

ELECTIONS LURE JUNIORS

by John Drew

Liberal Leader At UNB

Frank Mosher, head of the UNB Liberal Party, announced today that Louis Robichaud, the colourful and outspoken leader of the provincial Liberal Party will speak to the students on Wed., Feb. 17 in Memorial Hall. Time of the address is slated for 1:30.

In a telephone interview with the Brunswickan late today, Robichaud stated that he would definitely not "delve into the past like so many other politicians, but I will talk about the present and the future — mostly the present." When asked to give a hint as to his topic he replied that "for the moment I am undecided, but the administration of justice in this province will definitely be a part of it. This is a very serious matter, and there is something sadly lacking in the present Conservative Administration."

Robichaud also stated that the administration of the liquor laws in New Brunswick is "chaotic" and when "the Liberals are in power they will eliminate discrimination". He went on to say that "liquor is another thing that I plan to talk about in my speech to the students of your university." As well as this, Mr. Robichaud implied that he would also discuss Royal Commissions which he termed "stupid" and "a waste of money". He elaborated by pointing to the Atkinson Commission which has already cost the government $6,000 and is now on the shelf. "It is unlikely that they will ever use it," he concluded.

Mr. Robichaud emphasized the importance of model parliament by saying that it was "very indicative of things to come in other elections." He stated that Flemming used the results of campus elections in his last campaign very proudly and "so he should have". "Now it is my turn. Most of the universities in Canada are now voting Liberal." As some examples he gave Mount Allison, Dalhousie, and the University of Manitoba. He feels that this movement is the beginning of a general trend that will make itself felt in the forthcoming provincial election which he predicts will be won by the Liberals with a minimum of 32 out of 50 seats.

Mr. Robichaud also gave a guarantee that after his speech he will allow ample time for questions from the floor. "My answers will not be evasive. I will not beat around the bush. I will give specific answers to the questions that people ask. It is not my policy to evade issues."

Love in the Woodlot

Bushmen's Valentine

The most romantic story recorded on Valentine's Day was the delightful love epic between the Foresters '60 and the Maggie-Jeaners. The tree-men received a Valentine card which challenged "Tame Us!" So on Friday night an expedition to the Maggie did just that. It is understood that the co-eds, pretty wild since a recent Hotbed, were soon tamed though the top floor held out for a while. Following the quote of the night, ("They must have come because they have no girls of their own.") one Forester has been taken to hospital suffering from a violent attack of uncontrollable laughter.

Latin motto on the crest of the '60 Foresters reads: "Semper in Excrementum". In English this means: "Always in Deep Excrement".

C.A. LEADER BUYS PORTABLE SOAPBOX

Fredericton, February 16

The National leader of the Christian Atheist Party, Terrence McCluskey is to speak to students at UNB (from a soap box, most likely) on a number of occasions before the opening of Model Parliament. He said he would talk "about the present and the future."

McCluskey stated that the administration of the liquor question in New Brunswick was "obsolete". He also emphasized the importance of the Model Parliament with the statement: "It is indicative of things to come in other elections."

Whereas Premier Flemming has been proud of the results of the last campus election and Liberal leader Louis Robichaud hoped to be this time; McCluskey said that powers higher than those mere mortals would be proud of the independent choice of the students this year.

Fighting Words

An interesting feature of this year's Arts Week will be a panel based on the popular TV series "Fighting Words". The panel will include Professors MacNutt, Sayeed, Whalen and Weiner, and will be sponsored by UNB's International Affairs Club.

Panel members will be presented with a number of controversial quotations on which they will give their opinion. The audience is invited to participate by questioning the panel as well as by the submission of articles for consideration to the moderator.

Remember the date: Thursday, February 18 at 7.30 p.m. in the Tartan Room of the Student Centre.

SUNAC CONFERENCE

Malcolm Harris, national treasurer of the Student United Nations Association in Canada announces a Maritime conference to appoint a permanent Vice-President for SUNAC. The policy of SUNAC is to elect a regional officer nominated by the universities of each Canadian region.

