LONG DELAYED FORTUNE GAME

A Woodstock Man Who is Now Worth Millions

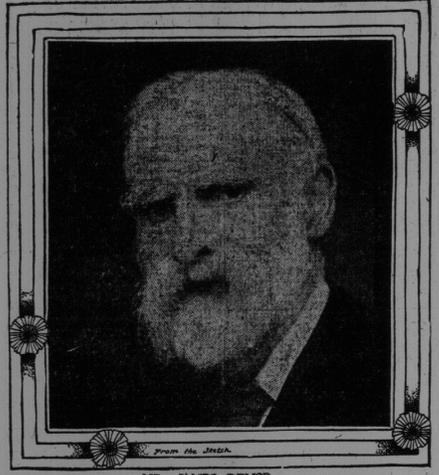

INTERESTING STORY

Mr. Kinney Left Woodstock 23 Years Ago to Seek His Fortune and is Reported to Have Recently Found It In Oregon.

If a very interesting story, which comes from Melrose, Mass., is true, then New Brunswick has contributed another millionaire to the United States and the man's daughter, who has been working in Melrose, is the chief heiress to a large fortune. The man who became a millionaire is a Mr. Kinney, formerly of Woodstock, N. B., and the story, which appeared under a Melrose date in a Boston paper, is as follows: "Thinking herself an orphan for 23 years, Miss Annie Kinney, who lives at 108 Highland avenue, Melrose Highlands, learns she is an heiress, and her father, who she thought was dead, is a millionaire land owner in Oregon. Miss Kinney, who is a working girl, can hardly realize that her father is living. "In the letter received by Miss Kinney her father asks her to bring her sister and live with him the rest of their lives. "It seems like a romance to Miss Kinney, after struggling for 23 years, to find herself the heir to a fortune. "Mr. Kinney, who lived in Woodstock, N. B., with his wife, a son and two daughters, was working for a small salary when his health failed and he lost his position. So one day, 23 years ago, he bade his family good-by and said he was going west and seek a fortune for them all. "After waiting several years and receiving no word from her husband, Mrs. Kinney started for the west in search of him, pined away and died. "Soon after the mother left the little boy was taken sick and died, and the little girls sought relatives, Miss Annie coming to her cousin, William J. Mitchell of Melrose Highlands, and going to work as a clerk in his bakery. "At 23 years her father she thought had been heard from. The glad news was first received by her sister in Woodstock, N. B., who wrote Miss Kinney that her father was alive and a millionaire, because of land sales since the California earthquake sent so many persons hunting land in the north. He asked his sister to locate his children and to have them come and live with him. "The sister is now Mrs. J. W. Edwards of Woodstock."

The banquet was held at the Savoy Hotel, under the presidency of Field Marshal Lord Roberts.

BULLETS FLEW AROUND HIM

Although This Man Was Not Shot He Was Almost Frightened to Death.

A St. John man who was visiting his summer home at Renforth yesterday had a bad scare and a narrow escape from being accidentally shot. It appears that he was shoveling a path in the snow from his house to the road when his attention was attracted by the sound of rifle shots and two bullets whizzed by quite close to him. He looked around to see from whence they came and at the same time started toward the house. Just then another shot came and the bullet passed through the cap he was wearing. Without further delay he ran for the house thinking discretion the better part of valor with bullets flying that way. Investigation showed that a party of men from the city were stopping at one of the nearby cottages and were indulging in some rifle practice, evidently not taking care which way they aimed. As it was there were no serious results except a scare, though it might have been different.

FREDERICTON SEWAGE CASE

Government's Decision Will Render Purification Plant Necessary for Fredericton.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 11.—The decision of the provincial government in the Fredericton sewage case which was handed down on Saturday is directly against the city of Fredericton and in favor of the residents of St. John and other counties who protested against Fredericton being permitted to empty its sewage into the river. The decision is much commented on here. It simply means that Fredericton will now be obliged to install a purification plant, which will cost at least $125,000, and this expenditure will be in addition to the $75,000 already spent in a sewage system. The hearing in the case has been long drawn out and the claims of both sides have been cleverly presented. On behalf of the city it was urged that the water of the river below Fredericton is not potable at the present time, that it cannot be safely used for drinking purposes without being filtered or boiled, and that the additional pollution which would be caused by the construction of the proposed sewage system would therefore not to any material degree injure or inconvenience the residents down the river. On behalf of those residents it was claimed, on the other hand, and the claim was supported by uncontradicted testimony, that a large number of people have no other source of supply for drinking water or ice—that they have been in the habit of using the river water for domestic purposes since the earliest settlement of the country, that many of them have been unable to secure suitable water by sinking wells, and that they have not heretofore found the water injurious to health. They contended that to permit the city to discharge the whole of its sewage matter into the river would cause danger to the public health, and would greatly deprecate the value of their properties.

THE LATE ROBERTSON GASS

HAZARD, Feb. 11.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Robertson Gass took place at noon and the remains were taken to St. John on the Quebec express for interment in Fernhill cemetery. The fellow employes on the I. C. R. of William Kelly, accountant, presented him with an address and an elegant dress suit case Saturday night. Mr. Kelly has accepted a position with the C. P. R. and will be stationed in the west end during the winter and at Montreal in the summer. Mr. Kelly was considered one of the most efficient officials in the I. C. R. freight department.

