WITNESS IN CHINESE INVESTIGATION MARKS CHARGE AGAINST COLLECTOR BOWELL.

Vancouver, Dec. 27.—Several witnesses today stated before the government Chinese investigation commission that landing wharves who were too strict in dealing with Chinese and smuggling were sooner or later transferred from the C.P.R. wharf and given inferior positions at other wharves.

In reply to questions, Harris stated that two years ago he had been transferred from the C.P.R. wharf. He had been particular as regards smuggling but could not say he was too particular.

Last year, when he was going on his holidays, witness stated that Mr. Foster of Pacific Coast Steamship Company told him he could have a ticket on the line for half price if he showed a letter from Bowell.

"I don't think it is fair to say that you were shifted from the C.P.R. wharf because you were too strict," he asked.

UPPER HOUSE IN MANY COUNTRIES

How Germany, France and Other Nations Deal With the Problem of Government Through an Upper House.

Now that the burning political question of the day promises to be the retention or the abolition of the House of Lords, it is of interest to note how other nations manage their Upper Houses of Parliament, says Pearson's Weekly.

For it is a somewhat remarkable fact that practically all the constitutions at all events possess upper houses of some kind or other, and in almost every instance the upper house exercises a conservative and restraining influence upon the lower.

This is so even in Republican France, where the Senate, corresponding to our House of Lords, has repeatedly come into collision with the Chamber of Deputies. Yet the senators are chosen by vote in much the same way as are the deputies, the main difference being that the latter are elected for four years, while the former sit for nine years, one-third retiring in rotation every three years.

Germany's House of Lords. There are also a few life senators, survivors of a number of elected many years ago by the two Chambers, but more are being created by the vacancies caused by death being filled by senators elected for the customary nine years only.

What corresponds in Germany to our House of Commons, as in England, is the Reichstag, which has an absolute majority in both houses, but it is noteworthy that the Kaiser has no power of veto, whereas our King George, of course, in theory at all events, the Bundesrat consists of only fifty-eight members, called delegates, and they are not elected but are appointed by the governments of the different states that go to make up the German empire in proportion to their population.

The Austrian Upper House is constituted very much as our House of Peers would be constituted if certain moderate reformers have their way. It is composed of the princes and imperial family who are of age, of whom there are four, and of seventeen archbishops and bishops, and of a minimum of 100, with a maximum of 170. Its members nominated by the emperor for distinguished services in science, art, or to the church or state.

It is also the same in the royal family who are of age have seats in the senate, as the Italian Upper Chamber is called, but there are no hereditary legislators. Indeed, there are an unlimited number of members selected by the king for life. They must have reached the age of forty years, and pay taxes to the amount of at least 200 pounds a year.

The Spanish Little Way. The Cortes is the name given by the Spaniards to their parliament as a whole. The Upper Chamber consists of 200 members, respectively as the Senate and Congress. The Senate is either nominated by the crown or who sit by virtue of nobility or high official position, and of 180 who are elected. The Senate and the Congress sit alternately in the Cortes, and either of them, or the king, can introduce any law.

Curiously enough the same Parliament of Serbia has a second chamber, and anything corresponding to it is called the National Assembly, and is elected by the people through the medium of a single constituency called by the name of House of Commons. There are 140 members, and their method of election is similar to that of the House of Commons in this country.

Each constituency chooses by ballot three times the number of persons entitled to represent it in the assembly. It is as these appoint the deputies. It is as these appoint the deputies. It is as these appoint the deputies.

MCGILL REQUIRES INCREASED FUNDS

The Montreal University's Growth Is Stunted for the Lack of a Sufficient Endowment to Carry on the Work.

Montreal, Dec. 26.—The annual report of the University, Principal and Fellows of McGill University for the current year contains some very important statements regarding the institution's present position and future policy.

"If very little new ground," says the report, "has been broken, that already occupied continues to be cultivated with conspicuous success. It cannot be too clearly emphasized, however, that McGill's notoriety of growth is in the meantime nullified by lack of adequate financial support.

