FRANCE TO OCCUPY NO MORE GROUND

Effectives Will be Reinforced, Says the War Minister

British Labor Party to Send Deputation to Ruhr to Investigate—Powers Getting Together Again on the Turkish Question.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, March 14.—"There will be no extension of the occupation, but the effectives will be reinforced," said the war minister, M. Maginot, on his return from the Ruhr yesterday.

"I have retained the class of 1921 until the end of May," he continued. "It was not to keep it in France. Fifteen thousand men of that class will be sent to the Rhine army. That operation will enable us to relieve the troops who have been engaged in a very irksome business and give them a rest."

London, March 14.—The British labor party is sending an official deputation to the Ruhr and other parts of Germany to report upon the situation, the Daily Telegraph says today.

Ottawa Had To Fight For Cheap Light and Power

A GRASPING CORPORATION TRIED TO MAINTAIN CONTROL OF THE FIELD

A Remarkable Story of Civic Success—Municipal Plant Saved the Situation in Spite of High-handed Methods by Company—A Lesson for St. John.

(P. D. Ross in Ottawa Journal.)

The bill of complaint lodged against the Ottawa Municipal Hydro Commission by the Ottawa Electric Company, before the Gregory Commission, is a curiously interesting sequel in view both of the history of electricity in Ottawa and of the unscrupulous practices of the Ottawa Electric Company.

The municipal hydro-electric enterprise owned by the Ottawa Electric Company, then in possession of an electric monopoly in Ottawa, were more than double the rates which prevail at present.

In 1908, opposition started in the shape of the new Consumers' Electric Company. The competition which ensued brought down rates to something like the present figure.

Now, the Consumers' Electric Company had obtained a charter from the City Council upon a legal agreement and pledge that the new company would not amalgamate with any other company. This pledge was exacted because the Ottawa Electric Company with its monopoly was already an amalgamation of three companies successively chartered previously in Ottawa.

Accordingly, if the Ottawa Electric Company wanted to absorb the Consumers' Company, it could not do so by buying control of the shares of any other company. However, then, was the Ottawa Company to dodge law and agreements and decrees to acquire control of the Consumers' Company, stop the existing competition and renew its monopoly of electricity in Ottawa?

The Ottawa Company tried to gain its end by applying to Parliament for an amendment to its charter to authorize it to buy shares in other companies. Not only this, which would enable it to capture the Consumers' Company, but the Ottawa Company had the almost incredible nerve to apply at the same time for parliamentary authority to double the existing rates of electricity in Ottawa, so that it should not be interfered with subsequently by any provincial or other legislation. And to the disgrace of Parliament, it is said, the Ottawa Company's bill was accepted despite the strenuous protests in Ottawa—particularly by the Journal.

HUNDREDS SEEK "LITTLE FATHER"

Clues on Auto Deepen Mystery in Disappearance of Priest.

Virden, Ill., March 14.—Clues found on his automobile today deepened the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Father A. Vranjak, rector of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church here, who has been missing nine days.

The automobile, found in St. Louis last Saturday, was turned over by the police there to the priest's brother, Adolph M. Vranjak of Chicago, who drove it to Virden.

Local authorities announced that an examination of the car revealed that scratched in the paint on the back of the seat in letters six inches high were the words "W. E. W."

Further examination disclosed corn stalks and wheat stubbles attached to the machinery under the body of the car, indicating that it had been driven through fields. A medal of Saint Christopher, the patron saint of travelers, which the clergyman had fastened on the side of the automobile, was missing, and marks on the door indicated that it had been pried off.

A meeting of Father Vranjak's parishioners was held last night, and hundreds of non-Catholics as well as Catholics were organized to search between St. Louis and Virden today for trace of the missing priest. Nothing has been heard of Father Vranjak since he reached St. Louis, March 5, on a business trip. He was very popular in the local community, and was called "the little father."

Rewards totaling $2,500 have been offered for information leading to his return.

WHERE CANADA'S COINS ARE MADE

There are only four branches of the Royal Mint in the Empire, three in Australia, at Sydney, Melbourne and Perth, and the fourth at Ottawa, the beautiful building shown in the picture. It is under the direction of a deputy mint master from London. Perhaps few Canadians realize that British gold sovereigns as well as Canadian coins are minted in Ottawa. Each coin has a small "C" on its reverse side. The Ottawa mint was opened in 1909, nearly 900 years after the first British mint was established by William the Conqueror in London. Coins were once issued by any private individuals who wanted to do so, but coining is now restricted to governments. South American countries have their money made in the mints of Europe.

Yes, sir—I'll wear a tag tomorrow."

CHOSE DEATH TO FINANCIAL DISASTER

Bank President Popp Told to Resign When the Directors Found Questionable Securities.

Chicago, March 14.—Developments in the mysterious death of Fred W. Popp, president of the Logan Square Bank, whose body was found on a lonely road with a bullet hole in the temple, indicate that he was facing bankruptcy or death and that he chose death.

His bank was his great pride, the culmination of years of hard work, from the time he branched out from his job as a letter carrier into the financial field. It had been made clear to him that the bank must be reorganized, with the elimination of himself as a treasurer, as provided by statute.

The decision was the outcome of a hearing begun before Justice Staley last month in special term of Supreme Court, when five citizens of Troy applied for an order declaring the league a political organization.

SLAYS WIFE AND MOTHER TO FILL TOMB IN CELLAR

Philadelphia Man Works for Months on Crypt

Philadelphia, March 14.—A coolly planned murder which detectives say reveals anything described by Edgar Allan Poe or Sir Conan Doyle took place here on Saturday night, when Manuel Silva, thirty-seven years old, beat his wife and mother-in-law to death with a mallet at his home, 3143 North Hamburger street, and then attempted to kill his thirteen-year-old daughter, Emma. The girl escaped by jumping from the window of a second-story room as her father was smashing down the door to reach her.

While at detail of police battered down the front door to arrest the slayer Silva placed the muzzle of a small-calibre rifle to his head and fired twice. At the Sanitarium Hospital, where he was taken, it was said he would die.

Contracted Cellar Tomb.

For five months Silva is said to have planned to destroy his entire family and during that time had built a sub-cellar in his home which was to have been the tomb of the three persons. Silva, it is believed, planned to wall up the door to the tomb and then flee the country.

The sub-cellar, which was eight feet deep, was built with concrete and seven concrete steps led from the cellar floor to the death chamber. At the foot of the stairs in the sub-cellar was a small concrete room, containing a gas jet and racks upon which the bodies were to have been placed. The entrance to this room could be reached by a door which opened into the sub-cellar filled in and a new cutting of cement placed upon the cellar floor. Detectives said that had Silva been successful in his plans it is doubtful if the bodies would have been recovered for years.

Silva finished the death chamber on Saturday afternoon and the murder of the entire family was set for Saturday night. At 8:30 o'clock, Mrs. Wilhelm Silva, the wife, and her daughter, Emma, went next door to attend a party.

Mother-in-Law First.

Silva remained in his home with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Rames, fifty-five years old. Silva was working in the cellar and a little after 10 o'clock called Mrs. Rames to come down. As she reached the foot of the stairs, Silva struck her on the head with a large wooden mallet. Then he stabbed her a dozen times with a knife. Making sure the woman was dead, he threw her body into the pit and then dragged it into the tomb.

When Mrs. Silva and her daughter returned home, the husband rapped on the wall, summoning his wife. The fate was the same as her mother's. Then the murderer rapped a second time. That was for his daughter Emma. When she saw the blood stained mallet in his hands, she fled upstairs. Silva pursued her and as she broke in the door to her bedroom, the girl dropped from the window into the yard. Vaulting the fence, she reached the home of neighbors who notified the police.

Prohibition and Grand Falls Development Are Referred to by Premier

LEASE TO PRIVATE CORPORATION NOT TO BE RENEWED, HE SAYS

Prohibitory Law Will be Given Fair Trial and if it Could Not be Enforced, People Will be Given Opportunity to Declare Their Views—A Fighting Speech.

Premier Veniot, in the debate on the speech from the throne yesterday, gave a declaration of his stand on the prohibition question. He told of the decision of the government not to renew the lease on property for hydro-electric development at Grand Falls and replied vigorously to the speeches of C. D. Richards, leader of the Conservative party, and A. Bruce Fawcett, Farmer leader. This was the first speech of the new premier and was marked by his force and vigor.

(Official Report)

Assembly, Fredericton, March 13.—J. Doucet, the new member for Gloucester, was introduced by Hon. Mr. Veniot and Hon. Mr. Byrne and took his seat when the House resumed its session this afternoon.

Notices of enquiry were given for Friday next as follows: By Mr. Smith (Albert) as to the total expenditure to date on the Musquash development, the acreage covered by the works, and whether the lands were acquired by lease or purchase, and copies of all correspondence between the owners and the power commission. Also as to the amount of bonds issued to cover the cost of the Musquash development, and other particulars.

By Mr. Richards, as to what bond issues have been made by the government since Oct. 31, 1922. Mr. McKenna wanted to know if any action had been taken by the government for the development of agriculture with reference to legislation now pending at Ottawa, and if so, whether it was the intention of the government to further importation of oleomargarine. He understood that telegrams had been exchanged on the subject. The matter was of great importance to his constituency, and he would like to know what had been done.

Hon. Mr. Mercereau said that a bill to extend the right to import oleomargarine and to permit its manufacture was now before the Federal Parliament. Mr. Peck, who was in charge of the bill, had written him in regard to the matter, and had requested that the representatives for New Brunswick, come to the legislature to see the bill. Mr. Mercereau had promptly wired Hon. Mr. Motterwell, minister of agriculture, asking him to state his position with reference to the proposed legislation. Up to the present he had not received a reply to his message.

Mr. Peck gave notice of an address to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor praying that he cause to be laid before the House of Commons a bill to amend the Liquor Commission of the Queen Hotel property, and particulars of the lease of the same to Mrs. A. B. Pugsley.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that the information would be furnished without the formality of an address.

Hon. Mr. Veniot.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that in the first time since the honor of the Premier had been conferred upon him he did so with some hesitation and embarrassment. He would say that the feeling of embarrassment was not due to the criticism of honorable members, but to the fact that he had the province, in the person of the new member for St. John county. He recalled that when a vacancy occurred in the constituency in 1910, the chance of victory for the party were looked upon as hopeless, but Mr. Bentley had thrown himself into the campaign and was elected. He was very nervous and came in in the recent by-election and was returned by one of the biggest majorities ever taken out of the country.

He also welcomed the new member for his own county of Gloucester. While new to political life he has had a lengthy experience in the Municipal Council and will make good in the legislature.

The honorable leader of the opposition in the course of his speech had intimated that the form might suggest to the new Premier. The honorable member had made proposals in the past and they had not been fulfilled. He felt that the new Premier would do as well for the province as he had done for his own county. He would be glad to be of service to the province in the legislature.

When he (Veniot) looked back and examined his record as Premier, how his predecessor had taken the province out of the rut in which it had fallen, the progressive legislation which he enacted, it was not to be wondered at that he should have hesitated in accepting the honor which had been conferred upon him. He would not have accepted the responsibility had he not felt assured of the loyal support of honorable members on his side of the House, along with an assurance from his predecessor in office that he would be given his seat at least for the remainder of the term and assist in carrying out the policies which had characterized his own administration. He felt that the people of St. John and Kings counties had sufficient intelligence to form an opinion of their own on the record of the government.

Before replying to criticisms directed at the government, he wished to express his thanks to the honorable leader of the opposition for his kindly personal reference. He felt sure that the reference had come from a sincere heart. While they did not always agree on political matters he hoped they would not be far distant when his honorable friend would agree with him. He hoped to conduct himself that the honorable member would feel more at home on his (Veniot's) side of the House than he would on his own. With regard to the honorable leader of the Farmers party he was doubtful whether he should take reflections upon the former leader. In other words he had damned him with faint praise, and that was not the kind that he wanted.

He considered the press of the province on the kindly way in which he had received his nomination for the leadership. He did not thank them so much on his own behalf as he did on behalf of the Acadian people of the province. The honor fell to him of being the first Acadian citizen of the government, and on behalf of the Acadian people he wished to thank their representatives in the legislature for their recognition of such a measure of tolerance in which his nomination had resulted in the province working together the two great races which inhabited New Brunswick. He believed it would result in the province working together in the best condition of affairs. He paid a warm tribute to the mover and seconder of the address.

