A Canadian Woman Speaks.

DEAR SIR,-Having read your report of the Dungannon meeting, I must say that I was shocked beyond expression to think that the language used in regard to marriage was that of the First Minister of the Dominion. It sounded more like the impure utterances of a heartless libertine, and that, too, in the presence of virtuous women. Does the premier recognize marriage as God's ordinance Eden, and sanctified by the presence of the Lord Jesus at Cana of Galilee—and a standard still, likened unto the union of Christ and His church? Will those noble (?) English scions whose immorality Sir John Macdonald condones take those "savage women" to the halls of their fathers and proudly introduce them to their stately mothers and sisters and SERVED HIM RIGHT. - A young man also to the "love-lost Amy's" ! A friend of mine, the talker told us, sleep ng for one night at a hotel, stuck his diamon eastpin into the bed curtain, rose hastily to atch an early train and left it there, says Cassell's Magazine. He hardly liked to trust the honesty of the chambermaid, and left his coss untold. He spent a twelvemonth or more oss untold. He spent a twelvemonth or more as Malta with his regiment; and, returning on furlough, went to the same hotel, asked or the same room, and found his breastpin there he had left it. That does not say much or the cleanliness of the hotel, I hear some me saying. Perhaps not, but it says sometimg for the sharpness of the pin wearer. There was wit as well as luck in his method. Here is a story of pure luck. A lady, a pectacle wearer, went shopping in the west and. On putting her hand in her pocket for aer "eyes" preparatory to choosing a dress, and. If losing be seeking—and to prove the use of seeking for that which is lost has been the object of this paper—there is not seldom a finding without a seeking. Of such finding take this as an illustration. [You will please to observe that it is still the clergyman who is talking.] "A friend of mine went into a hosier's in Bristol to buy a pair of driving gloves. Selecting a pair which he thought likely to suit him, he asked and was granted permission to try them on. He tried them on, bought and paid for them, and then asked the tradesman whether he had ever had complaint made to him of the loss of a ring in his shop. The fact being that the little finger of the buyer's left hand had now upon it such a ring, which it had unwittingly withdrawn from the recesses of the glove and which, doubtless, had been left there by some former would-be purchaser. The shopman answered that no such complaint had been made; and the purchaser of the gloves left the shop with the ring in his possession, leaving behind him his name and address, in case the loser of the ring should ever turn up."

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AVER'S Hair Vigor has given me nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. **My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in larges quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hannnond, Stillwater, Minn.

Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Harper's Young People AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

Harper's Young People has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be." and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgement of parents, no less than to the tastes of children namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are cepious and of a conspi uously high standard of excellence.

"What is it? What, Anna?"
"What is it that has changed you, Randal? Sorrow you have had to bear, sorrow and pain from your early childhood, and nobly you have borne it. None know that better than I, who have had all your love since our parents died. But that was a settled pain, a patiently borne burden. Now, Kandall, someting new troubles you. I have marked the change for months past. You are restless, paler than usual, and now for two weeks past this has increased to an extent that has alarmed me. I have waited, brother, for your confidence. Tell me now, what is this cloud?" He sat silent, the pale features working with pain, the delicate fingers nervously clutching the arms of his chair, and his whole frame nerving itself for composure.

She sees in me only her parson, her friend; as such I believe she likes and trusts me. Never speak of it—how can you?—she is dying!" and with a cry of anguish Randall sank back into his seat again. There was no word for a sorrow like this. Anna Williams knew well that an attack of syphoid fever had prostrated her friend and Sunday-School scholar Ella Graham, and that to-day Randall had offered, by her father's request, the prayer for the dying! She took the fair head in her own arms and softly ciressed him, seeking with mute sympathy to confort him. presed him, seeking with mute sympathy to imfort him.

The Touching Story of Beryl and Bertle.
From the Chicago News.

"Hush! Not another word." clung to her Diana-like form in graceful folds, had sailed away into the great unknown.

At first she had sung gay verses, the spankling harmony rippling from her lips in a cascade of melody that held Bertie Cecil spell-bound at her art, but after a little it seemed as though the girls mood had changed, for when her fingers had wandered filly over the keyboard of the instrument for a monent she had bent her queenly head forward a little and then came to Bertie Cecil's cars the words of the cld Scotch ballad:

When the cows come home.