"One of the obvious disadvantages of an urban site for a great university is that it cannot expand. Most of the colleges at Oxford, with an average of only 150 residents, have each three or four times as much space available in their playing fields as McGill can put at the disposal of its 1400 men students.

"The university of Toronto now enjoys an annual income of about $750,000, provided by a generous Legislature from the time of its foundation. McGill receives only $300,000 annually.

"The board of governors will, in due course, after announcing the subscriptions of larger donors, make a statement to the general body of citizens appearing for help."

WORLD-WIDE HUNT FOR KIDNAPPERS

New York Police Throw Out Dragnet For Escaped Sicilians Who Are Wanted on Kidnapping Charge.

New York, Dec. 26.—Circulars asking for the arrest of Rosario Castell and his wife, Giovanna, and of Vito Sorisi and Leonardo Arena, on a charge of kidnaping, were sent broadcast over the world yesterday by the police department. These are Sicilians who escaped the police when they rescued 8-year-old Giuseppe Longo and arrested a band of supposed kidnapers in a tenement at 330 East Sixty-third street a week ago.

The circular has photographs of Sorisi and Mr. and Mrs. Castell, the former being from a proof found in his room, which had begun to blacken from the light.

Sorisi, who is also known as Pappa and Corino, was born at Borgetta, Province of Palermo. He is 23 years old, five feet seven and a half inches in height and of slender build, weighs 150 pounds and has chestnut hair and mustache, gray eyes and an aquiline nose. His wife is 23 years old, five feet five inches tall, with rosy complexion and dark hair and weighs 135 pounds.

Arena, alias "Ronna," of whom no picture is shown, is 23 years old, five feet seven or eight inches in height, with a tan complexion, dark hair and smooth shaven face. He weighs 160 pounds and is said to have two moles near his right eye.

The clue which led to the rescue of the Longo boy and the capture of the band was given by an anonymous letter to William J. Flynn, second deputy police commissioner, after the police had worked for three weeks unsuccessfully. It said that the two boys had been taken to the East Sixty-third street address and might still be there.

A raid was made by Policemen McNeill and Carro, Black Hand experts of the department and five other policemen, disguised as laborers. They were accompanied by Nicholas Rizzo, a brother of Michael Rizzo and a playmate of Giuseppe Longo, who, passing over a transom, saw the latter in a room on the second floor.

The policemen, after a struggle and chase, arrested seven men and two women, but in the confusion the quartet now wanted escaped capture or were not taken to the station.

Michael Rizzo was found the following day, his captors having apparently become frightened by the arrests of the preceding night.

Both boys had been in the room, but the evidence failed to identify twenty other persons are missing and probably were utterly consumed by the fire after the train was derailed.

Montana Man Moves

Only cattle country now uncultivated. Lies in Valley of the Peace. He says—Excellent grazing in a favorable climate.

M. J. Campbell, Frank Watson and Jim Petray, prospectors and cruisers, on Friday morning for the Peace River country, to look over a block of land on the Half-way River, in the interests of a large Montana outfit, who, on a favorable report, will bring up a herd of 20,000 cattle from the Sweet Grass Hills during the coming season.

"It is the only cattle country now uncultivated," said Mr. Petray to a Bulletin reporter Tuesday. "It will, of course, all be taken up in ten years, but a good deal of money can be made in the meantime."

Mr. Petray and Mr. Watson made a cruise through the whole interior of British Columbia last summer. They went up the Skeena to Hazelton, packed over from there through the Omineca and Peace River country, which they left in July, going down to Quesnel and Port George. From there they crossed the Skeena to Port George, and down the Peace River to Port St. John, about forty miles west of St. John, on the Half-way river, they located what they were looking for—a suitable block of grazing land, one hundred and eighty-three sections in all.

"It is very similar to the Calgary country," said Mr. Watson. "The grazing is excellent and we do not expect to cut hay for winter. We found nothing like it in all the interior of British Columbia; there is ten times as much grazing land and the growth is wonderful. Our block lies directly west of the Dominion Government reserve in the province of Alberta, and is bounded on the north by the Peace River, on the east by the Peace River, on the south by the Peace River, and on the west by the Peace River."

