Prescription "A"

Cures Indigestion and Dyspepsia in all its Forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RAY CARROLL

"But lady when thy voice I greet, Not heavenly music seems so sweet." - Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Her voice was ever soft. Gentle and low; an excellent thing in woman. - Shakespeare. How many women do you suppose there are in the world who could not, by sufficient effort, cultivate distinctly pleasing voices? Myself, I doubt if there are any at all, hopelessly handicapped in this direction at any rate, very few. And yet, how often do you hear a voice which - apart from personal associations - you find active pleasure in hearing. Mighty seldom, I reckon. Strange, is it not, that while women frantically offer all sorts of lotions and potions, their last dime and dollar, and sometimes even their health, upon the altar of the fickle goddess of beauty, they will not even give a little time and thought to possessing that charm which many people rate quite as high as physical loveliness - an attractive voice? Of course you understand that by an attractive voice I do not mean a good singing voice - merely an agreeable speaking voice. Such a voice should be, in the first place, properly placed. It should come from the chest and throat and never from the head. About one-half of the American women, I believe, speak most of the time from the head. In the second place, if it is to be musical, a voice should be well modulated - not always harping on the same note, but using now one note and now another. It is the lack of this change of pitch that makes reading aloud so often monotonous, and, of course, it has the same effect upon conversation, although one notices it more in the steady reading. In the third place a good voice is always free from any note of complaint, or fretfulness or nervousness. There are some people whose conversation is disagreeable and wearying to listen to, no matter what they say, because of the continual note of complaint or nervousness in their voices. Again, though a voice should be low pitched, that does not mean that it should be so low and have so little breath behind it as to be with difficulty audible. When Shakespeare set his seal of approval on a woman's voice which was "soft, gentle, and low," I am sure he did not mean the indistinct half whisper which some women affect. I have known women who used so little energy in speaking that listening to them was a constant strain. This is what I call a positively selfish habit, for by doing so they forced their listeners to supply, in mental and aural activity, the energy they failed to use. Indeed, I think that vitality and heartiness are indispensable qualities in a really pleasing voice. No matter how carefully placed and modulated a voice may be it is not thoroughly agreeable if it lacks these qualities. If many women spent the time they employ rubbing absolutely futile lotions into themselves, fitting their finger nails that ridiculously artificial polish and plinning and unpinning elaborate rats and puffs, in listening to and trying to improve their voices, I think they would accomplish more towards increasing their charm than they now do.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her best and fairest. Why isn't it so? The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organ: that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks. No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

These plastrons are a newer form than the jabot frills which have been so popular and which, though still in considerable use, are now no longer a novelty. Deeply pleated frills of net and ace, mounted to either high standing collar bands or very low bands, are expected to be fashionable. All new nightgowns are in the dainty form, with narrow sleeves. Owing to the almost too great popularity of the scarf, efforts are being made to introduce some newer form of light wrap to replace the straight scarf. Varied effects of fichu and shoulder-cap effects are being presented. Among the most interesting of these is the Pierrot wrap, which has the characteristic neckruff and the rosette of the Pierrot costume. The newest veils are the dyed shadow lace effects, sheer and with the silk-run patterns sufficiently delicate to enhance, rather than detract from, the appearance of the wearer. New handbags show the continued use of fabrics in preference to leather.

The Stomach Needs Help

The liver, kidneys and bowels must be kept active with DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS. The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangements follow. There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This medicine gets the bowels in action at once and by awakening the liver and kidneys ensures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems. With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthful condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression. You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Ed. Wilson, Bales & Co., Toronto.

Confessed to Knowledge of Dynamiting

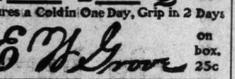

Vice-President of Iron Workers Says He Discussed Them With J. J. McNamara - Corroborates McNameral.

Los Angeles, Jan. 2.—The sudden collapse of Eugene A. Clancy, Vice-President of the International Union of Structural Iron Workers, during a conference with Oscar Lawler, special United States prosecutor in the dynamite conspiracy investigation, on Dec. 20, was explained to-day by a statement given out by an official high in federal legal circles here. Detective McLaren, of the Burns detective agency, and Orte McNamara, confessed dynamiter, were witnesses to the dramatic meeting, and the presence of McNamara, with the facts fired at the San Francisco union leader, broke his nerve and brought about the confession showing the connection of some of the "higher ups" with the dynamite conspiracy. The following admissions were made by Clancy, according to the official who made the information public to-day: That he (Clancy) met J. B. McNamara by appointment in Seattle in August, 1910. That J. B. McNamara informed him that he would use the name of J. B. Bryce in California jobs. That J. B. McNamara had told him that he had been sent to California to spend six weeks in blowing up "scab" jobs. That he knew that J. B. McNamara was the brother of J. J. McNamara because he had met him in Cleveland several years ago. That McNamara prior to the dynamiting of the Los Angeles newspaper plant the dynamite plans. That he had met Orte McNamara on several occasions and discussed plans with him following the dynamiting of the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles. That he had talked with J. B. McNamara in regard to the Lyons building in Seattle. He had involved through his confession not only the three leaders indicted jointly with him, but gave information which, if corroborated, may result in the returning of additional true bills charging the same crime. These are only the high lights of a more detailed statement made by Clancy, who was formerly a member of the Executive Board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. Detective McLaren at first declined to discuss the matter, but later confessed fully the items of the Clancy confession set forth above. It is further learned that the admission of Clancy, together with portions he made which involve other persons, are in the hands of Special Prosecutor Lawler and District Attorney Fredericks, who are now on their way East and that these admissions will form an important part of the evidence that Lawler will place in the hands of U. S. Attorney Miller and the federal grand jury in Indianapolis. On the day the confession was obtained Clancy, hardly able to stand even with the support of his nurses entered the office of the government prosecutor and was brought face to face with Orte McNamara. This sudden meeting apparently unnerved Clancy, and the knowledge that McNamara could hear what he said and the pointed questions of officials showing plainly the evidence involving him are understood to have loosened his tongue. When he had finished his statement Clancy had an attack of heart trouble and was immediately placed under the care of a physician at the Hotel Sherman, where he was stopping. Later he was granted permission by the government officials to go to San Francisco in the custody of a United States deputy marshal.

