Crew of Nine Men Rescued From a Water logged Steamer-Four Fishermen Saved

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—A special from Port Hope, Mich., says: The steamer Emerald, from Alpena to Detroit, loaded with lumber and cedar, sprang a leak and became waterlogged in the heavy gale last night off Point Aux Barques. The life-saving crew rescued the crew of nine this morning in a freezing condition. The men could not have held out much longer. No effort was made to save the steamer, which is now drifting down Lake Huron in a waterlogged condition. The Emerald was of 348 gross tons. 140 feer over all were picked up by the schooner Three Sisters, ten miles north of Menominee and three and a half miles out in the bay. They were clinging to fish stakes, nearly dead, and had been in the water three or four hours. They had begun lifting their nets when a big sea capsized their boat. They were brought to Menominee and cared for.

It is estimated, however, a difficult matter to draw lines which divide this board, according to the various interests which make up the Northern Securities Company. It may be stated on the authority of representatives of these interests that it would be a misconception of the purposes and objects of the new company and the agreement under which it was originated, to make an attempt to draw a circle around each particular interest having a delegation in the company. On the contrary, the scope of the settlement, according to the words of a member of the Harriman side, "is a much broader one." #### COAL MINE DISASTER

Found-A Score Injured.

Bluefields, W. Va., Nov. 14-Five dead odies have been taken from the Baby mine at Pocahontas, W. Va. Several other persons are unaccounted for, and 25 persons have been rescued more or less everely burned.

At 3 o'clock this morning it was discovered that the Baby mine of the Pocahontas Colliery Company, at Pocahontas, W. Va., was on fire. An alarm was sent in and in a very short time the fire fighters had reached the mouth of the mine and were attempting to extinguish the flames.

Some of the firemen and others rushed nside to assist the miners entombed there, when a terrific explosion occurred, and many persons were injured.

Five bodies had been recovered up to p.m., and it is uncertain how many more are dead, though it is known that there are possibly eight or ten men still in the mine. Twenty-five persons have been rescued, all more or less burned, some seriously and probably fatally. One or two other explosions followed that of the early morning. The mine is still burning.

The fan has now been stopped, and as soon as it is possible to do so the mine will be re-entered with the hope of exinguishing the fire.

Glenco Ont., Nov. 15.—About 4 o'clock y sterday, Charles, the 10-year-old son John Clarke, lost his right arm while amusing himself by jumping on and off a shunting train. The boy caught a slowly-moving car, which started with a jerk, throwing him under the wheels and badly crushing his arm above the elbow. He was carried home, and there the arm was amputated near the shoulder. The child endured the pain very manfully, and is getting on nicely, although very weak from loss of blood. It is a peculiar coincidence that the boy's father, when young, lost his arm by being thrown under a moving train.

Canada's Pro-British Tariff.

We note that it is the habit of Opposition newspapers one day to say that the Canadian preferential tariff in favor of Great Britain is so effective that cheap goods are brought into the Dominion from the United Kingdom in so large quantities that our manufacturers find it difficult to make ends of the Government policy, with a truly refreshing inconsistency, tell us that the preference in favor of Great Britain has not helped our trade with Great effect in building up trade with the United States. Today we will briefly expose the hollowness of the criticism of these opponents of the Administration with regard to the effect of the preference on trade with Great Brit-

It is true that, through fluctuations in trade which take place in all nations, our imports from the motherland for the last fiscal year were only $42,819,995, compared with $44,279,383; but the critics who point out this change are not fair enough to show that in 1899 the imports from Great Britain were but $36,931,323. Nor do they show that in 1898, the first year of the preference in favor of the motherland, they were but $32,043,461. Another fact which they ignore is the steady falling away of our imports of Great Britain under the old order of things, which was not arrested till the Liberals came into power, and passed the revised tariff. The drop was from $67,996,945 in 1873 to $29,401,188 in 1897the year before the preferential tariff became effective. To have arrested this wasting away process, and to have trade with the center of the Empire, is an accomplishment of which the Government may well be proud, and it portunity for explanation? It seems might not injure their political opponents to acknowledge the effect of the pro-British policy, in this regard, and to give the Government credit for it. may have been "a moment of weak-Nothing is to be gained, we venture to attempting the pulling-down act, and by trying to discredit the preference in to be obtained by injustice, or a reckfavor of the old land which has done less disregard for the feelings of so much for this fair Dominion.

