GO-PREACHERS IN THEIR OWN DEFENCE.

It is Certainly Up to Their Opponents to Prove Their Charges.

There has been quite a number of slanderous charges made against the (so called) Go-preachers and some of these have been published in various newspapers.

We have been accused as being mormans; white slave traffickers, etc., yet no one has been able to prove these charges to be true.

All these reports are based on "hearsay evidence" and no definite evidence has been brought forth. We paid no attention at first thinking that those who were interested in writing untruthful statements against us would soon give up and that the people would soon see the folly of it, but things have waxed worse and they still seek to misrepresent us to the public.

We can truthfully say that we are not mormans or white slave traffickers.

The last report that we have seen was in the Observer. The article was written by Mr. Schurman in which he made some grave charges. He said that one of our doctrines was Triune baptism, meaning three immersions and that we practised what we preached. This statement is without foundation, for we do not teach any such thing as "Triune baptism" and never did. One of the other things we are accused of is "Modified Mormonism" and to substantiate this Mr. Schurman says he has a letter before him stating that one lady who had become a Go-preacher follower, near Moncton, was informed that she should not consider herself the wife of her legal husband alone but must be a wife in common.

I presume that the letter he makes reference to is the one that appeared in the paper called the Maritime Baptist. That letter is founded on hearsay and no person can prove that it is true. It is one thing to make a statement but it's another thing to prove it.

Nothing of this sort ever happened near Moncton or anywhere else in connection with the so called Go-preachers. These charges are made in such a way as to hinder us and our work, yet any fairminded person who desired to know the facts of the case cannot find out as there is no address given.

Why do they not give the name and address of the lady near Moncton so that anyone could write and find out for themselves?

Regarding marriage, we believe that it is ordained by God; and that a man should have but ONE wife and that lawfully by marriage.

The contracting parties must secure a license and then be legally married by some person appointed by the laws of the country to do so.

We are also blamed for causing trouble, but such is not the case. We go into a community with no other motive than to preach Christ's gospel to all who care to listen to us. Some people get interested and get confidence in us and our message. Others are sometimes inclined to be prejudiced and often without ever hearing us, go on to condemn us and because they cannot get everyone to believe what they say then THEY cause trouble and not us.

Regarding not seeing things as some other preachers see them. It is a known fact that the preachers in the various denominations do not see eye to eye with each other and if we are no exception to the rule why do they interfere so long as we abide by the teachings of Christ and His Apostles in the New Testament?

The Scriptures are our only rule and guide in life and we seek to go by the word of God and our conscience, and it is very unjust on the part of anyone to persecute us when we live and preach nothing but the truth as it is in Christ and abide by the laws of the country.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your paper.

Yours Respectfully

JOHN COOK.

Tragic Death of Charles Cunningham.

Charles Cunningham, aged 34 years, of Newburg, was found dead on the Newbridge Road about ten o'clock on Thursday night. Deceased and Patrick Montague went to Woodstock with a load of cordwood and left for home about 5.30 p.m. They called at McElroy's store, Grafton, for several articles, and left there together, Montague leading. On arrival at Mr. McGuire's, Mr. Montague called in to see a sick horse and Mr. Cunningham passed along on his way home. About two hours later Mr. Montague discovered the body of Mr. Cunningham lying flat on the road, dead. Deceased is survived by his father, mother, three sisters, Stella, Ella and Katie, and three brothers, Joseph, Thomas, and Harry.

The coroner's jury concluded that the deceased left Woodstock with his team and sled about 5.30 on Thursday afternoon, that he reached the spot where his body was found about 8 o'clock, that he fell off his sled at that time and was dragged under his sled some 300 yards, which rendered him insensible, and that he died from exposure before his body was found at 9.45 the same evening.

WHAT THE WAR WAS ABOUT

LITTLE THINGS THAT HAVE LED TO BIG BATTLES.

More Territory Wanted Is Usually The Cause For Most Wars.

What are they fighting about? That is a question that could be truthfully answered, in nine wars out of ten, by some variation of La Fontaine's fable about the wolf and the lamb. But it would never do for one country to say to another: "We badly want some of your territory, and we are going to have a try to take it from you by force." So some more or less reasonable pretext has to be found, or some deliberate insult given which the other side cannot ignore, says London Answers.

To illustrate the petty pretext, let us take the war between France and Holland in the reign of Louis XIV. That war was declared because, it was said, the King of France had been ridiculed on some medals struck at Amsterdam. The assertion was that the Dutch ambassador to France had caused to be struck a medal bearing his head and the motto: "In conspectu meo stetit sol," which may be translated: "At sight of me the sun stands still."

The Altered Wire.

As the sun was the device of Louis, and he was generally referred to as "The Sun King," this was held to be very offensive, but it would hardly have led to war if the French king had not been on the look-out for an excuse to tackle the Dutch, with a view to stopping their military development.

It is curious that, not only has no example of that medal ever been found, but historians are pretty well agreed that it never existed!

