Excursionists Killed When Boiler Explodes on U.S. Vessel.

Miners' Federation Accept Terms of Baldwin's Coal Truce.—Belgium to be Excused Interest on War Debt to U.S.A. Gertrude Ederle Fails to Swim the Channel.

CAUSE OF DISASTER.

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Aug. 19.—The bursting of a large pipe in the boiler of the steamer Mackinac was the cause of the disaster yesterday which killed 32 excursionists and wounded scores of others, the owners, admitted today.

EXCURSIONISTS MEET DISASTER.

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 19.—Twenty-nine persons were scalded to death two were mangled and 57 were seriously burned by escaping steam when the boiler in the engine room of the excursion steamer Mackinac exploded at 5:55 yesterday afternoon. The boat was passing Newport Naval Training Station, in Narragansett Bay bound from Newport to Pawtucket with 67 excursionists. Physicians at the naval hospital stated they expected the death list to mount to at least 45 within the next few hours. It will be days, they say, before the more seriously injured are out of danger. The majority of the dead and injured were trapped on the first and second decks when the boiler exploded. The accident occurred within a hundred yards of the shore, where the casualties would have been trebled, passengers stated.

STILL UNDECIDED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—Premier MacKenzie King, following another long session of the Cabinet Council to-day extending to nearly four and one half hours, declared he had no statement to make on the question of a possible general election.

MACMILLAN MEETS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Confronted with exceptionally cold weather, snow and fog, the MacMillan Arctic expedition to-night faced the probability of abandoning for this year its primary object of attempting to discover land in the unknown Polar Sea between Alaska and the North Pole. In the face of a steadily mounting pile of radio reports from the expedition telling of increasing apprehension over the weather and the short time available for effective reconnaissance under great difficulties, the entire situation was canvassed at a Navy Department conference to-day.

TERMS OF TRUCE.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—A conference of delegates of the Miners' Federation to-day decided to accept the terms of truce in the coal industry. The conference instructed the Executive of the Federation to take the necessary steps to present the miners' case before the proposed Government commission of inquiry.

BELGIAN DEBT TERMS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—An interest charge on money actually loaned Belgium during the war by Germany will be foregone by the United States under the terms of an agreement for the funding of the Belgian war debt to the United States reached to-day between the United States Debt Commission and the Belgian representatives. The United States Commissioners, with the approval of President Coolidge, agreed to allow Belgium to pay back to the United States $171,000,000 loaned during the war, over a period of 62 years without interest. The balance of the debt, approximately $246,000,000, which was loaned after the Armistice, will also be paid back over a sixty-two year period with some remission of interest charges. An interest rate of three and a half per cent after the first ten years was agreed upon for this part of the debt.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—Premier MacKenzie King, following another long session of the Cabinet Council to-day extending to nearly four and one half hours, declared he had no statement to make on the question of a possible general election.

LIUT. GOVERNOR OF QUEBEC TO VISIT NEWFOUNDLAND.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—Hon. Narcisse Pérodeau, Lieut. Governor of Quebec will leave Quebec tomorrow on the steamer Nawarit for Newfoundland, accompanied by his daughter.

SISTER DESALES PASSES AWAY.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 18.—Sister Frances Desales (Dwyer), aged 81 years, for 45 years Minister General of Mount St. Vincent Girls' School, at Rockingham, near here, died to-day. Sister Desales had been at the Convent of Mount St. Vincent for 53 years. She came originally from Newfoundland and after concluding a convent education, travelled extensively in Europe.

DEATH LIST AT 82.

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 19.—The death of three more victims of the Mackinac boiler explosion brought the total list of dead to 32 at noon today, with several additional deaths expected momentarily.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES' STRIKE SETTLED.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19.—The strike of postal employees which began here Sunday has been settled.

FAILED TO SWIM CHANNEL.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 18.—Gertrude Ederle was compelled to abandon her attempt to swim the English Channel this afternoon. When two-thirds of the way across the Channel she was forced to quit because of nausea and weakness brought on by swallowing salt water.

GALA PERFORMANCE IN HONOR OF PRINCE.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 19.—(C.P.)—The gala performance at the Theatre Colon last night in honor of the Prince of Wales was a most brilliant function. The theatre itself is a magnificent building, rising in six tiers, handsomely decorated in red and gold, and adding thereto was the presence of His Royal Highness and a well dressed and animated crowd which filled every seat and box and stood three and four deep in the aisles. President and Madame Alvear were greeted with prolonged applause which was renewed when the Prince appeared in the Royal box. Members of the Granderos, Argentina's crack regiment, lined each side of the staircase. It is said that fifty pounds sterling was offered recently for seats for the performance.

FIVE TO HANG.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 19.—(C.P.)—The hangman, will have a busy time the next two weeks with five murderers to be executed at various prisons in the north of England. The five have appealed in vain to the Court of criminal appeals in London, against their conviction and sentence.

FRENCH DEPT COMMISSION TO LEAVE IN SEPTEMBER.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 19.—Secretary Mellon was notified today that the French Debt Commission would leave about September 15th for the United States.

ORDERED OUT OF MONGOLIA.

URGA, Mongolia, Aug. 19.—The Mongolian Government has ordered the third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, to cease its exploration and scientific work and to leave Mongolian territory, alleging Mr. Andrews has violated the terms of his agreement with Mongolian scientific organizations.

FRENCH PREPARING FOR OFFENSIVE.

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 19.—A French Army Corps is clearing out the troublesome Toul Area, north of Taza, and Aviation forces are hurrying to the northward the retreating hostile tribesmen who once threatened Taza. This, however, is a local operation although on a big scale, to swing the various parts of the army of a hundred battalions, into place, to consolidate the front and make ready for the offensive for which the French troops are straining at the least. The date of the offensive depends on Marshal Petain, who will send the men forward when he judges the time is ripe.

REPORT OF PEACE DENIED.

BEIRUT, Aug. 18.—The French authorities here deny the report in the British press that peace has been arranged with the rebel tribesmen.

TWO AIRMEN KILLED.

POLA, Italy, Aug. 18.—Lieut. Vittorio Costantini and Pilot Di Giovanni, were killed to-day when their plane got out of control in a high wind and fell two hundred metres.

Sunlight is Everywhere

Sunlight Soap is now within the reach of one and all, and is undoubtedly the best value in laundry soap. For washing all kinds and qualities of clothes, from the poorest to the finest, Sunlight Soap is the most economical. It's constant use will lengthen the life of your clothes, preserve the colours and the original softness of texture, and ensure that at all times your clothes will look their best.—aug.18.41

Catfish Lives 50 Years

How long does a fish live? Not out of water. Any boy can tell that from observation. But with proper food—everything it needs? Major F. S. Fowler, of England, who has been conducting a special study to find out, reports that a catfish with which he is acquainted is now 50 years old and is still lively. An electric eel in the London Zoo, he

Miss Vidor as "Girl of Gold"

"SCREEN'S LOVELIEST WOMAN" STARRING IN PICTORIZATION OF SUCCESSFUL NOVEL.

"The Girl of Gold," the successful novel by Cleveland Moffatt and Anna Chapin which has been filmed by Regal Pictures with Florence Vidor in the starring role, comes to the Nickel Theatre for a three day's run to-day. This spectacular story of a rich girl's search for real love and happiness is particularly well suited for screen treatment and Florence Vidor has a role which gives her a splendid opportunity to display her artistry. Chief among the many thrilling scenes is a society dance staged on the sixteenth level of a gold mine and a great explosion while the hilarity is at its height. It is said that nothing like this episode has ever before been filmed. Malcolm McGregor who was recently seen in "The House of Youth" opposite Jacqueline Logan and in "Idle Tongues" and "The Bedroom Window," has the leading male role. The supporting cast includes Alan Roscoe, Rosina Epton, Clair DuBrey and Charles French. John Ince directed and Kate Corbaley and Eva Unsett adapted the story for the screen.

The Balance of Things

By A. W. THOMPSON.

"You are only half of yourself. The other half is what you make of yourself, your personal significance in things, the ego reflected as your contribution towards the general hurly-burly."

"You balance an ounce of personality by an ounce of something accomplishable, an obligation to humanity by a cash receipt, a step backward by two forward, to-day, to-morrow, and the day after."

"The problem of making and re-making, shaping and reshaping, that which you call you destiny, is the most delightful occupation between your first and seventeenth birthdays. You are forever loading or unloading the scales. And the hard-worked pen is more balanced than you get out to rebalance, in improvement, as you hope."

"You cannot have both the penny and the toffee. Being human, you will not give something for nothing, and wild horses will not prevent you from taking the toffee. But, if you grasp both pans, you commit a sin against society, and are clapped into prison."

"On the other hand, if you decline to do any balancing because you want to stick to your penny, you are doing no more trade, or whatever may be your activity. If everyone stops dead in this fashion the world stops going, like a clock that has run down."

"What you must do is to balance and rebalance the scales a hundred times per day, to suit a hundred exigencies, and again at night to suit the fellows who have tilted against you. This means that you keep faith with both nature and humanity."

"You will perceive that this bag of pennies, toffee, morality, and jingling scales comprise the stuff of which life is compounded. As things naturally cannot stand still, but must ever go forwards or backwards, you really cannot cease dabbling with these scales. In three score and ten years you will have millions of balances to adjust and readjust."

"But on one point you must be inflexible, to make sure the balance is dead true after each weighing, and before you start the next. When folk do not or will not attend to this point they are commonly described as having bees in the bonnet, or even more unavoury epithets are applied."

"That the point is often forgotten is deplorable, but this is an imperfect world. In point of fact, quite a number of sound people at times find difficulty in getting the old scales to work properly."

"If you cannot acquire the knack of balancing things you are drifting towards becoming a public nuisance, or else towards the workhouse. The world is a confused medley of tits for tats, eyes for eyes, teeth for teeth, measure for measure, and pay and take (the parable of the penny and the toffee)."

