

FACTURE OF ED GRAPE JUICE

Keeping Juice from Ferment- e It—How Fermentation is settle for twenty-four hours; carefully drain the juice from the sediment, and run it through several thicknesses of clean flannel. After this fill into clean bottles. Do not fill entirely, but leave room for the liquid to expand when again heated.

With board over the bottom of an ordinary wash boiler, set the filled bottles in it, fill in around the bottles with an inch of the top with water, and gradually heat until it is about to simmer. Then take the bottles out and cork the seal immediately.

It is a good idea to take the further precaution of sealing the corks over with paraffin wax to prevent mold germs from entering through the corks. Heat the desired to make a red juice, heat five through clear cloth or drip bag, set away to cool and settle, and gradually same as with light-colored juice. Many people do not even go to the trouble of trying the juice, but seal it up immediately, and repeat and seal it up immediately, simply setting the vessels aside in a cool place until the position where they will not be disturbed, and when wanted use the clear juice is simply taken off the sediment.

One of the leading defects so far found in unfermented juice is that much of it is not clear, a condition which very much detracts from its otherwise attractive appearance and due to one of two causes. Either the final sterilization in bottles has been at a higher temperature than the preceding one, or the juice has not been properly filtered or has not been filtered at all. In other cases the juice has been sterilized at such a high temperature that it is a disagreeable scorching taste. It should be remembered that attempts to sterilize at a temperature above 105 F. are dangerous, so far as the flavor of the finished product is concerned.

Another serious mistake is sometimes made by putting the juice into bottles so large that much of it becomes spoiled before it is used and the bottles are opened. When a bottle is opened, the cork, like canned goods, he used as soon as possible, to keep it from spoiling.

Such as the milk, scurvy, cholera, typhoid, and bacillary dysentery, and the juice which kill the germs and, of course, sterilize the material from fermenting. All such practices should be discouraged. Some of these materials may not be in evidence, while others are decidedly so. In every case they must be regarded as adulterants, and as such should not be used.

LIGHTNING COIL AROUND BECKER

Other streets after he had left his car.

He met Becker after the murder on city-second street near his poker rooms in Jack Rose and Jack Sullivan. "I strangle you, Jack," was the cry, and the witness testified. "This is a lie, Charlie," said Rose; "they got the mber of the machine." "Never mind, if Becker, I'll take care of you and the witness further stated that he heard Becker say at that time: "I just seen a strangle you, Jack, a good job." "Go on, he was a see captain."

Just fancy! There's a fast man who has been living for forty-five years on the street. "That's nothing, my father lived twenty years on water in the 20's, and he was a see captain."

EVIDENCE AGAINST BECKER FINISHED

Barred Testimony About Graft

Huge Sums Deposited by Accused Lieutenant Not Revealed

Defence Will Allege a Gambler's Conspiracy to Lay Murder They Committed at Door of the Prisoner— Wife of One of the Assassins a Witness for the State.

Canadian Press
New York, Oct. 17.—The state rested its case today in the trial of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, on the charge of investigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

The case for the defense will begin tomorrow, when John W. Hart, of Becker's counsel, will make his opening address to the jury. If Becker has his way, Hart said, he will go on the stand in his own defence.

John F. McIntyre, his chief attorney, said: "Becker is anxious to take the stand, but we will not allow him to, but this has not been determined yet."

The defence has indicated that it will endeavor to prove that a clique of gamblers inspired the murder of Rosenthal and that Becker is the victim of a conspiracy. Former District Attorney Jerome will be one of a dozen or more witnesses the defence plans to call. Mr. Jerome is expected by Becker's counsel to break down a portion of the testimony of Jack Rose in connection with an alleged telephone conversation with Becker, introduced by the state to show that Becker had guilty knowledge of the crime.

San Paul, whose gambling place was frequently raided by Becker, and other members of the gambling fraternity, are also included in the list of Becker's witnesses. The accused police lieutenant expressed himself tonight as confident of acquittal. Becker was in a happy mood, for his counsel had just won a victory over the prosecution. This was when Justice Goff granted a motion by Mr. McIntyre that there be excluded all testimony tending to show that Becker had amassed a fortune in graft obtained from gamblers.