As an instance of the provocative insult, the little thing that directly led to the Franco-German war of 1870, stands out from every thing else of the kind. The real cause of that war was that Prussia wanted Alsace and Lorraine, and felt herself strong enough to take what she wanted; but France was made to declare war by an insulting alteration made by Bismarck in a telegram that had been written by a secretary to convey to a German newspaper the fact that in an interview with the French ambassador, the old King of Prussia had said:

J. J. Hills' Fearlessness and Shrewdness Made Him Rich

"King of the Amer West." Began Work as Clerk in Ontario Store

James J. Hill is rightly regarded as the foremost of Aladdins of American railway enterprise. He is a Canadian by birth, having been born in Wellington county, Ontario, in 1838. He was a great admirer of the works of James Fenimore Cooper, and it was through the influence of his books that Hill's attention was called to the great possibilities of the West. To get the money by which he could make the trip from his home, it was necessary for Hill to go to work in a store. For three years he slaved in a menial position, and, besides supporting his mother, managed to save a little money, enough to take him on his great expedition.

Hill went to St. Paul, which was a small village then on the heels of civilization. The conditions there were hard and the life rough. Hill hired out as a mere roustabout on a wharf, carrying wood and freight on his back from the wharf to the docks of Mississippi steamboats for $3 a day.

He became a shipping clerk in the offices of the Dubuque and St. Paul Packet Company. It was in this position that he first came in contact with some of the problems of transportation. It fired him to greater things, and he was soon established in business for himself. He became the agent for the Northwestern Packing Company and the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, also engaging in the sale of coal and wood. He was the first, incidentally, to introduce coal in St. Paul, and he was the first to establish communication between St. Paul and Winnipeg, then known as Fort Gary.

In 1872 Hill went into partnership with Norman W. Kittson, of the Hudson Bay Company, and together they operated steamboats between Moorhead and Winnipeg. He was prevailed upon to attempt the reorganization of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, a bankrupt railroad, standing $33,000,000 in debt.

The road was a joke in financial circles, and alarmists did all they could to discourage Hill in his intention to make it a paying proposition, but without avail. He persuaded Donald Smith and George Stephen to help him, and in 1879 the road was reconstituted under the name of the St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba Railroad. Hill was made the general manager of the road. He saw personally to its development, and in 1886 the main line of the track was almost completed, all the bridges were built, tunnels cleaned, and the line ready for grading. Over 4,000 men were used in the work. To-day the Northern Pacific Railroad, which it has since been rechristened, represents a trackage of 6,000 miles.

Hill is now known as the "King of the North-West." His railroad hauls the greater portion of the 80,000,000 bushels of wheat raised annually in Minnesota, the 97,000,000 bushels contributed to the market by the Dakotas, and the 24,000,000 bushels from Oregon. Only his fearlessness and far-sightedness have enabled Hill to become one of the nineteen richest men in the world.

ADVENTURE IN THE ARCTIC.

Nansen's Brave Deed Almost Cost Him His Life.

In the annals of the arctic few things are more worthy of admiration than the courage with which Nansen and Johansen set out from the ice-bound Fram to make their famous dash toward the pole. They established a new farthest north record by reaching the eighty-sixth parallel. From that point lack of provisions and the bad condition of the ice made them turn back.

After great hardships, land was finally reached, and they spent the long arctic night under the shelter of a cliff in a rude hut of ice and walrus hides. At Christmas they "celebrated" in this limited manner: Johansen turned his shirts, and put the outside one next the skin. Nansen did likewise, and washed himself in a quarter of a cup of warm water. For supper, they added to their bear-meat diet a small portion of the provisions they were keeping for the journey south in the spring.

Five months later, a narrow channel opened in the ice, and they launched the two light kaiaks that they had carried on their sledges for more than a year. A few days afterward, disaster nearly put an end to the expedition. The incident is related in "The Siege and Conquest of the North Pole," by Mr. George Bryce.

In the evening, their legs felt stiff with sitting in the kaiaks all day, and they landed on the edge of the ice, so that they might stretch them a little. After the kaiaks, which were lashed together, had been moored by means of one of the braces, they ascended a hummock close by and had been standing there only a moment, when Johansen raised the cry that the kaiaks were adrift.

They ran to the edge of the ice, but the boats were already a little way off, and were drifting quickly. The position was a terrible one, for all they possessed was on board. Nansen at once threw off some of his clothing, handed his watch to Johansen, and sprang into the icy water. He knew that if the boats were lost, it meant death to him and his companion. At first it seemed more than doubtful whether he could manage to regain them. When he got tired, he turned over and swam on his back. At length he gained a little, and redoubled his exertions.

By this time, Nansen felt his limbs stiffen and losing all feeling, but the distance from the kaiaks became shorter, and at last he was able to grasp a snow-shoe that lay across the stern. He now tried to pull himself up, but his body was so stiff with cold that he could not do so. After a little he managed to swing one leg up to the edge of the ice, and then he was able to pull himself up. He was now on the ice, and he felt a great relief. He was now on the ice, and he felt a great relief.

TORONTO CORRESPONDENCE

INTERESTING BITS OF GOSSIP FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

The G. N. R.'s New Townsite—General Lessor and Other—Interesting Law Suit—Hamilton's Fate.