Welcomed New Members.

He wanted to welcome to the House, one of the old political warhorses of up to two years ago he had sold fertilizer. It was time that the public knew that the honorable leader of the Farmers party was not a man who had brought the farmers down to the position in which they found themselves. His honorable friend had introduced the Farmers of Westmorland from Cape Bauld down to Shediac to abandon mixed farming and to get into the business of entering the Canadian potato market.

Not a Laxative

Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Try it today.

The Roads. The honorable leader of the official Opposition also referred to roads. He had stated that the bonded indebtedness on trunk roads was five million dollars. Probably his honorable friend had not deliberately led the public astray, but in future he should be careful of figures.

Mr. Richards—"I have had many lectures from you."

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that it did not seem to have done the honorable leader of the Opposition any good. He would like to see the honorable leader of the Farmers party give some private tuition. The facts were that two and a half million dollars had been expended on the roads since 1917. There had been $1,400,000 in Federal aid on trunk roads, $2,650,000 in Provincial aid on trunk roads, and $1,900,000 in Provincial aid on secondary roads, of which there had been a refund of $800,000 leaving $6,000,000 chargeable. In 1920, '21 and '22 not one dollar had been spent on branch, secondary and by-roads. In all there was a total of $1,965,240 out of which $1,100,000 had been expended on trunk roads and $865,240 on secondary roads. In 1917 there was a total of $2,184 cars, only six per cent of which were motor cars. In the year 1918-19 the total was eight or nine thousand, about twenty-five per cent of which were motor cars. Today there were fifteen thousand cars and trucks in the province, and sixty-one per cent of them were owned by farmers.

What better evidence would the public require that by-road and branch roads had been improved. He wished to state that Veniot's own private improved road was not a mile of road. The main trunk roads, unlike those in Quebec, Ontario, and other parts of the Union were lined with farms. He knew that when the time came the farmers would stand by the road and say "I have had my share of the money."

The honorable leader of the opposition had been unfair in criticism. He had asked "where are you going to get the money?" He had asked "where are you going to get the money?" He had asked "where are you going to get the money?" He had asked "where are you going to get the money?"

He was sorry the leader of the Farmers party had taken his place because he wished to ask him why, during the course of a speech of an hour and a half he did not raise voice against the amount expended in those counties which had suffered the most from depression. His honorable friend had made no reference to the section of the speech from the throne which outlined the scheme proposed by the Government for relief of those sections.

The honorable leader of the Farmers party had come before the Government as a member of a delegation upon depression on the agricultural districts. At that time he had not outlined a scheme for relief. But he did insist that "something should be done." His honorable friend (Fawcett) at that occasion did not come before the Government as a farmer; in fact he (Veniot) believed he was as much a farmer as his honorable friend and he was not a farmer at all. His honorable friend was aware of the condition of mortgages and debts and yet would not take counsel with the Government concerning means of relief. Possibly someone near to him had mortgages on the farms of Westmorland for fertilizer.

Mr. Fawcett—"I am willing to advise when you want it." Hon. Mr. Veniot said that he had been waiting since last Friday to hear from the honorable member. The Government's honorable friend pleaded for long term loans for the relief of the agricultural districts. Mr. Fawcett—"I did not plead."

Selling Fertilizer. Hon. Mr. Veniot said the members of the government must have misunderstood the honorable gentleman. He certainly took up three-quarters of the time. He was there for one thing, and that was to alter the phrase slightly he would say that the honorable gentleman requested that the Government should furnish fertilizer for those who had furnished fertilizer for the farmers. His honorable friend was a middleman selling fertilizer and competing with the agricultural societies.

Mr. Fawcett—"I have not sold fertilizer for two years." Hon. Mr. Veniot said that he knew that the honorable gentleman was not going to catch him that way, but with the motor traffic increasing so rapidly. There was reference in the speech from the throne that it might be expected to obtain a continuation of federal aid for highways. Both sides of the House were evidently willing to consent that. He would say that the policy of highway reconstruction was stated in 1917 without federal aid. Later what was taken as a constant amount was still to be expended this year. He would ask the House to support a policy of continuation of that expenditure.

Cost of Musquash. The honorable leader of the Opposition had said that the cost of Musquash development had been increased to $3,000,000. In that, however, he included the cost of the transmission line to Moncton as part of the Musquash development. The honorable member had the right to go to the Comptroller General's office and see the books. There had been a time in the history of the province when such could not be done, but that was past. Upon Musquash development proper there had been an expenditure of $2,000,000 and upon the Moncton line $400,000.

Mr. Richards—"I would like the figures referred to in the books." Hon. Mr. Veniot—"How much is it?" Mr. Richards—"It is $2,700,000." Hon. Mr. Veniot said that it might be in the political interests of his party his honorable friend was hoping for a failure of Musquash. If any reliance could be placed upon the opinions of experts, Musquash would be a success. If his honorable friend was predicting failure, they were attempting to injure the province and its financial position, when the matter of a larger development was being considered. Yet they claimed to have the interests of the province at heart.

University Confederation. He was pleased to be able to come to a section of the speech from the throne in which he could concur with the honorable leader of the official Opposition. It was the section referring to the University of New Brunswick when the matter of university federation came up. The senate of the University and the Government had considered the matter and there was no decision in which he could more heartily concur than that against moving the province of the University to that university himself, but his sons had. It always had been considered the way of assistance for the province. He had not been leader of the province.

Valley Railway. With regard to the Valley Railway. He would touch upon a matter which his honorable friends from Madawaska, Victoria and Carleton counties would be eager to hear, Grand Falls development. There had been a proposal to establish from eight to twelve patrol districts and have men engaged by the month under the direction of district engineers. He believed that in organizing a patrol system the province would save considerable money. That action was taken by the members of the Automobile Association and he hoped honorable members of the house would closely watch the work and report any neglect to the department.

More Teachers. Another paragraph in the speech referred to increased attendance at the Provincial Normal school as result of the action of the Government in loaning money to stimulate the action. He was in the province with the view of providing sufficient teachers for all the country schools. The normal school was at present overcrowded, and they would like to see it enlarged so that it would be able to take in a few more students to enable all the schools to be kept open. The honorable leader of the Farmers party had offered some criticism on the present principle of taxation.

Reply to Cities. Hon. Mr. Veniot resuming after referring to the reasons which the leader of the opposition had given for the result of the election in St. John and Kings were not based on facts, and the same could be said in reference to his remarks on highway construction, if left unchallenged, might cause people to think that the government was bonding the province too heavily for the present. The honorable member had not given the Government credit for providing sinking funds on the bond issue for highway improvements. The providing of sinking funds was only one phase of progressive policy which the government had adopted. By providing good roads they were giving the province a great and valuable asset, and provision had been made for the redemption of the bonds at maturity. When honorable members opposite charged that the government was bonding the province too heavily for the present, they were not only doing injustice to themselves as representatives, but were not doing their duty by the people.

Random statement of the hon-

There had almost been an expression of hope upon the opposition side that negotiations for its taking over would fail. Both leaders of the Opposition advanced the claim that the Government could take no credit for a surplus apart from Valley Railway deficit. Both claimed that the deficit should be set out of revenue, but did not state how it could be done. It must be remembered that there was an annual increase of this deficit of some $200,000, but there was an expenditure to be reduced to meet that? Would it be in roads, agriculture, education, public health or the general services of the province? Would that be done for something for which the Government was not at all responsible?

Honorable member of the opposition had said that the railway had been built as the result of a general demand from the people of the St. John Valley. Honorable gentlemen now sitting in opposition, at that time on the Government side, had not sufficiently safeguarded the interests of the province, and they were responsible. There was no public service of the province which should be sacrificed to relieve these deficits. His honorable friend (Richards) had said it was wrong principle to bond interest. In so saying his honorable friend was criticising his own friends who had bonded interests when there was no Valley Railway. The deficit had become so great it could not be provided for. In regard to the public debt, his honorable friend had said that the increase had been $2,000,000. He had placed the increase for 1922-23 at $1,400,000. Of that $1,400,000 was for Valley Railway and $800,000 for funding an old floating indebtedness left by the preceding government. Mr. Richards—"I said the debt in 1921 was $28,574,832.29 and in 1922 it was $28,228,462.29, making a difference of $346,370."

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that he had made a difference of $8,100,000, thus giving his honorable friend a $7,753,630. He wished to point out that the party opposite was responsible for $889,718.

Mr. Richards—"It was accounted for by the fact that the debt had been reduced by $325,000 in sinking fund. The Government had provided funds for every bond issue, and also had to provide for indebtedness incurred by honorable gentlemen opposite. His honorable friend had said that since 1917 there had only been one surplus apart from the Valley Railway. How could he make such statements? In 1917 there was a surplus of $98,248 and in 1922 one of $70,500. In 1918 there had been a deficit of $2,008 which really could be passed as no deficit. For 1919 the deficit was $1,068,448, leaving a net deficit of $426,738. Where was the million deficit? Why try to deceive the public? His honorable friend opposite should even pronounce the word deficit for the floors of the House he (Veniot) had produced figures showing the loss of the province since 1917. Noblest Monument Of English Prose

(By Professor J. L. Lowe)

I have intentionally left out of my title the name of the monument to which the descriptive phrase applies, and I have done so because I wished to leave no question of the one and only aspect of a rich and complex subject which I mean to treat. For the monument of English prose to be considered is the King James version of the Bible. Of its unique significance in the field of English letters there can be no doubt. Its phraseology has become part and parcel of our common tongue—bone of its bone and flesh of its flesh. Its rhythms and cadences, its turns of speech, its familiar imagery, its very words, are woven into the texture of our literature, prose and poetry alike. Yet it is of the Orient; and not of the West; it is a translation, not an original; and it has reached us by way not of one language only, but of three. What is it, then, in this translation which has made it a factor of such power in the development of our speech? What are the qualities which have stamped indelibly its very phraseology upon the literary masterpieces of three hundred years?

Consider for a moment your own familiar, everyday speech—the apt and telling turns of expression, the phrases of homely vigor or happy pregnancy which have become a part of our linguistic stock in trade. "Highways and byways," "nip and tuck," "arose as one man," "lick the dust," "a thorn in the flesh," "a broken reed," "the root of all evil," "the nether millstone," "the sweat of his brow," "heap coals of fire," "a soft answer," "a word in season," "weighed and found wanting," "we are the people"—that is a list of Biblical phrases cited in a recent volume, and most of you could double it or triple it at will. The English of the Bible has a pithiness and raciness, a homely tang, a terse succinctness, an idiomatic flavor which comes home to men's business and bosoms. And among the qualities which a saturation in the Bible has always lent to English style is a happiness of incidental phrase and a swift-flingness of diction which only a full saturation in Shakespeare can approach in its effectiveness.

It is not too much to say, I think, that the language of the English Bible owes its distinctive qualities, and that perhaps in no unequal measure, on the one hand to the vast desert spaces and wide skies of the hither Orient, and on the other to the open seas and rock-bound coasts of England. Nor do I mean that in the least as a mere figure of speech. For at the beginning of the long chain of development which makes the very language of the English Bible what it is are the men who, beside the rivers of Babylon or Egypt, or among the hills and pasture lands of Israel and Judah, or in the wide stillness of Arabia, brooded and wondered and dreamed, and left a language simple and sensuous and steeped in the picturesque imagery of what they saw and felt. At the end of this same chain of causes are the theatres of Shakespeare's London and the ships of the Elizabethan voyagers—of men whose language was as simple and as vivid as their lives. And between are the severity at Alexandria and Jerome in his desert—Greece and Rome between Mesopotamia and England.

That which distinguishes the Semitic languages from the Aryan, says Renan, is the fact that the primitive union of sensation and idea persists—so that in each word one still hears the echo of the primitive sensations which determined the choice of the first makers of the language. The writers of the Old Testament—and to a lesser degree those of the New as well—thought and felt and spoke in images—in a vocabulary compact of nearly all the physical sensations that flesh is heir to. "Paul's words," said Luther, "are alive; they have hands and feet; if you cut them they bleed." He might have said that with no less fitness of the Hebrew words.