When the cows come home,
When the cows come home:
Meet me, duding, in the glouning
When the covs come home. When the covis come home.

It was at the conclusion of the last stanzathat Beryl had risen from the plano and moved towards the conservatory.

"Speaking of cows," said Bertie in his rich, manly voice, whose every tone thrilled Beryls ahole being, so madly did she love him, "reminds me of pleuro-pneumenia. And it seemed to me, sweetheart, that you, too, are in danger of catching cold; you seem—"

Terrible Projectiles.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

Mr. Blake has made, says the Week, we must say, a very effective reply to the charge against him of unpatriotically cryng up Kanses as a place for settlement and running down Canada. It seems the referred to Kansas in debate only once; that he did it for good cause, and that there was nothing unpatriotic in what he said. He flings back the charge of want of patriotism with great force on those who, believing, as they aver, that his words were hurtful to the country, nevertheless gave them the widest possible circulation for a party purpose, instead of letting them die and be furgotten. "I believe," says Mr. Blake, "in the virtue of the truth, and I believe that great harm has resulted to Canada, both at home and abroad, through the adoption of other tactics." "There is no name under Heaven whereby we can be saved." This passage of Scriptura is not to be found in the Ross Bible. It is omitted. Why?—Teronto Man. It is not in the King James Bible either. The nearest approach to it is Acts iv. 12: "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must he saved." EASONABLE AT SIGNAL

Leeburn,

John Andrews, of Goderich spent Christmas with friends here. D. McGillivray, of Goderich, Knox College student, conducted service here on Sunday, and preached an able turkey and plum pudding, and enlisted in the army of Benedicts. Each had a happy Christmas.

IN THE WOODS .- In the heart of the dense woods D. Morris, R. Gibbs and Harvey Green have erected a log cabin while chopping. The last named acts as cook, and his triends challenge any girl in the township at a baking contest, the winner to get the loser's photograph, the shadow not the substance. The Dunlop architect is to be the judge in this culinary contest.

The merry peals of the kirk bell called together a number of parents and friends to the church in spite of the rough weather on Christmas Eve. The occasion was a Sunday school entertainment. Upon entering, the eye fell upon two handsome Christmas trees, loaded with choice fruit, which had sprung up in the choir since the previous Sunday. On the left were to be seen the beaming faces of the children, in charge of John Linklater and Miss Edith Horton, and on the right were the teachers and officers. As the chairman was late, the librarian acted as presiding officer pro tem, and opened the proceedings. A hymn from the choir was followed by a reading by S. B. Williams, and a solo by Miss Edith Horton. D. Cummings then appeared, and took the chair. He made a neat address to the little ones, and pointed them to the beautiful mottoes prepared by James Linklater. The report of the school was read, and made a most favorable show-The rendition of the cantata by the children was splendid from beginning to end. The bell-ringing piece was given in most plessing style. The kirk bell could not resist the invitation and chimed in its deeper chorus. A number of recitations were well rendered by the little folks. At the close A. C. Mac-donald, the superintendant, was present ed with a silver cake basket (handed to him by E. N. Shaw) accompanied by the following address read by Miss Ellen

Horton:To Mr. A. C. McDonald, Superintendent Leeburn S. S.

