A Boundary Question in Settlement

Col. Frederick Hale left Portland for Washington Wednesday, with the brief prepared by the firm of Verrill, Hale & Booth on the Passamaquoddy boundary case. This case was turned over to this law firm by the State Department at Washington and they have been securing evidence upon it.

Alexander Gibson Retires

latest machinery, some of which was later replaced by that of a more modern construction. It is lighted by electricity from Mr. Gibson's own dynamo; and nearby is a splendidly equipped machine shop. English experts have declared that this mill surpassed in its equipment the vast majorities of English cotton factories. In June, 1907, this cotton mill was sold to the Canadian Colortex Cotton Co.

Besides a large number of wooden tenements, Mr. Gibson has built about fifty two-story brick houses each to accommodate two families and several dozens of large boarding houses. Not a drop of intoxicating liquor has ever been sold in the place. The town has had a steady growth and is still growing. Two large stores and a hotel were built by Mr. Gibson and a Methodist church, a beautiful building worth $50,000, was also erected by him. He also gave the site for the Anglican church. In addition to other benefactions Mr. Gibson has presented to the town a public hall, a large public library and a fine site for a trotting park. The steel railway bridge across the St. John and the railway known as the Canada Eastern and the Gibson branch of the C. P. R. all owe their existence in a large measure to his energy and public spirit.

A public writer a few years ago described Mr. Gibson as a man of kindly and generous impulses, many persons and causes have profited by his benevolence, without knowing the source. When he has done with this life his monument will be the town that his genius called into existence, and the record of a life of honorable toil and service to his fellow men.—Gleaner.

MAN-A-LIN THE IDEAL LAXATIVE MADE FROM PURELY VEGETABLES. MAN-A-LIN is an Excellent Remedy for Constipation. There are many ailments directly dependent upon constipation, such as biliousness, discolored and pimply skin, inactive liver, dyspepsia, overworked kidneys and headache.

On commencing operations on the river, Mr. Gibson saw at once that the principal obstruction to be overcome was a large boom held by a mile or two of piers. He immediately commenced the construction of dams and increased the river facilities so much that no drive has ever yet been hung up on the stream since he took possession. He also had his lands carefully explored and surveyed. Some of these he purchased at public auction from the crown; others he bought from the N. B. and N. S. Land Co., and he has thus acquired all the most valuable land (nearly 170,000 acres) on the river. Since he came to Marysville up to this year he has cut fully 800,000,000 ft. of logs into deals on the Nashwaak river.

He has also a mill at Blackville, on the I. C. R., that employs many men and cuts about 8,000,000 feet of lumber annually, a property which he bought from the Messrs. Fairley. The deals are brought by rail to Gibson, and there with the product of the Marysville mills, are placed upon lighters especially built by Mr. Gibson and towed to St. John, where the large lumber is sent to England and the shingles and lathes are shipped to the United States.

The fame of the cotton mill, built and until recently owned by Mr. Gibson, has gone throughout Canada and beyond it, being the largest single mill in the Dominion. It employs 500 hands, but could accommodate two and a half times as many. It was built from brick manufactured by him within a stone's throw of the structure and at its completion in 1885 was fitted up with the

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely fail. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

All Canadian Cattle Must Be Shipped Through St. John. Montreal, Dec.—A peculiar development of the cattle embargo which is now being enforced against the American states by the Canadian government has come to light here. Under the action of rigid guarantee the American cattle trade, which formerly went from New York and Philadelphia was transferred to Boston and Portland, Massachusetts and Maine not being under quarantine. To meet this increased trade at Portland, the Dominion line has placed two of its largest steamships on the route.

It might have been expected that under these circumstances the Canadian roads would have benefited by the heavy traffic to Portland, but under the quarantine they are not allowed to carry American cattle, which consequently go via the New York Central lines. This means a heavy loss to the Grand Trunk especially, but it is justified by the government on the ground that it is necessary to protect Canadian cattle, consequently the G. T. R. is even unable to carry Canadian cattle to Portland, as should Canadian cattle be infected by shipment with American cattle, it would mean an embargo on all Canadian herds. Meanwhile St. John is benefiting through the shipment of Canadian cattle by that route.

Farewell to the Woods

One does not go through that final ritual of leaving the woods without a little sentiment—a little tugging about the heart. The flies were all new and trim and properly placed when you set out. They were a gay array and you were as proud of them as you were of a little garden. They are in a disarray now. They have a unkempt look. The snells are shredded, the feathers are caked and bitten, the hackle is frazzled and frayed out. Yet you are even more proud of them than in the beginning. Then they were only a promise, fair and beautiful to look upon; now they conjure up pictures of supreme fulfillment—days and moments so firmly set upon the past that they shall not soon fade away. That big Silver Doctor—broken, which the snell has twice been rewrapped—they must have been wound with a special blessing, for when all else failed it was a certain lure. The big trout below Leon Lake rose to that fly, and accordingly this battered thing will forever be reserved. This scarlet Breck, with almost every feather gone and the silver wrapping replaced with tin-foil—even when it displaced a mere shred of its former glory—it proved far more fatal than many a newer fly. How vividly it recalls a certain wild pool of strange dim lumence where, for me, the trout would take no other lure. And this Montreal—it has become a magic brush that paints a picture of dark rocks and dark water, and first trout taken on a cast. For a hundred years, if I live that long, this crumpled book and these broken, worn-out flies will bring back the clear, wild water and the green shores of a Nova Scotia June, the remoter sciences of the deeper forest, the bright camps by twisting pools and tumbling falls, the flash of the leaping trout, the feel of the curved rod and the music of the singing reel.—From "The Tent-Dwellers" by Albert Bigelow Paine, in The Outlook Magazine for December.