It has long been recognized that Toronto's great handicap as compared to Montreal lies in the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Grand Trunk Railway both have their headquarters in the seaport town. In recent years the prospect of the third transcontinental railway, the G. N. R., keeping the headquarters in Toronto has given rise to the hope that in the near future Toronto might rival Montreal even as a railway centre. But so far this has been mostly taken in hope, because up to date having the headquarters of the G. N. R. here has not meant any great acquisition to the city in population or in industries. Now, however, all this is to be changed. The G. N. R. has purchased some 1,200 acres at Leaside Junction and has announced that it will immediately establish there its main railway shops. It has prepared a plan for the subdivision of the entire area. The subdivision is to be laid out along model lines with wide avenues, one running as wide as 110 feet, diagonal thoroughfares headed for the centre of the city and cutting across it. It is estimated that in the subdivision as laid out, 30,000 people will find comfortable homes.

This area is as yet entirely outside of the city limits. It is located at the north-eastern corner, contiguous to the old limits of the city on the south side and to the municipality of North Toronto on the west. As North Toronto is about to be annexed to the city it is natural to suppose that the G. N. R. subdivision will be a connecting link with Donlands, the estate of Mr. W. F. Macleod, M.P., proprietor of the Toronto World, an estate comprising some 1,200 acres purchased in small lots some years ago at exceedingly moderate prices as farmland, but which now at a moderate valuation as suburban property will easily put the owner in the millionaire class.

A French-Canadian General. A shift among the higher officers of the Canadian Militia, which has just gone into effect, brings to the head of the force at Toronto Brigadier-General Francois Louis Lessor. It is curious that the position in this ultra Protestant, ultra English centre should be given to a French-Canadian, for General Lessor is decidedly French in appearance, manner and speech. Though reversing the usual order of French-Scottish intermarrying in the province of Quebec, his mother being of Scottish birth, while his father was a French-Canadian, General Lessor's native tongue is the French and he speaks English with a decided accent.

General Lessor has made a good reputation as a soldier. He entered the militia thirty-four years ago, when he was but 18 years old. He saw his first service in the North-West Rebellion of 1885 and came into prominence during the South African War, where he commanded the Canadian Dragoons. He was present at the relief of Kimberley and saw much service in the field. For his conduct he received a Queen's Medal with five clasps.

While not a man of wealth, General Lessor is a little more than a military man, a prominent social. Like many officers who served in South Africa, his pay was allowed to accumulate and amounted to a tidy sum at the conclusion of the war. Other changes include the retirement of Major General W. B. Oter, C.B., Chief of Staff, who retires from the militia after over 50 years service. While his duties have taken him away from Toronto in recent years, General Oter has a host of friends in this city, where he spent practically all his life. General Oter saw service in the Fenian Raids, now 46 years gone by. As Colonel of the Queen's Own Rifles he saw much service in the North-West Rebellion in 1885, and the members of the controversy over his tactics at the battle of Carleton Place have not entirely died out. He is of course, a prominent figure in the South African war being in command of the first Canadian contingent that went to the front in 1899. He was always a strict disciplinarian and did a great deal for the morale of the Canadian Militia. He is succeeded at Ottawa by Major General Cotton, who has been in command in Toronto for several years and who is now succeeded by Brigadier General Lessor.

A Piquant Law Suit. The High Court is still considering the law suit of Mr. G. G. Lindsey against Dr. W. D. Le Sueur. The case has attracted a great deal of attention, partly on account of the prominence of the litigant, partly on account of the interesting point of law at issue, and partly also on account of the exceedingly interesting recollections which came up in the course of the trial. Mr. G. G. Lindsey is a grandson of William Lyon Mackenzie. He is a son of the late Mr. Charles Lindsey, for many years a prominent journalist of Toronto, and in later years registrar, and of Janet L., one of the daughters of the rebel-patriot. The Lindsey family have had in their possession for many years practically all of the documents relating to Mackenzie, which are now extant. This collection is said to be exceedingly profuse and interesting, containing documents which are to be found nowhere else in the world.

Briefly, the story of the present law suit is that Dr. Le Sueur, who is a literary light of Ottawa, being commissioned by the publishers of the "Makers of Canada" series to write a biography of William Lyon Mackenzie, secured permission to have free access to the Lindsey library and its documents. In the course of time Dr. Le Sueur handed over his manuscript for the biography, but on the ground that it was a partisan manuscript, unfair to the memory of Mackenzie, it was rejected by the publishers and not included in the "Makers of Canada" series. Mr. Lindsey claims that Dr. Le Sueur had access to the Lindsey documents for the purpose of writing a biography of that series and when his manuscript was rejected his rights ceased. Mr. Lindsey thereupon sued to restrain Dr. Le Sueur from making any use whatever of the information he secured from the Lindsey library. The fact that Dr. Le Sueur is an ardent Tory and Mr. Lindsey is the grandson of his grandfather adds piquancy to the situation which is heightened by the fact that Dr. Le Sueur is represented by a Liberal counsel and Mr. Lindsey by a Conservative.

