FERGUS FOUNDRY.—The Express says that the Fergus Foundry lately worked by Ash, Mair & Co., has been gutted, and the accustomed iron of machinery is no longer heard inside its walls. Mr. Thain, of Guelph, has purchased the machinery, which he intends putting in the building near the Erasmus bridge, in the county town.

WATERLOO COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION.—The above convention will be held this year in Knox Church, Ayr, on Thursday and Friday, the 29th and 30th March. The pastor, superintendents and teachers of Sabbath Schools in the County are cordially invited to be present. The Rev. Mr. Millard, the general secretary will be in Ayr and address the Convention.

UNSAFE BRIDGE.—The Express says that about fifty years of actual service the Gilkinson bridge, crossing the Grand River at Elora, has succumbed. One of the sleepers has fallen with its own weight, completely rotted through, and its comrades must soon follow. The structure is unsafe to drive across, and the sooner the Council close it up the better.

DEATH OF REV. CHARLES PEDLEY.—The Cobourg World regrets to announce the death of the Rev. Charles Pedley, minister of the Congregational Church in Cobourg. He had been confined to his room for two months, by the malady which terminated in his death being Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. He was for some time minister of the Congregational Church in Guelph some years ago.

SOME OX.—There is an ox near Lockport, Niagara County, N.Y., which is quite a curiosity, and well worth seeing. The animal is owned by Mr. Ira Farnsworth, stands seven feet high, is six years old, and weighs 4,000 pounds. This we believe is, without exception, the largest ox in America. When fat it is thought he will weigh 4,500 lbs. It is Mr. F's intention to exhibit this ox at the Provincial Fair in a Fillet next fall.

ALMOST A FIRE.—Last Friday evening, one of the employees in Messrs. Watson, Tilt & Adsett's woolen factory, New Dundee, left some ashes that still contained living coals standing in the wooden box in the lower room of the factory. The box caught fire, and the flames spreading to the floor had already consumed a part of it before it was discovered by some parties passing the factory.

THE JUVENILE CONCERT.—The second concert, given by Prof. Cushman's juvenile class came off last night in the Drill Shed. The attendance was not nearly so large as on the preceding evening. The singing was excellent, and the audience appeared to appreciate it very much. The children were in good voice, and were not so timid as on the first evening. The concert passed off pleasantly.

LYNX CAUGHT.—On Friday night week, as Mr. R. Pendleton and Mr. Wm. Rowbotham, of Caledon, were returning home in the vicinity of Graham's estate, they managed to shoot and wound a lynx, which enabled them to track him next day a distance of four or five miles, when they succeeded in capturing him after a desperate fight, in which Mr. Rowbotham found the coat torn off his back, and his fox-hound killed.

THE NINE HOUR MOVEMENT IN DUNDAS.—A mass-meeting of the workmen of Dundas was held in the Town Hall there on Thursday night, at which about four hundred persons were present. Speeches were delivered by Messrs. G. M. Barton, J. H. Marshall, and George Crawford, of Dundas, and by James Ryan and James Fahey, of Hamilton. Resolutions were passed, approving of the nine hour movement, and pledging the workmen of Dundas to use every legitimate means to secure the object in view. No amendment was offered. After giving three cheers for the Queen, the meeting dispersed.

FREAKS OF THE FROST.—An artistically inclined young man recently traced a bridge with a train of cars on a pane of glass thickly coated with frost, using for the purpose the point of a pair of scissors. The etching remained for a day or two, perhaps more, the sun shining full upon it every morning. A thaw came and the frost disappeared. The window was thoroughly cleaned several times, and yet the frost re-appeared on the window, a day or two ago—more than a week after the first sketch was made—there was the bridge as plain and as clearly outlined on the glass as the first day. The people are in great wonderment about it, and an explanation is earnestly desired.