WIVES.

Wives are useful articles of furniture which fill the home with joy and gowns that have to be fitted on with a rope and pulley. This fitting is usually attended to by a low-spirited husband who is called upon to run nervous fingers up and down his wife's vertebrae several times a day in search of the elusive ing practice and is liable to fresco too bodouir with hand-painted language. After a man has worked hard all day and stood off everybody in the city limits, what is more depressing than to be led up to a $2.49 shirt waist and invited to engage in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match with 2,745 buttons which are harder to locate than a four-flushing elder in a prohibitor light? Some wives are designed for purely ornamental purposes and spend life's precious hours matching department store hair and toying with the deadly curling iron, while others tie up their hair in a neat cupola and figure on the price of creamery butter. There is quite a demand for wives who can get along without a hired girl and go about the house looking like the leading lady in "The Cloak Model's Revenge," but they are about as plentiful as freckles on a White Leghorn rooster. Some wives have an unlimited supply of breezy conversation which they turn loose on a man just when he wants to go to sleep and get a breathing spell, while others rarely exchange repartee with anybody except the rub board or a corn broom. Under our marriage laws a wife is expected to get along on a weekly allowance of two bits and a chaste kiss, delivered in semi-annual installments, and this has bolstered up the suffragette movement to a point where it is a menace to our institutions.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is Laxative Bromo Quinine Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

A novelty feature in leather trimming is the button and buttonhole effects. The idea of selling a buttonhole trimming with the buttons is entirely new. Many of the new hair ornaments are in the jeweled effects, these bands replacing to a considerable extent the fabric bands that have been in use. The aigrette trimming is extremely popular, but, owing to the restriction on hevon, this form of head dress cannot play so important a part in America as it does in Europe. Satins are freely used. Brocaded silks will continue to be high class and in considerable movement up to the arrival of warm weather. For the spring and summer season there are many novelties in printed effects, the patterns taken from india prints and early Victorian styles. Everything new of this character is in the hand-block printed effect, with the irregular outline.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me. I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANET ZELI, 2808 Arch St., Chicago, Ill. This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit. Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sidewalk Sketches.

By H. L. RANN.

By using the gas ring at the top of the cooker, a plentiful supply of hot water can be obtained for washing dishes, dusters and cloths; further, by obtaining flexible piping, the ever-useful gas-heated iron is at your service. But it may be urged, is not all this gas rather an expensive item? Properly used, most decidedly No! For, without its aid, assistance in the household would in many cases, be absolutely indispensable. In conclusion, it must be said that to abstain from the use of what is such an important factor in the lighting of domestic drudgery is, to say the least of it, being a penny wise and a pound foolish.

Gave Life to Save Her Mother

Bertha Rehan Stepped in Front of Revolver and was Shot Dead.

New York, Jan. 1.—Bertha Rehan, a 14-year-old girl, stepped in front of a revolver in the hands of her stepfather, George Benz, a saliceman, and received in the temple the two bullets which had been intended for her mother. The girl died in an ambulance half an hour later. The mother was uninjured. Benz fled down the street but was captured and held without bail on a charge of murder.

$14,500,000 Well Spent.

Big Sum Used in the United States to Combat the Ravages of the White Plague.

New York, Jan. 1.—The sum of $14,500,000 was spent during the year 1911 throughout the country in the war against tuberculosis, according to a statement issued to-night by the national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis. This large sum is probably the same as last year's total, but the percentage of public money, such as received from federal, state, city or county funds, which is 66 per cent for 1911, shows a marked increase over the percentage of public money appropriated in 1910. Of the total sum spent in the war last year, $11,800,000 went directly towards the treatment of consumptives in sanitariums and hospitals, and the remainder to anti-tuberculosis associations, dispensaries, open-air schools, boards of health and other agencies.

Eclipse of the Sun

An eclipse of the sun will take place on April 17. In this country it will be visible as a partial eclipse. The actual time of duration of the eclipse will be greatest in Portugal, and may be anything between six-tenths of a second and eight seconds. A party is being organized by Mr. G. F. Chambers to go to a spot in Portugal, near Oporto, to view the eclipse under the most favourable conditions.—Daily Mail.

Advantages of Gas.