"A Bit of Scotch"

"O Lord, we approach Thee this mornin' in the attitude o' prayer, and likewise o' complaint. When we cam' tae the lan' o' Canada we expected tae get a lan' flowin' w' milk and honey, but instead o' that we foun' a lan' peopled with ungodly Irish. O Lord, in Thy great mercy, drive them tae the uttermost parts o' Canada; mak' them hevers o' wood and drawers o' water; gie them nae emulments; gie them nae place o' abode; ne'er mak' them magistrates or rulers among Thy people. "But, if ye hae any favors to bestow, or an' guid lan' tae gie awa', gie it tae Thine ain, Thy peculiar people, the Scots. Mak' them members o' Parliament an' magistrates, an' rulers among Thy people. Ah! as for the Irish, tak' them by the heels an' shak' them over mouth o' hell, but dinna let them fa' in, and a' the glory shall be Thine. Amen."

Wonderful Indian Runners

An Indian has been known to carry a heavy load from Gazapares to Chihuahua and back again in five days, the distance being nearly 800 miles. In some parts where the Tarahumaras serve the Mexicans they are used to run in the wild horses, driving them into the corral. It may take them two or three days to do it, sleeping at night and living on a little pinole. They bring in the horses thoroughly exhausted, while they themselves are still fresh. They will outrun any horse if they give them time enough. They pursue a deer in the snow or with dogs, in the rain, for days and days, until at last the animal is cornered and shot with arrows or falls an easy prey from sheer exhaustion, its hoofs dropping off.

Jack London in the South Sea

The little Shark, in which Jack London is going around the world for the Woman's Home Companion, is seeing some strange sights. Not the least of these is the hideous elephantiasis of the South Sea Islands. "We sat on the cool porch, on Bihara's best mats, while dinner was preparing, and at the same time met the villagers. In two sand three and groups they strayed along. Here would be a comely woman of magnificent proportions, with the port of a queen, yet matted by one arm four times—or a dozen times—the size of the other. Beside her might stand a six-foot man, erect, mighty muscled, bronzed, with the body of a god, yet with feet and calves so swollen that they ran together, forming legs, shapless, monstrous, that were all the world like elephant legs.

"No one seems really to know the cause of the South Sea elephantiasis. One theory is that it is caused by drinking of polluted water. Another theory attributes it to inoculation through mosquito bites. A third theory charges it to predisposition plus the process of acclimatization. On the other hand, so one that stands in finicky dread of it and similar diseases, can afford to travel in the South Seas. There will be occasions when such a one much drink water. There may also be occasions when the mosquitoes let up biting. But every precaution of the finicky one will be useless. If he runs barefoot across the beach to take a swim he will tread where an elephantiasis case trod a few minutes before. If he closets himself in his own house, yet every bit of fresh food on his table will have been subjected to the contamination, be it flesh, fish, fowl or vegetable. In the public market at Papeiti two known lepers run stalls, and heaven alone knows through what channels arrive at that market the daily supplies of fish, fat, meat and vegetables. The only happy way to go through the South Seas is with a careless soul, without apprehension, and with a placid, child-like faith in the resplendent fortune of your own particular star. When you see a woman afflicted with elephantiasis wringing out cream from coconut meat with her naked hands, drink and reflect how good is the cream, forgetting the hands that pressed it out. Also, remember that diseases such as elephantiasis and leprosy do not seem to be caught by contract."

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First,—they contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

Lord Roberts as an Alarmist

If for ten days or more the transportation of German troops from German to English ports could be carried on undetected by the British navy doubtless Great Britain has reason to fear for invasion. If that is possible Lord Roberts' alarmist utterances in the House of Lords as well based. Otherwise they are absurd. Working with the utmost efficiency and despatch and wholly unimpeded by the British ships of war, how long would it require to transfer an army of 150,000,000 to 200,000 men from the German to the British coast? It would require many days of piecemeal transportation. Only a small proportion of the total number of troops could be brought at a time. And as they would have to be landed it is all but unthinkable that even if the vanguard managed to make its descent the British navy would not be so speedily advised as to make repetition of such a feat impossible. Germany would have accomplished little more than the consignment of so many soldiers to British prisons. Only under the most extraordinary combination of circumstances—circumstances the principal item of which would be the disappearance of the greater part of the home fleet from the waters of the British Isles—could 150,000 German soldiers be put down on British soil.

How does it happen, then, that an ex-commander-in-chief of the British forces could express himself with such extravagance as to declare that Great Britain must arm a million soldiers for the purpose of meeting a possible German invasion? Age may be the answer. Or it may be that he is so intent upon the improvement of the British army as to lose sight of all reality. When generals and field marshals can express themselves in this manner it is difficult to understand why Great Britain, like some other countries, chooses civilians—statesmen rather than soldiers—to head its military and naval offices.

The Laziest Man in the World

There have been many lazy men, but none to equal Archibald Dehan, of Suffolk Place, West Green, England, who was accused at Tottenham, England, of neglecting his four children. Mrs. Dehan said her husband had done no work for fourteen months, although he had been offered employment. "Instead of looking for work he lies in bed until all hours of the day," she stated. "Once he stayed in bed for three months, although nothing was wrong with him. "I have tried to persuade him to bestir himself, and I have even dragged him out of the bed, and he went back again. One day I took him a letter containing an offer of employment. He read it and said he would not go out until the next day, as it was raining. "When he was offered another situation he stated he could not take it until he obtained a new set of teeth and had his hair dyed. "He was in the workhouse in the early part of this year. After he came out he took to his bed again, and remained there for a week. "I suffer from insomnia," Dehan pleaded in an injured tone. "Nobody can expect to sleep all the twenty-four hours of the day," remarked the magistrate drily, in sentencing him to six months' hard labor.

THE VAGABOND

The vagabond picked up his hat. "What do you mean?" the young man harshly demanded. "Didn't he said in his sullen way. 'I happened to see him here in the ham-mock an' came a little closer. I ain't going to touch him. 'You needn't look at me so.'"

"Oo mustn't look at Dim so," cried the boy. "Poor Dim. He ain't dot any mudder to make him wash hisself." And the little face was turned to the stranger with a deeply sympathetic expression.

A duller red covered the vagabond's face.

"Gootie," said the young mother warningly.

