

AMONG LUMBERMEN.

Rev. Mr. Grieson tells of his Visits to the Lumber Camps of the Miramichi.

RED BANK, MARCH 21, 1901.
Feb. 14th, 1901.

DEAR WITNESS.—It is now about two months since I commenced my Mission among the Lumbermen of the region known as Miramichi. During the past one hundred years and more, this has been the best known and most prolific lumber and timber region in the Lower provinces from the days of the big spruce deer. It is not to the credit of our common Christianity that there never has been an organized and sustained mission to the many hundreds of men who toil from five to seven months in the forest, every year from fifty to one hundred miles away from home. And until the frost and snow provide roads and bridges, utterly impassable on foot. About twenty years ago I spent one winter and part of another here in this work. Then I was told I was the first who ever attempted systematic visiting amongst the camps of the region and then I did not nearly reach every camp. But I was made very sorry during my first week amongst the camps, meeting old friends and making new ones to be told that there had been no regular mission work done since I was here twenty years ago. Some of the boys of my former visit had now a proportion of gray hairs; many of the old men had departed. Yet during all that time one of the best places to do evangelistic work has been neglected. Of course, I know a few pastors ran in for a few days to visit and preach in special camps. Not knowing but this may be my last winter amongst the lumber camp, I would like to say a few words about the future of this important mission. But I will reserve suggestion on that subject to a probable future letter. Only this much I may say now. Twenty years ago I was related to no church or society in either my first or second year's visits. The Lord put it into my heart to go and I went. Last fall the ladies of the Newcastle W. C. T. U. asked me to go into the Lumber Camp Mission as their representative. I told them I had heard that the Presbytery of Miramichi had appointed a committee to do work amongst the lumbermen for the winter. If they have some one in view for the work I will go for you. But if they ask me I will arrange for the circulation of your bags, which I have done. I might tell you the W. C. T. U. bags are an institution, consisting of compartments: 1st. filled with all sorts of things—buttons, thread and needles of all varieties, nick-nacks such as only thoughtful, motherly, sisterly women would think of to make them and miles in every conceivable circumstance. I know what it is to tramp and tramp without a compass, thinking I knew my course exactly though the day was cloudy till at the end of an hour or nearly two, I was a lost soul, standing and wondering who owned a pair of snow-shoes exactly like my own. Until with a sudden I was willed that it takes full a minute to decide which track will take me quickest to the starting place—I know what it is to walk twelve hours on the wrong track with the thermometer 30 below zero, and only to find it out when the strong probability was impressed upon a hungry weary trumper, that the wrong one might under the circumstance be the best one. I know the joy of following a bee line ten miles long with a compass in my hand and arriving just where I expected. If ever you get in among a lot of camp bosses, nearly every one of them expert "crusiers" you will hear some wonderful predicaments and escapes in an hour than I ever knew. Yet I had better close up this letter chiefly consisting of things in general by telling you my last experience, and how easy it is to get left when you think you know every step of the way. This is Wednesday night. Well, just a week ago to-night I was in my last Little South West camp—expecting to return by the Portages next morning to the Settlement. But I found out at Mr. E. Sinclair's camp that by reason of a change there would be none till the day after. I settled down to remain and hold another meeting that evening and get "out" a day later. At 3 p. m. during afternoon lunch the "Scaler" arrived from Wallace Johnston's camp and said their "Portages" had arrived and would return next morning. This looked like a good chance. The camps were eight miles apart. I got ready at once, started down a good smooth hauling road. A little over three miles I was surprised to notice it had taken an hour as I put on my snow-shoes at the river and got on the "Scale-s" track with a quick step made the four miles on the river in a little less than an hour—yet when I arrived at Johnston's "Landing" I found they had all gone. I soon found the tracks of horses and men on the way to camp; fresh marks only ten minutes, I had never gone that way but it must be correct, so with a quick step, in increasing darkness I followed. The road was up a steep hillside with a curve a quarter of a mile and then bent the other way. In ten minutes I found myself on the edge of the river, thinking I had missed a left-hand turn to the camp I ran back without finding any "turn" in ten minutes found myself back at the "Landing." If I had looked when I arrived back on the ice of the river, I might have seen that they again curved up the hill and caught the Portage road, which led to the camp, but darkness with a snow-storm, with a heavy wind was rapidly increasing. I had one more hope. The morning before I came from the camp to the landing by the Portage road and the river. I could go back that way. I started. I could still see a few of the foot-marks, but the fresh drifting snow had well nigh covered every one. I pressed on; it was now dark—there were open-holes in the ice, making the way dangerous. And I was losing confidence in finding the camp far quicker. The coming darkness made everything look so different that I was sure I was going up instead of down the river. Slowly and somewhat sadly I returned to the landing. On the way I did some splendid yelling. No wild Indians in all the land could have whooped one inch ahead. Yet though the camp could not be much, if any over a mile away, it was high up a steep thickly wooded mountain side. I eagerly listened, but no answer came. Now I was alone in the dark cold forest with a big snow storm in full blast. No supper, no matches, my supply got wet and had not been replaced. And yet I was neither lonely, nor alone. I had not, for one moment, either doubt or fear. Yet I had to be wise, I had no strength to keep warm, 13 hours by walking. I must seek a shelter from the cutting wind and snow. I cannot, I will not, try to tell you how it is done, you can describe what you see but you cannot tell things that happen in the dark, even if you had a hand in them. I selected a spot, beside a tree. I cannot tell how. Nor how I cut down another tree by striking repeatedly on an imaginary spot first on this side and then on that, an indefinite distance from the ground. I cannot tell how it fell on the top of me all right, what a trouble it had fallen any other way. How I got all the branches and "chucked" the tree to make one side of my den, how I found enough of hay to feather my nest, and how I increased the warmth by added weight on top—so me. Now I did not sleep, didn't desire, nor need to sleep as far as I know; but spent a blessed, pleasant happy holy night as near heaven as ever I expect to be till I get there.

Three times in 13 hours—I crawled out and watched and ran and danced. No, I did not believe in dancing. But I jumped ornamentally, and then I crept back to my nest. If you have pity to bestow, take it somewhere else—some of you likely caught cold in bed that night, I did not.

Now this much I want to tell you and you can tell all the PRESBYTERIAN WITNESS people, that a "furnace" in the cellar and a "base burner" in the hall, "fleece blankets" and a spring mattress with "downy comfortable" are not indispensable related to a pleasant night, even in unpleasant circumstances, but a brave heart, a clear conscience, a submissive will, supreme trust in God will more than supply what is lacking in all ordinary or extraordinary circumstances.

Yours truly
JOHN GRIERSON.

THIS OFTEN HAPPENS.
"A newspaper man was asked," says an exchange, "to publish an article roasting a citizen. 'Certainly,' he said to the caller, 'what shall I say?' He was furnished with an outline of what was wanted, and wrote a letter that was a scorcher. 'That's splendid,' exclaimed the friend delightedly, when the article was read to him. 'That's right that'll make his old hair crinkle.' 'All right' said the editor, 'let me see—what are your initials?' Good heavens said the citizen, 'you are not going to sign my name to that?' 'Why not?' asked the editor. 'I wouldn't have any one know I had anything to do with that for the world. I cannot afford to get into a scrape with my neighbors. The editor smiled benevolently and said, 'Why should I mix up in a scrape that does not concern me? Why should you expect me to assume the blame for the publication of an article to which you are afraid to sign your name? The man stopped his paper and went away mad.'

Because we have the Experience!
The Proprietors of the "Royal Brand" have been engaged in the development of tailor-made garments for many years and only after perfection had been attained were the public given an opportunity to purchase this clothing.

Because we have the Foreman and Designer!
Who must necessarily possess experience and taste. Needless to say the head of this department in the manufacture of "Royal Brand" clothing possesses both.

Because we have the Makers!
Those engaged in putting together "Royal Brand" clothing are master hands. Much depends on the making and ordinary tailoring would not hold its shapeliness nor give the wear which is demanded from these garments.

In future this label will be attached to all garments and will be found in the left hand pocket of the coat.

Why a Cold "Hangs On."

Stop and think a minute. The tickling in the throat, the tight feeling in the chest and that racking cough are only the results of the cold, not the cold itself. To apply a soothing medicine to the irritated membrane does not cure the cold. The lungs, throat and nose are nature's exits for the poison, but the cold is in the system.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure will Cure a Cold.

It will cure a cold when it has developed so far as to be Consumption. "Shiloh's" supplies the blood with the vitality necessary to kill the germs and drive the dread disease out of the system.

