First Appearance as a Puglist.

New York, Jan. 16.—One of the best contested and most sangunary prize fights ever fought on Long Island came off last night right in the heart of Brooklyn. The principals were Louis Jesler of Buffalo, a middle-level to some reputation, and John Murray, of New York, who is better known as a puglist. The fight was for a purse of $500 and was conducted under the Police Gazette rules with two ounce gloves. Jesler won in the third round, Murray being completely knocked out.

Walker Made Everybody Happy.

Coms, sit down by your cosy hearth,
While loudly roars the blast;
We'll talk of all the pleasant things
That happened in the past.
In that old year now gone, alas,
Where all the years must go,
But many a bright dream comes to pa
"Twas Walker's work we know."

Once in a cheerless room we sat,
Dark, dreary and toriorn;
We wondered why life was so hard,
And why the near are born. And why the poor are born.

We could not hope or look for ease,

We needed it so much;

We could not think that money comes

By faith or genit's touch.
