PLANS BEING RUSHED FOR REBUILDING OF MUNICIPAL OFFICES

New Civic Structure Will Be Four Stories in Height — An Elevator Will Carry Stout Aldermen to the Council Chambers.

under way today. Building Inspector A. M. Piper and the staff of the public utilities are co-operating on the work and likely will have complete drawings to lay before the aldermen next week. This prompt action is largely due to the fact that tentative plans were drawn up last year, although the project was not considered a live issue at that time. These furnished a basis for the plans being drawn today. These furnished a basis for the plans being drawn today.

The building will be four stories in height, and another story will be added to the present utilities building to conform with it. The same style of architecture will be followed as was used in the utilities, so that the present quariers of the commission and the city hall will have the appearance of one complete building.

According to the rough sketches the central part of the structure will be five stories in height. This additional story will accommodate the council chambers and the committee rooms, while all the city offices would be on the floors below.

The utilities building was designed in such a manner that an elevator could such a manner that an elevator could be installed it another story was added. It is now probable that this will not be necessary, as an elevator will be installed in the centre of the building, so as to reach the council chambers on the fifth floor. The elevator, at the ground floor will open on a large rotunda to which an ornamental entrance will give access from the street.

It is believed that there is ample room on the present site for a city hall to meet present needs. The site has a frontage of 95 feet and a depth of 90 feet.

Frontage of 145 Feet.

The lot occupied by the public utilities building is also 90 feet deep but only 50 feet wide. The completed city offices, with the utilities building, will have a frontage of 145 feet. The utilities building cost about $110,000 to erect by day labor. The city hall will cost at least three times that amount, according to present estimates. at least three times that amount, according to present estimates.

Ald. W. A. other cities.

Another favorable feature is that the bullding will face south. According to Ald. Wilson, the snow melts more quickly on this side of the street, and the surrounding are more pleasant.

The question of temporary quarters while the new building is under construction has not been definitely settled. Two large warehouses, which are empty af the present time, are under tled. Two large warehouses, which are empty at the present time, are under consideration. One of these is located on Richmond street. If this were cated on Richmond street. If this were taken as temporary offices, more vaults would have to be constructed and heating apparatus installed. The other building is located on King street, and is smaller than the first one. Situation.

Shortage of Food Expected to Increase Unrest Among Natives.

London, Jan. 14.-Official announce ment that famine exists in several districts of India, made yesterday at the India office, has occasioned concern in England. The present scarcity of food in Great Britain's mighty dependency in the east comes at an inopportune time for the Government, which is al. ready grappling with serious unrest among the natives, and it is realized here that no other single thing could cause greater disquietude in India than a shortage of grain. Mere mention of famine in India reighted with terror for the natives of that country, who look back to times when scores of thousands of their fellows perished from starvation, which has often been attended by plague. Little meat is eaten by the 315,000,000 people in this yeast eastern empire, who subsist mainly on grate. empire, who subsist mainly on grain.

Since great tracts of the country are arid, the farmers are dependent partly on favorable monsoons, and the failure of these winds is a calamity, since racts under irrigation are not sufficient to supply the country with the necessary food.
Yesterday's India office statement said that crops in Punjab, in the exreme northwestern part of the Indian peninsula, are poor. The greatest irrigation works in all India are situated in this province. this province, the population of hich is more than 25,000,000. Several which is more than 25,000,000. Several other districts mentioned are heavily populated, notably Hyderabad, with more than 11,000,000. Even local famines would cause intense suffering, and if the whole country should be affected the results might be terrible, especially in the thickly populated cities.

The South African Unionist coalition The South African Unionist coalition is the party of the present Government, led by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts. The principal issue in the campaign is that of secession from the British Empire, which the Nationalists strongly support. The latest manifestos of the leaders of that party affirm their demand for republicanism, notwithstanding the publication recently of a "minute" prepared by Senator Marais of the "Nationalist head committee," urging "that the head committee must decide to drop the republic for the time being, and contest the election of the economic issue, so as to cut the ground from under the feet of the Government."

"So that others may have a turn at it and take the same chances that I have had to do," was the explanation of William Tite, secretary of the Labor Representation Committee, of his resignation of the post, which was placed in the hands of Vice-President Hothersall on January 10, but on which no action has yet been taken.
"Since taking over the duties of secretary in November, 1919, at the election of the permanent officers of the committee, I have been nicknamed the notorious Bill Tite, and I think it is time somebody else enjoyed some of 'notorious Bill Tite,' and I think it is time somebody else enjoyed some of these pleasantries," added Mr. Tite.

At the present time the committee is without a secretary, and that no new appointment will be made until the regular meeting on January 28. The committee has taken active part in the last two municipal elections, and has run full labor slates, with some measure of success in January, 1920, but with decidedly reduced success this year. Much complaint has been made against the committee since its formation by many of the oldtime trade unionists on the grounds that it was being run by the Independent Labor Party and Socialists for their own ends rather than in accordance with the purpose of its constitution, the securing of better representation for labor in civic management.

Preparing Figures to Lay Before the Council Committees.