"That's all right, ma'am," said the vagabond quickly. "And it's true. I had a mother, but there were too many of us, an' she was always too busy. No doubt I needed a father more than I did a mother, but he ran away from us."

He paused and twisted his dingy hat in his grimy hands.

The boy, his big eyes expanded, stared at the big man wonderingly, and a deep flush crept into the mother's pale cheeks.

"My father is tummin' home pitty soon," said the child.

The vagabond saw the young woman—and she seemed little more than a girl—lay her thin hand over the child's chubby fingers and bend over him.

"Why, mamma," said the child, "oo's cryin'!" He reached up and stroked the pale cheek. Then he looked around at the vagabond.

"Had man," he threateningly said, "oo make mamma cry."

The vagabond drew back. He kept on the beaten path but a moment or two. Then he turned into a little used road that branched to the left through the woods. As a short distance from the high way he paused and came forward more slowly.

A fine looking horse attached to a light carriage stood at the roadside. A tall, well-dressed young man was in the saddle and when the vagabond appeared he started eagerly.

"Where's the child?" he demanded.

The vagabond came forward, but he made no reply.

"Can't you hear me?" the young man cried. "Where is the boy?"

The vagabond stopped and looked hard at the young man, and his look was not a pleasant one.

"The boy is where he should be," he quietly answered; "with his mother."

saw the child and the mother, I wouldn't have harmed either one, if you gave me as many dollars as there are hairs in your schemin' head."

The other man had drawn back a little and the angry flush was paling from his face.

"The child is mine," he muttered. "The child is yours, sure enough," said the vagabond. He's got your looks—there's no questioning that. But he's got his mother's truthful eyes.

The other man laid his hand on the reins. "Rave away," he said. "I've heard quite enough of this."

The vagabond sprang forward.

"Stay where you are," he cried. "I'm not through with you yet. You'll hear me out." He moistened his lips. "I don't know why you left this woman. Some foolish scrap no doubt. No doubt, too, you was in th' wrong. You try to disgrace her by leaving her, and then you try to hurt her by stealin' her child."

"Why she should care for you heaven onny knows," he said. "But she does. Why, she's even taught the kid to pray that you will come back soon. What do you think of that! The mother teachin' the kid to pray for you, an' you plannin' to steal th' kid. The other man suddenly turned so that his face was hidden. "An' she cries when you're mentioned—cries when the kid speaks of papa—cries when she thinks of you. Why I saw her cryin'! What do you think of that? That beautiful young mother cries for you—for you!"

He threw all the sarcasm he could summon into the closing words and then watched their effect on the other man.

The other man did not change his position, but his hand was suddenly raised to his face. There was a brief silence. Then the other man turned abruptly and started down the road way.

"Where are you going?" the vagabond called after him.

The man did not look around.

"Wait here," he called back; "I want to see you again."

Then he quickened his stride and was soon out of sight.

The vagabond sat down on a stump and fell to whistling softly. And presently a faint smile rested on his seamed and hardened face.

It might have been 20 minutes later that his ears caught the sound of distant laughter. He quickly arose and hidden by a tree trunk looked down the roadway.

The other was returning, and by his side, half supported by his encircling arm, walked the young woman. And with his other arm he bore the child.

Then the vagabond, the smile almost transfiguring his rugged face, turned quickly and entered the woods at the roadside and disappeared.

And when the three who were approached reached the spot he was not there.—Cleveland Leader.

Asking Too Much

I believe there's a story told of Mark Twain that in youthful days, being sent out by his mother to weed a certain flower bed, and finding more weeds than flowers, he came back in and asked if he might not "flower the weed bed."

Our little Alfred probably has as great an aversion to work as had the youthful Clemens. Admonished to pull some rather large weeds in the back yard, after a faint-hearted lift on one of them, he shouted:

"Mama, how do you think I'm going to pull these weeds when the whole world is hitched onto them?" —November Womans Home Companion.

Prompt People

Don't live a single hour without doing exactly what is to be done in it, and give straight through it from beginning to end. Work, play, study, whatever it is, take hold at once and finish it up squarely; then to the next thing, without letting any moments drop between. It is wonderful to see how many hours these prompt people contrive to make of a day; it is as if they picked up the moments that the dawdlers lost. And if you find yourself where you have so many things pressing upon you that you hardly know how to begin, let us tell you a secret: Take hold of the very first one that comes to hand, and you will find the rest all fall into line, and follow after, like a company of well drilled soldiers; and though work may be hard to meet when it charges in a squad, it is easily vanquished if you can bring it into line.

A Frightful Death

Is one from suffocation and sometimes follows a bad attack of Asthma. The old-fashioned remedies may relieve, but never cure. Best results come from Catarrhism which cures Asthma after hope is abandoned. It's because Catarrhism kills the Asthma germ that it cures. Choking spells and labored breathing are relieved, suffocating sensations and loss of breath are cured. Every trace of Asthma is driven from the system, and even old chronic experience immediate relief and lasting cure. Equally good for Bronchitis, Throat Trouble and Croup. Sold by all dealers in 25c and $1.00 sizes. Get Catarrhism today - it does cure.

Be Polite

The habit of treating those who are nearest and dearest to us with discourtesy and disregard, is one that clouds the sunshine of too many homes. When we learn to be polite, not only as society people, but as husbands and wives, sisters and brothers, parents and children, we shall do well. No home can be happy wherein sarcastic speech and cruel disregard for one another's rights is the rule.

God places somewhere in the heart of each of us a tender memory, which enables us to touch with a gentle hand or soothing word the heart of the afflicted. What a comfort to know that for every heartache, there is somewhere in the universe a heaven inspired soul to comfort those downcast. Let us make our words as dew from heaven, touching with gentle hand the withered flowers, giving new vigor to the heads.

No language can express the power, and beauty, and heroism, and majesty of a mother's love. It shrinks, not when man cowers; and stronger when man faints; and over wastes of worldly fortunes sends the reliance of its quivering-fidelity like a star in the heavens. When craps on the door tells of a mother gone, only those who have moistened a mother's grave with their tears can fully understand and read aright the black threads in the bow.