WOMEN WERE BARRED FROM COURT ROOM IN THAW'S TRIAL TODAY

Harry Thaw's Emotion As He Listened to the Story Told by His Wife.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Unless all plans are changed, the attorneys for the defense in the Thaw case, when court opens this morning, will continue their effort to place before the jury the will which Harry Thaw is said to have signed on the night of his wedding. On this will and a codicil, said to have been signed at the same time, the defence relied largely to show that the story which Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has testified she told her husband before their marriage, untrue. Thaw's mind, and that constant brooding over her story induced a state of mental irresponsibility, which culminated in his shooting of Stanford White. Just what this will contains no one knows except the defence and District Attorney Jerome, who had an opportunity to examine it when it was offered in evidence. What purport to be extracts from the will have been printed, but attorneys for the defence have denied that they are true. It is certain, however, that the name of White is in the will. That this will and the codicil which show that the story which Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has testified she told her husband, was responsible for a condition of mental irresponsibility in Thaw, is the firm belief of the defence. Attorney Delmas has repeatedly said so. The will itself can be of no value in the case unless it goes to show that Thaw brooded over his wife's story and over what he believed to be the fate of other young girls at the hands of Stanford White, until his mind became unbalanced and he believed himself an instrument directed to remove White from the world. The defence plans to call to the stand a lawyer from Pittsburgh, named Perkins, who is said to have drawn the original will. He is a relative of George Lawler Carnegie, Thaw's brother-in-law. The will, as it is originally drawn, is typewritten, but it is full of interjections and enunciations. Jean L. DeForrest, who was Mrs. Thaw's teacher at the school at Plompton, N. J., aids a chapter to the case. She writes that Evelyn was an earnest scholar, and says that since the tragedy which Thaw caused, she has continued to instruct Mrs. Thaw in literature and Biblical history. The instruction is given at the Hotel Lorraine, where Mrs. Thaw resides, and introduction until this proof is beyond question. It has been said that the will was turned over to Mr. Gleason, of Thaw's counsel, immediately for the killing of White, and that it has never left his possession since. If this is true—the defence will neither affirm nor deny it—it is possible that the attorney will be placed on the stand, and it would give the prosecution a chance to go into the details of a number of matters which seem to have been placed before the jury by Mrs. Thaw as well as they could be placed by the defendant himself, and would open the way for the prosecution to go into the truth or falsity of those matters, which they cannot at present do. As a result of the order there were several rows of vacant seats in the court room when the jury returned to the place on the bench and Harry Thaw was called to the bar. The prisoner walked to his place at his counsel's table without a single friendly nod to greet him. No member of his family was in court. That the defence would proceed with the struggle to have Harry Thaw accepted in evidence as testimony to his unaccounted mind was indicated by Mr. Delmas who asked of J. J. Lyon, called as the first witness of the day. Mr. Lyon was sworn and stated that he had lived in Pittsburgh all his life and had been connected with the Union National Bank. "You are acquainted with the defendant, Harry K. Thaw?" asked Mr. Delmas. District Attorney Jerome here objected to the defence proceeding with a new witness while the examination of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw remains uncompleted. Mr. Jerome said he thought the defence should offer some explanation of its purpose in thus interrupting the testimony of Mrs. Thaw. Mr. Delmas stated that when court had

NEW SCHEME OF LIGHTING

A Plan to Generate Electric Power From Head of Bay Tides to Light Sackville and Other Towns.

It is stated that a scheme is being formulated by the Cove Hydro-Electric Co., of Boston, Mass., to buy up a lot of land in Sackville, N. B., with the idea of installing an electric plant for lighting the town. It is also proposed to light Dorchester, Memramook, Moncton, and other places along the line. The plan as proposed by the company is a very extensive one and the mode of installing the electric power in Sackville as outlined by the company is one that it is felt can be carried into effect without much difficulty. The company, it is understood, has applied for incorporation with a capital of $1,000,000, and is composed of the following: George H. Cove, Frank R. Kimball, Hampton V. Hayward, Fred. C. Cole, and Wilbur Webb. It is understood that Hampton V. Hayward is president of the company. George H. Cove is at present in this city and representing the company in the Maritime provinces.

Case of E. W. Patterson Before Equity Court This Morning.

The case of Tooke Bros. & Co., Ltd., and other creditors against E. W. Patterson, came up in the equity court this morning before Mr. Justice Barker. An interim injunction was granted a few days ago restraining Brock & Patterson and E. W. Patterson from disposing of any goods in the store of E. W. Patterson, until the question as to whether or not the bill of sale given to Brock & Patterson by E. W. Patterson constituted a preference against other creditors. The injunction order was to stand till next week, both parties agreeing to bring the case down to hearing as soon as possible. M. G. Teed, K. C., and L. P. D. Tilley for the plaintiffs; H. J. Smith, J. D. P. Levin, assignees of the estate and representing creditors; A. A. Wilson also representing creditors. Dr. Earle, K. C., J. King Selley and J. B. M. Baxter for the defendants.

Hopkins Smith, Jr. Mr. Smith's yacht won the Kaiser's Cup, and his daring is said to have first brought Mr. Smith into favor with Miss Morton. The wedding was one of the largest that has taken place in New York in recent years. The bride-elect has been one of the most popular young ladies in society here and in Washington.