Preparation of London's budget for 1921 is now the most important matter looming on the municipal horizon with the possible exception of plans for a new city hall. Already a number of items have been listed for inclusion in the estimates, and they have begun to assume a vague form. Taking into account a ten million dollar increase in assessment preliminary guesses at the tax rate place it in the neighborhood of 35 mills, or about five mills less than in 1920.

Various city departments are now beginning to prepare their figures. This task will require several weeks, but probably the estimates will be ready to lay before the committees after the first meeting in February. Estimates from other departments not under the control of the departments are expected to be in by that time, and every effort will be made to strike the tax rate before March.

CAMPBELL M'INNES A SINGER OF MERIT

Gives Delightful Program in Auditorium—George Reeves Accompanist.

Campbell McInnes once again sang is way into the hearts of a London ence when he appeared last night efore the Women's Music Club in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. From the opening notes of Beethoven's "Creation Hymn" to Graham Peel's delightful little songs set to words from "The Child's Garden of Verse," his pleasing and rich baritone was heard with delight. Although the bigger numbers of the evening were sung with finish and depth of feeling, it was in the whim-sical little songs of Graham Peel that his heart and voice found its most per-fect expression. One of the lovellest numbers of all was the traditional French ballad "La Joli Tambour," ar-ranged by Graham Peel In the song! ranged by Graham Peel. In this sons Mr. McInnes seemed to have imbibed the very spirit of the French Minnesingers, and gave it forth with vigor.

There were seven little children's songs in the final group by Graham Peel, the words from the "Child's Garden of Verse." Among them was the more serious "Where Go the Boats" and the whimsical "Friendly Cow,"

"My Bed is a Boat," "My Ship and I," and so forth.

Schuman's song cycle, "The Poet's Love," was sung throughout its sixteen numbers, singer and accompanist in delightful harmony. In fact, almost the entire program offered by Mr. Mc-Innes last evening was one in which the accompanist had almost as big a share of the responsibility as the artist. And surely no better accompanist could have been secured than George Reeves, who is on his way to New York from Toronto. When the applause kept continuous after this number, Mr. McInnes time and again insisted on the pianist coming forward and sharing in the honors. This delightful cycle, the words of which are from Heine, works up to a dramatic height in the fourth, fifth and sixth songs—"All Grief and Sorrow Burled Lies," "My Soul Is a Lily Sleeping" and "The Rhine Is Peaceful Flowing," reaching the climax in "I'll Not Complain." Then appears to come the denouement, with a hint of the former passion in "A Youth Once Loved a Maiden," which was sung with great dramatic effect last night. The songs reach their close in the last lovely melody "These Songs That Haunt My pretation of these songs. Among the other numbers on his program were "Come, Gentle Death" (Bach), "An Evening Hymn" (Purcell), "D'une Prison" (Hahn), "La Lettre" (Moret), and "Forsaken," sung by request.

Mr. Reeves after proving himself an unusually sympathetic accompanist, turned solo artist himself about the middle of the program, giving a magnificent rendition of Bach's "Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue," followed up by a capricious little piece of music of most difficult execution from Mendelssohn, the "Scherzo in A minor." Great applause also greeted this second delightful artist of the evening.

In regard to the quality of Western Ontario dairy products, as J. A. Rud-dick, dairy and cold storage commis-sioner for Canada, said yesterday, Canadian cheese has a universal reputa-

Canadian cheese has a universal reputation.

"No one," he declared, "has a higher appreciation of the outstanding position which Canadian cheese has reached in the world's market than I have. It is the largest item in the international trade, and in the matter of quality it stands absolutely at the top. We have reached this position without any system of grading, but it must be remembered that while we were making our reputation no other country had such a system. Our position as the largest exporter of cheese in the world is being threatened to some extent by New Zealand, but I am of the opinion that it will be many years before New Zealand exports as much cheese as Canada does."

Canada does."

Then again, George H. Barr, chief of the dairy division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in the course of his paper yesterday afternoon on keeping quality and uniform type in creamery butter, said to the convention:

"You have made splendid progress in the manufacture of butter this year. This is the first year that I have felt that Ontario has made a special effort to improve the quality of its butter. Judging from the exhibition in this building you have done splendid work."

Seven Creameries Competing. Mr. Barr, in concluding his address, announced that seven Western Ontario creamerles would be given an opportunity of taking part in the Dominion educational butter-scoring contest this

Owing to illness, R. Harcourt, Guelph, professor of chemistry at the Ontario Agricultural College, was unable to give his lecture on the use of the Storch test, but a paper prepared by Professor Harcourt was read in his absence by Secretary Frank Herns and was much appreciated. However, T. J. McKinney of Guelph presented his report on summer experimental work in cheesemaking at the O. A. C., and W. H. Sproule, also from the college, gave the results of experiments in cream neutralization and pasteurization.

A general discussion on the foregoing addresses immediately followed, and J. Scott. Woodstock, the newly-elected president, spoke a few words to the convention, thanking the members for the honor conferred upon him, and soliciting their support and co-operation during the coming year.

