GREETING.

THE members of the University Young Men's Christian Association desire to extend a hearty greeting to all of their fellow students; and to those just commencing their University career we would say Welcome! Welcome! many times over. Especially would we welcome you all as co-workers with ourselves in upholding the banner of Truth and Love, not only toward and amongst each other and every member of the University but toward all the great brotherhood of mankind.

We would earnestly invite you to attend our meetings and become a member of our Association. You will thus place yourselves in connection with a more elevated and purer thought which will aid in the upbuilding of a higher plane in life, and will enable you more fully to reflect lustre upon the old University of which we all feel so proud.

"Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

To the Freshmen.

It will be very natural for every new student to feel lonely and out of place as he is suddenly introduced to the college halls of McGill and, among the many faces, recognizes few and perhaps none that are familiar. We feel for you fellow student and therefore commend to you the pages which follow, and assure you that the Christian Associations will be in readiness to welcome you and introduce you to fellowship of the truest kind.

College life here as elsewhere has temptations which must be met and should be overcome. One of these is an inclination to become less regular in religious habits, due, possibly, to the fact that the student is severed from home influences, the old church pew and pastor, and, in fact, from all external means whereby his spiritual life is promoted. Every student should, during the first few weeks, settle down in some church of his own choice, make himself acquainted with the Pastor, seek the friendship of some members of the congregation, and try to feel at home.

The College Christian Association extends its fellowship to you and earnestly hopes that every new student will enter the ranks as an interested member. This is entirely a student movement and seeks a spiritual development coincident with mental progress.

It is well known that the student leaves College a much better or a much worse man than he was on entering, and there is no opportunity like that presented during College life for the advancement of the higher life. Seek then, fellow students, the symmetrical, all-round development, the perfect man. Be not satisfied with that which does not attain unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ.

To the Christian we would emphasize the fact that the religious life of McGill is dependant on your influence exercised in a personal way, and as a part of the Christian Association. Never again can the influence of your life be as far-reaching as during your College course. Enter, therefore, the session of '94-95 in the spirit of prayer and of earnest purpose that your light may "so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven."

Useful Hints.

For information regarding classes, etc., refer to the University Calendar. The complete Calendar containing information respecting all the Faculties, may be obtained from the Secretary's office, East Wing, Main Building, where is also obtainable information regarding rooms and board.

Medical Freshmen are recommended to the tender mercies of "Mr. Cook," whose genial countenance will usually be found awaiting them at the door of the Medical Building. From him aprons, sleeves, college colors, and general information can be obtained.

If you are a stranger in the city get some senior student to help you choose a room, as his experience will be useful.

Do not buy books until you are sure you will need them, and are ready to use them. You will find them advertised second hand on the bulletin boards.

COLLEGE COLORS—Crimson and White.

COLLEGE YELL—M-C-G-I-L-L. What's the matter with old McGill, she's all right, oh yes, you bet!!!!

Don't get up your college work on Sunday. You can't do as much work in seven days a week as you can do in six.

Professors' addresses may be obtained from the Calendar.

Subscribe for the "Fortnightly."

SCIENCE YELL—Rah, Ree, Rye.

K. C. Y.

Leg Tan Phi,

Fac App Sci!

First year men in Medicine should find out when dissecting material is to be given out and be on hand, as they will thus get to work earlier.

Watch the various bulletins, as notices of importance are constantly being posted.

There are large libraries connected with the different faculties from which students may draw books. From those wishing to borrow books, a deposit of five dollars is required, which is refunded when the books are returned.

You will never have the same opportunity of influencing others as you have while at college. Use it.

Gowns may be obtained from the janitor of the Arts building, and Science Students may also obtain gowns, overalls and caps, T-squares, etc., from the janitor of the Engineering building.

Keep up with your work. When once behind you cannot catch up.

New students are urged to connect themselves with the college societies. By doing this they will not only derive the benefits which the different societies aim to confer, but will get to know students of other years and other faculties.

Do not treat the men collecting subscriptions for College societies or other objects as public enemies, but rather lighten their work by subscribing as often and as promptly as you possibly can.

It is the duty of every student to support in every way he can all the athletic interests of the University.

McGill holds the Intermediate and Junior Rugby Football Championships. Let every man do his best to help win all three championships this Fall.

If you are in doubt about any matter do not be afraid to ask a Professor or Senior Student; they will always be glad to give you any advice or assistance, and it may save you much trouble and annoyance later on to be set right at the beginning of the session.