Why keep on treating the results of the disease. Take "Shiloh" and you will cure the disease itself, and leave the system strong to resist future attacks. "Shiloh" is guaranteed to cure. If you are dissatisfied after using two thirds of the bottle take the remainder back to your druggist, and he will refund the whole of the purchase money.

James South of Vancouver, writes:
"S. J. Wells & Co., Toronto—I suffered for years from a cough and tried scores of remedies. Occasionally it would disappear for a few days, but would inevitably return—worse than before—I tried Shiloh's Consumption Cure and from the first day my cough was relieved and finally it left me. For over eleven months I have been quite well and I never tire of praising your grand medicine."

Sold in Canada and United States 25c, 50c, and $1.00 a bottle. In England 25c, 50c, and $1.00 a bottle.

In the Clutch Of Consumption.

Don't neglect that persistent hacking cough till you find yourself in the clutch of Consumption. It's an easy matter to stop it now by taking

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

This pleasant remedy heals and soothes the lungs and bronchial tubes, and cures lingering and chronic coughs when other remedies fail.

Mr. W. P. Cann, writing from Morpeth, Ont., says: "I honestly believe I would have died of consumption only for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I have used it for years and consider it the best remedy for severe colds and three troubles."

POOR COPY

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A road agent stopped and robbed the mail carrier on the Lone Jack route the other day and got 11 cents for his pains. This seems to be running an honored profession into the ground.

Old Jim Hewson drank a gallon of whiskey the other day and got off the grip, and next day he had delirium tremens and grip, too, and at this writing is seeing snakes and calling for his mother.

The man who wrote us a letter from New Mexico last week saying that he would be here the first day of April and shoot six bullets into our anatomy is informed that we have made a memorandum of the date and will be ready for him.

During the bustle of going to press last week a little item about Noah and his ark slipped it unpreserved, and we hereby apologize to our subscribers. The item spoke of him as "Old Noah," and his ark as a catamaran. We have always spoken in the most respectful terms of the gentleman referred to, and we regard it as pretty late in the day to criticize his shipbuilding.

On leaving the common council last Tuesday evening, where we had presided as mayor, Alderman Finnegan attempted to pull our official nose. The Alderman is now in bed with a broken leg and his neck twisted around over his right shoulder. It may be an odd notion on our part, but we object to other people handling our nose.

The lone Jack Recorder says that we hold seven political offices and are wire pulling for the eighth, and asks if such things can be and Arizona remain right side up. The recorder man is an error. We hold five political offices and are after the sixth, and Arizona was never more solid on her pins.

Did our esteemed contemporary shoot at us on the street last Monday afternoon? He declares that he fired six shots at us, and we declare that we never saw anything about it, and we'll give anybody 15 cents to straighten the kinks out of the mystery and settle the question one way or another. We like to know when we were shot at, even by a man who shuts his eyes when he pulls the trigger.

Mrs. Col. Charney of Cochise will probably hold a birthday party in honor of her husband's 46th anniversary next Wednesday night. We say probably because she proposes to lock the colonel up in the house in order that he may remain sober until after the affair is over.

Maj Desbro of the 333 Rancho says he can identify the dead man found hanging to the limb of a tree at the crossing of Wolf Creek the other day. It was a person named Tinker, who started to leave Arizona on one of the major's blooded horses but didn't get a fast enough gait on him to keep ahead of the procession.

Old Bob Davis, who lives alone in the mountains and is a terror to bears, came down to the lowlands the other day for powder and lead and was knocked out to White Watery Pimples.

Five years ago my body broke out in white watery pimples, which grew so bad that the suffering was almost unbearable. I took doctors' medicine and various remedies for two years but they were of little benefit. Whenever I got warmed up or sweat the pimples would come out again.

A neighbor advised Burdock's Blood Bitters, and I am glad I followed his advice, for four bottles completely cured me.

That was three years ago and there has never been a spot or pimple on me since.

mean that the world was going along in the same old grooves. He had an idea that a landslide had tipped most of the earth up on one side.

When we claim 10,000,000 weekly circulation for the Kicker, we lie about it, of course, and that's the difference between a New York and an Arizona editor. It's all in the profession, however, and all meant to encourage the reader to lead a life of integrity.

We always thought there was something wrong in the head with Joe Hathaway, and his death by suicide the other day proves it. There are at least four towns within a radius of 30 miles which are fairly aching for a lynching bee and if Joe wanted to die, why not give some vigilance committee a show? Let other editors in despondent mood try to improve on his shape.

We may take the tecture platform next month for a few weeks in this territory, but we desire all audiences in advance that we shall have our dignity and our guns along, and the first frozen rabbit that comes whizzing past our head will be the signal for return action on our part. We hate to shoot our lecture on the life of Shakspeare into an audience, but we have got through jumping out of the back windows or hiding in the woods.

A Father's Story.

HE TELLS HOW HIS SON REGAINED HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Had His Spine Injured, and for Two Years was Unable to do any Work, and for Most of the Time was Confined to the House.

Mr. M. D'Entremont, a well known farmer living at West Pabineau, N. S., writes: "I believe it is only right that I should let you know the benefit your medicine—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—have been to my son, Constantine, sixteen years of age. For several years he was almost a constant invalid, the result of an injury to his spine while working with his brothers on the farm. He grew weak and listless, had no appetite, and for two years was unable to work and was for the most of the time confined to the house, and for part of the time to his bed. He suffered considerably from pains in the back; his legs were weak; and he had frequent headaches. At different times he was attended by two doctors, but got no benefit from the treatment. Then I procured an electric belt for him, but it was simply money wasted as it did not do him a particle of good. One day while my son was reading a newspaper he came across an article telling of a cure in a somewhat similar case through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he then decided to give them a trial. After the second box was taken there was a marked improvement in his condition. He continued the use of the pills until he had taken eight boxes, and they have restored him to health. His appetite has returned; the pain has left his back; he has gained flesh; is able to ride a bicycle, enjoy his life and is able to do a day's work as well as any one of his age. This letter is given gladly so that others may learn the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and find a cure if ailing."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such cases as the one noted above because they create new, rich, red blood, thus strengthening weak and shattered nerves. They do not purge and weaken like other medicines, but strengthen from the first dose to the last. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Sarcastic Professor.

A good story is going the rounds at Columbia regarding one of the sarcastic professors, who was recently conducting an oral examination in a very scientific study. There was one student—handsome, easy and self-possessed—who appeared to be utterly ignorant of the simplest phases of the subject. Professor W. put question after question to him without receiving one intelligent reply.

Finally the student said naively, with just a touch of reproach: "I'm very unfortunate, professor. You never ask me anything I know."

The professor said nothing, but gravely tore off a tiny piece of paper from a convenient pad. "Here, Mr. B.," he said, handing it to the student, "write all you know."

Paine's Celery Compound

The Great Spring Medicine That Restores Ailing Females to Perfect Health.

MRS. ADAMSON, SAYS

"I Can Never Say Too Much in Favor of Paine's Celery Compound."

One of the oldest and best edited monthly magazines published in America, in a recent leading article declares that more than half the revenue of physicians is derived from the treatment of females, and that about one out of every hundred is correctly diagnosed, showing that cures are extremely rare.

The important knowledge gained by women every year about Paine's Celery Compound and the special and peculiar benefits it bestows on females suffering from ailments peculiar to their sex, as well as from the common ills of life, have made Paine's Celery Compound the most popular and trusted home medicine of the day.

In spring time, when woman's nervous strength is overtaxed by house work and duties and the constant demands of social functions, it is then that Paine's Celery Compound shows its navigating and vitalizing effects as the precious medicine is used from day to day. It quickly banishes nervousness, prostration, weakness, debility, languor, dependency, and the many annoying ills that come to women of all ages.

Mrs. R. Adamson, Head of Millstream, Kings Co., N. B., says:

"I feel it a duty to briefly testify regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound. Since childhood I suffered from sick headaches, neuralgia and constipation. Had attacks once a week which kept me confined to bed. Have been treated by a number of physicians without beneficial results. I procured six bottles of Paine's Celery Compound which was strongly recommended to me, and after a long time I found that new life and health coming that I so long wished for. Two years have passed and I have not had a return of my old troubles. I can never say too much in favor of Paine's Celery Compound."

BLAINE WAS IN A HURRY.

He Had to Wait and Might Have Given Hitt More Time. Spending one day on the deliberations of the great legislative body was not so much to Mr. Blaine as it was to Mr. Hitt. Mr. Blaine had the following story to illustrate his proposition.

"On Monday, 1881," he said, "I met Mr. Blaine, who had just been appointed secretary of state. I had just been appointed assistant secretary of state."

"I told Mr. Blaine that I could not devote a minute of so much importance, at that time, to his appointment. The appointment, he declared, could not wait."