W. L. Mackenzie's Grandson. Mr. Lindsey has one of the keenest intellects in Toronto, and may be heard from politically some day, though in recent years he has shown a disposition to retire into the background. As a young man he was prominent in political affairs in Toronto, and over 20 years ago, when only 31 years of age, was elected as alderman for two terms. He was one of the group of young men whose weekly meetings and discussions on public questions are still recalled with the fondest pleasure by everyone who participated. Afterward, Mr. Lindsey became manager of the Crown News Co., of which corporation he was elected President in 1907. For the past three years, having retired from that position, he has been in Toronto. He is still interested in mining affairs and is understood to be the possessor of a considerable fortune.

It is of passing interest that he was the founder of the "Variety," the oldest publication which has recently held its own in the limelight in connection with the dispute with Principal Hamilton.

Hamilton to the Front. The winning of three football championships in one day by the city of Hamilton has brought that rival of Toronto more prominence in these parts than it has had in many a day. Football popularity may not be the best kind of publicity, but the Hamilton city's feat is an undoubted evidence of the existence of a more than ordinary civic spirit. Hamilton used to be a continuous butt of all stock jokes in Toronto. On the stage the comedian's sense of humor, but it would seem that the practice is dying out. Perhaps one reason is that Toronto is getting so big that it no longer considers Hamilton as a serious rival. Toronto now points with pride to the fact that its population is increasing every year by more than 10,000 births, apart from immigration and annexations. Some six or seven years ago Hamilton put on a considerable sport and secured the location of a large number of important American industries, but in recent years its increase in population has not been as marked. At the same time it has nearly every natural advantage that Toronto has and with the right kind of civic spirit and enterprise there is no reason why it should not become a large city.

THE EMPRESS'S PROMISE.

How She Showed Her Appreciation of Kindness.

An English gentleman who owns a fine estate on the coast of Spain once told the following charming story of the late Empress of Austria to a writer who communicated it to the New York Observer:

In the spring of 1892 the Austrian consul called on Mr. D., and said that the Empress Elizabeth, understanding that he proposed to spend the season in England, greatly desired to rent his house. Mr. D. replied that he should feel highly honored if her majesty would consent to occupy it for the summer.

When he returned with his family in the autumn, a note came from the empress, saying that she would pass through Jerez on a certain day, and desired to breakfast with them. Her majesty expressed her indebtedness to Mr. D. for a delightful summer, and begged that she be allowed to make them some compensation; but the offer was gracefully refused. At length the empress said:

"Is there nothing I can do to show my appreciation of your kindness and courtesy?"

"Well," replied Mr. D., "if on your majesty's return to Vienna you will send me a small photograph with your autograph, I shall be honored in its possession, and I shall value it very highly."

Several months passed without the appearance of the promised portrait, and both Mr. and Mrs. D. rather unwillingly arrived at the conclusion that the illustrious lady had entirely forgotten them. But at last an enormous packing-case arrived from Vienna. It contained a finely-framed full-length oil-painting of the empress, the work of the Austrian court painter, one of the most famous artists of Europe.

found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me.
It was not unnatural that I should that I should be unfit to do my

After repeated trials of medicines gave me the first gleam of hope.

From the very first I could see they

PREHISTORIC BUILDERS.

Their Marvelous Skill Has Been Lost in the Ages.

How the people of prehistoric times hewed out the great stones—larger than any that are quarried to-day—hailed them from distant hills, and lifted them to the very top of their pyramids and fortifications will probably forever remain a mystery.

Near Cuzco, in Peru, there is an ancient Inca fortress formed of granite and limestone boulders, some of which are as large as a house, with edges as carefully trimmed and fitted as the parts of a picture puzzle, and the surfaces as smooth as on the day they were set up. The stones, close-grained and a rich brown in hue, must have been brought from a distance, as none like it is found near by.

The secret of this marvelous skill has been lost in the ages, but the modern descendants of the ancient builders relate legends that, to their simple minds at least, explain the mystery. Mr. S. S. Howland has told some of these in Scribner's Magazine.

The one most credited by the Indians is that far back in the mountains a plant grows, the juice of which, spread upon the surface of a stone, will cut it through as with a knife, and not deviate from the line that has been painted with it, and also that a little of this juice rubbed upon the surface will smooth it as a brook smooths a pebble.

To support this story, they declare that in the mountains lives a bird that makes its nest in holes on the sides of steep cliffs. To do this he brings in his beak a bit of a shrub, which he holds against the stone, until in a very short time it has eaten away enough rock to furnish the space required. They also insist that many, many years ago some Indians working among the ruins of Tiaguanaco discovered a great closed cistern. They forced out the lid; it was full of a thick, greenish liquid. In their anxiety to make use of their find as a place to keep their grain, they ladled out the stuff and threw it broadcast over the great stones, and columns amid which they were working. What was their wonder, on returning the following day, to find that everything that greenish fluid had touched was broken and split up into small fragments.

Whether the Incas had knowledge of some such wonderful agent or not, one thing is certain—no tools or weapons have ever been discovered that have an edge capable of carving these stones.

WOMAN SHOT AS TRAITOR.

Wife of Officer Reveals Mobilization Plan to Lover.