BEFORE MAKING PURCHASES REFER TO OUR ADVERTISEMENTS and patronise as far as possible those whose ads. appear there.

The General Secretary desires to be considered the friend of every student. Office Hours: 8.30 to 10.30 a.m. and 5 to 6 p.m.

Take every opportunity of improving yourself socially; your studies will not suffer for an occasional evening spent in social intercourse.

The importance of taking good healthy exercise can not be too strongly impressed upon all. Make enquiries and find out what sports are engaged in; then choose what suits you. We would put in a strong plea for the gymnasium, three to five hours spent in it every week will repay any good student. Remember "Mens sana in corpore sano."

McGill University.

McGill University was founded by the Hon. James McGill, a Montreal merchant, who died in 1813. A few years before his death Mr. McGill determined to devote his estate of Burnside, on the slopes of Mount Royal, and a sum of £10,000 to the establishment of a University, one of the Colleges composing it to be called "McGill College." The charge of carrying on the work was committed to the Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning. In 1829 the College was formally opened in "Burnside House," under the Principalship of Dr. Mountain, with three professors. For many years the Arts Faculty had much to contend against, but the Medical School which was organized the same year, coalesced with the "Montreal Medical Institute," and success was soon assured it.

For ten years the work of instruction was carried on in the rooms of the Old Mansion, Brunswick House, where the Fraser Institute now stands; but the space soon became too confined, and in 1839 the erection of suitable buildings was commenced on the present site. These consisted of the central building and East Wing without connecting corridor, which were formally opened in 1843. For thirty years the University laboured under difficulties which at times seemed insurmountable. The erection of buildings caused a serious drain on the funds of the University, the charter of 1821 was cumbrous and defective, Government support was most meagre, and that private munificence which of late has been the source of her prosperity was then undeveloped. In 1835 Dr. Mountain resigned the Principalship and was succeeded by Dr. Bethune, who after eleven years of office, gave place to E. A. Meredith, afterwards Canadian Minister of the Interior. Principal Meredith was succeeded in 1853 by E. C. Day,

L.L.D., who was replaced two years later when he became chancellor, by Dr. Dawson, whose firm hand and wise council have guided the University in a path of prosperity and renown for thirty-eight years.

In 1850 a crisis was reached in the history of the University when its life reached the lowest ebb. The urgent demand for vigorous action was bravely met. In 1852 an amended charter was secured, all but absolutely essential expenses were cut down, portions of the estate were sold, and a loan of £300 was negotiated. The revenue from the land disposed of, together with a government grant of £1300, relieved the pressure temporarily, but a few years later it was found necessary to make an appeal to the citizens of Montreal, which was liberally met by the subscription of an endowment fund of £15,000. The amended charter, the appointment of Dr. Dawson as Principal in 1855, and the creation of a permanent endowment fund was the dawn of better days for McGill.

In 1861 Wm. Molson, Esq., announced his intention of erecting a new wing to the College, and the next year the Molson Hall and the corridors connecting it, and the East Wing with the main building were completed. Since then the advancement both in extension of buildings and equipment has been uninterrupted and rapid. At the commencement of Sir Wm. Dawson's connection with the University the number of students on the roll was seventeen; last year they numbered in all departments about 1200.

The Library was founded in the same year by the purchase of a small collection of historical works, which were stored on a few plain shelves in the Brunswick Hall, and which were afterwards moved to the commodious room in the ground floor of the Molson Hall, where it remained until the opening of the present magnificent building on McTavish street, the generous gift of the late Peter Redpath, Esq. It is capable of containing nearly one hundred and fifty thousand volumes and has a spacious reading room where every accommodation both for the comfort and convenience of the students has been provided.

When Sir William Dawson inquired respecting the University Museum, the Janitor drew forth a single fossil from an obscure drawer; from this, under the care of the Principal, has grown the magnificent collection which the University now possesses. Thirty years ago the University possessed no chemical laboratory and its philosophical apparatus consisted of a few antiquated instruments donated by Dr. Skakel. The equipment now is one of the best on the continent.

In 1863 the Observatory was erected on the side of the Molson Hall. In 1855 Burnside Hall was destroyed and the Museum was without a permanent home until 1881 when the late Peter Redpath, Esq., erected the magnificent building in which the collections are at present contained.