It is true ethat the buying by our people from the United States has also largely increased. Two points are to be borne in mind when considering this fact. One is the nearness of the wares to the needs of the people of this continent. If our brethren in Great it would not pay us to import them northern zone is ready to yield up. business managers.

from any other country. Raw materials are generally on the free list, hence the large quantity of goods that come into Canada from the United States free of duty. An example is afforded in the imports of the last two years. The dutiable goods imported from the United States in 1900 amounted to $53,-897,561, while in 1901 they were only $53,600,298. But the free imports in 1900 were valued at $48,182,616, and had risen last year to $53,549,047. The percentage of du'iable imports from the United States in 1900 was 51.65, while in 1901 it was 50.58. The percentage of free imports rose from 70.69 in 1900 to public ought to bear in mind when they are asked to prejudice their minds against the British preference by the Opposition manipulators of figures, who would fain teach (1) that the British tariff in no degree promotes British commerce with the Dominion; and (2) that it so effectively promotes the importation of British goods into Canada that what the people of Canada have to buy is sold so cheap that Canadian manufacturers cannot stand the com-

Hospital Reform.

Under this heading the Free Press discusses Mr. Beck's action at the last neeting of the trustees, but in a very apologetic way. It was a great advance when the brick hospital was built on the river bank, and then from time to time improvements were added until Victoria Hospital was erected. Vessels so equipped can be very good pointer by Mr. Gilmour, the nearly always in touch with other county member. After Mr. Beck had ships on trans-Atlantic voyages, and read the Tripp letter, Mr. Gilmour as the presence of any trouble can be said, "But surely you would not condemn on that." We have mercifully at-Britain at all, but has been turned to tributed Mr. Beck's conduct to his inexperience; but that does not lessen our regret that he should have done the hospital, the medical profession, and the city, this irreparable injury. Mr. Beck should "go 'way back and sit down," and meditate and consult with some "grandmotherly" person. He seems to lack the grandmotherly qualities so necessary in a hospital. Harshness is the last thing necessary. Would the Free Press give as much weight to a few stray letters respecting which no opportunity to ascertain the facts was given as to the daily experience of a man like the chairman, extending over a period of several years? Does the Free Press think Mr. Beck occupies a noble position because he stands alone in such a course? And will the Free Press say what there is in any of the letters that might not be explained? Will the Free Press not admit frankly that scarcely anyone occupying a public position may not at times be liable to criticism? Have not our city engineers and clerks, and treasurers, and school teachers, and even our aldermen, been turned it into a gradual increase of criticised, and yet has there ever been a Trustee Beck who would condemn

The Latest Wonder in Wireless Telegraphy.

Another revolution that will add to the safety and enjoyment of ocean travel is about to be introduced, and will no doubt be adopted by all firstclass lines of steamships. London Lloyds have adopted the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy, and in future ocean vessels may have as ready communication with shore stations and other ships within a radius of 100 miles as though they were connected with an electric wire. A sailing vessel, fitted up with the Marconi system, would be able to report a disaster to

We have pointed out the verdancy of land charges, will be the charge. It will be a great advantage to have flashed through the air, overdue vessels will be able to tell where they are and what has delayed them, while

Hitherto, communications between passing ships at sea, and between ves- pital sels and signal stations, have been accomplished by flag signals only. This system, though it has been in use for centuries, was very defective. The range of vision, even on clear days, was limited, and in a fog or stormy weather, or in the night, no signal except the pilot flare and the signal of distress is in vogue. Indeed, even in clear weather, the signals of a passing vessel are often rendered unintelligible because of the wind blowing the smoke from the funnels over the flags. Then it has often been necessary for a vessel to go out of her course in order to get to a signal station, and she has run great danger in order to give or answer messages under these conditions. We can imagine, under an efficient system of wireless telegraphy at sea, ship bound to ship on the ocean as town is to town by telephone on land, and the perils of an ocean voyage vastly minimized by the ability of those intrusted with the care of the vast multitude of vessels that now "tread the deep" to freely commune with neighbors, whether on sea or land. It is a most attractive outlook for the ocean traveler as well as for the shipowner and the insurance man.

Another International Show.

Encouraged by the success of the Glasgow Exhibition, the Lord Provost and one hundred of the leading citizens of Edinburgh have been discussing the advisability of holding an international exhibition in Edinburgh in 1904 or 1905. A large committee has been appointed to report upon the question of the year in which an exhibition should be held and the most favorable site. No more romantie center than "Auld Reekie" could be chosen in which to hold an exhibition to which the world would be invited. Edinburgh, with its impregnable castle. its Arthur seat, its royal palace and its many noteworthy associations is a perpetual show in itself. When tion, such as that about to close at

Fair Illuminations.