Now this characteristic of the Hebrew vocabulary carries certain consequences which are pertinent to this discussion. In the first place it gave to the diction of Hebrew literature an incomparable vividness. There is a famous passage in "Diana of the Crossways" in which Meredith speaks of the art of description: "The art of the pen, he says, 'is to rouse the inward vision, instead of laboring with a drop-scene brush, as if it were to the eye; because our flying minds cannot contain a projected description. That is why the poets, who spring imagination with a word or phrase, paint lasting pictures.'" Well, to a degree unapproached, perhaps, unless it be in Shakespeare or in Dante, the Hebrew writers spring imagination with a word or phrase.

Their very words carry out Browning's curt injunction: "Do the thing shall breed the thought." Instead of merely naming an emotion, they reproduce the physical sensation that attends it—the surging of blood to the face, the tingling of the nerves, the rising of the hair, the palsy of the tongue, the quickening of the breath.

"O God, Thou art my God, my soul thirsteth for Thee, my flesh longeth for Thee, in a dry and thirsty land where no water is; 'As the heart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee'; 'Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep'; 'As a door turneth upon his hinges, so doth the slothful upon his bed'; Thou makest us a by-word among the heathen, a shaking of the head among the people; 'We walk in darkness, we grope for the wall like the blind'; 'I am weary of my crying, my throat is dried, mine eyes fall while I wait for my God.'"

It would be easy to read such passages for the rest of the hour; those are enough to show to what degree the Biblical vocabulary is compact of the primal stuff of our common humanity—of its universal emotional, sensory experiences. The meaning of Hebrew words is "carried"—in Wordsworth's phrase—"alive into the heart."

The sixteenth and seventeenth century translators of the Bible were happily untroubled by pedantic theories of the technique of Hebrew verse; what they felt was this deep inner rhythm—this alternating surge of thought or feeling—and, untrammelled by any attempt to reproduce with technical exactness its outward form, they responded to its inner spirit in a prose whose rhythms, so molded, have a flexibility, a staidness, a grand freedom, which

OTTAWA POINTS THE WAY TO ST. JOHN.

The Times prints today an article by Mr. P. D. Ross, proprietor of the Ottawa Journal, giving the history of the struggle in that city to get cheap light and power. A grasping corporation was charging rates more than double those now in effect.

Mr. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, has very little respect for the intelligence of the New York State Legislature, which adopted a resolution urging Congress to legalize the sale of light wine and beer.

There is a lesson in this for the people of St. John. They have the opportunity to get power at cost. The Ottawa municipal plant has never had a deficit, but has paid a small profit in addition to making all necessary extensions, paying all charges, and piling up a sinking fund of a million dollars.

THE PREMIER'S SPEECH.

CANADIAN SINGERS MAKE NEW YORK HIT

(E. D. Perkins in New York Tribune.) The White Male Voice Choir, a chorus of seventy-five, which has been displaying its powers in various cities on both sides of the border, made its first appearance in New York last night at Carnegie Hall.

That it could sing, and sing well, was obvious. Whether it is, as has been claimed, the best male chorus in North America could hardly be decided at one hearing—there might be admirers of the Harvard Glee Club, for instance, to dispute it.

A Finnish song, "Kullervo the Outcast," by Toivo Kuula, reflected credit on the expressive powers of the choir, with a poignant note at the beginning rising to fierceness later on.

HE MOURNS FOR THE FLESH POTS OF CHATHAM

Has Lost Weight, But Not His Sense of Humor

Commodore Stewart and M. McDade at Sanitarium—Oh, for a Miramichi Cook Book!

(Chatham World.)

New England Sanitarium, Melrose, Mass., March 6, 1923.—The diet, in which meat and fish find no place, is quite varied. There are dozens of dishes, most of them distasteful to men, but I notice that others get away with a half a dozen and more of them at a meal with great relish. There is oyster stew on the list—camouflage oyster stew. I tasted a very little of it and wanted no more. It had the oyster taste, but the thought of its being due to chemicals, probably, was enough to cause me to reject it. There is fresh lettuce every day, served with a dressing made with oil, and I never could get an oil dressing. I would get plain lettuce and make a dressing of vinegar, sugar and mustard for myself, but neither vinegar nor mustard is served here. So I have to cut out all the salads. There are other dishes of the grape nut family that I have no use for. One of the few things I eat a little of with any relish is cottage cheese, a sort of sweet milk curd. The bread is not particularly inviting, the brown bread particularly. The graham gems taste like a mixture of sawdust and pine splinters. They are recommended as laxative, I haven't tasted the brown bread that goes with beans, but that is probably the genuine Boston variety. What I would like to see on the table is some of Mrs. Snowball's brown bread, the kind they serve at St. Luke's. I got the recipe from her once and used to have it made for me at home. It is, I remember, merely a mixture of two kinds of meal stirred up with milk and baked in a shallow pan, but I don't remember the process well enough to tell the chef how to make it. If I had the recipe I would give it to him. One remarkable omission, in a vegetarian menu, is tomato scallop. None of the hotel chefs I have known ever, apparently, heard of it. They serve mixed tomato-mixed with bread crumbs and warmed slightly and call it by that name. The chef here serves this same thing and calls it breaded tomato. But how it makes one who has eaten the real thing in Chatham homes and church suppers wish he had a spoonful of it. And then there is potato scallop. I ordered it here, thinking I might possibly eat a little of it, but one taste was enough. It was simply sliced potatoes that had been moistened and warmed. How different from the juicy, succulent, appetizing kind you get at St. Luke's and St. Andrew's suppers! If some Chatham housewife will send me the Chatham recipes for making these dishes I will give them to the head of the diet department here and thereby enlarge the menu to the benefit of all concerned. But I am afraid that I would eat very little of them, as I seem to have lost all relish for food.

I may confess that once when I happened to be alone in the house, I decided to make a potato salad for supper. So I sliced up some boiled potatoes, spread a layer of bread crumbs over them, added several bits of butter, covered the whole with grated cheese, poured on the milk, and put the pan in the oven, covered. I returned at night, thinking of the treat in store for me, and found my scallop dried and burned to a cinder! I didn't try another but I am firmly persuaded even to this day that one of the most appetizing scallops ever composed was ruined solely because there was nobody at home to remove it from the oven at the right time!

Tobacco smoking is forbidden on the premises, and smokers go out for a walk when they would indulge in the weed.

Tea and coffee are not served, but the ladies often have little tea parties in their rooms. The house serves Health Tea, whatever that may be, and Cerul Coffee, I ordered the latter once and tasted it; one taste was enough.

Dr. Otis, second in command of the medical staff, lectured one night last week on the Science, Art and Diplomacy of Medicine. The Diplomatic part of the camouflage, the making-believe, the jolly part of the treatment, the art of making the sick think they are getting well whether they are or not. Our patients are given a series of treatments—electric, hydro-therapeutic, massage, hot water packs, etc.—that are of more or less good, diplomatic or otherwise, and go home feeling better for their rest and change. My friend Mac takes the whole round of treatments, five or six hours a day of them, and feels that they do him good, but I am persuaded that almost the only benefit he experiences is due to his absence from business. Rest is the one great thing he needs, and he gets it here. He knows everybody, everybody knows and likes him, and when a lady is going to town alone she lets Mac know that she would like to see him on his way. He immediately volunteers, and the trip to town, with a visit to a show, follows. He gets an hour in bed after his treatments, as a rule, but is on his feet most of the rest of the day. I would like to take him down South, get a tent beside a stream far from the meddling crowd, try his own flapjacks, catching what fish we wanted to eat, bathing, lying naked in the sun to dry, reading, and poetry while stretched out in hammocks, and chatting together between long silences. This would be rest, the rest he needs, I am a real person and don't need this regimen so much.

Keep your skin clean, soft and smooth.

DAGGETT & RAMSDALL'S PERFECT COLD CREAM "The Kind That Keeps"

as he, but I would enjoy it and know it would do me good. I have often lain on the deck of my yacht, under a hot sun, without a ghost of a breeze blowing, in perfect content, and then, when the breeze came, held the wheel for hours, watching for every flaw or change of wind, whole mind intent on getting most out of the breeze. Others are built differently. I was about five miles outside of Cumham one day in a dead calm, and one of my passengers got into a paroxysm of wrath. I won't stay here I want to go ashore, I can't stand this any longer he raged. "All right, my boy," I said, "the walking's bad but the swimming's good." He stayed, and was as happy as a lark when the wind came in and sent us bowling merrily towards the main entrance.

My Solatia is very little or any better. The only treatment I get for it is a hot pack, once a day, that does not appear to be any better than Mrs. Hill's hot-water bottle. The doctors, after studying about fifty dollars worth of X-ray plates, cautiously tell me they have found a reason in my stomach for my loss of appetite, but that nothing can be done for it in my present weak condition—that I must eat more and grow strong before they can do anything. In the meantime I am weak because of inability to eat, and must eat and get strong so they may remove the cause of my not eating. I Great are the Ephesians! Sublimely logical is the Diplomacy of Medicine!

My fighting weight last summer—140 pounds. My weight when I left Chatham, 120 pounds. My weight yesterday, stripped for the ring, was 109 pounds.

I've been in bed all the week, going twice a day to the treatment room and writing a little nearly every day. In bed, I have received a good many letters, and am sending only brief acknowledgments in reply. Those of my friends who get no reply at all need be surprised.

I intend to dress and go down stairs this afternoon to meet a couple of lady friends from Boston who have been wonderfully kind to me when Mac goes, as he will in a week or two.

Mrs. Gould of Chatham came to see me the other day, and Miss MacDonald daughter of Donald MacDonald, formerly of Chatham, was with her. Mrs. Gould is the picture of health and says she is enjoying Boston life very much and escapes the shovelling of coal she would have to do at home. Miss MacDonald is one of the Superintendents of the Elliot Hospital in Boston. Her father and mother are well, she says. Of course my friend Mac took possession at once of the young lady and carried her off to see the institution. She is a charming girl and I could hardly believe it was she that he thought I wanted to have the widow to myself during their stay!

ANNUAL MEETINGS OF ANGLICAN W.A.

The Trinity church W. A. held its twentieth annual meeting yesterday with Mrs. L. R. Harrison, the retiring president, in the chair. Other officers retiring were Mrs. W. Shivers Fisher, treasurer, and Mrs. James McAvity, Letter Leaflet secretary. A beautiful corsage bouquet of purple violets was presented to Mrs. Harrison by her successor, Mrs. F. J. G. Knowlton, on behalf of the auxiliary as a token of her appreciation. Rev. Canon R. A. Armstrong officiated at corporate Holy Communion in the morning. He referred to the sterling work of the three retiring officers.

Business Session. The business session was held in the school room with Mrs. Harrison presiding and in the morning the reports were received. Rev. A. E. Gabriel led the opening devotions. Mrs. Harrison extended greetings to Mrs. George F. Smith, the diocesan president.

The reports showed a total membership of 148. Total receipts were $1,031.23 and the balance on hand amounted to $379.44. The E. C. D. funds totalled $50.69 and the mite box contributions amounted to $223. The diocesan secretary reported that a ballot had been sent the Shingwauk school in November, Christmas parcels had been dispatched and an outfit and bedding provided for a boy at the Chapeau Indian school, as well as some garments for girls and two quilts for the co-operative bales. The Dorcas work was on exhibition at the meeting and was cause for justifiable pride. The report of the literature secretary told of the many inspirational addresses heard during the year. The Little Helpers' secretary reported sixty-seven members enrolled and receipts of $98.44.

When the appeals were presented regret was expressed at the absence through illness of the diocesan Dorcas secretary, Mrs. John M. Hay. The meeting voted $10 to diocesan appeals,

$5 to Trinity church and $18 to the mission house in Athabaska.

Resolutions of sympathy in bereavement were extended to Mrs. A. G. Gregory, Mrs. C. E. L. Jarvis and the Misses Patton. Mrs. George F. Smith, diocesan president, in her address, complimented the branch warmly and having paid tribute to the excellent work of the retiring officers urged all members to accept office when asked to do so and to do whatever lay in their power to further the interests of the work.

