CHAPTER XXXVI.

SHAKE HANDS ALL ROUND, GOOD FRIENDS.

What was there in Leonora's Leonard was handsome still, especially by candle-light. Presently the young lady took to wearing a certain sapphire ring given to her on a very memorable occasion. Upon that hint Mr. Villiers spoke, with the result that before another season began he was indicated as ostensible master of "Number twenty-three Gladys Crescent."

They suit in their new positions excellently. After his and her own will each admires the other to the top of their bent. But they never trouble each other with too much of confidence; so when one day Mr. Villiers read aloud from his paper the tragic end, in a San Francisco gambling-saloon, of a swindler of European reputation, whose description he well recognized, he felt under no necessity to confess that he had had many dealings with this questionable character, nor did he dream that the rascal put an end to by a Californian knife was at one time near standing in the marital shoes he now wore so easily.

Major Villiers took his son's settlement with moderate satisfaction.

"It wasn't the one I wanted, more's the pity for you, Rupert," he said; and though fairly reconciled to life and his lot, Mr. Rupert once allowed himself to echo that regret.

It was at a big gathering the year after he had married, to which, after much toadying of a society magnate, he had got himself and Leonora invited, and where, among a throng of name and rank, they had found themselves nobodies. A good-tempered fellow seeing him tormented—it was Tuffin, by the way—spent five minutes in pointing out to him the notabilities of the evening—among them:

"That tall fellow with the brown beard. He's blind, though you'd never guess it. He's written a book on Upper Egypt that's all the rage among the blues just now. Some society got him up to lecture this afternoon, and my lord president nabbed him for tonight. That dark-eyed woman every one is looking at leaning against him, is his wife. Eh, do you see her, Villiers?"

Villiers did see her as she stood, one hand on the arm of her companion, who talked to a group of celebrities. Soon he was elbowing his way toward her.

"Mrs. Hurst," he said, accosting her with an air of delicate melancholy, "this is indeed a tri-pleasure. How little I guessed I was to meet you tonight."

"We stayed unexpectedly," he answered, a momentary shyness—for she remembered their last interview—enhancing all her charms.

"Is it too late," he said, in a lowered key, "or may I dare to ask if you hold me excused for—two years ago?"

Now she was self-possessed again; looked through him, down upon him, from the royalty of her beautiful young matronhood.

"I hold you fully excused," she said, "and am myself immeasurably grateful to you."

She turned to her husband with the perfection of contentment Mr. Villiers, very sorry indeed for himself, went and found Leonora in a remote corner, told her morosely she had powdered too freely, and took her off home without vouchsafing the information that her step-sister was one of the brightest stars in the brilliant throng they were leaving.

But the Hursts are rarely in London, though pretreatment of society and science is ready enough for them there if they cared to take it. Stuart was in the market when they came back to England, and now, cleared to the last payable farthing of the debt poor John Alwyn died under, Stuart is their home.

There old friends and new come about them. Major Villiers often, the Comynghams once, Miss Ambler when she wills. Thence go forth other works by Gilbert Hurst and that collaborator whom only few know of, which earn him wide publicity and praise, and bring in revenue which now he little needs.

For under Richard Drayton's prudent management Grandlyde sends a steady stream of riches on them, and Sydney declares if she had not Gilbert to tell her what channels to turn it into she should be perplexed out of all enjoyment of this troublesome, ever-expanding wealth.

Troublesome, indeed! Why, what is it Mrs. Gilbert Hurst likes better?

This.

She came silently the other day upon her husband and their five-year-old daughter in deep converse under one of the bee-haunted blossoming limes in their garden. The sun shone through the leaves. The sky above was intensely blue. To life's beginner the world looked very fair. Said the little one, finishing a thought aloud:

"But it doesn't matter for that."

"And what does not matter for what, sweetheart?" her father asked.

"Your being blind, father, for just the things that are pretty. But, oh, I do wish you were not blind for something else!"

"What is it?"

"To see mother. She is such a beautiful mother."

Gilbert stretched his arm over the grass and gathered the child to him.

"I know that, little one, without any seeing. And shall I tell you something more wonderful? That dear mother of yours grows more and more beautiful to me every single day of our lives."

"Flatterers!" she said, happy tears in her eyes, her hand on her child's brown hair, her head on her husband's shoulder.

And there was Sydney Hurst's best-cherished wealth!

MABEL HOWARD, OF THE LYRIC.

CHAPTER I.

Iris went white to the lips; she saw the young man raise his stick, heard it as it fell, apparently with the force of an iron bar, upon the bull's snout—upon which it seemed to have as much effect as a fly would have done if it had alighted there instead—and then she saw the bull lowered its head to toss him, she saw the man leap to the left and make for the gate.

The thing, the trick, was done so quickly, so cleverly, and so gracefully, that her heart gave a bound, and her cheeks flushed with admiration. But another emotion—the first, that of fear—was quickly taken its place.

Quick as the young fellow was, the bull was quicker. Long before the gate was reached, while it still stood, as if mockingly, half open, at the corner of the field, the bull had gained upon the man, its hot breath and foaming snout seeming almost upon him.

Then he turned, raised the stick and dealt the brute a second blow, and repeating the leap to the side, ran off again. But this time, of necessity, the direction he fled in was from instead of toward the gate!

Maddened by the blow and the cunning adroitness of his foe, the bull doubled his pace, and with flashing eyes and steaming flanks bore down upon his adversary.

Iris's heart seemed to have stopped beating. If she had wanted to cry out now she could not have done it, for her lips seemed fast locked. She looked round wildly, vaguely for help. But the farm was a mile away; not a soul was in sight, and as if in mockery of the human peril, the birds sang brightly in the trees.

The young fellow ran in a slanting line toward her, reached the hedge and stood there to gather breath. The bull came tearing along, its head down, its red, gleaming eyes fixed on the man. Once more the stick was raised, but this time it missed its aim, and losing its footing by the force of the blow, the young fellow fell to the ground.

It was a lucky accident, for, borne forward by the impetus of his onward rush, the bull passed clean over him, and the horns with which he had hoped to gore his adversary rent the empty air instead.

The man jumped to his feet, stood for the space of a breath, as if dazed, then made for the gate; the bull turned short on its haunches and was full pelt after him.

Confused by his fall and the tramping of the bull's hoofs, the young fellow ran crookedly, and it was evident that this time the bull would avenge his former fallings, and it would be maimed limbs and death for his foe.

The young fellow seemed to feel this, for he looked round the field as if he were vainly trying to find some spot in which he could come to bay; the bull drew nearer and nearer—another instant or two would settle accounts between them, and all in the bull's favor, when as if she had alighted from Heaven, Iris sprang over the hedge and dropped between them.

Her appearance was so sudden, so unexpected, that man and bull pulled up as if shot.

The man was the first to recover. Turning his white face toward her he shook his head at her, and, panting still, shouted:

"Go back! go away!"

A smile played for a second upon the face of Iris, that was as white as his own; and she galloped toward him. The bull had recovered by this time, and was after them, bellowing a mad, brutal longing for them both.

"The gate, the gate!" cried the young fellow. "Don't mind me! Oh, for Heaven's sake, go!"

But Iris smiled again. She had not been watching his mode of warfare for nothing, and instead of making for the gate, she swerved suddenly and rode toward the bull.

The young fellow stopped as if shot, and dashed toward her, uttering a cry of warning and despair. The bull, too, stopped, amazed and perplexed; but in another instant he made up his mind that a lady and a horse were better prey than one man, and he went for the pair.

Snorting with rage and terror, Snow rose on his hind legs, then Iris pulled him round and bounded aside, and the bull passed her.

She looked round then with something like a smile of triumph on her pale face at the success of her manoeuvre, but the smile died away as she saw that instead of making for the gate the young fellow was running toward her.

"The gate, the gate!" she cried, speaking for the first time.

"What! And leave you?" he shouted, with a reckless, maddened laugh.

"Come with me, then!" she called. "Put your hand on my horse's neck!"

He understood in a moment; ran quickly toward her, and flung his arms over the horse's neck. In her excitement, in the overpowering, overwhelming desire to save him, Iris laid her hand on his arm, and grasped it; then, together, they went across the meadow, and toward the gate.

A moment of suspense, a moment during which they heard the brute panting and snorting behind them—felt even the hot breath, as it puffed out at their backs—the gate was gained, and they were on the right side.

"With a shout," the young fellow let go his hold of Snow's neck, and hurling himself at the gate, clicked to the latch at the moment the bull dashed against it.

There was not a moment—half a moment to spare.

Pantingly the young fellow leaned upon the gate and surveyed their adversary, then he turned, and went up to where Iris, his preserver, sat upon her horse.