Grading of Butter.

The convention placed on record its support of a system of butter grading as follows:

"Whereas, cheese and buttermakers are experienced that official grading of "Whereas, cheese and buttermakers are convinced that official grading of cheese and butter for export would be of advantage to the industry, resolved that the Dominion dairy branch be requested to put in force as soon as convenient a scheme for the grading of all dairy products for export, so tong as it can be worked out along lines which will not interfere with the existing organization and methods of the dairy industry in Western Ontario."

The report of the resolution committee also included the following:

Court of Much Interest.

First of the non-jury cases to be entered for the assize court, which opens at the court house on January 24, was that of Albert C. Joily vs. Joseph H. Sherry, a dispute over the ownership of a house.

Jolly, who is a contractor, stated that he commenced building a house in the city in 1910, but was unable to finish it on account of sickness. He owed the defendant $200, and gave him a promissory note for the Later he borrowed $800 on a more gage on the house which was in the course of construction, to pay for material and wages. He claims that the defendant was to finish the building of the house, and that he, the plaintiff, was to convey his equity therein to him as collateral security of the promissory note, and that when the plaintiff recovered it was to be reconveyed, but in the meantime was to be held by the defendant in trust. Notwithstanding this agreement, he contends, the defendant received judgment on the promissory note in default of the plaintiff entering an appearance.

The defendant, he says, secured rents, issues and profits on the house, and refuses to re-convey it. Therefore, he asks that the defendant be declared a trustee for an accounting; the re-conveyance of the property in pursuance of the agreement, or in the alternation to have it declared that equity of the plaintiff in the property was transferred in satisfaction of the note, and judgment entered thereon set aside.

J. W. G. Winnett for the plaintiff. M. P. McDonagh for the defendant.

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 13.—Canada's conservatism, as it affects matters educational, was criticised by J. F. Carmichael, a school principal of Kitchener, Ont., who told delegates to the convention of the Urban School Teachers' Association of Ontario here today that public opinion must be aroused to the needs of a more forward policy in education being followed in this country.

Mr. Carmichael, who spoke on the advantages of practical education, contended that adolescents, should be taken when their minds are most plastic, and given an opportunity of choosing the vocation they felt was to be their life work. Practical education, as he saw it, was not to cram the memory with facts, but to so equip a child that what it learned in school would be of everyday use to it in making its way in the world.

In making a plea for vocational training, Mr. Carmichael said a boy at the age of adolescence became restless; he wanted to do things, not read about them; he wanted to make things with his hands, hot merely hear about them. Hence the need of pre-vocational schools that would train adolescents for maturer vocational work.

schools that would train adolescents for maturer vocational work.

Not Material Side.

School Inspector James Gill of Hamilton said he was glad Mr. Carmichael had emphasized other than the material side of education.

That the present elementary school course was too long was the assertion of Dr. J. H. Putman of Ottawa, who said that pupils should be able to begin their matriculation work between the time they were 12½ and 13 years of age.

gin their matriculation work between the time they were 12½ and 13 years of age.

Advice as to how the adolescent school attendance act could best be enforced was tendered by Major J. P. Cowles, provincial school attendance officer, who stressed four points that boards of education should consider, namely, the necessity for an accurate census, the best method by which home and working permits shall be issued, the careful choice of an attendance officer, who would really be a child's welfare officer, and, lastly, how many such officers should be appointed. He thought one attendance officer for every 5,000 adolescents would make for an ideal working of the act.

Need Four Years.

A. Trapnell of St. Catharines hazarded the opinion that four years would be required to properly enforce the act, and he thought better progress would be made if the act were made applicable only to those children whose names are now on the school registers.

More publicity of educational matters, so that the ratepayers would be enlightened, was urged by A. B. Peddie of Windsor, Ont., who cited how the board of education there was re-elected, notwithstanding that increased the school rate from 8¾ mills to 14¾ mills at one step, and increased the teachers' salaries. Publicity did it, Mr. Feddie explained, adding that the ratepayers were told that every boy was worth $4,000 to the community, and with 3,800 of them they represented a potential value of $15,000,000.

H. J. HASTINGS ADDRESSES INDON FRUIT GROWERS

Deals With Co-Operation in Marketing and Labor Problem.

London fruit growers were favored by an interesting address in the local agri-cultural office, Thursday afternoon, the speaker being H. J. Hastings of the Do-minion department of agriculture, Ot-

Amongst other matters, Mr. Hastings dealt with co-operative marketing, urging the advantages of this system, and he also referred to the difficulties of transportation, or rather lack of such, giving the recent tying up of the Niagara fruit output as an instance of what this meant to the producer.

