confidence personified. Only a week ago he met Jimmy Duffy, the Lockport machine, in a ten-round bout and although outclassed from the standpoint of cleverness, is back again ready to clash with the best boys available in the welterweight ranks. In selecting Conway, the promoters have chosen a boy who will make the Hamilton Indian show the best he possesses to win. He has victories over such boys as Al Dewey, Young Hickey, of New York, Frank McCann, Silent Jack Martin and a host of others even more prominent. Only last week he went ten fast rounds to a draw with Johnny Riley, of Rochester, N.Y. This showing alone entitles him to a match with Scott or any other boy aspiring to the welterweight title.

Scott has met Riley twice and is credited with having a draw and a decision in the two clashes. But this same Chap Riley is reported to be greatly improved since he last met the Indian, and for this reason Conway must be a comer to hold his own with him.

Already the bout is attracting great interest in Brantford and among the astic devotees of Hamilton. High-class preliminaries will be put on that are bound to make the night's entertainment one that will prove extremely palatable.

St. Louis Well Represented

Every club in the National League at present is carrying at least one ballplayer who at one time was a member of one of the St. Louis teams. In all there are thirteen players now on the reserve lists of other outfits who at one time were with St. Louis clubs. Of this number ten are ex-Cardinals and three of them ex-Browns.

Of the total, five of them are pitchers, although one of them is just coming up for another trial. They are Wheeler Dell, with the Superbas; Harry Saltee and "Folly" Perritt, with the Giants; and Bob Harmon and Phil Redding, with the Pirates. Redding was given a try-out with the Cardinals in 1912, but found wanting. Callahan is going to give him another chance.

The players turned loose by the Browns now with National League clubs are Charley Deal, landed by the Cubs in the draft from Kansas City; Bill Kiltner, star catcher of the Phillies; and Bill McKechnie, with Cincinnati.

Ed. Koney, Braves; Mike Mowrey, Brooklyn; Ivy Wingo, Reds; Bobby Byrne, Phillies; George Whitted, Phillies; are the other tossers who at one time or other drew salary checks from the Cardinals.

With a little strengthening in several positions these cast-offs would make quite a ball club.

Clymer May Lead Pirates

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, is said to be looking for a new manager to succeed Jas. J. Callahan. In sending in his reserve list to National League headquarters Dreyfuss has omitted Callahan's name. As all managers must be reserved from year to year, it is assumed by baseball men that Callahan will not lead the Pirates in 1917. Dreyfuss already has denied the report that Fred Clarke will come back. Clarke retired from baseball a year ago, but it was said recently that he wanted to return to the game. Hans Wagner is not a candidate for the position, according to his friends. William J. Clymer, who handled the Louisville champions in the American Association this year, may be regarded favorably by the Pirates' owner. It is said that Clymer has been strongly recommended to Dreyfuss by several prominent National League men. Callahan had some trouble with the Pittsburgh players last summer. He suspended Whitted, Phillies, are the other tossers who at one time or other drew salary checks from the Cardinals.

Grants Will Play Tigers

New York, Oct. 25.—Something new in exhibition tours was announced yesterday by the management of the New York National League Baseball Club. After the close of their Spring training season in the South the New York and Detroit clubs will travel in a special train. Manager McGraw, of New York, said that he regarded such a tour as better practice for both clubs than playing minor league clubs in the South.

Investigate M'Graw's Word

New York, Oct. 24.—"The McGraw case will be handled by the Board of Directors of the National League when it meets here on the second Tuesday in December," says President John K. Tener of the National League. There will be no investigation held by Mr. Tener before that time, although the head of the league and President Hempstead of the New York club held a long conference at the Giants' offices.

Before President Tener went down to the Giants' offices, Manager John J. McGraw was also a visitor, and had a long talk with President Hempstead. He left, however, a short time before President Tener arrived.

Coast shipping was paralyzed last week at Vancouver by the worst fog in years.

LONDON'S WELCOME TO BAND OF FRENCH REPUBLICAN GUARDS
 Striking scenes were witnessed in London as the representatives of France's glorious army marched to London, and tremendous crowds cheered them on their way through the streets to the Mansion House for dinner with the Lord Mayor. Photo shows members of the band entering the Mansion House.