Her bosom, under its tight-fitting habit, was heaving, her lips were half apart, her eyes glowing under their long lashes, but otherwise she sat calm and motionless, the type of a goddess, who had descended from Olympus to preserve and succor poor humanity.

He stood and looked up at her a moment in silence.

His face was still pale, and there were drops like dew upon his golden mustache, that fringed his upper lip, and his broad chest heaved in harmony with hers.

If Bilious, Sick Take Cascarets For the Bowels.

Get a 10-cent box now. You're headachy! You have a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, your lips parched. No wonder you feel mean. Your system is full of bile not properly off, and what you need is a cleansing up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are gone by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Call-dread love to take Cascarets too because they never grip or sicken.

OLD FRIENDS.

Old friends drop in from time to time, and to stale histories of yore long, and talk about the far-off clime where we dwelled when we were young. It always shocks me when I meet some friend I knew in days gone by, who used to walk on bunyart feet, and who was eager, strong and spry. For we remember old time friends as we last saw them years ago, forgetting how time's passage leads to ruddy locks the sheen of snow. Just yesterday James Foster Prigg came feebly hobbling to my hair; once he was strong and bold and big, and fit to whip a grizzly bear. And he excelled in many games, untired he roamed the woodland ways; and thus I always thought of James, the hero of my younger days. And now he's bent and weak and ill, his voice a cackle, shrill and drear, and when he has to climb a hill he always shifts to second gear. I showed amazement as I stood and watched him creaking to my door; was this the hero who withstood the greensward champions of yore? "Great Scott," he cried, "can this be you, who once was pleasing to the sight? And now your girth obstructs the view, your plebeian whiskers are a sight." We waked old memories that slept, and dragged them forth at bitter odds; and as we talked we sighed and wept, each found the other such a treat.

Worth Millions if Feasible.

A Metropolitan engineer claims to have solved a problem that has defied practical scientists for half a century, namely, how, without the use of ice, to keep fish from decomposing rapidly. The process is a secret one, but it is said that the treatment takes only twenty to thirty minutes, costs less than one-thirtieth of a penny per pound, and keeps the fish fresh for weeks. Two Dominion Governments are said to be negotiating for the sole rights for their respective countries, but the British Food Ministry, though given every opportunity for testing the treated fish, declines to treat unless it is told exactly what the secret process is. The inventor, who was born in Ceylon, states that for the purpose of his laboratory experiments which extended over years, special thermometers had to be made to give readings showing how, when, and at what rate heat was generated in the flesh of fish by the development of decomposition.

Cobourg, Ont.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me for my daughter. She had trouble every month, high left side, a weak and nervous condition with weak back and pain in her right side. She had these troubles for three years and frequently was unable to attend school. HANDS ACROSS THE LINE.
 OTTAWA, Oct. 2. A definite basis for co-operation between the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada and the American Legion (which represents nearly one million ex-service men in the United States) is outlined in a letter to R. B. Maxwell, Dominion President, G.W.V. A. of Canada, from John G. Emery, National Commander American Legion.

Pickles was formerly connected with various expeditions around the Labrador Coast with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell.

RAILWAY STRIKE PROBABLE.
 CHICAGO, Oct. 2. Counting of strike ballots of 255,000 members of four railroad unions will begin here to-morrow with the possibility of a general strike of more than 300,000 railwaymen in protest against a 12 per cent. wage reduction recently ordered by the Railroad Board depending somewhat on the result of the tabulation of these votes. Ballots were cast by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and Switchmen's Union of North America. Two other railway organizations have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike rather than accept wage reductions.

NORTHCLIFFE WARNS AUSTRALIA.
 LONDON, Oct. 2. An urgent appeal to keep Australia a white country and a strong warning that unless white immigration was encouraged the country was likely to be swamped by Asiatics, whether Australians were willing or not, was issued by Lord Northcliffe at Sydney when he left there on Saturday for the Philippines. Remarking that Australia had never known war on her own soil, he told Australians that they might forever prevent that experience if they acted wisely, quickly and unselfishly in promoting immigration in sufficient numbers to make themselves safe from invasion which they certainly were not now doing.

Salvage Notes.
 The storms of September are again with us, and the past week has been notably unpleasant. Last Saturday a very severe storm raged here, and the lightning was very heavy. Several telegraph wires, "on the neck" were blasted and split up, while the telephone installed in the house of Mr. Isaac Squires, Salvage Bay, was practically destroyed. Fortunately no big amount of damage was done to the house, and none of the inmates felt any bad effects from the "stroke".

Mr. Job Stoad, in the schooner "Nora S." arrived from the Labrador last Friday, Sept. 16th, hauling for 300 qts. codfish.

Mr. Jabez Bull, Rocky Cove, Salvage Bay, arrived from the Labrador on Sept. 15th with 460 qts. codfish.

Reports from the above schooners confirm what has been already told, viz., that the past summer, especially August month, was more than ordinarily boisterous and rough, a big sea raging all the time, and thus accounting for the small catch secured by some of the schooners, for despite any report to the contrary, the Labrador catch will not be as large as many have been inclined to believe.

Mr. Theop. Hunter and Mr. Jas. Moss arrived home yesterday, Sept. 19th, from Fishroads and House Hr., respectively. Both vessels are very well fitted. Mr. Hunter having practically a full load.

Magistrate James of Greenspond, accompanied by Constable Tucker, arrived here on Saturday. The principal cause of the Magistrate's visit was the non-fulfillment of an agreement signed by certain parties with the F.P.U. Trading Company, re the shipments of fish to cancel outstanding debts. As far as we can gather the F.P.U. lost the case, being forced to pay market value for fish and not the $5.00 price formerly given.

Mrs. H. J. Miles left on Friday to join her husband who is teaching at Clark's Head, Gander Bay. Her sister, Miss H. Brown, did not accompany her, although in a former note we stated the contrary.

Mr. Baxter Oldford, in the "Mah" arrived from the Labrador on Sept. 24. Mr. Oldford hauls for 600 qts.

Messrs. Arthur Samson and Samuel Butt of Plat Islands, arrived home a few days ago hauling for 1200 and 900 qts. fish respectively.

Mr. Martin Brown and several others of our men, who had been working on the Deer Lake Road, returned home last week, that avenue of employment having closed down.

Mr. Thos. Brown and Co., left a few days ago to camp somewhere on the line to engage in rabbit catching for the supply of the town trade. We wish them lots of success in their venture.

Rev. E. H. Humphries left for St. John's last Friday on a brief visit.

CORRESPONDENT.
 Sept. 20, 1921.

One of the best known guides in Nova Scotia gives this testimonial of MINARD'S LINIMENT:

Have used Minard's Liniment in my home, hunting and lumber camps for years, and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor ailments, such as sprains, bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for coughs, colds, etc., which one is liable to catch when log driving and cruising during the winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT and cannot recommend it too highly.

Brigade Week.
C.L.B. PLAN SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS.
 The week of November 13th to 20th will be a memorable one in the annals of the C.L.B. in Newfoundland, for it will make the biggest propaganda movement yet made by the Brigade. The intention is to hold what is known as a "Brigade Week," when every night of the week will be devoted to some form of entertainment arranged by a different department of the Brigade on each night.

The programme for the week has been arranged as follows: On the first Sunday, a special communion service will be held for the Brigade in the morning, whilst a church parade will take place in the afternoon. On the following days of the week, a dance, an athletic and gymnastic display, a card party, an inspection, a band concert and an "At Home" will be held under the respective management of the Warrant and Non-Com. Officers' Mess, the Athletic Association, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Adjutant's Dept., the Band and Officers' Mess, and the Old Comrades. On the second Sunday, another church parade will be held.

The C.L.B. in Newfoundland celebrates its 30th birthday this year, and it is hoped that Brigade Week will crown with success three decades of splendid work. Nothing can have a better effect on a lad's character than brigade work, and the truth of this was fully proven in 1914 when the nucleus of our regiment was formed from the various city brigades. Work of the sort that the brigades do should consequently have the support of the whole community and we firmly believe that this support will be readily accorded by the public.

Constable Assaulted.
ESCAPED PRISONER RECAPTURED.
 A young man was charged before Judge Morris today with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting a constable. Constable Cunningham said that he noticed a big crowd congregated near Barter's Hill and when he attempted to disperse it, and arrest the prisoner, he was attacked by the man's friends. Cunningham whilst trying to hold his man was kicked in the back and was compelled to let his prisoner go. The man was arrested later. His Honor imposed a fine of $25 or 2 months and urged the police to spare no efforts in locating the man who kicked the constable in the back.

WANTED, A CLEAN CITY.