The promoters of the St. Louis Fair, which will be held three years from now, have already resolved to avoid all methods of illumination that would have the effect of making the exposition of the stereotyped pattern. In Buffalo and Chicago there were pretty festoons of incandescent lights along the cornices of the buildings. This plan will not be followed at St. Louis. There will be instead a number of arcs spanning the avenue, making a triumphal way from the entrance to the crest of the highest hill. Then an entirely novel and striking effect will be introduced in connection with the cascades. Powerful electric lights will be introduced back of the falls, which will thoroughly illuminate the broad sheets of water and make them visible at night from half the points on the grounds. The illusion will be complete, as the mechanism by which the illumination is effected will be entirely

A PICTURE

Of health, we say of a perfectly healthful woman, and it is a picture everyone loves to look upon. All the pictures of all the artists who have ever painted the glory and beauty of womanhood, are only copies and imitations of this picture. Never artist mixed a color with the hues which tint a healthful woman's cheek this charm be sacrificed to sickness? need not be save in rare cases. The general health of woman is so linked with the local womanly health that wasted cheek and sunken eye are in general but evidences of womanly diseases. Cure the diseases and the physical health is restored. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the ills of women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. Mrs. Mary R. Lewis, of Tanuer. Gilmer Co., W. Va., writes: "I shall always recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' for they cured me when doctors and other medicines failed. For fifteen years I suffered untold misery. When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines, I had given up all hope of ever getting well, I could not lie down to sleep, and everything I ate would almost cramp me to death. Was very nervous and could hardly walk across the room. I only weighed ninety pounds when I commenced taking these medicines six years ago; now I weigh one hundred and forty pounds and am having better health than ever befare. My friends all say they can hardly believe that I am the same person; after being sick so long I have changed to be robust and rosy checked."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, of Tanuer, Gilmer Co. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate tomach, liver and bowels.

The Common Dread of Kidney Disease

Due to the Sudden and Unexpected Deaths Which Result-Constipation a Frquuent Cause-The Unusual Efficacy of Dr. Chase's Kidnay-Liver Pills.

Kidney disease may last for years, and at times may seem to disappear entirely, but unless radical treatment is taken death is likely to result at some unexpected moment. The most frequent case of kidney ailment is constipation and neglect to keep the bowels regular and active. With con-stipation the excretory functions of CANADIAN the kidneys fail, the convoluted tubes become choked up and the tissues are gradually wasted away. The liver cells are compressed and destroyed, and the most complicated ailments arise. So far as is known Dr.Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the only treatment that gets at the cause of kidney disease by quickening and regulating the action of the intestines, as well as invigorating and restoring the kidneys themselves. There must be some great secret for the phenomenal and continual success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Gradually the demand for them has increased until now there is no similar remedy that has anything like the sale of this great prescription It seems safe to conclude that much due to the fact that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a direct and od influence on the kidneys, liver and bowels. Mr. Wm. Boyne, of 19 McGee street, Toronto, says: "I was afflicted severely with kidney disease, stone in bladder, incontinence, deposits in the urine, severe pains in the back, strains over the loins. I was so bad that I had to get up two or three times in the night, and could then only make water with great pain.

Though long a sufferer, and unable to work, I was confined to my bed for three weeks, and during that time I thought I could not possibly endure greater misery. I was then that I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is with gratitude that I say that they have freed me of all these symptoms and have made me a well characterized the last few years, the improvement for the month being nearly $600,000. Officer of the Geological Survey Department Says That London's Water Is Good.

The water commissioners met at the city hall today to confer with Dr. Robert Chalmers, of the geological survey department, Ottawa regarding the water supply. Dr. Chalmers has been doing field work in Ontario since the early sur her, investigating, particularly all wells—of water, gas, oil and salt. Since Monday he has been in London and has made a careful examination of the water hereabout. London water is very good, he says, and he is of the opinion that the supply can be increased. When he returns to Ottawa he will prepare a report that will embody his suggestions and send it to the commissioners. Though there is no immediate danger of shortage, the future must be safeguarded, and Dr. Chalmers' experienced suggestions will be appreciated by the board.

Enthusiastic Converts.

There Are Thousands of Them Who Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Mon-tana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to

"I was troubled with gas in stomach, causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in my stomach which almost resembled spasms.

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it, and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation, decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I knew they were an advertised remedy, and I didn't believe anything I read about them, as I had no confidence in advertised remedies; but my sister, living in Pittsburg, wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite, and I hesitated no longer. "I bought a 50c box at my drug store and took two of the large tab-lets after each meal, and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. When-ever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart, I took one of the small tablets, and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I never knew what stomach trouble was. "I kept Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house, and every member of our family used them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us had a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspensia but in two probables." pepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tab-lets than in five years of the doctor's treatment.'