EDISON WILL RETIRE NOW

Great Inventor Says He Will Work No More

TIME FOR PLAY

He Will Continue to Experiment With Electricity "Just for the Fun of the Thing" But Will Cut Out the Commercial End of It.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, is 60 years old today. In an interview yesterday he said it was now time for him to knock off work and play awhile. "For years I have been making experiments with electricity," said Mr. Edison, "but all these years I've been turning these experiments to commercial value so fast that I have not had a chance to play with electricity for the fun of the thing, just to see how much I can find out about it. But from tomorrow I am going to give up the commercial end of it and continue my labor purely as a science. That will be a pleasure I have long been pronouncing myself." "Is it possible to tell what the next great step in the application of electricity to mechanics of the present day life will be?" he was asked. "I would be a daring man to make such a venture. We are all busy collecting data, we investigators, and perhaps in 500 years more we will be able to suspect something."

WIPED OUT BY A SNOWSLIDE

Car Repair Shop at Coal Creek, B. C., Wrecked and One Man Buried in Debris.

COAL CREEK, B. C., Feb. 11.—(Special).—The car repair shop of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company was wiped out and one life lost by a snow slide which occurred here on Friday morning, when a gigantic mass of ice and snow hurled down the mountain side and demolished the shop. Several men were at work in the building, but all escaped with slight injuries except Charles Douglas, who was instantly killed, being buried under the ice and debris. Douglas was married, 28 years old, and a carpenter. The coal company officials have warned many of the residents to vacate their houses. There is a constant danger of heavy slides, owing to the great quantities of snow on the mountains overhanging the place and rains which have fallen for a few days.

GIRLS TRIED BY DRUM-HEAD COURT MARTIAL

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—Another search for bombs at the Moscow Female University has resulted in several unfulfilled ones being found. It is reported that the eight girl students arrested relative to the threat of the terrorists to execute the death sentences imposed upon Count Ignatieff, General Pavloff, General Von der Launitz, and Governor Alexandrovsky had been tried by drum-head court martial.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

result is not always as satisfactory as might be wished. Take, for example, the occasion when he submitted the following item to the sporting editor for his column: "THE TURF." "One of the King square night hawks struck a 210 clip on the Marsh Road last evening. He was timed by several well known citizens who say they will vouch for the truth of this statement." When asked to name the citizens in question, the young man admitted that they had not been given to him, and also that the person who gave him the information seemed very anxious to have it printed. The sporting editor took the young man aside, conversed with him kindly for a few minutes, and sent him out to get a report of the state of the fish market. Of late the new reporter has been meditating a good deal on the civic situation, and the sad lack of interest in the coming civic elections. He asked the religious editor this morning if it would be an advantage to a newspaper to have a member of its staff in the city council. The religious editor, as is common with such men, has a fine fund of expressive English, and what he said to the new reporter would require considerable punctuation. The substance of it was, however, that if the new reporter had any notion of becoming a candidate for the city council it would be the duty of his co-workers in this office to communicate with his relatives and ask if they could possibly secure a situation for a young man to drive cows, or perform some other humble but useful occupation on the farm. The new reporter emerged from the interview with a thoughtful expression, and an assignment to write up a story about the price of vegetables in the country market.

...That... Preposterous ..Will..

BY L. G. MOBERLY.

(Continued.) "Not likely, my dear, not at all likely," Sir Ralph said, in the decisive tones which he was in the habit of using when he differed from his wife, but had doubted in his own mind as to the just grounds of his differing; "I dare say this heiress, this Miss Hume, is a pretty barmoid type of girl—tough how to dress and how to behave by Mrs. Grey. But she is bound to show her origin; the cloven hoof will show, you may be sure of that, and an Lady Connell only smiled in response, and did not attempt to contradict the positive statements of her lord and master, his eyes grew more and more decided. "It will be most interesting to see her," he added finally; "these experiments are always exceedingly interesting, as much as as they are unscientific."

Her husband's words recurred to Lady Connell a few weeks later, when she was standing by the fireplace in her drawing room awaiting her guests. By a mischance due to some delay on the railway, Mrs. Grey and her charge, Molly Hume, had not arrived at Mallard Court at the time when the other guests arrived, and the exigencies of dressing for the dinner party of the evening had prevented Lady Connell from being downstairs to receive the heiress and her chaperone when they reached the house between eight and eight o'clock. Thus it came about that the introduction to the much discussed young lady took place in the drawing room when the house party and the dinner guests were assembled at 8.30. Their late arrival had entailed a somewhat hurried toilette, and Mrs. Grey and Molly did not enter the great drawing-room until the rest of the party had assembled. "I dare say this heiress, this Miss Hume, is a pretty barmoid type of girl," Sir Ralph's words flashed across his wife's mind with a vivid sense of their absurdity and inappropriateness, as her eyes fell on the tall girl who followed Mrs. Grey's most receptive figure into the room, and with the thought came also a start of irrefragable surprise, because of some odd sensation of familiarity that struck her as she advanced to meet her guests. A barmoid type of girl? Lady Connell found herself smiling actually and mechanically, her eyes turned again to the tall figure in white, whose bright head was now gracefully bent to listen to the words her host was saying to her, "that the mouth and chin were not made for nothing. I should say, Grace, that your charge has very considerable character. She should make a sensation in the world."