At certain periods of the year we find it incumbent upon us to draw attention to the filthy condition of the city. Time and time again have we attempted to move the City Council to action in this connection. Unfortunately, all our agitation appears to fall upon deaf ears, for nothing is ever done towards cleaning up the city and making it one of which we might be proud, until late in the season. Everything around us seems to have advanced with the times but the town itself, which is still modern of the period when modern sanitation was unknown. Go on any street you please and you will find that in certain sections of it, the residents still throw their slop water into the drains, raising unspeakable stench. It does not matter how respectable the street is, this sort of thing still occurs, nor have any tangible efforts been made to prevent it. Look where you will and you will find ash and garbage cans, some overturned, with their contents consisting of all kinds of scraps, over the sidewalk or street. Everywhere will be found breeding places for microbes. Is it any wonder that infectious diseases are so common here. In the meaner streets are to be found ramshackle houses unfit for human beings to live in. In other places, these would be torn down and decent tenement houses erected in their place. But not here! And what of the wondrous system which you boast instead of modern sewerage. Those who have ever had to be out of doors near the midnight hour could speak of "the sweet-scented night" of the poet. On the contrary the odor which pervades all sections of the town is insufferable and insanitary in the extreme. During the summer months we are visited by tourists from many parts of the world. What must they think of our "city beautiful"? If not for the sake of keeping our city sanitary, will the Council not move for the purpose of allowing these people to depart from our midst with a good impression of the capital of England's oldest colony? Some talk of Child Welfare. Let them inspect the various side streets of the city; let them see the children playing amidst surroundings of squalor and filth which are sufficient to appal. Then, let them ask themselves if it is surprising that infant mortality should be so great? Any funds that the Council has to spare, any which they can possibly obtain, would undoubtedly be expended to the best advantage, if used for the purpose of making this a cleaner and more habitable city.

FULL BAND IN ATTENDANCE. The C.C.C. Promenade Concert at the Prince's Rink will be held on Tuesday night and the full band will be in attendance. Owing to the celebrations in honor of the returning athletes, the concert, which is usually held on Monday, was postponed until to-morrow night.

Society United Fishermen.

GRAND LODGE DELEGATION FOR SYDNEY. By yesterday's express a deputation of Grand Lodge Officers of the above Order, comprising the Right Worthy Grand Master, Bro. J. F. Curnew, the Deputy Grand Master, Bro. C. T. James, the Grand Chief Officer, Bro. James Fendell, the Grand Secretary, Bro. A. E. Widdowson and Bro. J. L. Oke of "Backland" Lodge, Harbour Grace, left for Sydney, crossing by Kyle from Port aux Basques to North Sydney to-night. On arrival at Sydney on Tuesday, October 4, the institution of "Maple Leaf" Lodge, No. 77, will be proceeded with. A large number of Fishermen make up the Charter list of the first Lodge to be established outside Newfoundland, and the greatest enthusiasm prevails amongst the Brethren.

Norwegian Steamer Ashore in Straits.

Messages were received in the city yesterday stating that the Norwegian steamer Koren Jognes had gone ashore at Point Ferrolle in the Straits, and that the Donaldson liner Orithis had gone to her assistance. The Reid Newfoundland Company received the following message from the Glenora, which arrived at Humbermouth from the Straits service yesterday: "Sighted steamer ashore at Old Port, no account of crew as yet. Her boats gone, supposed they must land somewhere further to westward. While they got stuff out of captain's room and chart room yesterday. Ship very much down, deck under water and on even keel. Think must have struck further westward, where crew left her, as she did not strike where she is now, she is lying on level bottom." The Koren Jognes is a ship of 2331 tons gross, and was probably outward from Montreal with a grain cargo.

Patronal Festival.

St. Michael's Church, which kept its Feast Day on Thursday last, was a centre of interest to many people yesterday as the Festival services were continued throughout the day. A large congregation filled the church at 11 o'clock when the Holy Eucharist was celebrated by the Pastor, Rev. E. J. Nichols. The service was a Missa Cantata, or fully Choral and was preceded by a procession. The sermon was by the Rev. H. L. Pike from the Book of Exodus, "Speak unto the Children of Israel that they go forward," and was a most inspiring message suited to the occasion. The musical parts of the Liturgy were well rendered by the Choir, the Sanctuary was tastefully decorated and the whole function was one of spiritual uplift. At Evensong when the Bishop of Newfoundland was present the ushers were hard put to find room to place the vast congregation. The service was again sung and was very devotional. His Lordship's text was from the Sermon on the Mount, "I will liken him unto a wise man who built his house upon a rock." After he had encouraged the congregation on the work already accomplished he exhorted them to build their future efforts upon three foundations: (1) Loyalty to Jesus Christ; (2) Loyalty to the Catholic Church of Christ; and (3) Personal service for the uplift of the world. After the sermon a Procession of Thanksgiving was held around the Church, headed by the Cross and ended by the priest and the Bishop. During this procession the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung with such enthusiasm that it was one grand shout of victory, the climax of the whole service. Returning to the altar the Episcopal Blessing, given by our Father-in-God, brought to a close a very joyous festival, which will prove of great encouragement to the priest-in-charge and his devoted workers.

Our Book Review.

"The Wasted Generation" by Owen Johnson. (Dicks & Co.) I have never read a book so pent with strong emotions as "The Wasted Generation," the latest book from the pen of Owen Johnson, the gifted American author, who will be remembered for that wonderful novel of to-day, "Virtuous Wives." "The Wasted Generation" is the story of David Littledale, a man fully awake to the problems of the day, and under no illusions with respect to his generation. The tragedy of his one great love cannot but appeal to the emotions of all who read it, and the manner of the telling lends it added attraction. There can be none who can read this story unmoved, none who can fail to doubt the truth of David Littledale's philosophy. "The Wasted Generation" is a fine book, one not to be soon forgotten, and above all, a book that is different.

In view of the exceptionally large sale of the September issue of the "Veteran Magazine", unsold copies now remaining in the city bookstores will be withdrawn after Tuesday, so as to fill outport orders.—oct.3

Reception for Athletes.

The Halifax team arrived at Port aux Basques by the Kyle yesterday morning, and is due at Donovan's this forenoon. Preparations for the luncheon and demonstration are now completed. The guests at the luncheon met this morning at the Reception Building, where cars were provided to take them to Donovan's. At the luncheon, President Ayre will preside, and the athletes will be formally welcomed. At 7 p.m., the reception and demonstration will take place at the Cross Roads, when the C.I.B. C. C. and M. G. B. Bands will be present, and the team will be taken through the city to the Major's Theatre where the proceedings will conclude with a big public meeting.

Meigle From Labrador.

The S. S. Meigle, Capt. Burgess, arrived from the Labrador at 4 p.m. Saturday with a large cargo, principally cod and salmon. The ship had fine weather on the trip until coming south when it blew a heavy northeast hurricane with snow squalls and the steamer was held at Hopedale. The Meigle reports cold weather north, the hills being covered with snow. The fishery along the shore is better than anticipated and when some fine weather for curing fish many of the crews will be ready for home shortly. The following passengers arrived by the steamer.—Mrs. F. Lewis, Miss E. Pye, Mrs. L. Dawe, Mrs. S. Gosse, W. H. Pye, Dr. V. E. Levine, E. H. Chase, Capt. N. Keen, Mr. S. Bradbury, H. Harvey, Geo. Western.

G. W. V. A. Canteen Burgled.

The G.W.V.A. Canteen, situated on Water Street, was entered between 6 and 7 p.m. Saturday and several dollars were taken. The thief had been compelled to break the door open, before an entrance could be gained. It was fortunate that most of the day's receipts had been placed in the safe for otherwise the burglar would have made a much bigger haul. Nothing but the till was touched by the thieves.

Susu in Port.

S.S. Susu, Capt. Roberts, arrived from the Fogo Service yesterday morning bringing quite a quantity of freight and the following passengers:—Mrs. Clouther, E. Gullicksen, W. Wright, Miss Sheppard, G. Sheppard, Mrs. Fennel, N. Hicks, E. J. Ryan, Miss R. Hounsell, Miss Knepe, Miss M. Butt, M. Parsons, Mrs. Geo. Wellon and child, P. Stamp, Miss Hoskins, and four in steerage. The Susu brought the spars, etc., of the wrecked schooner Falka.

Chartering of Foreign Vessels.

The chartering of foreign vessels to load with codfish for markets is open to more than passing comment as the practice leaves our own vessels idle and keeps many men unemployed who would otherwise have a way of living. The move was made at the last session of the Legislature to debar foreign-owned vessels from this trade, giving a rightful preference to British-owned carriers. The move did not come to any practical issue, and the foreign-owned vessels are again chartered. British cargoes in British bottoms should be the rule. The United States goes further, and excludes foreign masters from its vessels. The reason why the foreign-owned ships are used is that they take freight at lower rates than the British-owned vessels, and so the gain is to the exporters—the lower the freight, the greater the profit. The loss however is borne by the British seaman.—H. G. Standard.