"I'll tell you, Hitt," he said, pulling out his watch, "it is now just 12 o'clock. I must know your decision by 1 o'clock. I can't put the thing off a day longer."

"I told Mr. Blaine that much as I appreciated the compliment it would be impossible for me to make a decision within an hour, and finally he consented to give me 24 hours to think the matter over. Within the time I accepted the appointment. Mr. Blaine seemed much pleased. He said he would send my name to the senate at once for immediate action and wanted to be ready to take charge of the office within two or three days."

"Next day my name was sent to the senate for confirmation as assistant secretary of state. That day the senate happened to get into a wrangle over the appointment of a doorkeeper. In the discussion of this important subject they became engrossed, and, in spite of Mr. Blaine's eagerness to get me started, it was 20 days later before my appointment was even taken up. I met Mr. Blaine frequently during that time, but never ventured to suggest that he might as well have given me a couple of weeks to think over my appointment."

Life In Japan.

In Japan the higher class ladies never go to market, the market comes to them. That is, the dealers call and offer wares for sale at their customers' doors. The fish merchant brings his stock, and if any is sold prepares it for cooking. The grocer, the sake dealer and now the meat man all go to their patients' houses.

In the morning the ladies are frequently engaged in the characteristic occupation of doing hairdressing—that is, in starched old clothes and spreading them on boards to dry in the sunshine. It is the first step to making over old gowns and is done in the open air, rarely at all events, even the very best embroider their garments themselves. They are very economical little makers—Ono Watanna in Wagon's Home Companion.

Stratton's Spirit Dealings.

A quaint custom is annually observed at Stratton on St. Andrew's day (July 25th). At a very early hour a number of youths pass through the different parts of the town to the accompaniment of the howling of a rousing melody, and then, the fearful screaming of the pangs, attending out presumably any evil spirits which haunt the place—ghosts, trolls, dunces, gluttons and their companions. The hand bell fingers follow, gently working more accessible spirits—contests, fair play, temperance, chastity and others. After a suitable pause the church bells ring out in peals of eight a hearty welcome to these latter.

CHIEF GAME COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

The annual report of the Crown Land Department of New Brunswick contains an interesting report from the Chief Game Commissioner for the past season which we herewith publish in a condensed form for the information of our readers.

"In submitting the annual report of the operations of the Chief Game Commissioner for the past year, I have great pleasure in informing you that the past has been one of the most successful years, from a sportsman's standpoint than we have ever had in this province.

From every direction I get information that the game, instead of being depleted, as there was danger of some years ago, is becoming more plentiful over the entire area of the country. The protection afforded during the winter months, and the greater interest taken in the administration of the Game Law by residents of the rural districts, is mainly responsible for the increase in the number of moose and caribou. So plentiful is the game that a large percentage of the sportsmen who entered our forests were successful in their hunt, and some of the finest moose heads ever obtained in this province or elsewhere have been brought out of the woods this year by visiting or local sportsmen.

New Brunswick has gained an enviable reputation for the beauty of its moose heads, and there is not a sportsman over the eastern section of the continent who does not desire to possess a trophy of a season in the New Brunswick woods.

From reports that I have received from different wardens they all speak of an increase in every class of game with the exception of partridge; and I am unable to obtain any information that would tend to show that these exceptional game birds are on the increase. Indeed, I believe it is otherwise. The principal difficulty that I have in dealing with the handling of partridges is in connection with their export. I am satisfied that there is a considerable export of partridges going on at various points in the province, but the manner of conducting this illicit trade is such that it is extremely difficult to locate the offenders and bring them to justice. As the law at present is, partridge is obtaining less protection than any other game bird, and must sooner or later entirely disappear unless a change is made in the law that will give genuine protection.

On previous occasions I have pointed out that it will be necessary to form an organization of guides in this Province. As it is now, there is neither protection for the game nor for the sportsman in case of breach of contract by either party. There should be some way of dealing with these breaches of contract which occasionally arise with the object of discovering who is really to blame. The guides themselves have recently met and effected an organization which takes in nearly all those actively employed in this work in the Province. The number of guides in the Province is constantly increasing, and while speaking in a general way the majority of these men are good men, still with increased numbers it will be necessary before long to have some better method of dealing with them than the act at present provides. I cannot too strongly urge upon you the necessity of taking steps to secure organization which will include all the guides and I am satisfied that if the necessary machinery is added to the game law it will be of great advantage both to visiting sportsmen and to the guides themselves.

There is a strong feeling among the guides and others that night shooting should be stopped. This, I think is correct as many moose and caribou are wounded by sportsmen in the uncertain light of the evening and often fall in the woods. Some of these moose are no doubt crows, which makes it all the worse.

L. B. KNIGHT,

Chief Game Commissioner.

It will be seen from the above that

Northumberland takes second place in the number of licenses issued but it must be remembered that a large percentage of hunters procuring licenses in York county hunted in Northumberland and we think we can safely say that this is the banner county of the province for the sportsmen.

EMIGRATION OF WOMEN.

Mr. Chamberlain lately advised sending English women to the colonies, where they would have a good chance to marry. He advised raising a fund for the purpose. Apparently there are a million more women in England than there are men, and it is a difficult thing to know what to do with them. "They are debarred," Mr. Chamberlain said, "from the fullness of life, and were jostling one another in the struggle for existence." Care ought to be taken as regards the colonies to which the women are sent. Apparently there are enough in this country, for there are many women in employments of different kinds, to the displacement of men; and there are many who are "debarred from the fullness of life." In the Maritime Provinces of Canada a considerable portion of the young men go West, and while some women do, the number is not so large as to make the emigration equal. There are more fields of employment open to young women than there were a few years ago, but one result of this is to limit the number of young men who can get employment; the surplus leaves the country, and the women in the end suffer, as they have not the opportunities of marrying which might otherwise come to them. With the enlargement of the British army the number of men who may be available for husbands in the British Isles will decrease. But, possibly, this may withdraw men from other occupations, which will now be open to women. Mr. Chamberlain was of the opinion that there would be an enormous development in South Africa, that thousands of the best and most energetic men in the land would go out there, and that the "tone of society would depend largely on the emigration of women" who would go to that country from England. Perhaps it is a fair general inference from Mr. Chamberlain's statements that there are now as many people in Great Britain as space and living can be found for comfortably.—Globe.

FORESTRY.

In a recent issue of the Canadian Lumberman there is an interesting article entitled "The Cultivation of Forests" which we will publish in full on our second page next week. In conversation with Mr. E. Sinclair, our enterprising Bridgetown lumberman he kindly condescended to contribute a short article on this subject. This article, written in his usual happy style appears in another column and should be read by all who have the future welfare of our country at heart.

The Editor's Mail.

To the Editors of the Advocate,

GENTLEMEN:—As the avocation of the lumberman the destruction of the forest I hardly know how to reply to your account, particularly as I cannot remember whether I became acquainted with the tree family on the end of a cross cut saw making blocks for kindling wood out of the pine the Miramichi fire rendered useless for anything else, or in a school at Chatham where Mr. Miller used to teach. Prior to that time what little knowledge I gained was at a school near a tannery where the master taught a strip of tanned sheepskin the correct thing to tan lambs with. How, ever, if more stringent measures are not employed to protect our forests there will soon be no bark to tan hides, nor logs to collect stoppage on. The New Brunswick Act for preventing destruction of property by fire is a good one if the material for carrying out the intentions of the Act was slower than cold molasses. Every section of this country in danger of fire should have a well paid, energetic forest ranger cutting and clearing paths through the woods to keep him in trim and have appliances and power to engage help where a conflagration occurs, and as every tree is known by its fruit, so every government will be judged on his merits, and while grapes won't grow on thorns nor figs on thistles it sometimes looks as if if had the miracle reversed and were getting the full benefits. Did it ever occur to you that the representation of some counties would be imperilled if put at auction like our Crown Lands and sold to the highest bidder? Even then one of those peculiar combinations, so prevalent in our province, might affect a settlement to suit themselves without increasing our benefits, and we'd better leave this subject for future reference and get back to the forest where pulp wood is cut like cordwood, notwithstanding the proclamation in Royal Gazette, 18 feet long, 10 inches at the top. I find interest in scientific forestry is rapidly increasing everywhere except in New Brunswick, and as the welfare of future generations depends on ourselves, our forests and our fisheries it behooves us to protect them.