The main part of the building of the Faculty of Medicine was erected in 1866. This, however, became too small for the number of students, and a period of stagnation was threatened; but the Leancoil Endowment Fund, the gift of Sir Donald Smith, and the Campbell Memorial Fund, made possible the extension of the buildings. The building as it now stands, was opened in 1855 and is one of the most complete structures of its kind on this continent or elsewhere.

In 1893, the gifts of Sir Donald A. Smith and Mr. J. H. R. Molson, together with a few others amounted to nearly $200,000. This will do a great deal for the Medical faculty, especially in the Pathological department, as a laboratory for this purpose is just being completed in rear of the present Medical building.

In 1878 the department of Applied Science was created a Faculty, it having been before this merely a department of the Faculty of Arts. In 1890 Mr. Thomas Workman died, leaving a bequest of $110,000 for the construction of workshops, which were completed two years ago. This was followed by Mr. W. C. McDonald's gifts, including a Technical Building, containing Lecture Room, Laboratories, Museum, Library, etc., also a Physics Building, both of which were completed over a year ago.

In other directions the development of the University has been equally rapid. In 1864 Morrin College, Quebec, became part of the University by affiliation, and since then St. Francis College at Richmond, Stanstead Wesleyan College, and the Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopalian and Congregational Colleges of Montreal, have also been added. In 1884 provision for the higher education of women was permanently made by Sir Donald Smith, in the Donalds Special Course for Women which has equal work and privileges with the male classes.

The great part of this growth has been under the Principalship of Sir William Dawson, who resigned the arduous duties of the Principalship during the past year and who, it is hoped, will long be spared to witness the prosperity of the University which owes so much to his fostering care.

Personal Hygiene.

R. TAIT MCKENZIE, B.A., M.D.

Every man on coming to McGill should undertake a regular course of exercise. To many, Football and Hockey have certain disadvantages which prevent them from being followed systematically enough to do any good. To such men we would specially recommend regular work in the gymnasium, (19 University street). The class meets three times a week at 5 p.m., and the work is so arranged that three quarters of an hour at least of vigorous, all-round work can be had without the risk of over exertion.

The best costume is composed of a quarter-sleeve light jersey, knee breeches and McGill stockings, with lacrosse or tennis shoes.

The best way to get a new gymnasium on the college grounds is to show that the old one is appreciated.

Make the gymnasium hour fill a place on your timetable like any other lecture and you will find it an hour gained.

Don't be afraid to make the Director your confidant in all matters pertaining to your physical life. He can help you in many difficulties and will always be found glad to do so.

Be regular in your attendance that you may graduate a better man physically as well as morally and intellectually than when you entered college life.

RELIGIOUS.

The Young Men's Christian Association. This is distinctively a college organization, including in its membership 310 men of every department in the University.

It extends the privilege of a religious influence, unsectarian in nature and profession. It seeks to develop a Christian character at once broad and true, and such as will commend itself to the thoughtful student and mould a character of permanent usefulness in the world.

The Local Association is in connection with the great Christian Brotherhood of Young Men which extends to every continent on the globe, and is a factor in producing the most intimate relations among the Colleges of America and elsewhere, since there are no less than 450 College Young Men's Christian Associations on this continent with a total membership of 23,000.

Object. To promote growth in grace and Christian Fellowship among its members, and aggressive Christian work by and for Students; to train them for Christian service and to lead them to devote their lives to Jesus Christ.

Any man of good moral character, Membership. either student or member of the Faculty is eligible for membership and on payment of the fee of 50c and election by a two-thirds vote of the members present.

The Active membership is composed of men of the above standing and who are members of an Evangelical church ; others rank as Associate members.

In 1884 the Association was or- Historical. ganized on a firm basis with Mr. J. K. Unsworth as President and a membership of fifteen. The following year the membership was doubled and the interest extended to others than the Faculty of Arts, the next President Mr. H. E. Kendall, being elected from Medicine. During the ensuing years the Association work took a broader aspect and the Missionary and Bible Study Departments were added. Special effort was also made to introduce the new students into the Association, social receptions being held for this purpose at the beginning of each session.

In 1885 the idea of a College Association Building was conceived and the students shortly after subscribed $1,000, which, with a later canvass and the subscription of $5,000 by Mr. George Hague, now amounts to $7,870. It is sincerely hoped the ensuing season will bring the project to a successful issue, and that the present generation of students will occupy the building. During last year a General Secretary was appointed to act as Executive Officer of the Association, a step which has proved very satisfactory and it may now be taken to be a permanent office. Mr. A. Mahaffy, B.A. is the Secretary, for 1894-95, and under his judicious supervision advanced steps are looked for.