But the advantages of gas over the old-fashioned way of conducting domestic affairs is by no means confined to cooking. If, instead of gently pulling that magic chain, which turns on the bright incandescent light, one had first to have ordered and taken in oil, polished the pedestal of the oil lamp, cleaned the glass chimney, trimmed the wicks, filled the bowl with oil, one might cry out about the difficulty of doing the day's work, and the dreadful death of really reliable domestic servants. Geysers in a bathroom avoid all the disappointment of finding that the water is only tepid instead of being boiling hot, because the kitchen fire has been allowed to burn low after the cooking for the day is over. With a geyser all the trouble of stoking and building up the fire, and keeping it at a certain height are unnecessary, one strike of the match applied to the burners is absolutely all that is needed for the attainment of a hot bath, and the water heats with great rapidity. Where there are young children, it is often of the greatest importance to have ready to hand the means of giving a hot bath in cases of sudden illness; so this is another point in favour of substituting gas for the old method of heating cooking wicks. During the winter months gas fires also play a prominent part in lessening the labours of the housewife. It is satisfactory, after having been on duty for some hours, to be able, on returning home, to get all the benefit of a cheerful fire in an incredibly short space of time, without smoking wicks. It is satisfactory, after having been on duty for some hours, to be able, on returning home, to get all the benefit of a cheerful fire in an incredibly short space of time, without smoking wicks.

By using the gas ring at the top of the cooker, a plentiful supply of hot water can be obtained for washing dishes, dusters and cloths; further, by obtaining flexible piping, the ever-useful gas-heated iron is at your service. But it may be urged, is not all this gas rather an expensive item? Properly used, most decidedly No! For, without its aid, assistance in the household would in many cases, be absolutely indispensable. In conclusion, it must be said that to abstain from the use of what is such an important factor in the lighting of domestic drudgery is, to say the least of it, being a penny wise and a pound foolish.

The Water Problem.

We are glad to find that the Water Committee of the City Council acted promptly in investigating the delay in the concentration of the water-pressure of the city supply at the time of the Burns' fire. The finding of the Committee is apparently that the delay was caused by lack of promptness in notifying the water-store to adjust the sluices to direct the force of water available in the neighbourhood it was required.

The pressure appears also to have been low owing to service pipes running. Now this is a contingency that under the present conditions of a large number of houses must be reckoned with and provided for, and no set of regulations forbidding citizens to allow water to run from taps during the night can adequately safeguard it. Indeed, the chief object of connecting up the mains along Rennie's Mill Road and Monkstown Road, and the intention to place sluices at the junction of these streets is to enable the civic authority to direct the two supplies of water into one channel which shall give one great head of water at the junction in case of such emergencies as happened on Thursday last. It is a great pity that the work was not finished before the hard snap of the past ten days. A fortnight or so ago trenches were opened at the junction of the two roads to finish the work, and it was hoped a mild spurt would provide an opportunity of connecting up the two water systems. Just at the very time this work was being attempted, the hard weather of the past ten days came on and the attempt was abandoned for the present and men are at work with bars, sledge hammers and picks loosening the earth that had been taken out of the trenches there and backfilling them. The work will no doubt be resumed in the spring and the two systems linked up, so that in the winters of the future the waste water difficulty will not be such a material handicap in concentrating water pressure where a fire emergency calls for it.

Mailmen All Right.

The Postmaster General received word to-day that the missing mailmen, Sinnott and Hodder, who set out from Clarenville to go to Britannia Cove with the mails last Tuesday, are safe at Elliot's Cove. They reached their homes there Tuesday afternoon in the height of the snow storm and remained there ever since, waiting for the storm to abate. Search parties from Britannia Cove and Clarenville went there yesterday and found that the men were all right. They resumed their journey to Smith's Sound this morning with the mails. There were two search parties looking for the men and both found them at Elliot's Cove. The men live at Elliot's Cove on Random Island, about three miles from Clarenville. Their route was from Clarenville to Elliot's Cove and thence to Lady Cove, thence across the island to Britannia Cove. It seems that when they reached Elliot's Cove Tuesday the storm was raging and blocked the road with snow, so that they could not proceed further. It being stormy ever since, they remained at Elliot's Cove, and they could not get word of their arrival to either Clarenville or Britannia Cove, where there are telegraph offices. The search parties returned home last night and report the roads in a terrible condition. The Government, we learn from Hon. R. Watson, are sending out extra help to get the mails sent to their several destinations.

Another Vessel Driven Ashore

Shortly before 1 p.m. to-day, the Marine & Fisheries Department had the following message from Customs officer Costello at Moody Island: "Schooner Minnie B. Hickey Master, ashore on Governor's Island, since Monday evening. Men on island yet." Moody Island is a small place a mile or so from York Hr. and no doubt the men were prevented from crossing by the stormy weather. There are no residents on the island which is barren and devoid of shelter but no doubt the men would make an effort to get their boats ashore and would also secure food from the wreck. Mr. Goodridge wired Mr. Costello to get the men to the nearest relieving officer to have them sent to their homes.

An American Schr. Wrecked

At noon yesterday U. S. Consul Benedict had a telegram from Capt. James McGrath of the American schooner Helen G. Wells, was ashore near Odroy, and he inferred that the vessel was a total wreck. The 'Wells' is a vessel of 66 tons nett and carried a crew of 16 men. She was half loaded with herring for Gloucester and most likely in making Cape Ray kept too far in during the stormy weather of yesterday morning and went ashore. Consul Benedict has arranged with the Reid Nfd. Company for the transportation of the crew to their homes and they will proceed to Sydney by the Invermore and will be taken charge of by the U. S. Consul there. She was on her way from Curling to Gloucester.