See to it that we live each day as though it were the last day accipiens us to show how we love the dear ones at home. Fill it full of beautiful service and tender homage. Let no rude speech strike discord through it, no frown darken it, no injustice mar it; sweeten the bitter cup of death for us when Israel, the white-robed angel, holds it on our trembling lips.

There is no sure safeguard against the temptations that come to young men and women than a love for home. It has brought back and held many a wanderer in a safe place. It is something not only to love home but to know that you love it - and to know that you are happier at home than in any other spot on earth.

Fathers and mothers, do not quarrel at any rate not in the presence of your children. If you say mean and spiteful things to each other, at least go into a room by yourselves and do not teach your children the unpleasant art of wrangling.

If tattlers would imitate the bee, and extract the sweets and goodness of men's actions and circulate them, they would become blessings instead of scourges to society.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 3 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

DUTIES:-(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

OUR BUSINESS SUGGESTIONS

American buyers of Christmas trees for the New York market are now operating in New Brunswick. They buy them by the thousand and pay only one-third of a cent per tree, removing and shipping them at their own expense. This looks like a pretty poor business for the man who sells the trees, considering that they afterwards retail for 75 cents to one dollar each; and it means, in time, a serious loss to the forests of the country.—Daily Telegraph, Quebec.

The postmaster of Cleveland has compiled a primer to be circulated among the public and parochial schools of that city, giving instructions for the proper addressing of mail matter. This may be thought unnecessary but postal officials know that it is not. Illegibly and slovenly addressed letters and other matter are the most prolific causes of embarrassment and even expense. It is a good thing to impress this upon the young as a part of their education. Emphasis is laid upon the importance of a return address upon envelopes, a precaution now more honored in the breach than in the observance.

Although the facilities for handling the Western wheat crop are still far from adequate, the movement of this year's crop is much faster than that of last year. The total 40,400,000 bushels, which to noon of November 23 had passed inspection at Winnipeg, is 9,000,000 bushels more than the total up to the end of December last year. Close upon 1,000 cars were handled by the G. T. P. This record of the G. T. P. began in October. The G. T. P. has certainly made a good beginning.

The late Senator Millroy once described an historical error, smiled and said: "What a mistake!"

"It remind me of a young lady who gave her sweetheart last Christmas a very elaborately made pen wiper, and who was amazed the following Sunday to see the young man wearing the gift as a necktie."—Washington Star.

A certain man had a disastrous experience in gold mine speculations. One day a number of colleagues were discussing the subject of speculation, when one of them said to this speculator: "Old chap, as an expert, give us a definition of the term 'bonanza'."

"A 'bonanza,'" replied the experienced man, with emphasis, "is a hole in the ground owned by a champion liar!"

There is an old saying that one should measure his garments according to his cloth. The town not only should, but must measure the amount of repairs on the streets according to the ability of the tax payers to pay. Some cities might be abolished and the money devoted to paying men who are physically fit to carry out tasks assigned to them. Perhaps we are enjoying a cheap form of graft.

Conceit is essential to rapid advancement—not overconceit, but conceit in reasonable volume. The conceit of youth becomes the assurance of old age. If you're master of your conceit, you have back of you a slave of unlimited assistance. If conceit is your master, you're doomed to failure. But don't cultivate self conceit. It's a lousy plant. Give it half a chance and it will outgrow your self respect.—N. C. Fowler, Jr., in "Gumption."

"This," said the teacher to her class of small arithmeticians, "is a unit." She held up a pencil. "This book is a unit, too," she said. "And these are units," and she showed them a ruler, a flower and an apple.

Then she peeled the apple, and holding up the peel, said, "Now children, what is this?"

Silence.

"Come, you know what it is," she urged. Little Bill's hand went up slowly. "Well, William?" said the teacher. "Pleathe, ma'am, the skin of a unit."—Harpers.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

It is rumored that the Slater Shoe Co. will build a factory at Milltown.

Greetings is the paper that goes into the homes in Eastern Charlotte.

R. I. Kenehan has something important to say in this issue. Read his advertisement.

Ellery Johnson had the honor of getting the last deer of the season—a very large buck.

The stores are putting on their Christmas attire. Many useful and ornamental articles are being displayed.

When out shopping call at A. G. Brown's. He has a splendid assortment of Fancy Calendars, Postcards, Candles, etc.

Schr. Frances Goodnow has sailed for Newark, Ct., with a full cargo of pulp. The shipping season is about over, although another vessel may load with pulp if the weather continues mild.

In the Carleton bye-election Dec. 1st, Mr. Geo. W. Upham, Liberal, was elected by 137 majority. Mr. J. P. Burchill, Liberal, was elected in Northumberland by a majority of nearly two hundred.

Christmas goods are arriving every day at the Economy Store, Back Bay. The genial proprietor, Mr. A. McGee, and his efficient clerks are always on hand to attend to the extensive patronage which this up-to-date store receives.

Two of the Independent sardine packing factories, the Eastport Sardine Company's factory and that of Messrs. Stickle and Wickerson were the last to cease operations this season, continuing open and supplying employment for a large number of people until the very last day of the legal packing season.—Sentinel.

There are no new cases of scarletina in town, and the health board have consented to schools being opened. The teachers have returned and work was taken up again on Monday. As all danger seems to have passed, it is to be hoped that every precaution will be taken to prevent a fresh outbreak of the disease.

A circular issued at Ottawa states that customs officers are instructed not to sign manifests for the transportation in bond of intoxicating liquor from one port in Canada to any city or county therein where Part II of the Canada's Temperance Act is in force. The act is now in force in nine counties in New Brunswick and ten in Nova Scotia.

Before the next session of the New Brunswick legislature, the New Brunswick Medical Association will appoint a committee to press upon the government the necessity for a sanatorium for tuberculosis treatment in this province. Dr. J. R. McIntosh, president of the Medical Society, will appoint a special committee to deal with the question and to present it to the government.