Rhodes Scholar Elected.

Honor to Bishop Field College. The Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee, consisting of His Excellency Governor Harris, Chief Justice Horwood, Mr. Justice Kent, Dr. Curtis, Dr. W. W. Blackall, Arthur Mewa, C. M. G. Hon. Geo. Shea, Mr. G. P. Ayre, Mr. H. A. Winter, B.A., Dr. V. P. Burke met this morning and selected Mr. Cecil J. Parsons of the Bishop Field College and McGill University, as the Rhodes Scholar for 1921. His Excellency the Governor presided at the meeting and Dr. Burke acted as Secretary. The Committee had amongst its membership for the first time a former Rhodes Scholar, in the person of Mr. Winter. The selected candidate is a brother of Major Parsons, M.C. The Telegram extends congratulations to the lucky recipient.

Harmony From Labrador.

S.S. Harmony arrived in port last night from the Moravian Settlements and berthed at Bennett's wharf this forenoon, where her cargo of fish oils and skins are being discharged. The Harmony will likely make another trip North with winter provisions. The ship brought up three Missionaries and their families who are bound to the Old Country on fortnight. They are Mr. Hettosch with his wife and one child. He was stationed at Natine, and has been there for the past 15 years, only coming South once since, about 11 years ago. Mr. Merklein is another who has spent a long term in the service. He is accompanied by his wife and five children. They came from Hebron, Mr. Bohimann, who has spent 20 years at Hopedale, is the third crew of the party. He too is accompanied by his wife. The ship left Hopedale on the following day. Stormy weather with rain is reported along this part of the coast. One of the ship's crewmen, being treated for a sore hand at the time the settlement was destroyed by fire, informed the Telegram that the whole place was consumed within 5 hours. The fire started at about noon in one of the stores. There were only three English people present, the rest being natives, who took to their boats when the powder and cartridges stored on the premises took fire. The work of salvaging was very risky, but much valuable property was saved nevertheless. An enquiry has been held by Magistrate Sampson, M.H.A. for Twillingate district.

Child Swallows Coin.

A boy named Cronon, aged about 3 years, playfully swallowed a penny piece at his home, New Gower Street, on Saturday evening. A doctor was called to remove the obstruction from the child's throat, but his efforts were futile and the little fellow was ordered to hospital. So far the coin has not been dislodged, but it is hoped that it will pass to the stomach from where it can be more easily removed.

Gold Discovery Reported.

News comes from Port Saunders that a valuable discovery of gold has been made not far from there, and if the rumors reaching there are true that part of the West Coast will rival the far-famed Klondyke. Claims are being filed at the Crown Lands Office by those who are on the inside track. Samples have also reached the city and it is hoped that something tangible will result from this latest discovery.

Motor Car Fares. Motor-car owners here and in nearby outports are being called upon to pay a license on their cars. Owners have not been paying any license tax and for the most part fail to see why they should do so. They claim that motor taxes are turned over to the Motor Association of St. John's and used on the roads there and in that vicinity, and therefore they derive no benefit therefrom. Cars are not allowed within city limits without license and our owners do not see why they should be forced to pay this license as they would of them to go to the city. They would be more willing to pay taxes if their money was expended to repair the roads which they use in their work or pleasure. The present system meets with scant approval, rather, with their condemnation. We understand a meeting was held by car-owners in Bay Roberts last evening to discuss the tax and similar meetings will be held here and in Carbonear. Why should outport motor's be taxed to help repair the roads in and about St. John's? Horses and vehicles are taxed in the city but not elsewhere, so why should not the same reasoning hold good regarding motor-cars?—Harbor Grace Standard. Is This Sport? A report is about that when some sportsmen visited the partridge grounds, not a hundred miles from Harbor Grace, on the first day of the open season, they found the covers scattered. This fact led them to believe that the birds had been disturbed, and later when dead birds were picked up and empty shells found, the surmises were strengthened, and there was no doubt in their minds that either the grounds had been visited and shot over, or that the hawks had provided themselves with weapons not given them by nature.—Harbor Grace Standard. S.S. Barnbin, 2 days from Sydney reached port Saturday night, with coal to A. J. Harvey & Co.

Blue Puttee Reunion.

AT DONOVAN'S TO-MORROW NIGHT
 At a representative gathering of Blue Puttees in the G.W.V.A. Rooms Saturday night it was unanimously decided to hold the annual re-union at Donovan's to-morrow night. The following committee will finalize arrangements in the little time at their disposal: Colonel Carly, Major March, Major Butler, Sgt. Major Le-Grow, Sgt. Robinson and Lance Cpl. J. J. Ryan. With such an able committee there is little doubt that every preparation will be made for a successful night. A further meeting has been called for to-night at 8 o'clock in the G.W.V.A. Rooms so that tickets may be distributed and other arrangements completed. It is expected that every available man will make a whole-hearted effort to attend. The annual re-union of "Old Reliabilities" the boys who were first to shoulder the guns will be looked forward to as it has been each year of the past, with great pleasure. Such a re-union gives the comrades of the battlefield an opportunity to unite under the banner of peace to commemorate fraternally the days of 1914 and '15 when they marched shoulder to shoulder in foreign lands for the defense of the flag and the principles of freedom and justice which it has maintained. It will be a glorious opportunity to meet old pals when you go to Donovan's to-morrow night, and remember: It is the 4th of October the anniversary of the day they left the homeland to cross the great Atlantic. They will see many a familiar face, and will talk of many familiar places and incidents when they meet comrades they have not seen for some time. The Blue Puttees comprise but a small band to-day. The majority of them lie under the little white crosses on the hillside of far away Gallipoli and around those too familiar spots in France and Flanders where the fight was thickest. The boys who came back will never forget their absent comrades, and a re-union each year will awaken their memory to the incidents of the past and the dead will live in the hearts of those who came back. Make to-morrow night a night to be remembered. Let every man who was privileged to wear that immortal pair of blue puttees line up with the crowd and make things hum just once a year. It is the one celebration that no member of the "First Five Hundred" can afford to let pass without participating. So, join the crowd, to-morrow night boys! Forget your little troubles for a day. Go into Donovan's and meet your pals; you won't regret the few hours.

Raleigh Defeated.

REGIMENT WINS FOOTBALL GAME
 The Royal Newfoundland Regiment defeated H.M.S. Raleigh by 3 goals to 2 in an exciting football game played on St. George's Field, Saturday afternoon, before a large gathering of spectators. In spite of the strong breeze prevailing during the game, play was excellent and the spectators were treated to many thrills. The combination displayed by the Navy was a treat to see and playing with the wind behind them during the first half, the Regiment defence was kept busy. The first goal fell to the Army, Adams scoring after some nice combined play. The equalizer was scored shortly afterwards from a mix-up by L. Sto. Kean. The work of the Army's back division was the feature of the first half. The second half was keenly contested but with the wind against them the Navy was unable to withstand the onslaught of the Army forwards and despite the splendid goalkeeping of Private Jones of the Marines, Callahan twice found the net. Before full time, Midshipman Gabbett beat Hennebury for the Raleigh's second goal. Chief Petty Officer Daniels refereed to the satisfaction of all.

"At Home" on Raleigh.

Admiral Sir W. C. Pakenham, C. in C. of the North Atlantic and West Indies Station, held an "At Home" on his flagship, H.M.S. Raleigh, on Saturday afternoon. A large number of prominent people were present during the afternoon and were presented to Admiral Pakenham. Some delightful selections were rendered by the ship's string band. A dance was given at Government House on Saturday night in honor of Admiral Pakenham and his officers. Yesterday afternoon the ship was open for visitors, and a large number of citizens took advantage of this opportunity to see one of the latest additions to the British Navy. Amongst the guests at a dinner given by Admiral Pakenham last evening were His Excellency the Governor and suite, Hon. G. and Mrs. Shea, and Chief Justice Sir William and Lady Horwood. H.M.S. Raleigh leaves for Halifax to-day en route for Bermuda.

Prisoner Remanded.

A young mechanic of Bell Island appeared before Magistrate Power and Capt. Murphy, J.P., on Wednesday morning, when a preliminary enquiry into a charge of criminal assault against him was held. The accused was remanded for eight days, and bail was withheld. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., has been retained to act for the defendant.