District Attorney Whitman said that Becker had bank accounts totaling nearly $20,000 and that not one was disclosed to the justice. Goff upheld Mr. McIntyre's argument that without proof that Rosenthal, the "squealer," knew that Becker's bank account represented the proceeds of graft, the evidence could not show that he constituted a motive for the killing of Rosenthal.

To introduce such proof, the prosecution recalled to the stand Jack Rose, Becker's alleged collector of graft, but Justice Goff refused to permit him to be examined along this line.

Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, wife of "Lefty" Louis, one of the men charged with the actual slaying of Rosenthal, furnished one of the sensations of today's proceedings when she appeared as a state witness.

Mrs. Rosenberg was one of a dozen witnesses put on by the state today to show up some of the loose ends of its case, which has taken in all seven days to complete. The only appearance of the four gamblers in the case thus far has been when they were brought into court to be identified by witnesses. As the quartette are under indictment and will be tried apart from Becker, it is not expected that they will be called to the stand in this trial.

FARMERS' BANK SHAREHOLDERS ENTER PROTEST

Flock to Toronto to Proclaim Their Inability to Pay the Double Liability—Tell Pitiful Stories of Being Duped.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Shareholders of the Farmers Bank from all parts of Ontario lined up today before Justice Kappelle in G. T. Clarkson's office, to protest against the imposition of the double liability and the demand for a return of all dividends.

It was a tragic meeting. Farmers, village merchants, and workmen told the liquidators that they were unable to meet the demands, and they related stories of how they were duped and induced in various ways to buy stock. Names of big men in many counties were obtained and used as bait. Whiskey was employed on one man, and it was shown that the argument of government security was frequently employed.

MONK RESIGNS FROM BOLDEN CABINET

Breaks on Naval Policy

Will Retain His Seat and Battle for His Views on Floors of Parlia- ment—Nantel May Fol- low, But Pelletier Will Stick to Spoils of Office —House Likely to Meet November 21.

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 17.—The inevitable split in the National-Conservative cabinet was openly avowed tonight, after a long cabinet council meeting this afternoon, followed by a conference of ministers in the premier's room, which lasted until 10 o'clock tonight.

As foreshadowed by your correspondent yesterday, the attitude of Hon. F. D. Monk, minister of public works, towards the government's naval policy has made necessary his resignation from the government. This resignation is now in the premier's hands, and has been accepted.

L. T. Marschal, the prospective new minister to succeed Mr. Monk, arrived in the city today from Montreal, and was in a conference with Mr. Monk and the premier. Mr. Marschal will probably run in Hochelaga, where Louis Coderre, M. P., is expected to make way for him on promise of a Quebec judgeship. This is about the only Quebec constituency which the government dares to open at present.

Mr. Marschal will be expected, come in as secretary of state, following the cabinet shift of Hon. Dr. Roche to the interior department, and Hon. Robert Rogers to the public works portfolio, in accordance with the government's policy.

Mr. Monk's resignation does not, at any rate, involve his retirement from politics. He has resigned on a question of public policy, and his resignation is a view that before embarking on any naval policy, even an emergency contribution, the people have a right to be consulted and should be consulted by plebiscite. He will for the present retain his seat in the house, and will, during the coming session, oppose the naval policy of his late colleagues.

It is generally believed that the merger will be effected and that its details will soon become known.

TUSKET RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Home of Thomas N. McGrath With Stable and Other Build- ings in Ashes.

Yarmouth, N. S., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The home of Thomas N. McGrath at Tusket, in this county, was destroyed this noon by fire, which was caused, it is thought, by an explosion of an acetylene lighting plant in the basement. There was very little means of fighting the fire and all efforts put forth failed to prevent its spreading to the stable and outbuildings and the whole were soon reduced to ashes.

As there was quite a wind blowing at the time and there seemed danger of the fire spreading to the woods and the Dickie & McGrath mill, aid was asked from Yarmouth. A steamer, stationed at Milton, was sent over with a supply of hose but before it reached there the danger was over and the steamer returned to town.

There was some insurance on the property in E. K. Spinnery's agency.

FOUR PERISHED WHEN LAKE BARGE SANK IN STORM

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Four persons lost their lives when two barges went to the bottom of Lake Ontario this morning near Gallop Islands, twenty miles from Sackett's Harbor.

These drowned were all Canadians and were J. D. Schamp, Stephen Lebus, Fred. Lahance and Alice Deraba, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Captain Deraba.