EN ROUTE FOR THE NORTH WEST.—Mr. Hugh Wilson, P. L. S., of Mount Forest, arrived safely at Duluth about the middle of last month, on his way to the scene of his last year's operations. The Duluth Minnesotian of the 17th ult., notes his further progress and purposes as follows: "This morning Hugh Wilson, the noted Provincial Land Surveyor, Mount Forest, Canada, started from Duluth with one assistant and three packers, for Fort William and the Lake Shebandawan gold and silver region. He goes now to complete his work; after which he will proceed to execute a contract he has with the Canadian Government to survey and plat several townships in the Fort William region. He has a long journey before him; but with good guides and his own experience, he will go safely through, beyond a doubt."

Havana, March 1.—Valmas eda has published the following decree: "A white male or female, or a free colored male or female, who will bring in 25 free or slave negroes, now roaming in the mountains, to the headquarters will receive a full pardon and $600 reward. A negro slave who will bring in 25 negroes from insurrectionary districts will receive his or her freedom, and if bringing in a number with arms $17 will be paid for each negro so brought. Parties unable to bring in the required number, but who bring in some, will receive pardon and the value of their services."

Scranton, Pa., March 1.—This morning about 9 o'clock Mrs. Welsh, living near Danmore, about two miles from this city, went out to procure some milk from a neighbour, and locked up the house, leaving her two little children, aged two and four years, in bed alone. She had not gone far before she noticed smoke arising from the building, and hurrying back she found the house completely enveloped in flames. The house being rather isolated it took some time before the neighbors noticed the fire, consequently, it was burned to the ground, and the charred remains of the children were subsequently taken from the ruins.

Washington, March 2.—The Cabinet at its session yesterday agreed upon an answer to the note of Earl Granville, re-answered here on the 22nd of February, and it was mailed last night for London. It is believed to acknowledge in most courteous language, the receipt of Granville's note, and quoting that portion of it relating to the subject of consequential damages, firmly adheres to our case as presented at Geneva. It is contended that the subject is one for arbitration under the Treaty of Washington. The members of the Cabinet until yesterday studiously avoided conversation on the subject, but after the session, which lasted over two hours, every member was at liberty to say that the note was finished, and that our Government would stand by the position assumed in the beginning by the President. The mail from the State Department to Minister Schenck was unusually large, containing copies of leading newspapers, with editorial comments on mooted points of the Treaty.

An answer to the note of Secretary Fish will not reach here before the 1st of April.

The True Ring.
Here are a few sentences which fell from the lips of Vice President Colfax when addressing a public meeting in Brooklyn on Washington's birth-day. They contain the true ring, and coming from such a man as Mr. Colfax carry the more weight with them. If every American and British Statesman would adopt a similar style of argument, when discussing the Alabama dispute and the Washington Treaty Mr. Colfax said:—

And that treaty was made by which these open questions were referred to international arbitration—a blow for peace and against war, more potent than all the peace societies that ever assembled on either side of the Atlantic Ocean. (Applause.)

With this great step in advance, with the distinct understanding all over the world that every question and difference between these two nations are to be submitted to arbitration at Geneva, I say neither nation will dare, in the face of the civilized world, to destroy that compact, which is solemnly made before God and man, and to leave those irritations open for further altercation in the future. (Applause.) No! no! If we were not to receive one dollar as the result of this arbitration, I would stand before my countrymen and say settle this question, whether we receive nothing or whether our share becomes bankrupt, rather than recede a hair's breadth from the great moral question that these nations occupy to-day in respect to other nations of the earth. (Applause.)

It says to the countries of Europe in trumpet tones, "disband your millions of men in France, Germany, Austria, and in Russia, and copy our example, submit your disputes to impartial arbitration. (Great Applause.)"

In the Sandwich Islands the natives are dying out. Altogether the native population of the islands numbers now only 60,000; and at the present rate of decrease, it is thought they will be exterminated in about thirty years. Here, as every where in the islands, the introduction of clothing among the people used to take any care of themselves has had deadly consequences. The Kanaka, as the Sandwich Islanders call himself, wears his cloths wet, or flings them off and sleeps in the open air, as if he were still in the habit of savage life. Then when his hands himself feverish, with a child's find of self-restraint, he jumps into the water to quench the fire in his veins.

THE ASSAULT ON THE QUEEN.

The Prisoner Committed.