Twenty Bottles a Week.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In Thursday's issue of your paper, appeared a letter from L. Curtis (presumably Dr. Curtis), enclosing copy of an address by Mr. Daugherty, Attorney General of the United States, on the subject of "Disrespect for Law."
Mr. Daugherty complains particularly of disrespect for the Prohibition Law. He lays down as an axiom that "respect for law is the one essential fact of our civilization." He goes on to say that "another subject that undermines respect for law, at the present time, is an erroneous idea of personal liberty under our constitutional system." This, he says, "has been asserted with especial vigor lately owing to the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

It would not be seeming for me to contradict so learned a lawyer as the Attorney General of the United States.

but I would point out to your readers that this gentleman is also a politician and one should not credit the sayings of politicians without careful consideration.
Let us first consider what law is intended for. Is it not to protect our liberties? Even Dr. Curtis will admit that he is not bound to obey a law which interferes unduly with his religious liberties. Possibly one could imagine that there are other liberties with which the law should not unduly interfere.
Then, again, the law should not be obsolete. Take the law relating to weighing bread. This law first appeared on our Statute Books in 1847 and is to be found in almost the same wording in our latest Weights and Measures Act of a few years ago. Loaves must be of one pound, two pounds or four pounds in weight. Old folk can remember when an extra slice or two was cut off one loaf and handed with a loaf of short weight to the customer. Later a "penny bun" was substituted for the slice. Now neither is considered necessary. By a series of daily weighings covering a fortnight and using a dozen loaves each day from each of two bakers, I found one baker's bread to average eleven ounces and the other's thirteen. The difference in price per pound, however, worked out about two cents on a hundred loaves. The common sense of the people has made this law of no effect, whereas our legislators have not yet had sense enough to drop the section from the law.
A law should be the expression of the will of the majority of the people. Mr. Daugherty admits this. Reason tells us that it must be a majority of the present electorate. If legislators will not change the laws of our grandfathers which do not suit present times, can the people be blamed if they refuse to be ruled by such legislation?
Let us take for instance the present Prohibition Law. Allowing, for argument's sake, that it was the wish of the people, both here and in the United States, when it was made, could not both ourselves and the Americans have changed our minds since then? We must remember that in times of great emotion people do things of which they repent in calmer moments. War times and peace times are quite different.
The Prohibition Law in Newfoundland is kept in force by the will of a minority. The Prohibitionists themselves have tacitly admitted this by their efforts to block an appeal to the electorate on the subject. They are afraid to trust the majority of voters.
Now, it is only a fair question to ask, why is not the law enforced? First, is it enforceable? Is there any limit in the law, to the number of ounces in a bottle, of bottles in a script, or of scripts to any one person? If there is a limit, why is it not enforced? It is easy enough to blame the authorities, but what about the Prohibitionists themselves? Anyone can sue, and one-third of the fines will be more than enough to pay all expenses. If I were an ardent Prohibitionist and believed that the law was being broken, I would take steps myself to have it enforced. Only this summer I saw the law being broken. (I do not refer now to the Prohibition Act). At some personal risk I interfered and helped to arrest the offender. Are the Prohibitionists without any spirit at all?
The real reason is that our Prohibitionist friends are afraid to attempt to enforce Prohibition, because they know it would raise such a storm that the legislators would be forced to take measures that would wipe the Act off the statute book.

In the United States (see Trade Review of September 24th), "every householder is empowered to make two hundred gallons of wine a year for the use of his own family, and to be consumed on his own premises, according to a ruling of the Government received by United States Internal Revenue Collector, Robert O. Eaton, at Hartford, Connecticut.
"There are no hampering restrictions as to alcoholic content of the wine that may be made, nor as to the sort of wine. The Government is said to have taken the point of view that no householder could 'sell' the alcoholic content of a given quantity of home brew, so the matter is left open. The 200 gallons of wine a family is not subject to tax, according to a statement issued by Collector Eaton.
"There is a stipulation that the maker of wine must file a formal notice of his intention before he starts his distillery. This provision, the collector said, is in accord with the regulations that have been received from Washington."
"This 'ruling' of the Government on a matter of law interpretation was, of course, made with the knowledge and consent of the Attorney General of the United States. We can understand, now, exactly what Mr. Daugherty meant when he said, 'My duty is clear; as long as I am the responsible head of the Department of Justice the law will be enforced with all the power possessed by the Government which I am at liberty to call to my command.'"
Well, if people are allowed twenty bottles a week, ranging from two to thirty per cent alcohol, Mr. Daugherty should not find it difficult to enforce the law against those who desire to traffic in alcohol. And yet, some people here consider me an awful character because I advocate two bottles of wine or one of spirits a week.
Mr. Daugherty must be ten times as bad as I am, yet Dr. Curtis evidently approves of his stand on the Prohibition question. There is hope for me yet.

Yours truly,
WARWICK SMITH.

GEORGE WILLIAM WHITTEN.
There passed away last evening, after a tedious illness, a well known figure in the fishing industry of the Dominion in the person of George William Whitten, at the age of 60 years. For some time past he had suffered from an internal complaint, but despite the best skill obtainable it undermined his strong constitution and the end came as above stated. Mr. Whitten carried on a fishing business at Witless Bay, and although suffering greatly he managed to attend to his calling the past summer, when he was compelled to move to the city. Besides a wife and one son, he leaves a brother (Teddy) and two sisters, to whom the Telegram extends condolence.

Parties who were at Briggs yesterday state that a middle-aged married man while attending morning service at the Anglican Church suddenly collapsed and expired without regaining consciousness. So far the Justice Department has not been advised of the sad happening and the name of the deceased man could not be obtained being forgotten by our informant.

OUR ATHLETES SAFE HOME.

"The Evening Telegram" Presents Trophy.

Donovan's by Phone—

Messrs. Ern Goodland, Fred Phelan, Harvey Skirving and Tom Butler detained from the express at Donovan's at 12.30 to-day where they were met by the National Sports Committee and the "heads" of the English League and Sporting Associations. They were entertained to luncheon at Donovan's, where a very pleasant hour was spent. The speeches and musical program were of a very high order. Chairman Ayre making an ideal toast master. The announcement was made that Mr. W. J. Herder, Proprietor of the Evening Telegram had very graciously donated a magnificent silver cup (to be known as the Telegram Road Trophy) for an annual 10 mile road race. The conditions are exactly the same as those laid down for the Halifax Herald modified Marathon Trophy, in which our Newfoundland champion—Jack Bell—is competing for on October 15th and which has now become the classic in the road events of Eastern Canada. This announcement was greeted by prolonged applause, and Mr. Herder's generosity and interest in athletics are much appreciated by the sporting fraternity.

The athletes will enter town at 7.30 to-night and it is hoped that a large assemblage of citizens will be at the Cross Roads to welcome them home.

ROUTE OF TONIGHT'S PROCESSION.

Leave Cross Roads at 7.30, down Water Street to Job's Street, along New Gower Street to City Hall, where Mayor Morris will receive the athletes. Parade will then proceed along Duckworth Street up Cochrans St. and to Majestic Theatre via Military and Queen's Roads and Henry Street. Following will be the order of the parade:

- C.I.B. Band. Citizens on foot. Athletics. C.C.C. Band. Motor Cars. M.G.B. Band.

Owners of residences along the line of march are asked to keep all lights burning in their honor. Motor car owners are asked to line up in the parade to do our athletes honor and their hearty co-operation will help greatly to make the demonstration one to be long remembered.

TOM BUTLER INJURED IN INDOOR SPORTS.

Seven hundred spectators were treated to thrilling finishes in the finals of the A. O. H. tournament at the Arena rink last night. Every event was hotly contested, especially the tug-of-war, which proved to be the feature with the spectators. Hansen, Wanderers' distance man, surprised the gathering by noosing out veteran Jimmie Martin in the three-mile race. Hansen ran a heady race throughout, allowing Martin to set the pace until the final quarter. The sprint to the tape brought the crowd to its feet, but Hansen was in good shape and won by a few yards. Young, a youthful local runner, made a fine showing for two and a half miles but dropped back in the final quarter. Erin Smith won the fifty yards after a close finish with Art Phillips, his club mate. Smith did not start in the 220 yards, which Tom Butler, of Newfoundland won by a yard over Phillips. Grant Holmes ran his usual heady race in the 440 yards and had a good lead on Butler. On the final turn, Butler's shoe fell off and one of his toes was badly cut on a piece of broken glass. Art Baker, Y.M.C.A. star, was running well in the 200 when one of his opponents shouldered him on the turn, which threw him off his stride. Baker looked good and would have given Butler a brush to the tape.

The track was very slow and the turns too sharp for good indoor running. Time in every event was fast, but the events with turns must be short of the distance, as the time in the 440 and 880 was close to the world's indoor record.

HARVEY SKIRVING GOT A SHOCK.

Edward—Halifax Sport followers were treated to something new at the Wanderers' grounds Saturday. When one of the contestants crossed the line a winner in a grueling race, a woman dashed across the track, threw her arms around the athlete's neck and caressed him with a loving smile, while 3,500 spectators enjoyed the demonstration.—Hx. ENTRIES POURING IN FOR HERALD MARATHON.

New Glasgow runner is first to enter for Big Event—MacAulay Will Start.