The boats encountered a heavy storm about midnight and the tow line between the barges H. B. and Menominee and the Butler, parted, permitting the first two to drift. The drowned were on the H. B.

This morning the steamer Nicaragua sighted the tug Proctor and the Butler retaining to pick up the Menominee. A short distance from barges the crew picked up Captain Deraba and his son John, who had been floating on a hatchway all night. Just as they were ready to attach lines to the Menominee she went to the bottom.

The boats were the property of the Ogdensburg Towing Company, and left Ogdensburg yesterday afternoon for Okauchee.

Medicine Hat, Alta., Oct. 17.—The mounted police were summoned from this point this morning to investigate a murder and suicide which occurred at Tule Lake, 20 miles north of Carleton Place.

Mrs. Julia Polosky, who lost her husband and one child recently through typhoid, and who apparently had become somewhat unsettled in her reason through grief and through complications in regard to her possession of the homestead, barged her two remaining children, aged five and three years, with a carving knife, and then apparently turned the same weapon upon herself. The family were Polish immigrants, and the tragedy was discovered by Polish neighbors.

THE BALKAN STATES HAVE DECLARED WAR

Servia and Bulgaria Take the Plunge

Turkey Retaliates With Declaration of Hostilities

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 17.—War today became general throughout the Balkan peninsula. Turkey, which for a week or more has been fighting with Montenegro, this morning issued a formal declaration of hostilities in Bulgaria.

Greece for some reason was not mentioned in the official document delivered to the Servian and Bulgarian legations at Constantinople and the Greek minister has not been asked to leave the Turkish capital as were the Servian and Bulgarian legations. The Turkish minister, however, left Athens without the usual formalities.

It is also announced that fighting between the Turkish and Greek armies has begun on the frontier, while two Greek gunboats provided the first naval engagement of the war by forcing the straits between the Gulf of Arta and the sea. In doing so, they had a sharp gun duel with the Turkish force alike.

The Greek declaration of war Turkey placed on Bulgaria and Servia, whose ministers were in the city, forced her to take a decisive step, although she was desirous of peace.

It had been generally expected that the declaration of war would be a joint one by the three allies. They, however, are apparently not quite ready, as only today it was announced that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria was going with his staff to the frontier where he would issue a proclamation of a declaration.

Although Turkey has anticipated the Balkan state and ordered a simultaneous advance of her armies against Bulgaria and Servia, it is quite expected in military circles that the Servians and Bulgarians will be ready to meet the Turkish invading force by the time it reaches the frontier.

Correspondents Barred.
How far preparations have gone, however, is only a matter of conjecture, as only military attaches not correspondents are allowed to meet the Turkish monarch. The troops may in fact be ready for an immediate battle, but military authorities do not expect one to occur for some days.

Turkey's withdrawal of her troops from the immediate vicinity of the Greek frontier and the omission of Greece from the declaration of war, were doubtless indicated by Kiamil Pasha, president of the council of state and the real head of the Turkish government. He has been desirous all along of avoiding a fight with Greece whose interests, as he recently told the Greek premier, are identical with those of Turkey. He also desired to ease the hand of Greece in Greece.

The British cabinet held a long session this morning to discuss the French proposal for a conference of the powers. It was also stated that the British government was supporting the efforts being made to raise a Turkish loan in London but this is denied at the foreign office. Leopold the Rothschild has made several visits to Premier Assoluto lately and it was said that these were connected with the project of a Turkish loan.

Think Campaign Will Be Short.
London, Oct. 17.—While Turkey and the Balkan states are carrying out the last formalities connected with the declaration of war, interest has been transferred to the prospects of the campaign. Two intonances are expected to make the war short and sharp. The first is the approach of winter. The second is financial pressure. None of the belligerent states is in a position to stand the strain of prolonged military operations.

Bulgaria was disappointed recently in her efforts to raise even a small loan in Paris, while Turkey has been endeavoring both in New York and Paris to borrow money, but up to the present without success. The financial resources of the other states concerned are very limited.

Little is likely to be heard of the European conference until some decisive action has been fought, when doubtless the European concert will renew its efforts to bring about peace on broad lines.