A tragedy in which a Bulgarian woman's love led her to betray her country and brought upon her swift retribution is told in the Petit Parisien, of Paris. According to the special correspondent of that journal at Sophia a woman of high standing in that capital, wife of a Bulgarian staff officer, was found guilty of betraying the Bulgarian mobilization plans to the Turks and was shot.

A few years ago, when she was still a young girl, she fell in love with a dashing young officer attached to the Turkish Legation at Sophia. Her parents, however, would not hear of her marriage, and when the young officer was recalled to Constantinople the girl reluctantly married a Bulgarian officer.

Some time later the Turkish officer returned to Sophia charged with a special mission, and friendship was renewed between the two.
Finally, it is asserted, the Turk asked her to run away with him.
"I have been ordered by my superiors," he said, "to obtain the Bulgarian mobilization plans. If I do not succeed I shall be relegated to some distant command in Asia Minor and we shall have no chance of seeing one another."

The woman pointed out that they were both too poor to think of eloping, and told him to be patient.
A few days later she handed him a bundle of documents containing the Bulgarian army war plans. She had taken them from her husband's desk and told the Turkish officer to photograph them and to give the originals back to her.

When the war broke out the Turkish officer was captured in one of the first engagements and papers were found on him revealing the whole affair. He was tried by court-martial and shot. The young Bulgarian woman, though the wife of an officer, was not spared, and, having been found guilty by a special court at Sophia, was also shot.

Her husband, determined to wipe out the dishonor on his name, was one of the first in the storming line at Kirk-Kiliseh, and fell riddled with Turkish bullets.

SCENES IN CHOLERA CAMP.

British Correspondent Describes Horror at San Stefano.

A correspondent in Constantinople sends a graphic story of the horrors of cholera in the camp at San Stefano.

"In company of the first secretary of the embassy of one of the great Powers and also of Major Ford, I visited the cholera camp at San Stefano, ten miles from the walls of Stambul.

"What we saw on leaving our motor car and mounting the railway embankment, which was probably thirty feet high, was an open space like a large village green or suburban recreation ground, surrounded by better class houses two or three stories high, built in the European style, for San Stefano is a summer resort of the wealthier Constantinople residents. Two soldiers stood on guard on the railway embankment, but they did not halt us.
Their duty seemed to be, like that of the other armed soldiers, only to prevent those within the cordon from escaping.

"Bodies which had been thrown from trains lay as they had fallen.
Some had stuck on the top of the embankment, others had rolled part of the way and others all the way to the bottom. Sometimes they were single, sometimes in groups and piles of three or four. Around a one story stable at the base of the embankment was a group of fifty or sixty dead and dying lying together.

"As we descended the embankment we approached a man on the other side of the carriage road, which ran parallel to the railway.
He attempted to crawl across, but failed, fell in the roadway and there remained. Another, beside the roadway, raised his head and asked the motor man what his tank contained. The motor man replied 'Petroleum.' The man's head sank back to the ground.

"Several heads were then raised and several of the stronger men sat up and cried to us in the hearing of their kinsmen attendant. I asked

Cured in One Month.

223 Elizabeth St., Montreal, Que.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me permanently from dandruff and scalp itch that I was suffering with since over a year. I had an inflammation of the lungs and a very strong fever. When I recovered, my head was covered with scales and dandruff, and it was so itchy I could hardly stand it. I had used various medicines without relief. I took Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and I am very glad of it, because I am perfectly cured. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap. It took one month to cure me. I take pleasure in recommending Cuticura Soap and Ointment to anyone who is suffering with scalp or skin disease." (Signed)

World Fly From London to India.

The well-known English aviator, Cody, is making plans to take part in the flight from London to India.
This event has lately been organized and is likely to be of great interest on account of the unusual length of the trip. Several important prizes are to be awarded for the flights. However, the organizaers are likely to postpone the event for some time, owing to the fact that the original path lay across the Balkans.

Expected Death From Day to Day

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored
by Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P.
Hires makes the following declaration. "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was severely a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down, because the money I had spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended 'Nerviline.' I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. I continued this treatment four months and was cured.
I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica, to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

German Soldier's Dramatic Death.

A sergeant-major of an infantry regiment stationed in Bremen was sentenced to a slight disciplinary punishment for having mortally wounded a man with a revolver in the course of a fight. He appealed against this, but was informed that his appeal had been rejected. He then ordered his men to load their rifles with blank cartridges, but during their absence reloaded them with ball cartridges. He then drew up his men in firing line and carefully showed them how to aim their rifles straight at his heart. With the utmost calm he then ordered,
"Fire!" and fell with four bullets through his heart.

order to secure their co-operation in the enterprise, and bids will no doubt be called for in the near future. At present the department has not made any definite decision in the matter.

KING LOSES SECRETARY.

Lord Knollys Retires From Arduous
Post at Age of 74.