We, the congregation and teachers of the Leeburn Sunday School, recognizing the long and faithful services you have rendered to the S. S., feel desirous of giving you some tangible proof of our appreciation. We would not have you look upon our gift as a reward of your services, which we feel altogether yond our power to reward. We have great pleasure in presenting you with this small taken of our respect and esteem. As the value of our gift is comparatively small, we hope you may look upon it as coming from the heart. And we hope you may be leng spared to go in and out amongst us; and that you may be cheered and encouraged from day to day by the progress and spiritual growth of the S. S. And we would still further hope that many may be able to look back with pleasure and gratitude to their connection with this S. S. as the place from which they turned their steps towards the heavenly Jerusalem. And, in conclusion, we would earnestly ope that when all your labors here on earth are ended you may hear the Master's voice saying, "Well done, good and with the North-st. Methodist church Sunday school were held on Sunday and Monday, Dec. 19th and 20th. Special sermons were preached by the pastor, Rev. G. R. Turk—in the morning to the children, taking for his text : "Remem ber now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and in a very effective way pre teachers, his text being : allowing them to go in the way they "would go." Large congregations at-tended both services. On Monday evening a "tea" was served in the basement, after which the scholars adjourned to the main part of the church, where an interested audience had gathered to welcome them. After the opening exercises, rather novel programme was entered was placed upon the platform, and on its seven steps were the following mottoes, commencing at the bottom: "Our Country," "Our Home," "Temperance," "Music," "Obedience," "Our Church," "Bible," and this was surmounted by a cross and crown, the whole neatly decorated. Ten minute addresses were given upon each of the topics, interspersed with solos, choruses and reci tations by the school, the whole affair being very successful. The school is now in a very prosperous condition, the attendance each Sunday numbering about 300. Special collections were taken up at all the services in aid of the library fund. At the close of the programme, Miss Henderson, superintendent of the primary department, was called to the form, where she was presented with a handsome plush dressing case, accompanied by a suitable address, in recognition of her services in connection with now terminates, owing to her removal to that they could not be happy at Christp.as, in the usual fashion, so they refused all invitations of friends to turkey and plum pudding, and enlisted in the army of Benedicts. Each had a happy Christmas.

IN THE WOODS.—In the heart of the dense woods D. Morris, R. Gibbs and Harvey Green have erected a log cabin while chopping. The last named acts as cook, and his friends challenge any girl in the township at a baking contest, the winner to get the loser's photograph, the shadow not the substance. The Dunlop architect is to be the judge in this culinary contest.

The merry peals of the kirk bell called together a number of parents and friends to the church in spite of the rough weather on Christmas Eve. The occasion was a Sunday school entertainment. Upon entering, the eye fell upon two handsome Christmas trees, loaded with choice fruit, which had sprung up in the choir since the previous Sanday. On the left were to be seen the beaming faces of the children, in charge of John Linklater and Miss Edith Horton, and on the right were the teachers and officers. As the chairman was late, the librarian acted as presiding officer pro tem, and opened the proceedings. A hymn from the choir was ceedings. A hymn from the choir was followed by a reading by S. B. Williams, and a solo by Miss Edith Horton. D. Cummings then appeared, and took the chair. He made a neat address to the little ones, and pointed them to the beautiful mottoes prepared by James Linklater. The report of the school was read, and made a most favorable show-The rendition of the cantata by the children was splendid from beginning to end. The bell-ringing piece was given in most plessing style. The kirk bell could not resist the invitation and chimed in its deeper chorus. A number of recitations were well rendered by the little folks. At the close A. C. Macdonald, the superintendant, was present ed with a silver cake basket (handed to him by E. N. Shaw) accompanied by the following address read by Miss Ellen

To Mr. A. C. M Donald, Superintendent Leeburn S. S.
We, the congregation and teachers of the Leeburn Sunday School, recognizing the long and faithful services you have rendered to the S. S., feel desirous of civing consequent teachers of some giving you some tangible proof of our appreciation. We would not have you ok upon our gift as a reward of your services, which we feel altogether be-yond our power to reward. We have great pleasure in presenting you with this small taken of our respect and esteem. As the value of our gift is comparatively small, we hope you may look upon it as coming from the heart.

And we hope you may be leng spared to go in and out amongst us; and that you may be cheered and encouraged from day to day by the progress and spiritual growth of the S. S. And we would still further hope that many may be able to look back with pleasure and gratitude the place from which they turned their steps towards the heavenly Jerusalem. And, in conclusion, we would earnestly hope that when all your labors here on earth are ended you may hear the Master's voice saying, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." We have great pleasure in Mr Macdonald, taken thoroughly by surprise, at first could not find words to express his thinks. However, he soon found speech, and in suitable terms thanked his friends for their kindness. The stripping of the trees was then indulged in to the great pleasure of all.

A well known bachelor had the trees laden with apples for the little folks.

Methods by Which You May Tell Whether Interesting Defails of Cases of the Kind in You Are Likely to Have It.