The war is expected to develop into a dual campaign between Bulgaria and Turkey, and a naval struggle between Turkey and Greece. It is believed that Turkey will concentrate her strength and attack the Bulgarians separately before the Servians can come to their aid. Much will depend on whether Turkey gains command of the sea which would facilitate the transport of her Asiatic troops to the theatre of war.

Little is known as to how far the allied Balkan states have concerted their strategic plans. The independent action of Montenegro seems to indicate that a settled course is being followed.

The Bulgarian cabinet is sitting tonight in continuous session, but is having difficulties on page 3, fifth column.

Contributed $118,000 Towards Roosevelt's Pro-Convention Fund —Boston "Frenzied" Financier Has Vague Idea That Standard Oil Were Heavy Contributors to Democ- rats.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Thomas W. Lawson, told the Clapp committee today he understood that the Standard Oil Company "had contributed heavily" to Alton B. Parker's campaign for the presidency in 1904. He said he had once supplied "proof in a general way" that the company spent $500,000 to $700,000 in Mr. Parker's behalf.

Mr. Lawson testified he had spent $100,000 for advertising for Colonel Roosevelt's pro-convention campaign and that he "knew in a general way" that Wall street had subscribed $1,000,000 to nominate a dark horse at the Baltimore convention.

Frank A. Munsey said he contributed $100,000 to the Republican national fund in 1904 and in 1908 gave $10,000 to the Republican national fund and $1,500 to the New York state fund.

He gave his total contributions in the year as $77,000.

In addition to the $87,100, Mr. Munsey said that he gave the following sums: New York state committee, $15,000; Massachusetts state committee, $5,000; special committee in Massachusetts, $10,000; Maryland state campaign, $5,237.70; national headquarters for printing, etc., $10,832.02. This brought Mr. Munsey's total contributions up to $118,000.

"I've been given a reputation for giving so much in this campaign," said the witness, "that these real figures make me look like a piker."

Max D. Cormier has openly stated that he is applying for the position of registrar of deaths, to replace D. O. Bourgeois, the present registrar, and has requested the latter to resign.

This week's issue of the Royal Gazette contains a notice of the appointment of Willie T. Perron as police magistrate of the holdings of the province at Edmundston, in place of Joseph T. Martin, alleged to be removed from office for cause. The appointment of Mr. Perron is replacing the better man by the worse, and by one entirely inexperienced in the work. No complaint was made against Mr. Martin and no investigation has been held. Mr. Martin gave general satisfaction and did not meddle in politics.

The above state of affairs is generally considered an insult to the people of Madawaska county.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., OCT. 15.—It was with profound regret that news of the death of William Gillespie was received here this morning. His body was found in Moore's Mill, a distance of about eight miles from town, lying across the grave of his wife, who had died several years ago. In his right hand was a revolver which had been used by him, the bullet entering the right ear and no doubt causing instant death. Dependancy resulting from the death is supposed to be the cause. Mr. Gillespie was a civil engineer and was well and favorably known not only in this county but throughout the province. He was seventy-four years of age and leaves one son Kenneth in Montreal and a daughter, Mrs. Edgar M. Robinson of Edgewater, New Jersey. "I beg pardon," said the reporter, "but are you Mr. Spodde, the Potato King?" "Yes," but I don't like that term," replied the magnate, "it's 'Old King and the King' and the like are so common. Call me the potentate."

VAST HOLDINGS OF A FEW NEW YORK ESTATES

Nearly One-Seventh of Assessed Realty Valuation Owned by About Two Dozen Families—Astors Largest Land Owners—Goellets Hold 339 Parcels and the Moores 150.

(New York Sun.)

It may surprise a great number of people to learn that about a seventh of the assessed value of Manhattan island represents two dozen families. It will be a surprise to many also to learn that hundreds of millions of dollars in land values are held by a few families in New York. For some reason or other to spend their money and the income from their New York real estate is in estates in England, Scotland, Ireland and other parts of the world. These vast interests were inherited by many of the founders of the city when they came here from generation to generation, and it is safe to say they will continue to be held through the future Goellets.

Peter Goellet was the man who made the present Goellets so wealthy. He believed that New York of his day was far too small for his ambitions and he bought heavily in the unsettled section, firmly believing that the city would reach his property before he had seen the end of his career. This opinion was correct, for it was not many years after the civil war that the city began to push its lines farther north. Among the marsh land that Mr. Goellet bought in the early days is the present site of the Grand Central station. The land was bought for a station east of the city, and the present Grand Central station is the result of the Goellet's vision.