He also advocated co-operation in the hiring of labor, pointing out that it would be much more advantageous for fruit farmers to have an understanding in this direction than to try and get ahead of one another in procuring help, a practice which sometimes resulted in hardship to the grower and the loss of much good food. Amongst other matters, Mr. Hastings

Most encouraging reports were heard by the executive committee of the Presbyterian and Methodist co-operation scheme at a meeting held on Thursday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Although two or three churches in the Methodist Conference and London Presbytery objected to the uniting of the smaller Methodist and Presbyterian churches, 28 charges voted in favor of the scheme. Three churches were not

Now that the co-operation scheme has worked so well in the London districts it is proposed to extend the plan to Sarnia and Hamilton presbyteries and conferences. A committee was appointed to look into the grouping of the churches in the last-mentioned districts. Rev. W. H. Graham, chairman of the London Methodist Conference, and Rev. J. C. HYDE PARK CHURCH HAD PROSPEROUS YEAR

Hyde Park, Jan. 13.-Reports from the various church organizations presented at the annual business meeting of the Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening showed a most progressive and prosperous year for the congregation despite the fact that the church has been without a minister since June last.

Reports were submitted by the Woman's Missionary Society, Sunday school, mission Band and Ladies Aid.

Edward Douglas was elected to the board of managers in place of W. Piper.

All the remaining officers were reelected.

The chairman, Rev. Dr. McCrae, interim moderator of the church, announced there would be no candidates sent until after the meeting of the synod

WHEN IS A WAR NOT A WAR? [Toronto Telegram.] The delay of the stranded American balloonists in reaching civilization, as they have it in Canada, has created some levity at the expense of the bevy of reporters who exercised their wits by interviewing each other much after the manner of those fabled financiers who supported themselves by taking in each other's washing.

But this is a serious matter, and a slight slip might have dire consequences. The great republic is engaged in an awful war against Germany, with whom this nation is at peace. The trio they were on the way to the battle area of Germany, and blew into Canada just as allied aviators flopped into Holland?

Official Ottawa cannot lightly dismiss the point in international law whether hese belligerent balloonists should not beeinterned here until the war is over.
As, judging from the present pace, the American-German war promises to be a protracted, if not sanguinary, struggle, it might be permissible to let them send for their families and a winter and summer suit of civilian clothes. BONNIE PRINCE CHARLIE.

[Montreal Herald.]
December 31 was the 200th anniversary of the birth of Prince Charles Edward Stuart (de jure King Charles III. 1766-1788), whose advent in Scotland in 1745 has left such a deep and abiding place in history, in literature, and in place in history, in literature, and in the hearts of the people. Prince Charles left Scotland in 1746 with the intention of returning. With passionate earnestness he besought Louis XV. of France to grant him the means with which to make another attempt to recover his kingdom. But, alas, twas all in vain. The peace of 1748 sent him forth a homeless wanderer, hunted all over Europe by the agents of the gov-

It is said that seekers for this joy have assembled from many parts of the country, and they are described as "hunters." an application of the name an application of the name that will make every true hunter squirm

It seems that the owners of the island have decided that they must put it to more profitable use by raising on it less interesting but more easily marketable cattle. They are within their rights, and probably enough within their rights, and probably enough within their necessities, in so deciding, and they also repeatedly have offered the island and its occupants to the Federal Government for what is said to be the reasonable price of $300,000. Senator Smoot of Utah and Representative Mondell of Wyoming both have tried to persuade congress to make the purchase, but their pleas were vain and their bills falled.

NO FOREIGN WAR HERE.

The truth was known before. But we have it now in greater detail. What should restrictly in the state of the said to be only an old story. it now in greater detail. What should particularly interest Americans is the further uncovering of the Irish-American end of the conspiracy. That it trampled upon the president's proclamation, and came perilously near violatting our neutrality laws—though one of the leaders in its was a judge—has long been believed. The only defence offered was that the events occurred before this country was at war, and that the Irish were justified in seizing upon any weapon, no matter how abhorrent, to weapon, no matter how abhorrent, to strike a blow at their English oppreson our soil. If the Irish desire to make war on England, they ought to be told in the plainest and sharpest way that they cannot do it here. Doubtless the report that the Irish in Philadelphia have three "regiments" ready to fight is only a bit of Keltic bravado. We know how to discount blarneying and braggadocio. But there are things said and done here by Irish leaders and sympathizers that are offensive and ominous, even if they are not lawless. It was inevitable that our government should begin to concern itself with the evidence that certain Irishmen seem to think that they can freely make the Disarmament or Bankruptcy Which?

The entire sum needed to save the lives of three and a half millions of starving children in the war-devastated areas of Europe is less than the cost of one modern battleship, according to Mr. Hoover. An English super-dreadnought of the latest type is said to cost more than $32,000.000. Correspondents put the cost of Japan's new fighting monster, the Mutsu, at $40,000,000. A United States battle-cruiser of the formidable type of the Lexington costs the taxpayer about $23,000,000 to build. The United States naval estimates for 1921, the New York World notes, are nearly $700,000,000, as compared with naval appropriations of about $400,000,000 in Great Britain, and about $150,000,000 in Japan-and the United States is facing a deficit for the current fiscal year of approximately $2,000,000,000! An official statistician recently showed that ninety-three cents out of every dollar collected by the United States Government goes to pay for past or future wars.