"Wherever we have been she has made a sensation. At first, after we reached England, we stayed about in out of the way places, where we met no one, and where she spent the time in mastering the art of ladylike external. My Molly has always had a lady's soul; it is inborn in her. The tenderness that rang in Mrs. Grey's voice as she said 'my Molly' brought a smile to Lady Connell's lips, a smile that ended in a sharp sigh, as the old pain of her own childhood came back to her heart. Then, with an effort, she shook off her momentary depression, and moved away to talk of some of her other guests, far away from the tall girl in the centre of the room with her bright hair, her eager lovely eyes, and her young stately grace that held so infinite a charm. "Two other pairs of eyes were also watching the new arrival, but in their glances there was neither kindness nor genuine interest: only a little animosity, and a great deal of envy and malice. Mrs. Bedsworth and her widowed daughter, Lady Bangley, stood together in a recess near the window, surrounded by a small group of people who, like themselves, had looked up sharply at the entrance of the notorious heiress. "Yes," Mrs. Bedsworth was saying, with a flutter of her eyelids, and a faint, sad smile, "you would never guess it now, but when I first saw Miranda Hume she was dressed in a grimy pink cotton—yes really!—this with a deprecating smile to a lady who uttered an exclamation of surprise—really she was dressed in a pink cotton, much the worse for wear, and very much the worse for dirt."—At this moment Mrs. Bedsworth's silver laugh rang out, and no one observed how hard a look came into her eyes, nor how, as they were momentarily lowered to the floor, there shot into them a gleam of something that was nearly akin to hate.—"I do assure you," she went on, lifting her eyes to the heiress, her voice simultaneously, "even I, sanguine as I was, never expected to see such a transformation in any girl as I have seen in this one."

TO PREVENT BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION

Do not neglect a cold or cough no matter how slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages sooner or later will lead to fatal results. If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine trees combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other powerful remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and soothes inflamed membranes, and soothes the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Miss Belle Campbell, Long River, P. E. I., writes: "For some time I was troubled with bronchitis. A friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. So I procured three bottles but it only took two to cure me." Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is in a yellow wrapper, three the trade mark and the price 25 cents.

COSTUME OF SILK OR LIGHT-WEIGHT CLOTH. The sketch depicts a pretty model which would be suitable for a variety of materials. The bodice was cut with a rounded yoke upper part, the sections of which were joined together in the middle of the front and back by straps of velvet. Flat silk-covered buttons were also used as trimming, the sleeves being open caps of the material, under which were under-arms of lace. The inner yoke was of lace, and the skirt was made with a plaited panel down the middle of the front, at each side and in the back.

lower of Christ is always and everywhere a free moral agent. It is, "Choose you this day whom you will serve." There is nothing compulsory in the service of Christ. When we investigate the characteristics of these confederating forces we find an altogether different spirit at work. We find an influence going forth from these organizations which is very different from the teachings of Jesus Christ. His was not a propaganda of force in any sense; but the unions or confederacies of today are built upon force, and by force they expect to accomplish whatever they achieve. It is carried over to the extent of spirit, and most bitter strife at that—But Christ declares: "My kingdom is not of this world; if it were, I should have gathered legions of angels, but now is my kingdom not from hence." John 18, 36. "Henceforth, Jesus Himself, inspiration speaks thus: "He shall not strive, nor cry aloud; neither shall any one hear his voice in the streets." Mat. 12, 19. So he who enters the unions of this world to force the unwilling to yield to his demands, drops the spirit of the Master, and takes on the spirit of a force which is antagonistic to Christ and his purpose. The Christian warfare is the warfare of the spirit, and the spirit of force is the spirit of the devil. As the servants of Christ, we are not to fight, but to join our organizations which accomplish their purposes by carnal weapons. As Christ was not to strive nor become a disturber in the street, His servants can not join organizations which accomplish their designs by strife, disturbance, noisy strikes, accompanied by the maiming and killing of men and the destruction of property. The two things will not mingle, for they are opposed to the one to the other, as much as darkness and light. This purpose of these confederacies is that the confederated parties may protect themselves against those who have encroached upon their rights, or who they fear may do so. Therefore in these confederacies they put their trust, and in their power they confide and hope. "There will be a company who will put no trust in these towers of earth. They will refuse to join the confederacies. They will be participants in that work which the Lord calls binding up the testimony, and sealing the law. That makes them firm adherents of the Word of God, and adherents of the law of God. They will be looking for the return of their Lord, and the boycott, the keener weapon of those confederacies, will be directed against those who refuse to join them. The Lord has foretold in Rev. 13:17. Thus we see that in joining unions we are alluring ourselves with the power which will fight against and his remnant people in the culmination of this great conflict."

