STANDARD, this Province was in a ferment or porce, and excitement. The press teemed to redandance with severe articles on he state of affasts, on office the ready standard integration, and political intrigue; and not content with employing the most aermonium invectors with employing the most aermonium invectors in discussing party questions, it was hard y considered improper to resort to the grossest percentage of the proper percentage of the The princely metal knows not rust tent with employing the mest acrimonious invective in discussing party questions, it was hard y considered improper to resert to the greasest personalities, and the vicinited appents of the punits remed to revel in their seventies. We attempted to take a neutral course, but soon found that few readers were disposed to accompany us that way, so that we neither had the frightly countenance of the Conservatives on the one hand, nor the bold support of the Reformers on the other. To give a distinctive character to a paper, its Editor's sentiments should be fearlessly expressed, and in this respect we shall be more explain in faure, a the rame time premising that we shall by before any that abstracting or purloining a newspaper is as obnovious to punish uent and as disgraceful an action as picking a pocket. Should we come to the knowledge of another instance of such conduct, we will publish it and prosecute the culprit. We now lodge all our country papers in the Post Office instance of such conduct, we will publish it and prosecute the culprit. We now lodge all our country papers in the Post Office instance of difficulties.

We may now be allowed to say a few words. The Wealth flies like Time throughout the world,
Prepared for good or ill;
In wor, with bleedy flag unfurld,
It works a despots will:
In peace it sheds, with bounteous hand,
A thousand blessings o er the land,
Heaven's goodness to fulfil:
Alas! that such a gift should be

Thy wealth o'er man's more tranquit scenes ! A kindher influence lent; I life's design's, through amples means, Achieved their noblest bent. Achieved their noblest heat.
So in expanding circles, love
Unites the earth with heaven above,
In one divine intent,—
When Gos and man white engage
To hasten on a happier age. As to the proposed improvements in the winds the Will be insted on the fifth day of the New Years. We may now be allowed to say a flow words. The proceedings of the Provincial Parliament are at all times an indispensable requisite for the columns of our priets; but in the approaching Session, the transactions when will attend this concessions made by this Majesty's Government to the wishes of the lituge of Assembly, will passes on successful.

Upon the struggling path of life

Thy heart was generous found, Nor didst thou, like the Upas, blight The lowly shrubs around; But friends, protected of the side. Grew with the growth and flourishid wide.
In sefe and prosperous ground:
As anto Egypt's Saviour came,
All that could boast of Israel's name.

Earth might receive her treasures vain To yield the lost one back again!

No! rest thee in thine house of clay, Life's hours and labours done;
Life's hours and labours done;
Though sickening envy turn away,
Nor own thine honours won;
The widows and lone orphans sighs
Stall from thy grave like incense rise
Around thy setting sun.
How far the hope, the rest how calm,
Of those whom such perfumes embaim!

The great and ultimate object of this Province must necessarily be the extensive collection of its soil, wherefore anything that tends to improvement in the theory or practice of the Farmer—to conduce to his intelligence, and to administer to his countries, should never be neglected. Possessed of ample materials and promised the aid of several friends whose essays the public have already approved, we mand to dedicate a column erclusively to the interests of Agriculture.

The prices of produce not only in the markets at home and abroad, but of a variety of articles in which our population are, interested, would be a desirable matter to record in the paper. The Mercantile community are generally provided with such istelligence, of this kind, as populately concerns them, but it would often be a benefit to our Traders to know the value of community is particles in places accessible to their interprise; i basides, it is gratifying to must people to inspect the price current in every part of the world.