Afternoon Session. The afternoon session opened with devotions led by Rev. A. E. Gabriel in the absence of the rector.

Mrs. Harrison, in her address as retiring president, referred to the early days of the branch recalling that Rev. J. A. Richardson, the present bishop of the diocese, was formed and that it began with twenty-seven members. This year seventeen new members had been enrolled and there were eighty-seven members when she was elected.

She spoke feelingly of the loss sustained in the death of five valued members, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Knight, Miss Sturdee and recently Mrs. Thomas Patton. The branch was to be congratulated on having more than fulfilled its pledges this year, she said, and she made special mention of the Christmas remembrance sent to a clergyman's widow and family. The work of the juniors she also referred to with special commendation. Having touched upon the gratifying reports from the Dominion secretary, which told of seven candidates having offered for the foreign field and fourteen for Canadian missions, eleven of whom had been accepted to receive training in Toronto, Mrs. Harrison thanked officers and members for the hearty support she had received and said: "Let us each work and pray that God will bless and prosper our work in the future as He has done in the past, to His honor and glory."

The report of the Young Women's Guild was given by the president, Miss Dorothy Robson, and the juniors' report was given by the junior superintendent, Mrs. Gordon B. Nichol, who told of an enrollment of thirty-nine and said the juniors had done much Dorcas work, had held a successful fund-raising campaign, had collected $17.93 in their mission boxes and given the following donations: Junior pledge, $25; a child in India, $20; U. T. O., $5 and special appeal, $2. The juniors appeared and delighted the senior members with a splendid programme. Following an opening hymn by all the children Helen Currie gave a recitation; Frances Peat, Neta Golding and Eunice Peatman took part in a dialogue; Eleanor Larsen gave a recitation and several of the children sang a missionary song.

Election of Officers. Mrs. Russel Sturdee, Miss K. Disbrow, Miss Allan and Mrs. Storey were the scrutineers and the election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. F. J. G. Knowlton; vice-presidents, Mrs. E. A. Schofield, Mrs. H. Bruce, Miss K. Allan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. L. McAvity; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. MacBride; treasurer, Mrs. A. C. Wilson; E. C. D. treasurer, Mrs. C. F. Regan; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. J. L. McAvity; literature secretary, Mrs. H. H. Pickett; leaflet secretary, Mrs. J. J. Gordon; junior superintendent, Mrs. G. B. Nichol; Little Helpers' secretary, Miss Mary Harrison; delegate to the diocesan annual, Mrs. J. D. Seelye.

The members of the new executive were called to the platform and were given a cordial reception. The singing of the Doxology closed the meeting. A pleasant social hour followed and the members of the executive were hostesses for the serving of refreshments.

St. James'. The annual meeting of the St. James' Church W. A. was held yesterday, with Mrs. Clarence Dixon presiding. Rev. H. A. Cody conducted Holy Communion for the members in the morning.

The business session was held in the evening in the schoolroom with Mrs. Dixon presiding. Reports were presented from the juniors, the girls' branch and the Little Helpers and each told of excellent work accomplished. The report of the new executive was given by the rector in the name of the branch and an outfit made for an Indian boy at Chapeau school and garments made for the Oriental mission. All the branch pledges were met during the year.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. A. C. Codrington; president, Mrs. C. Waring; vice-presidents, Mrs. C. M. Leonard, Mrs. R. O'Shaughnessy and Miss Bessie Charlton; secretary, Mrs. John Kee; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Leonard; F. C. D. treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Vaughan; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. W. H. Holder; assistants, Mrs. W. J. Neale, Mrs. B. Judge and Mrs. Rita Maurice; Living Message secretary, Mrs. Robert Murray; junior superintendent, Mrs. W. J. Edwards; Little Helpers' secretary, Mrs. A. Abianette; rector's representatives, Mrs. W. J. Neale and Mrs. W. S. Vaughan; delegates to the diocesan annual, Mrs. W. H. Holder; alternates, Mrs. Fred Leonard and Mrs. R. O'Shaughnessy.

St. George's. The annual meeting of the St. George's Church W. A. opened yesterday morning with Holy Communion, with Rev. W. H. Sampson officiating. Mrs. W. D. Foster was the guest of honor. The evening session opened with a supper arranged by a committee led by Mrs. Donville Belyea. Mrs. J. Corey Green presided. Reports showed a most successful year.

A pleasing incident in the meeting was the presentation of a life membership to Mrs. John Carrier, who had held the office of Dorcas secretary for our years. The presentation was made by Mrs. Donville Belyea, the branch and the life membership was given in recognition of faithful service.

Mrs. W. D. Foster gave an address on the true missionary spirit. The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. W. H. Sampson; vice-presidents, Mrs. C. Waring, Mrs. William Emerson; recording secretary, Mrs. Arthur Rawlings; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Kindred; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. John Carrier; treasurer, Miss Sarah Carlton; E. C. D. treasurer, Mrs. Fred McIntyre; mite box secretary, Mrs. Wm. Nilsson; junior secretary, Mrs. Willie Warrington; Little Helpers' secretary, Mrs. Walter Bagnall; rector's representatives, Mrs. J. Marjorie and Mrs. William Emerson; delegate to the diocesan annual, Mrs. J. Corey Green and Mrs. Rawlings; substitutes, Mrs. Robert Perry and Mrs.

(Continued from yesterday) "A matter of three miles. But the men have motorcycles, and should be here at any moment. Hark! That's the bell, isn't it? No doubt they have already come. Oh, Mr. Deland, what shall I say to them? I don't feel as though I could face a stranger now!"

laid lay, and turning the handle softly, led the way in.

There was a light shining in the centre of the room from an old-fashioned lamp which stood upon the desk-top and sent a soft, effulgent glow about it that lay like a halo upon the peace of that silent place. At the desk sat Ross Duggan, head in hands, shutting out the sight of the thing that faced him in all the majesty of death, that thing which a short time back had been his own father, and now sat huddled forward in a fallen attitude in the swing-back office chair opposite Ross, transparent hands lying limply upon the desk-top, head down-thrown, jaw dropped, and with a little sinister blackened puncture in the temple telling the tale of the air-pistol's accurate aim only too well.

go and lie down. After such a terrible shock . . . "I'll go, and gladly!" returned Ross with a grim nod of the head and a sudden warning of colour in the pale cheeks of him. "It's not been the pleasantest task sitting here with—him—like that, Mr. Deland. And as you happen to have jumped up from nowhere and taken matters so entirely in hand, I'll relinquish my trust. But I didn't somehow like to leave—him—alone. After what's happened—the strange mess of his death—and all the rest of this ghastly affair, I meant to keep the rest of the world away from him, if possible, and if the murderer should chance to come back—sudden light flashed into his eyes and involuntarily his body stiffened—"then I should be ready for him."

"Spoken like a soldier and a gentleman," said Cleek softly, with a nod of understanding. "Now I want to have a look at your father, Mr. Duggan. And I'd like it if you could just find it in your heart to stay here with me for a moment or two, and acquaint me with the facts. Your sister has told me the rough outline, and—" "My sister?" His voice showed the surprise which this news elicited. "How did you see her, then?"

"That is a long story, which you shall hear some other time. At present she simply sent for me in a very quick and excellent manner, and I came at once. The worthy Sergeant and his men followed. . . Now, Sergeant, place your men as I told you, and I'll get on to the business of examination. I only want to get a rough idea of the true method of death, and glean what clues I can for Mr. Narkom, who will arrive in the morning. . . And, good-bye, I glanced up at the high clock which was ticking away the minutes and hours with sonorous voice. "It's getting on that way now. Now, Sergeant, if you can get one of your men to give me a hand with the body—"

Are you cheating yourself with an imitation of health?

INSUFFICIENT fresh air—lack of I proper exercise—constant nervous wear and tear—the human body today has to meet a series of unnatural strains. Every year we pay millions of dollars for drugs which whip the exhausted system into a temporary semblance of health. And every year thousands of men and women still young die from "old-age" diseases—brought on chiefly by ignorance of the true laws of health.

The only real remedy lies in gently encouraging these muscles to act themselves—in exercising them as Nature intended. That is why physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast today—not as a medicine but as a fresh corrective food which gives the intestinal muscles regular, natural exercise. Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast consists of millions of tiny living plants, which mix with the waste products in the colon, softening them and increasing the bulk of the waste. This greater bulk gently encourages the muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

Only the proper food can keep your body free from poisons. Few people realize how directly our food is responsible for health or disease. We no longer eat the raw foods of the forest for which our bodies were built. Instead, modern civilization demands a more delicate, concentrated diet which leaves the muscles of our intestines with no real work to do.

What this does to the muscles of your arm, Fleischmann's Yeast does to the muscles of your intestines—gives them normal healthy exercise

The result is inevitable: the muscles of the intestinal walls become as soft and flabby as the muscles of the arms without exercise. There is nothing to stimulate them to remove the waste which drains into the intestines every day. They fail to act. And we become literally clogged with poisons from these waste products which stagnate in the system.

Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle of regularly exercising the intestinal muscles as the only way to relieve constipation and all its evils.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Fleischmann's Yeast is in no sense a purgative and does not produce immediate violent action. It is a nourishing food—not an indigestible medicine—and like any other food, it must be eaten regularly to secure results.

Day by day Fleischmann's Yeast builds up the flabby muscles of the intestines—exactly as regular exercise builds up the muscles of your arm

Trying to cure the trouble by drugs which increase it. Habitual use of drugs and cathartics is worse than useless. Their artificial irritation weakens our intestinal muscles still more—and we have to take larger and larger doses in order to blast a way through.

Barrel Organ Once Had Social Standing

Ancestor of Modern Street Pianos Graced Churches and Castles in Olden Days.

(New York Sun)
There's a barrel organ carolling across a golden street.
In the city as the sun sinks low,
And its music's not immortal,
But the world has made it sweet...
ALFRED NOYES

It is only a matter of weeks, if you are properly optimistic about spring, before the street pianos which have been hibernating will join the more hardy variety which blooms all winter and their augmented forces will attack the city to the stirring notes of "Over There."
When Noyes said that music was not immortal he made one of those loose generalizations. Probably he has never heard the New York street pianos.
And every so often somebody will turn to somebody else and say:
"There's one of those hurdy-gurdies." And he will be wrong, because there hasn't been a hurdy-gurdy outside of a collection of musical antiquities for at least a hundred years. What he hears, nine times out of ten is a street piano. The tenth time may be a barrel organ.
The real hurdy-gurdy was an instrument of rural life, seldom played in cities and only vaguely related to the modern mechanical street instruments.

It was shaped rather like a viol and had four strings, which were bowed with a wooden wheel. The wheel was revolved by means of a crank, as in the barrel organ, but there the similarity ceases. The hurdy-gurdy had to be played and there was a keyboard through which the pitch of the strings was controlled.
Hurdy Gurdy from Scotland.
The instrument began in the ninth century as the "organistrum." Later it became a "symphonia" and a "chifonie" without changing its form. And then it grew up to be a hurdy-gurdy—from the Scotch hur, to snarl, and gurr, to growl, which apparently was the way it sounded—and later died out. But its latest name went on, to be attached to instruments it didn't fit.
This error, says Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians," is a common example of erroneous nomenclature which exists among non-musical persons regarding the lesser known instruments.
The barrel organ—which derives its name from the barrel like cylinder upon which metal pins are fixed in such a manner as to open the valves of the pipes in the desired sequence—started out rather pretentiously. In its early days of its history it was sometimes to be found in churches and frequently in the homes of noblemen.
Street Pianos Rather Modern.
These were large instruments, occupying the place the pipe organ now fills and usually were operated either by hydraulic power or by weights. The hand organ was a later development, growing in popularity as the larger mechanical instruments were replaced by pianos and pipe organs.
The street pianos which play in front of New York restaurants and apartment houses are of comparatively recent origin, having started on their career in 1850, when M. Deban, a Frenchman, invented a piano to be played automatically on the principal

RESIGNATION OF HERBERT PHILLIPS IS ACCEPTED

Mayor Will Recommend Successor—Action Regarding Building Matter Confirmed—Purchase of Jarvis Building.