B. E. Fernow tells us forestry implies harvesting old crops, replacing them by young and if possible better kinds of crops, and doing it according to business principles in the cheapest yet effective manner, making, if possible, a profit out of the old crop. Nature is an unconquerable producer—she has plenty of time and space at her disposal and doesn't consider man's special wants. It grows weeds as readily as perhaps more readily than those plants which man needs. On an acreage where 100,000 feet of pine could be grown in 75 years it grows perhaps 2,000 feet in 250 years giving the balance up to weeds and inferior tree forms which do not furnish saw lumber.

While the Governor's speech at opening of the House recommends a School of Agriculture and Horticulture it might be well to substitute Forestry for Horticulture owing to our profusion of daisies, lilies of the valley that toil not, neither do they spin, and the fact that the only other flower the bone and marrow of this country is interested in is wheat and buckwheat. I hope that the Province will display his usual energy and persistency in establishing a School of Forestry and engaging a practical forester who will educate our people in pruning, protecting and preserving all valuable trees on the lands of our province, by doing so he'll be rendering this country an unsinkable service and perpetrating an evergreen record to his memory.

Will the time ever come when the culture of blood, bone and brains will be legislated on and Nature receive intelligent assistance in her handwork? It wouldn't be more wonderful than some inventions of the past decade and would be a delightful study. Some say that the only way to get it all in the world you saw it where you saw it while lumbermen say nothing and say wood.

DEATH OF BISHOP SWEENEY

HIS LORDSHIP BREATHES HIS LAST THIS MORNING.

Great and general regret was expressed to-day when it became known that the death of Bishop Sweeney had taken place shortly after 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's Industrial School, Silver Falls, where His Lordship has been living for the past few months. The end came very peacefully. At his death the Bishop was attended by Rev. H. Cormier, parish priest at Silver Falls, by the sisters of the St. Patrick's Industrial School, and by his family. His Lordship had been in failing health for some time, but recently he had had an attack of paralysis, and on Saturday afternoon he was unable to get up. He died at 8 o'clock on Sunday in all the Catholic churches.

On the announcement of the Bishop's death, Catholics and Protestants alike lamented the fact and joined in praising the man who during his long life had filled so important a place in the community. When news reached the palace the Cathedral bell was tolled eighty strokes—one for each year of his life.

High Court of Forester to

of Sackville.

FREDERICTON, March 22.—A special meeting of the High Standing Committee of the Independent Order of Foresters was held at Queen hotel this evening. Those present were A. R. Chapman, St. John, H. C. R.; L. R. Hetherington, Moncton, H. O. C. R.; F. W. Emmerson, Sackville, H. Secretary; E. P. Eastman, Pictouville, H. Treasurer; Dr. L. E. Cummins, Bath, H. E. W. Elliott, Georgetown, H. Councilors. Considerable routine business was transacted. The order is in a very prosperous condition and the high secretary will immediately visit courts in Carleton county. The most important matter decided was the next place of meeting. Sackville had previously decided upon but the committee charged it to Chatham, and the first session will be held at 8 p. m. July 9th. It is expected about 25 delegates will be in attendance which will be the largest high court in the history of the order in this province.

TWO TRAGEDIES.

A Mother Kills Her Six Children Then Cuts Her Throat.

DEARBORN MARR

of Clifton, Maine, Takes the Lives of His Three Children With an Axe.

CLIFTON, ME., March 21.—One of the most fearful and heartrending tragedies that has ever occurred in Maine, was reported in the little village of Clifton some time about noon today, when Mrs. Lizzie Naramore, in a wild frenzy, slew with axe and club, her entire brood of six little children, the eldest not quite ten and the youngest a babe of ten months. As usual in such cases the crazed mother sought to complete the bloody work by taking her own life, but was unsuccessful, although she inflicted a deep gash in her throat.

Little wonder the husband and father, when he made the terrible discovery upon his return from work, has become almost crazed with grief and anguish.

Frank Naramore and his happy family lived on the Babcock farm, so called, a short distance from the village of Clifton. Mrs. Naramore left her home at the usual hour this morning to go to her work in a saw-mill at Oakham and at that time his wife did not attract his attention by acting strangely. It is supposed the crime was committed shortly after noon, the discovery being made by George Thrasher, an employe at Parker's grocery store in Clifton. Mr. Thrasher visited the Naramore house at about 2 o'clock for the purpose of delivering groceries that had previously been ordered by Mrs. Naramore. He was unable to get in the house by the door he usually entered and an examination showed him that it was barricaded. He made a noise, but was unable to raise anyone about the premises. He then looked in a window and noticed blood on the floor, while Mrs. Naramore was lying on a bed. He returned to the village and told of what he had seen and a party was made up and a hasty visit made to the Naramore home and an entrance effected without delay. Mrs. Naramore was alive, but was very weak from loss of blood. She was stretched across her bed on which were four bodies. Mrs. Naramore was removed to the village hotel, where an attempt was made to save her life. At a late hour tonight the attending physicians were confident that she would survive.

At the time the party of villagers found Mrs. Naramore she asked how she and her legs in an attempt to cut the arteries, but not succeeding in bleeding to death, she decided to cut her throat.

The children were three boys and three girls, Ethel, ten years of age, being the oldest, while the ages of Walter, Charles, Chester, Bessie and Lena ranged from eight years to ten months, Lena being the baby. Mrs. Naramore said that she first killed Ethel and then followed with the five others, each time taking the eldest. Five were killed by being struck on the head with the back of an axe, while little Lena was killed with a club. She says she fully expected that gash in her throat would cause her death, and that when her husband returned at night he would find all the bodies in the bed. She appeared rational this evening and displayed signs of sorrow for the deed she had committed, although she is unable to give any reason why she killed the children.

Each of the children had evidently received several blows, as their heads were terribly bruised and blood was scattered in all directions about the rooms. She had evidently made preparations for the deed, as the doors were all locked and barred with sticks of wood. She has not been sick of late and while her husband now remembers that she has not acted just right during the past few days, he did not entertain any suspicions that she would do any harm. The family moved to this section of the state from Templeton about four years ago. Mr. Naramore and his wife have been well and favorably known by the residents of Oakham and Barre, and their six children have been admired by everyone.

At about 9 o'clock tonight, Mrs. Naramore experienced a sudden change for the worse and it is believed she will not live through the night. At a late hour she was just alive and no hopes were entertained for her recovery.

It was learned tonight that Mrs. Naramore cut a gash in the calf of both of her legs in an attempt to cut the arteries, but not succeeding in bleeding to death, she decided to cut her throat.

CLIFTON, ME., March 21.—The entire town is in a state of excitement tonight over what proves to be the most horrible tragedy ever committed in Central Maine, if not in the whole country. It was late this afternoon when Manly Morrison, the chairman of the board of selectmen, drove into town and announced that a triple murder had been committed on a farm eight miles from this post office. Mr. Morrison summoned Coroner Small of Waterville by telephone, and that official arrived on the five o'clock train. A drive of eight miles over a road that is at its worst and in a drenching rain, was taken and the party, which included a representative of the Association Press, arrived at the farm house of Jacob Dearborn Marr. Here a horrible sight met the eyes of the visitors. Stretched upon the floor of the kitchen lay the lifeless body of Alice M. Marr, aged 15 years. Upon stairs in the hall lay the body of Elwyn, seven years old, while in a sleeping apartment on the same floor was the dead body of Helen, 7 years old.

Shortly after dinner today, Dearborn Marr, as he is called, went to the woodshed and secured an axe. With this weapon he entered the kitchen and the eldest girl on the head, falling her to the floor. He then went to the other two children and killed them. The female child came from the upper floor where she had been sleeping. The wife and mother ran rapidly to the home of her father, Samuel Marr, and told them the terrible story of the murders. The father and mother were frantic at the thought of such a crime, the elder Marr, a man of about 40 years, ran to the house

MEMO
Estimated receipts	$1,030,491
Estimated expenditure	880,424
Balance	$ 150,067

Hon. Mr. Tweedie, in his budget speech, began with an allusion to certain unforeseen expenses of the last year. This included $24,000 on account of small pox, $5,000 on the South African Contingent; $10,484.42 on account of bridge repairs; grant to E. Hansen for land, $500; Mrs. Land, $500; Tourist Association, $1000; agent general New Brunswick, London, $1,000; St. Martin's fire, $800; making a total of $42,744.57. Deducting this amount from the expenditure we have $751,728.23 expended, against $755,088.66 for receipts, which leaves a balance of $7,200.38 in favor of the province on the year's transactions. Damage done by washouts he estimated at $45,000.