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a cheap cathartic but an active di-gestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused, overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Figures of Production and Consumption in Canada-Ontario Makes More Whisky Than All the Rest of Canada-Quebec Smokers Head the List.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.-The excise returns for the fiscal year ended June 30 afford an idea as to the nature of Canada's drink bill and the extent to which alcoholic and spirituous liquors are indulged in by the population. The returns denote that beer is the popular beverage among drinkers, the consumption per head amounting to 4.737 gailons, as against .765 gallons of spirits, and 1 gallon of wine. Last year the consumption per head was: Beer, 4.364 gallons; spirits .701 gallons, and wines, .085 gallons. The consumption per head of tobacco was 2.404 pounds, as against 2.3 pounds for the previous year. Although there is less spirits than beer drunk per head of the population, it yields a far larger revenue. The revenue per head last year from spirits was $1.593, compared with $0.198 for beer, $0.048 for wine and $0.875 for tobacco. Taking the last 33 years, the average per capita consumption of spirits has been.983 gallons; of beer, $0.048 for wine and $0.875 (or tobacco. Ontario is the greatest consumer of ardent spirits of all the provinces. Quebec comes next, British Columbia is third, and Manitoba fourth. Next in order comes New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Northwest Territories, and Prince Edward Island. ### Letters to the Editor

DR. JENTO DEFENDS DR. BALFOUR. To the Editor of The Advertiser: At the last meeting of the hospital trust quite a lot was said about Dr. Balfour, superintendent of the hospital. It is not my intention to claim Dr. Balfour as one of the few in this world without faults, but what I do claim is that it will be hard for the hospital trust to replace him. He may not be as polite as the average dancing master—he is not there er-he is not there bow and shake hands with people as e "four hundred do"; he is there for the "four hundred do"; he is there for his professional attainments and those of manager.
Dr. Wilson especially calls attention to the nurses attending medical and surgical cases not answering the bell at once; a treated when they have typhoid, why did not the doctor remain there and partake of that treatment?

Dr. Balfour has a lot to do, and I have always found that he did it well; almost every day I found him in the wards asking about the patients. He has always been faithful to the trust in getting the public patients out as soon as possible, thereby lessening the cost of running the institution. It is not Dr. Balfour's duty to look after the linen on the beds, whether the rooms are properly swept and dusted; nor is it his duty to train the nurses in all the branches of their course. Nurses go there to learn the art of nursing, and some of them must be green at their work; although a senior and junior nurse are always together, the senior nurse having obergrees. their work; although a senior and junior nurse are always together, the senior nurse having charge and instructing the junior nurse what to do. I think the junior nurse what to do. I think the nurses at the hospital are an overworked and much abused lot of girls.

From the report of the meeting, it appears Dr. Balfour is blamed for the condition of everything—food, nursing, linen and lack of male attendants. I have always considered the new hospital as an elephant on our hands. It is entirely wrong in its construction, and, considering the amount of money spent on its maintenance, I think it is a very well-run hospital. If the trust can give Dr. Balfour more money to spend, I feel sure he will manage affairs to please the vast majority of people.

A PERMANENT CURE

This Case Demonstrated That Dodd's Kidney's Pills Cure Absolutely and Permanently.

Quebec, Que., Nov. 11.—(Special.)— Away back in May of 1898, the papers published a statement made by Mr. Sam Desrochers, of this city, stating that he had suffered with Diabetes for five years, and that he had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. At that time some people seemed in-clined to believe that he was not permanently cured and that the disease would return when he left off taking

Mr. Desrochers was heard from again the other day in an interview published in one of the papers. He is as well as he ever was, and states positively that he has not had the slightest return of any of the symptoms of Diabetes since he was

Draining the Zuyder Zee

The ministry of the Netherlands has withdrawn from the States General the project for draining the Zuyder Zee, on the ground that the present condition of the Dutch budget renders the undertaking undesirable for the present. The enterprise has been discussed for a very long time and it seemed about to enter into an active stage. A be advantageous to the country thus to add 750 square miles to the agricultural area of Holland. A bill was accordingly introduced into the second chamber of the States General authorpractical politics. Unfortunately it reached this stage about the time that sulted in the resignation of the cabinet The new government declines to assume the responsibility for the large expense involved, and therefore the project is indefinitely shelved.

It was estimated that the entire expense would be 57,000,000 florins. A dike was to be built across the entrance to the Zuyder Zee which would effectually bar out the North Sea. It was not expected to reclaim the whole of the lake for 560 square miles of water surface would still remain. But the Zuyder Zee would cease to be an arm of the North Sea. The water courses now draining into the Zuyder Zee would continue to empty into the remaining part of it; as a canal would be dug for the escape of these waters the remaining lake would gradually be changed from salt to fresh water. It was expected that about a third of a century would be required to carry out the whole improvement, the money for which was to be raised by a loan and paid off, principal and interest, in 60 years or less.

The enormous advantage of the improvement to Holland is admitted by all writers: still, as the financial burden would be large, the present ministry has decided not to saddle the debt upon the country at a time when its political affairs are somewhat unset-tled.

Disfiguring Railways.