Peter Goellet died in 1869 his holdings were worth about $25,000,000. Through the policy he inaugurated and ordered to be followed this sum has doubled several times over, according to tax experts, since that time. A part of this income goes across the ocean to the Duchess of Roxburgh, who is the grand-niece of old Peter Goellet. When her father died he left her realty along Fifth avenue which today is estimated to be worth from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The Rhinelanders probably stand next on the list of property owners. Their holdings, which are valued in the neighborhood of $40,000,000, are chiefly in the lower sections of the city. Down through Broadway, William, Spruce and Gold streets and on the East and West sides of the city, the Rhinelander family, which was named the reputation of being the richest family in the world, has held its property since the Revolutionary War as a British subject. It was here that Francis Marshall Cunningham, rightfully named the reputation of being the richest man in the world, held his property, which extended from Ross to Spruce street, was secured in the early part of the last century in a suit to foreclose a mortgage of $5,000.

The Gerrys come next as taxpayers. They own the old Windsor Arcade, at Fifth and Broadway, and the adjacent Forty-seventh street corner, where the new building stands, formerly the site of the ill-fated Hotel Windsor; the Bristol Building, at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second

IN THE BALKANS Two months ago the London Telegraph contained despatches from its own correspondents in the Balkans and in Constantinople telling of fighting then in progress and the efforts being made through Count Berchtold, Austrian minister for foreign affairs, to secure intervention by the European powers to prevent war.

APPEALS TO PREJUDICE A clear light is thrown on the methods adopted in the constituency of Macdonald to divert attention from the question of larger markets and an increased British preference, by Mr. Walter H. Trueman, who is so well known in St. John but who is now in Winnipeg, Pra.

THE FAMILIES OF PRISONERS Jane Adams draws attention to one feature of the Progressive party's programme that is of capital importance, and that promises a reform too long delayed. It is that part of Roosevelt's programme which advocates the application of prisoners' earnings to the support of their dependent families.

IMPROVING THE ROADS The Chamberlain World makes the following contribution to the discussion on the roads in New Brunswick: "The best mudholes in the Richibucto road have acted as a blockade against the coming of motor parties to Chatham from southward. Our hotels and stores have lost not less than $1,000 this season from this cause." In St. John last Saturday the members of the automobile association set out to make some repairs to the highway between this city and Hampton.

FORESTRY SERVICE The Fibreboard Lumber Company, which owns large timber areas in St. John county, has been giving an excellent example of right methods of forest protection and reforestation.

PRICE OF POTATOES It is quite useless to expect the St. John Standard to tell the truth about the price of potatoes. The Telegraph recently made a complete exposure of the untruthfulness of that journal in its dealings with this subject.

FOLLOWING THE SPOOR Although the New York policeman is busy deriving ways by which he can rob, plunder and murder the society he is supposed to defend, much progress is being made by others in the science of detecting criminals.

THE BOUNDARIES A remark of Mr. Lloyd-George that he hoped the Balkan war might not spread beyond the immediate combatants, and that the boundaries of freedom and good government might be extended, is receiving a good deal of criticism.

view of the limited extent to which the emancipated states have achieved that boon, witness the accession of the reigning King of Serbia by assassination, the kidnapping of the former monarch of Bulgaria, and the assassination of Stambouloff, the great premier of that state, it would be better to hope that, whatever changes may take place, will result in an increase of liberty and good government.

NOTE AND COMMENT The people of St. John are generous. The tag day receipts on Saturday of over $1,000 to aid in the establishment of an infirmary are convincing evidence of the fact.

THE ANTIQUITY OF SUFFRAGISTS (Canadian Courier) Miss Wylie's arrival in Canada from England in the suffragette cause is a picturesque event, but Miss Wylie makes a mistake if she thinks that the women of Canada are waiting to rise in mass for her. Rather is the prevailing feminine mind here illustrated by a story told on herself by the Rev. Ann Howard Shaw, of New York, president of the National Suffrage Association.

TO SUGAR DATES. When stating dates for a confection, instead of rolling each one separately in powdered sugar, put a tablespoonful of the sugar in a glass jar, says Good Housekeeping. Then put in the par about a couple of the stuffed dates, seal the jar and shake well. You will be surprised to see how evenly the dates are dusted with the sugar and how much time is saved in doing them.