Pitchers Pick Their Catchers

They're a suspicious lot, those Red Sox pitchers! That's why they insist on having certain catchers work with them whenever they're assigned to the slab.

Even Manager Bill Carrigan has been stung by the superstition bug. The master of the world's champions would rather concede defeat than send any backstop other than Forest Cady into the line-up the day he picks Ernie Shore to pitch.

Shore, by the way, is a difficult hurler to catch, because of the freakish dip on his fast ball. The gaunt Southerner positively demands that Cady catch him. Other catchers have handled the string bean of the Boston staff, but Shore never seems as ready to return to the game. Hans Wagner is not a candidate for the position, according to his friends. William J. Clymer, who handled the Louisville champions in the American Association this year, may be regarded favorably by the Pirates' owner. It is said that Clymer has been strongly recommended to Dreyfuss by several prominent National League men. Callahan had some trouble with the Pittsburgh players last summer. He suspended Whitted, Phillies, are the other tossers who at one time or other drew salary checks from the Cardinals.

By the same token Dutch Leonard always insists that Manager Carrigan work behind the plate the day he pitches. Bill's throwing arm is nothing to brag about, but he's long on the steady "bull" which he always brings into use the instant Leonard exhibits symptoms of wavering, and this is one reason the southpaw wants his boss on the job.

Carrigan is one of the smartest workmen in the business, and Leonard figures that his handling of every situation that arises offsets any handicap that his glass arm may give the enemy.

Chester Thomas always draws the "grabbing" task when Mays or Ruth are doing the curving. Mays, with his peculiar "subway" delivery, is a hard guy to catch, and no one else seems to do the job as well as Thomas.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no yawning, sniffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly. It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

NEW YORK WOMAN

Says the Russian General, Brusiloff, Is None Other Than Sir Hector Macdonald.

One of the New York papers publishes the interesting but highly improbable theory that General Brusiloff is none other than Sir Hector Macdonald, who is generally supposed to have committed suicide years ago in Paris. This theory is based on information given by a Mrs. Taylor of New York, a distant relative of the British soldier. It will be remembered that in 1903 Sir Hector, then a brigadier-general of the British army, a Knight Commander of the Bath, and a member of the Distinguished Service Order, was charged with immoral conduct in Ceylon. He appealed to Lord Roberts, in London, to order the charges dismissed, pleading his entire innocence. Lord Roberts refused to interfere, and ordered him back to Ceylon to stand court-martial. He started off on his journey, but got no farther than Paris, where he was reported to have shot himself. A coffin supposed to contain his body was brought from Paris to Edinburgh and there buried.

Mrs. Taylor now declares that all this was make-believe. She says that cousins of Sir Hector live in London and Canada and Australia, and she knows that they have been in communication with him. She also says that Sir Hector was recognized in the Russo-Japanese war as the commander who led the Japanese to Port Arthur and made possible the Russian defeat. She is now certain that Sir Hector, under a new name is the man responsible for changing the ignominy of Russia's early defeat to a victory to which nothing done by the allies on the western fronts is comparable. She adds:

Sir Hector was a small, manly, stockily built. General Brusiloff is of the same figure. In his character of a Russian general, Sir Hector has grown a moustache, but it does not make his features unrecognizable. Many people who did not know of Sir Hector have commented on the queer and extraordinary circumstances connected with the rise of the Russian commander. It is odd, to say the least, they point out, that a man in supreme command of one of the greatest offensives of the war should be of a previous history totally unknown. "Brusiloff" is not a real Russian name, anyway. And the photographs of the general show he does not look like a Russian.

It is an interesting theory, and one illustrating once more that romance, like hope, springs eternal in the human breast. There are many people who still refuse to believe that Lord Kitchener is dead. But unfortunately such romances occur more frequently in literature than in real life, despite the fact that truth is stranger than fiction.

SISTERS THREE

"My only feeble excuse was the rush and strain of those last weeks and the horrible fear that I might be left behind. However, all will be right now, and I think you will soon be able to reimburse yourself. And this has been such a lesson to me that I think you will never have to complain of my extravagance again. Perhaps when the war is over I shall settle in South Africa."