UNB, through the International Affairs Club, is asked to nominate from its student body a person capable of representing the Maritime region. As yet no date has been selected for the conference, but announcements will be made shortly.

Gérin Local Visitor

National President of the National Federation of Canadian University Students, Jaques Gérin, presently on a tour of the Atlantic Universities, will visit UNB from February 16-18, his last stop on the one-month tour.

Mr. Gérin, a University of Montreal student will address the S.R.C. on Wednesday night. He will outline the future NFCUS program of activity, discuss the subject of aid for refugee Algerian students, and speak on the eventual goal of NFCUS.

All interested students are requested to attend this SRC meeting at 7.30 p.m. in the Oak Room of the Student Centre. Mr. Gérin will welcome this opportunity to meet and talk with UNB students.

Appointments have been tentatively scheduled for Mr. Gérin with Premier Flemming and President Colin B. Mackay.

Rumor Has Layton Poems in 'Intervalles'

As Intervalles, the student magazine, goes on sale today a rumor is sweeping the campus that it includes some shocking poems by Irving Layton, the immoral bard of Montreal, who was on campus earlier in the term.

The Brunswickan has established that there is no truth in this rumor but also understands that the UNB answer to Layton, John Stockdale, has managed to slip past the Censorship Editor with some of the poems.

In an interview, Stockdale quoted part of one:

"You little bitch!
I'd like to be intoxicated
With the best of you
And flush the rest of you
Down the drain."

When questioned on the subject he said that he "Tended to diverge from the Carman and Roberts tradition."

Intervalles now in its second year, includes fourteen poems, seven short stories and a familiar essay.

If the number of candidates entered for the SRC elections are anything to judge by, it is next year's Junior Class who are the liveliest on campus. Ten candidates are standing for three Junior Rep positions. In contrast the Intermediates and Sophomores will not even have full representation as only two candidates in each class applied for the three places available. Meanwhile, seven would-be Seniors are contesting four positions.

There is a three-cornered race for the Presidency. It is about as wide open as the U.S. Democratic nomination at present. All three have varied and distinctive qualifications. The Treasurer and Vice-Presidency are both two-way fights but the Secretaryship has been decided by acclamation.

It will be a contest of the sexes for the WUSC position while the NFCUS top-dog has already been settled. The President and Secretary-Treasurer of the AAA are ready to organize sport in '61 but the Vice-Presidency must be decided on the vote.

Lack of interest was shown in the nomination of class representatives. Recently some universities have abandoned the practice of these positions.

The only undecided position is the Junior Class Prexy. None but the Sophomores have a Secretary-Treasurer in '61. The Intermediate Class will have a President alone on the executive.

T.B. X-ray Unit here next week

The mobile chest X-ray unit of the New Brunswick Tuberculosis Association and the Department of Health will be located at the Memorial Student Centre for two and one-half days starting February 22.

As tuberculosis is communicable, it is most important that anyone connected with the university in any capacity who has not had an X-ray in the past 12 months, take advantage of this special health service.

Tuberculosis is one of the most serious of diseases and one of the most widespread. Contrary to the old belief, it is not hereditary but is infectious and can strike anyone at any age. Early tuberculosis has no signs or symptoms. By the time a person feels sick the disease may be far advanced. Thousands of people in Canada have T.B. but do not realize it. The only way to beat it is to ferret it out piece by piece, the earlier the better. If detected in the early stages, it is one of the most readily curable diseases.

The X-ray is painless, takes only a moment and is free to the individual. Any abnormalities found will be reported to your physician and you will be notified to consult him concerning the results of the report.

An X-ray of your chest is good health insurance because this is a survey of well people 100% coverage is necessary.

Noted Folklore Expert To Address Arts Banquet

Dr. Creighton has delved into the folklore of Canada's Maritime Provinces, and especially her home province of Nova Scotia, for the past 31 years, uncovering sagas and songs which, but for her efforts would be lost in the passing years.

Dr. Creighton attended the University of Toronto until ill-health forced her to abandon her chosen career of social work.