BULBS, TRY THEM AND YOU WILL BE PLEASED

Fleshy Under-ground Buds Which Are a Source of Joy to Many Winter Households—How to Cultivate Them Properly.

Perhaps there are more persons interested in bulbs than in any other class of flowering plants. These "non-like" bulbs, without root, stem, branch or leaf, have wrapped up in them fragrance and beauty surpassing our fondest dreams.

What are bulbs? Bulbs are fleshy under-ground buds. The true home of the bulb is Holland—hence are called Dutch bulbs. They are propagated to some extent in other countries, but the low-lying land and moist climate of Holland produce bulbs of the finest quality, superior to those of any other country.

The culture of bulbs in Holland is a great industry. Thousands of acres are given over to it. No detailed account of it can be given in an article of this kind. The bulbs or scales, which may or may not have been produced by some injury to the mother bulb, are planted and carefully cared for. These daughter bulbs make rapid growth, produce leaves and flowers, die down, wither and become dormant. After they have been cleaned and dried they appear as we see them when purchased from the local seedman.

Bulbs are suited to either garden or indoor culture. For the former they are planted in the autumn in well drained soil, and in such situation as they are to remain. A wealth of bloom is almost assured with the coming springtime, if hardy varieties have been secured.

The greater pleasure is in store for the person who buys bulbs for indoor winter bloom. They are so bright and cheery that they never fail to please. The bulb contains the flower and sufficient energy to start it off, but this energy must be directed if results are to be obtained.

The first essential is to obtain a good root system. This is necessary to the plant in order that it may be supplied with moisture and perhaps an amount of plant food. Five or six inch pots are used as a rule. One half-inch is planted to a pot of this size or three bulbs. If pans are used more bulbs may be used. In these pots or pans broken flower pots or stones are placed to the depth of three-quarters of an inch. This serves as drainage. Over this a thin layer of sphagnum should be placed to keep the soil from filling in among the pieces of drainage material. The pot is then filled to within an inch or so of the top with good soil. The bulb is pressed firmly to the soil and filled around it and the planting is complete.

Concerning the character of the soil much has been said and much difference of opinion expressed. We are inclined to think that there is little difference, however, provided that drainage is perfect. The soil must be light, will admit air and will hold water fairly well. See to it that the bulb does not quite

When the blooming season is over every one wishes to know what to do with the bulbs. The advice is easy to give but hard to take. To convince one that the proper thing is to throw them away and buy more when wanted is not easy. It sounds like a catch in the eye to those who have enjoyed them so much, yet in most cases it is the only proper thing to do.

In some cases, if the bulbs are ripened off gradually by withholding water and drying slowly, they may be planted in the garden. The next year they will be no bloom, but the year following there should be a fair showing. Of course with the bulbs of Chinese Secret Lily and Paper White Narcissus this means that it is not possible. They must be thrown away.

To persons who have been much worried by the insect pests which some plants are heirs to, bulbs come as a relief, as they have few enemies. We have seen them bedeviled by aphids but they rather annoy them. Tobacco will usually clear them up. Little red bugs will clear them up. If you are not likely to have them to fight, try a few bulbs. They are easily grown and promise cheer for the winter.—E. M. Straight, Macdonald College.

GOOD ROADS IN THE EAST

Mr. George C. Diehl, chief engineer of the city of Buffalo and county of Erie, is rather emphatic in his opinion regarding the making of good roads recently attended a board of trade luncheon at Toronto and gave an address on that important subject. He was one of the delegates to the World's convention on Good Roads, held at Brussels and attended twenty-four delegates. "It would be difficult," he said, "to mention a good thing in the world's affairs which would not tend to help along or an evil thing which they do not tend to check." Up to ten years ago road expenses had been left to be borne by the different townships through which they ran. Later, however, it had come to be realized that taxation should be borne by the people and the property benefited and it was clear that cities benefited from highways adjoining equal borders. If two cities having equal population and wealth and equal railway and water facilities could be taken and compared it would invariably be found that the city encouraging better country roads would be the most prosperous and progressive. It therefore followed that a city should pay a proportion of the cost as the people received the benefit therefrom. In the States there is now governmental