A PECULIAR VIEW REGARDING UNIONS

To the Editor of the Times: Sir,—Scientist of the times! The history of the stone age, the bronze age, the iron age, etc. We might very appropriately denominate the age of the confederacy. Men are confederating on every hand and on every pretext. In certain places the work of unionizing school teachers is going forward, and from time to time we see reference made in the public press to a similar work among certain bodies of the laboring class. It is the aim of the laboring class ultimately to unionize all classes of industry. The unionizing of day laborers and mechanics is going on at a wonderful rate. The same work is now progressing among the farmers. There is no doubt that the farmers who refuse to join these confederacies will be subjected to the same trials and persecutions that are suffered by conscientious carpenters, masons, mill hands, etc., who refuse to join the labor unions. They may even suffer the boycott at the hands of their neighbors for their refusal to confederate with those worldly forces. But in all this we must remember that it is not trials, inconveniences, or even physical suffering, that are to determine for us the course which we are to pursue. We must look into the principles that are involved, and into the admissions of the word of God. In the first place, the religion of Jesus Christ is a religion of choice. The fol-

She Was Aware

Opposite the two men who were talking on general topics sat a female of 35, and even a child of ten could have identified her as belonging to that class called old maids. She was dignified and she was reserved, and perhaps a salegirl had put her out of temper in shopping. Finally, one of the men said: "By George, but do you know that St. Valentine's Day is due next week?" "I don't much of a day," carelessly replied the other. "Don't you send valentines?" "Haven't for a good many years. The last one I sent was to an old maid of about 26 or 27. She lived in my neighborhood and her tongue was wagging about everybody. I mailed her an old salegirl of a comic valentine, and it drove her away. I heard that she felt so bad about it that—"

She was aware of the fact that she was being looked at by the two men who were talking on general topics.

Feminine Beauty. Every woman could be graceful, strong, happy-hearted—with glowing colour, soft curves and sparkling eyes.

No News from Him

It was an oldish man and a good-natured man who folded up his paper in the street car and said to the man on his left, who was looking very anxious and perturbed: "I see they have another earthquake in South America." The other heard, but did not answer. "What do you think of the President's order to tear down the fences on the cattle ranches?" persisted the oldish man. "No answer." "And I see they are going to test that California school question in the courts?" Same silence as before. "And three or four other high Russian officials have been blown up with bombs." "No reply, and after waiting for half a minute the oldish man observed in an injured voice: "My friend, aren't you interested in the news?" "Great snakes, no!" almost shouted the other as he turned on him. "Why not?" "Why not? When my wife has run away my mother-in-law holding the house, a dozen fellows after me for debts I can't pay and I am on my way to the river to jump in and end it all, do you suppose I care for any blamed old news concerning this blamed old world?" "Ah, I see—I see," said the oldish man as a new look came to his face and he got up and tiptoed out and dropped off the car.

My mother-in-law holding the house.

Something Worth While

I have an old uncle down on a farm on Long Island, and up to last fall he had never taken enough interest in politics to go to the polls. He finally became aroused over the trust question, and talked for the legislature and was triumphantly elected. A few days before he went up to Albany I dropped down to see him, and after we had talked for awhile I said: "Well, Uncle Joe, you will find your only rival in a rather tough crowd up there. The papers are already predicting that certain measures will be carried by bribery." "You don't believe that I could be bribed, do you?" he asked, as he turned on me. "I've thought so." "Of course not, but you will certainly be approached and tempted." "I've thought so." "I haven't the slightest doubt of it. You will be offered anywhere from $200 to $1,000 for your vote." He shook his head and then changed the subject, and we did not get back to it again. Nevertheless, after I got to Albany I heard him praying, and caught the words: "My nephew, who knows the wiles of men, says that I shall be tempted up at him, just the same, until the session is over. Albany, and I want to say, O Lord, that over."

I heard him praying.

He Had It

"Do you know, sir," he began as he entered a grocery store after the new year, "that the pure food law is now in operation?" "I do," replied the grocer. "No more sorghum mixed with sugar." "No more." "No more apple peelings put up for raspberry jam." "No, sir." "No more canned goods preserved with acids." "Not a can." "All goods have got to be straight and square." "They have, sir." "Well, now as we have come to a mutual understanding, have you got anything in stock that you can recommend me?" "I have," replied the grocer, and going to the back of the store, he lugged forward a bushel of turnips and said: "There it is, sir. Real old-fashioned turnips with the tap roots on, and I give you my solemn word that none of the

Have You Got It? THE LOOSE LEAF SYSTEM. General storekeepers and dry goods merchants cannot afford to ignore the value of a simple system of bookkeeping. No business man should attempt to run his business without the loose leaf or continuous ledger system. The man who has not yet introduced this system into his business should do it today. It will be the cheapest investment he ever makes. No matter if you look after your own books or employ bookkeepers it will save expense and save time. In this way the system pays for itself over and over again. More general storekeepers have failed through lack of system than through any other cause.—Dry Goods Record. Write us a card or telephone 214 and we will send our expert, who will fully explain this system to you, and install one if you want it.

SALE TO BE REGULATED Government Takes up Matter of Patent Medicines

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The cabinet had the tariff under consideration yesterday. With the exception of a few items that were opposed and some that were held over for amendment, parliament has already adopted the new tariff. It was items that were standing over that were discussed yesterday. All of them were passed.

There will be about forty changes in all. None of them is of a radical character nor a departure from the lines upon which the revision has taken place. One of the changes will have the effect of still further reducing the customs tax on the western farmers.

Hon. William Templeman will introduce his bill this week respecting proprietary and patent medicines. It provides that no package of medicine shall be sold unless a sample has been sent to the minister for registration, accompanied by an affidavit as to whether it contains alcohol or poisons and their percentages.

A PASTORAL LETTER FROM BISHOP CASEY

Holy Communion, Charity, the Lenten Regulations and the Troubles in France Dealt With in Letter Read in Roman Catholic Churches of the Diocese Yesterday.