"Nothing stands without a prop. Everything has its value or counterpoise. You would think that the scales must be somewhat the worse for wear. Every moment of your life you must face the music, the other pan of the balance. There is no escape; it will get at you to restore the poise sooner or later, and somehow or other. The old scales garishly expose the trickiness of life. Truly the world is like an algebraical equation. Turn it how you will, side to side, top to bottom, it must come to some balance."

"If you sit down with a bundle of foolscap and attempt to make out a list of the paradoxes and tit-for-tats that make up so much that is problematical in your own life, you are almost certain to conclude that the gods have ill-favoured you. With the fatality of mankind you will probably blame everyone but yourself for the way things have panned out."

"You will frequently adopt the grapes to cover yourself. Yet you will perceive one great and unexpected blessing in the background. You will see that no man ever had a defect that was not somehow useful to him. As each unites you for one purpose, so, in proportion, and by the use of those ancient scales, are you weighed out for another. The situation here has something of noblesse oblige, for your very infirmity imposes its obligations, its own balance."

"Humanity is expected to balance the pans. We are given things in hutch-potch, an exceedingly medley package, like a thief's loot sack. The job is to sort it out, weighing one thing against another in a way that will reasonably insure life going on in civilisation, sufficiency, and peace."

A Miraculous Escape From Death

BRANTFORD, Ont., Aug. 7.—From the pilot of a Toronto-Hamilton and Buffalo train which had smashed his car so badly that it was not worth bringing into a garage, Harry Miller was taken to the Brantford General Hospital where he is reported being well. Miller dropped through the bottom of the car when the train crossing the Jerseyville road crumpled it up. The train crew picked him off the cowcatcher 400 yards from the crossing. That he escaped instant death is considered miraculous.

Dr. Stanley Martin Heard From

BRIEF REVIEW OF WORK IN ST. ANDREW'S HOSPITAL, MANCHURIA, CHINA.

Dr. Stanley H. Martin, Superintendent of St. Andrew's Hospital, Canadian Presbyterian Mission, Lung Ching Tsun, China has forwarded a report of his years' work in Hospital, which is printed below from the Orillia Times. Dr. Martin is the founder of the $20,000 Hospital which was opened in Manchuria 1919. The St. Andrew's Church of this city contributed largely towards its erection and still donates a large vote annually towards maintenance. Dr. Martin relates many incidents of his work, and says he is kept constantly busy. This year he is Chairman of the Annual Council which met at Wonsan in July.

He speaks of the excellent work being done by his X-ray machine, and instances a case of a wealthy Chinese man who might have lost his foot had not the X-ray revealed his trouble. Attendance at the clinics average 60 to 70 patients a day, depending on the weather. Rain is needed very badly, as the season has been dry, and the crops are suffering. The new road, purchased through Mr. D. A. Macnab, Orillia, has been put on and looks fine. The linoleum has also been laid on corridors and in operating room and is a vast improvement. The money for this was sent by Mr. Geo. B. Cunningham, treasurer in Orillia of the Dr. Martin Hospital fund, and secretary of the Prayer Circle. A large photo of the Hospital staff is being sent to be put up in the Sunday School.

Dr. and Mrs. Martin send best wishes to their many friends in Orillia and ask for continued prayers and support. The report follows:

Although this year has been exceptionally hard because of the crop failure we have a great deal to thank God for as we have managed to close our books without a great debt. We are particularly pleased to again have a Canadian nurse and are eagerly looking forward to the time when Miss Armstrong will be able to take up some work in the Hospital where she is so badly needed.

Our medical student whose course at Severance Medical College has been made possible by Canadian friends of the Hospital is giving excellent service as Assistant doctor this year and will complete his college work next year.

The hospital's appearance was greatly enhanced by the new green asphalt shingle roof, making it one of the best looking buildings in town.

The X-ray, a gift from St. John's, Newfoundland, and Orillia, Ont., has been invaluable in bone surgery and other work.

Several trips have been made to the surrounding country where cases were seen, services held and patients sent in for operation. The Assistant doctor is particularly fond of this work.

The number of tubercular cases of all kinds that come to us is tremendous, and we are considering a plan to alter one of our buildings so as to give these cases an outdoor treatment. Although we have kept our charity percentage as low as possible we are still in debt. However, we are hoping the better crops will so improve our income as to enable us to raise our charity cases to 30% or 40%. Even at best the standard of living of Koreans here is below that in Korea.

Whenever circumstances permit a Sunday afternoon service is held in the wards and in every way the grandest work has been well cared for. A very efficient Biblewoman was secured about six months ago and since then has preached to 6,591 people, visited 440 homes and distributed over 5000 tracts and gospels. The Hospital Secretary is also an elder in the Church and is a strength to the Evangelistic work of the Hospital. A recent patient, a Chinese Buddhist priest had been preached to daily by the husband of another patient, a Christian, his brother priests who visit him also coming in for a share of it.

A number of cases shot by bandits have been brought to us, one of whom also badly tortured has just recovered after three months' treatment. The Russian refugees here have had their miserable existences somewhat helped by the service rendered them by the hospital many of their lives being spared by means of operation. Of the total number of patients 12,840, 7,190 were Korean and 5,650 Chinese and 400 Russian. The number in in-patients were 400, representing over 5000 days in Hospital. A total of 355 operations were performed, the work being so arranged that the medical unit could carry on while operating was being done. All the pupils in two of our high schools were examined and many diseased tonsils removed and those suffering from eye trouble were treated, and proper glasses fitted. 400 girls in all.

We hope that God's blessing will rest on this small piece of work and will help with years to bring about the expansion of the Kingdom of God.

Certain filthy and pestiferous insects have for many years been the bane of households, hotels and institutions. While most of us have become accustomed to their general prevalence and the difficulty of destroying them, there is now no need of tolerating them any longer. Since the discovery of SAN-O-SPRAY, it is very easy to rid the premises of Cock-Roaches (water bugs), Bed-Bugs, Moths, Flies, Mosquitoes, Ants, Fleas, Weevils, etc., by applying SAN-O-SPRAY to the retreats of these pests.

Selling Honestly

(Yankton Press and Dakotan.)

New York is using advertising as a remedy for crime. There are warning cards displayed in every elevated subway and surface car in the city, and in all the commuter's trains, pointing an effective moral to any real or potential criminal who happens to be on board. A typical card reads:

"YOU CAN'T WIN! The cleverest stick up in New York police history is now old and broken, with 20 years yet to serve in Sing Sing."

Another illustration shows a murderer being led to the electric chair. Moral appeals and appeals to self interest tell the same old story, verified by all the ages, that honesty is the best policy, that decency and squareness pay, in material rewards as well as an easy conscience.

Advertising ought to be as good for "selling honesty" as for selling goods. It will be interesting to watch the New York crime curve after this innovation.

Thrilling Stories FROM DEEP SEA DIVERS.

The finding of the ancient waterfall of the Hudson River and its deep gorge filled with strange fish, only 100 miles southeast of New York, is probably the outstanding work of William Beebe, and the other members of the oceanographic expedition of the New York Zoological Society, who returned after six months' cruise on board the Arcturus.

Beebe admitted disappointment in not finding the Humboldt Current in the Pacific, and in not locating what he expected in the far-famed Sargasso Sea, a strange body of shifting water between the West Indies and the Azores.

The decks and holds of the Arcturus are packed with barrels, boxes, cages, bottles and aquariums containing the animals and plants which are the result of the expedition. Many of them are new specimens, which will be turned over to various museums in this country.

But when the Arcturus, lent by the Union Sulphur Company to the explorers, steamed up New York bay and the Hudson River, she was a rare sight. Dressed in all her flags and with her 178-foot homeward-bound pennant—a foot for each day absent—streaming far over her stern, she was saluted by harbor craft until, off the battery, there was great roar of marine whistles.

To many of those on board the mighty stream of lava splashing over Mounts Whiteon and Harrison on Albatross Island, one of the Galapagos group, to a sheer drop of 500 feet into the Pacific Ocean was the most thrilling sight they had witnessed on their voyage. The volcano atop Mounts Whiteon and Harrison—named by the explorers for two of the backers of the expedition—they had been stumbling for some time and had only come to life shortly before their arrival. When the hot lava reached the cold water there were noises like explosions that sent steam soaring half way up to the mountain top.

"There is a Sargasso Sea, all right," said Mr. Beebe, "but we were not very successful in exploring it. On our way south we encountered the roughest kind of weather in that region. The Arcturus, a steady vessel, rolled and plunged. We went out to the Pacific, but on our way back we steamed over one-third of the Sargasso. The currents there kept going around in a swirling motion, but because of the storms we did not get the opportunity we had hoped to study it. I am convinced in the centre of the sea the waters are quiet, but I am confident the stories of its swirling waters dragging ships to wreckage and destruction are purely mythical."

What I was most anxious to locate was the Humboldt Current, but it had disappeared from where it was supposed to be located, between Panama and Galapagos. Instead we found two new currents that came together at times: One of these currents, I am certain, was the equatorial current, but the other is not the Humboldt, as it is warm, while the Humboldt is cold.

"We followed these currents for some distance, watching the marine life centered there. At times the distances between these currents were not more than fifteen or twenty yards. "Our visits to the Galapagos, the Cocos and other points were amazingly interesting and rich in the experiments we sought. On board the Arcturus were several rare specimens of the booby, a web-footed bird found in the Galapagos. It is supposed to be the dumbest bird in the world.

Some of the rare finds, however, were found in the Pacific and Atlantic and included the feathery snail with water wings instead of shell. One of the rarest specimens brought back was the lantern fish. This fish, which sometimes measures a foot, is lit up like Broadway and 42nd Street.

At various times different members of the expedition, including the four women members, went to the bottom of the sea to study animal life and to plant the device which the men tried to chop off its tentacles. Mr. Beebe brought back with him the eyeballs of this creature, which weigh ten pounds apiece.

Are you one of the lucky ones who spend the Summer in the country? You will soon be returning to Town for the Winter. Let us thoroughly inspect the plumbing and heating in your town house and put it in order for the cold season.—RING 1567.