The receipts of the province for 1900, compared with estimates, were as follows:

Receipts	Estimates
Dominion subsidies	$483,491 78
Territorial Revenue	175,000 00
Fees, secretary's office	10,000 00
Private and local bills	500 00
Taxes, incorporated companies	25,000 00
Succession duties	25,000 00
Queen's printer	1,000 00
Liquor licenses	21,500 00
Miscellaneous receipts	1,000 00
Refund from dominion government on fishing leases	8,000 00
Total	$755,088 66

On 31st October, 1900, the net debt of the province is shown in the public accounts to be $2,851,008 29. On 31st October 1899, the net debt was shown to be $2,736,298 19 giving an increase of debt during the year of $114,788 10.

Hon. Mr. Tweedie gave items to show how this increase had arisen, particularly with respect to the over-expenditure of the board of works which since 1900 amounted to $102,227.

The current expenditure of the province in 1900 amounted to $794,476 85, and the receipts to $755,088 66, showing a deficit of $39,388 19.

Hon. Mr. Tweedie then went into an explanation of the various items of expenditure in nearly all of which was an increase over the estimates.

of his son, a few rods away. When the elder Marr stepped into the kitchen he saw his son at the sink washing his hands and face. On the floor the body of Alice lay, and the grandfather, bending over her saw that life was nearly gone and that nothing could be done to save her. Putting the question to his son, the old man asked: "My God, Dearborn, what have you done?" "I don't know," was the answer, and to that the murderer has stuck. Neighbors were summoned and a watch was kept on Marr, who had gone to the sitting room and remained there through all the excitement of the afternoon.

When Coroner Small entered the house, Marr was still in the sitting room. The coroner was assisted in the examination of the bodies by Dr. A. A. Shaw of this village. Coroner Small ordered Marr's arrest, and he was placed in the charge of Deputy Sheriff Colby of Waterville.

The neighbors of the family speak in the highest terms of Marr as an industrious and quiet citizen. It was very emphatically expressed opinion of everyone about the house that Marr must certainly be insane. The wife and mother remained at the home of the senior Marr all the afternoon and for the greater part of the time was in a hysterical condition. She could say little about the affair other than that she had felt the horrible crime was to be committed. She did say that she and her husband had never any trouble, and that he was very kind and loving to her and the children. Her husband had been very dependent at times during the winter, and she believed that he thought the family was nearing poverty. Marr had a good farm and had a small bank account which is something not every farmer has. There appeared to be not the slightest feeling against Marr by his neighbors. When the officers and the prisoner arrived at the village, the story of the horrible crime had spread to a greater portion of the town, and a great crowd gathered about the hotel where the officers and prisoner took a late supper. Marr did not take much food and he spoke to no one during the drive to town.

PARLIAMENT.

Budget Debate Continued—Sir C. H. Tupper Objects to the

UNFREQUENT MEETINGS

Of the Public Accounts Committee—Will have the Accounts Audited.

OTTAWA, March 21.—Mr. Clancy today asked for the agreement covering the detention of Canadian cattle entering the United States.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper called attention to the unfrequent meetings of the public accounts committee. He gave notice that the session would be prolonged if necessary in order to audit the accounts. Premier Laurier promised to make an announcement at an early date in regard to the policy to be adopted in granting assistance to Captain Bernier's polar expedition. Mr. Marcell continued the debate on the budget. He denounced free trade as impossible in the country. He then devoted considerable attention to race and religious questions, denied that they had been used by the grists in the last election. Mr. Marcell endeavored to contradict Bennett's charge that he (Marcell) had raised the race cry in East Simcoe.

Mr. MacLean, who followed, refused to take up the gauntlet thrown down by Marcell, and stated that he would not discuss race and creed measures. He expressed pleasure that free trade was abandoned by the government. Canada should keep her own work for her own workers. Through its fiscal policy the country should build itself up, and the best policy to secure that end was the national policy. It is the duty of the government to interfere whenever it is necessary in the interests of the country. Throughout the world everywhere progressive nations, with the exception of England, have adopted the national policy. England's iron trade is going to protectionist United States, and this fact is significant. MacLean maintained that the country boomed because the grists had swallowed their pledges and adopted the national policy. No government dared remove that policy. The grists had endeavored to sell Canada into unrestricted reciprocity and annexation with the United States, but had been defeated. Sir John A. Macdonald believed in mutually preferential trade, and today the commercial party was prepared to follow in his footsteps. A woolen mill in Canada is as good an asset as a woolen mill in Lancashire.

Mr. MacLean urged prompt action against the United States in higher duties as a way of bringing United States to his senses. The policy should be to place the work of manufacturing goods imported into Canada in the hands of Canadians. England was fast finding that a national policy would be her salvation.

Mr. Roche, Halifax, announced that the national policy had been turned down so far as Canada. He sees no danger to British commercial supremacy.

Mr. Roche continued after dinner. He wanted closer trade relations with the United States.

Mr. Brock, Toronto Centre, spoke on behalf of the resolution for the party who made no apologies for their past or present. The opposition were as one, but on the government side many differences and opinions were manifest. He pointed out that the woolen industries were being ruined by the present tariff and that wages must be reduced one third to meet the loss. Workmen are being driven out of the country and homes desolated in consequence. He would rather occupy a seat on the opposition benches for 25 years than to occupy a government seat gained by broken pledges and blackened reputations. Mr. Brock was cheered again and again as he made his telling points, and sat down amid great enthusiasm.

Messrs. Ross, Ontario, Clark and Freeman, South Victoria, also spoke. The latter showed up the machine methods practiced by the government in Ontario.

The house then adjourned. Premier Laurier has telegraphed to Premier Barton expressing regret that Canada will not be able to send a contingent of Canadian soldiers to participate at the opening of the Australian commonwealth parliament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Borden, the speakers of both houses, Hon. David Mills and a number of members of parliament were dining by the members of the press gallery last night. The function was one of the most successful ever held here under similar conditions.

Preparations for the departure of the South African consular party for Halifax & Tuesday are being made. A moral crusade was opened here Monday by the police for the first time in years. The bars of the leading hotels were closed, and patrons were held as witnesses.

Mother and Doctor Too

Until the doctor comes, and for minor ills and accidents, the mother must doctor her family. Tens of thousands of mothers have relied upon JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT, and have found it always reliable. It is used both externally and internally and it is the remedy for inflammation from any cause. Used continually for 60 years as a household remedy, its sustained popularity and increasing use every year are the best possible testimonials to its curative powers.

Johnson's ANODYNE LINIMENT

is of greatest value in treating colic, cramps, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, bile, bruises, burns, stings, chafing, colds, coughs, croup, ear-ache, erysipelas, leprosy, lameness, muscle soreness and pain and inflammation in any part of the body. Sold in two size bottles, 5c. and 10c. The larger size is more economical. If your dealer hasn't it send us. Ask first.

L. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass.

Whom did she mean? Mr. Blurt. 'T'd hate to be that man. Wiggles; he has to ask his wife for every cent he spends.' Mrs. Blurt: Good for him; I know a woman who has to ask her husband for every cent she spends and usually gets only half she asks for.

Some advertisements are misleading. Did you ever read one of that kind concerning Red Rose Tea? The foundation on which the reputation of Red Rose Tea has been built is quality.

Booth girl—'Take a chance and help the poor orphans.' Stinger—'No, I am not buying tonight. I am merely an observer.' Booth girl—'Ah, a close observer.'

Growing girls in ill health should use occasionally WHEELER'S Botanic Bitters—purely vegetable and reliable remedy for all irregularities of the system, curing Headache, Biliousness & Dizziness. Only 25 cents at all dealers.

'What a fine head your boy has,' said an admiring friend. 'Yes,' replied the fond father, 'he's a chip off the old block—ain't you, my boy?' 'Yes, father, teacher said yesterday I was a young block-head.'

HOUSE CLEANING TIME is a good time also to cleanse the system. Use Wheeler's Botanic Bitters. They prevent and cure all Headache, Dizziness, Boils, Pimples, etc., and purify the Blood, keep the Eye Bright and the Skin Clear, they regulate the Bowels curing Constipation or Costiveness. Only 25 cents a bottle at all dealers.

Wife—We have been married 12 years and not once in that time have I missed baking you a cake for your birthday. Have I dear? Hubby—No my pet. I look back upon those cakes as milestones in my life.

KENDRICK'S LINIMENT never disappoints—Beware of cheap imitations at cheap prices.

'Is your wife dangerously ill?' asked the druggist as he filled a prescription for a colored man who looked rather sober faced.

'Tain't illness, sah,' was the reply. 'She dun met up wid a circumstance—fell off de roof of de house an' struck on a stone heap an' got what de doctah calls combustion of de brain.'

Only pure Indian and Ceylon Teas; no hand-made Chinas are used in Red Rose Tea.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, etc.

Her Choice. 'He need not come with wealth,' she sighed. 'All that I ask him to provide is an untainted name.'