The crew that are employed in putting down the new telephone poles, and stretching wires, are making rapid progress with the work. The new poles are regulation size and when painted will rather add to the appearance of the streets in some parts of the town. At the present rate of progress it won't be long before the citizens are enjoying the new and improved service.

A petition containing 315 names of prominent citizens, of several sections of Charlotte, has been presented to the government for the incorporation of the Charlotte County Agricultural and Industrial Association. Provisional officers are F. M. Murchie, Pres.; Walter S. Stevens, Sec'y; Frank Littlefield, Treas.

The formation of this Society is of much importance to the farmers, and citizens generally, of Charlotte County, as it will mean that more interest will be taken in raising crops from best seeds procurable and also the improvement of stock in the County.

An effort will be made to get the fishermen interested, so that their products can also be exhibited, as there will be an annual exhibition probably at St. Stephen.

The Association starts with $515 on hand, of which $270 was contributed by the Carnival committee. As soon as all preliminary work is finished, a general meeting will be called for the election of officers and arranging details of the organization. We trust the people, especially the farmers, of this parish, will help make the society the success it deserves, for it will undoubtedly be of immense benefit to all its members.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Havey & Wilson, Eastport, are showing a big line of holiday goods.

Robt. Thompson of Black's Harbor, and Miss Nellie Lincoln of Perry, Me., were united in marriage Dec. 2nd.

The Fisk Stock Co. of St. John, gave two performances in Courts hall last week, playing to fair sized audiences. Thursday and Friday they were at Beaver Harbor.

A recital will be given in the Baptist church on Wednesday 16th, by the talented young reader, Miss May Johnson, assisted by the church choir. Proceeds are for church purposes.

Word was received here yesterday that Joseph Mealey had been killed by a train at Eastport. His son was here attending the funeral of his aunt, when the message reached him.

For the ladies, Hanson Bros. have purchased a button machine and are now prepared to make all kinds of buttons. Bring your own cloth and have them covered to match your suit.

Mr. J. A. Gregory's saw mill at Lepreau finished its sawing season a day or two ago. The season has never run into December before. In other years the Lepreau stream has always been iced over prior to this date.

The watering trough at the Town pump should be removed during the winter months. Ice forms over and around it, the water flows over the platform and more ice forms—this makes slippery footing and is dangerous.

A. D. Frauley is remembering his friends with liberal sized roasts of moose meat. The animal was shot during the last days of the hunting season, and brought to town Wednesday. There was some difficulty in getting it out owing to its weight and exceedingly rough country.

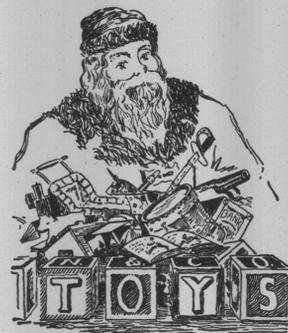

The Calais tug Wesley A. Gove towed the Franches Goodnow to sea Saturday. The schr. Rhoda Holmes came up river Saturday in tow of tug Quoddy. This fine vessel will take in a cargo of pulp. Work on her will be rushed as there is now the possibility of freezing up.

Two C. P. R. engineers came down from Woodstock on Monday and took measurements from the railway station to the proposed new wharf. The Company engineers have now measured up pretty nearly everything around here except the people. And, perhaps they have taken their measure.—Beacon.

Peter Clinch bought in Kentucky, for the Provincial Government, seventeen thoroughbred mares. The animals have been held up by an order of the Federal Government prohibiting the importation of cattle from the United States, owing to the foot and mouth disease now raging there. The horses are being brought until such time as they can be brought into the province.

The latest sensation in the Sardine Business is the Bill of Complaint and writ of injunction brought by the Lebec Sardine Company against the Maine Mercantile Company, Robert J. Peacock, Theodore Whitmarsh and Ernest S. Nicholas, which was filed Tuesday at Machias. The full text of the proceedings will be printed in next week's Citizen. The gist of the complaint is the vote of the directors of the Maine Mercantile Company to pay twenty cents per case on the number of cases allotted to each packer. One half of amount or $105,268.00 have already been paid. The complainant seeks to restrain the Maine Mercantile Company from paying the other $105,268, on the grounds that the payment of said money is a fraud on the stockholders of said Maine Mercantile Company, of which company the complainant holds stock to the extent of 3464 shares, inasmuch as it is not a dividend on the shares of stock issued and outstanding but an illegal distribution of the assets of the Maine Mercantile Company. The complainant claims to be entitled to a distribution of the dividends when declared and that all stockholders should receive dividends on the basis of their stock holdings and not otherwise. The injunction was issued by Chief Justice Emery and a bond has been filed. This suit, coming as it does, while the Federal Grand Jury at Portland is investigating the affairs of the Maine Mercantile Company to determine whether there is probable cause to charge the company with violation of the Trust laws, is causing considerable public comment especially in this section.—Eastport Citizen.

A Different Man

Grucher was not eavesdropping. He was sitting in his own particular chair in his own library reading the newspaper, when the young people came into the next room. If they supposed that a few Spanish leather strings and fringes in the way of portieres were going to prevent their voices from being heard, that was their affair.

It was young Brophie, and he was calling on Annette Grucher. Annette had a good many young callers, but young Brophie was about the worst of the lot, according to the old man. His collars got Grucher's nerves, and his hesiery was an abomination in his sight. The creases in young Brophie's trousers made Grucher's brow cease and his nose to wrinkle, and as for his conversation—

Mush, slush and the drivel, said Grucher when he got Mrs. Grucher alone that evening. I never heard anything like it in my life. Anything more maudlin, insane and idiotic you can't conceive. I could hardly keep from breaking out and telling him my candid opinion of him, if I thought Annette hadn't any more sense than to pick out a pinhead young snipe like that I'd—

Grucher clinched his fists and gurgled.

You mustn't be too hard on him, my dear, said Mrs. Grucher. I think he's a very nice young man and I'm glad that you didn't hurt his feelings. Annette would have been so mortified, poor child.