At yesterday's meeting of the Common Council the resignation of Herbert Phillips, M. E. I. C., as member of the Civic Hydro Commission was received and accepted. No explanation of his action accompanied the letter of resignation. The Mayor intimated that he would have a recommendation as to a successor ready soon.
The question of the authority of a city commissioner to engage the services of a lawyer when the city auditor is out of town without first securing the approval of the Council came up when Commissioner Thornton reported that he had secured the services of W. H. Harrison to obtain an injunction restraining Mayor Fisher from proceeding further with repairs to his building. Mr. Thornton moved for confirmation of his action and the motion was passed. The Mayor refused to deliver to Mr. Thornton the application to the building inspector which the Mayor had filled out. His Worship claimed that he had made the application as a private citizen.
The Mayor made a recommendation that an offer be made to purchase the Jarvis building to provide better accommodation at City Hall, and that the sum be $16,000. It was finally decided to have the Mayor confer with the owners regarding a price.
When the committee recommendation regarding increases in rentals of city tenants of buildings under Commissioner Bullock's department came before the council for adoption, Commissioner Wigmore protested against these wholesale increases. He thought it was a bad example for the city to set.
Commissioner Bullock replied that the increases were not general. He was satisfied that the rentals were too low. All the tenants had been notified that an increase would be made, he said.
Commissioner Thornton said that H. S. Gregory had protested to him yesterday morning regarding his increase to $10 per month from $67.50 per month.
Commissioner Bullock expressed surprise that Mr. Gregory had not voiced any protest whatever to him but appeared satisfied. He thought that Mr. Gregory was well treated. Commissioner Bullock's explanation satisfied the council and the committee recommendations were adopted.

SOLICITOR TREATS INJUNCTION WRIT SERVICE LIGHTLY
The Common Council yesterday listened calmly to the reading of a notice from the New Brunswick Power Company that injunctions would be sought to prevent the city from going into competition with it, and referred the matter to the city solicitor, with instructions to file an appearance. There was no debate. It is expected that Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., M. P., will return to the city immediately to prepare the city's case. The Mayor remarked yesterday that the city solicitor made light of the entire matter.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair by Washing It
When you wash your child's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces.
Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, the moisture the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.
You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure you get Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Expect Belyea To Challenge Hoover

St. John Oarsman, With Rink Closed, is Training For the Rowing Season—Will Defend Canadian Title.

Duluth, Minn., March 14 — Hilton Belyea, of St. John, N. B., will probably challenge Walter Hoover, world's sculling champion, and participate in the titular race here early next summer, according to E. J. Moore, chairman of the Rowing Committee of the Duluth Boat Club. The champion has already accepted the challenge from Paul Y. Costello and Mr. Moore anticipates that the St. John sculler will be another participant in the proposed race for championship honors.

Hilton Belyea's large open air skating rink in West St. John was closed on last Saturday after a most successful season. This rink was one of the most popular in these parts and afforded enjoyment for thousands of people, young and old. Although the winter was very severe and the ice was of an exceptionally difficult opening to the record snowfall, Mr. Belyea had it operating on all occasions when weather permitted, and the ice surface was second to none.

In addition to operating the rink Mr. Belyea runs a series of races for boys of West St. John and the interest manifested by the participants augurs well for the future of the game. The winners of the various events will be awarded silver cups or medals. Two of the cups were donated by Michael Mooney, two by Louis Ready, one by Clifford Price and four silver medals by Hilton Belyea himself. They will be on exhibition in a window in West St. John in the near future, and in the meantime arrangements are being made for their presentation.

Now that the rink is closed Hilton has ample opportunity for training. Daily he works out with his new rowing machine and he says he is feeling great and rapidly rounding into shape. As soon as the weather conditions will permit he will get out his shell and start training hard for the coming season's activities.

Asked about his intentions Mr. Belyea said he hopes to be able to go to England to compete in the Henley. He will train with this in view and if the dates do not conflict with the Canadian Henley, and arrangements can be satisfactorily made by those interested in sending him to the Old Country to seek new laurels, he will make the trip. One thing he is determined on and that is to defend his title of Canadian champion. He said that this will be his first consideration and he will not allow anything to interfere with it. He is keen on annexing the championship crown again this year and is looking forward to the day when the gun will send him down the course in defence of his title.

HYDRO RATES AND POWER CO.

What the People Will Save in Monthly Bills When They Get Musquash Current.

The following portion of the quarterly report of the Civic Power Commission, submitted last week by the accountant and secretary, Roy Willet, relates to charges for domestic and commercial service:

Domestic—A fixed charge of 8 cents per 100 sq. feet, plus 4 cents per K. W. H. until a quantity equal to 3 K. W. H. per 100 sq. feet have been used, and 2 cents per K. W. H. for all additional current. The minimum fixed charge being 30 cents, and maximum 90 cents. In order that the above rates may be clearly understood, the following explanation is given:

The floor area of a house is obtained by taking its outside dimensions, omitting bay windows and similar projections. The area derived from these dimensions, multiplied by the number of floors, and reduced by 10 p. c. and taken to the nearest 100 sq. feet, gives the area on which charges are based.

Verandahs, basements, unfinished attics and out-buildings, excepting when used for living or sleeping purposes, are excluded.

Example:—A flat 30 x 38 has a floor area of 1,140 sq. feet. Reduce this by 10 per cent, making a total of 1,026 sq. feet, and the nearest 100 sq. feet is 1,000, which thus becomes the floor area on which charges are made. The fixed charge on this area would be 1,000 feet at three cents per 100 feet, total thirty cents. Using this illustration as a base, the monthly bill to consumers would be:

Fixed charges.	Consumption.	Rate.	Monthly bill.	Discount.	Total.
30	12 k. w. h.	4c.	1.10	10%	.99
30	20 k. w. h.	4c.	1.10	10%	.99
30	25 k. w. h.	4c.	1.30	10%	1.17
30	30 k. w. h.	4c.	1.50	10%	1.35

After using 30 k. w. h., two cents per k. w. h. becomes the rate for all additional current. For instance, 50 k. w. h. with Hydro rates would cost $1.90 against $4.25 Power Co. rates. It is also to be noted that in case no electricity is used, the charge to the consumer under Hydro rates would be thirty cents against $1 Power Co. charges.

For the first thirty hours, eight cents per k. w. h. Additional, 1.5 cents per hour. First fifty hours, 2.4. All additional 1.5. All rates less 10 per cent within ten days.

The examples given show that the Power Company rates are from 60 per cent to 90 per cent, higher than the hydro rates, and in the case of large consumers, 100 per cent.

MAKING PROGRESS. The Civic Power Commission has been advised by The New Brunswick Electric Power Commission that the title for land for sub-station has been secured.

The excavation work on the sub-station has proceeded rapidly, and it is expected that the building will be completed by May 1.

The site for transformers is being prepared at the same time as excavation work is being carried out, and the same should be delivered very shortly.

An order has been placed for switching equipment, and contractors have been requested to rush the same.

Plans are being completed for a general distribution system, and when complete in all the details, will be presented to the Common Council, which is necessary before a start can be made.

Since January 1 copper has advanced 25 per cent, meters over 20 per cent, and poles about 10 per cent. It is also believed that line transformers will advance. Copper being a base metal, a general advancement in all electrical equipment may be expected. It would seem wise, if possible, to protect the commission in the orders for the necessary equipment be placed immediately.

RADIO CONCERT FROM CALGARY STATION TONIGHT. According to a telegram received by The Times this morning from William W. Grant, a maritime concert will be broadcast from the Calgary station, CFCN, tonight between 9:15 and 10:45 p. m., St. John time. The wave length will be 410 metres.

Mr. Grant has offered a peanut receiving tube free to the persons sending the first five telegrams from the St. John district reporting the reception of the broadcast.

MOTHER WAS ST. JOHN GIRL. A recent number of the "American Field" contains an interesting account of what are known as the "field trials" held at Yakima, Washington, together with a photograph of the visiting dogs and handlers with the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Stanley Hilyard on horseback in the centre of the group. The writer pays graceful comment to Miss Hilyard and "her breezy roan horse," and her mother "on a stylish bay." "In these days," the writer continues, "it is a treat to see ladies mounted on well bred horses well trained and out a lot of beauty and sentiment left the world with the practical extinction of the use of the horse for pleasure."

Mrs. Hilyard referred to in this paragraph is a native of St. John and a sister of Mrs. A. H. McCready of Sackville. In a letter she says the winter has been so mild they have been able to go riding nearly every day.

CITY AND POWER CO. There were no further developments reported at City Hall today in connection with the injunction of the New Brunswick Power Company against the City in connection with hydro distribution. Mayor Fisher said this morning that he had writ the city solicitor, Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., asking for more definite instructions than those contained in his wire of yesterday. Mayor said he expected a letter today or tomorrow from Dr. Baxter with a detailed report. The solicitor is expected to arrive home in a few days.

She carried the child to the Hammond house and later it was removed to the hospital, where it is now the worse of its experience. ANOTHER HALF FOOT OR MORE OF SNOW COMES

Train Service is Affected as Wind Piles Up Drifts—Schools Have One Session

Another severe snow storm passed over this section of the country last night and this morning and caused a partial disruption of the passenger train service to and from this city. The storm, which broke last night about ten o'clock, continued until about 9:30 o'clock this morning when it began to abate. A total of seven inches of snow fell, which accompanied by a high wind, formed large drifts along the highways and some sections of the railways right in the city. The total snow fall for the season has measured 124 inches, which is the heaviest ever known in these parts. The lowest temperature recorded at the Meteorological Observatory today was six degrees above zero and the highest up to noon was twelve degrees above.

All of the highways are being hard hit as a result of the repeated heavy storms. The Halifax train, which was due in the city at 7:40 this morning did not arrive until 10:45 and the Sussex train due at 8:55 did not arrive until 10:45. The train leaving here for Halifax at 7:05 this morning did not get away until 8:15 and only succeeded in getting a short distance past Coldbrook where it remained for over two hours. The trouble on the C. N. R. line has been blocked and last night's snow piled up on the tracks and tied up traffic. Snow plows and crews of men were rushed to the scene, but it was only after three hours' labor that they succeeded in breaking through the drifts.

The chief source of trouble for the C. P. R. is their branch line from West St. John to St. Stephen. Since the last heavy storm this day week the Shore Line has been blocked and last night's snow piled up on the tracks and tied up traffic. Snow plows and crews of men were rushed to the scene, but it was only after three hours' labor that they succeeded in breaking through the drifts. The terminals in both the C. N. R. and C. P. R. are badly blocked by snow and crews of men are engaged endeavoring to clear it away so that freight operations may be carried on. Only one session was held in the schools today on account of weather conditions.

Warns Citizens Regarding Fires

Commissioner Thornton this morning issued a warning to citizens to use the utmost care in preventing fires during the time the present snow conditions exist. Although every effort has been put forth to keep the fire hydrants clear of snow, there are some, particularly in the side streets, which are badly banked with snow. The movement of motor apparatus is difficult under the present circumstances and while sleds and spare horses have been provided in every station, the full strength of the fire fighting equipment is not available in case of fire.

EASTERN STEAMSHIP CO. Calcutta, the president of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., is now in Baltimore to visit the Bethlehem Shipbuilding plant at Sparrows Point, where work has begun on the two passenger and freight steamers intended for the company's Boston-New York route. Although the keels were laid but a few weeks ago, rapid progress has been made in the construction of the ships. The cost of the pair will exceed $3,500,000.

C. N. R. APPOINTMENT. Toronto, March 14—H. H. Melanson, C. N. R. general traffic manager, has approved the appointment of E. S. Davies as general agent, passenger department, headquarters in Montreal.

Washington, March 14.—The Washington Post printed an affidavit today by James M. Connor "denying" that he is a list of names seized by prohibition enforcement agents in the recent raid in his home here, which included army and marine corps officers and several officials of the state department, were those of "persons to whom I had sold liquor as alleged."

Connor was said to have asserted in connection with the affidavit that the names, which numbered more than 400 were listed as automobile sales prospects.

AN OLD INDUSTRY IN A NEW SETTING

Maple syrup and maple sugar, now delicacies, were originally used by settlers as a substitute for cane sugar, which was, of course, almost impossible to obtain. In some parts of Quebec and Eastern Ontario, the old methods of collecting sap and converting it into syrup are still used. The picture shows a farmer collecting syrup in wooden pails and boiling it at an outdoor fire. The upper central picture shows the modern method of tapping and collecting sap in sanitary receptacles, and the upper left-hand picture shows the scientific methods of handling the syrup.