Chamonix, the classic gathering place of Alpine climbers, is now, like Zermatt, connected with the rest of Europe by a railroad. The traveler can leave London about 10 in the morning or Paris about 9 in the evening, and reach Chemonix station in the forenoon of the following day. That great numbers will avail themselves of the privilege of so easily reaching the foot of Mont Blanc there can be no doubt. Some trains arrive at Chamonix, and five leave the enormous station which has been built be hind the English church. The carriages are for the most part overcrowded with travelers, and many have to content themselves with standingroom on the end of the cars. It is evident that the energy of the P. L. M. Railway Company will be rewarded, and that a rich harvest will accrue to the innkeepers, guides and muleteers of the village. We may sympathize with the moans of the Alpine

Club, the regrets of sturdy pedestrians, and even the lamentations of the heavy diligence, with the tinkling horse bells and cracking whip. It is impossible to deny that the valley of Chamonix is sadly disfigured by the railroad. The village itself has long since ceased to be more than a collection of huge hotels; and one large ugly building more can pass unnotic ed. But though the valley is spoilt in one respect, can we expect the commune of Chamonix to resist the introduction of a railway? Picturesque valleys and secluded gorges are disfigured one after another, all over the Alps, that the inhabitants may earn an honest living.-London Telegraph.

New York, Nov. 15 .-- With a center in the Valley of the St. Lawrence, a great storm, which still holds force has distributed a coating of snow eastward to the sea, westward to the Upper Ohio valley and southward to Central New York. Heavy gales have swept the lake district, and on land the keen winds have glazed the snow with their icy breath. In Northern ments handed into the counting-room New York the tape shows a depth of fifteen inches of snow in places, and the drifts piled up by the wind threaten street and railroad transportation. The weather indications are for a essation of the storm, but at many points the snow still falls, and there is a chance that when the storm breaks some of its energy will move farther

The Dominion Immigration Agent Speaks of the Trade.

England Is the Best Paying Market for Canadian Horses If Quality Is High.

Mr. John Dyke, some time Dominion Man, till it passed to the Duke of immigration agent at Liverpool, writes Athol. In 1765 the British Parliament to the Ottawa Free Press as follows: England is the best paying market The scrub horse or low grade animal has been "electrocuted" in Europe. No pacers or trotters need apply. It costs no more to feed a good colt than In 1897 Col. Soames Jenings told the Prince of Wales that Canadian horses were admirable animals, sound and capital jumpers.

Captain Machell, Col. Anstruther, master of the Fife hounds, and many others were of the same opinion, and purchased them freely at $400 to $800

Such well-known judges are not purchasers now as with very few exceptions the borses sent over are not as good as they were twenty years ago. h not using big-boned or compact good-looking Through blocky English thoroughbreds or hackneys, the Canadian arrivals are relegated to the rank of slaves, i.e., van, tram or peddlers' use, bringing from $120 to $150 and leaving the farmer from $80 up-

"This horse has excellent shoulders, weak point of nearly all Canadians), short coupled, with plenty of rein (length of neck), and loins, well down on short legs, with excellent quality, and gallops with great pace. Such a horse as this, able to gallop through a day's hunting with 238 pounds on his back, would, had he been bred in Canada, and from some cause unsuitable for the export trade, still remained a more than ordinary general purpose horse in many parts of the country, or might have found a billet

A mare of this stamp would not disgrace any draught stallion she was mated to. Others of the same type, from 15 hands 3 inches, and sired by Zig and Zag, Greenfield, Sir Humphreys, Young Victor Elector, Harkaway, Marmion, etc., are offered at this sale.

The demand for hunters is growing. There are some two hundred and odd packs of foxhounds in Great Britain and Ireland, and a half score of staghounds, and these seem likely to increase every year.

An average of 100 hunters to each pack would be a low figure, or a total of 20,000 hunters and at least 10,000 dogcart and grooms' horses and riding-to-cover cobs or hacks. A large number of these are renewed after the first or second season.

A new trade is springing up in threeyear-old geldings from the United States, to be furnished and trained as carriage horses and hunters by dealers in Europe and sold as five and This would suit the Candian breeder, as it would give him almost as quick a return as raising bullocks.

THE LITTLE ISLE OF MAN

Tis Small in Extent, But Very Rich in Tradition.

The Remarkable Survival of Feudal Days in the Very Heart of Great Britain.

The news that Mr. Hall Caine has been elected a "key" by an overwhelming majority brings to mind the curious anomaly existing in the Isle of Man. This little island, which measures only thirty-three miles by twelve, is a remarkable survival of feudal days in the very center of the British Isles. Situated in the middle of the Irish Channel, nearly equi-distant from England, Ireland and Scotland, the Isle of Man has a separate existence and is in itself a kingdom whose ruler is the ruler of Great Britain. When the ordinary Englishman is asked what this isle is famous for he will invari-ably answer its cats, which have no tails. As a matter of fact, there is an indigenous breed of cats without tails, and this unfortunate circumstance has caused the little island to be regarded in a humorous light which its history and its traditions ill de-