The retirement of Lord Knollys, the King's private secretary, is announced. As a matter of fact he resigned before the Coronation.
Few people understand how really onerous have been the duties which Lord Knollys has carried out for so long. The work of the King's private secretary is never finished.
It is of so confidential a nature that, next to the King himself, the private secretary knows more of the things that matter than any man in the kingdom. The confidential reports of the Prime Minister, the Foreign Secretary and all the other officers of state, as well as all social matters, pass through his hands. He opens the despatch bags and goes through the contents with the King, bearing his views, taking notes and afterward framing replies. He is thus conversant with the inner working of the machinery not only of the kingdom but of the whole empire, and has a more intimate knowledge than any one of the relations of Great Britain with other powers. Prime ministers and foreign secretaries come and go, but the King's private secretary remains. It is no wonder that Lord Knollys at the age of 74 feels that it is time to retire from such an exacting post.
His successor is Lord Stamford-ham, better known as Sir Arthur Bigge, who was the King's private secretary when he was Prince of Wales and who has since been associated with Lord Knollys.

"What did papa say, George?"
"He said it was too cold to talk nonsense." "But did he know that you wanted to marry me?"
"I think he did." "And didn't he encourage you to proceed?"
"Yes, he held the door open for me."

THE WORM TURNS

In another part of this paper John Cook, one of the so-called "Go-Preachers", refutes the charges laid against him and the cult to which he belongs. The charges were made by contributors to this paper as well as by editorial intimation that these preachers had been looked upon with grave suspicion elsewhere. The editor of The Observer could in no manner verify any of the charges that have been made; indeed, the more the matter has been looked into the more the groundlessness of the charges has become apparent. Therefore it is with pleasure that even at this late date we can publish a denial. There is no longer any ground for suspicioning these people of immorality, for we have here the flat contradiction; and not even a hint as to immorality in the teaching or the lives of the two men who held religious meetings at Highgate last autumn. We believe that those who went afield to denounce these men were actuated by good motive, and if they were they will follow their charges with proof or apology. It is only fair that we should offer space in the paper to any contributor who desires to correct any error they may innocently have made, either in regard to Messrs Cook and Allen or in any other way.

FARMERS' INVESTMENTS.

In last week's Observer a Centreville correspondent complains that the retired farmers are not very ready to invest their hard-earned savings in local enterprises. The paragraph was not editorially scrutinized for its truthfulness and would have been forgotten did it not come to the editor's ears that at least one retired farmer grew mildly excited over it. Farmers, whether they have earned it or not, have long had the reputation of being easily gold-bricked. The farmers of Carleton county are a canny class, however, and no doubt are fully as capable of caring for their money as they were to earn it. And, anyway, is it true that they are slow to invest? We have the financing of the Canada-West India Company, largely by farmers contributing a hundred barrels of potatoes apiece; and within a year the farmers have bunched together a sufficient sum to finance a very flourishing grange.

HUMAN-ALL.

If there is no money in editing a country newspaper there is afforded a unique opportunity to study human nature. The editor has a rare chance to observe the mean side of some people, their back-biting proclivities, and their inconsistencies. This week a correspondent writes: "I always consider it mean and cowardly for a person to flee to the press to vent their spleen," and in the very same paragraph makes a savage and vindictive allusion to another correspondent. For the sake of the first-mentioned correspondent's self-respect we will hold his contribution, for it really is "mean and cowardly for a person to flee to the press to vent their spleen."

MICHAEL WELCH DEAD

Well Known Lumberman Passes Away

On Thursday evening, January 9, after a lingering illness, Michael Welch, one of Carleton county's well known lumbermen, passed away at his home in Bristol, in the 72nd year of his age. Mr. Welch was born at Cal's River, Northumberland county, in 1841, and was the son of the late Walter Welch. He followed the lumbering industry from early life. When first known in Carleton county he was employed as foreman under the late John Fairley. Afterwards he became a partner of Alexander MacDonald of Bloomfield Ridge, and later, a partner of Justice Fairley. Since 1876 he has been in business for himself. In 1878 he was married by Rev. Kenneth McKay of Houlton, Me., to Miss Jennie Love, daughter of the late William Love of Glassville. They resided in Glassville until 1898 when they moved to Bristol. Mr. Welch was upright and honorable in all his transactions. Many kind favors he bestowed on those in his employ. He and Mrs. Welch, whose death preceded his by only five days, were generally known as friends of the poor. The beautiful Presbyterian church which adorns the hill at the north of the Glassville road, was built chiefly through their efforts.

SEVEN YEARS PAIN FROM ACUTE NEURALGIA

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom. It is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—good, rich, red blood is the only cure. There you have the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains in correct proportions, the very elements needed to make new, rich, red blood. This alone reaches the root of the trouble, soothes the jangled nerves, and drives away the nagging, stabbing pain, and brace up your health in other ways. Mr. M. Brennan, an ex-sergeant of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., says: "While serving with my regiment in India, on a hill station, I contracted a severe cold, which brought on acute neuralgia, at times lasting for three weeks. I was constantly suffering almost every month in the year for over seven years, the pain being sometimes so severe that I wished I was dead. On my return to England I seemed to get no better, though I spent large sums of money for medical advice and medicine. Then I came to Canada, and about a year ago saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a Winnipeg paper. Although I had begun to think my complaint was incurable I told my wife that I intended giving the Pills a fair trial. I was suffering from terrible pain when I began taking the Pills, but before the second box was finished the pain began to disappear, and under a further use of the Pills it disappeared entirely, and I have not had a twinge of it during the past year. Only those who have been afflicted with the terrible pains of neuralgia can tell what a blessing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to me, and you may be sure I shall constantly recommend them to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOST BEAUTIFUL HANDS.