If anyone would know whether he is likely to live long or die soon, let him enquire following interesting letter: In your issue of whether old age runs in his family or not, for Soth ult, there is a description of a thoroughthe good tissues of long life are apt to be bred filly foxled without eyes. The following hereditary, and he may commit a good many description of some cases within my own excesses or other errors without killing him self if he comes of a long-lived stock, says the readers: About the year 1868 my brother Vortnightly Review. In like manner he may (Alec. Mosdie), then living at Koort Koort, get much help toward a knowledge of the dis-cases to which he is prone and which excesses draught size named Parmer, then standing set much help toward a knowledge of the dis-cases to which he is prone and which excesses or other errors are likely to light up, by inquiring what diseases his fore-tathers or kinsmen suffered or died from. Some diseases are notoriously reckened to be directly hereditary in like kind, for ex-ample, epilepsy, phthisis and insanity. When a person has one of them we are not at all supprised to learn that the discovery as a suf-fficient evaluantion, and to that the this overy as a suf-fficient evaluantion, and to that the this overy as a suf-fficient evaluantion, and to that the this overy as a suf-tant of the supprised to be a supprised to be an unit of the supprised to be a suppris ample, epilepsy, phthisis and insanity. When a person has one of them where not at all supprised to learn that the discovery as a sufficient explanation, and to thoughthat no more need be said. But it is not really an explanation it is merely an indication of the direction on which the exact explanation has yet to be sught. If it be a sufficient confunction, how does it happen that all the children of the same unsound father or mother do not suffer in the same way? How is it that twins, living under the same conditions, have not always, as now and then they have, the same diseases at the same ages? In calling a disease hereditary it is not really means that the disease itself is actually inherited by the offspring, who, in that case, would be been with it what is meant is that the letter inherits a certar organic constitution who being likely to undergo the pathological development in the ordinary circumstances of life, is therefore described as a constitutional predisposition or tendency to the disease. We do not in the least knew what it is thought to be so great in the cases of the diseases mentioned and so likely to be transmitted to children as to be a sectors objection, if not an estual bar to marrie of the who, having fallen in love, are aware of the existence of them in their families are therefore not a little troubled sometimes with scruples of conscience and anxiously ask medical advice whether they shall marry or not. In the end they commonly marry, whatever the advice given them, having persuaded themselves that the pelepsy was not real epilepsy, but a form of violent hysteria; that the lung mischief was not constitutional phthisis, but the accidental consumence of a medical coil; that the pelepsy was not real epilepsy, but a form of violent hysteria; that the lung mischief was not constitutional phthisis, but the accidental consumence of a medical coil; that the pelepsy was not real epilepsy, but a form of violent hysteria; that the lung mischief was not constitutional phthisis, but the accidental seemed a wilful exaggeration by different narrators, a stranger who was present volunteered his experience of his crity use of the fatal double-barreled gun as follows:

"I went into the field one day to try gunning. The only game I discovered was an inmense flock of blackbirds. I should say there were 10,000 in the flock. Slowly I orawled up to them, and when not more than four rods away the birds rose in a solid mass. I fired both barrels, and "how many do you think I killed?"

Different guesses were made by the party, ranging from twenty to 100.

"Not one," said the stranger, "but I went out with my brother to look for results and we picked up four bushel of legs. I had shot a little under." This was the last story told.

Big Boots.

In the German army the Fatherland kindly provides very roomy boots for its warriors. There is a very serious inconvenience, how-ever, attending the disproportion between the sizes of boot and feet. In very soft, tenacious and other painful effects of sudden cold ground the boots are left sticking, while the man goes on, casting an affectionate farewell Yellow Oil is found truly valuable as a look behind him, but halt be cannot. When household remedy. look b hind him, but halt he cannot. When the Eighteenth Army Corps, two years ago, defiled before the Emperor at Strasburg across a stubble field, which rain had rendered very sticky and muddy, the boots of the infantry were pulled off by hundleds, so that a fatigue party had to be told off, amid great laughter, to gather up the lost property. This is no exaggeration, and in military history the occasion is still known as the "boot parade." Three is four years ago at the mancuvres near Berlin we saw thousands of men suffering agony from boots that wrung their feet. This is a very important matter and would tell seriously in a campaign.

CAMPBELL'S

This agrecable yet potent prepara-This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor. Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless conic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carainative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a goary character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, axd in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized.

Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

BREAKFAST.

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of sublic maladies are flosting around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame. "Ciril Service Gazette."