Following this she freelanced for newspapers and magazines in Mexico City, Ottawa and Halifax. Then she heard old Enos Hartlan at the mouth of the Halifax Harbour and thought that anyone who sang pirate songs would be a good subject for a story. But she was captivated by the beauty that still lived in his music, and songs have held her captive ever since.

Through backwoods, up mountains and to lonely islands Helen Creighton made her way by oxcart, shank's mare and fishing dory to seek out the fast disappearing folk songs of the old timers. Her first book published in 1928 established her international reputation. Following this she gave lectures in New York and Montreal and went on to publish more books, one of which "Folklore of Lunenburg County" is esteemed as an important anthropological text. Another book "Bluenose Ghosts" is an eerie collection of ghost stories that Nova Scotians like to tell at nighttime when lamps sputter in the darkness and shifting shadows move spookily over hearth and countryside.

Since 1947, the National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, has supported her work in collecting Maritime folklore.

NEW 'INTERVALES' ON SALE TODAY

One of the main events of Arts Week is the appearance of the second edition of Intervales, the UNB literary magazine. Last year a need was felt for a magazine in which students could display their own writings. Therefore, the Arts Society decided to sponsor such a project and, during the first Arts Week, editors Ron Manzer and Carl Wallace brought out the first edition of Intervales.

This year Kathy Hart and John Stockdale, both of whom worked on the editorial staff and contributed to the 1959 edition of Intervales, became co-editors of the new edition. They and their assistant editors—Brigid Toole, Jo-Anne Carr, John Drew, and Ron McBryne—chose what they judged to be the best of the short stories, poems, and familiar essays which had been submitted to them for the 1960 Intervales.

Dr. Desmond Pacey, faculty adviser to Intervales, calls the edition "lively" and "controversial", and suggests there may be a subtle hint of Irving Layton's visit and influence in it. Dr. A. G. Bailey, who wrote the foreword to the magazine, sees Intervales as an encouraging sign in the development of the literary arts at UNB.

Clothed in a green and white cover, Intervales is on sale today,

Tuesday, February 16, for one dollar in all campus buildings. It is also being sold at Hall's Bookstore in Fredericton and at Manchester Robertson Allison Limited in Saint John. Last year it sold out in four hours. So buy Intervales early.

"Science Will Be Pushover" — Artsmen

Dear Miss McNichol,

Again this year I am very glad to have an opportunity to extend to the students in the Faculty of Arts my congratulations on their organization and activity during the present academic year. Once again they have increased in numbers so that this year they make up 31 per cent of the student body.

I am very pleased to see that the Arts Society has continued with its plan of a year ago in the organization of an Arts Week and, further, that it has produced another excellent issue of Intervales. It is good to see that both Arts Week and the publication of a literary magazine have now become well established in the pattern of activity of the Arts Society.

COLIN B. MACKAY
President

Dear Miss McNichol,

I am very glad, through you, to address a few words on this occasion of Arts Week, to all students enrolled in the Faculty of Arts, including, of course, those in Business Administration and Physical Education.

These divisions serve to remind us not only of the variety of the courses in our curriculum, but of the fact that they all contain a common core of subjects which give unity and meaning to the diverse lines of study with which this Faculty is concerned. Educational progress does not mean departure from the core of subjects, even when we add new courses as we have done this year. Lord Beaverbrook's great gift of the Art Gallery has made it possible to offer courses in Fine Arts and as a part of the curriculum of the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Through the varied curriculum, students are prepared for the even greater variety of positions that are open to Arts graduates upon graduation, in government and the professions, in schools and universities. Arts graduates have continued to distinguish themselves as in the past. Quite a number of last year's graduates, and this year's graduating class as well, have been awarded valuable and highly prized scholarships. The Arts course at the University of New Brunswick is known for its excellence throughout the nation. The enrollment in Arts is the second largest in the University, and not far below the first, which is in Engineering.