"You hear nothing about the Peace River country in Vancouver," added Mr. Watson, because Vancouver is not a good grazing land and the country is going to help Edmonton."

Mr. Petray has been prospecting for fifteen years around the Flatly and the Omineca rivers. "No one realizes the possibilities of the country or its extent. All the way from St. John to Graham, the country is ideal grazing land—rolling hills six thousand feet up, covered with nothing but grass. Then the minerals will prove a big attraction. I was in the Inzenka rush, three years ago and there was a good deal of money made. But the expense of getting in is too great. It costs a man $700 to get his outfit in and the returns are too small. The government should spend a little more on the roads. A few thousand dollars spent annually in improving the roads would mean that the country could be opened up to thorough prospecting, which is impossible under present conditions."

Mr. Petray was enthusiastic over the Flatly and the Omineca rivers. "The Flatly contains the finest timber in the interior of B. C. Of course the inland timber does not compare with what grows on the coast, but there are lots of spruce, three and four feet through."

M. J. Campbell, who is a native of Prince Edward Island, has spent the last thirteen years in the Klondyke, where he claims has the finest climate in the west. He has been through the west and along the coast to San Francisco, but I never saw anything like the summers we have in the Klondyke. The winters are cold, but the air scarcely stirs, and I guarantee it is not as cold as sixty below there as at a higher temperature here. I last there in October when they were enjoying beautiful weather. The river did not freeze up till Nov. 4th, and I understand they were dredging still on Dec. 12th."

Dawson, according to Mr. Campbell is not growing in population, for although mining development on a large scale is taking place, it is done with minimum of labour and only a small per cent are employed away from the number of men in the rush of '98. Consequently other industries have not developed.

He thinks, however, the time is not far distant when there will be a large population in the northern country.

THE SHEEP INDUSTRY Canada's Best Market is in the Old Dominion—Hopes of the U. S. Market.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—The impression is evidently gaining ground among the breeders of pure bred sheep in Canada that the only prospect of securing for themselves a steady annual market for their surplus stock lies in the direction of the encouragement and development of sheep raising, as a business in our own country.

Two years ago they were confronted with quarantine restrictions imposed by the United States, which created conditions for which they were not prepared and which, in the end, depressed sales in a marked degree. During the greater part of the past season the market has no doubt been a buoyant one, but lately the feeling of confidence in a continuous demand for Canadian sheep in the United States has steadily declined. The recent sheep sales at the International were none so satisfactory for Canadian breeders as it was evident that they could look for a steady increased trade was particularly encouraging.

It may seem most natural that Canada should be able to obtain a firm and advantageous foothold in the markets of the United States for her sheep and wool, but it is now quite clear that, until the conditions of the two countries become more firmly established, the Canadian sheep industry, when depending so largely on the United States for its export market, rests upon a very unstable foundation. Fortunately, however, other and very encouraging outlets are available. It may be noted at this point that the home market is not unworthy of consideration. This year a not more than five carloads of lambs were shipped to East Buffalo from Ontario, while in 1907 almost 1,000 carloads went to that city. The Toronto and Montreal markets have absorbed practically the whole output during the past season and at prices equivalent to that paid for similar quality in Chicago and Buffalo, a fact which is clearly indicating the strong and growing demand for mutton on the Canadian market.

Notwithstanding the proximity of the United States, the safest outlet for the Canadian product is still to be found in the British, and, possibly at an early date, in the European markets. The English wool market is the centre of distribution for the product of the great wool producing countries of the world, including Australia, New Zealand, and the Argentine. If the sheep industry in this country can ever be developed to reasonable proportions, it is not to be expected that any more natural or reliable market can be found for surplus Canadian wool. In addition to this, when the extent of the industry may make possible the necessary grading and sorting of the product, such that it may be placed upon the British market in attractive condition, the prices realized may be found much more remunerative than those at present obtained.

It is also clear that the great and natural outlet for our surplus meat products, including those of mutton and lamb, is to be found across the sea, where the producing power of the crowded populations of long inhabited countries, Great Britain has hitherto absorbed all the surplus of the world's meat supply, but it seems probable that she is shortly to have competitors in the market for foreign meats. There is a movement in Australia and Germany which will eventually result in the penning up of these countries to a chilled and frozen meat trade. A steady market is without doubt thus assured for all the mutton that Canada can produce.

