NOVELS
BY A. W. W.

Infolent! Infolent! yes, I am infolent;
So is the grass growing tenderly, slowly,
So is the violet fragrant and lovely;
Drinking in quietness, powerfully content—
So is the bell in the light boughs swinging,
Singing its song of grande singing.
Only on living and loving intent.

Infolent! Infolent! yes, I am infolent;
It is no ill to gather my pleasure,
Out of creations unmoveable treasure,
Midnight and morning—by forest and sea—
With wild remembrance, with exultation,
Elegy in autumn's solemn lamentation,
Hopeful and happy with Spring and the tree.

Infolent! Infolent! yes, I am infolent;
They who are bold and bold and lonely,
Wrapping in purple, pale cover the only,
Shaded in softness, violet gossamer,
Silent eyes behind cheeves, and angels are weeping
Over the forest and desolate sleeping.
Art thou not infolent? Art thou not?

ASPECTS IN AGRICULTURE.

Wood ash is one of the most important fertilizers. It is easily obtained in any quantity, and at little or no expense. Take them carefully from your trees, and save them until your crop is raised, so as to have them ready for the ground. Turn each of your fields into a small plot, a small hundred of acres, and cult it at the root of your plants, and let the earth so as to cover the ashes. By this means you increase your crop half.

Ashes contain all the organic substances of the wood or plants which are consumed, a part of those are soluble. But the soluble substances mixed with water will dissolve the insoluble. The large Capital of the Company, and the number and influence of its Proprietors, enable us to rank with the most diligent and enterprising agriculturists.

WIRE FENCE.

Persons engaged by this Company are not subject to any exactions or penalties for making good losses which may happen to themselves or other, nor do they demand upon an uncertain fund or contribution, the Capital stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the Assured in case of Loss or Damage by Fire.

LIFE BRANCH.

In addition to the more customary methods of insurance, the Company likewise Assures Lives on the term of One Year, Seven Years, or any other duration.

For the whole continuance of Life.—The Premiums to cease, after a limited number of Annual Payments.

For Two Joint Lives.—The sum assured to be payable at the death of the last.

The Survivorship.—To secure the payment of the Premiums, the sum assured to be payable at the death of the first.

From our Creditors.—A portion of the Premiums may remain to Credit. Assurance may be effected in various ways, not enumerated, to meet the convenience of parties.

The important advantages afforded by the Company in the Life Branch will include the following:

For a single crop a large proportion of potash, 50 per cent, two and one-half a caratose of potash, and one-half of the early part of the fresh potash is pure potash.

Save your salves, therefore, as carefully as you do your tinctures, apply them to your crops with care, and you will find them of much greater value while growing, and heavy with nutriment at harvest.—Adieu City.

A moderate price, they are probably the best fertilizers for the soil. The cost of a few bushels must be spent on the top dressing of ashes and sand.

Early in the spring, and when the ground is frozen, it is the best time to lay the ashes on the grain, and spread it over the ground, so as to keep the grain from getting wet, and the soil from drying up.

As a top dressing, in March or April, according to the climate, at the rate of from 200 to 300 pounds per acre, it is impossible for us to name the price of any fertilizer in any particular neighbourhood.

In many places, unashed ashes are the cheapest, and best manure; and when the grass disappears of lime may be used at a profit, which depends on the average price of hay.

It is very desirable, both for the health of the animal and the orderly progress of the labour of the farm, that all domestic animals, as far as possible be fed, watered, &c., at the same hour and minute every day. It has been found by experience that when thus attended to, they live longer, and are more serviceable, and remain quiet until that period comes round. This is true of all domestic animals, and should be heeded by the farmer. Let him so arrange his labor at the barn, that every operation may be performed at a certain hour, and not with regard to so much more time, and place, and pleasure than by leaving it at hazard, without system or regularity. Few things are more unpleasant to the good farmer than the complaints of hungry stock.

MILK POWDER.—A gentleman in Alabama in exciting himself one day felt a sudden pain, and fearing his internal machinery had been thrown out of gear sent for a physician on his plantation to make some preparations to medical sale. To his great surprise, however, he had investigated the case, proposed and administered a dose to his patient, with the utmost confidence of a speedy cure. No relief being experienced, however, the gentleman sent for a physician whom he had left his master. But just as he was to call on Dr. —— “Hail and Alum, Sir!” “What did you give them for?” continued the doctor. “Why,” replied Bob, “do allow me to draw a postscript, and do resit to Sodas um.”—The patient eventually recovered.

BE GENTLE.—When you cannot drive, you can persuade. A gentle word, a kind look, a good natured smile, can work wonders and accomplish miracles. There is a secret pride in every human heart, which, if not allowed to express itself, will become dull, but if allowed to do so, will make him a man, and should be respected.

Children and looks are most essential to the equine faculty. Children should never be spoken harshly to. It does them no good. If they commit a fault they should be corrected for it in a mild manner. And the impression it makes will prove salutary.

PEACE.—The battle of Inkermann, was fought on the 5th November, the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot, so Punch’s version of the old doggerel is—

Remember, remember, the fifth of November,
When the gunpowder plot was foiled;

Guy Fawkes, Guy Fawkes, burnt alive,

And the King and Queen were safe and sound.

And a jolly good looking he got.

What is particularly noted is, who had not got well in the hammering, and the banging, at the little white pine table, bound with her Thanksgiving plates, with her own pinned up to a festoon behind, that upholstery might in vain try to imitate, and she stopped short at the pine crust when the big pin stuck through the back of the chair, so that for him that enters a man and woman sees the wrinkles of his heart, and leads him to words round turkey to bless the hearts and hands of the poor of the poor. Thanksgiving. God help ‘em; what a poor soul that has no sympathy act as if there was a God above, for whom the poor never say, “God bless you.” She was deeply engaged with what she said, at the same time engaged in trying the quality of the meat for the mince pies.—Boston Post.