Rev. Monsignor Roche preached the third sermon of the Holy Name Triduum at St. Patrick's Church, Riverhead, last night. The sermon was eloquent and instructive and was a suitable finale to the sermons preached the first and second nights by Rev. Fr. Pippy and Rev. Fr. McDermott. The subject of Monsignor Roche's discourse was "Penance." There was a large congregation. To-night there will be Confessions and to-morrow Holy Communion for the members of the Holy Name. His Grace the Archbishop has promised to preach for the Society a sermon on the Holy Name at the Cathedral to-morrow night.

Destroy Turkish Gunboats.

Special to Evening Telegram. ROME, To-day. A severe naval action occurred to-day in the Red Sea, when seven Turkish gunboats and an armed yacht were destroyed by an Italian warship division. The Italian cruisers, which had been scouring the coasts of the Red Sea in search of Turkish war vessels and ships conveying contraband destined for the Turkish garrisons in Yemen Province in Arabia, encountered a flotilla of Turkish gunboats and at once opened fire. The Turks replied but their feeble armament succumbed to the superior weapons of the Italian vessels. The fight was stiff, but soon ended in a victory for the Italians.

Skates 100 Yards in 9 Secs.

Former Amateur Champion Lowers World's Record by 3-5 of a Second. Saranac Lake, N.Y., Jan. 1.—Edmund Lamy, former amateur skating champion, covered a hundred yards on the lake to-day in nine seconds from a standing start in an exhibition trial. The record has been 9 3-5 seconds, made by Morris Wood in 1903. Lamy's feat is remarkable because he skated around a circular track and was not paced. In another exhibition he beat all former barrel jumping records by leaping seven barrels, ends up, and twelve on their sides, one more in each case than he ever did before.

All in 15 Letters.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—More time is to be saved by the stenographer, more space is to be placed at the disposal of the letter-writer, and thoughts are to be expressed direct, without waste by a new alphabet invented by Prof. Fred Newton Scott, of the University of Michigan. The alphabet, which is said to have the approval of type manufacturers and typewriter houses is intended to reduce the modern English alphabet by nine characters and do away with combinations which Prof. Scott declares are cumbersome, wasteful and complicated and do not express clearly the thought of the speaker or writer.

The elements of the alphabet that I have designed are simple," said he. "The system resembles shorthand in one respect, yet the simplicity of the entire proposition is such that no one need devote a great deal of study in order to master it."

Venango's Rough Trip.

The Furness liner Venango, Capt. Phillips, arrived here from Halifax at 7 a.m. to-day after an exceedingly rough and tedious voyage. The ship left Halifax at midnight Monday and two hours after leaving was overtaken by a gale from the S.E., while a terrible snow storm prevailed, changing to sleet early Tuesday morning and rendering it most disagreeable for the officers and crew who had to keep the decks. A mountainous sea ran, and the vessel's head had to be kept up to it to save her from damage while she lay to for 12 hours, when the wind suddenly veered to the S.W., later chopping off to W. and W. N. W., blowing with great velocity and causing a high and confused sea. This weather continued with thick snow most of the time and very heavy frost until the ship sighted Cape Race, bearing N.W., at 8 p.m. yesterday. Thursday night also the ship was off the Cape, to the southward of it, but could not pick up the light owing to the snow storm which prevailed. That night the wind blew a hurricane from the W.N.W., and seas very often boarded the ship. One of them swept over the side and washed overboard 80 casks of petrol out of a shipment of 100 packages of the material, while a large portion of her deck load of deals for England also went by the board. Capt. Phillips says that it was one of the roughest passages he ever made from Halifax to this port. The weather was very frosty also for a while and the ship was considerably iced up. The thermometer often recorded several degrees below zero. The ship has 500 tons of cargo for this port and sails for Liverpool Monday.

People going home from work at 6 o'clock last night were treated to an exhibition of swearing and furious driving by a truckman of the higher levels. He was under the influence of drink and the way he handled that horse was pitiable. He drove it at top speed over Long's Hill, at intervals bringing it to a standstill and jiggling on the reins with all his might. Any person that happened to glance in his direction were challenged to fight and also treated with rounds of abuse. It was a great pity a policeman was not around, as he would certainly have arrested him.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

I have a spavin on my knee, and when the weather's damp it causes so much misery I find it hard to tramp. And when for remedies I beg, between my anguished screams, one healer says: "You have no leg—you're merely dreaming dreams. And since you have MANY REMEDIES no leg, my friend, no spavin is thereon; so let your idle rantings end, and to your lair begone." Another healer who has straw where doctors should have brain, says: "Let me at it with my saw, and I'll relieve your pain." "Internal remedies," says one, "will make that spavin fade," and then he brews about a tun of sparkling skunkroote. "A flaxseed poultice," says one leech, "your anguish will allay;" and it's so hot folks hear me screech ten parangangs away. Another would a blaster use, still other gifted men insist that powders in my shoes will make me whole again. And so I limp along my path in sore and grievous plight, and in my heart there is no wrath, for all the docs are right.

Noisy Truckman.