The isle in the first period of history was the stronghold of the Druids, and when the Britons were driven into the west of England it formed part of the Welsh kingdom. Early in the tenth century it was seized by the Vikings and in 1266 passed by sale from Norway to Scotland for the sum of 5,000 marks. In 1333 it was seized by the English, and Earl Salisbury was granted complete royal rights over his tiny domain. Soon after it was sold to Sir William de Scrope, whose deed of purchase states that he bought of William Manacute, Earl of Salisbury, the Isle of Man, with the title of king and the right of being crowned with a crown of gold. This owner, like many nobles of his time, soon after came to the scaffold, and then the island passed successively to the Earl of Northumberland and Sir John de Stanley, the latter of whom passed it down to a long line of descendants. For exactly 300 years the history of the Stanleys was bound up with the Isle of obtained proprietary rights 1825 obtained complete possession for the sum of $416,000, a large sum when we consider the small territory purchased. The government of the island was. up till 1866, more or less of an oligarchy. There were three estates, the governor, the council, or the house of keys or parliament, which together constitute what is known as the Court

The council consists of the Bishop of Sodor and Man, the attorney-general, the receiver-general, and two deemsters or chief justices, made familiar to the public by Mr. Hall Caine's writings; the clerk of the rolls, water bailiff, archdeacon and two vicars-general. There are twenty-four keys, and up to 1866 they held office by a unique method of filling up vacancies by the self-election of others. In 1866, when the second reform agitation was sweeping through Great Britain this was changed. Hitherto on the death of a key two nominations were made. of whom the governor selected one, of the vacant post. for the filling Henceforth the House of Keys consented to become representative, and they are now elected for the period of seven years. Mr. Hall Caine's election by a sweeping majority on a more or less socialistic platform shows that the doctrines of reform hold sway over the little island, and when a popular novelist becomes a politician outsiders may look for an interesting denoue Not the least interesting feature of the Isle of Man is the fact that it has its own bishop, the Bishop of and Man, who has a seat in the House of Lords, without the privilege of a vote, however. The establishment of this bishopric is lost in the mists of antiquity. It is supposed to have been established by Pope Gregory IV., in the ninth century. The name "Sodor" is of forgotten derivation, though it is supposed to mark the period when the Hebrides were in the possession of the Norseman and divided into Nordor and Sodor, or north and south.

The Manx language, which is similar to the Gaelic, is not yet extinct. and the people still pursue their primitive way, touched superficially by the doctrines of modern times, but little changed from the days when the Stanlevs held sway in their kingdom.

Baby Beauty You always think of a pretty baby as plump and chubby. Scott's Emulsion gives just this plumpness; not too fat, just enough for the dimples

I said, where is this sum of two pounds

Because, you see, my dear boy, sovereigns

I went to my trunk, found the old watch at the bottom of it,, burnished it up, and hurried with it to a well-known firm of pawn-brokers. They employ as assistant a young man called Roberts, who is an acquaintance of mine. Once or twice, when I have executed some water-color drawings, he has managed to get the firm to buy them from me. Roberts took me into a little parlor. There was no business doing, and we had a cigar and a chat, and then a man came suddenly business doing, and we had a cigar and a chat, and then a man came suddenly into the room and told Roberts he wanted his opinion on a stone; he showed it to him, and I at once, even from where I sat, recognized it as the thing you picked up last night—that I thought was red glass. I said nothing; but I listened. I seemed by instinct to scent out danger for you.

for you. "I soon found,' continued Clifton, 'that "I soon found,' continued Clifton, 'that the man who had brought the stone in was Mr. Mapleson, a jeweler of Oxford street. "This was brought to me," he said, "in a singular manner, by a young fellow with a very distinguished air, but a rather shabby coat. I had seen him and talked to him before; he had asked my advice about rings, pins and chains, which he wished to sell, and he said his name was Scott, an artist; but when he was gone a person told me his real name was Hammond, a scapegrace son of a scapegrace father, but heir and nephew to the Earl of Chase. Now, you must know, that I and many other jewelers have received intimation from Scotland Yard that if such and such a ruby were ever offered us for sale we had to touch a certain part of the stone and it would slide aside, and underneath it the crest of the Hammonds was again engraved. A ther would not know this secret, and though he might cut away the outer engraving he would he sure to leave the though he might cut away the outer engraving he would be sure to leave the inner one untouched." Mapleson had discovered that this was the identical stone torn from the murdered body of Lord Hammond. You had it in your possession. Now the clew was found to the secret and the five hundred pounds offered fo and the five hundred pounds offered for the discovery of the murderer was within Mapleson's grasp. Roberts, whose brother is one of the eleverest detectives in Scotland Yard, was asked to send his brother as privately as possible to Mr. Mapleson's, and meanwhile, where did this Scott, allas Hammond, live? Mapleson said the suspected man had always hidden his place of abode from him.

"I listened, Scott, for so I will still call you, and I thanked heaven I had never mentioned you to Roberts. Now, said I, he must get off before this Mapleson finds the man who told him Owen's said I, he must get on before this maple-son finds the man who told him Owen's real name, for perhaps he knows where he is; and then I said to myself that you must escape in disguise.