She kept her word; although he dares not challenge or invite attention to his past, he bears the spidery scars of White.

Looking Forward. Daughter—Yes, he proposed to me and made me just shudder.

Mother—Why, he has a fair income and is quite respectable.

'Ah, but, mamma, how could I trust my whole future to a man so reckless and improvident as to want to marry?'—Life.

He Had to Leave. 'That new clerk in the book department didn't keep his job a week.'

'What was the trouble?' 'He was too stupid. One day an old gentleman came in and said, 'Have you a chance?' and he replied, 'No, sir; I don't chew.'

THE HORSE SHOW.

The fast Pennsylvania pacer, Dakota Dan, 2:18 1/2, is a brother to Mattie Patterson, 2:24 1/2.

C. N. Payne is handling a gray mare, Aunt Epulet, by Epulet, that is said to follow much speed.

There is a green trotter at Shuman, Pa., by St. Vincent, 2:13 1/2, that is said to have gone a mile in 2:12.

Peter the Great, 2:07 1/2, will not be in the second day's race, N. Foddes having decided to have him trained and raced.

Trainer Charles Marvin is now 7 years old and heavy as a back. He has a fine head and health to a cold bath every morning.

Belmann is no longer retained by Sam Dobbins. He will ride as a free lance and will be sent to the stable of Rich and Colver.

The pacer mare Samathina is in training. She was sent to the stud she took a record of 2:20 1/4 and was second in a race in 2:10 1/2.

Harry Wilkie, the western jockey, was signed the other day by a representative of an Austrian turfman to ride in Austria this season.

It is thought that L. L. D. 2:08 1/2, pacer by Woodford Wilkes, may be able to reduce his record this season. He is owned by Edwin Rice, Boston.

Maynard's 2:22 1/2, and Raccoon, 2:17 1/2, make a fast team owned by Thomas Barley of Philadelphia. They can pole together at a clip fast enough to be in the front ranks.

John Kinney has a wonderful filly at Penn Valley farm, by Red Wilkes and out of Lizzie H., by Star Mount. She promises to become a great factor in the racing world in the near future.

Jake Holman, the starter, says T. O'Brien is the most promising jockey at New Orleans, being quick to get away and a good judge of pace. O'Brien is 19 years old and can ride at 100 pounds.

A prominent citizen thinks that if he could teach his horse to lie down and rest between heats he could win often. He does not believe in the old style of walking horses between heats on warm days.

TOWN TOPICS.

When any honors are being distributed, Pittsburg always gets one of the first—Pitching lives.

Not content to rest on her well earned laurels Chicago now boasts that she leads New York in crime—Philadelphia follows.

St. Louis is now boasting that her exposition is going to eclipse all others, but up to date Buffalo has not applied for an injunction to stop such boasts until the Pan-American exposition is over—Boston Globes.

Gallatin is the garden spot of the world. There are more pretty girls and more ugly boys, more refined men and vulgar and fewer fools and deadbeats here than in any city of its size in the world—Gallatin (Mo.) Democrat.

The city council of Chicago has ordered the removal of all unwholesome advertising signs of large size within a short distance of any park, boulevard, public place or public building. New York is by no means free from reproach, and it is high time for the city government to use the ax unsparringly upon the abominations which disgrace so many otherwise attractive places in Gotham.

The Only Real Danger. 'Do you think,' inquired the strict Socialist, 'that a man may go fishing on Sunday and still be a good Christian?'

'Certainly,' replied the man who was given to that sort of thing, 'provided his luck isn't bad enough to make him too profane.'

A Pessimist. The man who's born a licker never learns to mend his ways; No matter what may happen, he finds naught to earn his grudge.

If you praise the golden weather, he will simply howl and hum. And say, 'Twill make the cold waves feel more chilly when they come.'

Convenient Memory. 'Old Grubb says he always remembers the poor,' remarked Mrs. Goodart.

'Yes,' replied Mr. Goodart, 'but he can't remember more than one thing at a time. When he remembers the poor, he forgets his pocketbook, and vice versa.'

Value of Sunshine. One of Florence Nightingale's most beneficent observations in her famous war hospital experience was that a free sweep and admission of sunlight for a sickroom are absolutely essential to the welfare of the invalid.

However, she thinks, should have their windows to the east and west, with gables ends north and south. Sometimes the convalescent in the endless wards of hospitals cannot be fully restored to health until after removal to sunny rooms.

Gates' Acadian Liniment,

The world's Greatest Pain Exterminator.

Hall's Harbour, May 26th, 1900.

C. GATES, SON & CO., Middleton, N. S.

Gentlemen:—About two years ago I was taken sick with La Grippe. My head pained excruciatingly, so terrible was the pain that when my wife wrung clothes from hot water and held them to my head I could not feel the heat, I obtained a bottle of your used it on my head, and took some in hot water internally, accordingly to directions. As soon as I drank it I felt better and made a cure in a few days. I afterwards advised a neighbour to use it and it cured him also. Mr. Joshua McDonald, of Cay Corner, spent $25.00 before I saw him and persuaded him to try your Liniment. He, too, was cured and says that he will never be without Gates' Acadian Liniment for man and beast, external or internal, I regard it as the best.

Yours truly, ALEXANDER THOMPSON.

CHIEF GAME COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

The annual report of the Crown Land Department of New Brunswick contains an interesting report from the Chief Game Commissioner for the past season which we herewith publish in a condensed form for the information of our readers.

"In submitting the annual report of the operations of the Chief Game Commissioner for the past year, I have great pleasure in informing you that the past has been one of the most successful years, from a sportsman's standpoint than we have ever had in this province.

From every direction I get information that the game, instead of being depleted, as there was danger of some years ago, is becoming more plentiful over the entire area of the country. The protection afforded during the winter months, and the greater interest taken in the administration of the Game Law by residents of the rural districts, is mainly responsible for the increase in the number of moose and caribou. So plentiful is the game that a large percentage of the sportsmen who entered our forests were successful in their hunt, and some of the finest moose heads ever obtained in this province or elsewhere have been brought out of the woods this year by visiting or local sportsmen.

New Brunswick has gained an enviable reputation for the beauty of its moose heads, and there is not a sportsman over the eastern section of the continent who does not desire to possess a trophy of a season in the New Brunswick woods.

From reports that I have received from different wardens they all speak of an increase in every class of game with the exception of partridge; and I am unable to obtain any information that would tend to show that these exceptional game birds are on the increase. Indeed, I believe it is otherwise. The principal difficulty that I have in dealing with the handling of partridges is in connection with their export. I am satisfied that there is a considerable export of partridges going on at various points in the province, but the manner of conducting this illicit trade is such that it is extremely difficult to locate the offenders and bring them to justice. As the law at present is, partridge is obtaining less protection than any other game bird, and must sooner or later entirely disappear unless a change is made in the law that will give genuine protection.

On previous occasions I have pointed out that it will be necessary to form an organization of guides in this Province. As it is now, there is neither protection for the game nor for the sportsman in case of breach of contract by either party. There should be some way of dealing with these breaches of contract which occasionally arise with the object of discovering who is really to blame. The guides themselves have recently met and effected an organization which takes in nearly all these actively employed in this work in the Province. The number of guides in the Province is constantly increasing, and while speaking in a general way the major part of these men are good men, still with increased numbers it will be necessary before long to have some better method of dealing with them than the act at present provides. I cannot too strongly urge upon you the necessity of taking steps to secure organization which will include all the guides and I am satisfied that if the necessary machinery is added to the game law it will be of great advantage both to visiting sportsmen and to the guides themselves.

There is a strong feeling among the guides and others that night shooting should be stopped. This, I think is correct as many moose and caribou are wounded by sportsmen in the uncertain light of the evening and afterwards die in the woods. Some of these moose are no doubt cows, which makes it all the worse.

It will be seen from the above that Northumberland takes second place in the number of licenses issued but it must be remembered that a large percentage of hunters procuring licenses in York county hunted in Northumberland and we think we can safely say that this is the banner county of the province for the sportsmen.

EMIGRATION OF WOMEN.