The breeders of pure bred sheep, therefore, if our argument holds, would do well to direct their best energies to the development of the sheep industry in our own country. As a matter of fact, a strong local demand is the safest market in the long run. A material increase in the sheep population of the country would create a thoroughly healthy home market for breeding sheep and one which is not to be desired. The opportunities in this direction may well be worthy of somewhat careful consideration.

It is fortunate that, at this time, the Federal Government is interested in itself in the sheep industry of the Dominion and is making a thorough investigation with a view to that adoption later of a policy which may lead to its general encouragement and development. There is reason to believe that sheep raising in Canada may become at no distant date a decidedly profitable industry, and the Minister of Agriculture has undertaken a measure which we may expect to be productive of much good result. We learn that the members of the investigating commission, having completed their researches in the United Kingdom, are to spend the next few months in studying conditions in the Dominion and are now engaged in interviewing a number of prominent sheep breeders of Ontario. We are hopeful that they may meet with the full co-operation of sheep raisers and farmers generally in the prosecution of their work.

The St. Denis is long overdue in Los Angeles from Victoria, STEAMER IS LOST IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN. Eighteen Men, Crew of the Small Vancouver Steamer St. Denis Are Believed to Have Been Drowned Somewhere off Cape Flattery.

Vancouver, Dec. 27.—The fate of the little steamer St. Denis, a familiar vessel at this port during the past two years, is no longer in doubt. Somewhere off Cape Flattery, in the fierce gales that prevailed two weeks ago, she was lost. With hope of success, blown far from the beaten track, she went down with all on board, and her wreckage strewn all the way to the coast of the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The wreck was discovered by the U.S.S. Albatross, which has been ordered to search for the remains of the vessel.

Chicago Grain Markets. Chicago, Dec. 27.—Futures of wheat or snow, which are most needed in the winter, are in demand. There was also heavy trade in visible supply, latest May 1-2 to 1-2. The market was more or less short selling, neither support, nor somewhat deliberate, not to say backward, however, short sellers acted with decision. Continued dry weather southwest gave rise to a moderate rise in the price of wheat, but moderate sales on the small scale, and a slight movement of the market had but slight interruption the rest of the day.

THE VICTORIA GULCH MINES, Limited. CAPITAL $1,000,000. In 21 shares per lot, fully paid and non-assessable, $500.00 in the $1.000.00 and the balance paid for one year.

"THE KLONDYKE'S MOTHER LODE" The storehouse from which the famous placer creeks, Bonanza and Eldorado, received their fabulous wealth, have been uncovered on the Victoria Gulch Mines, situated on the ridge at the head of Victoria and Gay gulches. The company's holdings consist of four gulches, a tributary of Eldorado and at a height of about 2,000 feet above Dawson, has been opened what appears to be a true quartz vein, showing suggestive signs of abundance. The gold is distinctly crystalline in character, and the gravel is a peculiar form having a triangular outline due to the fact that they are octahedral, and in particular a remarkable variety known as "spiral" wire. Now it is significant that the gold found in Victoria gulch is also crystalline and has the same characteristic outline, here we have fairly convincing evidence that the gold found in a stream gravel is identical with that found in situ in a quartz at the head of the gulch, and this instance there can be little doubt as to the origin of the gold.

Dr. Eugene Haanel, Director of Mines, issued an advisory in a report to the department in 1902 says: "Masses of quartz were seen protruding from the surface all about the locality, and it seemed only to see the surface of the quartz with water to reveal the bright specks of gold adhering to their surface."

Mr. W. Brock, Professor of Geology in the University of Toronto, in collaboration with Professor A. G. Coleman in a report to the Minister, the Interior says: "At the head of Victoria Gulch which runs into Bonanza, a creek opposite Gay Gulch, a tributary of Eldorado and at a height of about 2,000 feet above Dawson, has been opened what appears to be a true quartz vein, showing suggestive signs of abundance.