PREMIER SPEAKS AT THE LABOR CONVENTION

Fredericton, N. B., March 14.—Premier Veniot, during an address before the N. B. Federation of Labor this morning, said that he had received complaints from both employers and employees regarding the operation of the Workmen's Compensation Act, and requested the appointment of a committee by the federation to confer with the committee of the Provincial Government and the employers, as the best means of reaching a solution of the matters complained of.

Premier Veniot also said that a commission would be appointed during the present session of the Legislature to investigate the requests for Mothers' Allowances and Minimum Wage Acts. He said this commission had not been previously appointed owing to a misunderstanding. The Premier did not promise that labor would receive all its demands, but said careful consideration of their requests would be given.

J. S. Martin, labor member of the Legislature for Northumberland, also addressed the convention, chiefly on the former legislative programmes of the Premier. He also said that Hon. C. W. Robinson, Minister of Lands and Mines, had arranged to accompany him as soon as the weather permitted on an inspection trip of the various mining areas of the province to investigate actual mining conditions.

INTERESTING LAID JUDGMENT GIVEN HERE

Mr. Justice Grimmer Orders Purchase Voided and the Money Paid Returned.

Two very interesting judgments were delivered by Mr. Justice Grimmer in Chancery chambers this morning both cases arising from the sale and conveyance of lands in Albert County. The plaintiffs in the first case were Robert Thomson, Elizabeth Thomson and Robert Thomson, Jr., and in the other Agnes Branton and John Branton, while the defendants in both cases were James K. Paisley and his wife.

It was set out that Paisley had sold to the defendants land in the Parish of Harvey, Albert county, warranting it free from encumbrance and asserting that the land was of a certain quality and that the buildings were in good condition and generally painting an attractive picture to the prospective purchasers. The Thompson plaintiffs bought without seeing the place, coming from Quebec to settle here. They did not have the title to the property described in the Registry office and said the defendants be ordered to pay $2,600 until it was about to be foreclosed. The defendants denied the plaintiffs' contentions.

The actions were brought to have the deeds set aside, and for a declaration that the defendants pay back the amount of the purchase price and that the defendants be ordered to pay certain costs to the plaintiffs but this claim had been abandoned.

The court decided in favor of the plaintiffs in both cases. It was found that there was deliberate, fraudulent, willful and deceitful misrepresentation. It ordered the conveyance set aside, the payment by the defendants of the money paid by the plaintiffs back to them and gave the plaintiffs a lien upon the lands for the moneys involved.

Building Matter Injunction Writ Served on Mayor

Mayor Fisher this morning was served with a writ on behalf of the City of St. John by the City Solicitor, J. J. McDevitt, proposed applying for an injunction to restrain him from proceeding with repairs to a building in Charlotte street recently damaged by fire. The writ was issued at the instance of the building inspector and the Commissioner of Public Safety and the action is based on the grounds that the building in No. 1 fire district, that the building by-laws prohibit repairs to wooden buildings in that district, and that the Mayor was carrying out the work without obtaining a permit required by the by-laws.

Beyond the fact that he had received the writ, Mayor Fisher made no comment except to say that he was putting the matter in the hands of his solicitor, Messrs. Leclaire & Tice. He presumed that work would have to be stopped awaiting the result of the injunction proceedings before the courts.

TODAY IN THE LEGISLATURE

He is understood to be in charge of the carrying on at Neely Institute at Portland under Doctor Tozer's management was, to say the least, nauseating. Dr. Tozer practiced here for years and made many friends and there is no gainsaying the fact that his departure was a distinct loss to the community. He was a clever physician. A rare diagnostician and possessed many amiable qualities along with a dare-devil spirit. His stunts with the first auto ever seen in these parts will be recalled by many who knew the man intimately. On one occasion he tried to buck a locomotive, on another he tried to climb a tree; and still again he went over the wharf to the bottom of the river with his car. He always had a good horse and drove like the devil. Nevertheless he was courteous, generous to a fault and attentive to his many patients. Taking him all around he was a clever, likeable cuss, and we all regret his sad plight and sincerely hope he turns up in pleasant places than the Portland prison.

IMMIGRATION MATTERS BEFORE THE COMMONS

Attacking Minister Outlines Policy, But Estimates are Not Passed—Dr. Baxter Asks for Encouragement of Maritime Province Settlers.

(By Canadian Press) Ottawa, March 14.—In the House of Commons the Prime Minister said that he had no information to give as to the filling of vacancies in the Department of Railways and Canals.

Hon. W. S. Fielding indicated that he could not announce the date of the budget for some time.

Immigration. Hon. Charles Stewart, Acting Minister of Immigration, gave a statement of policy on the estimates for that department. He announced plans to secure repatriation of Canadians who had gone to the U. S., and to encourage immigration from the United Kingdom and from Europe. Six hundred thousand dollars is set aside for assisted passages for children, domestic immigrants and the families of persons already settled in Canada. The Canadian Colonization Association is to receive a bonus of $10,000 a month for ten months on condition that at least 200 families are settled in the Dominion in the year.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, did not favor indiscriminate immigration but thought it would be well to secure laborers and artisans as well as farmers. Frank Cahill, Liberal member for Pontiac, attacked the proposals for assisted passages and the grant to the Canada Colonization Association.

The debate on the immigration estimates was adjourned without an item passing.

Maritime Position. That the Government should make an appropriation in order to prepare farms for settlers in the Maritime Provinces was advocated by Hon. J. B. Baxter, Conservative, St. John. These provinces had had to bear their share in building the railways of Canada, and it was not fair that all the immigrants should be diverted to the act. The Maritime Provinces needed their share of the revivifying stream of immigration. It was impossible, said Mr. Baxter, to prevent the ambitious youth of Canada from turning their eyes to the south with its great opportunities. Such a policy was unwise and ungracious, he said.

In the Senate the six months hoist was given to Senator Casgrain's bill to authorize provinces to prohibit the manufacture of liquor within their borders.

MR. COVEY'S REPLY
TO T. FITZGERALD

Head of M. P. B., A. A. U.,
Refers to Statements by
I. S. U. President

Suggests Investigation Into International Matters -
Question of Commercialism Touched Upon—Gorman's Offer.

A. W. Covey, president of the M. P. B., A. A. U. of C., has lost little time in replying to the letter sent him by Julian T. Fitzgerald, president of the I. S. U., on Monday, in which he dealt with skating matters in general and Mr. Covey's charges against him personally. The reply, which Mr. Covey is mailing today, is as follows: Julian T. Fitzgerald, President I. S. U., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir,—I was surprised on looking over a morning paper on Monday to find therein a letter availing me signed by you, although I had, up to that time, received no such communication. However, on going to the post office I found your letter awaiting me there. I have gone over it very carefully, and must say that I am delighted with the contents. I had no idea that I could secure over you such a full and frank statement of your views on many admissions of maladministration and incompetency, particularly from a man who has been long connected with sport and who wants his name, according to his own statement, free from blemish.

I note that you have carefully gone over the newspaper clippings sent to you from St. John and that you feel that some investigation might be held for the good of skating in Canada. What about the United States? Also, that you take exception to my statement that you were a professional and a promoter of professionalism, and you have highly commercialized skating sports. When I stated that you were a professional, I only stated an admission which you yourself made at the Y. M. C. I. banquet in 1922, when, in the progress of your speech, you said that, previous to getting into the skating game, you were a professional bicycle rider. The question was asked at the time, how it was that you could be president of an amateur association and be a professional, but no answer was forthcoming.

Regarding promoting professionalism, isn't it a fact that during the season of 1922 one Arthur Staffy, a professional skater, was on the payroll of your company advertising your skates, and for a portion of the same management was under your personal management?

Commercializing Skating. Now you ask where you have commercialized skating. This question is going to take some time to answer, but I think I can show you this also. I note that you claim that charges have been made before that you have commercialized skating. Because these charges have not been proven does not make them any the less true. Have they ever been investigated properly? I see that you claim petty jealousy on the part of competitors in the skating business for these charges. I might ask, was all the money and prizes given by your company purely for the advancement of skating as a sport, or was it for advertising for your skates?

I have carefully noted all you have to say regarding the various positions that you have filled or now hold, also all that you have done to make the Western Skating Association what it is and Chicago the greatest skating city in the country. This, you say, has only been accomplished by your untiring efforts. Let me ask you if this accomplishment has been secured at the expense of some other community, as you attempted to build it up at the expense of St. John when you wrote to Charlie Gorman, the Canadian ace, offering him a position with your company at his own price, provided he would skate for a club that you would name?

This letter, written by a man who is the head of an amateur skating organization, a man who claims, as you do in your letter to me, that all you have done was for the upbuilding and betterment of the skating game, speaks for itself. If this is your idea of amateurism and uplift, it is time you re-examine, in spite of your wonderful offer to Gorman, he is still in St. John, but I am sorry to state, without a job, interested officials.

You next admit that "there is no greater way in the world to commercialize the sport than by some of the things that happened during the big circuits this year," and go on to show that officials who were vitally interested in certain skating events, acted in official capacity in direct violation of the rules of the I. S. U., and that this has been going on for years. If, as you say, this is commercializing the sport, let me ask what have you as president of the I. S. U. done to stop this nefarious practice?

Apparently, there is a lot of truth in the assertion that Gorman never got a favorable decision in a driving finish. What about the 220 at the International meet at Lake Placid in 1921, when you were referee and your decision was against Gorman?

You next state that you have no connection whatever with any skater, and that you have never made any concession to any skater for using your skates. This may be so, but your letter to Gorman, previously mentioned, absolutely shows that you, at least, offered concessions, and the fact that you have given skates to different skating concessions and trying to get them to use your product. What for?—The uplift of the sport, or as an advertisement for you?

Circuit Too Long. You next admit that the circuit this year was too long. Hasn't it been too long? If you realized that it was too long, how was it that you, who had pledged your support to St. John for the International meet, came through, at the Montreal meeting, with a big offer from Chicago for this meet? Everybody knows that the circuit was too long. The question has been asked a thousand times, "How can these boys afford to leave home about January 1 and return at about the end of February and yet retain their amateur standing?" Personally, I cannot answer this question. I know that it costs me a lot more when I am away from home York.

doubt everybody else finds it the same. Then will you kindly answer how the boys get along when they are only supposed to get their traveling and hotel expenses. I do not blame the skaters for the conditions that exist, but I do blame you and your officials for allowing them to exist and in fact helping them to do so. You admit that the expense of putting on the National meet at Chicago, your home town, this year, was too great. Is not this true of practically every meet on the circuit? An official in Chicago, who paid the bills, passed and paid a bill of over $18 for one meal for five men. There must be something wrong. What have you done about it?

Professional Entertainers. You do not agree with me that professional entertainers should be barred. I understand that each city on the circuit was supposed to pay $1,500 for the expenses of the skaters on the circuit. I understand that about twenty-six skaters appeared at St. John, so that to St. John the average cost would be less than $80 each. When I notice an item in the financial statement of Moncton as follows: Small, $80; Backer, $104; it makes me feel that these entertainers are only, as you say, to fill in and give the skaters a rest, amateur fancy and figure skaters could be carried on the circuit for this purpose. This would serve to promote this side of the amateur skating game and cost a whole lot less to the promoters.

Wagering on Races. I next note the astounding statement that "As president of the I. S. U. I have never placed a wager on a skating race in my life, even when I knew how races were going to turn out and could have made a lot of money by taking advantage of my experience." On the face of it, this is the most barefaced admission ever made by an amateur official. Do you mean to say that wagers have been fixed, with your knowledge, and yet you have taken no action? In other words, you have allowed the public to be fooled and are satisfied because you, personally, did not make any money by wagering on the result. You mention the barnstorming trip through Nova Scotia by Bill Small and some of the circuit skaters. What would be the use of supplying evidence in this connection to you, when by your own admission, all these irregularities have been going on for years and you have made no effort to stop them.