He is Supposed to be Insane.

LONDON, March 1st.—The assault upon Her Majesty Queen Victoria yesterday, by the man O'Connor, is a theme of universal comment and condemnation in the morning journals. They drew a comparison between the act of this one individual and the demonstrations of loyalty made by the entire people of London, and other demonstrations throughout the United Kingdom on Tuesday last.

Previous to the attack upon Her Majesty, O'Connor sealed an iron railing ten feet in height, which surrounds the court yard of Buckingham Palace. When he approached the carriage of the Queen he first saw Lady Churchill, the Lady-in-Waiting, who was in attendance on and riding with Her Majesty, and was about to assault her, but he soon discovered his mistake and turned upon the Queen. Her Majesty's groom, John Brown, who was riding behind her carriage, upon witnessing the action of O'Connor, leaped from his horse and arrested and disarmed the assailant. The prisoner was handed over to the authorities, and will be brought to Bow street station this morning, where a preliminary examination will be held.

London, March 1, evening.—The assault on the Queen was brought before the police magistrate at Bow-street at noon to-day for examination. The prisoner presented a very boyish and not unpleasant appearance, and to-day was quiet and unassuming in manner. He made no attempt at bravado, and listened quietly to the testimony without seeking to interrupt or contradict the witnesses. On being interrogated by the magistrate he stated his full name was Arthur O'Connor; that he was born in England, but that his father was a native of Ireland. It was subsequently elicited that his grandfather was the well-known Fergus O'Connor, one of the leaders of the Chartist movement.

One of the policemen into whose custody O'Connor was delivered, swore the prisoner said the reason he had not loaded the pistol was because it was broken, and that he repeatedly exclaimed, "I wish to God I had succeeded," and that he avowed he had intended to present the petition for Fenian amnesty to the Queen in St. Paul's Cathedral, on Tuesday, when she was surrounded by her ministers, that he then had pen and ink ready for her to sign the document with, that he would have made an attempt, but the crowd was so great that he could not get near the Queen. Two papers found on the prisoner when he was seized, were produced in court and read. One, pardoning all Fenian convicts, in substance is as follows:—

"I, Victoria, Queen by the Grace of God, make the following declaration:—Whereas, there are now confined in various prisons throughout the Kingdom a number of Irishmen, known as celebrated Fenians; whereas, they were imprisoned with my sanction, having rebelled and conspired against my Crown and to weaken and destroy my power; whereas, sympathizers with these men have petitioned for their pardon, and notwithstanding they are still unrepentant, now I, Victoria, Queen, do, grant a full pardon to each and every Fenian prisoner unconditionally, and notwithstanding this my agreement is made under fear of my life, I will not depart therefrom. Dated February 22, 1872."

The other document is a commutation in advance of punishment of the prisoner for his present act from hanging to shooting, and is dated Feb. 28.

At the conclusion of the examination the prisoner was committed for trial at the Assizes, and taken back to goal under a strong escort.

It is evident that the papers found on the prisoner are his own words, and the impression of all who heard them is that they are the product of a deranged mind.

The Queen left Buckingham Palace to-day for Windsor Castle. On her arrival at Windsor she was met by almost the entire population of the place, with the warmest demonstrations of loyalty and affection.

Proposed Railway from Guelph to Collingwood.

MEETING IN GUELPH.

Any one looking at the map of Ontario, cannot fail to notice that there is a large and important section of country lying between Guelph and Collingwood, in a direct line, which is almost entirely destitute of railway communication and its many advantages. The proposed line from Hamilton to Hog's Bay, on the Georgian Bay, would to some extent benefit the section of country referred to, but its construction would entail a much heavier expense, while it would not receive the same help from the municipalities interested as this new and more direct line would.