I don't call him a young man, growled Grucher. He's a young whiffet. He hasn't an idea in his head beyond dressing himself up like a tailor's dummy. They're all alike, for that matter. There isn't a sensible one in the lot. It makes me sick to see them and crazy mad to hear them. It's nearly 12 o'clock now and he's still there. I'm going down to turn him out.

You're not going to do anything of kind, said Mrs. Grucher. And Grucher didn't.

The next morning as Grucher was sitting in the office, grinding as he loved to grind, the boy brought in a slip of paper and laid it on his desk. Grucher picked it up and scrowled at it. Then he said. Show him in.

A moment later young Brophie was ushered into the office.

Good morning, sir, said young Brophie, pleasantly.

Good morning, returned Grucher, unpleasantly. Who told you to come in here? You're not from Cull & Fisher?

Yes, sir, replied young Brophie. They sent me over here to see if this little matter in dispute could be arranged. I think it can. Can you spare me a few minutes?

Grucher nodded. The young man seated himself and whisked some papers from the breast pocket of his coat and snapped one from the encircling rubber band with an admirable certainty of motion. Grucher, watching him, noted that the young man's collar was at least an inch lower than he had ever seen it before, and that the young man's dress, while neat and well fitting, was not conspicuously in the height of fashion. Nor were the trousers' creases as aggressive as usual. In fact, the young man's clothes were those of a person of action. So was his manner.

He was unfolding the paper when Grucher waved it aside. How do you think it's going to be arranged? he said in an ominous tone.

By a check, said young Brophie with a smile.

For what amount?

For the amount in full, replied the young man.

Mr. Brophie, said the old man, if you can be of any service to your firm outside of this office I'd advise you to get busy. I shall not pay one cent of your claim. Not—one—cent. Do you understand that?

I understand what you say, sir, of course, said young Brophie, but you promised to spare me a few minutes and I'm going to prove to you that you can't in fairness do anything else than I purpose. I understand your view of the matter, and I see clearly that it is based on an imperfect understanding of the facts in the case. To begin with, your order. Do you care to look it over?

I know what it is, said Grucher. And I know what you people furnish. I think, too, that if Cull & Fisher have any proposition to make to me they might send a representative—He was going to say something offensive, but meeting young Brophie steady and assured gaze he thought better of it and said instead. Well, go ahead.

Young Brophie laid down his papers and entered into an explanation of the misunderstanding. He talked for about five minutes, verifying his points by reference to certain schedules and correspondence and a blue print. When he had finished Grucher reflected a moment or two.

Then the engineer was at fault? he added.

Most certainly, replied young Brophie. He miscalculated the expansion of the trusses. I figured that the only possible explanation was an error of that nature, so I went out there this morning to make sure. There you have the measurements. You can hold your clients accountable for the loss, but we must look to you, don't you see?

I see, said Grucher. So you dug this up, did you?

It occurred to me, said the young man, modestly.

You must have got up pretty early to be out here this morning, said Grucher.

Not very, replied young Brophie. I caught a freight out to Battenburg at 4.35 and walked over to the bridge.

You couldn't have got very much sleep then, judging by the time you left my house, observed Grucher, with a smile. Well, he continued, I suppose I'll have to pay up. I may not be able to get it back, but I'll have to take chances on that. So you're with Cull & Fisher? Well, I think Cull & Fisher have got a pretty good man.

To Mrs. Grucher that evening Grucher said: I guess I was mistaken in sizing up that young Brophie. He was in the office today on an office of business and I think he's got a considerable amount of sense and energy about him. But why does he want to talk such rot to Annette? And why does he wear such foolish clothes when he comes around here?

My dear, said Mrs. Grucher. I suppose you've forgotten how silly you appeared when you were calling on me.

There may be something in that admitted Grucher.

Are You a Dyspeptic?

Nine people out of ten suffer from dyspepsia and don't know it. Half the pale cheeks, poor appetite and sleepless nights are the direct result of dyspepsia. The cause lies in failure of the stomach and kidneys are clogged, and unable to do their work. Nothing puts vigor into those organs so fast as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They tone up the whole digestive system, regulate and strengthen the stomach, absolutely cure dyspepsia. Simple to take and sure to cure. —better try Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Womanly Wisdom

Accidents will happen even among the best of china.

Go without good clothes if you must borrow to get them.

The best neighbor is not always the one who thinks as you do.

Don't wear yourself out scolding. Five minutes of anger will do more to shorten life than a week of the hardest kind of work.

The easiest and best way to cook a pumpkin: After washing the outside, set it in a pan in the oven and bake it for an hour or more, according to size. When done cut a hole in the stem end and remove the seeds. The rind will peel off easily. It is richer and the flavor is better than that of stewed pumpkin.

If some men acted half as decently when at home as they do when away from home, there would be a great deal of brightness added to domestic life.

Unkind words do as much harm as deeds. Many a heart has been wounded beyond cure, and many a reputation been stabbed to death, by a few little words.

Death or Insanity

Nervous, sleepless, Worn Out

Expected to die or go crazy with nervousness

"I could not sleep—I could not rest—was ready to cry on the last occasion—yet I was plump and fat. Can you imagine a more distressing condition than weakness of body and mind?" writes Mrs. Wensley, of Halifax. "I lost myself in a sort of self pity because health seemed so shattered, and with the mental distress that grew with my bodily weakness, I was a burden to myself and a greater burden to my family."

"Though I sought and really needed pity, I got very little, for I did not look so very sick. It was only my nerves that were sick, and anyone that has sick nerves knows too well how awful a sickness it is."

"From the first Ferrozone strengthened my nerves, and it seemed to help them for I became stronger, more composed, slept more and grew more hopeful. When I had taken Ferrozone for about two months I lost that miserable sense of dread. I never could tell what I was afraid of, but expected something dreadful was going to happen me. Ferrozone gave me the strength to throw aside all these fancies and made me well again."