People going home from work at 6 o'clock last night were treated to an exhibition of swearing and furious driving by a truckman of the higher levels. He was under the influence of drink and the way he handled that horse was pitiable. He drove it at top speed up over Long's Hill, at intervals bringing it to a standstill and jiggling on the reins with all his might. Any person that happened to glance in his direction were challenged to fight and also treated with rounds of abuse. It is a great pity a policeman was not around, as he would certainly have arrested him.

Another Schr. Wrecked.

Yesterday evening Mr. H. W. Le-Messurier, the Assistant Collector of Customs, had a message from Sandy Point which stated that the schr. H. G. Wells had gone ashore there in the gale of Thursday evening with a cargo of codfish on board, and was leaking badly. Should more bad weather occur the vessel will likely become a total wreck.

Battery Road Impassable.

The condition of Battery Road at present is one which imperatively calls for remedy. Drifts are piled high there, and as the surface of the snow which fell a few nights ago is frozen over, residents in passing there are in danger of slipping over the cliffs and embankments and being killed or seriously maimed. Coal or other kindred household requisites cannot be brought out on the road and is generally dumped near Callahan's cottage, when at great risk the people are compelled to carry it on their backs to their houses. The place should be shovelled immediately.

Dear Coal.

A resident of Parade Street, had to pay out $3.70 for a half ton of coal last evening before it was landed safely in his cellar. He paid $3.30 for the coal, 20 cents to have it put in sacks and 20 cents to have it brought across the Parade Ground to his house.

TROUTING SEASON.—The trouting season will open next Monday.

City Council.

The regular meeting of the City Council took place yesterday, the Mayor and full Board being present. Councillors Coaker and Ryan reported that they had examined Turnkey Miller, Foreman Donnelly, Engineer Ryan and Turnkey Fogarty in reference to the unpreparedness in connection with the Burns fire. As a result the Councillors expressed the opinion that there was loss of valuable time owing to the turnkeys not turning off the water before the firemen reached the scene of the fire. The Councillors suggested that the system of sending alarms of fire to the turnkeys be made more perfect. They also reported that the Council would be justified in asking the Government to provide a harbor boat for fire patrol.

Councillor Mullaly was of opinion that a commission should be appointed to investigate the whole question of the late fire. There was gross negligence in not sending in an alarm through the box in the regular way. He moved that the report submitted by Councillors Coaker and Ryan be adopted. Councillor Martin seconded the motion, which was carried.

The following is a synopsis of the evidence:—

Water Inspector Donnelly — "I learned of the fire at 9.20 a.m. I asked Mr. Fogarty, the turnkey, about the sluices and was told that Miller was attending to them. No alarm by the gong was received at the Water Store. The only notice was by the 'phone. I found hose attached to six hydrants at the fire. I ordered adjustment of the sluices at Oldridge's, Water Street, Barnes Road, Military Road and Monkstown Road. This should give a pressure of 900 lbs. to the square inch and should act at once under ordinary conditions. A large number of service taps were running and it took some time for the pressure to be felt. Of the six hydrants in the vicinity, one was found to be frozen."

Engineer Ryan said that he reached the scene of the fire at 9.30. He met Miller going to the Water Store after attending to the sluices. He saw a hose near Baldwin's on King's Road with water not on; another near Bennett's with the water flowing. He heard some one say that the hydrant was frozen, but by the time he got to the foot of the street the water was on. The flow was poor, but quickly improved from the use of the sluices. He thought it a pity that no alarm was sent from the fire station, as the first moments at the fire were most valuable.

Turnkey Fogarty said that before he went to his breakfast he saw the fire horses going out and believed that they were being exercised. At his home he was first informed of the fire by Miller.

Mr. J. P. Blackwood, acting for the Trustees of Cochrane St. Church, informed the Council that the church land on Flavin Street would not be leased again on the old terms and that if the Council wanted it now they would have to pay $200 a year and specify the use to which the place would be put. He suggested that arbitration be held re the damages done by the Council during their tenancy. Councillor Mullaly thought that if the land had become lessened in value by reason of the Council's work on it that the owners should be compensated. Councillor Martin thought the land had become more valuable. Mayor Ellis said that the Solicitor's opinion should be adhered to, viz, that the property had not suffered damage. Councillor Ryan proposed that the lease of the land be renewed for rock crushing. The motion was carried.

The Engineer will report on the complaint of T. J. McGregor re Hanley's place, King's Bridge Road.

Mr. W. Dryer will be advised to make complaint to the Magistrate re the noise caused by the motor in the Clothing Factory next door.

The Engineer will enquire about the waste water at C. F. Bennett & Co's.

Water Inspector Donnelly reported that residents of Duckworth St. East caused waste water by leaving their taps open. They will be ordered to comply with the rules.

The snow will be removed from Battery Road.

Councillor Mullaly's resolution for removing snow off sidewalks is to the effect that the law be amended, giving the Council power to impose a tax on all occupiers of house on Water St., the money to be used in clearing the snow.

The Health Officer reported that B. Rowe of the sanitary staff would be unable to do duty for several weeks.

After passing the reports the meeting closed at 6.30.

Princes in Politics.

Apropos of the recent outburst of the Crown Prince of Germany in the Reichstag, it might be mentioned that, although in this country Royalty usually maintain a strictly silent and impartial attitude in regard to political questions of the day, it has been stated that the late King Edward, when Prince of Wales, applauded Gladstone's Home Rule speech. The last time open objection was taken to the presence of a Royal personage in the House of Commons was in 1846, when Peel introduced his Bill for the repeal of the Corn Laws.