Entries are beginning to pour in for the Herald and Mail Modified Marathon, which will be run off Saturday morning, October 15. No entry will be accepted after October 10th and the runners are losing little time in making early application. In the list already received, are many newcomers who write that they are ready to take chances with the best in the province.

The first runner to enter for the big race was Thomas B. Smith, New Glasgow, A.A. who will carry number 1 on the morning of the fifteenth. Smith has quite a reputation as a marathoner around Pictou County. James Zwicker, the game little R.C.A.S.C. runner will be in the race again this season and expects to be well up with the prize winners. He has been training hard for the race all summer and should be in perfect condition.

Percy Hoeg, who won a medal in his first start in the big race three years ago, will be back again for honors. Last year he ran under the colors of the New Glasgow A.A. but this year he will run for a local club. He has been on the road for several weeks and is already in his best form.

The announcement that Victor MacAulay, record holder of the 10 miles for the Maritime Provinces, would be a starter, caused the wise ones to move slowly with their best. MacAulay was entered last fall, but was unable to make the trip from Boston. However, he is now in Windsor, to prepare for the big race and will be out to shatter his record. Many predict that the race for first place will be between MacAulay, Rogers, Powell, Bell and Goolley, but the usual dark horse is apt to come along and win. It will be remembered that MacAulay was not considered in the betting the year he won, as he finished way back the previous season. Rogers has two wins on the trophy, and MacAulay one, and a win for the former will give him permanent possession of the silverware. The local champion expects to condition himself in the next two weeks. Billy Goolley, whose showing in last year's race was the feature of the day, will this fall be in good condition. He was hardly fit for last year's event, but he ran second, Rogers having a hundred yards lead on him at the finish.

Nova Scotia marathoners made a grand rush to have entries filed for The Herald and Mail marathon yesterday, and the list increased greatly. October 15 is the last date on which entries will be accepted, and positively no post entries will be taken. Jimmy Martin, veteran of veterans, was among those entering yesterday. Jimmy says that he expects this year's race to be one of the greatest ever held over the course. He likes the way Bell runs and says that MacAulay will have to travel the roads mightily fast if he beats the Newfoundland star.

No man in Halifax knows the marathon game better than Jimmie Martin, as the Dartmouth star has completed in every worth while local race held during the past 18 years. He has never failed to finish outside of the prize winners, his best performance being two seconds.

Arthur Hansen, Wanderers, who gave such a grand exhibition in the three mile run at the Arena, Tuesday, is also entered. Hansen is one of the best looking prospects that has entered the race for several years. He is well built, has a pretty swinging stride, with no unnecessary exertion of the arms and body. In Hansen, the Wanderers pin their faith.

Bud Crowell, who ran last year under the colors of the Yarmouth club, entered late last night. Crowell sends word that he is in fine condition and will give the best in the province a merry old time showing him their heels on the morning of October 15.

A Timely Word.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—Without a reason for its adoption, without a precedent to justify it, without a glimmer of fair play to men who cater in their work to the masses, the Postal Telegraph staff were divided in two by a Minute of Council, the one and the lesser, being favored, by no retrenchment in their salaries, the other, the people's workmen, given a twenty-five per cent cut in their already small pay, though they are the much older servants of the Crown. What has that departure from British fair play to department it? Where is the consistency? Surely, 'twas done without forethought, without deliberation. The postal portion of the staff are the men who the public want efficiency from, every man, woman and child in the community, is concerned in the business of the Post Office. Close down the Telegraph portion of the Postal Telegraph staff tomorrow, to-day, now, who will kick?

A few of one class of men perhaps, but after a kick or two they are reconciled to its loss, and return again to the old angle, who always did, and could again fill the bill. Close up the Post Office, what would happen? Need it be written? No! because the thing is too impossible. And why those men, whose avocations tend to interest, and whose efficiency and honesty are the hope and safety of the masses of this land, are slated to my knowledge of being the lowest paid servants of the Crown, for the past half century, surpasses the best understanding of all fair-minded men, this in fact, though suspended through time, and the public at large behind me, will thank me for its publicity. And now in the face of a long continuing grievance which should not have been permitted to exist, a grievance which the public of St. John's would help them to surmount at any moment, they are dealt uncharitably with, as a part of a staff which in no form or standing has had any severance.

- 1.—T. H. Smith, New Glasgow. 2.—James Zwicker, R.C.A.S.C. 3.—P. Hoeg, Halifax. 4.—Ronald Gilliat, Windsor. 5.—Victor MacAulay, Windsor. 6.—John Bell, Nfld. A.A. 7.—Walter Clements, 9th Siege Battery. 8.—George Grinter, 9th Siege Battery. 9.—Bud Crowell, Yarmouth. 10.—James Martin, Dartmouth A.A. 11.—C. Dunbrack, D.B.C.A. 12.—E. H. Rowe, R.C.A.S.C. 13.—Arthur Hansen, Wanderers. 14.—C. T. Short, Truro.—Next!

Although Windsor's hope in the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail Modified Marathon Run, October 15, lies in Victor MacAulay, they will also have another runner in the event, of which much is expected. Ronald Gilliat, is the name of the newcomer and according to MacAulay, young Gilliat will be well up with the leaders. Gilliat has confined his running to five miles and under, but after a week of hard training he should get down to condition for the longer grind. The entries of MacAulay and Gilliat were received yesterday. John Bell, Newfoundland's hope, will carry number 6 in the big event, his entry having come in late yesterday. Bell is now at Truro on a farm where he goes through a daily training process that should place him in fine condition. His manager A. H. Thomas, is a wise handler, and is following training ideas best suited for the Old Colony star.

The wise runners are entering as early as possible as they realize that the men carrying the low number will get in the front line and have the advantage at the start on their opponents in case the line is crowded with autos, teams, etc. Several requests have been made for number 13, the generally called "Hoodoo" number. Some of the athletes who claim that they are not superstitious, say that they would be pleased to carry the number.

Young runners are entering in large numbers and it is expected that there will be many more runners in this year's events than the 1920 run. In various parts of the city, the young runners are organizing and will enter teams to go after the five prizes offered to the club making the best score in the race.

The start of the big race, will as was announced before, be from the Y.M.C.A. building Barrington Street, and finish with two laps on the Wanderers' grounds.

Special cars will be taken this year to have the course leading through Dutch Village cleared of vehicles. Last year, the runners were bothered by autos and teams crowding the road and it was with difficulty that the leaders were able to get through. Special mounted policemen will patrol the course and order open roads for the marathoners.

V. MACAULAY ARRIVES FOR MARATHON.

Windsor Champion is Out to Break Record For Herald Course—Entries Coming In.

Victor MacAulay, former Windsor long distance runner who holds the record for the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail Modified Marathon course, arrived in Halifax Saturday and will proceed to Windsor to prepare for the big race. MacAulay has not run in Nova Scotia for several years. He went to Boston in 1915 where he made a name for himself in the running game. Two weeks ago he won a ten mile race in fast time. MacAulay was at Saturday's sports and although he did not make predictions, he intimated that he had come to Halifax to make a new record for the Herald course. He appears to be in fine shape and will do his training at Windsor. The train from Boston to Halifax upset MacAulay, or else he would have competed in Saturday's five mile event.

Entries are pouring in for the big race, and indications are that there will be a record number of starters this year. Instead of eight laps on the Wanderers' grounds, the runners will be compelled to go only two turns, but will make the course mapped out, an even ten miles.

Dined by Team Mates.

A dinner was given at Brennock's on Saturday evening by the B.L.S. football team in honour of Mr. Charles Fox, their well known half back, who returns to McGill tomorrow to continue his studies in medicine. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., presided over the affair, which was attended by over twenty people. Several eloquent speeches were made and an impromptu concert was held, the evening being thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Formal Opening Oct. 12.

The K. of C. Memorial School Building, Cathedral Square will be formally opened on October 12th, Columbus Day. The building which adjoins the Mercy Convent, has been occupied by the pupils since the holidays. The work of joining up the Convent with the new school is progressing and it is hoped that the whole will be completed for the formal opening ceremony.

with satisfaction to the business men of this city, every Telegraph Operator on your staff in twenty-four hours, but I, nor no man living could in as many days replace the various officials of the different departments of the Post Office, with either safety or satisfaction to the merchants, the banks or the general public of this community.

I am not an alarmist but I feel, and the whole country feels that, an efficient and an encouraged Postal staff would mean to the people who pay them more than double the insignificant few dollars stashed from them, the sum taken from them meant their coats the coming winter, their house rent for some it meant their grocery bill in toto—for all it meant a direfulness of that whole souled heartiness in their work, and a big lack of earnestness and attention, and application to duty, which heretofore was certainly noticeable and satisfactory.