4. You will become a unit in the greatest Intercollegiate Organization in the world.

WHAT does it signify ?

That you countenance and encourage the existence and work of the Association by becoming part of it. No member is under any defined obligation to enter into active service, this is quite voluntary on the part of every man.

HOW to become a Member ?

Fill out the other side of this card, hand it to the General Secretary or any member of the Association, with your fee of 50c. Your formal election to membership will occur at the next business meeting of the Association.

A register of reliable and desirable Boarding Houses is kept on file at Y. M. C. A. headquarters and may be consulted by any student. These houses are chosen on the understanding that both proprietor and tenant shall communicate any dissatisfaction to the Association who have sought to make as good a selection of houses as possible and who will try to protect both parties against any injustice.

EDUCATIONAL AND SOCIAL

Undergraduates This Society forms an exceedingly important part of the Undergraduates' training. Every Friday evening at 8 o'clock, its members meet in the Arts Building and pass two very pleasant and profitable hours. The regular business is first taken up and this is followed by an essay, music, recitations and a debate on some interesting question of the day. Every member is given opportunities of cultivating literary taste and habits, and of improving himself in the art of public speaking. Students of all faculties are eligible for membership. The membership fee is twenty-five cents. The Society has a carefully compiled constitution which can be procured from the Treasurer. The officers for the following year will be elected at the opening meeting of the session.

At the last business meeting of the Society for the past session it was suggested that the Society be transformed into a Mock Parliament. It is hoped that the students of '95 will take advantage of this, one of the best educational helps outside of the lecture room.

The officers of the past year were as follows:

President,	- - -	M. O. LAMBLY,	- - -	Arts,	'91.
1st Vice-President,	- - -	A. C. HANSON,	- - -	Arts,	'95.

McGill

Music has taken a firm hold on the students and the most important organizations in the College are the Glee and Banjo Clubs. These clubs gave seventeen concerts in all during last session, visiting Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, everywhere winning great praise and commendation. Men who propose entering McGill are advised to apply for admission, the only requisite being a good trained voice or a knowledge of some instrument. Mandolins and Guitars will be in demand and as the officers for the ensuing year have not yet been elected, applicants may apply to Mr. R. A. Gunn, 1135 Dorchester st. for any further information.

Delta Sigma Society. The Delta Sigma Literary Society—in connection with the Donalds Department—holds fortnightly meetings throughout the year.

Its object is the development of clearness of thought and expression among its members. By means of debates, essays, readings, etc., it aims to give culture and information on questions of the day. It has always been found advantageous as well as pleasant to add the work of this society to the regular lectures.

The McGill Medical Society. The membership of this Society is composed of the students of the Faculty of Medicine.

The Society meets fortnightly through the winter session and weekly through the summer session. The members read and discuss papers relating to medical science and reports of cases under their observation at the hospital. The programme is occasionally varied by lectures, delivered by physicians and other friends of the society.

McGill Mining Society. The McGill Mining Society holds its meetings on alternate Thursdays throughout the session. Its membership is composed of graduates and undergraduates of the Faculty of Applied Science. Papers and discussions on scientific subjects, supplied principally by members of the Society, form the programmes.

As the mining course is very comprehensive, the subjects chosen vary greatly and cannot fail to be of interest to all departments of Applied Science. Every student in the Faculty is urged to become a member of this, the only educational and social society which includes all Science students.

The Veterinary Medical Association. The membership of this society is composed of students of the Faculty of Comparative Medicine. Papers relating to veterinary science are read and discussed and reports are read of cases observed by the members, also of experiments performed upon subjects by committees of the members appointed at each meeting to illustrate the physiological action of new drugs.

The funds of the Association are largely expended in adding to its library, which now contains many volumes of standard works on veterinary and allied sciences, and also in purchasing necessary instruments for experimental work. The officers are elected at the opening of the session.

Volunteer Band
Foreign Missions.

This consists of men, members of the University Christian Association and who have signed the declaration "It is my purpose, if God permits, to become a Foreign Missionary."

The Band is a unit in the great "Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions" which had its origin in 1886 at Mount Hermon, Mass., when 250 students met for Bible Study and Conference and where the Missionary flame took form.