"Disarmament," says Major-General Tasker H. Bliss, who was military representative of the United States on the supreme war council and commissioner plenipotentiary on the American Peace Commission, "is the only means of preserving the world from bankruptcy and civilization from ruin." .

The proposal for a general disarmament of the nations of the world is arousing the deepest interest in all countries. The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, January 15, summarizes public opinion everywhere on this subject.

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—The foolhardy effort made by the Germans in 1916 to send arms to Ireland is described for the first time in a book just published here, "The Mysterious Ship," by Capt. Karl Spindler, who led the unsuccessful little expedition.

It appears that the suggestion to land arms and ammunition in Ireland was first made by Count von Bernstorff, then German ambassador to the United States.

"The leaders of the Irish in America," says Capt. Spindler, "went to Count von Bernstorff with the urgent request that the Germans should support by military means the planned insurrection in Ire-land. A proposal that troops be sent to Ireland had to be turned down; but the German Government declared itself ready to consider the suggestion made by Count von Bernstorff of sending a ship with arms and ammunition to Ire-land.

"For the purpose the captured Wilson "For the purpose the captured Wilson Line vessel Castro was fitted out and laden with a large quantity of arms and ammunition. It was first called the Libau, but soon after the start its name was changed to the Aud. With forged papers, the vessel salled under the Norwegian flag 'with pit-props for Cardiff and a general cargo for Genoa.'"

Capt. Spindler thinks, in his monarchical zeal, that it is necessary to emphasize the fact that "our Kalser neither suggested nor urged the expedition."

The captain's knowledge of Norwegian was apparently no more than what could be obtained in a few days from a ordinary grammar, while his knowledge of the English was so thorough that he thought the best way to deal with them was to have a plentiful supply of whiskey on board.

What was more natural that than that the English prize crew should fall on the whiskey which stood invitirgly in every corner—and genuine expensive Scotch, too? The more they made friends with it the better for us, for we would have easy work in disposing of them and would perhaps be able to avoid bloodshed; and we had a sure and effective narcotic which could be put in their drink and their food."

Time after time the captain returns in print to the whiskey. The English are to his mind a "whisky-faced" race. At a certain critical moment when running the blockade he congratulates himself on its being Sunday, "when on English ships people would be dosing themselves with whiskey and such things."

He harps continually, too, on the string of England's barbarity to neutrals on the sea, and that at a time when his neutral flag was being respected.

Spindler and Sir Roger Casement made careful plans, but in the end the latter decided against sailing with the Aud and was sent on a submarine. They were to meet at the Island of Innishtooskert, in Tralee Bay. Casement's plan was that when the ship arrived there, "the English port and customs officials should be rendered harmless when they came on board the Aud."

The Aud managed to run the blockade of whiskey drinkers, though the captain,

"If nothing is done within the next six weeks," said J. R. Clynes, member of Parliament, the other day to Dr. Macnamara, the minister of labor, in the course of a discussion with labor leaders, "a situation may develop that will threaten the life of the state itself."

There is said to be an ugly temper atnong many of the 1,000,000 or more unemployed over what they regard as dilatoriness on the part of local and governmental authorities in taking steps to meet the situation adequately. About 00,000 of these idle men are in London. Homeless and destitute, they have eized about 30 suburban public libraries, aths and assembly halls. the lumbermen's convention.

Mr. Drury was accorded a most cordial reception. His subject was "What Steps Can We of the Present Generation Take in Order That the Lumber Industry Shall Be Perpetual in Canada?" and he also outlined the small steps that had already been taken in this direction of solving the problem.

Hon. Mr. Drury was greeted with cheers, the entire audience rising to its feet. He paid a tribute to the numerous United States residents present. Every good Canadian, he said, and good Britisher, was pleased to see the British and United States flags flying as they were here, side by side. The first duty of Canada as a part of the British Empire was to foster a good spirit between the nation to the south motherland in the east (cheers).

"I was," said Mr. Drury, "before I was pitchforked into politics—a proper like lumbering, is one of the country's natural industries. There is one particular in which lumbering should be more like agriculture, for when a farmer reaps his crops he plants another and leaves the sun, the rain and the wind to produce for him another.

We in Canada, I am afraid, have forgotten in the past that trees grow.
You—we and you—have got the trees out of their class. We have been classing trees as similar to minerals; as something to be got off the ground as methods.

Several hundred persons had collected to welcome the party, and after the aeronauts had assembled on the rear platform of the observation car and faced a battery of cameras they were welcomed by Acting Mayor Alfred Maguire. They were then motored to the Aero Club, where tea was served. There was nothing formal in their reception.

If there had been any bad feeling among the naval men during their trip they did not show any signs of this this afternoon. They patted each other on the back and referred to one another as pals and comrades. When they arrived they wore the tattered remains of their service uniforms, but when they appeared later in their dress uniforms which had been brought to the Old Colony Club by representatives of the navy department they looked as spick and span as the A. The tramway company's cars are now nearly empty in the evenings. They lately raised their fares by parliamentary authority, to enable them to meet increased expenses, but the drop due to the curfew has more than wiped out the additional receipts.