Allardye ceased reading. Deep silence fell on all the group; then Miss Willoughby slowly rose and held out her hand for the paper.

Allardye, who will go to-morrow morning early, and we will give that letter into the hands of Jim Kildare's father.

Chapter XXVIII.

Allardye took their guest an early cup of tea to her room together with a new-laid egg and bread-and-butter.

"I wanted to sail with you over the bay quite early," she explained; "we could get back by breakfast-time unless we stay at the Reef. Have you looked at it with the morning light upon it? You can see it from the bed if I draw up the blind."

But Miss Willoughby slipped out of bed, put on her gown, and went to the window.

The black castellated rocks which had stood up against the sunset sky last night in inky silhouette lay bathed in a magical translucent radiance now. Coral, amethyst, emerald, opal—it was like something upon a castle of jewels set in a sky of mystery so ethereal and rainbow-tinted did it appear, rising above a sea of silver shimmer with the rose of the east.

"Sunrise Reef indeed!" said Miss Willoughby softly as she gazed. So that is the home of Jim Kildare, that is the home of Jim Kildare—that is the home of Jim Kildare—the place where his father waits and watches."

He was watching as the boat drew alongside the rocks. It was his hand that was held out to assist Miss Willoughby to step upon the stone steps of the jetty. All about them the sun shone with the glory of a mid-summer morning. The white head of the boat's anchor-bearer over the lady's hand as Allardye spoke her name; then his lips moved, his words came dreamily—

"Watch for the help that comes out of the east."

In the flush of the dawn's day—

Miss Willoughby uttered a little sound that was half a laugh and half a sob.

"This is the child of the sea and the dawn," she said, with her hand on the shoulder of Allardye. "And it is the work of this child that I am here to-day."

"I know it," answered General Kildare as he took Allardye into his embrace; but, turning once more to the stranger guest, he added, "For the child could not have prevailed save for the goodness of your own heart."

"Let me get the task over as quickly as may be. I have realized lately as I have never done before the nobility of your boy General Kildare. At the first I said that I had no proof it would have been absurd to try to drag in Harold's name; but I realize now that had he spoken it might have made his defence a different thing altogether. Many men must have seen him pass cheques over to my brother at supper that night. The man who was paid off might have been found and have given evidence that money was forthcoming, suddenly upon the day the cheque was cashed and was paid over by Captain Willoughby. And they would have adjourned the trial; they would have called on South Africa. The ship would have been met with inquiries about Captain Willoughby—"

"My dear lady, pardon me, but may I understand more of what you are saying? I thought that Captain Willoughby perhaps might have thrown light upon the matter."

"But you did not suspect that it was his hand—not your son's—that tampered with that cheque?"

There was a quick intake of the breath. They had reached the rocky terrace now. Allardye stood a little apart, gazing at the two whom she had brought together so strangely; and then she moved quietly away out of earshot and leaned over the terrace wall, gazing out to sea.

Her thoughts had flown to the convict in his cell as she pictured him, pacing wearily to and fro.

She knew from the General that he was not always thus injured, that he was much out in the air working at the hard manual toil given to the convicts, and that he liked this work and did it well.

She knew all this, but the terrible fact always remained with her—Jim Kildare was a convicted felon. He was the victim of a cruel chain of circumstances and of his own chivalry towards a companion and friend. The end of the letter she had read aloud last night and had made allusions to the past. Miss Willoughby had explained them in part. There had been a time when her brother had rendered more than one very great service to young Kildare. Jim had not forgotten. When he was faced by that awful peril, and his only chance lay in throwing suspicion on his friend, he had refused to do it. Whether this act of chivalry was wise or right Allardye could not say. What she did understand was that Jim could not know that a Boer bullet would close Captain Willoughby's career before he could hear of his friend's peril. Probably he had reckoned that all would be put right somehow before very long, and then had come news which must have blasted this hope.

But there was the sister—the sister who knew all and held her peace. That was the puzzle to Allardye. Her voice could be heard telling over again that tale now thrice repeated. How she must suffer in the telling! Allardye clasped her hands and closed her eyes. And yet how splendid it was to do right—to make a great sacrifice, to set free the innocent, to bind up the broken heart of that lonely old man!