Perhaps you have not seen a copy of the New York World of March 4, in which an article was printed and credited to one of the circuit skaters, in which he set forth how to learn to skate. Wouldn't it be worth while finding out if this was done gratis or if he was paid for it? If you found it to be the latter, what would you do? I note all you say with reference to your virtues and the positions you hold. I am not going to state here my virtues or positions. My friends know me, my enemies wouldn't believe me.

How about the position you hold at present. Were not Mr. J. A. Taylor and yourself nominated for this position, and did not Mr. Taylor withdraw only after you had made an impassioned plea for the office for one more year, so that you might finish your work? What this work was is hard to tell when, by your own admission, so much had been going on of which you were aware, yet you had done nothing. When are you going to begin?

As a beginning, I would suggest that you would immediately take steps to hold an investigation of the irregularities in your own organization which are prevalent, according to the admissions made in your letter to me. Have I proven to your satisfaction that you have commercialized the skating sport?

As you deemed it advisable to give a copy of your letter to the press, I am assuming the same privilege.

Yours truly,
(Signed) A. W. COVEY,
President, M. P. B., A. A. U. of Canada.

Fisherman.

GloUCESTER, Mass., March 14—The Columbia, latest addition to the Canadian fleet, which will be ready for launching within a few days, will join the minority group of the fleet sailing from this port and engage in the salt fishing industry. The new schooner hailed as a contender for honors in the annual international fishermen's race, has been built for fishing rather than for racing, and no fishing trip will be abandoned, in order that she may take part in the elimination races to choose the representative of the United States fishing fleet, so her owners, the Columbia Associates, announced tonight.

Hitherto, all the U. S. contenders for the speed championship of the North Atlantic fleet have been fresh fishing schooners, while the Canadian contestants have been salt fishers. The owners of the schooner have signed as skipper Captain Alden Geale, of Yarmouth, N. S., part owner of the schooner Elsie, when she last to the Canadian Bluenose two years ago. It is expected that most of the crew will be Nova Scotians, as few "dory handliners" are available here.

ARCHIE WALSH
SCATTERS DUCKS

Bowling Expert's Score in Lawrence—He and George
McGee Coming to St. John

Writing to a friend in this city, George V. McGee, who was formerly in charge of the Y. M. C. I. bowling alleys, tells of some great bowling by Archie Walsh. He enclosed a clipping giving details of a sweepstakes held recently in Lawrence, Mass., in which Walsh won premier honors and a cash prize of $120. He was rolling duck pins and made a record for Lawrence, having 1,155 for ten strings.

Notes of the game, which also appeared in The Evening Tribune, as follows: "Archie Walsh is a 'sweet' bowler. When right none of them can take a fall out of him. He picked up some spares that were half-raised."

"Walsh works fast, but accurately and his slow ball is a dandy for sliding over and knocking pins down. Walsh's score is a new record here. The total of 1,155 has never been equaled in this vicinity."

"Walsh is a sick man. He is far up bowling, but he likes it too well to retire. He does not look as rugged as he did a few years back. But he has lost none of his vim and vigor. He is one of the nerviest and griftest men in sport. Walsh did not roll, however, like a man that is sick. If he rolls any better when he is well then he must be a marvel."

Archie Walsh is a native of St. John and is well known to local bowling enthusiasts. He has a summer home up the St. John River at the Cedars and every summer comes east with his family. According to the letter Walsh expects to appear in exhibition games here sometime this spring. Mr. McGee also expects to come to St. John during the summer. He has many friends in St. John and may be assured of a warm welcome.

Yankee's New Park
Almost Completed

Club's Engineer Declares 95
Per Cent. of Construction Finished.

New York, March 14—The Yankee's new stadium, the largest baseball park in the country, is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready in time for the opening game of the season between the American League champions and the Boston Red Sox on Wednesday, April 18. This was announced yesterday by Major Thomas H. Birmingham, the club's engineer, who declared that 95 per cent. of the construction work has been finished. The work on the stadium, but the final cost, including the purchase price of the property on which the field is located, will be approximately $2,000,000. The seating capacity during the coming season will be about 75,000, but this will be enlarged in future years.

The new park comprises a set of wooden bleachers surrounding most of the outfield and a steel and concrete stand which consists of two decks and a mezzanine floor. The work of constructing the bleachers has been practically completed, while more than 90 per cent. of the seats have already been installed in the grand stand. A portion of the concrete stand in the left field section of the park now has only the lower deck but the mezzanine and upper deck will be added to it in the close of next season. There are rows of box seats in front of the two decks of the grand stand as well as the mezzanine.

Unlike the Polo Grounds, where the press stand is located in front of the lower deck of the grand stand, the enclosure for the newspaper men at the Yankee's park has been built in front of the mezzanine directly in back of the home plate. An immense scoreboard is being constructed on top of the rear fence of the bleacher in centre field where the scores of all games in both major leagues will be posted throughout the season.

Field Has Been Sodded. The field itself has been completely sodded under the direction of Phil Schenck, the veteran ground keeper, who was in charge of the Yankee's old field at 106th street and soon as the more than a decade old field is sodded weather conditions permit Schenck to begin the task of putting the playing field into condition for the opening game. The field is completely surrounded by a running track and this also has been completed. The track is 440 yards in circumference and will have a straightaway of 120 yards. The wooden rim encircling the inside of the track has been constructed in such a way that it will not be exposed during the baseball games and thus will not interfere with the players when they are going after foul balls. This rim can be raised above the level of the playing surface, however, when an athletic meet is being conducted.

Contrary to the custom that has always been in vogue at the Polo Grounds, the home players' dugout at the new park will be located on the third base side of the infield with the visiting team's bench on the first base side. This system prevails at a number of other major league parks including those in Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago. The club house has been built in back of the home team's dugout, under the main deck of the grandstand and on the level with the street. A passageway runs from the clubhouse to the home team's dugout. Thus the Yankees will not have to cross the field in going from their dugout to the dressing quarters. The visiting players, however, will have to walk across from their dugout and enter the clubhouse through the Yankees' bench.

Both first base and third base will be thirty-six feet from the row of box seats in front of the lower deck of the stands. These will be ten feet nearer the stands than at the Polo Grounds where the distance is just forty-six feet.

"The Torch of Verified Circulation"

Lights up the way for the Advertiser

The Telegraph and The Evening Times, with a combined daily net paid circulation exceeding 30,000 copies, are the only A. B. C. (Audit Bureau of Circulation) papers in the province of New Brunswick. These newspapers alone give the advertiser a verified circulation whose extent is absolutely known and established beyond question.

Mr. Advertiser, do you realize what this means?

All of the principal Canadian dailies are members of the A. B. C. That is, they give their advertisers, present and prospective, circulation figures which are audited, certified and approved by an independent court whose standing is recognized in business circles throughout Canada and the United States.

Mr. Advertiser, Look at this!

The Following Canadian Newspapers are members of the A. B. C.:

- St. John—The Telegraph and The Evening Times (the only A. B. C. papers in New Brunswick).
- Halifax—The Chronicle and Echo, The Herald and Mail.
- Charlottetown—The Guardian.
- Quebec City—Le Soleil, L'Evenement.
- Montreal—The Gazette, The Star, The Herald, La Presse, La Patrie, Le Canada, Le Devoir, The Standard.
- Ottawa—The Citizen, The Journal, Le Droit.
- Toronto—The Globe, The Star, The Mail and Empire and Sunday World, The Telegram.
- London—The Advertiser, The Free Press.
- Brantford—The Expositor.

- Brockville—The Recorder and Times.
- Fort William—The Times-Journal.
- Hamilton—The Spectator.
- Kingston—The British Whig, The Standard.
- Windsor—The Border Cities' Star.
- Winnipeg—The Manitoba Free Press, The Tribune.
- Saskatoon—The Star, The Phoenix.
- Regina—The Leader, The Post.
- Calgary—The Morning Albertan, The Herald.
- Edmonton—The Bulletin, The Journal.
- Vancouver—The Province, The Sun, The World.
- Victoria—The Colonist, The Times.

Mr. Advertiser, in that list you have the chief newspapers of Canada. They give you an independent audit of their circulation by a universally recognized authority.

"Net Paid" circulation does not mean old lists of doubtful value. "Net Paid" means that every subscriber included in the figures is either paid in advance or does not owe for more than six months. The Telegraph and Times, remember, have a combined "net paid" daily circulation of more than 30,000 copies.

Figuring by circulation The Telegraph and Times rates are the lowest in the Maritime Provinces.

By putting the same ad in both papers you cover the city of St. John and the province of New Brunswick as with a blanket, so far as prospective buyers of your goods are concerned, for these two papers reach to a really wonderful extent the people in this city and this province who are in a position to purchase the goods that local or national advertisers offer for sale, be these goods bonds or toothpicks, razors or mowing machines, diamonds or medicines, shoes or silks.

Think over the facts, Mr. Advertiser. Just ask yourself quietly and thoughtfully what that chain of leading Canadian newspapers means. Their verified circulation is their greatest advertising solicitor. Think about "the torch of verified circulation."

COMPARED DRURY WITH TASCHEREAU

Rev. Dr. Hart Made Caustic References at Dominion Alliance Meeting

Speaker Recalled an Attack Made by Dr. Sealeby at Prohibition Convention in Toronto.

(Montreal Gazette) Premier Taschereau came in for some hard knocks on the occasion of a public meeting held in the hall of the Central Young Men's Christian Association, Drummond street, to inaugurate the observance of the forty-fourth anniversary of the Provincial Branch of the Dominion Alliance. The speaker of the occasion was the Rev. Dr. E. I. Hart, pastor of Sherbrooke street Methodist Church, who addressed the gathering upon the features of the World's Convention on the World Wide Prohibition held at Toronto.

References to the Prime Minister of Quebec were introduced by Dr. Hart, first, by calling the passage at arms between Hon. Mr. Taschereau and Dr. C. W. Sealeby, the English authority on eugenics; and, later, by comparing him with Hon. E. C. Drury, Premier of Ontario.

In recounting some of the features of the Toronto Convention, Dr. Hart said that Hon. Mr. Drury had addressed the gathering and told the story of the success of the prohibition movement in Ontario.

"As he spoke," said Dr. Hart, "I could not help comparing this clean cut, wholesome leader of reform with the man we have at Quebec. . . . and the next words heard were: . . . he is probably boasting of revenues gained from the debauchery of the people of Quebec."

When Dr. Hart spoke of Dr. Sealeby's appearance at Toronto, he referred to the latter's address on Prohibition and Eugenics, in the course of which Dr. Sealeby said that prohibition was the greatest health movement in history. "You should have heard how he pounded our Premier Taschereau," said Dr. Hart. According to the latter,

Dr. Sealeby drew comparisons between the infantile mortality rates of prohibition New York city and Montreal, finding the former to be 71 per thousand per year, while that of Montreal he put at 165 per thousand per year. "But babies don't interest politicians like Taschereau; they have no votes," commented Dr. Hart.

Dr. Hart, in beginning his summary of the proceedings at Toronto, said that we were living in an age of world movements, an age of co-operation. He recounted the beginnings of the world league against alcohol and its growth from the initial meeting at Washington with twenty nations units to its present representation with fifty national units. He said that at Toronto there were represented by 1400 delegates of 65 different nationalities, and declared that the gathering was characterized by good feeling, perfect agreement and harmony.

The speaker said that they had been made welcome by Controller Hills, who declared that previous to the convention there had been a great exhibition in Toronto, at which a million and a quarter of people had attended, and during which time only one man had been arrested for drunkenness. "I asked myself," said Dr. Hart, "if such an exhibition were to be held in Montreal how many would be arrested." (Laughter.)

Bone Dry Scotland.

In describing various delegates, Dr. Hart mentioned one from France, who had told the convention that Premier Clemenceau had refused to grant prohibition as a war measure, and drew a picture of the falling birth rate as being due to the liquor traffic. Dr. Hart told of a Scottish delegate, who asserted that only twelve per cent of the vote stood behind the prohibitionists and a bone dry Scotland. The speaker quoted Dr. Ernest H. Sherrington, recently in Montreal, as saying that alcoholism is an impossibility in an age of motors and fine mechanisms, and who had also declared that it was an economic impossibility for the United States ever to abandon prohibition. Dr. Sherrington had said that if the European nations would give up their annual drinking bill of $200,000,000 and place it in a sinking fund, the national debts would be paid off in eighteen years.

