This Agency offers protection against loss and damage by fire, on terms as favorable as the character of the risks will justify. The undersigned begs respectfully to inform all his customers and friends, whether in this city or elsewhere, that it is now absolutely necessary that all premiums for Fire Insurance, due him at the time of the recent fire, be paid at once, either at his Agency, Germain Street, Market Buildings, or at the office of his Agents respectively throughout the Province. Policy holders will recognize the importance of complying with this request, by reference to their Policies.

In consequence of the loss of General Index and Expiry Book, he will not at present be able to send notice as to Insurance maturing, so that holders of Policies will each for himself refer to his Policy, and renewal, he effected the premium should be paid at the time. ### Poetry.

[From The Young Ladies Journal.]
A Woman's Answer to a Man's Question.

Do you know you have asked me for the costliest thing
Ever made by the Hand Above?
A woman's heart and a woman's life—
And a woman's wonderful love?

Do you know you have asked for this priceless thing
As a child might ask for a toy?
Demanding what others had died to win,
With the reckless dash of a boy?

You have written my lesson of duty out—
Man-like you have questioned me—
Now stand at the bar of my woman's soul,
Until I have questioned thee.

You require my mutton shall always be hot
Your socks and your shirt be white;
Require your heart to be true as God's stars,
And pure as His heaven your soul.

You require a cook for your mutton and beef,
I require a far greater thing:
A seamstress you're wanting for socks and for shirt,
I look for a man and a king—

A king for the beautiful realm called home,
And a man that the Maker God
Shall look upon as He did on His first,
And say "It is very good."

I am fair and young, but the rose will fade
From my soft young cheeks one day—
Will you love me then 'mid the falling leaves,
As you did 'mid the blooms of May?

Is your heart an ocean so strong and deep
I may launch my all on its tide?
A loving woman finds weak or woe
On the day she is made a bride.

I require all things that are grand and true,
All things that a man should be;
If you give him, I would take my life
To be all you demand of me.

If you cannot be this—landlord and cook
You can hire, and little to pay;
But a woman's heart and a woman's life,
Are not to be won that way.

Miscellaneous.

The Russian Losses.

This is without doubt the most disastrous campaign the Russian army have ever suffered. The military correspondent of the London Times writes none other than Sir Henry M. Havelock, the gallant son of his father, estimates their losses as follows: Before their passage of the Danube, 7,000; killed in the hospitals, and 5,000; sent back to Russia. The losses at the battle of Balaklava, with the subsequent capture of the Crimea, and the march to Timarova, and the crossing of the Balkan, 2,000; Gonkiki's retreat, 7,800; the taking of Nikopolis, 2,400; the first battle of Plevna, 5,000; the second 11,000; their repulse from 10,000 sick have been sent to Russia from the main army of the Danube, and this is not all. Their financial standing has been ruined for at least six years to come. Their loan department coupons, now due, are like those of the Toronto Water Company, being taken up by the banks and held over for a year at heavy interest. The Roumanian railway have a bill of $20,000,000 for transport and fuel en route which they cannot get settled; and the contractors who furnish the bread and meat, iron, cartridges, shot and shells, rifles, horses, and wagons, and bay and tents, and all the rest of it, have three or four months' accounts yet unpaid. The daily cost of the war in all its branches is estimated at nearly a million dollars, and this does not include the money spent in forwarding recruits from the interior nor the cost of the desolatory operations in Asia. The shells thrown into Plevna, and there were thousands of them, cost $40 each. The Government's paper, in other words their loans, is only taken at a share of nearly 30 per cent. The strain on Russia's men and money is indeed terrific; and the end has not even begun.

Dr. May, of New York who has so successfully treated very many cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria with the newly utilized remedy of sulpho-carbolate of soda, gives the following as cures for the above diseases—

The use of the sulpho-carbolate of soda in diphtheria has become a settled fact by the best physicians in New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, to the great dread of diphtheria, which has taken off so many children in the United States during eight years. In its use it is certain to destroy the para-tifid fangous in the throat and gland in two hours; 10 grains dissolved in a tumbler half full of cold water and taken half to a teaspoonful every hour until the parasite is destroyed, then once in two or three hours according to circumstances of the case. There is no use of physicians fighting against this remedy for they will have to use it if they have success in the treatment of diphtheria as well as scarlet fever. It is a specific in both diseases, as they are both symptomatic in their nature, and are produced by parasites in the system. It will prevent both diseases if given before an attack, as well as a remedy. This has been used for diphtheria and scarlet fever for over three years with perfect success, and if given in time before gangrene sets in the throat it will work wonders and save every case. It was discovered in 1871 by an English physician and has grown in favor as a specific even since in all symptomatic diseases, particularly with children. The trichina parasite of pork as soon as it enters the stomach is absorbed in the blood, and then into the muscles of the body. It is not so with diphtheria parasite; it is generated into the stomach and when it spreads into the acrophagus it produces such a high degree of inflammation that gangrene sets in, which then dissolves the parasite and carries it all through the blood which is always fatal. Gangrene always dissolves the parasite, but before that takes place the use of the sulpho-carbolate will save every case. I have written these few lines by special request of very many citizens and friends who desire it made public for the benefit of all.

Canadian Lobsters.

[From the London Globe.]
If the evidence collected by Mr. Frank Buckland may be accepted, our English lobster fisheries have nearly followed our formerly profitable oyster beds to annihilation, through the action of the "over-fishing." Whether the evil will be stopped in time by recent legislation remains to be proved, but the people of Canada would do well to take warning by what has happened in the mother country. According to accounts which have reached us lately, the lobster fisheries of the Dominion are being terribly over-worked. On the 3rd of the present month a barque is reported to have cleared at the Miramichi Customs house with $75,000 worth of lobsters on board, consigned to the London market. This is said to be the most valuable cargo of the sort ever shipped from New Brunswick, and should imagine that the despatch of many more of equal magnitude would bring the trade to a dead stop for the want of the raw material. It is true that some parts of the Canadian coast are amazingly prolific of crustacean life. So immense is the supply provided by nature, that the Canadians may almost be excused for considering it practically limitless. But we have seen in the case of certain English fisheries that persistent overworking brings about scarcity, and so our friends on the other side of the Atlantic will probably discover if they continue this depopulating process much farther. It is said that quite lately lobstermen ruthlessly slaughtered vast numbers for their markets in times. Their flesh does not differ in flavor or appearance from that of adult crustaceans, so that consumers have no means of judging as to the size and age. It would be well for Canada if some one of her citizens should imitate the work performed in England by Mr. Frank Buckland, and send his conditors towards fish of all sorts. They were too late in the field to save our oyster beds from annihilation, but in other directions they have done a great deal for the preservation of one of the most important sources of our food supply. The Dominion has a splendid priority in her marine and fisheries; she should see to it at once that they are not deteriorated by indiscriminate and reckless operations.

How to become a Millionaire.

You must be a very able man as nearly all millionaires are.

You must devote your life to the getting and keeping of other men's earnings.

You must cut the bread of carefulness and must rise up early and lie down late.

You must care little or nothing about other men's wants, or sufferings, or disappointments.

You must not mind it that your great wealth involves many others in poverty.

You must not give away except for a material equivalent.

You must never enjoy any time enjoying air, earth, sky or water, for there's no money in it.

You must never embark in any enterprise that will build up the place you live in, but wait until the public spirit men have built railroads, electric street cars, and then buy stock at a discount.

You must never give to the widow or orphan a thought, or consider that they have any claims upon your humanity or charity.