Newfoundland's Great Recovery

Huge Deficit Turned Into a Surplus

The Financial Statement for 1924-25, which is published herewith, again proves the remarkable buoyancy of the Oldest Colony and strikingly illustrates the great future which she has, provided its affairs are handled by men who are familiar with her needs, are intent on her welfare, and are animated by a desire to husband her resources without at the same time checking her natural development.

You prophesy distress, and we see activity and content on all sides. You preach economy! You, who during your regime were pastmasters in the art of squandering public funds! What did you do when you had the chance? What assurance have we that you would do any better if we again entrusted the public funds to your care?"

We make no claim that everything has already been set in order by the present Government, or that the whole work of cleaning up the mess left by the late administration has been finalized. The task was a herculean one, but it has been vigorously tackled, and the best testimony of the effect is to be seen in restored confidence, contentment, increased prosperity and in the hopeful outlook of the whole community.

The Government are to be congratulated upon the excellent result of their administration of the country's affairs, and the Hon. Sir John Crosbie as Minister of Finance has every reason to feel highly gratified with the surplus that he has accumulated by the introduction into his department of businesslike methods, a careful watch over expenditure, and by the increased efficiency of the staff.

For the first time since taking office the Government know exactly where the country stands financially, and we hope, possessing this knowledge, they will give their attention to the most pressing need of the day, namely, the reduction of taxation. This more than anything else is impeding trade and tends to maintain the high cost of living, and the Colony will come fully into her own just as soon as this burden is lightened.

REVENUE STATEMENT. Total revenue for 1924-25, ending June 30, $9,750,000. Total expenditure, $9,470,000. Surplus, 280,000.

This is the first surplus since 1919. For the year ending 1923-24 the Colony's finances showed a deficit of $1,718,337.6. During that time the Government was working under the estimates prepared by the previous Finance Minister. The turning of this deficit into a surplus of $280,000 in the brief period of twelve months, which is equivalent to a saving of $2,000,000, is an accomplishment of which the Hon. Sir John Crosbie and the administration generally may justly feel proud, and it furnishes the most effective rejoinder to those who have been attempting to deceive the public and discredit and embarrass their chosen representatives.

As the enemies of the present Government at that time failed to appreciate fully the character and intelligence of the electorate, so they fail now in spite of the painful lesson they received, and desirous as they are to involve the country in another political upheaval, their efforts, which are prompted solely by their own personal interests, and are entirely devoid of any spirit of loyalty, are doomed to failure. The public display little interest in these frenzied charges of mismanagement, in the demands for a change, and in the tearful appeal of these vociferous aspirants for power to be given a chance—another chance—to lead the people into the land of promise. The only reply to those who were in power? To-day we have prosperity, whereas in your time poverty stalked through the land, although you yourselves did not appear to suffer thereby. To-day the fishery is being profitably prosecuted, whereas during your time the boats were deserted and our sons and daughters forced to go abroad to make a living. To-day order in the public service is being restored, whereas in your time it was prostituted for your own evil ends.

As you croak to-day of the financial instability of the country you are faced with a surplus such as the accounts never showed in all the years of your mismanagement and extravagance.

Embarrassed by unpaid bills of former administrations, impeded by disorganization in the public service, and confronted with the task of restoring confidence both at home and abroad following the discreditable disclosures made by Commissioner Walker, the Monroe Government assumed office under conditions far more desperate than were ever faced by any previous administration, but by virtue of the faith which they had in the country and its people, by the confidence they felt in their own ability to overcome the difficulties, and by the inspiration which they received as a result of their appeal to the public, they tackled the problems with courage and the result of their efforts and their reward are seen in the favourable balance which the Minister of Finance shows in his statement.

In certain quarters to-day every effort is being made to discredit the Government. Lies of the most obvious and false nature are being broadcasted, every action of the authorities is distorted, and every statement is given anything but its true interpretation. Such tactics were resorted to by the same individuals during the campaign in 1923, but the people were not misled by them. In fact it is safe to say that the party owing its defeat in no small measure to these very tactics.

PEPTS BEHIND THE SCENES.

August 19th—Betimes up this morning, and a great ache in my head all this day, which do cause me to neglect my work, which troubles me, since I am behind with it, which is a thing I never was before, and do seem to be a sign that old age creeps on me. Comes Povey to see me, and has a new hat these days, being the collection of curious times that do deal with the capriciousness in the management of motor coaches, and give me a new one, which indeed, did greatly amuse me. 'Tis as follows:—

"My Bonnie leaned over the gas-tank. The height of the contents to see; She lighted a match to assist her Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me."

Do learn how the Cabal do counter with the Peace directors all this day, nor have they yet finished their deliberations and are like to continue with their conference on Thursday. 'Tis rumoured indeed, that a new agreement is like to be the result, and 'twill mean increased employment at Bell Island and more pay for the miners are greatly to be hoped. By coach this night to the country, and am much chocked by the dust, which is worse than I did ever see it, nor does there seem anything that may be done to put it down.

August 19th—Waked very betimes by the noise of the wind, and did never hear such a squall come on so suddenly, and did seem how the very houses would be blown from its foundations. The storm of short duration but the wind going around to the east, do make it colder all the day. Povey and Blabb, and their good ladies to see me this day, and we did have much pleasant discourse, and did play a little at cards, to my great content, albeit I do still suffer somewhat from the ache of my head. Among other things, to our dinner this night, a great blueberry pie, which my wife makes for me, and is, indeed, a fine cook, nor methinks do I give her credit that she deserves for her ability in this direction, being that 'tis part of the reason I did wed the wretch, a thing I would not have her knock at any cost.

Seaman Injured by Wire Hawser

Yesterday morning a seaman named Larsen of the S.S. Thorogad had his foot severed from the leg immediately above the ankle through getting caught in the light of a wire hawser which was being used to clear an anchor that had fouled. Captain Anderson of the Thorogad and the doctor of the French sloop Ville D'Ys, attended the injured man until the services of a local doctor could be procured. Dr. McDonald attending, had the patient removed to hospital where an operation was made during the afternoon by Drs. Anderson and Gaylor.

Obituary

MISS MINNIE PITTMAN.

The many friends of the Rev. Arthur Pittman and Mrs. Pittman, of Topsail, will learn with regret of the passing of their daughter Minnie, on Tuesday last. For several months Miss Pittman's illness had confined her to her home, and although at times there were signs of improvement, those in constant attendance feared for some time that in her weakened state there was little hope for a recovery. Only twenty-five years of age, Miss Pittman's happy disposition made her a general favorite with everyone, and to the bereaved parents her death comes as an overwhelming loss. The Telegram extends to them deep sympathy in their sorrow. The funeral took place this afternoon at Topsail.

Re-Railing Tram System

The re-railing of the St. John's street railway is going ahead rapidly, and up to this morning the new rail had been completed from the Cross Roads to Job Street, immediately west of the Railway Station. Yesterday a street car went over the line for a trial run and everything was found satisfactory. As soon as the new cars arrive and are placed in operation the system promises to be all that can be expected of it. Passengers going to and from the West End to-day are obliged to transfer near Job Street.

Undesirable Deported

Being an undesirable a steward named Leby, who was landed here a short while ago from a foreign ship was put on board the Newfoundland by the police to-day and sent back to Liverpool.

SCHL. HARRIE WELL FISHED.

The sch. Harriet, which was fitted out for the fishery by Goodie & Co., is going well on the Straits. She has about 1400 qts. stowed down to date. The Harriet is a three-masted vessel and was specially outfitted for the fishery.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

DEATH LIST IN STEAMER CATASTROPHE MAY EXCEED 50. NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 20. Four separate investigations were underway to-day to determine the responsibility for the tragedy of the explosion of the boiler on the excursion steamer Mackinac in Newport harbor Tuesday evening, which has claimed 37 lives already with a dozen other victims likely to die. Four other persons are still missing and it is believed they may have jumped overboard and been drowned. Hospital authorities say the death list will probably exceed 50.

RETAIN ASSUMES COMMAND.

PARIS, Aug. 20. Marshal Pétain went aboard the liner Marechal Aute, at Marseilles, last night. He will proceed to Rabat to undertake the campaign against the rebellious Moors. "I am returning to Morocco," he said, "with an express plan which will enable us to manage to obtain an early and decisive success."

ARCTIC AT ETNA.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill., August 20. The Canadian steamship Arctic, which has been unheard from for the past thirty days and her whereabouts unknown, was reported anchored with all on board safe in Etah Harbor, Greenland, last night. A wireless from the Canadian ship Bowdoin, at midnight reported the location of the Arctic. The radio equipment on the Arctic failed and the crew were unable to make their location known.

Government Boats

Argyle left Burn 5.45 p.m. yesterday, inward. Clyde arrived Lewisporte 8.40 p.m. yesterday. Gloucester left Port aux Basques 9.30 this morning. Home arrived Humbermouth 1.10 p.m. yesterday. Registered With Tourist Bureau

Since the opening of the Tourist Information Bureau, a short while ago about 100 visitors have registered and sought information there. Two ladies from New York City, Miss K. Grosser and Mrs. E. M. Haas, registered to-day.

Good Fishing

A report to the Board of Trade from the collector at Fortune Bay, states that for the week ending Aug. 15th, about 1500 quintals of fish were landed between Connaigre Bay and Coombs Cove, Bay de L'Est. The total landed to date for this section amounts to 16,946. Ninety-five dories are operating with hook and line and are doing well. Squid for bait is scarce.

Magistrate's Court

Two drunks convicted of a breach of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, were each fined $10.00 or in default 30 days imprisonment. A drunk and disorderly was fined $20.00 or in default 7 days imprisonment. A drunk was fined $1.00 and black-listed.

A man for failing to support his wife and family was ordered by Judge Morris to go to work and out of his wages to pay his wife $10.00 per week, or in default, 30 days imprisonment.

Labrador Report

Mr. E. J. Doherty, fishery recorder on the ss. Earl of Devon, reports from Makovick that some seventy-two schooners, fishing between Ramah and Cape Harrison, average 520 qts. codfish each. The report states that trap fishing is now easier, but there is good fishing with tugs all along the coast.