Separate faculties in this University were not formally organized until 1946, but we nonetheless go back to the eighteenth century. We are the heirs of a venerable and distinguished tradition, the memory of which, I hope, will enhance the events of Arts Week.

Please accept my congratulations on the publication of this Arts Brunswickan, and for all the events of Arts Week which your Executive have so well and so expertly planned.

ALFRED G. BAILEY
Dean of Arts.

∴ arts society review ∴

Once upon a time, say about three years ago, an Artsman tread amoeba-like up the steps of some building or other esconced on the capital's collegiate Acropolis, and wended his way to a meeting . . . at least, ostensibly. Ostensibly, because that meeting was the Arts Union . . . wow-de-dow . . . really ripping and what-not . . . How could it fail to capture the hearts and imaginations pulsating beneath those undaunted frames, witnessing a true fellowship in the Pierian confraternity of heaven knows what.

In complete and flagrant disregard of decent practice, amenities, little things like quorums and constitutions were incapable of standing in the way of several of the good groups who passed the hat by way of extracting $5.87 from angry young pockets, and founded an organism . . . oh, a thousand pardons, please! . . . an organization devoted to: rejuvenating, stemming, and otherwise mitigating the progress of undesirable decadence within the Arts Faculty, (the students, of course!). Dear reader, despair not. All this expression of taurine compost purports to state is that the old Arts Union was sick; no amount of intellectual or more down-to-earth hormones was likely to restore it, and the Arts Society was created as something new to replace it, and that this effort was made on the basis of $5.87. In its first year, 1958-59, one recalls the Bohemian aura of the Mythical Hovel (later desecrated). Bi-weekly meetings contemplated the role of the Artsman—modern man or anachronism—or marvelled at the ingenious efforts of the national film board artist Norman MacFarlane.

Perhaps one of the most significant contributions to the life of the university was the first publication of Intervales. The magazine of UNB student writings which incorporated unmistakably fertile editorial and literary tendencies into a spontaneously received edition. A modern still wonders at modern wonders. Like how it got by the censors, maybe. Its appearance was an integral part of the Arts Week program, also launched for the first time last year. The Classics Department produced a Roman Carnival complete with slave girl market, and, oh woe, gambling. Fig leaves played no integral role. Debating special speakers — as novelist David Walker — the Bacchanalia, and the Ball rounded out the Week's program, and served to transmute the amoeba into something more worthy of the name, Artsman.

When the present college year peeped its head over the ramparts of registration, a requirement peculiar to university entrance, a theme peculiar to that generation at the bottom looking down, greeted revellers in the form of the society-sponsored Beatnik Bash, held in the ecstatic confines of the Agricultural School Gym. No one would dream of pilfering eleven fuses, would they? That would be beastly unsporting. So anyone needed fuses.

Meetings featured musical entertainment; Colonel Flack had nothing on "Memoirs of a Trip to Mexico". The Society sponsored the initial social of 1960, the Caveman Caper, at which the Arts Queen was crowned by Dean Bailey. Once more, numerous intramural teams rendered a fine account of themselves, and the Society's Winter Carnival Committee again braved the heatless and lightless elements to prepare Arts entries in the February festivities.

"Science will be a pushover"—that's the way one Artsman summed up the coming Arts-Science hockey clash. Always one of the most interesting events of Arts Week, the annual Arts versus Science hockey game will represent the culmination of another successful and well-enjoyed year of Arts intramural sports teams.

Early in the year, the soccer and softball teams saw action. The soccer team, the first entered by the Arts Faculty in the past three years, narrowly missed the playoffs and under the enthusiastic managership of Tom Kear interest in the world's most widely played game was greatly revived among the Artsmen.

Raleigh Child's softball nine lost only one game during the entire regular schedule and play-offs, but fortunately for the Physical Education fans this loss occurred in the final championship game. Thus last year's defending champs transferred the crown to a stronger Phys Ed team by virtue of Keith Kerr's sixteen strike-outs during the crucial contest.

At present there are Arts teams in intramural curling, basketball, water polo, bowling and hockey. In the Christmas volleyball tournament, the Arts team again bowed to the ever-powerful Phys Ed in the final championship play-offs.