"'I tell you, that stone will hang you, as surely as you stone, there, if you don't hurry away at once."
"I felt dazed, overwhelmed, stupefied. I wanted to go and give myself up, and tell the authorities how I found the stone on my own staircase, but Clifton reminded me of a man who lately crossed the seas and gave himself up to justice, but that act availed him nothing at the last, and while Clifton talked he succeeded in the succeede infusing something of terror and the idea of being hunted into me. I saw that my only chance of life lay in getting over the seas, and losing my identity at the

the seas, and losing my identity at the geld diggings or in the hunting grounds of the backwoods.

"I dressed as quickly as possible in this disguise; I did not dare to speak above a whisper. Such a horror crept over me when I looked at myself in my square of mirror, that I felt as if my brain would turn. I felt guilty. No, don't start, not guilty of my cousin's death, but guilty of having hated him while he was alive; and I remembered that I had spoken fearful words to him, and I told him—heaven forgive me! I did not mean it in my heart, but I was in a demoniac's rage, and, poor fellow, so was he—I told him that I wished I could knock him down in such a fashion that he would never be able to get up again; and he answered with the fashion that he would never be able to get up again; and he answered with the bitterest taunts; he told me that was natural, since I should then stand in his place as the heir. But heaven knows I had no such thoughts; still, when I knew that soon a price would be set on my head. I felt guilty. It was hunger and weakness acting on overwrought nerves and heated brain, but I hardly remember if I thanked that noble Clifton for his unselfish devotion. I disguised myself, putting on his very boots and coat, and leaving mine in their place, and for his unselfish devotion. I disguised myself, putting on his very boots and coat, and leaving mine in their place, and he undresed and went into my bed, and covered his head with the old blue quilt. "I got off; not a soul saw me leave the house, but I met a policeman at the corner of the street, and I went right up to him and asked him the way to an obscure ian in the neighborhood. I made my voice sound low and gruff; the policeman was as innocent as a child; he told me the way, which I knew, and I went slowly along while he was in sight. I went on quickly after, and slept on a bench in Hyde Park; at daylight I found my way to a baker's shop and ate two penny rolls. I have not tasted food since until tonight, for I put my purse into the trousers pocket of this disguise, and it was in rags—which I only discovered when it was too late—so that I lost the remainder of my five shillings, all but one penny, and with that I bought a Daily Telegraph this morning, that I might find out what the world said of me.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Bobby Walthour again won last night in the third installment of the six-day one-hour-anight race, but there was a dispute at the finish. Leander made a strong bid for the honors, and the bell being touched accidentally a lap too early, considered that he had won when the bell was ed that he had won when the bell was rung rightly. Walthour then jumped in and gained the decision in a hard fight. The score of Monday and Tuesday nights was again tied, 23 miles being ridden.

interest among sportsmen. THE CORONATION CARNIVAL. The management of the athletic contests which are to take place in Lon-don at the time of King Edward's coronation next year, has sent an invitation to Alvin C. Kraenzelin, the famous athletes of the University of Pennsylvania, to take part in the event. Very liberal and tempting considera-tions have been offered to Mr. Kra-enzelin by the Englishmen to induce him to turn professional, but he nas declined them. It is possible that he may compete as an amateur, in which he would undoubtedly come back with many additional laurels heaped upon him. Mr. Kraenzelin is a native of Mil-waukee, Wis., and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in the spring of 1899, taking a post-graduate course last year. He is perhaps the best athlete in America, and holds the world's records in the high and low hurdles and running broad jump. There are at present more than fifty reem of the Houston Club of the Uni-listened to with great attention. The speaker laid it down as the bounden duty of Baptists to carry the Gospel as they believed it to all parts of the world, and to do this it was absolutely essential that there should be a corresponding extension of the work in this province. It was, Rev. Mr. Norton remarked, sometimes called interdenominational courtesy not to enter a territory occupied by other denominations, but it was not a question of such courtesy, it was a question of faithfulness to God's Word. They should believe that the teachings of their denomination were of such importance as to warrant them in going into every community in Canada. They had allowed thou-sands of Baptists to drift away from watching and care. In many towns there was no organization of any kind, and he could count fifty towns of from two to three thousand people without any Baptist organization. Prince Edward county at one time recognized as a Baptist ground, had no organization now. Rev. Mr. Norton urged strongly first that there should be a careful and wise disposition of the funds, and next that Baptists should get into the towns and villages occupied by other denominations. He argued also that outside churches that were not now on a paying basis should be supported by the missionary body, for these churches were the training school for Baptists.

An Ottawa dispatch says: The supreme court judgment was reserved in Hopkins vs. Uptoegrove, and the next case, the King vs. Love, the last on the Ontario list, was called. In this case the appeal is from a judgment refusing a mandamus to compel the respond-ent, a magistrate, to commit for trial a man charged with perjury, whom he had tried summarily and discharged. The court held that the case could not be heard, as no printed case nor fac-tums were filed, and it was struck from the list. Bartram appeared for the appellant.