Go at once to any druggist, get a few boxes of Ferrozone—start right on the road to health and vigor. Ferrozone will keep you there—will show you what it means to be healthy, vigorous, full of nerve energy. Once you're braced up and energized with Ferrozone you'll never again be content with ill-health.

All dealers sell Ferrozone, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

The Dreary Parlor

We do wonder why people try so hard to make their houses ugly, inside and out. They spend dollars, yes, lots of them, too—in filling their dwellings with what is neither useful or ornamental, when a few cents and perhaps a little more sense would have made them handsome. The best parlor, what misery sits enthroned within its forbidden doors! When you make a visit you are invited within its sacred portals. The door creaks, as a protesting against the invasion. A clammy atmosphere envelops you as you enter that makes you involuntary shudder and wonder if the room is haunted. You sit on a hair cloth chair and clutch frantically at the arms to keep from slipping off. The ambrotypes of deceased uncle and cousins and aunts look down at you from their oval frames and scowl. The what-not in the corner is covered with bric-a-brac intended to be ornamental, but which looks more like some place house replete with broken dishes and empty bottles, and kept in the best room in memory of some child, dead years ago. You feel in your bones that there has been no one in that room for months before and that when you go out it will once more be sealed like a tomb and left to the care of the relatives on the wall. You long for a glimpse of the sunlight out of doors. If you could see a hat or a coat lying carelessly about to denote that you could find a cat in the room and step on its tail, or run a pin into the old aunt who looks down from the wall with a stony stare at least fifty years old, or kick the hair cloth into the whatnot, or do anything to cause a little commotion and an appearance of life. And when, after a visit of half an hour, about as cheerful as a funeral, you leave the room, you feel as if you had been in the presence of the dead. The best parlor, where sunlight and children, and laughter and music and fun are excluded, should give place to something more cheerful and more fitting for Christian homes.

Are Your Joints Lame?

Haven't you a weak spot, a place where cold and inflammation always settles? Whether it is in the neck, side, joints or limbs—the cure is simple—a good rub with Nerviline and then apply Nerviline Porous Plaster. These great rube-facients invariably cure strain, swelling, weakness and muscular pain. There is no mystery about this. Nerviline is the most penetrating liniment known—consequently it gets where the trouble really is. Nerviline Porous Plasters are great healers and draw out congestion. Be sure you get the genuine substitutes can't do the work.

Kind Postmaster

The young postmaster of a village was hard at work in his office when a gentle rap was heard upon the door, and in stepped a blushing maiden of sixteen, with a money order which she had cashed. She handed it, with a bashful smile, to the official, who, after closely examining it, gave her the money. At the same time he asked her if she had read what was written on the margin of the order.

"No, I have not," she replied, for I cannot make it out. Will you please read it for me?"

The young postmaster read as follows: "I send you ten shillings and a dozen kisses."

Glancing at the bashful girl, he said: "Now I have paid you the money, and I suppose you want the kisses?"

"Yes," she said. If he has sent me any kisses I want them, too."

It is hardly necessary to say that the balance of the order was promptly paid, and in a scientific manner.

On reaching home the delighted maiden remarked to her mother:

"Mother, this post office system of ours is a great thing, developing more and more every year, and each new feature seems to be the best. Jimmy sent me a dozen kisses along with the money order, and the postmaster gave me twenty."

Womanly Wisdom.

Lift up! Give a word of good cheer! Lend a hand and make the world better for your having had a place in it.

Rest your weary bones by having a chair in the kitchen to sit in while doing the work you can do in that way.

If blankets are rather too short sew a piece of stout muslin or Canton flannel to one end of the "tack in."

You can spoil your nice china by washing it in water that is too hot. Have the water fairly warm. Use a bit of soap and you are alright. No cracked china then.

Don't try to do your dusting with a dry cloth. That only sets the particles of dust flying everywhere. Dampen your cloth and rinse it out in clear water, once in a while.

Rice usually looks clean when it comes from the store; but wash it in clean water and you will see that it is far from being so. Keep on washing till the water is clear, then cook.

To get rid of ants in your pantry lay some rags on the shelves, or smear a saucer with lard and set it there overnight. In the morning these will be found covered with ants which may be scalded with boiling water, and the traps set again. In a few days every ant will disappear.

Our old subscribers must know our pet dried beef recipe by heart, but we want the new ones to learn it. For every twenty pounds of beef, take one pint of salt, one teaspoonful of salt peter, quarter of a pound of brown sugar. Divide these ingredients into three equal parts and rub them well into the beef on three successive days. Lay in an earthen or porcelain vessel, and turn each day in the brine it will make. At the end of the week hang it to dry.—From Farm Journal.

Blessings not vouchsafed to the dwellers in mansions, often come to the sojourners in homes, and the wanderer from its sacred precincts, as portrayed in the printed lines of the old song of "Home, Sweet Home."

"From allurments abroad, which but flatter the eye,

My unsatisfied heart turns and says with a sigh,

Home sweet, sweet home.

Be it ever so humble there is no place like home.

How these lines of living light shine on the pathway of the weary and heavy laden, making the foot paths easier to find and pleasanter to follow, throughout the varieties and vicissitudes of the journey of human life; all of which are unseen in marble halls, and unknown in richly appointed establishments," where only fashion rules the hour, and folly crops home affections to the wall; where veiled faces and aching hearts tell of gilded shams, and fields of desolation and decay of the "life that is worth the living."

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure relief for Fluoritis. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but when early at the onset stage—they break or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Outlets, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child. If there is feverishness, night or day, herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 10 boxes for the pocket, also in the boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you

I wish to announce to the people of Charlotte County that I am prepared to do all business in this line Cheaper and Better than ever

Besides carrying a complete stock of First Class Caskets, Robes and all other funeral supplies, which I am prepared to sell 20 per cent. less than any competitor, I have lately added to my stock a good line of Cloth-covered caskets, which I will sell from Fourteen to Twenty Dollars. I have also a good line of Coffins which I will sell at from Ten to Fourteen Dollars.