THE SITUATION.

The Boston News Bureau says:—The irregular character of commodity movements is tending to keep businessmen from unhealthy expansion and preventing an over-production that would cause strain and liquidation. This irregularity is causing downward revision of boom profit estimates, but it is a long way from savouring of depression.

Price cuts in gasoline are beginning to appear in the East. The industry is at the peak of the consumptive season on the Atlantic seaboard, yet competition is keen and much gasoline pressed for sale by Mid-Continent refineries is upsetting wholesale and retail markets here.

While no new fields are being developed, nor beyond the drilling to a level below the Smackover, do any appear in prospect, production of crude petroleum continues well above 2,000,000 barrels a day and the consumption demand, large as it is, is barely holding its own with such an output.

And oil is not the only industry that is unsettled. The cotton market is off again drastically, having lost all the ground gained since the last government report. The unsettlement of the raw material market is hampering the revival in textiles.

Similarly, rubber manufacturers are bound to be uneasy while crude rubber is moving about so erratically. Of course, the decline is very welcome, especially since it has carried prices down to a level below the basis of present-day tire prices, but it is bound to be unsettling. While such incidents are taking place talk of a boom or of a crash seems ill founded.

Obituary

JOHN SCEANS.

Mr. John Sceans, for many years connected with the Telephone Company in the city, passed away yesterday afternoon with almost tragic suddenness. Mr. Sceans had been in his usual good health all day and ate his dinner as usual, afterwards going out to where Mr. Peter Summers had some men at work and here he stayed for some time talking to the men. Suddenly he was seen to fall and almost immediately he died. He was quickly taken to his home in Lake View Avenue and Rev. Mr. Godfrey and Dr. McDonald were summoned but the spark of life had flown. Death was due to heart failure. Deceased was 73 years of age. For many years he was connected with the Telephone Repair Department, having special care of the instruments and had gained an enviable reputation for his courtesy at all times. To his relatives the sympathy of a large number of people will be extended.

DENONCED.

Jasper Jinx has few defenders, he's the loneliest of birds; mind and body and suspenders, he's denounced in burning words. People say he has no morals, to no church does he belong, and he's always mixed in quarrels and he's always in the wrong. To-day evening we were sitting, village swamps, on the square, when we saw this Jasper flitting, with his furtive, guilty air. "Now," said one, "that darkness thickens, Jasper goes his silent way, and some man will lose his chickens ere the breaking of the day." "Or some widow's pig will vanish," said another, with a frown; "justice should arise and banish that base varlet from the town." Of good sense I've never boasted, I have lacked it all my days, but when absent men are roasted, I say something in their praise. "Jasper's soul may be the dearest," I remarked, "the seas between, but his whiskers are the reddest and the finest I have seen. Though his course may need defending, though his conduct makes men cross, with such whiskers, I'm contending, no one is a total loss." On the morrow to my dwelling came old Jasper, single file, and he said, "I heard you telling that I'm not entirely vile. Oh, it made my life blood quicken! Words of praise are few and sweet; so I've brought a nice young chicken which I hope will prove a treat." Where he got it is a question that I did not think to spring, but I've had no indigestion since I ate it, neck and wing.

Injured at Western Bay

Due to a puncture of molasses, which he was loading on his cart, rolling on him, W. C. Sellars of Western Bay had his right leg broken at the thigh, his left leg at the ankle and his right hand crushed badly. The accident occurred yesterday morning at the Western Bay railway station. The injured man was attended by Dr. McLean, who ordered him to hospital for treatment. He arrived by special train at 4:15 a.m., accompanied by his wife and Messrs. George Sellars and Albert Jenkins.

No One Can Afford Not to Save

"I can't save a cent," said a young business man the other day. "It costs me every penny I earn just to live." He thought he couldn't afford to save, but the fact is that he can't afford not to save. Suppose he should be taken ill, or lose his position, or should have some other unexpected demand which he could not possibly meet out of his regular earnings. He would have no reserve fund to tide him and his family over the emergency. No one can afford to risk the possible embarrassment of such a situation. A reserve fund in your savings account is a godsend in an emergency.

Forty Years Ago

On August 20, 1885, Mr. W. J. Martin, J.P., Registrar General, then a lad of 18 years of age, won the swimming championship at Topsail. The course was from Topsail Beach out to the Collars and back, a distance of about a half mile. Mr. Martin has a very fine medal, for the feat, of which he is justly proud.

MOTORS IN COLLISION

Yesterday morning, a collision between motor cars owned by Messrs. Gillis and Churchill occurred at the junction of Bannerman and streets. The bumper of Gillis car was smashed off whilst the other car had the running board carried away.

DEATH LIST MOUNTS TO 37.

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 19. The death list in the explosion in the boiler room of the excursion steamer Mackinac in Narragansett Bay last night had risen to thirty-seven tonight, and several others were not expected to recover from their injuries. The assistant State Attorney told the press to-night that the boilers were defective and an investigation will be held to fix the criminal culpability.

Curious Facts and Figures

There are certain creatures which never feel the pangs of thirst, for they are so constituted that drink is unnecessary to them, and they never swallow a drop of water in their lives. Among these animals are certain gazelles of the Far East and llamas of Patagonia. The "elephant beetle" of Venezuela is the largest insect in the world. A full-grown one weighs about half a pound. That the earth is much older than the sun is the opinion of a well known scientist. The Atlantic, the second largest of the five great oceans, has an area of 30,000,000 square miles. The male of the honey bee comes between the queen and the workers in size, and is stingless. Two rings are used in the marriage ceremony of the Greek Church. One is of gold and the other silver. Two hundred and twelve thousand two hundred and ten tons of fish pass through Billingsgate market yearly. There are 20,314 miles of railway in Great Britain. It is said that 160 square miles of excellent corn growing land in Yorkshire has been washed into the sea since the writing of Domesday Book. The first Dissenting chapel or "meeting house" in England was at Wandsworth, Surrey. It was opened as a place of worship on November 20th, 1572. The original warrant for the execution of Charles I. is in the Library of the House of Lords. "It was produced by Colonel Harker after the Restoration, and was the evidence upon which those who had signed it were executed from the Indemnity Act."

THE PASSING HOUR

Making it Clear. It was the first time the two roses had met since the war and were comparing their recent successes. "Mose," announced Rastus, "got a good job now." "Yo' got a good job?" "Ah's got a job bein' p'fessor of pathology to the college." "P'fessor of pathology? Bu' kaint' read nor write." "Seems yo' don' know what a sor of pathology is. A p'fessor pathology is de p'fessor what people how to go in an' out of lege grounds."

Rival Restaurants.

Sol and Abe had always been first one, then the other, outdoing the other in the restaurant business. They had resorted to every means they could think of to get the edge on the other, and now they were running along at a dead heat. Sol took a plunge and leased a building directly across the street from rival. He repainted his front, hung out a haunting sign bearing the name of the new establishment, and was "Grand Cafe of the Two Brothers." Abe was distraught when he saw the custom that surged into the restaurant, and vowing not to be done, had his place repainted and out an even more ostentatious sign. It read: "Grand Cafe of the Hemispheres." Special Evening Telegram. CAPE RAGE, To-day. Wind East light with fog and m. Bar. 29.70; Ther. 62.

Fire at Harbor Grace

A hay barn owned by Archibald Bros., Harbor Grace, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. For a time the Coughlan Hall and Masonto buildings were in danger, but fortunately by the good efforts of the firemen and others the blaze was contained to the old building.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST. CONSOLATION.

What comfort have I now to give. To soothe the heart, to which has come That grief which leaves our senses numb? That grief which makes it pain to live And darkens every path and seems The den of all our happy dreams. Oh, friend of mine, be brave, and know That never will she suffer so. Together we have prayed that she Might longer stay with her cares To fill the day with happiness; But, oh, what bargain could there be, What pledge or promise could we make To save ourselves the present ache And keep here here? Ten years? Ah, no! 'Twould hurt us then to let her go. There is no time that we could set. For parting, we who must remain Are never ready for such pain. Ever our prayer would be: "Not yet! Not yet, dear God, another day. With us let our beloved stay. We must believe when falls the blow That wisely God has willed it so." God has her in His keeping now. Angels attend her through the day. Never her feet shall go astray. Never shall anguish line her brow. Never a bitter thought shall find Harsh lodgment in her gentle mind. Lovingly her girlhood shall remain. Safe from the hurt of time and pain. Schr. Active (Danish) has sailed from Chanaan with 1,344 qtls. codfish. The vessel finishes loading at Burgeo.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

As Little Jack Rabbit hopped up the Old Cow Path, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw, he met Teddy Turtle.

"Where did you come from?" asked the little bunny, remembering that he had only a short time previous left him at the Old Duck Pond.

"Why, I've just come out of the Bubbling Brook," answered Teddy Turtle. "I swam up stream from the pond and, well, here I am."

"Pretty warm to be carrying a shell bungalow around on your back," said the little rabbit.

"Maybe, but I'm not sure," answer Mr. Teddy Turtle. "The roof is thick and I don't feel the hot sun."

"Ha, ha!" all of a sudden laughed the bunny boy, remembering that he had some red pasters in his knapsack. "Let me look at your shell roof," and with a hop-teedy the little rabbit handed close beside Teddy Turtle.

Vitamins

Talk about vitamins is a matter of fashion rather than a necessary adjunct to public health. It is the opinion of Dr. S. Monrad, Chief of the Queen Louise Children's Hospital, Copenhagen, expressed in a recent discussion of the subject.

Dr. Monrad said it is quite true that children need a great many things that are not so necessary to the grown-up person, but generally speaking, we, as also our children, get quite enough vitamins through normal food, when it is good and well made.

With regard to the modern vitamin industry, Dr. Monrad said: "The public has vitamins on the brain, and in things like that business always becomes interested, which is quite natural. It will prove a great business success for a couple of years when the movement will die away, and nothing more will be heard of the vitamins. If children are given ordinary, well made food they thrive well."