Several gentlemen in Guelph have lately had this new project under their serious consideration, and Mr. Massie, immediately after his return from the Bruce railway campaign, called a meeting of the leading business men in town, which was held last (Friday) night in the Queen's Hotel, which was numerously attended. Mr. Massie was called to the chair, and Mr. Guthrie was appointed Secretary. The question was thoroughly discussed in all its bearings, and the many advantages of such a line of railway not only to Hamilton and Guelph, but to the whole section of country through which it would run, were pointed out by the different speakers. It was finally moved by Mr. Innes, seconded by Mr. Melvin, and unanimously resolved:— "That this meeting is of opinion that steps should be taken for the construction of a railway from Guelph to Collingwood, by way of Orangeville, and as it is desirable to obtain the co-operation and assistance of the city of Hamilton, the following gentlemen be a deputation to Hamilton, to confer with its leading citizens, with a view of eliciting their sympathy in this undertaking, and report at an adjourned meeting, at an early date, viz:—The Mayor, Messrs. Massie, Stirton, Allan, Goldie, Raymond, Hogg, Guthrie, Robertson, Howard and Bruce."

The Deputation decided to proceed to Hamilton to-day, to carry out the instructions referred to in the resolution. This new railway scheme, as explained at the meeting, must commend itself to all interested. In the first place, it would be an inexpensive line inasmuch as the Great Western Railway, between Hamilton and Guelph, could be used as the southern section of the road. The only cost of construction in that case would be between Guelph and Collingwood, a distance of about 70 miles. It is proposed to run the line through Erin, Orangeville, and a part of East Garafraxa, then through the Townships of Mono, Mulmur and Notawasaga into Collingwood. This would give an almost air-line between Guelph and Collingwood, it would shorten the distance between the latter place and Hamilton by 50 miles, and afford a short and direct route to the east. It would, moreover, secure to Guelph and Hamilton the trade of Erin, Garafraxa, and Townships north of Orangeville. Erin, Garafraxa, and Orangeville naturally belongs to Guelph, and the people in these municipalities heartily desire to continue their connection with us, but unless we make some effort, such as the present, to keep them, other lines of traffic and travel will be opened up, and then they will assuredly be lost to us. To the people of Guelph, therefore, this is a question of the greatest consideration and is closely connected with our future prosperity.

It is believed that all the Municipalities through which the railway is intended to run would vote handsome bonuses to aid its construction, Guelph would require to give a liberal bonus, and no doubt Collingwood would also do all she could, as the line would materially benefit that town, as well as the country surrounding. It is also expected that the Great Western would come forward and aid the Company in the same way as it has done the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway, and that an arrangement would be made for working the line as it does that road, Government aid would also be obtained, and all these together, would it is thought, put the Company in a position to build the line.

With these explanatory remarks, we leave the subject for the present, till we learn the result of the Conference between the Guelph Deputation and the Hamilton people. We have laid the matter before our citizens, and trust they will consider it all its bearings, for on the success or failure of the scheme our interests as a town, and its future will materially depend.

MR. ROBINSON M. P. P. AND THE ORANGEMEN.—Thursday night the Orangemen of Toronto rebuked the slanders which have been heaped upon the member for Kingston by honouring that gentleman with a complimentary banquet. Notwithstanding the adverse efforts of two or three officious members of the Order, the affair was very successful, and showed that Mr. Robinson had lost none of the confidence of his brother Orangemen.

SOUTH BRANT REFORM CONVENTION.—Delegates have been selected to attend a Reform Convention for nominating a candidate to represent South Brant in the House of Commons, to take place on the 5th inst. The Hon. E. B. Wood is the present representative of the constituency in the Commons. He also represents it in the Local Legislature; but under the Act abolishing dual representation he will be disqualified from holding a seat both in the Commons and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

WEST MIDDLESEX.—The Strathroy correspondent of the London Advertiser says:—The news has reached here that Mr. Mackenzie declines the nomination of the Reformers of this riding for the House of Commons. The announcement causes regret, because in Mr. Mackenzie the electors feel they have a representative in the Provincial Legislature worthy of them, and a true exponent of the views and feelings of the large Reform majority in this section of the Province. Mr. Mackenzie declines, owing to the refusal of the people of Lambton to consent to his separation from them.