The regulation is declared to be imposed in the interest of the public, to induce them to avoid the risks of being abroad after dark. In present conditions, even if there were no curfew, many people would be too timid to leave home in the evening.

Still there is much criticism of the imposition of a curfew at 10 o'clock at night, provoked by assassinations which took place at 9 o'clock in the morning.

DUBLIN, Jan. 13. — The 10 o'clock curfew, lately put into effect, hit Dublin a hard blow. The city has accommodated itself easily to a midnight closing hour previously in force, but the 10 o'clock embargo on all activity meant the complete abandonment of all social functions in the evening. The result has been to kill all the trade serving such events.

the great stores are almost idle, and the managers of some of the most popular of them say that they are operating at a loss. There is no demand for new at a loss. There is no demand for new dresses.

The theatres are suffering most. At one house the first night after curfew there were only eleven people in the auditorium. The moving pleture houses are doing better but they all have to close at 9 to enable their patrons to get home before the curfew hour. The music halls, which used to open to two houses a night, have now only one. As they were always full for each performance, this means cutting off half their income.

But how can we realize this hope if Germany is left free to prepare new attacks under cover of darkness? How can we realize it if Germany is can we realize it if Germany effectively disarmed? New Ideas, Reformers Contend, Make It Best For Theatrical Profession That Later Generations Should Entertain Public.

Paris, Jan. 13.—French theatrical circles, and particularly the actors and actresses of the Comedie Francaise, are much disturbed over the revival of the old question as to how old one must be before the talents begin to fade, as some of the favorites well beyond Dr. Osler's limit are said to be fearing retirement against their wishes if Andre Honorat, minister of public instruction, decides to approve the petition of younger members of the profession to "clear the boards for newer blood."

The majority of the members of the Comedia Francaise on the other hand offer balm by assuring the aged comedians that it is not because their talents are diminishing, but because new ideas are being adopted daily and that it is only fair to give youth its chance. They have even asked M. Honorat to reserve a small number of roles' each year for the selected favorities, but the dignity of the older members of the majority of the members of the Comedia Francaise.

DRAMATIC MYSTERY ABOUT 'MARY ROSE'

(By Ben Deacon, Canadian Press NEW YORK, Jan. 13 .- New York is enjoying a new mystery. It is shrouded in even denser obscurity than are the several score of murders which Police Commissioner Enright's detectives have been vainly striving to solve. It is a more impenetrable mystery than is the source of the flowing stream of potent libation which the prohibition enforcement officers are vainly endeavoring to dam. New York's latest mystery is this: What is the meaning of "Mary Rose"? The murder of Monk Eastman, the "crime wave," and de Valera's trip to Ireland may still occupy the attention of the Winter Garden type of citizens, but among the intellectually elect the polite topic for speculation is "Mary Rose."

The citizens who come under the "highbrow" category are flocking to the Empire to see "Mary Rose." They are both flocking and talking, and the worst of it is that they do a great deal of talking during the progress of the play. The average New York "highbrow" appears to be imbued with the idea that his opinion of a play is of greater importance than the play itself, and he is not a bit reticent about expressing his opinion. No two critics were able to agree as to the true significance of the play, and no two "highbrows" have the same opinion, therefore there are many opinions to be expressed and the correct thing to deavoring to dam. "highbrows" have the same opinion, therefore there are many opinions to be expressed, and the correct thing to do seems to be to express them on the spot. This is not very satisfactory to the person who goes to the Empire unequipped with an opinion of his own and anxious to hear the play so that possibly he may form one.

Dramatic Appreciation.

If you occasionally read the New York papers, and if by chance you are a credulous sort of person, you probably have gained the impression that the only real, honest-to-goodness intelligent appreciation of the dramatic art on this North American continent is to be found in New York. New York believes this as fervently and faithfully as Boston believes that baked beans on Saturday nights mean culture or Toronto Sabbath means sanctity. If untimely chatter denotes keen appreciation, then New York is right.

"Mary Rose" will assuredly be given in Canada, though plans for its presentation outside of New York have not yet been definitely arranged, and I venture to predict that it will receive a far more intelligent and more trul appreciative hearing in any Canadian city which may be privileged to see it, than it is getting here, despite the fact that it is filling the Empire Theatrn ightly with people—and with talk.

The Barrie play is presented in a lovely musical setting, consisting of a prelude, a series of interludes, and "incidental music"—little whispers of melody which are faintly heard from time to time as an accompaniment to

BAY STATE'S NOVEL LAW.

In the new Massachusetts motor vehicle law which went into effect this month requiring every automobile driver in the state to pass an examination for an operator's license there is a restriction which will have the effect, among other things, of preventing people who qualify as drivers of Ford cars from driving other types.

So far as is known, this is the first time that such a restriction has been enacted into a state motor vehicle law.

The rule states that the applicant for examination must furnish a motor vehicle in good running order for the examination, and that "If of planetary transmission, steam, electric or friction drive type, or a motorcycle, or certain types of trucks, license will be restricted accordingly." Heretofore, except in certain individual instances, a license to drive a motor car entitled the holder to drive any kind of car. BAY STATE'S NOVEL LAW.