Disappearing Second Class On Ships

"It would seem that what has happened on our railway is also likely to occur in the big Atlantic liners plying between England and New York—the second class will be abolished, leaving only first and third," says the Evening Standard.

"During the present travel season there has been a significant change in the passenger list of these vessels. In every one that arrives on this side of the Atlantic the third-class space is occupied by a type of voyager such as the 'steerage' has never seen before. Many of them are quite wealthy people; most have money enough to travel more expensively if they wished, and when they reach London they put up at the best hotels. The truth is that second class has come to be regarded, as it used to be on railways, as neither one thing nor the other."

It's the cutest little assortment of dainty toilettries imaginable, and just about sufficient for a short vacation. It is called the THREE FLOWERS Travette and can be had at any drug or dept. store for fifty cents. July 4, w.s.t.f.

Milk the Mighty

Professor Henry Kenwood, of the University of London, claims that Britain might again produce champions if our athletes and sportsmen generally recognised the value of milk in building up nervous and muscular energy.

In support of this theory, Professor Kenwood instances the fact that Jack Dempsey is a convinced milk consumer. So is Weismuller, the world's champion swimmer, while the Scandinavian athletes scored notable Olympic Games successes as the result of a training in which milk figured very prominently.

Mighty, indeed, is milk. Now, it seems, it is the sportsman's best friend: a century ago, or less, it was the ally of the diplomatist. These were hard drinking days, but it was discovered by some witty statesman that, if he drank some milk before going out to dinner, he was able to keep a guard upon his tongue, no matter how much alcohol he consumed.

of Honor of France, a Knight Grand Cross of the Crown of Italy, and wears the Crimean medal with four clasps. The following example of his personal courage—and he displayed it on more than one battlefield—is related: Sir George was taking his wife to recuperate at Bournemouth. At Winchester a porter slammed the compartment door and, in doing so, caught Sir George's fingers. Rather than upset his wife, the General, who was suffering excruciating pain, said nothing about the accident until they reached Bournemouth. Then he coolly went and had the crushed bones set by a doctor.

Grand Old Man of the Army

General Sir George Wentworth Alexander Higginson, G.C.B., J.P., who recently celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday, is known throughout Great Britain as "The Grand Old Man of the Army," and "The Father of the Guards."

He was born on June 21, 1826, the only son of General George Higginson and Frances, daughter of the first Earl of Kilmorey. He received his education at Eton. He married in 1848, Florence, daughter of Baron Castletown of Upper Gosport; she died in 1912, leaving one son and two daughters.

Sir George entered the army in 1845 as an Ensign in the Grenadier Guards, in which regiment he served for thirty years. He was with it during the whole of the Crimean War, and was twice promoted for service in the field. He commanded the Brigade of Guards and the Home District from 1879 to 1884, was Lieutenant-Governor of the Tower of London from 1885 to 1893, in which year he retired from the army.

A Fortnight's Motor Tour in England

After forty-eight years with the Civil Service, a citizen, well known in this community, decided to take a holiday trip to the Old Country, accompanied by his wife. They arrived at Liverpool in the latter part of June; from there they proceeded to London where three others joined them for a motor tour, extending over a fortnight. The following is an account of the trip, taken from his diary:

Thursday, June 25, 1925.—To-day we started our journey to London, via the Wye Valley and Weymouth. Car, Rolls-Royce; party of five; chauffeur, young, well educated and agreeable, and a strict teetotaler.

We left Manchester at ten o'clock a.m., and passed quickly through Bolton, Lostock Grahm, Norwich, Tarpotley, Whitechurch and several small villages until we came to Shrewsbury, an old-fashioned country town. Here we halted for a look at the city walls and Castle. We had brought a lunchbasket, and we had lunch in a field about three miles out of Shrewsbury. Then a straight run of about 30 miles through beautiful country, Church Stretton being the only place of note, until we reached the quaint, old Shropshire town of Ludlow, with its historic castle standing on an eminence above the river Teme. This castle, now in ruins, dates from the 11th century, and was once a large and important border fortress. We passed into the grounds, which are well kept, and, on payment of a fee, into the Castle itself, where we climbed the staircase to the high tower and obtained an excellent view of the surrounding country. Then we rested for a while on the lawn where Milton's Copus was first played, and my niece took snapshots of the Castle. On again, through Woodforton, Leomin and Wellington, to the ancient city of Hereford, situated on the river Wye, where, having motored 118 miles, we put up for the night. After dinner we at once set out to look round the city. Most of our time was taken up with the Cathedral, the building of which was commenced soon after the Norman conquest and completed about 1148. It has, of course, since been altered and partially rebuilt, but it still maintains its Norman characteristics. Ten minutes' walk from the Cathedral brought us to the river where we sat and watched the boats. Then back to our hotel, and to bed.

Friday, June 26th.—After a run round the city we drove to the Wye Valley, one of the loveliest valleys in England. Our first stop was at that famous beauty spot, Symonds Yat. We climbed the hill and obtained a wonderful view of the river and valley. The valley hereabouts is thickly wooded for its borders the Forest of Dean. Then on to Monmouth, the capital town of Monmouthshire. Here Henry V. was born, but there are only insignificant ruins of the old castle. Portions of the old walls of the town and of the four gates still remain. Some miles after leaving Monmouth a beautiful little village situated on the hillside and surrounded by gardens and orchards, with a tiny church close to the water's edge. Here we lunched on the bank of the river. Two fine colliers, belonging to a farm close by, came out to greet us, and, incidentally, to help themselves to our luncheon whenever they thought we were not looking. Lunch over, we drove quickly to Tintern Abbey, founded in 1131, and still magnificent; although, of course, in ruins. Immediately around the ruin is a luxuriant orchard. We spent some time going round the Abbey and would have spent longer but for our chauffeur who interrupted us several times to tell us how many miles we still had to go. (O.M.—He was afraid to be out in the dark.) So we left Tintern Abbey with its wonderful try-clad pillars, its great windows—one of them eighty feet high and thirty broad—and came to Chepstow. As we passed Chepstow Castle, which stands on an eminence commanding the river, the evening sun was gliding the whole place with a wonderful brilliancy. The gleaming old towers, the wooded banks and the shining river made a never-to-be-forgotten picture. Three miles below Chepstow, the Wye flows into the Severn, a river so broad that at first we thought we were approaching the sea. But it was getting late and our chauffeur made the car fly. We passed through Gloucester, a busy, crowded city, and came to the historical town of Tewkesbury, where we put up at the "Bell Hotel," over the door of which we read the following interesting inscription:

"This house is mentioned in John Halliwell's Gentleman, as being the residence of Abol Fletcher." We found it very comfortable—old-fashioned with modern conveniences. The downstairs rooms had been left just as they were in earlier days—the oak-paneled coffee room with its bare beams and great, open fireplace, its electric lamp with shades like old-time lanterns, was the last word in comfort. The bedrooms, which had been modernized, were beautifully furnished, the color schemes being pink and white, with rose coloured shades of the electric lamps. After dinner we visited the Abbey, walked to the Bloody Meadow, where the last battle of the Wars of the Roses was fought, in 1471. Then we walked through the town, finishing up at the Italian Gardens, where we had a cup of coffee. Back to our hotel for a game of cards, and then to bed. Distance covered, 108 miles.

Saturday, June 27th.—Saturday morning was dull after the rain during the night, but when we reached the open country the sun came out. As we drove over the hills we got charming views of the small hamlets lying in the wooded valleys. After a drive of forty miles we reached Bath, the chief town of Somersetshire, and one of the finest cities in England. We visited the Grand Pump Room and drank of the famous waters. About thirty miles out after leaving Bath, our chauffeur lost his way—he had stopped to sympathize with the driver of a broken down lorry, who, returning evil for good, had misdirected him. Thus it happened that we were going through by-ways instead of keeping to the highway, and though the by-ways were very pleasant we were nearly an hour late when we reached Dorchester and had no time to stop there. "Only eight miles now," said the chauffeur, as we whizzed through with scarcely time to notice the beautiful avenue of trees on the road leading to Dorchester. But we were getting tired, so we let him whiz, and soon we were entering the main street of Weymouth, and then, quite suddenly, we ran right on to the esplanade. The view was enchanting. To our left was a mile or so of well kept esplanade, which was succeeded by the undulating cliffs of Weymouth Bay. On our right the esplanade extended as far as the pier, and the view was terminated by the bluff projection of the Nothe, with its Fort and Gardens. At our feet lay a delightful beach crowded with children and bathers. The sea was close up, glittering in the sunshine and dotted with the white and red sails of innumerable sailing craft. Although we did not reach Weymouth till six o'clock we were lucky enough to get rooms in an hotel on the front, and when I went up to my room I was much amused to find, on going to the window, a Pier and entertainment in full swing on the shore just below. The long drive from Tewkesbury had made us tired so we left our sight-seeing till the next day. Indeed, it was quite enough, after dinner, to sit and watch the boats and steamers on the sea and the gaily dressed people walking on the esplanade. From Tewkesbury to Weymouth we had driven 108 miles.