In the Catholic churches of this diocese there was read yesterday a pastoral letter from His Lordship Bishop Casey, Holy Communion, charity, the Lenten regulations and the troubles in France are referred to. The letter reads in part: Timothy, by the Grace of God and Favor of the Holy Spirit, Bishop of St. John: To the Clergy, Religious Orders and Laity of the Diocese, Health and Benediction in the Lord. Dearly Beloved: To bring home to the people and to spread abroad with a knowledge of the wondrous love and its effects for the benefit of the human race as manifested through the incarnation of the Son of God conferred for the redemption of man, the establishment of the Kingdom of God on earth, the laws of the Gospels being taught, but heretofore they have wandered from the path that leads to eternal life, they have been misled by the evil influences of the world, the flesh and the devil, which have brought upon them, they could only attain to the Kingdom of God, they had lost that sense of brotherhood from which springs mutual respect for one another's rights and duties, and which civilized society is impossible. Such was the state of the world when the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. John 1:14. Christ, the Lord, offered Himself in sacrifice to atone for the sins of the world, to attain both grace and glory, and the gifts which possess them forever. By His death and resurrection He has redeemed us from all iniquity, that through the redemption of Christ we should be the children of God, that we should be united to Him, that we should be partakers of His glory, that we should be heirs of His Kingdom. Christ, the Lord, offered Himself in sacrifice to atone for the sins of the world, to attain both grace and glory, and the gifts which possess them forever. By His death and resurrection He has redeemed us from all iniquity, that through the redemption of Christ we should be the children of God, that we should be united to Him, that we should be partakers of His glory, that we should be heirs of His Kingdom.

GROWING OLD WHILE YET YOUNG

What a number of women there are who feel that these words exactly suit their case. There are thousands of females all over our land, broken down in health and dragging out a miserable existence, overburdened with disease peculiar to their sex, apparently growing old while yet young. From early morn till late at night they have been on the go year after year, attending to the household duties. Is it any wonder then that sooner or later there comes a general collapse? Palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, smothering and sinking spells, weakness, dizziness, sleeplessness and many other troubles follow. What a woman wants is something to build up the system and for this purpose you cannot equal MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. W. J. Russell, Vasey, Ont., writes: "As one time I suffered greatly from my heart and nerves, and the shortness of breath was so bad I could scarcely do my household work. A friend of mine advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did and I only took them for a short time before I was better. The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box or 8 boxes for $1.00 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The F. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

Duffy's Claim Accepted at the World. Returning after victorious skating in Charlottetown with the title of champion skater, Barr M. Duffy arrived home Saturday night. On Wednesday, at a meeting of the skating club, he was named as the champion skater at Charlottetown by defeating A. Gaudet, of Charlottetown, in the quarter-mile race. Duffy said he fell in the three mile event or he would have landed that also.

THE SPEEDWAY

New Speedway Opening a Big Success. The new ice speedway at Millidgeville was completed on Saturday afternoon in time for some of the fast ones to get a work St. John. Sunday afternoon witnessed the grand opening of the speedway. The tracks were in fine condition and all the horsemen expressed themselves well satisfied with the work that had been done and those driving pacers were particularly well pleased. Among the exciting heats was one between Louis King's "Walter K." and Wm. McDonald's "American Boy." Both these horses showed their usual good form and gave the spectators some anxious moments, while the very fast and hotly contested heat lasted. Other heats which caused a small amount of excitement, and brought forth words of encouragement from their respective admirers, were those of Edward Sprague's bay stallion "Raywood," "Henry Forbes" owned by Arthur Connor, and the big pacer, "Billy G.", driven by Geo. Robinson. Homer Jones was also even.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WILL GO AGAIN TO PANAMA

He Will See Whether His Recommendations Are Heeded-- Taft Also Will Go There and Later to the Philippines-- New Pension Law.

(From our regular correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9. — The Brownsville affair, which dragged out its weary length in the senate, is now occupying the attention of one of the most important committees of congress and the investigation, which has been under way in this committee since Monday, is likely to be prolonged well into the summer. It is probable that this committee on military affairs will submit the fourth of March but that it will resume its sessions shortly thereafter, and continue them no one can predict how long. The object of this investigation is understood to be political, and in the interest of Senator Foraker's presidential aspirations, but it is probable that he will not resign this year. It is evident that it will defeat the object he had in view.

nothing better when he leaves the White House than to take charge of the work himself. That men who are not an engineer could dig the canal is laughed at by engineers, but the president has done so many different things successfully that it is believed that he will be able to do this. He will go to the isthmus the latter part of March and prepare an elaborate report on the work. He will be accompanied by special engineers, sanitary experts and a retinue of clerks, and the investigations will be scientific and thorough. About the last of August he will go to the Philippines, to take a message from the president and to deliver them advice on his own account. It is believed that he will continue to them a policy by which the archipelago would eventually be turned over to the Filipino people. The effect of this trip on a presidential campaign is significant, and since the president is known to have selected Taft for his successor, it is believed that he will also provide that no pension attorney, claim agent or other person shall be entitled to present a claim for a pension during a presidential campaign. The bill was unamended and passed by a vote of 196 to 20.

In a telegram from Boston it was stated that fight Harry Lewis in Denver Feb. 21, instead of Feb. 22, as was originally planned. Willie Spradkin and Frank Carney will be matched very soon for $1000 side bet at 128 pounds. Law in Detroit, though Carney was said to have had somewhat the better of the fight.