CONGREGATIONAL "AT HOME." At the Dundas Street Center Church last night Rev. C. T. Scott and Mrs. Scott held a congregational "At Home." A goodly number attended and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. Dainty refreshments were set and an excellent programme was given on short notice by the musical talent among the guests. Besides the work of Mr. Hewlett, the organist, it included solos by Miss Myra Pickard, soprano soloist of St. Andrew's Church; Mr. A. Garthwaite, bass soloist, and Mr. J. W. Fetherston, organist of Wellington Street Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Scott also addressed the gathering, referring to the excel-lent reception that had been tendered him on his arrival in this city, and trusting that a closer bond might be effected among the members of the

"Built for laughing purposes only," is the raison d'etre advanced on behalf of "The House that Jack Built," and, judging by the laughter at the Grand Opera House last night, Broadhurst's comedy has amply fulfilled the expectations of its creation. The story revolves around a certain Willie Slab, a paperhanger by force of circumstances, but "a plumber at heart," who has been engaged to work in a house being built by "Dr. Jack," a wealthy but eccentric gentleman. To him comes Sir Edward Singleton, who has seen and fallen in love with Hester, the doctor's daughter, a young woman who believes in the downtrod-den workingmen and despises the aristocracy. Sir Edward, learning of her socialistic tendencies, persuades the paperhanger to pass him off as his brother and assistant, and when he makes his appearance in a workman's jacket and overalls, Hester is immediately impressed by the bearing of this magnificent specimen of American workman. Mrs. Dooley, a wealthy widow, desirous of marrying her daughter Florence to a member of the nobility, discovers that Sir Edward is there in disguise, but mistakes the genuine paperhanger for him. There are other cases of mistaken identity in the piece, a boyish suitor for Florence Dooley's hand being likewise mistaken for the baronet. A young father, his old son, the former's father, a dear little Japanese girl and a vaudeville artist, all serve to complicate matters deliciously. Mr. Geo. H. Summers, a former Toronto boy, gave the role of Willie Slab the broadly humorous conception that it required. His solicitation of contributions to his collection of souvenir ten-dollar bills never failed to elicit paroxyms of laughter from his hearers. Miss St. George Hussey, no stranger to old-time theater-goers, gave a delightful im-personation of the impressionable Mrs Dooley. Mr. Hugh Cameron was satisfactory as the distinguished nobleman. The balance of the caste, which included Geo. Sinclair as Percy Huntington, C. F. Lorraine as Dr. Jack, S. V. Morgan as Bedford Madison, Og-den Wright as Bedford Madison, jun., Lenore Lockwood as Hester, Ethel May as Japonica, Mildred Keith as Florence and May Ethel Courtenay as Lily Linton, were all acceptable The specialties introduced good songs by Geo. HUMAN HEARTS-SATURDAY. Tom Logan is an honest young blacksmith in Arkansas, with muscles of steel and a heart susceptible to love. A wayward young woman reforms, meets Tom, and he marries her. Finding the rural life of Tom's home a bur den, she returns to her old ways. She finds a convenient male accomplice, who aids her in her despicable work. Without cause they plot to kill the honest young blacksmith. The male accomplice is ambushed for that purpose, but Tom's old father appears, and is killed in cold blood. The adventuress and her pal trump up a charge against Tom and he is finally sent to prison as a convicted murderer. A last evidence is produced that proves his innocence. The day of reckoning comes for the adventuress and her villainous pal, and both meet what all A request from P. L. "THE PRINCESS CHIC." The story of "The Princess Chic," in which Marguerita Sylva is to be seen at the New Grand next Thursday evening, is a romance of the fifteenth century, laid at a chateau in Burgun-dy. It tells how the Princess Chic of Normandy conquered the heart of the indifferent Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, and frustrated the wicked designs of the eleventh Louis of France. It is a pretty story and told with much humor. The comedy element is often hilarious, but is ever clean on Park avenue, on which they will build two-story residences. Mr. Chrisand wholesome.

LONDON OPERA HOUSE.

The Castle Square Stock Company said to be one of the best repertoire companies on the road, will open a week's engagement at the London Opera House next Monday, Nov. 18 During a recent engagement in Hamilton, the Hamilton Herald, speaking of the performance, said: "If the Castle Square Theater Stock Company's two weeks' engagement, which opened at Sherman's Theater last night, is not a success, it will not be the fault of the company. From the viewpoint of standard plays at popular prices, the company fulfilled all that was promised of it. In fact, the company "made good" last night, and, considering the scale of prices, the audience got more than its money's worth. The company is well-balanced, and is in the main the best popular-priced attraction that Some people thought he was a funny old man when he spoke at camp meeting on the subject of "Lord Give Us Sense."