Chinese Women Far Ahead of Other Nations, Says Writer.

A Kieff (Russia) paper publishes a study of women's hands by Mme. Siebinoff which has been reproduced in a Paris magazine. According to this authority Chinese women possess the most beautiful hands in the world. Their fingers are narrow, free from knots, as soft as velvet, yet not flabby, but they keep the nails of the left hand a little longer.

Israelites have also fine hands, although the bones are too tender, with the result that the last joint has a tendency to turn outward. Women of the harem have thick, soft fingers like little sausages and their nails receive a ridiculous amount of work on them.

American women, by taking an immensity of pains, have fine hands in appearance, but they are hard on contact. The back of their hands is slightly reddened and the inner side hardened by sports; some of them have callouses due to working with their hands.

German women have villainous hands, and English women are not much better. Russian and French

SALT RHEUM CAME OUT ON HANDS

Formed Watery Pimples. Itchy and Had Horrible Burning Sensation. Lost Some of Finger Nails. Could Not Open Hands. Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

235 N. Ligar St., Toronto, Ontario.

"For seven years I have been troubled with salt-rheum. It came out on my hands and formed kind of watery pimples all over them which became itchy and it had a horrible burning sensation which caused me a good deal of pain. It came out on my hands in the fall and remained there all after spring. I finally mention that I lost some of my finger-nails by the disease. During this length of time I was utterly useless, as I could not open my hands. I tried several other patent medicines without a bit of relief. Some of my friends advised me to try Cuticura Remedies so I sent for samples and by using them there was a great improvement. Then I went to the drugstore and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment; after using them I am glad to say I am completely cured. I can say to all those who have suffered as I have, not to lose courage but to give Cuticura Remedies a fair trial." (Signed) Miss Lillian Irwin, Oct. 13, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp that torture, itch, burn, scale, and destroy sleep. Sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card: Pottery Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 3513, Boston, U. S. A.

women have small hands, even too small, and why do they load them with rings? Rings should only be used to hide defects.

Italian women also have small hands, but do not keep them spotlessly clean. Too often they apply them to their noses, instead of using a handkerchief. The hands of a Spanish woman have a classic beauty and their movements are incomparable. Such hands cannot be described, they can only be admired. When they manipulate a fan, or roll a cigarette, when they raise a skirt or arrange a mantilla, it is always done with infinite grace. A Spanish woman alone knows how to use her hands as they truly should be used.

HAS RAILLESS STREET CARS.

The System Newly Introduced Into Dundee, Scotland.

The first railless electric tramcar system in Scotland has recently been introduced into Dundee. The essential difference between the new and the ordinary electric tramway system is indicated in the former's designation—it is railless, and the cars have free control, being steered with the same facility as a motor bus.

The vehicles—of which there are only two in use in Dundee at present—weigh about three and one-half tons each, and are constructed on 'bus principles. They are of the most approved type, being lower in the body, more easy of access, and more commodious than their predecessors. Accommodation is provided for twenty-eight passengers.

Each car is provided with two brakes, either of which is capable of controlling the vehicle, and the overhead equipment is the same as the ordinary electric cars, with the difference that each railless vehicle carries two trolley poles, one of which acts as the return for the electric current and completes the circuit that is necessary for operating purposes, a function which is fulfilled in the ordinary system by the tram rails.

So far as equipment is concerned, it is stated that the cost per mile works out at about one-tenth of the average outlay in the construction of an ordinary tramway. If the new system proves successful in Dundee, it is stated that extensions will be made to link up the suburbs and outlying districts, in this way acting as feeders for the regular city lines.

NEVER TIRES

Of the Food That Restored Her to Health.

"Something was making me ill and I didn't know the cause," writes a Western young lady: "For two years I was thin and sickly, suffering from indigestion and inflammatory rheumatism."

"I had tried different kinds of diet, and many of the remedies recommended, but got no better."

"Finally, Mother suggested that I try Grape-Nuts, and I began at once, eating it with a little cream or milk. A change for the better began at once."

"To-day I am well and am gaining weight and strength all the time. I've gained 10 lbs. in the last five weeks and do not suffer any more from indigestion, and the rheumatism is all gone."

"I know it is to Grape-Nuts alone that I owe my restored health. I still eat the food twice a day and never tire of it." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

The flavor of Grape-Nuts is peculiar to itself. It is neutral, not too sweet and has an agreeable, healthful quality that never grows tiresome.

One of the sources of rheumatism is from overloading the system with acid material, the result of imperfect digestion and assimilation.

As soon as improper food is abandoned and Grape-Nuts is taken regularly, digestion is made strong, the organs do their work of building up good red blood cells and of carrying away the excess of disease-making material from the system.

The result is a certain and steady return to normal health and mental activity. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Famous Morgue to Go.