Throughout the autumn and early winter the German Government has made every effort to win the sympathies of neutrals and Silesians to the German cause. It is charged by the pro-German campaigners that the Poles are without the men who have ability to manage the great industries of Upper Silesia, and that under their rule these industries would be bound to decay, the operation of the mines deteriorate. Polish workmen, not so highly skilled or strongly organized as the Germans, would overrun the region under a Polish regime and, it has been argued, would work for such low wages that the German population would be forced to leave.

On the other hand, the Polish agitators, and particularly Wojciech Korfanty, former member of the Reichstag, have not only flooded the plebiscite area with appeals to unite with Poland, but have openly threatened the German residents with expulsion should the Poles win at the elections. They have brought up the old issue of Prussian interference with religious worship. The fact that Poles were excluded from holding any offices under the old regime has tended to intensify their de-

American in Philippines Sells Automobiles to Natives Wearing Only G-String.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A survey of the advertising field in the Orient, especially in China and Japan. was obtained today from J. W. Sanger, American Trade Commissioner of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Com-merce, who has just returned from a tour of these countries and the Philppines. He found more than a thousand ippines.

He found more than a thousand papers in Japan printed in the native language, ranging from tea-house dailies to newspapers with fifteen editions daily and bona fide circulations of half a million. While there were no more than a dozen daily newspapers in China a decade ago there are today about 300, the best of which are declared by Mr. Sanger to be published in Shanghai.

"There are no particularly new advertising methods in Japan or China," asserted Mr. Sanger, "or anywhere else in the world, but rather the different uses of the fundamental means that we Americans have used or are still using, except possibly the professional story teller who still plies his trade in China flavoring his present-day stories with accounts of the marvels of kerosene or cigarettes or whatever else the advertiser may pay him to talk about.

1,500 Magazines in Japan.

"There are 1,500 or more weekly and monthly magazines in Japan covering every field of human interest from heavy reviews, women's magazines to stories and comics for children, all, of course, in Japaneese. Practically everybody in Japan can read and write and consequently the total reaches a tremendous figure. However, the newspapers are far more important than the magazines; not only their reaches a tremendous figure. However, the newspapers are far more important than the magazines; not only their circulations, but their influence and prestige are much greater, and as between the two media, the newspapers have first call with most of the large advertisers.

"Curiously enough there is very little retail or dealer advertising in these dailies, even the large Tokio department stores spreading themselves only occasionally to the extent of a few inches.

"Some American advertising appears, occasionally to the extent of a few inches.

"Some American advertising appears, but not much, the bulk of the advertisers being Japanese manufacturers who occasionally use full pages. For the most part, however, small space is the rule, due to the fact that it is almost impossible to turn out a daily of more than eight pages since it must all be set by hand. Instead of a battery of linotypes there are hundreds of compositors, hand setting the thousands of picture characters that go to make up the Japanese language.

"There are no permanently established magazinese in Chinese for general circulation, but there are newspapers even if they are only just making a start. Like the Japanese dailies the Chinese newspapers carry about 50 per cent news and 50 per cent advertising, most of the latter being of Chinese-made goods with a thin sprinkling of American advertising. Due to the scarcity of good dailies in China—probably not over 100 of them are permanent and less than half that number exert any wide influence—most successful advertisers devote the bulk of their appropriations to posters in one form or another and the recollection of these tens of thousands of brightly colored lithographs that decorate China from one end to the other is one of the outstanding memories of that country.

Posters Used in China.

"The wide use of posters rather than newspapers is due not only to the scarcity of the latter, tut also because not over 10 per cent of the Chinese can read, while each and every one can be reached with a picture. Calendars too are more generally used by advertisers in China than any other country in the world I have ever visited. The Chinese have a respect for the written or wrinted word that amounts almost to reverence and never under any circumstances throw it away. Newspapers are sold and resold from reader until they are worn to shreds and then they are carefully burned.

A newspaper costing 3 or 4 cents daily is an impossible luxury to millions of Chinese and out of that, among other developments, has g other developments, has grown the curious custom of renting a newspaper. The first subscriber gets it in the morning with the privilege of keeping it an hour. It is then called for and passed on throughout the day to other subscriber-readers,

"In addition to the vernacular press of Japan and China there are also a number of weeklies and monthlies in of Japan and China there are also a number of weeklies and monthlies in English and a dozen or more dailies scattered through the cities of Yokohama, Kobe, Hongkong, Shanghai, Tien Tsin and Pekin. About three-quarters of them are British-owned and the other one-quarter American-owned. These are published primarily for Americans, Britons and other foreigners, and while read to a limited extent by the better educated Japanese and Chinese, they exert no appreciable influence the better educated Japanese and Chinese, they exert no appreciable influence on the mass of people. In so far as advertising can do so, the circulations of those English language dailies 'deliver' the foreign communities, which, while small, are extremely well to do.