Now, for a brief run-down of the team and players likely to participate in the Arts-Science game to be played on Wednesday, February 19th at 8.00 p.m. The hockey team has compiled a six win, no loss tally, by far the most successful year on record. Artsmen, who are reputed to lack the physical stature, intestinal fortitude, and general all around athletic ability of the engineers and other "rocky" faculties, have somehow managed to combine high scoring with a stringent defense to produce a team which has scored twenty-seven goals while only allowing nine against it in the first six games.

The goaltending duties have been creditably shared between Manfred Wasson and ex-Varsity goaler Dave Inch. It has been rumored that the aging defensive pair of Brander and Mockler are going to retire from the hockey wars after this season and conduct battles in other fields. The newly-formed defensive duo of "Easy Ed" Sheehan and "Charging Charlie" Sargeant have added much stability to the blue-line corps.

Up forward, the Artsmen send the vanguard of Jim Muir, "Goal-a-game" Child, and playing manager Bill Spray. The "Upper Canadian" line of Ray Blair, Doug "T. T." Bassett and Karey Allibon follows close on the heels of the first line as being one of the most feared in the intramural circuit. The focal point of the third line is the versatile center "Little Caesar" Cassar, or just plain George to Engineers and Geologists. Flanking "Little Caesar" on the wings will be Crozier, Webb, Hubbard and Farovitch. These are the Economics, Politics, History, etc. . . students who will be wearing the Arts colours on Wednesday and fighting to avenge last year's 6-4 defeat at the hands of the scientists.

Unfortunately, one of the sparks of the hockey team in the person of Fred Eaton will be lost to the team during the remainder of the year due to illness. This is a severe blow to this year's prospects.

One of the added features of Wednesday's game will be the dropping of the first puck by Dr. K. B. Sayeed of the Politics Department. All artsmen are urged to come out and cheer their team to victory. We hope that those who "just hate" to see the Arts team win will be on hand as well. You know that it is said under a parliamentary democracy that the part in power needs a strong opposition. Arts is certainly the power; we wish Science could provide the opposition!

Red Devils 6 - Saints 4

The UNB Red Devils snapped a two game losing streak Saturday night by dumping the St. Dunstan's Saints by a 6-4 count at the Lady Beaverbrook Rink. The win moved the Devils into a second place tie with Mount A, both with a two-two record and four points behind the unbeaten St. Thomas Tommies.

UNB jumped to a 2-0 lead at the half way mark of the first period on goals by George Cloutier and Bob Soward. A minute later at 11.45 Driscoll counted for the visitors to end the first stanza with the Devils ahead 2-1.

Francis Hughes picked up his first goal of the season to boost the lead for the Red and Black to 3-1. St. Dunstan's roared back minutes later with two goals to tie the score 3-3 before shifty Norm Bolitho shook his check loose to move into position and slap home a rebound to again put the Devils ahead.

Both teams came out for the final stanza fired up and anxious for the victory. Play was wide open with the Devils keeping Saints goaltender MacIsaac hopping. 'Bomber' Andrea finally found the range at the 10.00 mark with Ed McLellan and Don Morrow assisting. Deschamps put the Islanders back into contention with his second goal of the night at 12.10 to make the score 5-4, still in favour of the Devils. The teams threatened to break the game wide open with constant rushes but both goaltenders staved off the attack until Norm Bolitho deflected in Galen Parent's hard shot from the blueline. The final score, UNB Red Devils 6, the St. Dunstan's Saints 4.

The game was comparatively clean with only five minor penalties being handed out. It was quite a change from the last meeting of the two clubs at St. Dunstan's which UNB also won but with a total of twenty-seven rule infractions being called.

The Soward-Jarrett-Bolitho line left little to be desired in the rushing and backchecking department. The line amassed eight points on three goals and five assists for a tidy nights effort. It was just the trios way of celebrating the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Soward last Friday. "Mother and little Barry are doing fine," relates the proud papa.