Hon. J. G. Cooper, Congressman from Ohio, was reported to have taken issue with Samuel Gompers, who is for modification, saying that two-thirds of labor opposed liquor. Mr. Cooper also said "Organized labor will never adopt the beer keg as its emblem."

The meeting was presided over by S. J. Carter, who, in opening, said that he would not make a chairman's speech, but would take advantage of the unexpected presence of Rev. Dr. Albert Moore, of Toronto, Superintendent of the Evangelism and Social Service in the Methodist church, to speak. Dr. Moore said that he had just returned from a gathering in the Maritime Provinces and gave encouraging reports. He was also optimistic of the results of the recent gathering in Ottawa. Dr. Moore expressed the hope that during the present session of Parliament there would be an advance in prohibition legislation.

TALENTED PRIEST CALLED BY DEATH

Rev. Dean Harris was Noted Preacher and Author—Had Traveled Widely.

(Toronto Globe) Very Rev. Dean Harris, an outstanding personality in the Catholic Church, scholar, writer and traveler, died at St. Michael's Hospital last night, following a short illness from influenza. The funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in St. Michael's Cathedral, of which Dean Harris was at one time rector and where the body will lie in state on Wednesday evening.

At St. Michael's Cathedral on June 10, 1920, the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood was celebrated.

A Distinguished Character. During the long life of Dean Harris his wide learning, natural brilliance and strength found expression in a kindly, urbane personality which won the lasting respect and affection of all with whom he came in contact. His commanding stature, developed by athletics, in which he excelled in his younger days, had its counterpart in his broad outlook, alertness and strength of mind.

His death occurred only a few days after his 76th birthday. He was born in Cork, Ireland, on March 3, 1847, and came to Canada at an early age. He received his earlier education at St. Michael's College, later attending the College of the Propaganda, Rome, and the University of Ottawa. He was also a Litt. D. of the Universities of Toronto and Laval.

Had Traveled Extensively. After being rector at several parishes, including St. Michael's Cathedral, he became Dean of St. Catharines, resigning in 1904, and thereafter for many years devoted his time to travel and writing. He visited the Azores Islands, Spain, Portugal, the West Indies, Mexico, and Central and South America where he explored the ruins of pre-Spanish civilization. He was also a resident for some time in Salt Lake City, where he edited the Intermountain Monthly, and wrote a history of the Catholic Church in Utah.

Dean Harris' scholarly attainments and magnetic personality contributed to his renown as an orator, and a graceful and animated literary style characterized his writings. He was the author of several historical essays, and also published the following books: "The Catholic Church in the Niagara Peninsula," "Days and Nights in the Tropics," "By Path and Trail; a Book of Southern Travels."

Returning to Toronto in 1912, Dean Harris accepted the Chaplaincy of St. John's Industrial School, a position which allowed him leisure to pursue his literary work and studies in ethnology and archaeology. One of his recent books, produced since his return, was "The Crossbearers of the Saguenay."

Tribute was paid to Dean Harris' archaeological researches in 1910, when he was elected President of Ontario Archaeological Society. In 1908 he was President of the Ontario Mechanics' Institute.

What Tourists Have Brought to Maine

(F. W. Bowes in Halifax Chronicle.) In one of his recent admirable articles on tourist trade, Mr. George E. Graham, general manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, said that Maine derives an annual income of $200,000,000 from tourists. A few days ago Lieutenant-Colonel E. C. Phinney, in an address before the Progressive Club, made the same statement. My, my, my! Where do such well-informed gentlemen get this $200,000,000 stuff? A decade ago the entire revenue of the Province of Nova Scotia was $1,870,055.63. Five years ago the whole receipts were $2,118,018.46. For 1921 (the last year for which figures are available) the total revenue was $4,886,889.91. How in the world, then, could a little State like Maine get $200,000,000 from tourists in about ten weeks of the fifty-two? Statistics from such a prominent citizen as Mr. Graham are apt to be regarded as official, and your correspondent apprehends that the gentleman named would not want any misunderstanding to prevail.

About thirty-five years ago Maine was practically down and out—her population being almost stationary, her industries languishing and her real estate depreciating. It was decided at a public meeting to endeavor to make the State a great tourist centre and a publicity and tourist bureau was established at Portland. It proved a tremendous success and the tourist trade rapidly developed into immense proportions. It is now the Pine Tree State's greatest industry. Real estate that was almost valueless enhanced, giving large assessable property where none before existed, made transportation companies that were almost bankrupt, remunerative, and gave employment of thousands of people by bringing to their doors markets for their products and farming produce.

A Visit to Maine Resorts. About twelve years ago the writer visited nearly all the seaside, beach and inland tourist centres of Maine. There are three distinct classes of tourist resorts, which are all worth studying, but which need not be particularized here. At that time re-able statistics showed that Portland reaped a harvest of about $4,000,000 annually from seaside tourists and probably $600,000 more indirectly from beach hotel tourists and other visitors, while Maine as a whole had a revenue of about $200,000,000 yearly from the same source. Five years ago Hiram W. Rickers, a leading citizen of Maine, made the statement that the tourist business was worth $48,000,000 a year to the State and that in ten years' time this trade could be increased to $65,000,000 a year. He further said that Maine was capable through its vast tourist territory of taking care of a tourist business of $200,000,000 yearly. Automobiles have revolutionized tourist travel and probably Maine is now getting $50,000,000 annually from tourists. Mr. Rickers, by the way, is one of the pioneers in the tourist business and the chief proprietor of the Poland Spring hotels and a director of the Maine Central Railway. The Rickers have two hotels at Poland Spring, the largest of which is open in summer only, while the other is open all the year round and does a big winter tourist trade. They started in a small way—their hostilities are inland resorts—but their business has grown to such dimensions that they now want some $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to sell. Of course they have the Poland water springs that their patrons may use, and Poland water, still and carbonated, mostly the former, is bottled and shipped as far as the middle west and to Canada. The Rickers purchased the Maine State building at the Chicago World's Fair, took it down in sections and had it brought to Poland Spring and rebuilt it for an art gallery in connection with their hotels, and it now contains numerous masterpieces as well as many real works of art. Reliable figures show that about 600,000 visitors go to Maine annually. Their stay averages about two weeks each, and each visitor is believed to spend $75. Most experts claim that $100 is nearer the mark.

CHILD RECONCILES PARENTS.

Nellie Toland's Letters to Father Start Courtship All Over Again.

New York, March 14.—Correspondence between a nine-year-old girl and her father, who was divorced by his wife shortly after the birth of the child, has resulted in a reconciliation between the parents and has caused Mrs. Matilda Toland of 1618 East Fifty-fourth street, Brooklyn, to announce her intended marriage to Ward J. Toland of 1725 East Forty-eighth street, her former husband. The wedding will take place shortly after Easter Sunday in the Church of St. Thomas Aquinas, Flatbush and Flatlands avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Toland were married in Burke, Franklin County, N. Y., in 1913. After the divorce Toland went to Syracuse and Mrs. Toland came to Brooklyn. Recently a letter written by Toland to a sister of his former wife, who lives at Burke, was seen by Mrs. Toland. In this way the daughter learned the address of the father and she wrote to him. He answered, came to Brooklyn, and the courtship followed.

Nellie Toland, the daughter, is overjoyed to know that she will have a papa just like her little girl playmates.

Have They Kissed and Made Up? Not So, Say Movie Pair Who Parted

Los Angeles, March 14—Friends and Hollywoodians who saw this picture of Wanda Hawley and her husband, Burton, said oh, wasn't it nice that Wanda and Burt had made up, and wasn't it great their domestic troubles had come to a happy fade-out just like in the movies?

And then the photographer who had dug up the picture spoiled it all by saying it wasn't a new picture at all but one taken in the early days of the Hawley honeymoon, back in 1916.

This effectively squashed rumors that the blond, petite movie actress and her non-professional husband, J. Burton Hawley, had settled their quarrel and become reconciled.

They were married in 1916, and separated last October, Miss Hawley suing for divorce on charges of non-support, unwillingness to work, cruelty and dissipation of funds she claims to have given him.

"I had a good job when I married, and have worked ever since," was Hawley's retort, "and if I told what I know about the going-on in the movie colony it would split Hollywood wide open."

Since this threat, the lull in divorce action inspired rumors of reconciliation between the couple, which both have been careful to deny. Some hopeful souls, however, still cling to the picture of Hawley and the former Selma Patack renegade, and trotted out this picture of their former wedded bliss to help it along.

ketball was played in the Central gymnasium last evening between Exmouth street Methodist and Germain street Baptist. Exmouth street won by a score of 35 to 5.

South End Rink Closed. The South End skating rink has been closed for the season. The skating rink, which was under the management of the South End Improvement League, was the source of pleasure to many. During the season a series of races were also held there, and winners will be awarded prizes early next month.

Gorman's Entry Received. Toronto, March 14—Charlie Gorman, St. John, Canadian speed skating champion, has forwarded his entry for the indoor championships to be decided here Saturday.

Presentation to Champion. Joseph Veno, who recently won the championship of the 128-pound class at the Maritime championships held in Halifax, was pleasantly surprised yesterday when he was made the recipient of a gift and address by his fellow-employees of Haley Bros., Ltd., Martin and Montreal Draw.

Providence, March 14—Terry Martin and Young Montreal, fought to a draw in 12 rounds here last night.

Canadian Olympic Coach. Toronto, March 14—It is said here that Walter Knox, of Orillia, will be named as Canadian Olympic coach at a meeting of the committee in Winnipeg next week.

Hoppe is Now Leading. New York, March 14—Willie Hoppe, 182 Balke billiard line champion, last night overcame the lead of 223 points Jake Schaefer gained in the first block of their 1,600 title-match last night and reached the thousand point mark while Schaefer was counting 994.

CANNOT EVADE RESPONSIBILITY

Bishop Hughes Makes Point in Lenten Address—Every Man His Brother's Keeper

(Boston Herald.) Responsibility is inescapable, declared Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday at the noon-day meeting of the Lenten series being held at B. F. Keith's Theatre. He said the sin of a small community was the sin of familiarity, which resulted in gossip, whereas the sin of a big city was the sin of unfamiliarity, which resulted in aloofness.

"The first question asked by man of God," he said, "was diabolical. Cain's question was, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' In its very form, his question is answered, because Cain admitted that Abel was his brother. He admitted that he was likewise a keeper of his brother, that in the relationship established by God's vast providence there had likewise been a parallel reduction in the number of cases of encephalitis lethargica.

Whenever relationship is established there is established responsibility. I am a citizen of a country and I am a keeper of a country. I am a citizen of Malden. When God ordains that responsibility for me, He ordains it and makes me responsible for the city.

"When God Almighty ordains a relationship as close as family, He ordains likewise a great responsibility that no man can possibly evade. The closer the relationship, the closer the responsibility that goes with it.

"Here in the United States and in the world there is a great deal of fear of the brotherhood of man. It is very fine talk, too. There is, however, a danger in regard to a glittering generality like that. I have no confidence whatever in the long run in any talk about the brotherhood of man without the larger doctrine of the Fatherhood of God."

"Some of us came here in automobiles, others in street cars and the rest of us walked. In regard to automobiles, I have no confidence that there are two great classes in America. Those who have them and those who hope to have them. But no matter what our means, whatever the long run in any talk about the brotherhood of man without the larger doctrine of the Fatherhood of God."

"When God Almighty ordains a relationship as close as family, He ordains likewise a great responsibility that no man can possibly evade. The closer the relationship, the closer the responsibility that goes with it.

"Here in the United States and in the world there is a great deal of fear of the brotherhood of man. It is very fine talk, too. There is, however, a danger in regard to a glittering generality like that. I have no confidence whatever in the long run in any talk about the brotherhood of man without the larger doctrine of the Fatherhood of God."

"Some of us came here in automobiles, others in street cars and the rest of us walked. In regard to automobiles, I have no confidence that there are two great classes in America. Those who have them and those who hope to have them. But no matter what our means, whatever the long run in any talk about the brotherhood of man without the larger doctrine of the Fatherhood of God."