ANOTHER TRUNK MYSTERY.—Anna Royce, a beautiful young lady, the daughter of Maurice Royce, living near Wurtsboro, Sullivan County, disappeared from her home in December last. Nothing was heard of her until Thursday last, when a box marked "Miss Anna Royce, Centerville, Sullivan County, N. Y.," was received at Wurtsboro, and sent to the house of Mr. Royce. Upon being opened, it was found to contain the corpse of his missing daughter. Inquiry showed that the box, with a trunk bearing the same address, had been sent by express from New-York, but nothing further has been ascertained. It is believed that Miss Royce was the victim of a crime similar to that which cost the unfortunate Alice Bowsley her life.

The Plough referred to is having a large demand, so great has become that three car loads have been forwarded to Mr. Horsman to supply the farmers in this neighborhood this Spring. All pronounce them the best general purpose Plough made, as a guarantee of this we need only say that they are manufactured at the celebrated Agricultural Works of F. W. Glen, Oshawa. HELEN MOIR

LOVE AND HONOUR.

A TALE OF THE CLYDE.

CHAPTER XIX.

A HAPPY AFTERNOON AT THE VILLA—JASPER JAQUIN UNEXPECTEDLY PRESENTS HIMSELF.

"Ah!" said Jaquin with a vindictive grin; "you don't know what it is to be a beggar, you'll find it out soon."

"Edwin," said Mrs Allerton, laying her hand on Bridgenorth's shoulder, "dear Edwin, what is the meaning of this? What is your connection with this man, and why does he talk of beggary?"

"Because, ma'am," replied Jaquin, "the moment he allowed you to call him dear Edwin he lost a fortune of twenty thousand pounds, and that is all the money he has in the world."

"Is this true?" "Yes, Violet, it is quite true," answered Bridgenorth. "The man whose sheep-runs in Australia I superintended willed all his property to me on condition that I never dropped the name of Bridgenorth, and never revealed myself as Edwin Allerton. I have revealed myself, therefore the property is no longer mine; but what matters it, since I have received in exchange a priceless treasure in the person of this dear girl, in comparison with whom a mountain of gold is but so much worthless dross?"

"Oh, father, and must you make this sacrifice for me?" murmured Helen. "And do you rate my love above this fortune?"

"Above all on earth, my child. I having you, how can I be poor—how can I be rich beyond compare?"

"Well, but you are not poor even in the other sense," said Mrs Allerton, with a glad smile.

"Of course not," burst forth her son, impetuously. "That accumulating fund!"

"Yes continued his mother; "it has been hitherto forgotten. Our joy has excluded it from recollection. Your father," she went on, turning again to Bridgenorth, "left a sum of ten thousand pounds to be invested in your behalf, in the hope that you would some time or other return. For fifteen years that sum has been accumulating, so that now it must be far above twenty thousand."

"Oh, father, how glad I am to hear this!" cried Helen. "I should have been so sorry had you paid this heavy price for me."

"I am also glad to hear it," said Bridgenorth, "not for the money which so unexpectedly comes to me, but as a token that my father wished to do me some justice. So Jaquin," he added, turning to the hunchback, who kept his place outside the window—"so Jaquin, it seems I am, after all, independent of Jerdan's cash. You will have the pleasure, therefore, of informing those who get it that its relinquishment causes me no pecuniary inconvenience. I am glad this has come out before you left us. You will now be good enough to relieve us of your presence."

"Yes, begone!" cried Edwin, angrily. "From all I can judge by your looks and behaviour, you are not the most amiable person in the world. My uncle has had to bear the infliction of your presence hitherto, but the necessity for that is now at an end, and neither he nor we are inclined to suffer your presence longer. You understand?"

"You speak big, young sir," rejoined Jaquin, with a malevolent scowl. "I daresay you would trample on me if you could, but I count myself as good as you, for as proud as you are."

"Nao mair o' yer impudence here," roared Ritchie, who had with difficulty restrained his wrath till now. "My man, I ken mair aboot you and yer daein's than ye think. It was you that gied the information tae that scoundrel o' a Frenchman, Dubosque, which has brocht a' this aboot. Ye thoelt tae work a lot o' ill by yer treachery, but ye see hoo yer mean, base, underhand wark has turned out for yer ain confusion."