Reconsider, gentlemen, your hasty decision, 'twill be big money saved to the revenue.

Yours truly, IMPORTER.

Negotiations at a Standstill.

The negotiations, which for some time past had been proceeding between the Reid Newfoundland Co. and the Locomotive Engineers, Ironmen and railroad trainmen, with regard to the 20 per cent. reduction of wages, are now practically at a standstill. Various interviews between the Reid representatives and a deputation of the men have been held, but little progress towards a settlement has been made. Several proposals were discussed, and it is understood the Company were satisfied to meet the men under special conditions, but this was not agreeable to the employees.

Yesterday's Fire.

Early yesterday morning a fire broke out in the house of Mr. LeGrow, Spencer Street, which necessitated sending in an alarm to which the Central and Eastern Fire Companies responded. The fire was located in a bedroom and a few streams of water served to extinguish it before any great amount of damage was done. A light-colored carpet, dropped on the bedclothes by the occupant of the room, caused the fire.

Tanlac Accomplishes Remarkable Results In Geo. H. Nickels Case

Prominent Wisconsin Man Says Tanlac Promptly Relieved Him of Bad Case of Stomach Trouble of Six Months' Standing—Gains 27 Pounds and Feels Fine As A Fiddle.

It is an unquestionable fact that Tanlac is now being more widely endorsed by well known men and women than any other medicine on the American market. One of the latest to testify is George H. Nickels, well known lecturer, residing at 227 Wells St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"Tanlac has not only completely restored my health, but I have actually gained 27 pounds in weight," said Mr. Nickels in referring to the remarkable benefits he had derived from the medicine.

"For something over six months, my stomach was very badly disordered and I suffered terribly from indigestion and dyspepsia. At times I would be in great distress and I would invariably experience an uncomfortable bloated feeling for hours after eating. I had no appetite scarcely and the little I ate would often make me deathly sick. My head ached until I felt like it would burst and I was so nervous I trembled like a leaf. When I got up in the mornings, I was so weak and dizzy, I couldn't trust myself to walk around and I just hurt all over.

"Tanlac has brought about a wonderful change in my condition for I am now enjoying the very best of health. My appetite is splendid, I relish my meals. Everything agrees with me perfectly. The nervousness, headaches and dizzy spells are all gone and I never have an ache or pain. I am only too glad to tell others about the wonderful good Tanlac has done. There's no equal."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE HABIT OF BLAME.

Everything bothersome that happened to him was my fault."

Many of us have met that man's brother—or at least his first cousin.

Why His Wife is to Blame.

And a witty essayist of the present day speaks of the man whose wife is to blame for the inconvenience when the water was turned off by the water department "because her aunt was a Presbyterian."

Of course it is possible to cultivate a state of mind from which such blame rolls off like the shaft of lightning.

If nothing else can be done that is the wise way to treat it.

But what an insult it is to a man's sense of fairness and his intelligence to have to do this. I cannot see how a wife can really respect her husband when she has to make up her mind to this kind of injustice.

Nor how a man can respect himself when he is guilty of it.

Of course people are often guilty of acting in ways which do inconvenience other members of the family and which the others have a right to protest against.

Mistakes Or Accidents Will Happen.

But there is all the difference in the world between such a protest and the habit of careless blame, and fault-finding for things which are only mistakes or accidents or just misfortunes.

Men have this habit toward women because women are weaker and women often have it toward children because children are weaker.

The woman who resents this habit in her husband should be mighty sure that she does not blame her children unjustly for accidents or mistakes.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codliver Oil.—The total output of Codliver Oil for medicinal and kindred uses this season will not be more than 60,000 gallons. Last year it was about 300,000 gallons, and in 1919 400,000 gallons. There were 502 licenses to make refined oil issued to manufacturers last spring, and the prospective price was so low when the Norwegian fishery returns came in, that only 60 used their licenses and only this number of factories were operating. The small quantity of refined oil put up this year must certainly have an effect of an increase in price next winter. The Norwegian oil, which sold at such a cheap rate, is nearly all absorbed, and dealers will have to look to Newfoundland for a supply. If the quantity is small the quality is excellent. The importers of oil say that they have never seen such good oil produced in the factories North, South and West. All have adopted new methods and have readily adopted the suggestions of the Exporters. The latest information from the United States markets is to the effect that the demand for oil has improved somewhat, and we look forward to seeing such a price offered next spring as will induce more manufacturers to engage in the business. It is now generally recognized that the Newfoundland Codliver Oil is the best in the world, and it only needs to have the work of sending out none but the best oil, kept up and the campaign of improvement carried on. The Exporters should be given every possible encouragement and facility to carry out their work.

Cod Oil.—This oil runs firmer in the industry, which affords the principal outlet for training, has improved. All holders of Common Cod Oil are therefore firm in their ideas of value as the recent selling prices here were far too low. We hear of sales at $85.00 per ton, and the best tanked oil free from dregs is held at $150.00 per ton.

Lobsters.—The number of cases exported this week was 731, to Liverpool and New York. The total export for St. John's is 4,200 cases to date. The demand has improved a little and the local price is now about $20.00 per case.

Pork.—The receipts of hogs in Chicago has been the highest in recent years. Notwithstanding such small shipments, the price has gone down about $5.00 per hog during the past week. The average price for hogs there this week was $7.90 per 100 lbs., as compared with $15.25 this time last year. The local quotations are, $31.50 per barrel for Mess and Short Cut; $36.50 Fat Back; $37.50 Ham Butt, and $27.00 Spare Ribs. The imports this week were 525 barrels.

Beef.—The receipts of cattle at the United States packing centres this week were more than ample of requirements, and said receipts were below the record of the previous four weeks, also well under the figures of the corresponding week last year. Prices of live cattle are abnormally low and good steers are selling at $6.75 per 100 lbs., compared with $15.75 same date last year. Local quotations for barreled beef range from $20.00 to $28.50 a barrel wholesale, according to quality.

Molasses.—The "Agnes P. Duff" arrived from Barbados this week with a cargo of molasses. The captain reports that there is no more available there this season. The total arriving here since April last is about 6,500 puncheons, which shows a shortage of about 4,000 as compared with an average year. Fancy is 55 cents a gallon wholesale in puncheons, 55 cents in casks, and 90 cents in barrels. Choice is 50 cents in puncheons, 38 cents in casks, and 55 cents in barrels.

Sugar.—The market is quiet at the recent decline. Present price of molasses being so high is directing the public attention more and more to sugar, which even at the high duty is at present reasonably low. There is nothing in the outlook to warrant any expectation of higher sugar prices for some time. This is a pleasing reaction from the condition of the market a year ago, when sugar reached the highest point in history. American White Granulated is now $11.30 wholesale, single barrels $12.00.

Potatoes.—Home-grown are now quite plentiful in the market, selling at $3.50 to $4.00 per barrel, $2.00 for half barrels, and $1.30 for quarter. The quality generally is good. The digging season will begin next week, as it is realized that the potatoes cannot improve in the ground since the recent frost withered the stalks. The price will likely decline about $1.00 more once harvesting begins as P.E.I. potatoes will be coming in plentiful before winter and will sell at about $3.50 per barrel.

Apples.—Gravensteins declined 15¢ to 16¢ cents per barrel this week, and are now selling freely at $5.50 to $6.50 according to grade. The retail price has dropped to fifteen cents per dozen for Domestic and eighteen cents for No. 1's. The imports are very heavy on each steamer from Halifax and Sydney, and the consumption increases according as the price declines. Gravensteins will hold the market for another month or so.

Corn.—The Government report on growing Corn is very bearish, suggesting the largest crop on record for the United States. It is generally expected that the December report (after the Corn has been harvested) will show a big reduction on the recent report. The export demand for stocks on hand has been on an immense scale for Europe. This is likely to continue as the feed stocks there were greatly depleted by the severe drought during the summer.

Hay.—There is no change in the Hay situation this week. The prices Eastern Canada hay dealers are asking just now are higher than they are in Quebec. St. John's importers believe that the price of hay will advance gradually, and that by December the local quotation will be up to $60.00 per ton. There is not much doing now in the way of laying stocks, but when the weather gets colder there will be more activity. The quotations here are still $53.00 to $54.00 per ton wholesale lots.

Wool.—There is no change in the market. The quotations are now down below pre-war prices and the lowest for fifteen years. The farmers are deploring the fact that they are obliged to sell at such prices, which are below the cost of production. Importers are still holding off expecting further reductions, but it looks to us as if the market had now reached its lowest point for this season, and that it would be wise to have winter stocks come forward while freight space is so freely available on a direct water route.

Mixed Oats are $25.50, White $4.10, wholesale.

The Eyes Have It.

EYE STRAIN DULLS THE BRIGHTEST CHILD.