The Prince Consort was in the gallery on January 27th, the night of its introduction, and a few nights later Lord George Bentinck insinuated that he had been there to give Peel the assurance of his support, and that it would have been more proper if he had stayed away. This incident contributed largely to the unpopularity with which Prince Albert at that time was regarded, say the 'Manchester Guardian,' and he never again entered the doors of the House of Commons.

During the debate on the Catholic Relief Bill, in 1829, Greville describes how the Dukes of Clarence and Sussex, who were for the Bill, attacked the Duke of Cumberland, and how "they used towards each other language that nobody else would have ventured to employ," as one might expect, perhaps, from members of the same family.

The Duke of Clarence said the attacks on the Duke of Wellington had been "infamous." The Duke of Cumberland thought the remark applied to him, upon which he was told he could take it if he wished. But Cumberland was accustomed to hard knocks.

He once had to submit to being told by Brougham that, while Wellington was illustrious by his actions, he was only illustrious by the courtesy of the House.

The Mean Man.

"Talking about meanness," said an old son of the soil, who nursed a pint of ale in a chair by the fire, "you should ha' known old Ruby what used to keep a farm out Goswell way."

"Twenty years ago, it is on New Year's Day, that his son went out with a tin bucket to milk a cow. Somehow or other, both the lad and the bucket disappeared mysteriously."

"No more was heard of him till he wandered back home ten years after, as rich as a millioaire, and loaded the old man up with gold and diamond pins and new clothes, and gave him five hundred pounds as a birthday present."

"And d'ye think old Ruby was grateful? Ne'er a bit!"

"George," says he, "wot 'ave yer done with the bucket?"

"And George left home again, wondering whether his dad was the meanest man in the world, or whether that distinction was still held by a fellow who used a wart on the back of his neck for a collar stud."

Journalist Dies Crossing Ocean.

New York, Jan. 2.—With the arrival to-day of the steamship Saxonia from Liverpool, came the first authentic account of the death at sea of John Ward Hunt, a New York newspaper writer.

Hunt, according to wireless despatches telling of his disappearance was not washed overboard, but, according to the best belief of the officers and passengers of the ship, deliberately leaped into the sea some time after dinner Christmas night, and was not missed until the following morning.

The sea at the time was smooth and there was not the least possibility, they say, of a person falling over the rail. Hunt seemed to be in a perturbed mental condition on the evening before his disappearance.

Drowned on Wedding Day.

Giving evidence at the inquest recently on Mary Ann Boyce, forty-seven, of Orchard Street, Woolwich, who was found drowned in the Thames early on Sunday morning, Henry Boyce, a laborer, said he was married to the deceased woman at midday on Saturday at Woolwich Registry Office. In the evening he went shopping with her, and left her for five minutes in a public house, but missed her on his return and never saw her again.

A doctor stated that death must have taken place seven or eight hours before the body was found. The jury returned an open verdict of "found drowned."

CLEARED THE SIDEWALK.—For two days past the sidewalk east of the Telegram office had been partially cleared by a declivity was left which was an obstruction and a danger to pedestrians. Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. M. Clapp ppt some men to work there who cleared the place to the great satisfaction of those using it.

Did Good Work. Northern Messenger.

During the progress of the fire at the Hanley residences, Thursday, one of the Reserve firemen named John Whelan, particularly distinguished himself for dashing work. With a wet handkerchief about his face and mouth he repeatedly went into the building through the smoke and flame, and through his exertions, in a great measure, was saved what little furniture that escaped the conflagration.

Not Salts, Oil or Pills, but Cascarets.

No odds how sick your Stomach; how hard your head aches or how Bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gasses; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

Men Fell From Train Going 50 Miles An Hour.

Paris, Dec. 27.—A terrible struggle occurred on the footboard of the Paris-Bordeaux express between a sergeant of gendarmes and a prisoner whom he was escorting to Bordeaux.

The latter broke the lavatory window and climbed out on the footboard. The sergeant followed by the door and, after a desperate fight, both men fell on the line, while the train was travelling at a speed of 50 miles an hour.

The sergeant was killed instantly, and the prisoner was recaptured and conveyed to a hospital, where he died to-day.

The Coal Beds OF BYLOT ISLAND.

Beds of coal within the Arctic circle. Traces of a once mild climate, where now all is sterile, cold and inhospitable. What vistas are opened to our minds by the thought. One lives to dwell on it, and in fancy to go back to the dim ages ere man had had a place upon the earth, to witness a world in the making. We stand in awe at the contemplation of the consummate wisdom displayed in the economy of nature. These tribulations through which our globe has passed, those mighty forces of fire and frost and deluge, of earthquake, of crumpling and folding, of elevation and depression were not accidental, rather they were the means by which an all-wise Providence moulded and fitted this world for the reception of man. Who can conceive of a wisdom superior to that which has by depressing as they were formed, one below the other, those thick and rank vegetable growths that we are digging out to-day as coal, multiplied as it were, the surface of our globe, by heaping one layer upon or above the other, as we put books upon a shelf, much space for new growth has been made available, whilst the superincumbent weight of strata was compressing the lower beds into a compact and hard mass that occupies but a small proportion of its original bulk. Were it not that the Almighty has preserved to us those ancient forests in the form of coal, I cannot think of how man could have attained to his present position in the arts and sciences. We are, of course, becoming more and more independent of coal, as we learn how to utilize the vast water powers of the Continents both directly and indirectly. We are coming more and more to rely upon electricity, and it may be that eventually we will be altogether independent of coal, at any rate in countries that have abundant water powers as in Newfoundland.