"While in the Philippines I took occasion to examine rather closely into the sales-promotion methods of the largest American firm in Manila, with branch houses in other parts of the Philippine Islands. There, of course, American influence has been paramount since 1898, and has made for quite different conditions than one finds in either Japan or China. Yet even here in this outlying possession of ours a shrewd, forceful American advertising manager did what everybody said was 'impossible.' Through skillfully adapting to their understanding the American sales and advertising methods, which he had Consulting Engineer of Provincial Commission Makes Prediction.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 12 .- Hydroelectric power in sufficient quantity to light Halifax, run ner tram cars, and serve a good many of the manufacturing plants of the city, will be available here next June if there is no delay in delivery of machinery and equipment, according to H. K. Smith, consulting engineer of the Nova Scotla Power Commission. Brought fifteen miles overland from the plant now under construction by the commission near St. Margaret's Bay, Halifax County, the power will cost approximately 1 cent a kilowatt hour, a price which compares very favorably with that paid in Ontario for the energy developed by the great hydro-electric system in that province. J. W. CUNLIFFE NEW HEAD OF HOUSING COMMISSION HERE

Declares Economy Must Be Watchword Throughout the Year.

John W. Cunliffe was elected chairman of the housing commission for 1921 at the inaugural meeting of that body last night. D. J. Tallant was elected vice-president. The other members of the commission are E. R. Dennis, R. H. Hessel and Mayor Little. Mr. Dennis was the chairman last year.

The appointment came unexpectedly to Mr. Cunliffe, and therefore he was not in a position to outline a program for the year, except along very broad lines. Economy must be the watchword throughout the year, he said, and every expenditure must be carefully considered. Prompt action must be taken to complete the houses on the Hamilton road, to grade the streets in the survey and to supply water and sewer coney and to supply water and sewer con

Vice-Chairman Tallant pledged his efforts to the work, stating that he believed it was one of the best advertising assets the city could have.

The council's request for a statement of the commission's work to date was received. The chairman and secretary were instructed to draw up a report. Accounts were received from the public utilities commission for work done in connection with the Hamilton road development. ALGONQUIN PARK IN WINTER.

There is an increasing desire among many city people to escape from the cares of housekeeping and of life in the large centres, and seek the hospitality and good cheer to be found at the resort hotels. The Grand Trunk Railway System is meeting this desire in keeping open its famous hotel in the Algonquin Park of Ontario, "The Highland Inn." This hotel is easily accessible through Ottawa or Toronto, and offers warm, cheery, private and public rooms. Excellent cuisine and the companionship of guests who have a common aim—to enjoy the healthful winter sports, invigorating climate, that the great unspoiled wilderness of Algonquin Park affords. For rates, etc., apply to N. T. Clarke, manager, Highland Inn. Algonquin Park, Ont., or to any Grand Trunk agent.

While he dealt with the announced subject of his address, "The Community Theatre." at the Normal School last night under the auspices of the London Drama League, Roy Mitchell of the Hart House, Toronto University, peopled his fore stage with vivid word scenes of the part that the theatre should take in the life of today, introducing the idea of the community theatre and the amateur player as the potent force which will bring about the redemption of the stage.

Mr. Mitchell's talk, for it can hardly be described as a lecture or address, Robert Browning and Tennyson had sought to produce plays and had given us splendid spectacles, but they had not succeeded because the literature was first. Some had sought to imitate first. Some had sought to imitate Shakespeare, but had given us words and not acting.

Literature, painting, music and architecture have all taken hold of the drama, but by acting alone does the drama live. The painter may place on the flat a great miracle, of color, form and atmosphere, but it stands still, it cannot move. The writer can carry your sympathy, he can depict, motion, hate, it four but these things only evic in your T fear, but these things only exist in your imagination, they do not live. Drama League.

The first Essential.

The first essential step in the development of the drama, said the speaker, was the dance, which gave color and motion with a pattern. It was the primitive form. The next step was music, which gave the rhythm. Second came the ballet, in which was imitation of life. Third was the pantomime, the imitation of life in silence, accompanied by rhythm. The fourth stage was more complicated, with it came the words necessary to explain what the players were doing; it was a more faithful representation of life, and the words served as do the title lines in a moving picture.

The really great drama is greatest in what is behind the words, when the words are, as it were, between the lines. On the stage one thing at a time must rule, and the words come when motion ceases. They must hang on something that has been done, is to be done, or is being done by somebody else.

Mr. Mitchell's talk, for it can hardly be described as a lecture or address, was intensely interesting, the outstanding elements of his argument being driven home with keen wit and veiled satire in a manner that held the attention of his audience on the qui vive, so that there was a distinct that the usual closing ceremonies had been duly carried out.

He declared that only through the non-professional or community players will the much-talked of new movement in the theatre become effective, and reviewed at some length the methods being used as the result of the various groups which have sought to establish the community theatre.

To realize how this change is coming about. Mr. Mitchell said it was first necessary to get a clear valuation of the stage which sought to many changes that have taken place in the drama. He referred briefly to she so-called choker collar reform of the stage which sought to make it a species of pulpit, a thing realty resented by the artists. Since that time the telescope has been in constant use.