Anyone requiring anything in this line, will do well to examine my stock and get prices for themselves. Pay no attention to the Middleman or hired agent but satisfy yourself with me personally.

A Free Telephone is at your service and all orders promptly attended to as in the past

All goods will be delivered FREE

Whatever our place allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of duty. God estimates us not by the position we are in, but by the way in which we fill it.

When one is inclined to worry, the remark of an old lady should be recalled: "Yes, dearies, I've had an awful heap of trouble in my time and most of it never happened."

Wing Hem, Laundry,

Help in Case of Accidents

Burns and Scalds. Cover with cooking soda and lay wet cloth over it. Whites of eggs and olive oil. Olive oil or linseed oil, plain or mixed with chalk or whiting. Sweet or olive oil and lime water.

Lightning. Dash cold water over the person struck.

Sunstroke. Loosen clothing. Get patient into shade and apply ice cold water to head. Keep head in elevated position.

Mad-dog or Snake Bite. Tie cord tight above wound. Suck the wound and cauterize with caustic or white hot iron at once, or cut out adjoining parts with a sharp knife. Give stimulants as whiskey, brandy, etc.

Stings of Venomous Insects, etc. Apply weak ammonia, oil, salt water or iodine.

Painting. Place flat on back; allow fresh air and sprinkle with water. Place head lower than rest of body.

Cinder in Eye. Roll soft paper up like a lamp-lighter and wet the tip to remove or use a medicine dropper to draw it out. Rub the other eye.

Fire in one's clothing. Don't run—especially down stairs or out of doors. Roll on carpet or wrap in woollen rug or blanket. Keep the head down so as not to inhale flame.

Fire from Kerosene. Don't use water; it will spread the flames. Dirt, sand or flour is the best extinguisher, or smother with woollen rug, table-cloth or carpet.

Suffocation from inhaling Illuminating Gas. Get into the fresh air as soon as possible and lie down. Keep warm. Take ammonia—twenty drops to a tumblerful of water, at frequent intervals; also two to four drops tincture of nuxvomica every hour or two for five or six hours.

Home Influence

The home influence, is either a blessing or a curse, either for good or for evil. It cannot be neutral. In either case it is mighty, commencing with our birth; going with us through life, clinging to us in death, and reaching into the eternal world. The specific influences of husband and wife, of parent and child, of brother and sister, of teacher and pupil united and harmoniously blended, constitute the home influence. Like the calm, deep stream, it moves on in silent but overwhelming power. It strikes its roots deep into the human heart, and spreads its branches wide over our whole being. Like the lily that braves the tempest and "the Alpine flowers that lean its cheek on the bosom of eternal snow," it is exerted amid storms of life and breathes a softening spell in our bosom even when a heartless world is freezing up the fountains of sympathy and love. It holds the empire of the heart and rules the life. Our habits too, are formed under the moulding power of home. The "tender twig" is there bent, the spirit shaped, principles implanted, and the whole character is formed until it becomes a habit. The gray haired father who walks in the second infancy, feels the traces his childhood home in his spirit, desires and habits. The most illustrious statesmen and eloquent ministers owe their greatness in the fostering influences of home. Napoleon knew and felt this when he said, "What France wants is good mothers, and you may be sure then that France will have good sons."

Equivalents

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES WATSON.
The many friends of Mrs. Watson, widow of the late James Watson, will learn with regret of her sudden death at the home of her daughter Mrs. G. C. W. Fletcher, Winthrop Centre, Mass., on Dec. 1st. Mrs. Watson was a woman well beloved by her friends and intimates. In years gone by her home at Dorchester, Mass., was the centre of a bounteous hospitality that included all the strangers visiting there and was particularly lavished on travellers from this section of the country, the home of her youth. Five daughters survive their mother, they are Mrs. Clause, Mrs. Platt, Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Sanderman. Thomas Maxwell of Boston is her brother.
The funeral was on Friday, the services being conducted by Rev. C. E. Henry, of St. John's Episcopal church. Lead Kindly Light, Crossing the Bar and Good Night, were sung by a quartette. Interment was in the family lot at Forest Hills.

MRS. ALFRED CARSON.
Mrs. Alfred Carson died in Eastport on Saturday after a few days illness with pneumonia. Mrs. Carson was a daughter of Seelye Spofford, and resided in Digdegash for many years, before moving to Eastport. She was fifty three years of age, and is survived by her husband and two sons.

Wayman and Spencer Eldridge have gone to St. John to work on the winter port steamers.

Gloom was cast over the community when word was received of the death of Mrs. Emerson Gamage of Bristol.

Mrs. Gamage was formerly of this place being the oldest daughter of Elizabeth and the late Philip Hutton. Being of a genial disposition, she was a general favorite, and her early death will be mourned by many friends of this place.

She is survived by her mother and three sisters here, and a husband and child in Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Cross have gone to St. John to spend the winter with friends.

Mrs. Benj. Snell of Bayside is visiting relatives in this place.

Miss Moore, teacher of the Advanced Department of our school, spent Sunday with friends at Blacks Harbor.

Mrs. Warnock died at the General Hospital, St. John, on Thursday, 3rd inst. Mrs. Warnock was a native of this place, having spent the greater portion of her life here. She was seventy years of age and was buried beside her husband at Sand Point, St. John.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it once yourself, and see! Sold by all dealers.

On Thursday last Messrs. George and Dennis Leland had their yacht at the wharf in Catharin's Cove and received a goodly number of callers, little Edward D. Mitchell being among the number. Snow is reported to be the latest fact of the season and a new lot is expected very soon.

Throat Coughs

Ask your doctor about these throat coughs. He will tell you how deceptive they are. A tickling in the throat often means serious trouble ahead. Better explain your case carefully to your doctor, and ask him about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Ayer's

Who makes the best liver pills? The J. C. Ayer Company, of Lowell, Mass. They have been making Ayer's Pills for over sixty years. If you have the slightest doubt about using these pills, ask your doctor. Do as he says, always.