Those lignitic coal beds of Bylot Island tell a story of a once mild climate that existed within the Arctic Circle, long ere the history of man had begun. Those plants are now presented to us in the form of coal, once covered the land with a verdant mantle. The hum of insect life was heard mingled perhaps with the song of birds. A long period of slow submergence, marked the deposition of those beds, and culminated in the great glacial epoch, which terminated the period of temperate climate conditions and ushered in the long season of refrigeration during which were accumulated vast sheets of ice and snow which spread over the Northern hemisphere. Traces of the ice sheet may be met with as far south as the great Salt Basin of Utah. In Newfoundland we have abundant evidence of the prevalence of ice, in great mountains or mounds and ridges and boulder clay.

I have seen grooved and striated rocks near the top of the South Side Hill and in the interior of the country near the Topsails. The climax of the frigid era has long since passed, and we of to-day are seeing the re-advance of a milder state, which in its turn must give place to another glaciation. Thus the great cycle of change keeps on, with no trace of beginning nothing to indicate an end.

The coal bearing strata of Bylot are about 200 feet in thickness. They contain a great number of thin, scattered, inter-bedded, with sandstone and shales. They begin about 1200 feet above the sea and terminate at an elevation of about 1400 feet. The thickest seam observed is about 10 inches in depth.

Below the coal bearing strata, one may see thin dykes of intrusive rock of the acid type, resembling trachyte ramifying in many directions through the dark shales. Those shales also contain nodular concretions of limestone and pyrite. The limestone is

The Coal Beds OF BYLOT ISLAND.

Beds of coal within the Arctic circle. Traces of a once mild climate, where now all is sterile, cold and inhospitable. What vistas are opened to our minds by the thought. One lives to dwell on it, and in fancy to go back to the dim ages ere man had had a place upon the earth, to witness a world in the making. We stand in awe at the contemplation of the consummate wisdom displayed in the economy of nature. Those tribulations through which our globe has passed, those mighty forces of fire and frost and deluge, of earthquake, of crumpling and folding, of elevation and depression were not accidental, rather they were the means by which an all wise Providence moulded and fitted this world for the reception of man. Who can conceive of a wisdom superior to that which has by depressing as they were formed, one below the other, those thick and rank vegetable growths that we are digging out today as coal, multiplied, as it were, the surface of our globe, by heaping one layer upon or above the other, as we put books upon a shelf, much space for new growth has been made available, whilst the superincumbent weight of strata was compressing the lower beds into a compact and hard mass that occupies but a small proportion of its original bulk. Were it not that the Almighty has preserved to us those ancient forests in the form of coal, I cannot think of how man could have attained to his present position in the arts and sciences. We are, of course, becoming more and more independent of coal, as we learn how to utilize the vast water powers of the continents both directly and indirectly. We are coming more and more to rely upon electricity, and it may be that eventually we will be altogether independent of coal, at any rate in countries that have abundant water powers as in Newfoundland.

Those lignitic coal beds of Bylot Island tell a story of a once mild climate that existed within the Arctic Circle, long ere the history of man had begun. Those plants are now presented to us in the form of coal, once covered the land with a verdant mantle. The hum of insect life was heard mingled perhaps with the song of birds. A long period of slow submergence, marked the deposition of those beds, and culminated in the great glacial epoch, which terminated the period of temperate climate conditions and ushered in the long season of refrigeration during which were accumulated vast sheets of ice and snow which spread over the Northern hemisphere. Traces of the ice sheet may be met with as far south as the great Salt Basin of Utah. In Newfoundland we have abundant evidence of the prevalence of ice, in great moraines or mounds and ridges of boulder clay.

I have seen grooved and striated rocks near the top of the South Side Hill and in the interior of the country near the Topsails. The climax of the frigid era has long since passed, and we of to-day are seeing the re-advance of a milder state, which in its turn must give place to another glaciation. Thus the great cycle of change goes on, with no trace of beginning, nothing to indicate an end.

The coal bearing strata of Bylot are about 200 feet in thickness. They contain a great number of thin seams inter-bedded with sandstone and shales. They begin about 1,200 feet above the sea and terminate at an elevation of about 1,400 feet. The thickest seam observed is about 10 inches in depth.

Below the coal bearing strata, one may see thin dykes of intrusive rock of the acid type, resembling trachyte ramifying in many directions through the dark shales. These shales also contain nodular concretions of limestone and pyrite. The limestone are

FEARED LOCKJAW

In Badly Calked Horse—But Egyptian Liniment Saved Him

The season of icy roads and sudden heavy snowfalls, is an anxious one for horseowners, because it is so easy for a sharpshod horse to cut himself seriously when foundering in the deep snow. A bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment on hand then, may be the means of saving a valuable animal for you. It not only stops the bleeding at once, but keeps the wound clean and healthy and quickly heals it. Read what Mr. G. P. Ashbocker, Evan Mills, N. Y., says about it: "Egyptian Liniment has made extraordinary cures for me. One of my horses got badly calked, and everyone said he would have the lockjaw. The wound gathereed and broke, and there was a great hole between the hair and the hoof. I used only Egyptian Liniment and the horse's foot was soon sound and well. It made a permanent cure. In my estimation there is nothing equal to this Liniment for cuts or sores of any kind." 25 cents at all Druggists. Free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

perfectly spherical in form and some of them attain to a diameter of four feet. Above the coal is a thick deposit of a praty substance in which lie buried the trunks, branches and cones of trees. This detrital heap is overlain by a glacial deposit of coarse gravel, sand and boulders. Sand and gravel are interstratified with the plant remains, which go to show that there were intermittent periods of tranquillity and more or less rapid movement of the water in which the accumulation was laid down.