Sunday, June 28th.—This morning we walked to the Nothe Gardens, overlooking Portland Harbour, stopping on our way to view the Weymouth lifeboat. There is a Barracks at the Nothe, and as we rested in the Gardens we were entertained by a military band. My niece took two or three snapshots here. Later on we went for a trip in a motor-boat round Portland Harbor. This harbour is formed by a great breaker which has been made by convict labour (there is a prison on Portland Island) and is so large that the whole British Navy can be lodged therein. On the occasion of our visit, however, there was only one battleship in the harbor, namely, the Tiger, which had taken part in the Battle of Jutland. We passed quite closely to it and could see the dents made in it at that battle. We also saw some torpedo boats and sea planes. The sea planes were in the air and we saw one of them alight on the water, a wonderful sight. Portland is connected with the mainland by the famous Chesil Beach which is formed of pebbles. It is seventeen miles long and the stones vary in size. Tradition says that the Weymouth smugglers landing on the ridge at night would always know their whereabouts by examining the size of the pebbles. During the evening I entertained the party by telling them tales of Newfoundland.

a 50 mile drive, reached Bourne. We came to a halt in the middle of the town and the ladies, of course, must needs look round the shops. Bourne, in addition to being one of the most popular watering places on the south coast, is also the home of many wealthy Londoners. Consequently the shops are of a high scale. After an hour or two of shopping, however the ladies commenced to return to the car and we drove to the Beach. Bourne, of course, does not present such a magnificent view as Weymouth Bay but for its glorious sunshine its miles of yellow sands its pine woods and its cliffs covered with shrubs and flowers. We had lunch on the beach sitting on deck chairs, within three feet of the sea. Lunch over, at once boarded our car. Now we were to go to the New Forest, after mile of beautiful country. We went swiftly through several villages into Salisbury, the county town of Wiltshire, and thence to Salisbury Plain. This great plain during the War, was occupied by troops of every kind, from every part of the Kingdom and Empire, as a training ground. Presently we came to Stonehenge, a pre-historic colossal enormous stones were, as everyone knows, our forefathers used to ship. It is conjectured that the stones were placed in position about 3,600 years ago. We returned to Salisbury and put up at the Chough Hotel, a very old-fashioned place, formerly used as a coaching inn. The service was excellent and the surroundings very pretty. After dinner we took a walk through the city and visited its most interesting features. The old Market Place, where, by order of Richard III, the Duke of Buckingham was beheaded in 1483, the Peabody Cross, which dated from the 13th Century, and last, but not least, the Cathedral. The Cathedral was founded in 1220, was partially opened five years later, and mainly completed in the 15th century. It is noted for the beauty of the building of its Cathedral, which stands in a spacious Close. The interior of the Cathedral is just as wonderful. We returned to our hotel for a game of cards, and then bed. A full day. Distance covered, 61 miles.

Tuesday, June 30th.—On leaving Salisbury we may lay over the downs and through small villages. Here, as in every part of the country we had passed through, the country was thickly and covered with trees. We passed through Andover, Harnbourne Priory, Whitechurch, Lambourne, Overton and Basingstoke. We lunched in a Survey Wood and then proceeded to Hook Common. Here our attention was attracted by a group of soldiers lying in the grass. So we came across more soldiers, the building of its Cathedral, which stands in a spacious Close. The interior of the Cathedral is just as wonderful. We returned to our hotel for a game of cards, and then bed. A full day. Distance covered, 61 miles.

Wednesday, July 1st.—We visited Weymouth to-day, accompanied by my niece and her husband, Capt. Jensen. We motored, of course, going through Sutton, Mitcham, Putney and Haremerith, a distance of 25 miles. Weymouth is a great place—in fact, beggars description. We went there to the Australian Pavilion, admired the Southern Cross Pearl, which consists of seven pearls in the form of a cross which is worth 7,000 pounds. The most distinctive feature of this Pavilion is the model of Sydney Harbor, the latest model in the whole Exhibition. We next visited the Newfoundland Pavilion where we saw Mr. Davies and I introduced my party. We signed the Visitors' Book, which had also been signed by the King and Queen, the Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, and other noted personages. We had a chat with Mr. Davies and also Mr. Peter Cowan and Mr. Robinson, the brother of the Hon. J. Alexander Robinson. They showed us round the Pavilion. One of the most interesting things was the large Aquarium, in which fresh water and salt water fish belonging to Newfoundland are exhibited. As we left the Pavilion, Capt. Jensen took his photos. After lunch we saw India, Malaya and Canada and did the whole Exhibition thoroughly, purchasing souvenirs and presents. The end of the day came all too soon, but we were so tired that we were not sorry when our chauffeur arrived with an intimation that our car was ready. On the way home we passed through Wandsworth and inspected the building, which, during the War, was used and known as the Third London General Hospital, where my son was a patient and my niece's husband of his training station. The building is now used as a War Orphanage. And so home to a well earned

Thursday, July 2nd—Our chauffeur hoped we would not ask him to take us round London. He was afraid of the London traffic and the London police, not being used to London ways, and hinted delicately of the possibility of having to end his days in the Tower if we insisted. Having a liking for the honest man, we did not insist, merely requiring him to take us to Coudalen Station and to meet the train on our return. We detrained at Charing Cross Station and at once boarded a motor bus. Oh, my! As we turned into Oxford Street I understood our chauffeur's reluctance to bring his car to London. Three lines of motor buses on each side of the street, while motor cars and taxis were dodging about in between. A motor car compared with a London motor bus, is like a terrier compared with an elephant.

Well, I spent the morning helping Mrs. Peet to shop in a huge establishment, almost like a small sized town. The lift girls in this establishment wear cream silk knee breeches and tunics, and very nice they look. We had lunch at the Maison Lyons, and then I left the ladies to finish their shopping whilst I went with Mr. Bolt to look at the sights of London. We first went to Trafalgar Square and visited the National Gallery and the Canadian Government Buildings, which form one side of the Square. We then jumped on a bus and went to Houndsditch, along through the Strand, Fleet Street, Ludgate Hill and St. Paul's Square. We then went to the House of Commons in event of an eventual day. From there we went to the Newfoundland High Commissioner's Office, but unfortunately he was out. As we were making enquiries, however, the Colonial Secretary turned up, so we had a long talk with him. Presently the Colonial Secretary was called away, and two officials came to us. They turned out to be Mr. Pigott and Mr. Hutchings, and very glad I was to see, although so far away from home, three Newfoundlanders all in the same afternoon. When we left the office, we had tea at the Corner House, Strand, and then visited the Ministry of Health offices, the Home Office, the Foreign Office, the Colonial Office, the Treasury, and No. 10 Downing Street, the Cenotaph, the Horse Guards, St. James' Park. We also saw the Admiralty Offices and viewed the wonderful system of wireless telegraphy they have, by which they can communicate with any ship in any part of the world at any time. We did not get back to Coudalen till after ten o'clock, but it was a day well spent.

Friday, July 3rd—We motored today through Banstead, Ewell, Hook, Long Ditton and Thames Ditton, to Hampton Court, where we spent an hour or two looking round the grounds and gardens. Then to Kew Gardens where we spent a few hours going through the Gardens, Conservatories, but the places is so vast that before we had seen a tenth of it we had to start on our return journey. We drove through Richmond, saw the wonderful view from Richmond Hill, and passed the famous Star & Garter Hotel, which is now used as a hospital for our hopelessly maimed soldiers. We then drove through Richmond Park, passing, near the entrance, a group of cadets in training. Half way through the Park we came across some deer. Our English friends were delighted at the sight of these, but I explained to them that they were nothing compared with the Newfoundland deer. Later on we saw some stags and they really were a beautiful sight. Leaving Richmond Park we passed through Wimbledon, noted for the International Lawn Tennis competitions that are held there, Mitcham, Carshalton, Wallington, and so back to Coudalen. We had only motored 36 miles, but after the strenuous time I had had in London on the previous day it was quite enough for me and I was very glad to be back at Windyhaes in time for tea on the lawn.

Saturday, July 4th—Another day's sight-seeing in London. I had always wished to see the Tower of London, and as I passed through the entrance, I thought that even if I had seen nothing else the Tower would have made my visit to London worth while. The Tower, as a fortress, began its existence in 1078. During succeeding centuries it was altered and extended, and now covers, with its moat, some twelve acres of ground. It has been used in past times as a palace, a prison, a mint, a fortress and a store. We entered through the Middle Tower, and passed into Eyward Tower. We visited the Wakefield Tower and the Bloody Tower. We inspected the old armoury and the interesting relics of famous persons. The Crown Jewels are kept in Wakefield Tower, and these are a wonderful sight. They include the Imperial State Crown, worn by her late Majesty Queen Victoria, his late Majesty King Edward VII, and his Majesty King George V, also the Royal sceptres, containing the larger of the Stars of Africa—this is said to be the largest diamond in the world. Westminster Abbey, the Coronation Church of the Sovereigns of England from the time of Harold, was next on our list. Here there was much to see. We, of course, visited the grave of the Unknown Warrior. Then to St. Paul's Cathedral. The Cathedral occupies the site of a Church founded in 610 by Stelbert, which was destroyed by fire in 1087. A new edifice was then commenced which was forty years in the building, but this was destroyed by fire in 1534. The present St. Paul's was erected in 1575-87, from the designs of Sir Christopher Wren. Here, as in Westminster Abbey, are the tombs of distinguished Englishmen.

Sunday, July 5th—This was a day of rest. Church in the morning, rest in the afternoon, tea on the lawn, after tea a walk with my niece over the Golf Links and through cornfields. When we got back supper was ready, after which I took another rest which lasted until bed-time.

Monday, July 6th—To-day we started the return journey. Leaving Coudalen about half-past nine, we went through New Malden and Kingston, where we saw the houseboats on the Thames, and Staines, whence we ran along a road by the riverside, passing Sunnymede and Magna Charta Island, and we soon approached Windsor. We spent an hour or two going through the grounds of Windsor Castle and as much of the Castle as was open to the public. Then we had lunch and started forth again, going through Maidenhead, Harley Bottom, Henley-on-Thames, Nettlebed and Dorchester, and then reached Oxford, the famous University City. We had not much time to stay here, and very soon we were on our way to Stratford-on-Avon, famous as the birthplace of Shakespeare. At Stratford we put up at the Swan Hotel, and after a cup of tea went out to view the sights. We saw the house where Shakespeare was born and one of the attendants told us that last summer people of 48 different Nations passed through the house in one afternoon and signed the Visitors' Book. We saw the other places of interest including the house where the late Miss Mari Corelli lived. After dinner we went for a row on the river, where we watched the sun setting. Our pleasure was heightened by the fact that we were able to hear a Band playing in the grounds of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre which is situated on the river bank. Distance covered, 110 miles.