Allardye started at a touch upon her arm. She faced round to see Miss Willoughby standing beside her, a flush on her face and tears in her eyes. Behind on the terrace, immersed in the contents of the papers he held, stood General Kildare, lost to every outward impression, but looking already, as Allardye was quick to note, like a man with a great hope and purpose before him.

The stoop of the shoulders seemed to have gone; he held himself erect like a soldier on parade.

"Oh, Miss Willoughby, you have made him young again!"

"Let us be going, Allardye!"

The girl would have liked to remain a little longer, but Miss Willoughby made no sign. Allardye went down to the water's edge and unlocked the boat. Soon they were sailing across the bay, a light breeze speeding them; and then they both looked back as by common consent towards the Reef still shining in the morning light.

"You were right, child," said Miss Willoughby, "with an abruptness which the girl knew as a symptom of emotion; "it had to be told! I am glad it is done!" She turned her head away, gazing out to sea, and some half-whispered words passed her lips—"Harold, are you satisfied now?"

When she looked again at Allardye her eyes were full of a light the girl had never seen there before. "It has been like carrying about a corpse! Why did I not understand before? And now the chain is broken!" She lifted her arms high above her head, stretching them upwards in a gesture of one released from a crushing burden. "Now I can breathe, I can live;

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in solution. This is a natural mineral water, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just a soap and hot water cleanser, sweetener and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

perhaps some day I can laugh again! Ah, Harold, you have triumphed! Once I vowed my will should prevail always, but it has not been so!"

"Ah, but what will happen next?" asked Allardye.

"He will go to London to-day. I wrote him a letter to send to my lawyer, who will give him all the original papers and act on my behalf. My solicitor can be trusted to do the best for us—to give the best advice, to put the machinery of the law in action in the best possible way. It may be, as you once said, that Harold's name will never be made public. Jim Kildare's must be cleared that is the first necessary. But, if it can be done without the exposure of the name of the man he sheltered, I shall be thankful. General Kildare will do all he can. I think that the authorities will not desire, to smirch the reputation of a man who died for his country. You said that once, child; General Kildare repeated it. He is known in high military circles. The men he knows will use all their influence. Allardye—"

RIPPLING RHYMES BY WALT MASON

ROOT OF EVIL

When I have got a goody wad, I say that wealth's an empty gawd, a cheap, deluding snare; with fluent tongue and aspect wise, I stand around and moralize, and roast the millionaire. I look with sorrow and disdain on those who sweat and strive and strain to get another plank; I tell them money is but dross, a sordid dream, a total loss, a worthless lot of junk. But when I've had some small reverse, that makes my roll look sick or worse on lucre I am bent; I hustle till I melt my fat, and you may see me break a slat, to nail another cent. Forgotten all the platitudes that I dispensed in lofty moods, in times when I was flush; forgotten all the moral saws, and every text that ever was, as I pursue the crush. And when I've made a roll again, I sternly lecture, weary men, and chide them for their greed, for striving for the picaune, and say the trail behind them's strewn with morals gone to seed.

COLD COMFORT

A letter friend has a point of view to present. "While on the whole this plea for cheerfulness and the making the best of things, is a healthy symptom," she writes, "don't you think it can be overdone? In some cases, it seems to me, it leads to selfishness. You do not think that some people, for instance, make a sort of shibboleth of 'Don't worry' and just use it to stave off a conversation which they think would bore them?"

"In fact, I often say that some people when they say 'Don't worry' really mean 'Don't worry me.' Admit They Have Something To Bear

"I do believe in helping people to be brave and cheerful, and happy if possible, but I want first of all to be sympathetic, and I think in many instances one can accomplish more by admitting that the complainant has some grounds, than by just saying some platitudes about looking on the bright side.

"For instance, is it not more likely to accomplish what is desired, if we say, 'Yes, it is a hard task, but you are equal to it,' or, 'God will help you,' than if we just say, 'That is easy,' or, 'You ought to see what some people have to do'?

People's Blessings