"Ha! is this possible?" exclaimed Bridgenorth. "Was it you who gave the wretch Dubosque the information meant to ruin the happiness of this dear girl?"

"Let him deny it if he daur," said Ritchie. "I was puzzled for a while as tae hoo the Frenchman got the secret, but I'm in the dark nae langer."

"Did you do this?" thundered Bridgenorth furiously.

With great deliberation Jaquin laid his long arm across the window-sill, and leaning forward with an expression of insolent triumph in his ill-favoured countenance, malignantly answered—

"Yes, I did."

"Father, heed him not," cried Helen, as Bridgenorth, aggravated beyond measure by the insolent avowal, made an impulsive motion forward. "Think rather of what has been the actual result than of what he intended. But for his doing this thing we should not have been united, and the happiness of this hour we should never have known."

"You are right, my child, he is unworthy even of my resentment."

"Hear to him!" cried the hunchback, with a diabolical sneer. "If one did not know his history, his words here would lead to the supposition that he had been a pattern of virtue and honour."

"Jaquin, beware!" said Bridgenorth, in a deep concentrated tone. "I have borne much at your hands, but there is a limit to my endurance, and if you do not instantly rid us of your presence, I—"

"Well—you'll what—strike me! Do it, and you'll find I can strike back. Oh, I should just like to have a tussle with you, and pay you off for the contempt you have so often treated me. Come outside here, and we'll soon see who is the best man."

Scarcely were the insolent words spoken when young Edwin Allerton sprang through the open window, every organ of his well-knit frame quivering with passion.

"Now," he said, with a look of stern determination, "if in two minutes you are not out at yonder gate, I shall pitch you head-foremost into the water."

The hunchback eyed the athletic youth for a moment in silence, and powerful though he himself was, he saw that he had no chance against the well-knit frame of Edwin Allerton, animated as the youth was at the moment by the deepest indignation. He therefore thought it prudent to retreat, which he did slowly, and with most provoking impudence.

We all consider iron the embodiment of strength and power, but how few are aware that it is this same element, in the system, that gives us strength and vigor, and that an insufficiency of it causes weakness and debility. The Peruvian Syrup, a protoxide of iron, is prepared expressly to supply this vitalizing element.

There are probably a hundred or more persons in this and neighboring towns, who daily suffer from the distressing effects of kidney troubles, who do not know that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, is almost a certain cure. In severe cases, great relief may be obtained, if not a perfect cure.

Galloway Cattle.
To the farmers of this neighborhood, many of whom have originally emigrated from the Border counties of Scotland, it may be a matter of some interest to learn that at the late Liverpool Fat Cattle show a representative of the Galloway breed, so well known throughout these counties, fairly beat all rivals. The Liverpool Fat Cattle Show, as everybody well knows, is one of the most considerable, if it be not the most important one held in the United Kingdom, and, speaking of it, the reporter of the Liverpool Mercury says:—"The most attractive animals in the show were a splendid Hereford, bred and fed upon the model farm at Windsor, and a Devon heifer, shown by H. R. H., the Prince of Wales from his farm at Sandringham. The first of these gained the first prizes at Smithfield and Birmingham, and an extra prize of £30, as the best Hereford. The bullock belonging to the Prince of Wales is an animal of remarkable symmetry and small bone, but it was fairly beaten on this occasion by a splendid Galloway heifer, exhibited by Mr. William Rigge, Banks, Kirkcubright. She was bred by the Earl of Selkirk."

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will speedily and certainly arrest the depressing influence of disease upon the nerves and muscles. It restores the appetite and induces a disposition to take on healthy flesh. It causes the formation of living blood, strengthening the action of both Heart and Lungs. It sustains the system under the trying circumstances, and causes the healthy development of all the organs necessary to our existence.

We notice that the agricultural papers all over the country recommend the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.—Exchange.

Farmers and others in this section have long known and appreciated the advantage of these powders over all others.

BREAKFAST—EPP'S COCOA—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor bills.—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet is labeled "James Epps & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps's Milky Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).