Mr. Chamberlain lately advised sending English women to the colonies, where they would have a good chance to marry. He advised raising a fund for the purpose. Apparently there are a million more women in England than there are men, and it is a difficult thing to know what to do with them. "They are debarr'd," Mr. Chamberlain said, "from the fullness of life, and were jostling one another in the struggle for existence." Care ought to be taken as regards the colonies to which the women are sent. Apparently there are enough in this country, for there are many women in employments of different kinds, to the displacement of men; and there are many who are "debarred from the fullness of life." In the Maritime Provinces of Canada a considerable portion of the young men go West, and while some women do, the number is not so large as to make the emigration equal. There are more fields of employment open to young women than there were a few years ago, but one result of this is to limit the number of young men who can get employment; the surplus leaves the country, and the women in the end suffer, as they have not the opportunities of marrying which might otherwise come to them. With the enlargement of the British army the number of men who may be available for husbands in the British Isles will decrease. But, possibly, this may withdraw men from other occupations, which will now be open to women. Mr. Chamberlain was of the opinion that there would be an enormous development in South Africa, that thousands of the best and most energetic men in the land would go out there, and that the "tone of society would depend largely on the emigration of women" who would go to that country from England. Perhaps it is a fair general inference from Mr. Chamberlain's statements that there are now as many people in Great Britain as space and living can be found for comfortably.—Globe.

FORESTRY.

In a recent issue of the Canadian Lumberman there is an interesting article entitled "The Cultivation of Forests" which we will publish in full on our second page next week. In conversation with Mr. E. Sinclair, our enterprising Bridgetown lumberman he kindly condescended to contribute a short article on this subject. This article, written in his usual happy style appears in another column and should be read by all who have the future welfare of our country at heart.

The Editor's Mail.

To the Editors of the Advocate,
GENTLEMEN:—As the avocation of the lumberman is the destruction of the forest I hardly know how to reply to your request, particularly as I cannot remember whether I became acquainted with the tree family on the end of a cross cut saw making blocks for kindling wood out of the pine the Miramichi river and on for anything else, or in a school at Chatham where Mr. Miller used birch as an educator. Prior to that time knowledge I gained was at a school near a tanyard where the master thought a strip of tanned sheepskin the correct thing to tan lambs with. However, if more stringent measures are not employed to protect our forests there will soon be no bark to tan hides, nor logs to collect stumps on. The New Brunswick Act for preventing destruction of property by fire is a good one if the material for carrying out the intentions of the Act was not slower than cold molasses. Every section of this country in danger of fire should have well equipped, energetic forest ranger cutting and clearing paths through the woods to keep him in trim and have appliances and power to engage help where a conflagration occurs, and as every tree is known by its fruit, so every government will be judged on its merits, and while grubs won't grow on thorns nor figs on thistles it sometimes looks as if we had the miracle reversed and were getting the full benefits. Did it ever occur to you that the representation of some counties wouldn't be imperilled if put at auction like our Crown Lands and sold to the highest bidder? Even then one of those peculiar combinations, so prevalent in our province, might affect a settlement to suit themselves without increasing our benefits, and we'd better leave this subject for future reference and get back to the forest where pulp wood is cut like cordwood, notwithstanding the proclamation in Royal Gazette, 18 feet long, 10 inches at the top. I find interest in scientific forestry is rapidly increasing everywhere except in New Brunswick, and as the welfare of future generations depends on ourselves, our forests and our fisheries it behooves us to protect them.

Why
Scott's

EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil?

There are others; why SCOTT'S?

The good one is SCOTT'S. It's nearly 30 years old; it is used by intelligent people all over the world; and approved by physicians all over the world.

When anyone says "Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," he means SCOTT'S. No other is famous.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is made in a certain way; of certain things; it keeps; it is always alike; it does what it does.

The others—nobody knows what they are or do. There wouldn't be any others but for the goodness of SCOTT'S—there wouldn't be any counterfeit money but for the true.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto. 30c. and $1.00; all druggists.

DEATH OF BISHOP SWEENEY

HIS LORDSHIP BREATHES HIS LAST THIS MORNING.

Great and general regret was expressed to-day when it became known that the death of Bishop Sweeney had taken place shortly after 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's Industrial School, Silver Falls, where His Lordship has been living for the past few months. The end came very peacefully. At his death the Bishop was attended by Rev. H. Cormier, parish priest at Silver Falls, by the sisters of the St. Patrick's Industrial School, and by his sister, Mrs. B. Travers, and members of her family. His Lordship had been in failing health for some time, but recently he had had an attack of paralysis, and on Saturday there was such a decided change that those in attendance realized the end was not far off. Prayers were offered on Sunday in all the Catholic churches.

On the announcement of the Bishop's death, Catholics and Protestants alike lamented the fact and joined in praising the man who during his long life had filled so important a place in the community. When news reached the palace the Cathedral bell was tolled eighty strokes—one for each year of his life.

High Court of Forester to Meet in Chatham Instead of Sackville.

FREDERICTON, March 22.—A special meeting of the High Standing Committee of the Independent Order of Foresters was held at Queen hotel this evening. Those present were A. R. Chapman, St. John, H. C. R.; L. R. Hetherington, Moncton, H. C. R.; F. W. Emmerson, Sackville, H. Secretary; E. P. Eastman, Petitcodiac, H. Treasurer; Dr. L. E. Cummins, Bath, H. E. W. Ebbett, Gagetown, H. Councillors. Considerable routine business was transacted. The order is in a very prosperous condition and the high secretary will immediately visit courts in Charlottetown county. The most important matter decided was the next place of meeting. Sackville had previously decided upon but the committee charged it to Chatham and the first session will be held at 8 p. m. July 9th. It is expected about 200 delegates will be in attendance which will be the largest high court in the history of the order in this province.

NERVE PILLS

Mr. F. W. Meyers, King St. E., Berlin, Ont., says: "I suffered for five years with palpitation, shortness of breath, sleeplessness and pain in the heart, but one box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills completely removed all these distressing symptoms. I have not suffered since taking them, and now sleep well and feel strong and vigorous."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure all diseases arising from weak heart, worn out nerve tissues, or watery blood.

turn, to find the whole party, including, of course, himself, sprawling and helpless from the yacht, or else sail deliberately to the nearest airhole or ferry track.

Collisions in races in the days when the iceboats carried from 600 to 1000 feet of sail used to be very common until the number of entries was limited. Yet even with the small number of competitors the great majority of spectators prudently remained ashore. You cannot watch the vagaries of an iceboat with impunity, for sometimes they take the bit from their driver, run away at fearful speed and dash themselves to pieces. A typical accident of this kind, which might have been attended with great loss of life, is furnished by the case of the handsome ice yacht Jack Frost.

A fierce northwest gale of many flaws and variations started the boat from her anchorage. Commodore Rogers, standing near by, sprang hastily after her, but only caught the end of the boom, whence he was quickly flung with great violence. The yacht, with guiding rudder swinging, rushed toward a crowd of skaters and spectators, who, as many as were not panic-stricken, sought to get out of the way, whereupon the runaway, like a live thing, made directly for them at a terrific rate of speed, barely missing them, and, after some further evolutions, dashed between two yachts directly against the rocky shore, a complete wreck.

But the riskiest proceeding of all and one productive of the most exciting adventures, is jumping "cracks." The owner of the Aeolus with a friend, once took a trip which he will probably never forget to his dying day. The ice was safe and the wind strong on the journey up the river, and before returning the pair went ashore and spent an hour or two over lunch. Meanwhile the wind increased, but the sun's rays had caused the ice to expand, until large gaps had been made in its surface.

On their return the yachtmen, unaware of anything of this serious nature, set to with a will. At each fresh burst of speed each uttered irrepressible yells of exultation, but in the midst of their enjoyment both were paralyzed to see directly ahead and impossible of evasion a long reach of open water fully 20 feet across.

Before it was possible to alter their course by a fraction there was a swift and sudden splash and the runner plank threw a sheeted mass of water as high as the gaff. The abrupt shock as the rudder of the boat caught the farther edge of the ice tossed the man from the rudder plank, caused him to perform a somersault high in midair while the grip of the helmsman was not strong enough to prevent his sliding forward into the water partly under the "box." Fortunately, the men escaped death by drowning and quitted the scene without any broken bones, leaving the Aeolus spinning round and round in the current.

To those who have never seen an iceboat dart away and shrink where speck on the horizon in a few minutes, the speed, were it not well vouchered for, would be wholly incredible. A gentleman residing at Poughkeepsie wished to speak to his brother, who had just started by train for New York. He therefore sprang into his iceboat, soon passed the train, although it was an express, and was on the platform of the station at Newburg when the train drew up. At one point of his journey he had made two miles in a minute.

Nevertheless, in spite of the various published records, because it always occurs when no one is expecting it. Over 200 miles in an hour is, however, an authenticated performance.

DIAMOND DYES.

Mrs. William Sargent, Petrolia, Ont., says:

"Your Diamond Dyes are the best I have ever used, and they have done splendid work for me. In a short time Diamond Dyes saved me ten dollars, so that I think they deserve a good word. My friends to whom I have shown my dyed goods, say that Diamond Dyes made old things look like new. The richest woman in our town, after seeing my work, has become a user of your Dyes. I thank you for such valuable money-savers as Diamond Dyes."