There are to-day 3,200 Student Volunteers in the movement, nearly 700 of whom are now on the foreign field. McGill is represented in at least the following countries: Japan, China, India, Turkey and Africa.

Meetings of the Band are duly advertised and it is intended that they shall be of very great and general interest. All students will be welcomed, and any who are considering Foreign Missions as a life-work are invited to communicate with the President, Percy C. Leslie, Faculty of Medicine.

Young Women's Christian Association.

The devotional work of the Donaldson department is carried on by the Young Woman's Christian Association. This Society includes as a special branch the Missionary Committee—work formerly carried on by the Theodore Missionary Society. This Committee seeks to follow up the study of the different fields and phases of missionary effort, and their monthly meetings, which are distinct from the weekly devotional ones, are full of interesting facts. We would like to call attention to the work of this department as it has not been clearly understood during the past session.

There are two classes of members in the Y.W.C.A.—Active and Associate. The Active, those who are members of Evangelical churches, alone, may hold office and vote. Our aim is to deepen spiritual life and to prepare for greater usefulness in the future by present action; also, that college life may be one of true development, so that with increase of knowledge we may become more efficient in Christ's service.

We have realized the inspiration and encouragement gained by the consecration of these half-hours, and we would earnestly ask those who purpose entering college this year to plan that they may set aside one half hour during the week for the Y.W.C.A. It will never be easier to spare the time than in the first year. Come, and we believe you will prove true God's promise, "There I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee."

There is also a branch of the Student Volunteer Mission Band in the Donalda department. The number of members is small but two are already in the field. Our meetings, devoted to prayerful study of the various mission fields and the Bible spirit of missions, have been those of helpfulness and encouragement. We will welcome to our midst new members and also all who are interested in the Master's call to the regions beyond.

It will never be easier to spare the time than in the first year. Come, and we believe you will prove true God's promise, "There I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee."

There is also a branch of the Student Volunteer Mission Band in the Donalda department. The number of members is small but two are already in the field. Our meetings, devoted to prayerful study of the various mission fields and the Bible spirit of missions, have been those of helpfulness and encouragement. We will welcome to our midst new members and also all who are interested in the Master's call to the regions beyond.

EDUCATIONAL AND SOCIAL.

Undergraduates This Society forms an exceedingly important part of the Undergraduates' training. Every Friday evening at 8 o'clock, its members meet in the Arts Building and pass two very pleasant and profitable hours. The regular business is first taken up and this is followed by an essay, music, recitations and a debate on some interesting question of the day. Every member is given opportunities of cultivating literary taste and habits, and of improving himself in the art of public speaking. Students of all faculties are eligible for membership. The membership fee is twenty-five cents. The Society has a carefully compiled constitution which can be procured from the Treasurer. The officers for the following year will be elected at the opening meeting of the session.

At the last business meeting of the Society for the past session it was suggested that the Society be transformed into a Mock Parliament. It is hoped that the students of '95 will take advantage of this, one of the best educational helps outside of the lecture room.

The officers of the past year were as follows: -

President,	- - -	M. O. LAMBLY,	- - -	Arts,	'94.
1st Vice-President,	- - -	A. C. HANSON,	- - -	Arts,	'95.
2nd " "	- - -	ALEX. BRODIE,	- - -	Sc.,	'94.
Treasurer,	- - -	CHARLES OGILVIE,	- - -	Arts,	'94.
Secretary,	- - -	WILFRED G. G. COLE,	- - -	Arts,	'96.
Asst. " "	- - -	ED. M. CAMPBELL,	- - -	Arts,	'97.

McGill Music has taken a firm hold on the students and the most important organizations in the Collège are the Glee and Banjo Clubs. These clubs gave seventeen concerts in all during last session, visiting Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, everywhere winning great praise and commendation. Men who propose entering McGill are advised to apply for admission, the only requisite being a good trained voice or a knowledge of some instrument. Mandolins and Guitars will be in demand and as the officers for the ensuing year have not yet been elected, applicants may apply to Mr. R. A. Gunn, 1135 Dorchester st. for any further information.

Delta Sigma Society. The Delta Sigma Literary Society—in connection with the Donalda Department—holds fortnightly meetings throughout the year. Its object is the development of clearness of thought and expression among its members. By means of debates, essays, readings, etc., it aims to give culture and information on questions of the day. It has always been found advantageous as well as pleasant to add the work of this society to the regular lectures.

The McGill Medical Society.

The membership of this Society is composed of the students of the Faculty of Medicine.