That the deposit is not the result of growth in situ, but is the result rather of sedimentation, is borne out by the fact that the imbedded tree trunks have had their branches broken off and their ends frizzled by being pushed along by rapidly moving and shallow water, in the manner in which we see trees being carried by freshets. In my opinion the deposit was laid down in a shallow bay or lagoon. That it did not grow on the spot is plain. Prior to the elevation of the region into dry land, an area of comparatively still water lay between the ancient mountains of Bylot to the north and the mountain range that rises some miles from the shore on Baffin Land to the south. Most of this region is now covered by the waters of Eclipse Sound and Navy Board Inlet. Such an inland sea as the one premised could easily be the depository of terrestrial vegetation, that torn by storms from the land, could be transported by fluvialite action and launched upon its bosom to be subsequently deposited in some quiet bay. The detrital mass referred to is suffering disintegration, its component parts are being carried down the mountain to be again heaped up and buried under a protecting mantle of silt and gravel, perhaps to be formed into coal in the great laboratory of nature.

A striking example of how glaciation may even in a restricted area be contemporaneous with vegetable and animal life is evinced by the fact that within a short distance of a glacier near the coal field of Bylot the writer found grasses two feet six inches high, as well as marigolds, bees, butterflies, and other vegetable and insect life.

A message yesterday afternoon to Hon. H. J. B. Woods from Clareville stated that the search parties which had left Thursday to look for Mallman Smith and Mr. Hodder, both reported missing since Tuesday, had returned but could not find the men. The men who were out asked for more help, and Mr. Woods replied to get any further re-inforcements deemed necessary and to confine the search. The party from Clareville again took up the quest last night, but nothing had been heard up to that time of the party prosecuting the search from Britannia Cove. In the meantime there is much anxiety expressed for the safety of the men.

Shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday an alarm of fire was sent in from box 15 bringing the Eastern and Central firemen again to the store of Mr. W. E. Beams which had been pretty well gutted by fire on Thursday. From that day fire had smouldered among some material on the third flat and broke into a blaze yesterday afternoon. Some paper bags, etc., were burned but no further damage was done and the chemical effectually quenched it in a few minutes.

The storm of wind and snow which has raged with very little intermission since Thursday week ceased yesterday afternoon when it became calm and perceptibly milder; as a result people could get about with more facility than before and all the places of amusement were well patronized. New Orange is a Marvel. Old Crop Can be Left on Trees Until Second Matures. The Lue Gim Gong is a new orange, originated by a Chinese fruit grower of De Land, Fla. According to a writer in Country Life in America this new variety is going to revolutionize orange growing throughout that part of the country. It is declared that the fruit has been known to hang on the trees for one, two or even three years, and that the trees bear well even when it is still carrying the crop of the previous year. This is not true of most other varieties. It is also said that the fruit can be shipped as early as June, although it is still too acid then. It is good in July, but better in August and September. "The fruit is full of juice," says the quoted writer, "and hangs on the trees through the rainy summer weather. It can therefore be placed on the market when oranges are scarce, and the highest prices can be secured."

Topsail Notes.

Again Christmas has come and gone. Sobriety and good conduct prevailed through the whole season. The various societies had their usual parades and attended Divine Service.

On St. Stephen's Day the Royal Orange Association of Kelligrews, Foxtrap and Long Pond paraded to All Saints Church, Foxtrap, the sacred edifice being filled to overflowing. The prayers were said by Rev. E. K. H. Caldwell, the sermon preached by Rev. T. G. Netten.

On the following day (St. John's Day), the specious Church at Hope-well was well filled, when the Society of United Fishermen attended Divine Worship. The service was conducted and the sermon preached by Rev. E. K. H. Caldwell.

On Friday, 29th December, the Royal Orange Association of Topsail had their parade, and marched to the Church of St. John the Evangelist at which a large number of worshippers were present. The service on Monday, New Year's Day, was conducted by the Incumbent, who was also the preacher. New Year's Day witnessed the annual parade of the Society of United Fishermen, of Topsail, who attended Divine Service at the above Church. The Incumbent officiated and preached. In each case the Societies were accompanied by the Brass Band discoursing inspiratory music as the members pursued their march. The services were largely attended, and marked by their bright, hearty character.

A petition is being sent in to the Government, largely signed, asking that a sum of money may be voted for the opening, deepening and widening of "the Gut" at Long Pond, and securing it by proper masonry against the encroachment of the sea. It is a much felt want, and the granting of the prayer of the petition would be the means of conferring a great benefit upon the people of this shore, and of the Bay in general. In stress of bad weather a safe harbor would thus be afforded to numbers of fishing boats and other craft.—Com. Topsail, Jan. 11th, 1912.