Mrs. Thos. Hyndman, Masham, Que., says:

Personal Influence.

Every one of us casts a shadow. There hangs about us a sort of penumbra, a strange, indefinable something, which we call personal influence, which has its effect on every other life on which it falls. It goes with us wherever we go. It is not something we can have when we will, as we lay aside a garment. It is something that always pours out from our life, like light from a lamp, like heat from flame, like perfume from a flower.

Suffocating With Croup

Croup is the terror of every mother and the cause of frequent deaths among small children. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brings prompt relief to the loud, ringing cough, makes breathing easy, and prevents suffocation. It is mothers' favorite remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and asthma.

Mrs. F. W. Bond, 20 Macdonald street, Bar, Ont., says: "Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing cough and croup. My little girl has been subject to the croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I cannot speak too highly of it."

ICE BOATING.

Sport that is Thrilling and Dangerous.

Boats Frequently Travel more than a Mile a Minute.

Although the question of the American or Canadian origin of the iceboat remains unsettled, says Beckles Wilson, as long ago as 1790 there were iceboats, built at Poughkeepsie, and, indeed, the sport may claim to be a father of competitive yachting in America.

The first Hudson River iceboat, the relics of which are still religiously preserved, seems to have been simply a square box on three runners, with a small, flat-headed sprit sail. The forerunners were nailed to the sides of the box and the runner was set in an oak post with an iron tiller.

But after a period of neglect, the development of the iceboat was rapid. An iceboat today has her timbers arranged in the form of the letter "T." The perpendicular line of the letter represents the center timber, which runs from the foot of the mast to the stern of the iceboat, while the horizontal line represents the runner plank, on each end of which is affixed an iron runner very much like a large skate. On the top of the runner plank is the mast bench in which the mast is stepped. Rails run diagonally from the stern end of the center timber side to points about half way between the mast and the ends of the runner plank. A couple of braces cross the center timber into whose forward end is mortised the heel of the bowsprit from one side to the other.

But are not the dangers attending this sport such as to confine it to a few and to render its vogue precarious? Not at all; the danger, although confessedly not contemptible, but what the enthusiasts' appetite and ought to cause the lakes and rivers of Canada to become the mecca for all in whom stirs the blood of the true sportsman.

The rare exhilaration that tingles one's every nerve when guiding a mighty iceboat over smooth ice in a stiff wind is unequalled by any other experience in the whole world. Some experts glory in being the most fearless and reckless ice yachtsmen in their district. One man I once heard of was daunted by nothing; snow hummocks and jagged masses of heavy ice were jumped or smashed into, until on his return from a voyage his craft was torn and splintered as if raked fore and aft by sorapnel.

His favorite amusement was to take unsuspecting visitors for a sail in the aimable hope that there would be wind enough to enable him to capsize. If this did not happen he was content, by a sudden

Mr. George Thompson, a leading merchant of Blenheim, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with itching piles for fifteen years, and at times they were so bad I could scarcely walk. I tried a great many remedies, but never found anything like Dr. Chase's Ointment. It cured me."

Mr. Jas. Jackson of the Laurie Spool Company, St. Alexis des Monts, Que., writes:—"I was troubled for two years with that cruel disease, bleeding piles, and after using Dr. Chase's Ointment, I can say I am entirely rid of it. It is a treasure to all suffering from piles."

Mr. W. D. Thornton, Blacksmith, Calgary, N.W.T., states:—"For fifteen years I suffered untold agony from blood-itching piles, and have been unable to treat with well-known physicians. I had 15 tumors removed, but obtained no positive cure. I have suffered more than I can tell, but can now say that, thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment, I am positively cured, and by using a half box. 60c a box."

There is much complaint on the part of God-fearing people along the line of the Intercolonial railway about the almost incessant rumbling and whistling of Sunday trains, disturbing the Sabbath rest and the services in the churches.—St. John Star.

Word was received here early last week of the death of Dr. P. A. Holohan at Great Barrington, Mass. Dr. Holohan was a son of Edw. Holohan, of this town, and for a short time practiced here. He was a graduate of McGill Medical College.

Wednesday's accommodation going to Campbellton struck and killed a moose near Barnaby River. Con. Heine stopped the train and removed the carcass of the dead animal, and the passengers got a splendid view of a large bull moose which escaped the fate of his mate.—Times.

Leut. Parks, writing home from South Africa, says that the British government is providing free transportation to the families of soldiers who elect to remain and settle in South Africa, and if sweethearts go out the cost of their ticket is refunded by the government after the knot is tied.

There is here a suggestion to those New Brunswick girls who weep and will not be comforted. Enough said. To go into particulars would be to impugn the intelligence of these fair maidens.—Star.

Our readers desiring to take advantage of the guessing competition advertised in another page should not delay sending in their subscriptions and guesses as the competition will probably close in April. During the past week a large number have sent in the necessary dollar and guess. This is a thoroughly reliable and legitimate contest and none need hesitate in taking advantage of it.

Sergeant Major Cox, of the South Light Horse gave his very popular address to an appreciative audience in the Town Hall last Wednesday evening. Mr. Cox, although not professing to be an orator, told of his experiences during the campaign under General Buller in the relief of Ladysmith in a very pleasing manner and held the attention of the audience throughout. Many of his experiences were thrilling and he had many narrow escapes. At the close Mr. Jas. Tidy, in a few well chosen words, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was seconded and carried unanimously.

A very quiet but interesting wedding took place in Dalhousie on Saturday evening last, when Mamie, daughter of the late James Modat, was married to R. Z. Walker, I. C. R. station agent at that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Fisher, at the residence of the bride's mother. The relatives of the contracting parties were the only guests present. Mr. and Mrs. Walker have many friends who will join with us in extending congratulations and good wishes. They are spending a couple of weeks visiting a number of western cities.

Died at Great Barrington.

Holohan.—In Great Barrington, March 19th, Dr. P. A. Holohan, aged 32 years. A good man morally, a strong man mentally, and apparently a robust man physically, has been called high. Dr. Holohan, during a five year's residence here, by his quiet and sincere manner, his skill in his profession, his interest in affairs and by his unobtrusive but yet pleasing social qualities had secured a large place in the esteem of the public. He had been honored by appointment and then by election to the school committee and but for his fatal illness would have been re-elected to that office for a term of three years. His loss is sincerely mourned and genuine sympathy goes out to his young wife and baby boy. P. A. Holohan was born in Newcastle, N. B., March 17 1869; his death, as this statement would indicate, occurring only two days after the rounding out of 32 years of life. When 14 years of age he entered a college at Sherbrooke, Canada continuing there for one year; leaving that institution he shortly afterwards entered Holy Cross college at Worcester, from which, after a five year's course and the making of a splendid record, he graduated. He then entered McGill Medical College at Montreal from which, with second honors in a large class, he graduated three years later. He practiced for one year at Newcastle and then, five years ago last September, located in Great Barrington. On June 21, 1899, he was married to Miss Josephine Delivault of this village, who with a baby boy, Edward, survive him. One sister, Mary, resided here in time to see him before he died. Six brothers and one other sister, all of whom reside in Newcastle, and his father and mother are also living. The funeral which occurs at 9:30 this morning will be attended by delegates from the Pittsfield and Lee Councils of Knights of Columbus. The bearers will be: E. J. Maloney, James McManus, T. J. Keavin, Eugene Scott, Jr., M. C. Gill and Thomas F. Larkin.—Berkshire Courier.

Here Are The 16 Tints.

Church's Alabastine comes in 16 beautiful tints and white, too—these are the tint cards that all up-to-date dealers have to show you. We sell Church's Alabastine because it gives universal satisfaction to our customers. It won't peel, rub off or soak. It is recommended by eminent physicians on account of its healthfulness. It grows harder with age. It is the only permanent water color wall and ceiling coating that is made to use with cold water.

It will not fade. It can be applied over any coat if you wish to change the tint. It is never sold in bulk. That which pays our customers pays us, and that is another reason why we sell Church's ALABASTINE.

THE TOP OF THE MORNING TO YOU!

Ladies and Gentlemen;

We have not said a word to you about wheels during this long night of winter, but we have been studying your interests with our own.

Never before has there been such a stock of up to date bicycles in a store in Newcastle as we have in ours this spring. We have seventeen on exhibition, three ladies and fourteen gent's.

If you want a wheel, any make, any price, give us a call, our terms are reasonable. We have wheels from $35.00 up and every one of them fitted with Dunlop Detachable tires, patent expanding bars, etc.

Anything in the Sundry line you want? If so keep your eye on this space, we will tell you something about this line in a week or so.