The next outing for the Red Devils will take place at the Mount Allison Rink this Friday evening. The team is seeking revenge for the loss they suffered here during Winter Carnival and are anxious to make the Mounties Carnival next week just as pleasant for them.

Mermaids-Beavers Swim To Intercollegiate Title

In the pay-off swim weekend of the year, the UNB Beavers and Mermaids splashed their way through a gruelling four day road tour to retain their Maritime Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Supremacy and share the first place honours in the Men's Division of the Maritime Open meet. The UNB Mermaids were forced to take second place laurels the Ladies Open Division by a powerful Halifax 'Y' team.

This is the fourth year in a row that the UNB Men's squad has taken the Intercollegiate title. The Amby Legere coached team finished the Intercollegiate meet with 63 points to Acadia's 54, and their female counterparts won 68-32 over the Acadians. Red and Black divers, Jerry Shaw and Georgina Elton captured the Intercollegiate diving titles for '59-'60. UNB iron man of the entire weekend was breast and butterfly specialist Herbie Mitton, who picked up seven firsts over the two day period. Also outstanding for UNB were backstroke Jim Hayden, Beaver Captain Wayne Barry and Mermaid's Sandy Kilburn and Carolyn Stewart.

After much last minute excitement during which two wrong announcements were made as to the winner of the Maritime Open Championships, a tie was called between the Navy and UNB Beavers, each team having 67 points. Halifax YMCA placed second with 45 points, followed by Acadia with 30 points.

Halifax 'Y' girls chalked up 65 points in the Women's Division with a very powerful team. They were followed by UNB Mermaids with 25 points, Acadia with 21 points and an Air Force team with 2 points.

In the men's division, two pool records were broken, both in the backstroke department. Ted Taylor of Acadia smashed the 50 m. record and UNB's Jim Hayden set a new mark in the 100 meter event.

Ski Team Impresses Yanks

Further honours were bestowed upon the University of New Brunswick Red Falcon Ski Team last weekend as they placed second in an invitational tournament held Friday and Saturday at the Colby College Winter Carnival.

Toby Rankin ran roughshod over all competitors in the slalom event coming an easy first. In the downhill competition Norm Crutchfield placed third and Rankin fourth with skiers from the University of Maine winning the event.

The Falcons totalled points placed them second in downhill and cross country, first in slalom and third in jumping for a point total good enough for second in the meet. After teams from U of Maine and UNB, Colby and Bowdoin colleges placed a respective third and fourth.

Raiders 65 - Saints 58

The Varsity Red Raiders squeezed out a 65-58 victory against St. Dunstan's Saints Saturday afternoon on the Lady Beaverbrook Gymnasium court in a second half see-saw battle. The Red and Black squad trailed by one point at the end of the first half 35-34 after overcoming a six-point deficit in the closing minutes.

In the second half the Saints went ahead at the opening whistle only to see the Raiders come up with reserve scoring power to gain a 5-point margin over the visitors. The Saints soon were able to tie the game and go ahead another 6 points before the home team were able to find the twines again. This brought the score to 54-47 in favor of the Saints with five minutes remaining in the game. The Raiders were able to tie the score and go on to gain their second victory in as many games over the Islanders.

Playing his best game of the season, Fran McHugh led the game's scoring parade with 18 points. Roy Miller collected 11 points to place second in the Raiders scoring order. It was McHugh and Miller who saved the game time and time again for the Red and Black team. In the final five minutes of the game McHugh and Bob Baber were very effective defensively in stopping the scoring punch of the Saints. McHugh and Miller were also very able in drawing fouls which made the differences in the final score.

Both Ken McKinnon and Joe Sassi hit the twines for the visitors with 14 points apiece while team-mates Jerry Tingley and Jack Hopper meshed 12 points each.

Bill Ritchie and Brian Hough refereed the game handing out 19 fouls to each team. In the free throwing department the Red and Black made good on 19 out of 29 attempts while the Red and White Saints proved themselves not as effective at the foul line, making only 14 for 31.