SMALLPOX AT TRURO

Town Alarmed by the Discovery of Two Cases-- Churches and Schools Closed. Halifax, Feb. 10--Truro is the latest town in Nova Scotia to be invaded by smallpox. Two cases were discovered on Friday and today the churches were all closed. Tomorrow the schools will not be opened and similar orders have been issued in regard to the skating rink. A week ago Charles Bryson came to Truro from the lumber works near Matt- and he moved round freely till Friday when he went to Dr. Fulton saying he did not feel well. The physician at once saw that he was smallpox and he was quarantined. Soon afterwards a commercial traveler whose name, the chief of police thinks, is Johnson, was found to be afflicted with the same disease. He came from New Brunswick. Both men were sent to the contagious diseases hospital, three miles outside of the town, while the Oxford House and Temperance House, the hotels where they were stopping, have been quarantined. In addition to those places Sutherland's barber shop and lunch room that they visited have also been closed. It is reported that smallpox is prevalent at North River, Tarbot and Murray, Victoria county (N. B.) There are about thirty cases of more or less serious nature. The disease was brought by a party from Spranghill about a month ago. It is spreading rapidly and there is great danger of an epidemic as the people thought and still think it chickenpox and consequently it could not be improved upon because it is not only the result of the vast experience of Capt. Dressel, but also the result of the combined suggestions and scores of the most noted sportsmen of the country, who know possibly nothing about expositions, but who know all about sports and the features that most interest sportsmen. Special features will be added and new ones from new developments. The trophies will be seen, but the standard features will be the camps and guides, trophies and exhibits from every known hunting and sporting section of the United States, Canada and Labrador. Each camp will be built in the great Madison Square Garden exactly as it is in its native field and the guides at each camp will meet each year in these particular sections, and who are perfect mines of information about their own territory. This knowledge of the guides at their willingness to impart it cheerfully to visitors is an interesting and important feature, as it enables visitors to the Sportsman's Show to gain an accurate knowledge of virtually all parts

THE SPORTSMAN'S SHOW

It will be the map to all continents and purposes, and the guides at each camp will meet each year in these particular sections, and who are perfect mines of information about their own territory. Elements Versus Substitutes.

The danger to health through the process of adulteration. Elements, we are told are the really necessary ingredients of a composition. Of good bread they are flour, shortening, yeast and salt, nothing more (if these are pure) is needed. Substitutes are: Alum, used to whiten cheap grades of flour; glucose, used to give the crust that crispy brown appearance; Cottonseed Oil, used in place of good shortening, because of cheapness. These are injurious to health, if used persistently.

THIS WEEK AT KEITH'S

Good Vaudeville Bill Prepared for Entertainment of Keith's Patrons. The Keith management have been very successful in securing good vaudevilles for several weeks past in St. John and this week's offering is said to be no exception to the rule, as there is sufficient variety to satisfy all tastes. It contains a lot of everything and will not have a dull moment in it. The interesting views of travel will open the show as usual, after which Dade and Welcome will be seen in their refined singing and dancing act which will start the performance in a very lively manner. Next come King and Haslof, two clever and lively comedians presenting their rural comedy, "How Doorchester Butted In." These will be followed by the Cleverland, two first class singers, in many popular selections to please both old and young. The next will be White and Steele, high class novelty acrobats introducing demonstrations on the bounding rope, rings, Japanese peril and many other clever things. Henry Kyers, a black face monologue comedian and singer, is next and he seldom fails to make a distinct hit. His stories and parodies are all new and original and he has no difficulty in sending that blue feeling into exile. Then come the Hoopers, described as active jugglers. This act has just concluded a four years' tour through Europe and is everywhere pronounced the best of its kind in vancouver. The entertainment will, as usual, conclude with a new and up-to-date series of animated pictures on the bioscope. There will be a matinee daily, commencing at 2.30. Last night Rev. P. Owen Jones, who is in the private hospital suffering from pneumonia, was reported to be very ill.

JAMES SHAW AND HIS LITTLE GAME OF REFORM

How He Appeals to St. John People for Help, and Then Hurries to a Bar-room—A Polished Fraud Who Has About Gone the Limit in This Town.

The reform of a drunkard is always an interesting study, but for long-drawn-out process of reformation the palm would probably be awarded to one who styles himself James Shaw, at present a citizen of St. John, and a dweller in various domiciles, including the Salvation Army shelter on Water street. He has been in St. John for many months, but may not prolong his stay—for important reasons.

The worthy Mr. Shaw is a plausible gentleman, of exceptionally good address. He will tell you that he comes of good family in England, studied law, had the promise of a fine career, but in order, as he thought to advance his interests, fell in to the habit of looking upon the wine when it was offered him in polite society. Then came his emigration to Montreal, and a varied experience. He has a dear wife, in Montreal, he will tell you, the daughter of a well known Protestant minister. He will tell you also of distinguished relatives who are his friends, and of religious aspirations, and how his dear wife's piano at his suggestion was sent to a mission hall, where, no doubt, was being done to reclaim fallen humanity. Then he will tell you of his own fall through drink, of his coming to St. John, and of his sad experience here. He will read you a letter from his dear wife, and tell you pathetically that he could only send her a Christmas time. Almost with tears he will tell you of his struggles, his despondency, and his now irrevocable determination to lead a new life, with the help of the Saviour.