Tuesday, July 7th—An eight mile drive from Stratford brought us to Warwick, where we viewed Warwick Castle and St. Mary's Church. We then went straight on through Colehill, Fazeley, Tamworth, Measham, Ashby de la Zouch, Beeton on the Hill, Castle Donnington, Sawley, Long Eaton to Nottingham, where we put up at the City Hotel. After lunch Mrs. Peet and I went to Carlton, the town where my father was born, a few miles north of Nottingham. Although we came across two or three people by the name of Peet we could not trace anyone who knew my family. However, we spent some interesting hours in the place and then returned to Nottingham. Distance covered, 102 miles.

Wednesday, July 8th—After a look round Nottingham, a busy country town we started for home. A run of sixteen miles brought us to Derby, the capital city of Derbyshire, and there after our way for many miles lay through the Peak District. We did not regret that we had left the sunny south to which Derbyshire is a complete contrast. Our way now lay along a rugged mountain road, now through wood and scenery, until we reached Matlock Bridge, where we stopped for a time to look round. Although mountainous the district is not at all bleak, being well wooded. I bought a walking stick here. Leaving Matlock we came to Little Rawley

IN EVERY DISTRICT THERE ARE HUNDREDS OF SENSIBLE MEN WHO DEMAND GOOD QUALITY CLOTHES CLOTHES, THAT IS, OF LASTING SMARTNESS THAT WILL LOOK ALMOST AS WELL AFTER A YEAR'S WEAR AS ON THE DAY OF DELIVERY. and viewed the famous Haddon Hall. On again, and after passing Bakewell, Ashford and Taddington, we reached Buxton, the highest town in England, and noted for its baths and wells. We had lunch here and then took a walk through the town and visited its pleasure gardens. Then once again we boarded our car and passed without stopping through Whaley Bridge, Newton, Hazel Grove, Stockport, Heaton Chapel, and so home to Manchester. This day's run was 105 miles. The total for the fortnight was 900 miles. We had visited eleven cities and had passed through forty-seven towns and one hundred and forty-three villages, and we were satisfied.

Staving Off a Crisis in Britain In the old days the warlike Danes were accustomed to swoop down on the coast of Britain there to demand tribute, the non-payment of which meant battle, murder and sudden death to a lot of innocent Islanders. At a later date the trading ships of the world paid tribute to the Barbary pirates in much the same way. Pay or be plundered and murdered was their motto. The Britains kept on paying the Danes, as did the sailor men in the case of the Barbary pirates. However, it was over the case of the more tribute paid the more demanded until the position of these seemingly help less people became desperate. So it was that at least the worm turned. The Danes were soundly thrashed while on their forays and those who survived sailed away from the coast of Britain never to return. In the case of the Barbary marauders, shot, shell, and the business end of a few yards of hemp did for them for all time. There is a certain apology between the settlement made by Premier Baldwin in respect to the miners and mine owners of Britain and the Barbary pirates and the Danes. An industrial peace, temporarily at least, has been purchased by the British Premier, the British taxpayers to foot the bill. Faced with the gravest industrial upheaval in the history of that country, the laying down of tools by the unionized crafts, including the railway workers, if the demands of the coal miners were not met, the Premier has pursued the middle course by agreeing that a government subsidy will be paid the coal trade, the wages to remain during the term of this subsidy on the 1924 basis. This subsidy is to remain in force until May 1st, 1926, at which time it is expected that a Royal Commission appointed to investigate the situation will have made its report. Whether or not the report of this Commission will be of such a nature as to bring about anything in the way of a permanent settlement is highly problematical. In the interval the taxpayers pay. Taken as a whole there has been no profits in the coal mining business in Great Britain since the present wage agreement came into force. Something like half the pits have been working at a loss, while hundreds have been closed, and all the time the demand for British coal has been stacking off. The butting and general export trade has fallen far below normal, the former being accounted for by the general use of oil in the larger steam vessels, and the latter by foreign competition. The ultimatum of the coal mine owners of Britain was one hour added to the working day or a reduced wage. Neither was acceptable to the men, though it was pointed out that an extra hour would mean that a half crown would be knocked off the price of coal and many manufacturing enterprises, that are large coal consumers, could prosper, thus increasing the demand for coal and decreasing the number of hands out of employment. What is taking place in Great Britain is really an industrial revolution. The country is bound hand and foot. Unemployment is on top, and it is very much a question whether Premier Baldwin or anybody else can come to any real understanding with the workers in their present mood. There is little or no hope of Great Britain again being able to employ her unemployed millions. Industrial-ly the British Isles are top heavy. There are too many people for the work at hand. How to get rid of them is the question, but there can be no permanent industrial adjustment until this exodus takes place. In the interval unionism calls the tune and the British taxpayers are paying the piper.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Harbor Grace Notes

Our annual Regatta went off on Wednesday last at Lady Lake and despite the occasional showers throughout the day, it proved to be a good success, the races being fairly well contested, and the whole affair enjoyable to the many who attended. Several tents and the store at Walker's Farm were headquarters for diners, refreshments, ice cream, candy, etc. Had the weather been more favourable, trade done would have been much better. After four races had been successfully run off, an interval of one hour was called when the Committee had lunch at Mrs. Pike's tent, where several guests from St. John's, among whom were, Messrs. A. E. Hickman, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Sir M. P. Cashin, Hon. A. B. Morine, Dr. Roberts, Dr. Moore, W. A. Munn, A. Munn, C. E. Russell, were guests of the Committee. The Chairman, Mr. E. E. Parsons, made a brief address, welcoming the guests, which was responded to by Messrs. Bennett, Cashin and Hickman and others.

The races were run off as follows:—
AMATEUR RACE.

Maggie—J. Hussey, cox; G. Harris, Eugene Martin, J. Martin, E. Martin.

CHALLENGE RACE.
On completion of the All Corners Race, a challenge was issued by the winning crew to row any four on the bank. The challenge was accepted and the Committee decided to allow the race and give a special cash prize to the winners. The challenge made good their claim in the Winnable, winning from their opponents in the Maggie.

The Far East

A writer on "Russia and Japan" in the Contemporary Review reaches the following conclusions about the position in the Far East to which the present troubles in China add interest. He says that in the Russian-Japanese contest there have been three stages, which can be compared to rounds in a boxing match:

The first round, in 1895, was won by Russia on points; in the second, in 1905, Russia seemed to take the count, and her revolution made it look as if she had retired from the Eastern ring. But in 1915 she began to achieve a "come-back" and a third round has taken place between the contestants. The recently signed (Russo-Japanese) Treaty concludes Round Three and honours are easy, with Russia looking a trifle the fresher of the two, and in as strong a position in China as she has ever been since 1890.

The Russian revival in the Far East has been remarkably rapid and complete, and whatever regrets the Soviet Government may have as to the outcome of its policies in Europe they have nothing to complain of in China. In pre-war days Russia was distinguished amongst the Powers by reason of her high handed dealings with China. With the advent of the Soviet a transformation took place in this respect. In the Russian-Chinese Treaty of Nerchinsk, which was signed in 1858, clause 3 ran as follows: "Everything which has occurred hitherto is to be buried in eternal oblivion." This might have been the text with which Soviet Russia greeted China. Russian extra-territorial rights in China were voluntarily abandoned and an Ambassador was sent to Peking. He spends much time in reiterating to the Chinese that Russia is their only friend and that she will gladly assist them against the wicked imperialism of the Powers. There are many amongst the growing body of Chinese nationalists who lend a ready ear to these honeyed words. Japan views with alarm this assumption by Russia of the post of China's confidential friend, hence the Russo-Japanese Treaty and the imminent appointment of a Japanese Ambassador to Peking instead of a Minister. Hence perhaps, some significant rumours in the Japanese press that Japan might be ready to consider some modification of her extra-territorial rights in China.

Of both Russia and Japan it may be said that though the men and the methods connected with their Far Eastern policies have changed during the last few years, the common motive is still to-day what it was in 1895, the economic control of North-east Asia. The Chinese have a saying: "Shoes for the same foot must be worn by different people." I may be that history will not repeat itself a fourth time and that in this vast area of un tapped resources these two great Powers will solve their rivalries in a peaceful manner. Time will show what value is to be attached to the possibility of both Russia and Japan being thwarted by the self-assertion of a modern China. For the moment it is only possible to draw attention to the fact that the treaty just signed concludes the third round between Russia and Japan, and that the second, in the shape of the Great Powers, has now distinctly further out of the Far Eastern ring than they have ever been before.

Oldest Woman in Mexico Found Ill

SENORA ANTONIA PEDRASA, 125, REMEMBERS LIBERTY MOVE IN 1810.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—Senora Antonia Pedrasa, the oldest woman in Mexico and perhaps in the world, has been discovered living in poverty by a local physician. After examination he is convinced she is at least 125, as she relates occurrences which took place in 1810 of the town of Dolores Hidalgo in the state of Guanajuato, when Miguel Hidalgo, a priest, rang the liberty bell starting the independence movement of part of the Mexican colonies against Spain.

Senora Pedrasa lives in the far end of a large mule corral in a tiny tumbled down but located in the poorest quarter of Mexico City. She was discovered when she called a physician to treat her eyes, which are rapidly failing.

Physicians who have attended her say her mental faculties are extraordinary and that she undoubtedly speaks the truth in telling of the beginning of the independence movement. She also describes having seen and known Presidents Santa Anna and Benito Juarez personally, relating with pride that on one occasion Juarez and his staff during their flight against Emperor Maximilian, stayed overnight at her house.

Her appearance is wonderfully preserved and she is able to converse fluently, although stopping at times to catch her breath. Physicians declare her digestive organs perfect, although she suffers from an extreme case of rheumatism.

All but one of her eight children have died. An effort will be made to raise funds to remove her to a hospital.

FIELD DAY. Methodist College—Ayre Athletic Grounds.

Despite the whole holiday yesterday, and its many other attractions, a large number of people attended the Field Day of the Methodist College, Ayre Athletic Grounds. The programme opened at 11.15 a.m. with the cricket match, Guards vs. City. Play continued until one o'clock, when the game was called for lunch. A large number of admirers of the good old game of cricket were present, and they were so taken up with the excellence of the morning exhibition, that they returned again in the afternoon and followed innings after innings with interest. The final outcome resulted in a win for the Guards by 7 runs and six wickets to spare.