The famous morgue of Paris, whose gruesome sights have attracted the morbid and the curious for nearly half a century, is to be demolished. A new morgue is being built in a more retired situation near the prefecture of police. This will remove an unsightly obstruction to the view of the apex of Notre Dame, and architects have presented to the Municipal Council designs for a beautiful treatment of this end of the island of the City, with a bank wall down which two flights of stairs will lead to a boat landing.

Sore Chest Cured in One Night

Broke Up a Heavy Cold, Relieved Pain in the Side, Stopped an Irritating Cough.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist. "My work kept me out late at night and playing in cold, drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh, racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest, and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

It is because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica, and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—instant on Nerviline only. Large family size bottles, 50c.; trial size, 25c.; all dealers, or The Catarrhzone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

M. P. KEEPS "CHICKS."

There are some decidedly interesting points in the career of Ald. W. F. Garland, of Ottawa, who was elected by acclamation to represent Carleton County in Commons. Born in Bell's Corners, Carleton, thirty-seven years ago, his earliest days were spent chiefly at a toll-gate there, of which his father was keeper. Probably his first step in the race from a toll-gate to Commons was when he began to teach school at Harbord, Ontario. But that apparently was not quite to his taste and he next became an employee of a big lumber firm. Once more he changed his occupation, for he became a drug apprentice. Into this he threw all his energy, with the result that he graduated at the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1901. He went forward rapidly now, and became manager of one of Ottawa's most pretentious drug stores. Finally he purchased this business, of which to-day he is still proprietor.

Raising chickens is the hobby of this new Commons member. He is a prominent exhibitor at many poultry shows, and is a consistent prize-winner. Mr. Garland was married ten years ago to Miss Margaret Green of Twin Elm, and has a family of two girls and two boys.

COLD SORES AND ULCERS ARE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK.

Cold sores, chapped hands, ulcers and winter eczema are common troubles just now, and for all these, Zam-Buk will be found the surest and quickest remedy. Sometimes cold sores arise from chilblains on the toes or fingers, and in the former case, where colored socks are worn, there is a danger of blood-poisoning from the dye. Zam-Buk being so powerfully antiseptic removes the danger as soon as applied. Mr. W. J. Halliday, of Ash Grove, Ont., says: "I had my little finger frozen, and it cracked at the first joint, causing a bad sore, which discharged freely and would not heal. The pain was very bad, and the whole of my hand became swollen. A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, and in a very short time it healed the sore."

Miss Lillie May, of Stoney Creek, Ont., says: "A few weeks since, several nasty, disfiguring cold sores suddenly broke out on my lips, which became much swollen. I tried Zam-Buk, and after a few applications of this balm, every sore was healed."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes. Use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet. Best for baby's tender skin!

The weather is never too hot or too cold to discourage the man with a subscription paper.

Oh, Stop It!

We are all natural-born grumblers. From childhood to the grave, we look for the few things that are wrong and forget the many that are right. When we are strong and healthy, we offer no prayer of thanksgiving. But let us have an ache or a pain, a cut finger or a sore thumb, and hear the wails of distress.

The grumblers are responsible for the unreason, discontent and unbelief that so widely prevail. It has been so always, from ancient Biblical times to this so-called "new century of progress."

BLACK LETTERS AND WHITE.

Former Can Be Read at a Greater Distance Than the Latter.

There is a tendency on this part of railroads to adopt signs with white letters on a black background, not realizing that the black letter on a white background is easier to read and can be seen at a greater distance. This follows in an interesting way from the structure of the retina of the eye. The impression of a letter at the ends of a small bundle of nerves which convey to the brain information as to whether or not a ray of light is falling upon it, and when a nerve is partly in the light and partly in darkness the sensation is the same as though all of it was in the light.

It follows, therefore, according to the Scientific American, that all nerves on the dividing line between any black and white area transmit the sensation of light so that all white lines and white areas appear wider and all black lines and black areas appear narrower than they really are.

Black letters grow thinner at the limit of vision and are still recognizable, while at the same distance white letters grow thicker and cannot be distinguished. There are circumstances when it is necessary to use white letters, but in such cases legibility will be improved if they are made with a thin stroke and strongly lighted. Black letters are more distinct if made with a heavy stroke.

which keeps you coughing away, night and day, will quickly disappear if you take Na-Dra-Co Syrup of Licorice, Licorice and Chlorodyne. My Digestion Is Now Good

And I Feel Like a Young Man Since
Using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Prof. A. T. Smith.

What a horrible condition the digestive system gets into when the liver becomes sluggish and the bowels constipated. The poisonous matter is thrown back into the blood stream and finds its way into all parts of the body, causing pains and aches and feelings of fatigue and misery.

It is wonderful how quickly Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills sweep the poisons from the digestive system and enable the organs of digestion to resume their natural functions.

Prof. A. T. Smith, 1 Mt. Charles street, Montreal, and formerly of Boston, Mass., writes: "I suffered for many years from bad digestion, constipation and horrible backaches. I have been treated by many doctors without any results. One day a friend in Boston advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. After using two boxes I noticed great improvement, and after the fourth box I was completely cured. My digestion is good. I never feel any pain in the back. My head is clear and I feel like a young man. I think Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are one of the best medicines on earth."