The Society meets fortnightly through the winter session and weekly through the summer session. The members read and discuss papers relating to medical science and reports of cases under their observation at the hospital. The programme is occasionally varied by lectures, delivered by physicians and other friends of the society.

McGill Mining Society.

The McGill Mining Society holds its meetings on alternate Thursdays throughout the session. Its membership is composed of graduates and undergraduates of the Faculty of Applied Science. Papers and discussions on scientific subjects, supplied principally by members of the Society, form the programmes.

As the mining course is very comprehensive, the subjects chosen vary greatly and cannot fail to be of interest to all departments of Applied Science. Every student in the Faculty is urged to become a member of this, the only educational and social society which includes all Science students.

The Veterinary Medical Association.

The membership of this society is composed of students of the Faculty of Comparative Medicine. Papers relating to veterinary science are read and discussed and reports are read of cases observed by the members, also of experiments performed upon subjects by committees of the members appointed at each meeting to illustrate the physiological action of new drugs.

The funds of the Association are largely expended in adding to its library, which now contains many volumes of standard works on veterinary and allied sciences, and also in purchasing necessary instruments for experimental work. The officers are elected at the opening of the session.

Applied Science This Club is doing a good work in its own faculty. Its membership is open to all undergraduates in Applied Science, and every one should join.

Glee Club. The Club will secure the services of a competent instructor at the beginning of the Session and intends to give a concert next spring; its members must work hard and keep up the reputation of Science as the "singing faculty."

Society for the Study of Comparative Psychology. This Society has for its object the investigation and discussion of mental phenomena in animals. Its headquarters are in the building of the Veterinary Faculty but other students are eligible for membership and are welcomed to its meetings.

McGill Classical Club. The object of this Club, is to pursue the more advanced studies of classical languages, literature and art. With this end in view important authors, for whom there is no room on the College curriculum, will be read by competent translators; appropriate papers and lectures will be given; and an occasional open meeting will be held, which will be addressed by eminent classical scholars.

The meetings bid fair to be of deep interest and great value to every lover of classics.

ATHLETIC.

The Athletic Association Has been re-organized this year on a new basis, the fee for Athletics being collected with the Tuition Fees. This, of course, makes every undergraduate a member, and it is hoped that the increased membership will be accompanied by a corresponding increase in the number of competitors on the occasion of the annual field day. The standard of athletics in McGill has been raised considerably during the last two years. The time made in all the races last year was very good, and there is every prospect of McGill men lowering Canadian records this autumn, especially as the Committee intend to hold the sports on first-class grounds. The Committee hope to introduce several innovations, as for instance, a cross country steeple-chase and also an inter-faculty team race; other events on the programme will be running, walking, hurdle and bicycle races, weight throwing, jumping, pole-leaping, etc. Two prizes are given for each event, and points are counted by each of the first three men towards the faculty and individual trophies. The field day will be held towards the end of October so as to allow ample time for training.

Football Club. The Club is affiliated with the University Athletic Association and is a member of the Quebec Provincial Rugby Union, holding the Intermediate and Junior Championships of the Province. Three teams are entered in the series, a senior or first team, a second and a third.

It is the ardent hope that the Club may secure the Senior Championship this year and so have an opportunity of meeting Ontario in the championship game of the Dominion. It goes without saying that there is no intention of relinquishing the Intermediate and Junior Championships.

Practice will begin about October 1st and continue every succeeding day. All students should play football as at present it is the only "sport" in which McGill takes a prominent place throughout the Dominion. A great many men do not turn out to practice because they think that their play will be criticised and they be made fun of, but this is far from being the case as a deep interest is taken in all men who turn up to practice, and from the faithful ones will be picked the teams. Further information will be gladly given by the officers for 1894-'95

The list of officers is as follows :

Hon. President,	PROF. NICOLSON, B., Sc.

McGill Cricket Club. This Club has in its membership graduates and undergraduates, and practices every fine afternoon through the summer beginning about the middle of May.

University Lawn Tennis Club. The Tennis Club has four Grass Courts and a Cinder Court on the College Grounds. Within the enclosure is a Pavilion with lockers and a shower bath.

Outsiders are allowed to join as associate members, but the management is in the hands of the Graduates and Undergraduates. Fee $5.

Donalda Lawn Tennis Club. This Tennis Club is open for membership to students of the Donalda Department. The Club has two courts on the College grounds.