After the new pavilion had been formally opened, at 3 o'clock, the attention of those in attendance was directed to the field and track side of the programme, which was controlled by Messrs. H. J. Wyatt, A. H. Thomas, W. Halfyard, D. Newbury and D. Butler. Owing to the day being a holiday, and a large number of the athletes being out of town, competition was not so keen as hoped for. Nevertheless the competitors who took part did splendidly and the large number gathered around felt pleased with the whole exhibition. In some of the races generous handicaps were given, with the result that close finishes followed.

Gordon Long, of the M.G.C.A., broke the high jump record yesterday, when he cleared the bar at 5 ft. 5 in., beating the previous record of R. Culhane, by one inch. Long's performance will very likely be repeated by the N.A.A.A., as Mr. Noel, of that body was present and announced the official measurement. The programme of events and winners are as follows:

Sack Race—1st, R. Perry; 2nd, W. Payne.

200 Yards—1st, S. Parsons; 2nd, G. Long. Time, 26 secs.

Pole Vault—1st, D. Fraser; 2nd, G. Halley. Height, 9 ft. 3 in.

Shot and Barrel Race—1st, L. Hickey; 2nd, R. Perry.

Scout Relay Race—Won by 6th St. John's Troop; Scouts Davis, Howell and Halliday.

Girl Guides 40 Yards—1st, Dolly Jones; 2nd, Alice Robertson.

1 Mile Walk—1st, T. Piercey; 2nd, E. Austin. Time, 8 mins., 12 secs.

High Jump—1st, G. Long; 2nd, D. Fraser. Height, 5 ft. 5 in.

1 Mile Race—1st, G. Perry; 2nd, E. Austin. Time, 5 mins., 5 secs.

Whippl Race—1st, J. Chancey with J. Newhook up; 2nd, A. Nottall with D. Moore up.

Quarter Mile—1st, G. Long; 2nd, S. Parsons. Time 60 secs.

During the afternoon sets of mixed ladies and gents doubles were played on the Tennis Courts which proved very enjoyable, whilst other attractions for many were the putting green, bowling alley, etc., all of which realized goodly amounts. Delicious teas were served in the new pavilion by the following ladies: Mrs. H. J. Wyatt, Mrs. Peters, Miss E. Herder, Miss M. Mitchell, Miss S. Moore and Miss J. Parsons. The above ladies had everything well in hand whilst the catering was all that could be desired. The tables were liberally patronized and the proceeds from this end alone were very gratifying. The Methodist Guards Band was in attendance and the selections rendered helped greatly in the enjoyment of the day.

INTERESTING CRICKET MATCH. M. G. C. A. Defeats City.

According to arrangements, a three innings match was played by the above teams on the Ayre Athletic Grounds yesterday. The game commenced at 11.30 and continued right through the afternoon, with a win for the Methodist Guards by seven runs and six wickets to spare. A large number of spectators were present all day and many expressed themselves as delighted to see the good old game revived. The old Guards were present in large numbers. The bowling on both teams was excellent. It was a bowlers' day as will be seen from the scores.

JUNIOR LEAGUE FOOTBALL. T. A. S; Wesley 0.

On Tuesday night a large gathering of football enthusiasts was present at St. George's Field, and witnessed what proved to be the best played football game of the season, between the Wesley and T.A. teams, of the Junior League. Although the T. A. won by 3 goals to nil, the score was no real indication of the game, as both teams had battled hard for forty-five minutes without finding the net.

Play opened up with Wesley defending the western goal and found the ball travelling rapidly from end to end. The forwards of both teams got in some fine work during this half, but were unable to beat down the stalwart defence set up by the opposing backs, consequently no goals resulted. Upon changing ends, the teams put some vim into the game, and the spectators in attendance were given many exciting moments. Play continued without finding the net.

without any scoring, and it looked like the game would end in a draw. A moment later, however, the T.A. forwards made a good run down field, and with Furlong controlling the ball from the right, a pretty shot was sent across which found the net. This goal stirred the teams to further action, and a lively exhibition was being handed out. Wesley tried hard to equalize, but the ball was immediately transferred to their end, when Williams, for the T. A., banged home No. 2, on a pass from Bailey. The T. A. continued the onslaught: from then until the end, and about five minutes before the close, Bailey scored No. 3 from a scrimmage. The game ended, T. A. 3; Wesley 0.

By the T. A. winning they now have a splendid chance for the championship.

YESTERDAY'S FOOTBALL. Seniors 2; Juniors 2. Only a small attendance of spectators watched their way to St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, to witness the return football game between picked players from the Junior and Senior Leagues. The game ended in a draw, both teams having each found the net twice. The teams lined up as follows: SENIORS—Goal, R. Walsh; backs, K. Morris, W. Thistle; halves, J. Canning, A. Foster, J. Madden; forwards, R. Nolan, R. Meaney, J. Young, R. Quick, M. Flynn.

JUNIORS—Goal, J. Daly; backs, J. Cowley, P. Murphy; halves, M. Monahan, L. Smith, F. Byrne; forwards, L. Din, T. Furlong, C. Power, J. Williams, J. Thomson. Play opened up fast with the Seniors defending the eastern goal, and inside of five minutes Flynn was responsible for scoring the first goal. The Juniors awoke to the occasion, however, shortly after, when Williams best Walsh for the equalizer. Both teams put up an excellent brand of football from then on, and despite the repeated attacks made on the opposing goals, nothing further resulted in the scoring line.

Upon resumption of play, the Juniors, having advantage of the wind, kept the ball in Senior territory for some minutes. The backs were found hard to beat, and on several occasions the Senior forwards swept west and all but beat the goal. After about ten minutes of play, Meaney availed of a good opening and scored a beauty, giving the Seniors a one goal lead. From then on, almost to the end of play, the Juniors were called upon to defend their lines, as the opposing forwards were playing up well. However, just before the final whistle blew, the Juniors staged a rally, and saw Power send a hard shot to Walsh which was only partly cleared. In the play Power bounced on the ball and best Walsh for the equalizer. In this play Walsh got his leg badly injured and was conveyed from the field in a motor car to have a doctor attend his injuries. The game ended in a draw, two goals all.

A Race That Has Never Been Beaten

Lady Drummond Hay gives the following interesting account of the ancient people with whom the British race at war:

Durra, inhospitable mountains, snow-covered even at this season, steep arid slopes, deer-grazing to sheep and cattle, and from whose waters is painfully wrong, the highlanders living of a romantic and insular life, whose origin is lost in the mists of ages—this is the nature of the Ab-el-Krim country.

Tradition has it that in prehistoric times the Rifians descended from northern Europe, and certainly in appearance and customs they partake almost entirely of the North, and little, if at all, of the South.

Tall, fair or red-haired and bearded, blue-eyed, shaggy, treacherous, everlastingly engaged in blood feuds, they are the very prototypes of the Vikings of song and saga. Moslems by religion, they are unorthodox and unscrupulous in their views; extremely moral by nature and tradition. The Rifian woman occupies a position utterly opposed to woman's customary position in other Moslem countries, knowing nothing of the veil and its restrictions, sharing the lives of and working on an equality with the men.

Never Bowled to a Conqueror.

Such is the race which has never bowed to a conqueror. Romans, Goths, Moors, in the past, French and Spanish of to-day, were, and are, impatient against these warring mountaineers, flourishing and fighting frequently in conditions of unimaginable hardship and privation. To conquer them it would be necessary to fight them with their own weapons. Modern methods of warfare so far have not been of avail. A thousand airplanes would inflict no appreciable damage, as there are practically no towns to bomb.

Since blood feuds are the chief sport of peace time, each family lives in a stone dwelling as he removed from his neighbor as he conveniently can. The dwelling is surrounded by a wall, which is pierced to make loopholes for defending rifles.

The tribes of the Rif are legion, and prior to collecting together under Abd-el-Krim formed a series of little republics, without pretensions to civilization, subject to tribal government, always at war among themselves.

Within the last few years, however, blood feuds and inter-tribal warfare have given place to unity in a common cause against the intruder and in a common ideal of independence and nationalism. Abd-el-Krim declared a holy war of Nationalism, not of religion. There is not, and never has been, any question of fanaticism or religious motive on the part of the Rifians. Their point of view is essentially one of national self-preservation.

Abd-el-Krim is not of noble origin. He was neither chief nor political leader. At one time he was an employee under the Spanish Government and it was during this period that a Spanish officer boxed his ears. How Still Smarts.

That happened many years ago, but the blow still smarts, and the echo still an answer in his wild native mountains. The blow transformed the little employee into patriot, leader, hero and Sultan.

Aided by his brother, who was educated in Spain, Abd-el-Krim has organized the Rif. Good roads have been constructed, a telephone service covers the country, and wireless installations bring the world to the ears of those who themselves keep the world at bay from their primitive mountain. Water is scarce and precious, the country unfruitful, but when crops fail the Rifian can live and fight on the roots of the earth.

Abd-el-Krim, when recently discussing certain European Prima Ministers, claimed that he was as good as any of them. He added, "What I tell you is, I tell you that to-morrow there is no you shall. Deserters they are. I give the order. To-morrow they burn. Mister Lloyd George himself could not do better than that."

But quite recently the reforming instinct of his Rifian Majesty has provoked him to substitute shooting for burning. Such is the march of civilization.

The John Murray-Anderson Follies

FIELD PRODUCER TO PRODUCE UNDER HIS OWN NAME.

New York, Aug. 8.—John Murray Anderson, creator of the Greenwich Village Follies, will not stage the impending edition of this revue for James & Green. The organization of the new School of the Theater and Music, which he and Robert Milton will sponsor this fall, will demand his attention with this significant series of revues which he originated in the Little Greenwich Village Theatre six years ago. Hazard Short, who succeeded Anderson as the James & Green director and producer of previous seasons, has carried out.

Anderson will produce later in the season, in conjunction with his school, John Murray Anderson Follies, which he will make an annual feature of the Park Avenue Theatre, his headquarters.