It is far more than an inconvenience or discomfort—and you wouldn't knowingly subject your child to these—it is the all too common cause of sickness of body and slowness of mind.

"Watery" eyes, red-edged lids, pus deposits, particularly on rising, these are but outward signs and not always existent. Nervousness, indigestion, facial twitching, general irritability and inability to concentrate, these are other danger signals which, if neglected, often lead to permanent ill health and stunted intellect.

Happily, many visual defects of childhood yield readily to skilled treatment if applied in time. Now that school time is here, when the eyes will be in constant requisition, you should be doubly sure that your child is fitted for the "daily" tasks. The school, the classroom, the books, etc., are all cared for, of course—but most important of all—remember the eyes.

Special attention given to children every Saturday morning.

GRANDFATHER'S MUSTACHE.
Fashions pass like a flash.
We don't see any more
The surprising mustache
Which my Grandfather wore.

It was bushy and long
And drooped over his lip,
And was wiry and strong
For a youngster to grip.

When drinking his tea
It made a queer noise,
Like the buzz of a bee
Which delighted us boys.

It had long curly ends
Which would often protrude,
And, when talking with friends,
These my Grandfather chided.

It was frazzled and frayed,
But in days long ago
With it often we played,
For it tickled us so.

When I've piled up my cash
And need work no more,
I may grow a mustache
Like my Grandfather wore.

The October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada will be perused with great pleasure by all those to whom the great outdoors is calling. "Nova Scotia Fishing As It Is" appears in this splendid number written in a fascinating, original way by Percy E. Nobbs. H. Mortimer Batten's story entitled "Banks, The Terrible," is of a compelling nature and will prove of intense interest to both young and old. "The Industrious One" by F. V. Williams will doubtless attract the interest of every reader. This together with stories and articles by the usual clever nature writers, Robert Page Lincoln, A. Bryan Williams, J. W. Wilson, all the instructive columns of the various departments, add greatly to the value of the magazine, and in their own mysterious way impart to it the spirit of autumn. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock.

Society of United Fishermen.

ARTICLE III.
St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 22.—(Special Correspondence North Sydney Herald).—Though nearly half a century in existence, the Society of United Fishermen has not grown so rapidly as its members would have liked. The cause of this has been its insularity, for men did not have any ambition to associate themselves with an order whose ramifications did not extend beyond the bounds of the country in which it had its origin. They preferred naturally to become connected with a Society that was more general, and spread its influence farther than did the S.U.F. And so it is that the number of lodges in Newfoundland have but reached the fifty mark in active existence, although the consecutive numbers of once chartered lodges are in advance of the half hundred. Many lodges were early instituted only to die because of the unwillingness of the old Grand Lodge to consent to the establishment of the order outside Newfoundland.

It thus happened that when members emigrated to Canada, they lost touch with their home Lodge, and by degrees dropped out of live connection with their brethren, affiliating themselves with fraternal associations of wider scope in the geographical sense.

To-day all this is changed, and a new era in Fishermen craft has been—or is about to be— ushered in. The institution of a lodge at Sydney will have the effect of bringing all the scattered members together and re-uniting them once again, under the Triangle and Maltese Cross banner of their old order. Thus fraternal intercourse will be made possible and when brethren from this side cross to Sydney, they will find the right hand of fellowship extended them in warm and brotherly greeting.

There are many members of the Fishermen's Order at North Sydney, who perhaps may be wishful of emulating the example of the Sydney brethren in opening a lodge. Should they desire to do so the time will be opportune for the members of the Grand Lodge delegation, who expect to arrive in North Sydney by the S.S. Kyle on Tuesday, October 4th, unless unforeseen circumstances prevent, and if not then as soon thereafter as conditions will permit. The officers comprising the delegation are:—R. W. Grand Master, Bro. J. Curnew; Deputy Grand Master, Bro. C. T. James; Grand Chief Officer, Bro. James Riddell; Grand Secretary, Bro. A. E. Withycombe.

If convenient the institution of "Maple Leaf" Lodge will take place on the evening of the Grand Lodge arrival at Sydney, in order to enable the newly installed officers to work all degrees under the supervision and instruction of the Grand Master, who will then declare the Lodge constituted in due form and in accordance with the laws and regulations of the Order of United Fishermen of Newfoundland and of the Supreme Grand Lodge.

The Humber Project.

The visit of President H. D. Reid and party, who passed through here last week, to England, is not in connection with railway matters, but in connection with the promotion of the Newfoundland Products Company. From correspondence received by Mr. Reid recently from interested persons in the old country, it would seem that the launching of the Humber project will be the biggest thing of its kind in the history of the country. It is practically assured, and there is only need of the presence of President Reid in England to finalize matters. Mr. Powell has for some time been giving all the necessary data which may be required. Mr. Reid has expressed the opinion that on his return the Humber project will in all probability be launched.—North Sydney Herald.

The First Reign of Terror Sulla -- The Roman Prototype of Robespierre.

(By H. GREENHOUGH SMITH, IN John o' London's Weekly.)

The French Revolution, with its eternal interest, has lately, owing to the Centenary of Napoleon, drawn the eyes of men once more to its stupendous drama. About no one seems to have recalled its prototype, the Roman Reign of Terror, nor to have compared their respective leaders with one another. Plutarch traced a parallel between Sulla and Lyander. A comparison of Robespierre with Sulla would be more striking still.

A Striking Figure.
In appearance, the two men were opposites. Robespierre we know well enough—that acidulated mawworm with the visage of sea-green. And of Sulla we can form as clear a picture—born but hard up, with his eagle face, red-and-white complexion, his steel-blue eyes, and fiery mane, who, like Napoleon, fought his way from victory to victory, until he made himself, in everything but name the king of Rome. It is strange that, with all his wild adventures, no writer of romance has set him in the lime-light—for, if not the greatest, he was assuredly one of the most striking figures of which the world holds record.

Never Lost a Battle.
His character was strangely mixed. A trifter, yet a scholar, a virtuoso, fond of manuscripts and statues, fond of still of wine and women, a soldier of such genius that he never lost a battle—as one sees him flitting in the palace of ladies, roasting drinkingsongs among his soldiers, hobnobbing with buffoons and actors, even writing farces of his own, he seems a fantastic kind of mixture of Napoleon, Horace Walpole, and Don Juan. Like Napoleon, he was a firm believer in his star. The Goddess of Love was his protector. He carried about him, as a mascot, a golden image of Opolio. He was himself "half-lion and half-fox," and even as the fox than as the lion." His victories, his adventures, were too wild for fiction. He left the fierce Jugurtha to his camp in chains—he quelled the fierce pride of Mithridates—he beat the mighty Marius out of Rome—he made himself the master of the city.

And then began his Reign of Terror. He had no guillotine—but his method was as deadly. For the first time in history, a daily list of victims was posted up in public. Any man who murdered one of the proscribed received a pocketful of gold. A slave who thrust a dagger into the body of his master—a discarded mistress who dropped a pinch of poison into her betrayer's wine—obtained, not revenge alone, but fortune. No wonder that the Dictator's enemies vanished like the snows in springtime. No wonder that the kennels of the streets ran red with blood. And then, at last, having settled law, and order to his liking, having raised the city from a den of anarchists and rebels to a supremacy of glory without rival, he walked one day into the market-place and there among his enemies, without a single guard, told the people that he had done enough for one man and that he was going home. There was something in the act so strange and splendid that the very men who, while he was away in Asia, had burned his mansion to the ground and cast his family adrift, now cheered him to the echo.

A Man of Gallantry.
Home he went—to his Cuman villa—there to pass the days among his books and pictures, choice wines and lovely women, to angle in his lake, to write his memoirs under the shadow of his cherry trees. A year afterwards he broke a blood-vessel, and died.

Robespierre and Sulla are alike among the world's great murderers. Each was a Prince of Darkness whom all the whitewash in the universe will not avail to wash. Yet even here there is a difference. The fate of women under the French Terror—the mothers shot with babies at their breasts—the tumblers moving to the guillotine, pecked with beaks of young girls, looking like bunches of white lilies—the selling of their hair for periwigs—the tanning of their skins for breeches—such things would have turned the Roman sick. The aristocrat, the man of gallantry, would have regarded Robespierre with loathing, not as a criminal, but as a cad.

A Great Funeral.
Even after death their fates were different. When the knife fell upon the neck of Robespierre, there rang from every heart in France a cry of exultation. When Sulla died, his body, robed in a king's apparel and heaped with golden chaplets, his soldiers, whom he had never led except to victory, bearing his war-worn battle-flags before him, followed by white throngs of priests and youths in golden armour, and then by tens of thousands of the people, was carried through the city to the funeral pile; his urn was set, as by an equal right, among the monuments of ancient kings; and, what he would have valued more, as if each had lost a lover, the women went in mourning for a year.