The Northfield Conference.

Formerly a struggling hamlet in Massachusetts, Northfield has now become the resort of hundreds of visitors during the summer months. The village and Seminary buildings are beautifully situated upon the banks of the Connecticut river, with tier upon tier of the Blue Mountains rising up behind and stretching away into the distance. Here amid scenes of rare beauty is the home of D. L. Moody, and to this paradise he yearly invites the students of America and other lands to unite in Conference and Bible study for twelve days in the early part of July. Hundreds gladly respond to this invitation, and if they do not return to their colleges better men, the fault must surely be their own and not that of their surroundings. The influences are all of an elevating and highly instructive nature. Here the things of God are learned more deeply, not by listening to the glib utterances of mere plaitudes that fall easily upon the ear, but by close application and genuine study. Here is a specimen of the daily round: 7 a.m., Breakfast; 8, Missionary Institute and Bible Training Classes held simultaneously; 9, College Association Conference; 10, Bible Studies and Central Training Class; 11, Platform Meeting; 12.30, to 6 p.m., Dinner and Recreation; 6 p.m., Supper; 7, Outdoor Meetings on various Topics; 8, Platform Meeting; 9.30 to 10, College Delegations. As will be seen by the above the afternoon of each day is strictly reserved for private study, social intercourse and recreation. The advantages of such a plan are many. Time is found to digest what has been heard; rough notes hurriedly taken may be re-written; mental and physical energies may be recuperated, and time is thus allowed for forming acquaintances among men from other institutions of learning and thus getting the benefit of an exchange of thought. It is money and time well spent to go to Northfield for this Conference. A student who goes once will want to go a second time. If you are not convinced of this try it and see for yourself.

The City of Montreal.

The City of Montreal, the commercial metropolis of Canada, is built on an island of the same name, situated at the junction of the rivers Ottawa and St. Lawrence.

The waters of the Ottawa river strike the head of the Island in such a manner as to divide and surround the Island, so that what is known as the St. Lawrence River opposite the city is really divided into two streams; that on the city side being Ottawa water while that on the south side is St. Lawrence. Of course the waters mingle somewhat in the lower part of their course, but, on crossing Lake St. Louis near the head of the Island, one can see distinctly the line of division between the two streams, the water of the St. Lawrence being green while that of the Ottawa is brown.

The Island is about 30 miles long by 10 miles broad.

Montreal was founded on the 8th May, 1642, by Maisonneuve, who gave it the name of Ville-Marie de Montreal. The old Indian village of Hochelaga, described by Jacques Cartier, was situated near the present site of the English Cathedral. On the 8th September, 1760, Montreal was surrendered by the French to the British. During the American War of Independence, Montreal was taken by the Americans under Montgomery, 12th November, 1775, but was retaken by the British on the 15th June, 1776.

Montreal was the seat of Government, till in 1849, during the governorship of Lord Elgin, Parliament removed to Ottawa then called Bytown. This removal was the result of, among other things, political riots, incited by the signing of "The Dominion Losses Bill," during which the Parliament Buildings were burned and the Governor-General mobbed. British troops were stationed in Montreal till 1870. From 1665 to 1801, Montreal was surrounded by a wall, extending along the site of Fortification Lane from Victoria Square to Dalhousie Square where the Canadian Pacific depot now is, from Victoria Square the walls extended down to the river about the line of McGill Street. The city then was of triangular shape, the small angle pointing towards the east. At present the city is of triangular shape but the small angle points towards the west.

Behind the city, rising over 700 feet above the level of the St. Lawrence, is Mount Royal, so called by Jacques Cartier in 1535 in honor of the King of France, Francis I. It is under the control of the city, being laid out as a beautiful park, covering 430 acres of land.

Opposite the city is the beautiful St. Helen's Island, so called by Champlain in 1611 after his wife. It is laid out as a beautiful park and is under the control of the city. The Government owns a piece of land at the lower end of the Island where there is a fort.

The Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew Cemeteries are situated behind the mountain.

The city proper is about  $6\frac{1}{2}$  miles long by 2 broad and has with its suburbs, a population of about 275,000, over one-half of whom are French. As for situation, both from the side of the beautiful, and from that of the practical, as regards water supply and distribution of sewage, Montreal can vie with any city in the world.

The Victoria Tubular Bridge spans the St. Lawrence at Montreal, and below Lachine the river is spanned by the beautiful Cantilever Bridge belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway.