Then he will take your money, and pike for a bar-room on Brussels street, and, perhaps, turn up later at the Salvation Army shelter. He was there on Friday night, and has been there so often and caused so much trouble that the Army people have about decided to ask him to get a new floor to sleep on. In truth the gentle James has had some such thoughts himself. He will tell you that for one of his gentle birth and breeding the Salvation Army boys are not well-looked, and he has a horrible fear that vermin of some sort will attach themselves to his person. He will even show you a little box of exterminator that he always carries on his person.

For the past few weeks James has been more fortunate than usual. He turned up at the Every Day Club and it appealed to his fine sensibilities. It was just the kind of institution he had been waiting for. There was something so brotherly about its motto: "To help men to be men." He was particularly eloquent in describing to a member how it had put new heart in him, and made him think more kindly of human nature. The assistance he received was so heartening in its effect that he wanted more, and so for a couple of weeks masqueraded with fine effect. He was staying quietly (he said) at a boarding house, and had the promise of a steady job as a checker at Sand Point this week, on the understanding that if he drank any liquor drunk there he was to report it immediately—and he had nobly resolved to do so—for liquor was the curse of humanity.

But on Friday evening James was discovered moving unceremoniously from his Brussels street haunt along Charlotte and down King street toward the Salvation Army shelter, where he caused considerable disturbance, and now the Every Day Club has lost its charm for him. The valued Mr. Shaw, it should be observed, although wedded to the daughter of a Protestant minister, and enjoying the friendship of many ministers, has lately been attending services at the Cathedral, and thus proving the breadth of his religious sympathies. He also shows, along with letters from his dear wife, others from two well known St. John men, one of whom he generally blames for turning him into an unfortunate business venture. The resourceful Mr. Shaw is a smooth shaven, clerical looking gentleman, with deep-set eyes, and wears a blue cloth cap and a long overcoat that fastens with loops. If he remains any longer in this city he will probably be arrested for getting money under false pretenses. He was lying magnificently about the quiet boarding house, and about the job as checker at Sand Point. He has deceived many citizens, and is about the most polished specimen of a pious fraud—when sober—that has come this way for many months.

Havermill, 120 St. Catharines St., on Tuesday evening at 7:30, to make arrangements for their annual drive.

Last evening at 8:30 o'clock a mass meeting was held in Brussels street Baptist church in the interests of the student volunteer movement. Three U. N. B. students—H. R. McGill, '05; M. L. Orchard, '07, and J. L. Orchard, '10, addressed the large number present. Rev. A. B. Coburn acted as chairman and in introducing the speakers told of the work of the volunteer missionary movement being carried out by colleges all over America. The addresses by the young men were very interesting.

A PRACTICAL SERMON

Rev. Father J. M. Davenport in the Mission Church Last Night.

There was very large congregation at the Mission Church of St. John Baptist last night when Rev. Father J. M. Davenport, who was first priest-in-charge, and who is officiating in the absence, through illness, of Rev. Father Owen Jones, the present incumbent—preached an able sermon on the Lenten fast.

Father Davenport gave his hearers some practical advice with regard to making a rule for the proper observance of Lent, in three particulars touched upon in the sermon on the mount, viz, prayer, fasting and alms giving. He pointed out that both by example and precept, Jesus Christ entered the duty of fasting and self denial upon his followers equally with the all important duties of prayer and alms-giving, and His church therefore appoints special times for fasting, of which Lent is the chief.

SUNDAY WAS A QUIET DAY

And as a Consequence the Usual Monday Morning Drunks Were Not in Evidence in Police Court.

There was no business of importance at the police court this morning. Only two arrests are recorded on the books at police headquarters for Saturday and Sunday, and both prisoners were let out on deposit, but as neither appeared in court this morning their deposits were forfeited.

The prisoners referred to were Elliott McCollom, and Olaf Lars, a Norwegian. The former fell on King street Saturday evening and cut his face quite badly. Policeman Crawford took him to Dr. Berrymans' office, where his wounds were dressed. Later on the officer was obliged to take the man to central station, as he was helplessly intoxicated.

The drill case against Stephens and Coleman, which was to have come up for hearing this morning was, on application of H. J. Smith, the prosecuting attorney, postponed till Monday next, at 10 a. m., on account of the illness of Col. Edwards, who is required as a witness.

Fred Dixon and Morris Webb have been reported for working in the city without licenses, not being ratepayers.

The police say that Dixon, who was fined several months ago for fighting, declares that he knows the law, and will make no payment until he receives a bill. He was notified to be in court at ten o'clock this morning, but did not appear.

WEDDINGS

STANTON-HURLEY. An interesting wedding was solemnized in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at 9:30 this morning, when Rev. W. W. Moohan, united in marriage Frank Stanton, son of John Stanton, of this city, and Miss Mamie Hurley, daughter of D. A. Hurley, of 108 Brussels street.

Stephen Hurley officiated as groomsmen and Miss Mary McGowan as bridesmaid. Mr. Stanton is a St. John man, who has been living in Yarmouth, N. S., for several months. His present visit to St. John was made with a special purpose. His wedding came first, but secondly he has been representing the Yarmouth Amateur Dramatic Club, which will produce "Uncle Josh Whitcomb" in the Opera House tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton have many friends here who will extend congratulations.
